The Farm Bureau edition of the Eagle Grove Times came to town last week, and was an exceptionally well edited and made-up paper. Some forty pages were contained, filled to the brim with notes, items and articles on and about the farm bureau, many of them by Wright county members of the organization. The edition was very well gotten up from a mechanical point of view, but we wonder just how much the Times was ahead in cold cash on the deal. It takes real money to put out a special like that, and the question of making it pay is a big one.

Big Events in the Lives of Little Men

BUILDING OPERATIONS

The various building operations in town are all progressing nicely. The Belmond Auto Co. annex is well along toward completion, as is the new building of C. Schmelz. C. N. Reese has had a force busy cleaning out the lots where he will build for the new post office, and construction work will begin in the near future. The Deep Rock service station has been held up while waiting for the pumps, but is rapidly rounding into shape. Rumors of other new buildings are in the air, and before the summer is much further along we may see still more improvements in Belmond.

TRY THIS ONE.

A Ford owner installed a new fangled carburetor that was guaranteed to save 20 per cent on fuel. Then he put in special spark plugs that were guaranteed to save another 20 per cent and added an intake superheater that was guaranteed to save 20 per cent also. He then put in a patent rear axle that was likewise guaranteed to save 20 per cent and finally put on high pressure "cords" that promised a 20 per cent saving. Now with a fuel economy of 120 per cent the owner has to stop every hundred miles and bail out the gas tank to keep it from running over.

HAVE ENJOYABLE MEETING

The W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church held a very enjoyable meeting with Mrs. F. O. Fitts, last Thurs day afternoon. A large number attended. Mrs. R. H. Klemme, as the leader, was most interesting in her discussion of the lesson, which was Opportunity in India. Two of the King's Heralds, Muriel Luick and Harriett Gowdy, pleasingly entertained the ladies. After the meeting Mrs. Fitts served delicious refreshments.

WOOL SACKS ARE READY

Wool growers of Wright County will be pleased to know that wool sacks can be obtained at the County Agents office. A shipment of wool sacks arrived last week and the office is prepared to take care of the wool growers on the sack proposition.

Those who are in need of wool sacks should either call or write the county agent and the sacks will be mailed to them.

HOLD FINE MEETING

On Tuesday, June 5th, nine of the girls of Belmond township between the ages of 10 and 21 met at the home of Mrs. J. B Tiara, vice director of the farm bureau, and organized a girls' sewing club

Officers were elected by the ofganization for the following year and plans for work outlined. A most pleasant social hour was enjoyed after the meeting. The next meeting was held in the school house of district No. 6 on June 12.

Miss Cloe Jenison came home last Saturday to spend a few days with the home folks. She has been going to school at Ames, and returned Tuesday to attend summer school. She will teach Home Economics this next year in the Swaledale schools.

JACOBSON-DELANO

Miss Bertha Jacobson and Mr. Victor J. Delano were united in the bonds of marriage on Monday afternoon of this week, at the Methodist parsonage at Clarion, the Rev. J. B. Walker, pastor, officiating. The ring ceremony was used. The bride and groom were accompanied by Miss Lorene Delano and Olyn Harlow.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Andrew Jacobson, of Belmond, and for some time past has been employed at the store of W. W. Goetz.

Mr. Lelano is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Delano of Wall Lake township, and is a well known and respected citizen of that community.

The happy couple are enjoying a short wedding trip, and upon their return will make their home for the present at the home of the bride's mother. Congratulations and best wishes are extended by their friends, with whom the Independent joins.

TAKES BELMOND YOUNG LADY AS HIS BRIDE

William Verne Haney, of Hampton, and Gladys S. Keiser, of Belmond, surprised their many friends last week by sending out announcements of their wedding which took place at Albert Lea, Minnesota, on May 12th. Mr. and Mrs. Haney had kept their wedding secret for three weeks, but finally the news of the event was secured by one or two of their friends so they announced the wedding.

Mr. Haney is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Haney of this city. He has spent most of his life in this community and since his return from the army has been connected with his father in the jewelry business here. Mrs. Haney is the daughter of Mrs. Alice Keiser of Belmond. For the past few years she has been employed by the Trafford Music Company at Mason City. They will make their home at Hampton.—Chronicle.

LIGHTNING KILLS HORSE

Last week Tuesday afternoon this section was visited by the first electrical storm of the season. A heavy rainfall accompained the electrical display, and the wind blew hard enough to upset some small buildings, break branches from trees and the windmill on the Michelson farm north of town was blown down. At the Wm. Norby farm just east of town lighting struck the barn, killing one horse and knocking another down, the latter having its eyesight and hearing affected. Their hired man was in the barn at the time the bolt struck and while the shock knocked him down he has suffered no ill effects since. The bolt struck the west end of the barn and followed the hay track to the east end, then dropped to an iron rail along the top edge of the mangers where the horses were tied. Luckily the barn did not catch afire and no other damage resulted except as stated above.-Kanawha Reporter.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

The Sunday school will give an interesting Children's Day program at 10:30 a. m. This program will take the place of the regular Sunday school and church service We plan for a baptismal service. Bring the children for baptism.

Epworth League at 7 p. m.

Regular preaching service at 8 p m.

The Southeast Division of the Ladies Aid holds a bake sale at the Hill Jewelry Store Saturday.

Come and bring the family to all our services and enjoy the clean church.

W. A. Wilkinson, Pastor.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

On account of the rain, our Children's Day exercises were postponed until next Sunday, at 11 a. m. The children will meet on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons for practice.

The Ladies Aid society will have a quilting on Thursday. In the afternoon the regular business and social meeting will be held.

Sabbath school as usual next Sunday at 10 a. m. Children's Day exercises at 11 a. m. Evening services at 8 p. m.

The Children's Day offering will go for Sabbath school mission.

Big Legion Dance On Next Tuesday

Another Of Legion's Affairs To Be Feature Of Events Next Week.

IN NEW FORD GARAGE

The big dance of the season will be the American Legion affair, to be staged here next week Tuesday. The Belmond Auto Co., thru George Heginger, have invited the Legion boys to stage a dance in their new annex, just being completed, free of rental charges, and the boys are taking it up.

The dance is to be a "mixed" one, with some of the old-time dances for the old timers, as well as the modern toddles for the young folks. The well-known Tom Wells Orchestra of Mason City furnishes the music.

The new building will, with its large floor space, easily accomodate from 150 to 200 couples, so that the bigger the crowd the bigger the time.

SCHOOL BUYS MORE LAND

The board of education, seeing in the not very distant future the need of another set of school buildings to house Belmond's constantly growing enrollment, has completed a deal in which the four lots just across the street directly west of the school are purchased. The council, at a special meeting Monday night, condemned and closed the street which lies between the lots and the school house, so that the addition will make a fine extension to the grounds.

SHEFFIELD BANKERS UNDER TEN THOUSAND BONDS

C. J. LeValley, cashier, and Chris C. Storck, assistant cashier, of the defunct Farmers and Merchants Bank at Sheffield, were indicted by the Franklin county grand jury on last Saturday and placed under bonds of ten thousand dollars each. There was one ndictment against LeValley for fradulent banking, one against Storck for the same offense, and one indictment against each of them charging embezzlement. LeValley was also indicted on a separate charge for embezzlement. The particular cases for which the indictments were made have not been announced, but one was for embezzlement of about $50,000 from the Liberty Life Insurance Co. of Des Moines. LeValley was treasurer of this company, but has since resigned. Both men furnished the amount of their bonds and are now out pending their trial, which will take place at the September term of the Franklin county court.

LIGHTING KILLED YOUNG MAN NEAR CORWITH, TUESDAY

Last Tuesday afternoon, Eugene, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Bogard was instantly killed by a bolt of lighting. He and his father were in the barn when a sudden windstorm came up. The boy stepped to the barn door to see the result the wind was having on a tent in the yard when the barn was struck by lighting, tearing a hole in the roof, shivering the framework, killing the son, knocking the father down and stunning several horses. The bay was thrown six or eight feet and landed under a manger. When the father revived and got to him the boy was lifeless. Splinters were thrown in all directions.

The farm house about 1 1-2 miles east of Corwith, which was occupied by O. J. Bogard, burned to the ground Monday afternoon. It is supposed to have caught from the smoke house. Mrs. Bogard was at home alone therefore could get no help in time to save the building. Soon after the fire caught neighbors were on hand but too late to put it out. However they succeeded in removing most all the household effects except the kitchen range. Luckily Mr. Bogard had rented an adjoining farm which is occupied by Marshal Carey, consequently he will have a house to move into until another house can be built.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance; $2.00 on time.
$2.00 per year outside state of Iowa

CIRCULATION OVER 1,000

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents.)

1923 JUNE 1923

SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

Editorials

If any one needed an object lesson on gravel roads, the rain of Sunday should be enough to convince them that the only and logical solution of the Iowa road problem is gravel. You could go, Monday morning, to within a mile of Clarion on the graveled road, but when you struck the good old Iowa mud at the Clarion town line, there you stopped. Or, you could go past the Immanuel Reformed church east of Belmond until you came to the county line, on the gravel; from that end of the gravel you would have "plowed on low" the rest of the way. After a rain of thirty hours, the gravel road was easily travelable, but the dirt road, was a fright.

There is very little need of paving in Iowa, except on the main roads where there is much heavy truck hauling. Graveled roads will not stand up very long under the loads of the heavy truck, and where there is much of this class of freighting, doubtless pavement is the best solution. But for 90 miles out of every 100 Iowa roads, gravel is the best, the cheapest and the most satisfactory surface.

Belmond business men are paying $75 a week for concerts by the Garner band. Doubtless the Garner band will give us good music, and will be worth the price. But isn't it somewhat of a shame that we are paying this much money to an out-of-town band? Especially when we have all kinds of talent in Belmond for a good band? Why should we let this money go out of Belmond? Is it not about time that something was done to give the Belmond lads the benefit of our money and of the training, The Independent believes that a band tax could be voted here now. At the last election it lost by a very narrow margin—four votes, or five—and sentiment has changed sufficiently since then so that the tax would carry. Belmond people want a band, the business men want one, why not see whether we cannot have a home band next year?

PROTECTION
INSURANCE THE BEST
Wm. H. Wolle
ALL BRANCHES

Belmond Local News

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peterson and children of Hampton drove over over Sunday to visit relatives here. The children remained for a longer visit.

The contest in Dr. McBurney's class of Sunday school closes this week Thurday with a big picnic in Tyrrell Park. The losing side is to furnish the refreshments.

Bert Nelson is at Des Moines this week taking training, and will begin work at the Standard Oil station next week.

Mrs. E. F. Bailey went to Iowa Falls last week to stay a few days with her daughter, Doris, who is receiving treatment there.

Mrs. A. L. Bergsma, who has been the guest of relatives here the past few weeks, is visiting friends in Franklin county this week.

Mrs. Eugene Kinney was a guest last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Duran Nagle, at Clarion.

Doctor George, of Dows, was called here in council last week with Dr. McBurney on the case of Chas. Jenison, who is reported very ill.

Geo. Elder and Chester Luick left last week via auto for northern Minnesota, to spend a few days fishing.

Mrs. G. F. McBurney returned on Saturday from Cedar Rapids, where she had been to attend the wedding of Coetta Foster.

The M. E. Aid meets at the home of Mrs. Campbell on Thursday of next week.

Rev. Wilkinson drove to Cedar Rapids last week on business.

Miss Ruth Klemme arrived here Sunday morning from California to join her father. They expect to remain here for the summer.

The farm bureau picnic scheduled for Monday night at the Jake Henn home was postponed on account of the rain until Wednesday evening.

The band concert, postponed last Saturday evening on account of the rain, will be held this week Saturday evening.

NOTICE!
The Photo Gallery will be closed until June 20.—M. J. Thoe.

Brenner The Florist, Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

See the Bock Lumber Co., for low prices on barb wire and genuine American Field Fence. 24tfc

The Elite Cafe has added another improvement by placing plate glass windows at the side of the entrance.

The biggest idea for some time is announced in the Cash Market ad of this week. "Scoop" says he is going to give a day's cash business back to his customers, free.

F. P. Dibble was a business caller at Hampton the first of the week.

Mrs. W. O. Butterfield of Mason City was visiting relatives here the first of the week.

N. E. Brear was a business caller at Garner last Tuesday.

Joe Scott and George Mortimer, left last week Thursday for Kansas, on a vacaion trip to some friends of Joe's. They drove in the latter's car, and report back that that they had fine roads and fine trip all the way until they ran into the heavy rains which Kansas has been having the past week. Their destination is close to the Oklahoma border in the east-central part of Kansas.

Big plans are being made by the Clear Lake Commercial Club, for the entertainment of the Iowa State Bar Association when they hold their annual convention at Clear Lake and Mason City, June 21st and 22nd. Several hundred members of the legal profession in this state are expected to attend.

"If you can't knock that tired-worn-feeling out of your bones and once more make it a joy to throw your hat in the air and let out a man-sized "whoop of life" —then, look us up for violation of the anti-trust law," says one paragraph of the invitation being sent to every member of the Bar Association by C. F. Crane, chairman of the publicity bureau of the Clear Lake Chamber of Commerce.—Advertisement.

Here and There

Belmond has no band and is planing on hireing a band for one concert a week. The Garner band bid for the job, but we have not heard whether they got it or not. We will guarantee the Belmond people fine concerts if they do hire the Garner boys. -Signal.

Ole T. Rikansrud was a business visitor at Belmond one day last week. He is executor of the estate of Mrs. Ole H. Lien and was there looking after matters pertaining to her estate.

Hector and Hjalmer Rikansrud, who have been attending Waldorf college at Forest City have taken positions on farms in the neighborhood between Olaf and Belmond and will spend the summer season there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carlston and little daughter of Belmond were visitors here with relatives and friends Wednesday.-Reporter.

Bernes Missman returned Friday morning from Belmond, where he had been visiting with his grandparents.-Times.

Chas. Norris and wife of Belmond and Andy Drake and family of Crystal Lake were Sunday visitors at the W. H. Drake home.-Monitor.

Mrs. Tom Hake went to Belmond Monday for a visit with relatives and friends.-Times.

W. H. Trafford and family, of Belmond spent Sunday visiting with Klemme friends.-Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Riggs of Belmond, were Klemme visitors Sunday.-Times

Mrs. Clara Kirkwood left for Belmond Friday evening after visiting at the home of Mrs. A. Kirkwood. She came here from Cedar Rapids. -Klemme Times.

The Clarion Community Chautauqua starts in this city on June 27th, and will continue for five days. An excellent program has been selected for the community, and it deserves the support of the public at large. Season tickets will shortly be on sale and every one should arrange to purchase one or more.

There is around $1,000 of expense in bringing the chautaqua to Clarion, and only a generous support will enable the backers to break even. -News.

Beryl Hake, of Belmond, visited at the Tom Hake home this week Tuesday until Wednesday. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Hake.

John Burress is spending a few days with Clarion friends while enroute to Minneapolis where he will take a six weeks course at the officers training school.—Monitor.

An independent band has been organized in Klemme. It is the outcome of the hastily arranged band which played Memorial Day here. It is composed of musicians who know how to play and, altho not a big band, it is a good band.—Klemme Times.

A couple of years ago Lew Lewis lost a good Waltham watch in a silver case. Monday evening while out in the garden Mrs. Lewis found the watch. Lew wound it up and it seems to run as good as ever. The case was in good shape but had become tarnished and black.—Klemme Times.

Kanawha is enforcing its curfew law. Now if we could just have a "midnight marshal" to squelch a few of the "hootched profanity contests" on Main street everything would be quiet and serene. The direct cause is the hootch peddler and it is high time that our citizens awake to this fact and see to it that they are picked up.—Kanawha Reporter.

To know how good a cigarette really can be made you must try a—

A VICTORY FOR AMERICAN MOTORISTS

The Crude Rubber Monopoly weakened when it came into contact with aroused public sentiment. The Press of the country today reflects the Determination of the American Motorist that tire prices shall stay at a reasonable level---and that America must produce its own rubber.

Firestone

Cuts Tire Prices 10 per Cent

EFFECTIVE JUNE 11TH.

We announce a 10 per cent reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11.

The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of large volume and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousand of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best tire Firestone ever produced and, we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone Cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis Sweepstakes, May Thirteenth, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standards in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases 194 per cent in the past six months.

We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We now have 108 distributing points which are delivering Firestone Tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

Follow the tide of economical tire buying—equip with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords—and learn what Most Miles per Dollar means to you today.

Get a Set of these Gum-Dipped Cords from one of the following Dealers:

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa

Most Miles per Dollar

YOUR BONUS CHECKS

---what are you going to do with them?

You worked for this money as you never worked before, and we all hope as you never will again.

You are more than welcome to it, and we want you to get full value from every cent of it. Put it to work for you, as you worked for it.

WE INVITE YOU TO START A SAVINGS ACCOUNT WITH THIS BANK. WE WILL PAY YOU 5 PER CENT INTEREST

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

American Legion DANCE!

Tuesday, June 19

In the

New Ford Garage, Belmond

Music by the famous

Tom Wells Orchestra

of Mason City

Room for 200 Couples, in a brand new building. Mixed dances, for the old timers as well as the young folks. A big time, a good time. Come!

Tickets $1.00
Spectators Free

Everybody Welcome!

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by

THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.

Oelwein, Iowa

T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa
Agent
Phone 196 or 115

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Organize Sewing Club.

About 18 girls from different parts of Blaine township met at the S. D. Hinckley home last Monday afternoon, June 4th, for the purpose of organizing a Girls' Garment club.

Social At Streveler Home.

A lively community social was hek at the T. S. Streveler home, one mile north of Rowan, last Tuesday evening, when the regular monthly meeting of the Iowa Township Farm Bureau was held at that place. From 75 to 100 farmers of that community gathered at the Streveler home to enjoy an evening filled with good music, an interesting program of recitations, dialogues and an address also plenty of good eats.

Lyle D. Hall, director local bureau, was in charge of the meeting and opened the program with a short talk in which he urged the closest co-operation of all members in the organization. Mr. Hall is a good organizer and is intensely interested in seeing the Iowa township people succeed in the great farm bureau movement.

The program was given from the front porch of the Streveler home, with seating being arranged on the beautiful lawn in front of the house. E. A. Patton, treasurer of the county farm bureau, gave an interesting address on farm bureau activities and gave a complete report on the national conference on co-operative marketing of poultry products which was held in Chicago under the auspices of the American Farm Bureau federation, May 24th.

Mr. Patton was in attendance at this conference and brought an interesting message to the Iowa township people on the plans which have been laid out for organizing the co-operative marketing of poultry products thru the United Staes.

Big Lincoln Meeting

A special meeting of the Lincoln township Farm Bureau was held at the Wall Lake Church Thursday evening, June 7th., when the church was packed beyond capacity by interested farmers from both Lincoln and Wall Lake townships.

Evergreen Evergrowing Club

On Friday afternoon about 18 girls of the Evergreen district gathered at the home of Mrs. Alfred Hanson for the purpose of organizing a girls' sewing club in that community. Mrs. Alfred Hanson has agreed to take charge of this club and direct the girls in their neighborhood in this interesting work.

Time For Third Spray.

The third spray should be applied to fruit trees ten days to two weeks after the second spray, which will be from June 11 to June 15 in this county.

The spray should be prepared at the rate of four and one-half pound of lead arsenate to 50 gallons of water. This is for the control of the coddling moth, apple scab, apple blotch and curculio.

It is only necessary to spray the trees which have set a crop of fruit at this time.

The apples have grown considerably, and as the insects and diseases are still present, it is necessary to give them a good coating of spray material for protection.

Some Facts About T. B. Law

The new law passed last winter is simply an addition to what we have had for the past four years. The law with its changes provides:

That you may have your herd tested free of charge by a government, state or county veterinarian, providing you sign the agreement.

Whenever a petition is signed by 51 per cent of the owners of cattle, within the county, and presented to the board of supervisors, they shall apply to the state secretary of agriculture for a county area test.

The board of supervisors may then make a levy of not more than three mills for raising funds to be used inconjunction with state and federal money, otherwise appropriated by the state and federal government, in paying for salary and expenses of tuberculosis inspectors and for paying the indemnity for reactor cattle.

When 75 per cent of the cattle owners shall have signed the agreement to test their cattle, the remaining 25 ver cent can be requested to test. Failure to comply with this request subjects the owner to fine and imprisonment.

Any owner of cattle whose loss shall be less than five per cent of the total appraised value of the animals tested, shall in consideration of the free test, waive all claim for indemnity.

Where the loss is greater than five per cent of the total appraisal, indemnity will be paid on the amount over and above the five per cent to the extent of two-thirds of the apparent loss, the apparent loss meaning the difference between the salvage value and appraised value. If, for example, your total herd appraisal is $1000 and you lose one $50 animal, you will get no indemnity. You will, however, be reimbursed to the extent of two-thirds of the loss over and above $50.

Is your subscription paid up? If not, why not drop into the Independent office and square accounts? Pay in advance and save 25 per cent.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, JUNE 7, 1923. — No. 12.

It Is Time To Cultivate!

Our line of Cultivators is complete and you should find just the kind to meet your needs in our line. We stock the following makes:

McCormick-Deering P. & O.

Moline Hayes

Overland New Century

And the best part of it all is---we are selling at 20 per cent below present market prices---while they last.

DODGE BROTHERS TOURING CAR

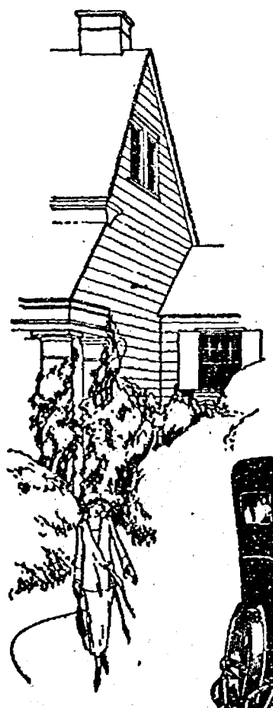
If there is one word which will sum up the average owner's impression of Dodge Brothers Touring Car, that word is dependable.

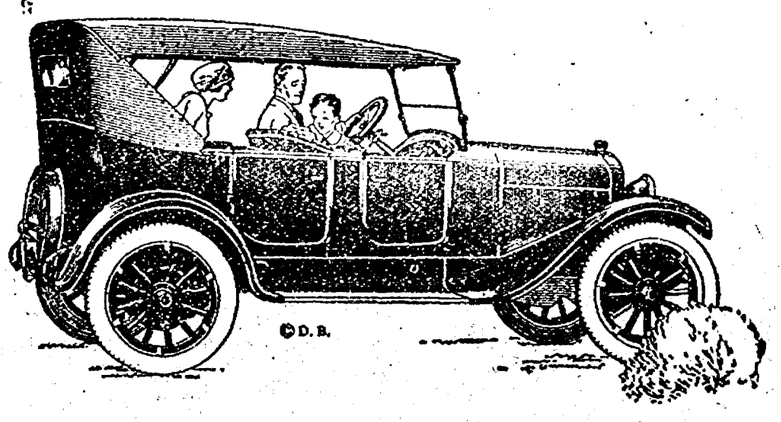
If there is a word to express the quality which Dodge Brothers have striven, above all else, to build into the Touring Car, it is —again—dependable.

Indeed, it is not too much to say that the word dependable has come to be definitely associated, the nation over, with Dodge Brothers Touring Car—and the other vehicles bearing their name.

Nor have Dodge Brothers built this enviable reputation through advertising. They have built motor cars, so dependable in fact that the word has presented itself automatically to the public mind.

The price is $975 delivered





Motor Inn Company

Belmond, Iowa

MESERVEY SECTION

Mrs. Pease and son Lindley, and Miss Mabel Kirk of Tama City, spent last week at the C. J. Wendel home. Mrs. Pease is a sister to Mrs. Wendel.

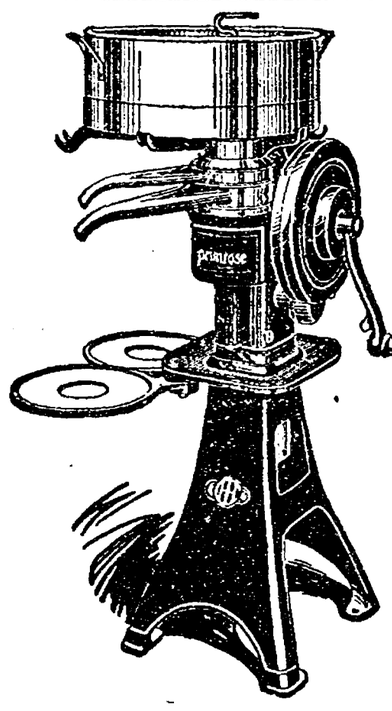
Mrs. Henry Frey had dental work done at Thornton last Thursday.

Mrs. Ed. Foss and Mrs. G. E. Raecker and Louie Foss were Mason City callers last Wednesday p. m.

For Sale—Horse and buggy and harness at a reasonable price if taken at once.—Jacob E. Pals, Meservey, Iowa. 27tfc

Mr. and Mrs. H. Proost were business callers at Mason City on last Thursday.

The daily papers report that all over Iowa the tourists are held up in tourists parks because of the mud roads, while some were left stuck in the mud out on the road from the recent rain.



Better be safe than be sorry. Buy the Primrose, the universal Separator, and wear a CONTENTED SMILE

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

for Economical Transportation

Chevrolet!

You Can See the Difference

ASK THE FIRST 10

Owners of Chevrolets you see, what they think of the car they own---

Then Use Your Own Judgment

For Sale By

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

A Farmer's Capital

---is the sum of his net available resources--plus his credit.

His Banker is thus a contributor of capital, and a genuine factor in the Farmer's success.

The true relation between Banker and Farmer implies good faith, full information and co-operation.

We welcome the accounts of Farmers and business firms upon this basis, and assure you that we will meet you half way.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Why Not Have A Boiled Dinner?

It will make a very pleasing change as well as prove economical.

We also have the best quality hams and bacon, and remember we carry a complete assortment of cheese and sausages. We always have good butter on hand.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

Your choice of any granite ware on our bargain counter at 49 cents each.—C. J. Wendel.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17; Office 29

Meservey, Iowa

We are still here,

altho' you have not heard from us in ad form for several weeks. Have been too busy checking new invoices and getting the goods ready for your approval, to write ads.

We are showtng new goods every day however, and invite you to call and see them before you buy elsewhere.

Munsingwear and Hosiery selling fast, so better stock up while we still have sizes.

As you know, our Grocery Department is ever filling up with fresh clean stock, and our motto "Quality First" holds good.

Yours for fair treatment,

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, - Iowa

Quality Building Material

ALL KINDS

Drain Tile Hard and Soft Coal

Building Blocks and Floor Blocks

Lime and Cement Steel and Cedar Posts

Steel Braces Woven Wire

Galvanized and Painted Gates---priced right

Roof Windows for your hog house--let the sun shine in.

Screen Doors and Window Screens

Porch Screens made to order---keep the flies out.

Iowa Automatic Hog Door--the only door for your hog house

WE ARE AT YOUR SERVICE AT ALL TIMES

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

The Helping Hand Society will meet in the Evang. Church basement on Thursday P. M. June 21st, for work. Mrs. C. Mayers, hostess.

The Cemetery society will meet with Mrs. W. F. Butz on Tuesday afternoon, June 19.

Mrs. H. Meinderts left last Saturday for a visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Andrew Nelson, and family near Klemme.

Miss Jennie Meinderts returned last Monday from a few days' visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ed. Bachman, near Garner.

Mrs. Wm. Gealow and son Fred visited over Sunday with her mother in Belmond.

Mrs. Pannkuk and daughter, Lydia visited with relatives at Stout this week, leaving Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Pals and younger children visited over Sunday with relatives and friends at Austinville.

Prof. F. Bosch of Central College at Pella filled the pulpit at the Reformed church here both morning and evening last Sunday, during the absence of Rev. Pannkuk.

Mrs. E. Voss, of Loga, Ostfriesland, Germany, is a guest at the T. S. Hulsebus home since last Saturday. Mrs. Voss came to this country on a buiness and pleasure trip several weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hulsebus enjoyed the hospitality of the Voss' during their sojourn in Germany, and spoke of the royal entertainment they were given in their pleasant home. Mrs. Voss may not return to her home until about August 1.

A. J. Nissen and family, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Nissen and baby motored to Ames last Tuesday to be away a few days. A. J. and family are attending the State Bankers' convention and Mrs. Frank is visiting her people.

Rev. Schlesselman and son, Orvis, Franklin Fischer and Donald Muller went on a fishing trip to Clear Lake early Tuesday morning. We are not able at this writing to report what luck they had.

Miss Ollie Pals acompanied H. Block and children to their home in Little Rock, the forepart of last week for a week's visit. Mr. Block and son stopped off here enroute to Cedar Falls where he went to bring his daughter back, who had been attending I. T. C. the past year.

Rev. H. J. Faust, Presiding Elder, will be here to conduct quarterly conference at the Evang. church on next Saturday evening. Communion services Sunday morning. Other services as usual during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hulsebus, Mrs. E. Voss, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Muller and daughter, Eleanor, visited at the Mennenga home in Belmond on Tuesday evening

Miss Alma Ralston returned from Iowa Falls last Thursday, to spend the summer vacation with her parents.

Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus and sisters, Alma and Louise, went to Webster City last Tuesday to visit a few days at the home of their sister, Mrs. Earl [illegible].

Your choice of any granite ware on our bargain counter at 49 cents each.—C. J. Wendel.

For Sale—My property in the north part of town. See Mrs. P. Echave, Meservey, Iowa. 29tfc

Flowers—Gardner The Florist. Phone 184. Clarion, Iowa.

A recent issue of the Kansas City Star says, "When it was decided to issue a newspaper at the Jefferson City penitentiary, it was no trouble to secure a convict editor. But when it came to finding a convict printer it was another story. There was not one, and outside help had to be secured to get out the paper."—Our friend Heinie sent ye ed the foregoing clipping, and says "How about it?" Well, Heinie, we thought our reputation was better up there than that. That editor was probably in the coop because he told the real truth in his paper.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to those who assisted us in planting our corn during this time of sorrow in the loss of our little son and brother. Following are the ones who so kindly helped us out;

John Kolb, Dave Enabnit, Fred Blau, Frank Sprau, Glen Enabnit, Bennie Zieman, Chas. Zieman, Louis Janssen, Leland Jacobson and Harold Olson.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. W. Paul and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kuhlers and Mr. and Mrs. Harm Dirks attended the Reformed Mission feast at Chapin last Thursday.

Bruno Bruns arrived home from German Valley, Ill., last week, where he attended the Pleasant Valley Academy the past year. He will spend the summer vacation with his parents.

Carl Gruis spent a few days last week at his father's home, returning to his school work at I. T. C. at Cedar Falls last Thursday.

Mrs. George Watermiller from near Goodell spent a week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerdes, helping to care for her mother, who was reported quite ill.

Albert Mayers, of Dexter, N. M., arrived here last Wednesday for a visit with his parents and other relatives and friends

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus were Mason City and Clear Lake callers last Wednesday.

L. B. Hulsebus transacted business in Mason City last Thursday, driving his car back from Clear Lake which he had left up there the day before to be overhauled.

The C. E. society of the Evang. church met at the L. B. Hulsebus home for their monthly business and social meeting last Friday evening. A goodly number were present who report a pleasant evening. Refreshments consisting of ice cream cake and wafers were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White and son, accompanied by Mrs. Wallace and granddaughter Lucile Legge from Belmond, spent last Thursday at the Muller home.

FREE MOVIES!

Owing to the rainy weather the "movies" were not given Wednesday evening as scheduled, but were put on Thursday evening to a good sized crowd. Arrangements were completed last week to have free movies on Wednesday night for each week during the summer months, which ought to bring out quite a few people.

Mrs. Mabel Jones and children are staying at the L. Jones home at present.

Rev. Schlesselman suffered considerable last week from the effects of a carbuncle on his face.

Miss Grace Pals is helping Mr. and Mrs. Frey in the restaurant for the present.

Mrs. Clark Shove was out of town several days last week.

Several of our townsmen went to Ventura last week to try their luck at fishing. Some report fairly good catches while others say "no luck at all."

Fred Schluter, H. F. Rief and A. E. Muller attended Masonic lodge at Thornton on Tuesday evening of last week.

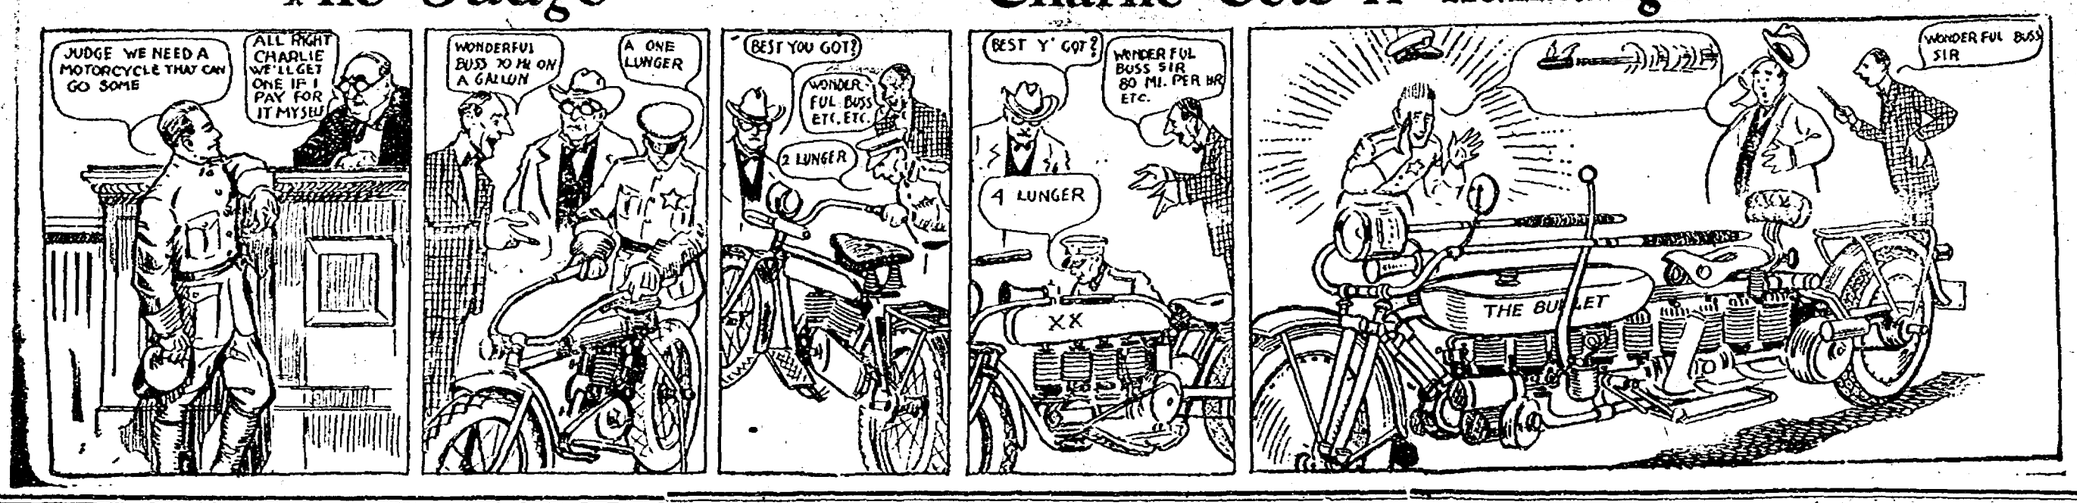
Your choice of any granite ware on our bargain counter at 49 cents each.—C. J. Wendel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmid are the happy parents of a baby girl, born to them last Saturday, June 9.

On Thursday of last week C. J. Wendel escaped what might have been a serious accident. He was driving his truck, when the steering rod broke, and after considerable plunging about the truck turned over, causing some little damage, smashing the cab and otherwise scratching things up a bit.

John Jordan was a business caller at Mason City last Tuesday.

"The Judge" — — — — — Charlie Gets A "Humdinger"



ROWAN NEWS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

T. K. Holliday and family started last Wednesday by auto for Ohio, where they expect to spend their summer vacation.

Herman Pepper, of Waterloo, was up on business last week.

Mr. Dayton, Mrs. Al. French's father, was taken quite ill on last Tuesday. Dr. Potter was called in attendance. His two sons, George from Chicago, and Charles from Estherville, have been here helping to care for him. The latter returned to his home Monday. Mr. Dayton is failing quite rapidly.

Master Bernard Stumph, who has been visiting relatives at Ventura, the past few days, returned to his home Monday.

O. H. Isenberger and family left early last Wednesday morning in their car for a trip to Wisconsin to visit relatives. Ed. Miller, of Clarion, is taking care of the Solberg elevator during their absence.

H. J. Whitten and wife went to Grinnell, Monday, to attend the Commencement exercises at which time their son, Ralph, receives his degree.

Will Brooks of Waverly visited his mother, Mrs. J. D. Brooks, last week Thursday.

Fred Hackley is renovating the Pritchett building, preparatory to placing a stock of groceries and shoes therein.

Ejner Kronbech spent Sunday at Clear Lake.

Mrs. Fred Aldinger is visiting her parents at Morristown, Minn.

The Christian Endeavor society spent a pleasant evening last Thursday at the L. A. McCallum home.

Mrs. John Pritchett left last week Thursday to visit at the home of her daughter, at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Miss Elsie Keith of Montreal, Canada, arrived last Monday to make an extended visit at the R. H. Keith home.

Lester Andrews and O. E. Preden returned from South Dakota on last Sunday.

Tice Streveler is enjoying a visit from his parents, who reside at Blairsburg.

Miss Mae Virden came home from Mt. Vernon last Thursday to spend her summer vacation.

Mrs. Chas. Boyington departed for Iowa City last Friday to visit with friends and have some dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCallum arrived Monday evening from Pasadena, Cal. They expect to spend some time visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Harry Fox came over from Shell Rock the first of the week to visit at the Nels Hansen home.

Mrs. W. H. Knowles and daughter from Chicago spent last week with her sister, Mrs. G. R. Sheldon. From here they went to Clarion on Friday to visit her parents.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Chris Fowler next Wednesday, June 20. Mrs. C. T. Halbert is the leader. A silver offering for flower missions will be taken.

Mrs. Peter Hansen was quite badly shaken up in their car one day last week. While she and Mr. Hansen were driving into town as they were going over one of the street crossings the car jolted and threw Mrs. Hansen against the side of the car, bruising her badly and breaking a rib. She is much improved at this writing.

Our town has been greatly improved the past week by the addition of a coat of gravel to the main street, from he Rock Island depot east to the O. E. Ballou residence, and then south to the Rowan Lumber Co. office. Edgar Mantle has the contract for the job.

Our ex-service men have been very much elated the past week because of receiving the long-looked-for bonus checks.

The Epworth League annual election of officers held at Mrs. Dan Whitten, Sr.'s, home last Tuesday evening, chosen the following—Pres., Angie R. Baines; 1st. vice pres., Clara Azeltine; 2nd. vice pres, Gladys Whitten; 3rd. vice pres., Lorine Liming; 4th. vice pres., Amy Azeltine; secretary, Arno Myers; Treas., Anna Rietz; organist, Bernice Hansen.

Seven new members were taken in at this meeting. Ice cream and wafers were served by the hostess.

There will be special services in the Congregational church on Sunday morning at 10;30. A children's choir will furnish the music. The pastor will have a special sermon for children. There will also be a baptismal service for children and adults.

D. W. Whitten and family, Angie Baines and Laurel and Gladys Whitten drove to Tyrrell Park, Friday evening, and ate a picnic supper.

Harvey Lineweaver came home the latter part of last week from Cambridge, where he has been hauling gravel.

GOODELL NEWS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Owen Conwell was in Sioux City last week, doing duty on the federal jury

About 75 were present at the farm Bureau meeting at the home of Mrs. Elmer Schneider at Twin Lake on June 5. The large number indicates the interest that the ladies are taking in dress making instruction.

Wednesday of last week Mrs. John Ahrenkeil, her two daughters and son, Walter, visited at the Leo Ahrenkeil home.

Arthur Savogue returned from Mason City on Thursday.

George Griggs and John Savogue were fishing at Clear Lake on last Thursday.

Miss Clara Johnson was in Garner on Thursday, at the Eighth Grade graduating exercises.

Nels Chelsig drove to Garner, on Thursday afternoon, to bring home the children who took the Eighth Grade examination.

Miss Butts met with her club girls at the home of Mrs. T. R. Burgess on Friday afternoon.

George Ness left Friday for Williams, Iowa, by auto. where he took his daughter, Ruth, who went to help some friends with their housework.

Donald Meyers and Harold Savogue returned from Clear Lake, on Friday, where they had spent the greater part of the week fishing. The boys had no trouble to bring their fish home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesenberg and family attended the Twin Lake farm bureau meeting at the West Lake on Friday night.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hanson, Harold Savogue and Carl Sandberg autoed to Ames. Carl remained to take the six weeks' of summer school. At the end of the six weeks he will go on to Boone to work for the Iowa Falls Electric Co.

Lloyd Carpenter and wife Sundayed at the Sandberg home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thada were at the farm bureau meeting on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers and daughter, Bethuel, were out to the farm bureau meeting Friday night.

Mr. Lake is assembling his equipment to erect a new shop for Mr. Sandberg. The new shop will be 60 feet by 24 feet.

A. C. Carpenter and daughter, Thora, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlichting were entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sandberg.

Earl Clark moved his household goods down from Garner, Thursday.

The Misses Matson and Ina Ahrenkeil gave a shower for Miss Martel Avery on Friday night. Another shadow of coming events.

Mr and Mrs. John Ellsworth were in Green last Friday visiting with friends and relatives.

Prof. O. E. Nelson was among those that registered at Ames on Saturday. He will persue work in the Manual Training department.

Elmer Schneider left, Saturday evening for Chicago, with his cattle. They were a fine bunch of cattle.

J. J. Cooks drives a new car these days.

Mr. Rich of Waterloo was in town Monday.

L. Ericson and son, Vincent, are back in Goodell.

The Children's Day program was postponed to June 17 because of the rain last Sunday.

Wm. Nelson of Belmond was in our city on Monday.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

When your bonus comes---

Don't spend it foolishly. Salt it down for a rainy day if possible. It's the hardest money you ever earned and you deserve every penny of it ---don't let it slip through your fingers.

If you must spend it---get something to show for it---and get what you pay for.

Get To Know
GILDNER BROS.
Iowa's Largest Clothiers
MASON CITY, IOWA

HELLO!

You Renter with $500 or $1,000---You Land Owner with $1,000 or $10,000.

We have the farms---150 of them---in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas. Some first class exchanges---what have you to offer?

Let's Boost A Little

Tell me not in mournful numbers that the country's on the "bum;" rouse up from your peaceful slumbers, get out, buy, and make things hum.

The past is gone; you can't call one moment back; so let's go to work and make things hit on high. Get out your wallet and let's go.

We sell the earth and all it's belongings. Just give us a chance.

Truly yours,

WOLLE LAND AGENCY
Over Griesy's
Belmond, - Iowa

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Arends were Hampton callers last Saturday.

Oscar Hensel was transacting business at Spirit Lake the forepart of the week.

Ralph Schulte was a caller at Belmond last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larsen were Hampton callers last Thursday.

Leonard Arends who has been attending college at Elmhurst, Ill., came home Saturday for a visit with home folks.

Jelto Beenken and son Henry were callers at Belmond last Wednesday.

Arthur Winwood was a business caller at Hampton last Thursday.

Miss Eva Whetstone left on last Friday for Rock Island, Ill., where she will visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kieslich and daughter Blanche, were Hampton callers last Saturday.

Mrs. T. J. Tebay of Hampton visited her friend, Miss Anna Beenen, here several days the past week.

Mrs. M. D. Latham, who has been seriously ill for the past week, is reported to be somewnat improved at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte and Hannetta and John were Belmond callers last Tuesday.

Mrs. Clarence Murphy and sons, Raymond and Donald, visited with relatives at Hampton several days the past week.

John Schulte visited at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. H. Frohling, at Belmond, the latter part of the week

J. F. Douglas of Hampton visited at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Otto Kieslich, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte, Jr., and two children were callers at Hampton last Saturday.

Frank Ostendolph of Meservey was transacting business at Alexander last week.

Miss Edna Arends was a Belmond caller last Saturday.

A. M. Butler was a caller at Dows last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jelto Beinken and son, Henry, were Belmond callers on Saturday evening.

R. L. Carlock was at Fargo, North Dakota, the past week on a business trip.

Karl Griemann, the M. & St. L. depot agent at Latimer, spent last Thursday evening at the F. L. Greenfield home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Winwood and daughter, Miss Mary, visited at the Dan Butterwick home in Fairbault, Minnesota several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Butler and children of Hampton visited with relatives at this place a few days last week.

Miss Esther Larsen was a caller at Hampton one day last week.

John Arends and son, Bobbie, were Rowan callers last Saturday.

H. J. Bohlen and daughter, Letha, were business callers at Belmond on Saturday.

George D. Pals and daughter, Miss Jennie, were callers in Alexander on business Thursday.

Why Shouldn't Iowa Lead?

Iowa has even distribution of natural resources and of population; unsurpassed fertility of soil; towns and small cities well placed, factories scattered over the state; ample railway facilities; schools, churches, newspapers, railroads, market centers, manufacturing areas, all in close proximity. She has two navigable rivers on the east and west (Mississippi and Missouri), which may be developed to greater extent if needed by commerce; everything in the state works toward industrial, economical and social progress.

Iowa's wealth, which is its soil, its climate and its moisture, is enduring. Each year there are more hours of sunshine in Iowa than in California. Altho 23 states in the United States are larger than Iowa, she leads in the percentage of tillable land, 98 per cent of her surface being productive, a larger per centage than any equal area in the world, and furnishes 1-10 of the food products to the U. S. every time the sun sets, one million dollars worth of Iowa live stock crosses the Mississippi on the way east to help feed the world. The richest agricultural states in the Union are those which touch Iowa, and the choicest portions of any of those states are the portions adjoining Iowa. One half of Iowa's area, (55,000 square miles), is in grains; one-half of her population (2,404,021), is concerned with the production of grains. Her live stock, farm products, wool, dairy and poultry products, etc., averaged last year $100,000,000 a month. The value of the total grain crop of Iowa is $480,142,000; the value of all dairy products is $126,948,011.88. These two sources of Iowa's wealth together make a total of $607,090,011.88, to say nothing of the total value of live stock as of January 1, 1923, which is $430,952,000, and poultry in the amount of nearly $19,000,000 with an egg production of approximately $30,000,000. To live in a state whose farm products alone exceed a billion dollars yearly is worth thinking over.

One of Iowa's greatest natural resources is her bituminous coal. According to United States Geological Survey, it is estimated that Iowa's coal fields contain 19,000 square miles, possibly two-thirds of which may in time become productive. The original coal supply was 29,160,000,000 tons. United States Geological Survey also estimated in 1907 that with a production of about 7,500,000 tons per year the supply will last 2,550 years. There are nearly 13,000 men employed in Iowa's 235 mines and in 1920 the output was 7,881,869 tons.

Iowa's 642 factories, employing some 103,000 people, have an annual pay roll of $92,000,000 and are capitalized at $450,000,0000. This investment, together with the $745,000,000 annual output of Iowa's factories establishes her industrial stability.

Iowa has 15 cities of the first class 90 cities of the second class and 788 incorporated towns.

The latest available statistics give Iowa's per capita debt as $0.16 as against an average per capita debt of $3.57 for all the states. The per capita wealth of Iowa is $3,345, as against $1,965 for the United States

For tansportation facilities Iowa has 104,027 miles of highways (this includes about 642,162 acres), and 10,493 miles of railroads or one mile of railroad for each 224 persons and one mile for each 5 1-3 square mile.

Iowa ranks fourth in the United States in railroad mileage. A fifteen minute automobile journey connects every farm house in Iowa with a railroad station. Every county seat has railroad facilities as also has almost every town and village of one hundred or more inhabitants.—Iowa Chamber of Commerce.

And Then the Fun Began

For the first dinner in their new home the bride had made a pie. "I am afraid," she said, as she helped her husband to slice, "that I have left something out, and that it isn't very good."

The husband tasted it and said, "There is nothing, my dear, you could have left out that would make a pie taste like this. It's something you've put in."—Sales Sense.

Demonstrator Wanted

For any quarrel two's required;
So doth an ancient adage run,
And would I had its maker hired
To prove to Jane that we are one.

Is your subscription paid up? If not, why not drop into the Independent office and square accounts? Pay in advance and save 25 per cent.

White Produce Weekly

VOL. 1 NO. 2

AND IT RAINED!

But the weather man says that we are going to have good weather, so this Saturday we intend to have the band concert, and don't forget that can of cream, case of eggs, or sack of old roosters. We are here for business on Saturday nights, so come one, come all.

And by the way, the government statistics show that the annual output of eggs and poultry equals the entire yearly production of all of America's oil wells, plus $250,000,000. And don't you know that the State of Iowa has a higher percentage of poultry and eggs than any other state in the Union. "Greeley Meant Iowa"—the real state.

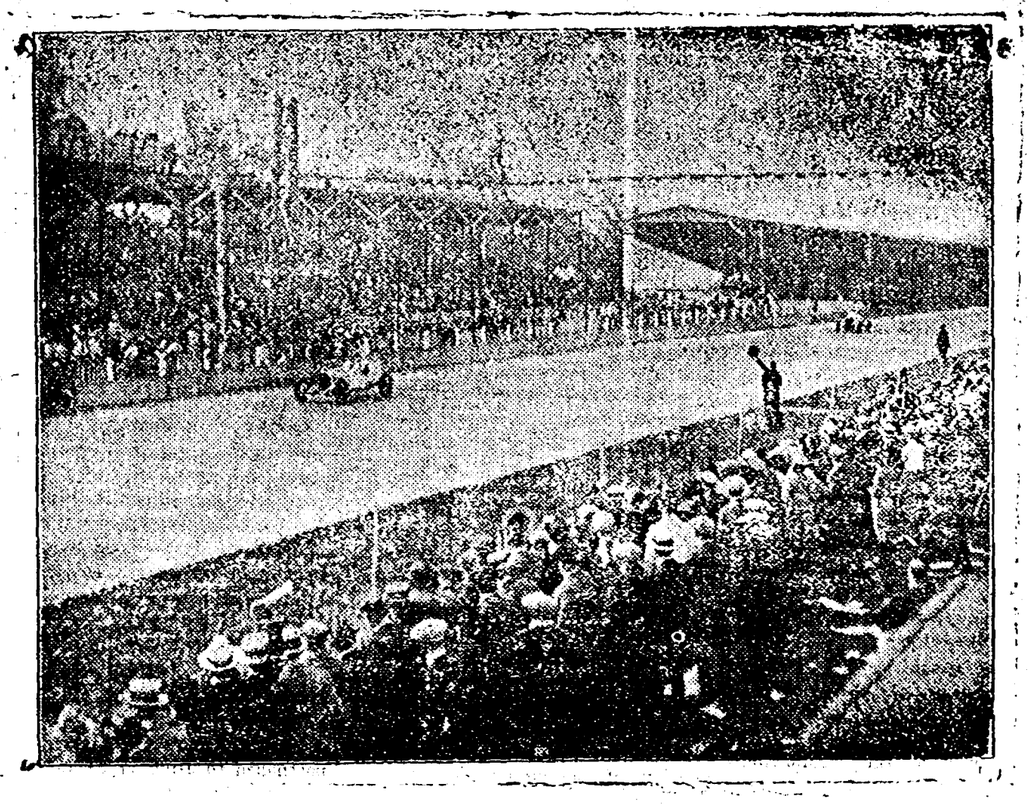
Call us when you have any broilers, 1½ lbs. and up. We are in the market every day for these. Also hens and old roosters. Now is the time to sell the old roosters, too.

People are strange beings. Some eggs are. We have quite a collection of odd eggs in our window.

REMEMBER—White buys Cream Eggs and Poultry—Belmond and Goodell.

"That WHITE Boy"

Editor and Manager



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

FINISH OF INDIANAPOLIS RACE

The finish of the great 500 mile race at Indianapolis. Photograph shows Tommy Milton crossing the line a winner. He drove an H. C. S. Special.

More Royal Clinchers for 1923

United States Tires are Good Tires

THE U. S. Tire people took plenty of time in developing the Royal Clincher Cord.

When it was finally placed on sale there were no mistakes in it.

Last year we couldn't make Royal Clinchers fast enough.

Production for 1923 has been more than doubled.

But whenever and wherever you can get a Royal Clincher—take it.

Where to buy U.S. Tires

Jones Harness Company

Belmond, Iowa

The Turn In the Road

Some time or other everyone comes to the turn in the road. "Turn to the right and you can't go wrong," is an old saying. In this case a turn to the right leads to the Belmond Savings Bank, to preparedness, to independence. If you haven't a savings account, remember that it is a long road that has no turning. This bank will be glad to serve you.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

LOCALS

Word was received here the past week that Miss Irene Hunter and Mr. Burton Hyne were married on June First at Sterling, Colorado. They will reside at Sterling. The bride has been the trimmer at the Hat Shoppe for the past two years, and made numerous friends in Belmond who unite in extending their best wishes. Mr. Hyne was employed at the Sugar Factory here during the last campaign.

Mrs. Pat Dillon returned from Hampton the first of the week, after spending a few days there with relatives and friends.

J. N. Johnson was called to Madison, South Dakota, Monday by the serious illness of his brother, Tom Johnson.

Hoyt and Randall Klemme went to Mason City on Sunday to visit at the home of relatives.

Mrs. Kirkburg of Fort Dodge came Monday to attend to business matters here.

Mrs. Wm. Gealow and son Fred, returned to Meservey, Monday, after a few days' visit with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones were Mason City callers on Monday.

Mrs. H. Mennenga and Miss Margaret were Mason City callers on Monday.

Minnie Madison left Wednesday of this week for Colorado Springs, Colorado, to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Madison. Otto, who has been at Colorado Springs for his health, is much improved, and is employed now as a teamster with a gravel outfit.

The members of the Treese families held a farewell gathering at Cornelia Lake a week ago Sunday for Minnie Madison, before she left for Colorado to make her future home.

Mrs. E. W. Klein of Snohonsise, Washington, is visiting at the home of her father, J. P. Byers, and her brother, Guy, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Norris have moved back to Belmond from Garner, where they have been living the past year.

Theo. Hansen, one of the leading merchants of Rowan, was a business caller here last Friday.

Pop corn that is fresh and covered with real creamery butter; Fresh roasted Jumbo Peanuts—the big fellows—and smiling service are what you get at the Stand on the Corner—Wm. Dempsey's. Have you tried it?

Sunday's all-day drizzle put a big crimp in the opening day festivities at Clear Lake and Lake View Park. We understand that the big day at the latter place will be this coming Sunday.

Save your cucumber and cabbage from bugs. Use Hammond's Slug Shot. 25 cents per package.—Schultz Drug Co.

Mrs. Wm. Parker will teach the third grade in the local school next year.

The Iowa soldier Bonus checks arrived last week, Frank Retleft getting the first one. Many of the boys have received theirs since, and all expect to get them within a short time. A number of checks for the limit have been received.

We have a nice line of Hammocks. Prices $2.50 and up.—Schultz Drug Co.

Chas. Reese has had a force of men working the past week in cleaning up and excavating the lots where he will build. Building operations will be pushed as fast as possible, so as to have the building completed by the time specified by the postal department, about Sept. 1st.

Atty. Jensen and family, and Fred Shipley and wife, drove to northern Minneasota recently, where they enjoyed the fishing for a week. They returned home empty handed, but swear they caught a bunch of them just the same.

Miss Gladys Skouge has been engeged to teach the Domestic Science department of the Belmond schools next year.

Order your spring chickens now.—C. F. Hedges. Phone 3809. 301c

---

The first band concert of the season, scheduled for last Saturday evening, was postponed on account of the rain, and will be given this coming Saturday evenig. The Garer band has been engaged to play.

An officer of the Third Infantry was in town last week looking after the grounds where this battalion of soldiers will camp in Belmond next week.

Miss Maurine Hake of Klemme is spending the week at the home of relatives here.

Mrs. Rosecrans, accompanied by the Pritchard family of Buffalo Center, drove to Des Moines last week Friday.

W. C. White drove up from Fort Dodge on Tuesday, to attend to some business matters.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

SERVICE

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

KURTZ DAIRY

Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Bailey, and Mr. Bailey's parents drove to Grand Rapids, Minnesota, on Tuesday, for a week's visit with relatives.

Tom Brooks suffered a stroke of paralysis last week, and at this writing is quite ill at his home west of town.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

SERVICE

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

"How you do stutter, my poor boy. Have you ever attended a stammering school?"

"N-n-n-no! I d-d-d-do this natur ally!"

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

SERVICE

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Announcement!

I will be at the

Schultz Jewelry Store

in Belmond, on next

MONDAY, JUNE 18

to test your eyes and fit glasses.

FRIEND C. BRASS

Optometrist

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHING?

Where you can get it the cheapest? No! Where you can get the most value for the dollar you spend. Then you owe it to yourself to see what Patton Bros. are offering.

Summer Suits of Palm Beach and Tropical Worsted ..... $18 to $35
Sport Suits ..... $25 to $50

PATTON BROTHERS COMPANY

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty

MASON CITY AND MANLY, IOWA

The Car That Resists AGE

THE Willys-Knight motor car is the one vehicle you hear talked of with impressive enthusiasm after the owner has driven it 50,000 miles.

It is the Willys-Knight motor that gives this age-resisting vitality to this motor car which combines dependable, unfailing economy of operation with a true elegance of riding comfort.

In the Willys-Knight motor, metal cylinder sleeves, moving one within the other like sections of a telescope, slide up and down noiselessly on a film of oil —without friction or wear.

Thus you have a motor with no valves to grind, no delicate mechanism to get out of order, no clashing, hammering, wearing parts, no cams, no tappets, no springs that wear out, no expense to speak of on the road. Thus owners say that the Willys-Knight motor actually improves with use.

Nordschow Motor Company

Belmond, Iowa

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowing

COPYRIGHT, 1922, BY SIDNEY GOWING

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lambe, at Jervaulx abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lambe, Aimee, vivacious daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, is in a rebellious mood.

CHAPTER II.—She wanders into the park, there encountering a strange youth in trouble with a motorcycle. He laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two cement the acquaintance by a ride on the motorcycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgina Berners, her cousin, Aimee sets out for Jervaulx. On the way she decides that Georgina shall impersonate her at Jervaulx, while she goes on a holiday. Georgina's horrified protest is unavailing.

CHAPTER III.—Happy in her new freedom, Aimee again meets "Billy." He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives hers as Amy Snooks, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER IV.—That night Aimee visits Georgina and learns that the deception has not been discovered. By her dominant personality she compels Georgina to continue the subterfuge.

CHAPTER V.—On a trial spin next day on the Sphinx, with Billy, Aimee almost collides with a carriage in which are her aunt, Georgina and Alexander. The pair escape unrecognized.

CHAPTER VI.—Georgina learns that Lord Scroope is coming to visit Lady Erythea and, realizing what will happen on his arrival, is in hopeless bewilderment.

CHAPTER VII.—While Aimee is secretly visiting Georgina at Jervaulx, the place is burglarized. Aimee escapes.

CHAPTER VIII.—Georgina learns, with much relief, that Aimee has got away.

CHAPTER IX.—Police Inspector Panke decides that the robbery is the work of "Jack the Climber" and "Calamity Kate," noted thieves, who travel on a motorcycle.

CHAPTER X.—Billy, aware of his "partner's" nocturnal jaunts, is troubled. He follows her, on the Sphinx, to Jervaulx. He hears the commotion, at once suspects burglary, and follows two figures on a motorcycle who are apparently in a desperate hurry. Cornering the pair, Billy knocks out a man who attempts to shoot him, picking up a package the fellow had dropped. He discovers the other fugitive to be a woman. Stopping to aid her, she strikes him with a stone, rendering him unconscious, and the pair escape.

CHAPTER XI.—Recovering, Billy discovers the package he had picked up is a jewel case, containing emeralds. Realizing they must be part of the loot from Jervaulx, he starts for the abbey. On the way he meets Aimee, with the police in pursuit. In a secure hiding place, a cave among the crag pits, Aimee tells him the whole story. He urges that she make a frank confession to her father, but on reflection both realize Aimee's good name has been compromised by her two nights' stay at Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER XII.—Assuring Aimee he has a plan to save her, Billy leaves her in the cave and, proceeding to Jervaulx, restores the emeralds to the astounded Lady Erythea.

CHAPTER XIII.—Rejecting any reward, after explaining how the emeralds came into his possession, Billy accepts the position of chauffeur to Lady Erythea, seeing in the situation a promise of a way out of the embroglio.

CHAPTER XIV.—Realizing what her father's visit to Jervaulx would mean, Aimee goes secretly to her home, disables the family auto, thus preventing his journey, and induces a parlormaid to let her take her place at Jervaulx.

CHAPTER XV.—Alexander recognizes Aimee as the woman on the motorcycle which ran into the Lambe carriage, denouncing her as "Calamity Kate." Georgina divulges Aimee's identity. Hearing her story, Alexander consents to keep the secret.

"Billy," she said breathlessly, "how good you've been to me. How good you've been! I want—"

"I'd be flayed alive for you!" said Billy suddenly. "There isn't anything I wouldn't do—and I've done nothing, yet. You've got the grit of twenty." He held her hands tight in his. "Aimee—"

"Oh! Look out!" exclaimed Aimee, darting back. There was a heavy step on the gravel and Mr. Tarbeaux came round the corner. Billy walked briskly forward.

Mr. Tarbeaux bent a suspicious and accusing eye upon him.

CHAPTER XVII

Complications.

"Either you are working too hard, Alexander," said Lady Erythea, inspecting her nephew through her lorgnette, as they rose from the luncheon table, "or the burglary has been a greater shock to your nerves than I should have suspected. I do not like to see you wearing that pallid and constrained expression. Your sister will be quite concerned about you. She arrives, you remember, by the evening train."

"Diana!" said Mr. Lambe. "I had quite forgotten that she was due here."

Georgina started slightly, and looked perturbed.

"She is coming," said Lady Erythea, "to investigate the Jervaulx ghost. Certainly, she might have done it before. But I believe she has only recently become a member of the Psychical Research society. She is quite enthusiastic about it—so far as Diana can be enthusiastic about anything. Indeed, her letter is so technical as to be unintelligible to me."

"I did not know there was a ghost here," said Georgina, wide-eyed.

"I should not like to say that there is. But it is a tradition in the family, and has been well vouched for. I have never seen it. Diana seems to imply," added Lady Erythea a little acidly, "that only those who are advanced, and in tune with the infinite, see such things. If she thinks she is more spiritual than I, she is welcome to try. She will discover nothing whatever." Lady Erythea turned to her nephew. "Bertrand de Jussac is coming also."

"De Jussac?" cried Alexander, staring at her.

"Yes. You know him, I think."

"I have met him, of course," said Mr. Lambe dryly. "I should have thought this was the last house that so frivolous a person would wish to visit. Why is he coming? Surely he is not interested in the ghost?"

"In the ghost—no," said Lady Erythea, with a faint yet serene smile, "but possibly his interest may arise. I approve him. A young man of excellent standing and irreproachable descent."

"Descent is the word," said Mr. Lambe rather curtly, and left the room.

"How long is—Diana going to stay here?" Georgina asked anxiously.

"Two days—but it is possible she may be persuaded to prolong her visit," said her ladyship placidly.

"What is the Vicomte de Jussac like?"

"D'Artagnan—in the flesh. With a touch, perhaps, of Porthos. The type which it is a good woman's mission to reform. But this is outside your province, Aimee," she said abruptly, and laid a hand on the girl's shoulder. "Go, my dear child, and get your cousin away from his books. Take him for a drive and some fresh air."

Georgina left the room obediently. But instead of seeking Alexander, she hunted, with an agitated face, for Aimee.

"Hullo! What's the trouble now?" exclaimed Aimee. "I say, Georgie, dear, I'm beastly sorry about being in the arbor. I couldn't help—"

"Oh, never mind that now!" broke in Georgina distractedly. "A much worse thing's happened. I knew how it would be. Lady Diana Lambe is coming; she'll be here in an hour or two."

Rapidly she repeated the news concerning the two expected guests. Aimee received it with consternation.

"Cold Lambe!" she exclaimed. "Coming here? As if I hadn't enough to bear without that! It's the worst news yet."

"Wh-what did you call her?"

"It's what everybody calls her in London—Cold Lambe. It fits her like a glove. A beautiful, frigid beast!"

"Aimee! She knows you, doesn't she?"

"Of course. She lives in town. She's the only one of the Lambes I do know. And Diana hates me, and—well, I've never pretended to like her, either. She's perfectly pitiless; she'll give me away like a shot, and flatten me out. She'll be all over it!"

"Let us hope," said Georgina breathlessly, "that Monsieur de Jussac will Exploded With Laughter.

—er—distract her attention; keep her occupied. Lady Erythea says—"

Aimee sat on the bed and exploded with laughter.

"That aunt of mine is incorrigible!" she gasped. "I tell you it's perfect rot. You might as well try to melt an iceberg fresh from the Pole. This French vicomte won't stand the slightest chance."

"Do you know him, too?"

"I've heard of him. They say he's rather a—a rip. I expect that means he's a good sort. But Diana—heaven preserve us! Well, she probably won't know me in this rig, but she'll know you're the wrong horse. And then zizz! boom!—up we all go in the air! You and Billy, and me—and Alexander!"

Georgina sat down and pressed her hand to her forehead.

"Aimee," she said faintly, "the burglary, and all the rest of it, has upset me. I don't feel well. I—I have headache, and I can't come down to dinner. I shall go to bed."

"What a trump you are!" said Aimee, kissing her with intense affection. "It's the very thing. I'm so sorry, Georgie. It'll be beastly dull for you in bed, dear."

"I shall like a little dullness," said Georgina pathetically, as she left the room, "it will be restful. Goodby, dear. You will have to keep out of Diana's way as best you can."

"I'll take jolly good care I do," murmured Aimee fervently, as she put her cap straight. "Even Billy can't help this time!"

CHAPTER XVIII

"Cold Lambe!"

Lady Diana might have been the original of that tedious young woman who was described by the poet as "divinely tall and most divinely fair." She was without doubt strikingly beautiful, a type of the large and very pale blonde. But an atmosphere of frigidity surrounded her, which many people found repellent.

"My dear aunt," she said calmly, entering the drawing room and kissing Lady Erythea, "so good of you to have me for this flying visit. Alexander, how are you?" She touched her brother's cheek with her lips.

"You will have a clear field for your investigations, my dear," said Lady Erythea, "and I hope the advances you have made in psychic science will—ah—bring you to terms with the ghost. But I doubt it. By the way, your cousin Aimee is here, as I told you. But she is unwell and is keeping her room. I am rather anxious about her. Incidentally, we shall have another guest; I expect Monsieur de Jussac today."

Alexander left the room.

"Monsieur de Jussac!" exclaimed Diana. She paused. Lady Erythea watched her somewhat keenly. "What brings him here?" said Diana.

"He is very anxious," said Lady Erythea glibly, "to examine the Lambe collection of armor. We have a suit of mail which is believed to have been captured at Crecy; there is a tradition that it belonged to one of the De Jussac family."

Lady Diana looked incredulous.

"And I understand he is interested in psychic matters, and anxious to improve his knowledge."

"That is something in his favor," said Diana with suspicion.

"I expect that is his car," said Lady Erythea.

A rakish automobile of semi-racing type was observed sweeping along the park drive. The Vicomte de Jussac had motored direct from town.

A minute later he presented himself. Bertrand de Jussac was tall, and for his age, rather full-bodied. His complexion was healthily ruddy, he had a little black mustache and a jolly, roving dark eye. In spite of his very material appearance, he had undoubtedly the bel air. He raised Lady Erythea's skinny fingers to his lips.

"Enchanted, dear lady, to pay homage to you sur vos terres. How very amiable of you to invite me!"

Lady Erythea bestowed on him the smile she reserved for elder sons. "Charmed to have you. You know my niece, surely?"

Bertrand's little start of surprise was admirably done. He bent low over Diana's hand, but refrained from kissing it.

"But this is delightful!" exclaimed Bertrand. "You told me in town, Lady Diana, that you were interested in the ghost. Happy ghost! I, too, am developing rapidly an interest in the psychic. I hope—"

"I thought it was armor that attracted you here," said Diana frigidly.

"Helas, mademoiselle," said Bertrand, allowing his dark eyes to meet her pale blue ones, "there are weapons against which armor is of no avail."

"With your bent for ancient history, Diana," interrupted her aunt, "you should know more of the Lambe armor than I do. Why not show it to Monsieur de Jussac, so that he may commence his studies. You will find most of it in the hall."

"I think Monsieur de Jussac had better pursue his own investigations, for I shall be fully occupied with mine," said Diana, "and for the present I will retire to my room, if you will excuse me, Aunt."

She glided majestically through the doorway.

The Vicomte's eyes followed Diana's departure.

"Adorable blonde!" he mused. "The invincible phlegme brittanique. But it is the icy, inaccessible peak that spurs the courage of the mountaineer!"

He sat down and made himself particularly pleasant to Lady Erythea.

* * * * * * *

When the party of four assembled for dinner, Lady Erythea was amiable and resplendent in purple, Diana frigid and ethereal in pale yellow, while Alexander at first wore the air of the Jackdaw of Rheims molting under the abbot's curse. But Bertrand de Jussac, looking like a revived D'Artagnan in evening dress, contrived to chase heaviness away.

Continued next week.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

Buick!

Everyone will concede that the Buick is a fine looking car.

Everyone admits that, because everyone sees the Buick.

Everyone who rides it, drives it, or lives with it concedes several other points, including comfort, performance, durability, low service expense, and high resale value.

These are facts which have made possible for Buick to grow so steadily and so permanently into a position of unquestionable prominence in the field of the automobile industry.

Remember that the price of an automobile is not the original list price. It is the list price plus its upkeep, plus the depreciation which must be taken into consideration when it is brought to the second-hand market.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Buick and Chevrolet Sales and Service

Goodyear Tires

Phone 39 Belmond, Iowa

Kinseth's Store News

Well, well, that was a nice rain we had, wasn't it? But it is too bad that it spoiled our band concert. We will have one this Saturday night, if the weather man is in a good humor, and of course you want to come in and hear the band play, and come in to the Store on the Corner to do the trading while here.

—K—

If you need rubbers for this rainy weather, see us. And we've the real shoes to go inside the rubbers, too. We're shoe headquarters. Have you noticed the classy shoe we have in our window, at $2.28? That, we claim, is honest shoe value. Look it over.

—K—

Join the Country Club by trying a package of our Country Club cocoa.

Don't get sunstroke, get a straw hat. We have them, all kinds and all sizes. Why pay more?

—K—

Our flours make bread that makes you say "pass the bread, please."

—K—

And say, folks, if you want to get in on those peaches for 19c you want to hurry up.

—K—

Fruits of all kinds, fresh and full of taste. Coffee at 38c.

—K—

So for goodness' sakebe a wise.one and let the Store on the Corner save you money.

Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

Has the Punch

It follows through — there is no halfhearted piston stroke; neither is there a clapping piston stroke to rack your engine. Instead, Red Crown imparts a steady, steam-engine-like pressure to the piston that sustains and follows through the length of the stroke. That explains both the smooth flow of rhythmic power and the abundance of sustained pulling power. Red Crown offers to the motorist

The Utmost of Service

It has all the intrinsic merit that science has been able to put into any gasoline. It is manufactured so that it will vaporize at just the correct temperatures, to cause instant starting — a quick, snappy get-away — a smooth, gliding acceleration — tremendous power — racing speed if you want it — and most miles per gallon.

Fill your tank with Red Crown today.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

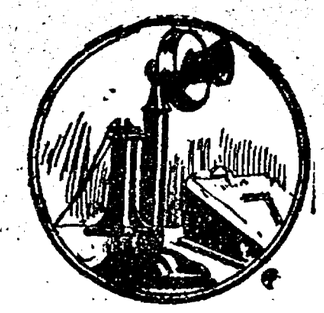
And at the following Garage:

Belmond Motor Sales Co., East Main Street

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

3232



Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Mrs. A. Lamb left for Illinois last week, where she will spend some time visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Edna Stedman was visiting friends in Belmond last week. Miss Agnes Dillon accompanied her home to Monmouth, Illinois, for a few weeks' visit. They made the trip in Miss Stedman's car.

E. O. Snyder, of Huron South Dakota, came last night for a visit at the home of his brother, F. E. Snyder and wife.

Mrs. Chris Enger left last Saturday for Minot, North Dakota, where she will spend about three months visiting relatives and friends in her former home.

Boys and Girls—Buy your fire works at the Gift Shop, two doors west of the Theatre.

Miss Francis Perry, a sister of Mrs. A. A. Kieser, suffered a stroke of paralysis the first of the week. She was taken to the John Lieunen home, where she is being taken care of.

John Buress was in town last Friday, visiting old friends. He was enroute to Minnesota, where he will spend six weeks at an officers' training camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Jorgenson and son, Hans, were visitors in Belmond recently. From here they when to Owatonna, Minnesota, to visit Harry Sorenson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Collinske at Austin, where Mr. Jorgenson is employed.

HEMSTITCHING

Hemstitching done at the Gift Shop. Black and white cotton thread furnished. Ten and 15 cents per yard. 30tfc

Mr. and Mrs. John Butterfield of Long Beach, California, were greeting old friends here last Saturday. They arrived from California last Friday, and are staying at Hampton with relatives. They expect to spend the summer in Hampton and Belmond, visiting friends and enjoying good old Iowa.

Mrs. J. H. Neal, of Mason City, was a week end visitor in Belmond with friends. She formerly resided here.

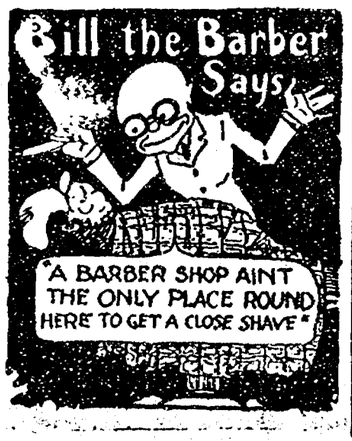
Adolph Rierson, who is attending college at Des Moines, was a week end visitor with home folks. He returned Monday, and leaves in a few days for California where he will attend a school this next year.

Mrs. Seth Huntington and children came from Dinsdale Tuesday for a few weeks visit with realatives.

O. L. Varland went to Northfield Minn., last week Friday to attend a reunion of his class of St. Olaf College, also a reunion of the choir of 100 voices which toured Europe 10 years ago. Mr. Varland was a member of this choir. He returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schultz drove to Iowa City on Tuesday for a visit with Mrs. Schultz's people.

Fred Pletch, who recently moved his family back to Belmond from Pomeroy is again employed at the McGuire clothing store.



Father Eardley has returned from Michigan, where he was recently called by the illness of his father. His father is much better.

P. Barban has just installed an electric molding machine, for use in his bakery. The new machine molds the loaves of bread, so that it is not necessary to use the hands at all on the dough.

Mrs. Joe Sprenzel was a visitor at Mason City last Saturday with friends.

Louis Tokman spent Sunday at Mason City visiting with his family.

E. Purcell came home from State Center, where he is working, to spend the week end with his family.

Raymond Walton drove up from Iowa Falls on Tuesday evening to visit relatives here.

E. M. Schmidt and family from Ft. Atkinson Wis. moved here the first of the week. They are living in the Peter Stacy house. They were residents in this vicinty several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White, accompanied by Dorothy and Marjorie Purcell, drove to Clear Lake on Wednesday.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

LOST AND FOUND

Lost—English Setter dog, white with black spots on head. Finder please notify Ned Packard.

Lost—Tool box from car, between Ralph Christie's and Arthur Hinman's. Reward if returned to Independent.

Found—Bunch of collars. Owner can have same by calling at the Independent and paying advertising.

FOR SALE

For Sale—White Wyandotte baby chicks. Delivery at once.—Mrs. Chas. Gealow. Prone 2712.

For Sale—Oliver typewriter, No. 9. See Bert Groen, Meservey. 30tfc

For Sale—Registered Spotted Poland spring pigs, male or female. Price $10.—F. E. Christie. 301*

For Sale—Saturday we will sell 100-pound empty flour sacks for ten cents each.—Belmond Bakery.

For Sale—Studebaker Six, 1918 model, in good shape. Will sell cheap. Phone 2902.—Gerald Treese. 293c

For Sale—160 acre improved farm three and a half miles southwest ot Belmond. For terms and particulars write to Mrs. Julia Tegland, 3624 Tenth Avenue So., Minneapolis, Minnesota. 292c

For Sale—4-door Ford Sedan, brand new.—Nordschow Motor Co.

For Sale—Hot water heating plant, in A I condition. Bargain if taken at once. Inquire of L. O. Skovlin. 291tfc

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:36 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:40 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

BELMOND MARKETS

Hens, heavy	16c
Roosters	08c
Broilers, 1½ to 2 lbs.	32c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	08c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Old Toms	16c
Eggs	17c
Cream	35c
Dairy Butter	40c
Creamery Butter	47c
Corn	68c
Oats	38c

Mrs. G. H. Klemme was hostess to the Chain of Ten on Monday of this week.

Mr and Mrs. C. M. Morse are spending a few days in Chicago, visiting his brother, Rufus, and wife. They made the trip by auto.

Miss Nellie Bell of Alexander was a visitor here yesterday, having dental work done.

Mrs. A. E. Muller of Meservey and husband and daughter were visitors at the Mennenga home here Tuesday evening.

Belmond has been flooded with a bunch of solicitors and beggars the past week or two. Wonder whether the soldier bonus hasn't called in a lot of these pesticators with the hope of easy money?

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scott drove to Eagle Grove Wednesday evening.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

SERVICE

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

BIG BARGAINS IN
TAILOR-MADE SUITS
Order your Fourth of July Suit Now
44 Samples to choose from
New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

YOU CAN'T LOSE!

We are going to do something that has never been done in Belmond before---we are going to give away

A Day's Cash Business Each Month!

Beginning today, Thursday, June 14, every customer who buys any merchandise from us and pays cash, will be given a dated and numbered receipt.

SAVE THESE RECEIPTS!

On July 5th, we will announce some certain day between June 14 and July 1, and this day's cash business will be refunded to our customers upon presentation of their receipt, absolutely free. Everyone holding a receipt for purchases made from us on that day will have the Full Amount given back to them FREE, either in cash or in merchandise, just as you prefer.

It may sound "fishy," but we absolutely guarantee on our honor to do exactly as we say. There is no catch or hitch about this---

YOU CAN'T LOSE!

We will give you back the full amount you paid us---whether for one cent, one dollar, or a hundred dollars.

This not a temporary offer. Next month---and every month---you will again receive one day's purchases back. This offer holds good on anything bought of us, whether meats, groceries, fruits or vegetables.

COME IN AND LET US EXPLAIN THIS REMARKABLE OFFER MORE FULLY TO YOU. IT MAY SEEM HARD TO BELIEVE, BUT WE MEAN EVERY WORD WE SAY.

Save Your Receipts---and Watch for the Day!

We Get Cash Discounts---Why Shouldn't You?

We Deliver

CASH MARKET

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons

BELMOND, IOWA

Phone 60

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1923 NO. 31

First Band Concert Draws The Crowds

Streets Are Crowded With The Visitors At An Early Hour From Many Points.

ANOTHER ONE SATURDAY

The first band concert of the season was given last Saturday evening, by the Garner band, before a crowd probably the largest Belmond has entertained since its last celebration. The streets began filling up early in the evening, and by nine o'clock the streets were packed so that going from one block to the next was a real job. Scores from other towns, as well as the farmers living between, were here. The attendance at this first concert was ample evidence that the band brings the crowd, and that the people want and appreciate the concerts.

The Garner boys gave an excellen program of high class music, and played to perfection. Many comments were heard upon their ability, and they showed the results of much training and practice.

An almost universal criticism of the concert, however, was the noise made by small boys shooting fire crackers and fireworks on the street. At times the exploding crackers drowned out the music of the band, especially on the softer notes, and a great many people were more or less put out over it. The next concert should not be marred by a similar annoyance.

The Garner band will give the next concert here this week Saturday evening, and as this is the day that the 300 soldiers are scheduled to be in Belmond, the crowd will probably be larger than before.

LEGION DANCE SUCCESS.

The big dance put on by the American Legion on Tuesday night, in the new annex of the Belmond Auto Co., was attended by a large crowd, many from other towns, and the building was crowded with dancers and spectators. The boys, while they have not checked up at this writing, will realize a profit from the affair, and "the morning after" found only highly complimentary remarks for the way it was conducted and the good time that was enjoyed by everyone.

RETURNS FROM ENGLAND

George Gelder returned from his three months' stay in England last week. Mr. Gelder, who was farming south of Belmond last year, went to England in February to visit his people. He states that conditions in England are much harder than most of us realize. Everything is higher in price excepting clothing and potatoes, both of which can be bought cheaper than in the States, the latter especially as Germany has shipped in great quantities and flooded the market. Average day laborer wages are a dollar, and with meat from 45 cents a pound up, that is an article of diet seldom found on the average table. A thousand-pound cow of butcher stock sells for one hundred fifty dollars.

JIM KENEFICK BACK

Jas. Kenefick came back to the old home town last Friday from Algona, where he has been taking treatment at his brother's, Dr. Kenefick's, hospital since he suffered a stroke recently. "Jim" is coming splendidly, is able to use all his limbs, and walks around unaided. He is staying at the Albin Tomson home. Jim's many friends are all glad to see him so much improved and to have him back in Belmond again.

DOINGS AT PARK TODAY

The Legion boys of Hancock county are staging a big picnic and reunion at Lake View Park, near Kanawha, today. The day is filled to the brim with various events, and a variety of attractions and stunts are on the program, including two good ball games and water sports, balloon ascension, and free acts. A dance will be held in the evening. A small admission fee will be charged.

FACTS TO REMEMBER—IOWA

Iowa,s annual apple crop is worth more than that of any of the Pacific or mountain states.

Iowa,s wool is worth more than California,s strawberries.

Iowa's honey is worth more than California's figs.

Iowa's corn is worth more than the annual products of all the gold mines in the United States. It is worth more than all the output of antracite coal in the United States. Again Iowa is worth more than all of Canada's or Argentina's wheat crop.

Iowa's egg production is worth more than all the oranges raised in the United States.

Iowa's hens produce more wealth each year than all of Colorado's mines.

Iowa's cattle are worth more than the entire tobacco crop of the United States.

Iowa has seven million head of cattle, including the largest herd of Whiteface cattle in the world.

Iowa has eleven million head of hogs.

Iowa has the second largest goldfish farm in the world.

Iowa has the prize winning sheep herds of the world.

Iowa is the second largest honey producing state in the Union, while its honey crop is valued more than that of any other state.

Iowa's horses are worth more than the cotton crop of any state, even Texas.

Iowa has 1,400,000 head of horses, including one-half of the Belgian horses raised in the country.

for service in European wars than any other state.

More persons in Iowa are ingaged in breeding purebred horses and cattle than in any other state.

Today Iowa breeds more Percheron horses than France, more Belgian horses than Belgium. Today Iowa breeds one-fifth of all Percheron horses in the United States, one-sixth of all the Shirs in the United States, one-fourth of all the Clydesdales in the United States, and one-half of all the Belgians in the United States.

The per capita wealth of Iowa is nearly twice as great as the per capita wealth of the United States. Iowa's per capita wealth is $3,345, while that of the United States is $1,965.

Iowa's soil produces moro wealth each year than all the gold mines of the world.

PEG AWAY CLUB MEETS

The girls' Peg Away club met with their mothers at District No. 6, Belmond township, Tuesday June 19, 1923. The mothers kindly assisted in making the dress forms for the girls, two being finished Tuesday, making a total of five forms in two meetings of the club. Nineteen were present at this meeting, which was called at two o'clock p. m. Refreshments were served at five.. The next meeting will be held at the home of R. D. Box, June 26. At this meeting Mr. Edwards and Mrs. Clark, chairman of girls' sewing committee, and her helpers will be present.

TEACHERS EXAMINATION

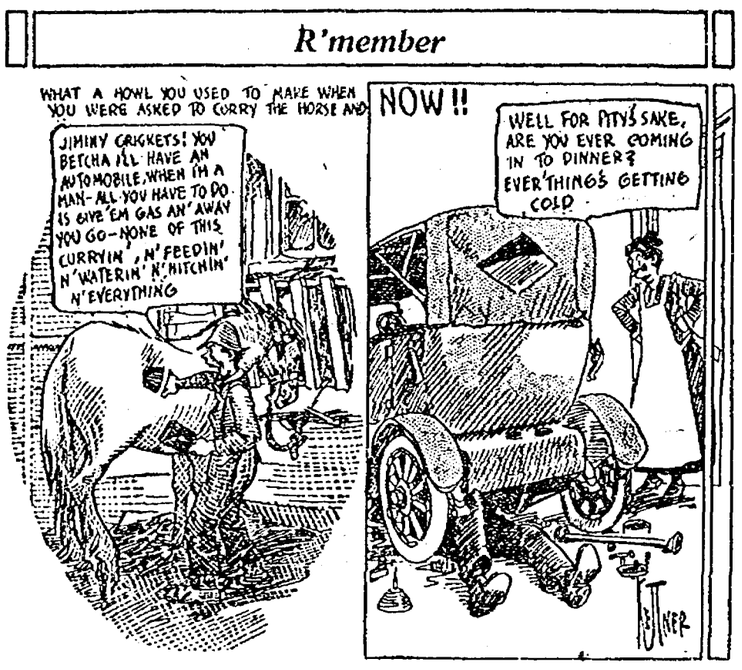
The Uniform County Teachers' Examination will be held in Clarion, June 27, 28, 29. Applicants must have had twelve weeks' of normal training, or have taught six months on a regular certificate. A year of college work will be accepted in lieu of the twelve weeks of normal training. Candidates writing for the first time should bring their certificates of normal school attendance; if a college student, a certified statement of a least one year's work.

Blanche Bock, Co. Supt.

NEW MANAGER IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC DOWS—GARNER

H. D. Mitchell, of the Iowa Falls Electric Co., was in Garner yesterday, and accompanying him was W. E. Klingaman who will move to Garner and be manager of the Dows—Garner Division of the Iowa Falls Electric Co.

They will remodel their office building at Garner plant and put in a complete stock of all electric consuming devices. Mr. Klingaman comes from Vinton and will move here as soon as he can get a suitable house to live in.—Signal.



ENJOYABLE MEETING AT HENN HOME WEDNESDAY

The Pleasant township Farm Bureau meeting held at the Jacob Henn home last Wednesday evening was a very enjoyable affair, and was attended by about 250 people. A splendid program was given by the children of that township, under the capable direction of Miss Grace Gartz. The complete program for the evening was as follows—

Recitation—He Didn't Pass, Herman Frohling.
Instrumental Solo—After Sunset, Louella Loats.
Recitation—Mistress Mouse, Velma Braner.
Recitation—How Many, Mildred Frohling.
Duet—Come With Me, Cecelia Finn, Grace Frohling.
Recitation—Mamma's Little Darling, Erma Frohling.
Talk—Supt. Guthrie.
Talk—County Agent Edwards.
Song—Amercia, Audience.

Ice cream was served after the program. These meetings are not limited to members of the farm bureau only, but are open to all, town as well as country. Attend the next one and you will thoroly enjoy every minute of it.

KANAWHA PASTOR TO ROWAN

Rev. George A. Osborn, pastor of the Methodist church at Kanawha, has resigned his position there and goes to Rowan, where he has accepted the pastorate of the Methodist church, formerly filled by Rev. Tomkinson, who went from Rowan to Clarion this spring.

DAIRY COW SALE.

Brown & McHatton, who are breeders of Jersey and Guernsey cows, of Illinois, will hold a sale at Belmond, Saturday afternoon of this week. They have some very fine milk cows, most of them being fresh with calves at side, and a few to be fresh, and some heifers. If you are interested in milk cows, look their offering over Saturday. The sale will start promptly at 1;30.

BILL WOLLE TO WED

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of William C. Wolle, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolle of Belmond, to Miss Vivian Down, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Down of Odebolt, which will take place at t he home of the bride on June 26th. Miss Down was a student at Morningside, where Mr. Wolle graduated and where, later, he was alumni secretary for the college. "Bill" has a host of true friends in Belmond who will wish him and his bride-to-be every good thing in life.

CITIES SHOW GOOD BALANCE

The towns of Humboldt and Storm Lake are in the same class as Eagle Grove, where they have a good sum on the right side of the ledger. Humboldt's financial statement shows a cash balance in the funds of $26,848. The town carries $8,000 each in bonds on the city hall and water works, and after retiring these would still have $10,000 to the good. A cut in taxes there is anticipated for next year.

Storm Lake's statement shows a balance of $57,000.

BELMOND TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU MEETING 27TH

The Belmond township Farm Bureau will hold a meeting on next Wednesday evening at the Oren Hanson home. Luick's orchestra will be a part of the excellent program arranged, and O. L. Varland will have charge of the singing. A good time is assured and all are invited to attend.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the church at 8 o'clock. Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the class meets at the church.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Sunday afternoon service in the Norwegian language at three o'clock. Sunday evening at eight o'clock the Young Peoples League has its meeting. Come to these services and take some one with you.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Sunday morning divine service in the Norwegian language at ten thirty. Come and take some one with you.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP

Professor Schoon from the Academy at German Valley, Ill. filled the pulpit Sunday during the absence of the Rev. A. H. Waalkes.

Cecelia Barry's music students gave a recital at the Barry home Friday evening.

Vida, Virgie, and Cloe Jenison, who have been attending school the past year, returned to spend the summer vacation at their respective homes.

The township Farm Bureau Social held at the J. F. Henn home last Wednesday evening was a great success in every way.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Riekens were called to Kelsey, Iowa by the death of Mrs. Riekens' brother, Krien De Berg.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Menke are the proud parents of a baby girl.

We are sorry to state that Fred Loats, who went to South Dakota for his health, is not improving very rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Smidt and daughter Minnie, Mr. and Mrs. John Halfpap and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Barker spent Sunday at the W. A. Gartz home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dorenkamp helped celebrate the 90th birthday of Mr. Dorenkamp's father last Sunday. He is making his home with his son John in Belmond.

W. S. PRITCHARD FAMILY WILL HAVE FINE NEW HOME

The W. S. Pritchard family are to have a fine new modern home on the sit of the old home on South Main Street. The old house will be divided and a part of it moved to the lots in the rear of the present home, and the other part moved to a vacant lot in the east part of town just north of the house now occupied by the John Pulfrey family. Work began Monday excavating the basement for the house in the rear of the present Pritchard home.

As soon as the old house is moved work will begin on the new home but just what they will build is yet undecided. The site is one of the best in Garner, and a fine new home will be a big improvement to south Main street.—Signal.

COURT HOUSE NOTES

Monitor—Albert Ohlson, the paroled convict whose escape from Gold field was mentioned in this paper a few weeks ago, returned to Goldfield Saturday night with a pal, who says his name is Frederick Lang and that he lives in Colorado. They were driving an Essex coach with a Wisconsin number, which later proved to be stolen. About closing time they drove up to one of the oil stations for some gas and tendered a large bill in payment of the same. The safe was locked for the night, and the manager wisely refused to open it, so he accepted what change they had and they drove away. The nightwatch, L. Carter, recognized Ohlson and started towards the car when the occupants fired on him. He returned the fire, but no one was hurt. The next day the Essex coach was found by the side of the road. to the west of Troy township, in Humboldt county. It was taken in charge by the sheriff of that county, who notified Sheriff Lang on Monday. He sent Deputy Johnson to Eagle Grove and with the officers of that city and from Goldfield, Ohlson and Lang were soon located in Greenwood park and placed under arrest. They are now in the county jail held on the charge of assault with attempt to commit murder. They are wanted in Wisconsin for the theft of the car and Ohlson must also answer for breaking his parole.

T. H. Kenefick of Eagle Grove has began action in the district court to secure judgment against J. T. Johnson for the sum of $402.68 on his past due promissory note.

Judge Clock of Hampton held an adjourned session of court at Clarion, Tuesday, to dispose of some unfinished business continued from the April term of court.

All parties who have paid the usual county fee on the amount involved in foreclosure of mortgage sales since the new law went into effect, March 15, will now have the same refunded by the county. Heretofore the county collected two per cent on the first $500, 1 per cent on the remainder up to $5,000, and one-half per cent on sums in excess of that amount.

THIEVES AT CLARION

The Pyramid Lumber Co. office at Clarion was entered by thieves last week, and an attempt made to crack the safe. The robbers were unsuccessful, however, and for their trouble secured a few cents in loose change and a few stamps. Entrance was gained to the office by breaking in two windows. The theives had a lunch while in the office, the remnants of some limburger cheese sandwiches being found. It is thought they were probably local parties.

DOING MUCH BUILDING

If the amount of building now going on in Iowa is any criterion prosperity seems to have located in this state. April building contracts in Iowa amounted to $9,801,800 according to the F. D. Dodge corporation, Chicago. This was an increase of 86 per cent over April 1922. The total construction started during the first four months of 1923, has amounted to $21,044,300, which is seven per cent less than the amount for the corresponding months in 1922. Last month's record included $4,896,500, or 46 per cent for public works and utilities; $1,685,500, or 18 per cent for residential buildings and $1,262,000, or 13 per cent for industrial buildings.

RUSSIAN CONDITIONS BAD

A Clarion man who has a brother in Russia, received a letter from him a few days ago. The letter said conditions in Russia were terrible. The brother is engaged in relief work in the Bolshevik nation, and declares that shiploads of supplies were held up for weeks because the authorities at one of the ports discovered some woman had slipped a bible into a package of supplies. Fearing other bibles might be smuggled in, the port of ficials searched every package. That sounds very strange, but the writer declared it true.

The Clarion man says his brother always advises against publication of the letters, he writes, saying that such publication would eventually react against his work, and hamper it.—News.

Let's Have Farm Bureau Picnic Here

Biggest Picnic Of History Can Be Brought To Belmond By Little Effort.

IS ALL UP TO THE TOWN

Does Belmond want the Wright county Farm Bureau picnic? The Farm Bureau of the county has requested the various towns of the county to speak up and see whether they can handle the crowd and take care of the exhibits. All the club exhibits of the club members are to be shown at this picnic, which will be the biggest yet. The town having the picnic will be required to furnish certain things, but they are all easily furnished, and the entertainment of this picnic should be seriously considered by Belmond. The Farm Bureau committee in charge will meet with representatives of the towns next Friday to settle the place.

Let's have it here.

CHARLES EARL JENISON

Charles Earl, eldest son of Joseph and Alvina (Sprague) Jenison, was born October 14, 1851, in Wabash, Wabash county, Indiana, and came to Belmond, Wright county, Iowa, with his parents in the year 1856. He was married to Kate A. Pierce, daughter of Hanibal and (Charlotte Pierce, on November 14, 1878. After spending the first few years of their married life in Belmond they moved to a farm five miles northeast of Belmond where they resided for two years, moving back to Belmond in 1895, where they have since made their home

Last November he was taken sick with stomach trouble that later developed into pernicious aenemia from which he had been a patient sufferer until death relieved him on Sunday, June 17, 1923, at the age of 71 years 8 months and 3 days.

Mr. Jenison was a quiet, unassuming man, always ready to speak a good word for everyone, and will be greatly missed by all. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, six brothers, William, George, Edgar, Burton, Oscar of Belmond, and Russell of Ft. Dodge; two sisters, Mrs. F. F. Meacham and Mrs A. J. Nihoof of Belmond, besides many other relatives and friends. One sister, Mrs. T. T. Jewell of Albia, having preceded him in death.

Charley Jenison has been a part of this community from its very beginning; he has watched its growth and expansion, its developement and its increasing wealth. A mild mannered man of non-agressive habit he has not figured prominently in public affairs but his life has been one of quiet steady growth with the community. He counted no one other than friend. While his passing will not compell many changes in the community life, yet he leaves no enemy and none who knew him that does not regret his going.

LEGION CONDEMNS K. K. K.

The Geo. A.. Aldinger post of the American Legion at Hampton has published a resolution condemning the burning of a cross by the K. K. K. on the lawn of the Catholic priest there recently. The resolution is as follows—

"We the members of George A. Aldinger Post No. 183, of the American Legion, of Hampton, Iowa, unanimously condemn the action of the parties who burned a cross on Chaplain Behan's lawn on Friday night, May 11, 1923, as an unfair and cowardly act. And we further unanimously endorse and commend Chaplain Behan as our comrade and as a friend whom we know to be 100 per cent American, a splendid citizen and force for good in this community."

AND NOBODY KICKED

The city council of Eagle Grove met recently to hear any objections to the proposed surfacing of the paving there, and had only themselves for company. Not a single tax payer showed up to register a kick, and the council then passed the resolution and will now advertise for the bids, the contract to be let on the 26th of June.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance; $2.00 on time.
$2.00 per year outside state of Iowa

CIRCULATION OVER 1,000

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents.)

1923 JUNE 1923

SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

Editorials

Don't let anyone try to tell you that the band doesn't draw the crowds. Just refer them to last Saturday evening, when we had the biggest crowd since our last celebration.

One very annoying thing about the concert Saturday evening was the noise made by the boys shooting firework. There is just cause for the many complaints made about this by people Saturday evening. At times the softer strains of the music could not be heard twenty feet from the band. Parents should assist the officers in avoiding this next Saturday evening.

The three hundred soldiers to be here Saturday will be a rare sight to many people. Despite the fact that we went thru the greatest war of history, hundreds of people have never seen a large body of troops. To them it should bring home the immenseness of the American army when it was in full swing in 1918.

The big question to be decided at present is—where are you going the Fourth?

The Clarion Monitor tells of some men drinking hootch only ten feet feet from an officer of the law, in a wash room, there. The Monitor does not say that the men were taken into custody. There is one of the reasons why some folks say that prohibition is a failure. It is not prohibitoin that is a failure, but the enforcement of it.

At the robbery of the Pyramid Lumber Co. at Clarion last week, the officers found the remains of limburger sandwiches where the robbers had lunched. They ought to secure some strong evidence on that case.

WORSE TO COME

Having been served with a wedge of some yellow substance, the husband poked at it cautiously with his fork, and finally turned it over heavily on his plate, asking;

"What is this?

"Pound cake. What of it?" the wife replied.

"Nothing," said the husband. I thought my section weighed more than a pound. What are you going to make next?"

"Marble cake," said the wife defiantly.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Belmond Local News

Joe Scott, who has been visiting friends in Kansas, is expected home today. Joe drove down, accompanied by George Mortimer, and when they arrived in Kansas ran into the heavy rains recently there, which flooded the country and caused so much damage. Joe was compelled to leave his car in Kansas and finish the trip by rail.

Boys and Girls—Buy your fire works at the Gift Shop, two doors west of the Theatre.

Miss Violet Starnes, who is employed at Chicago, is spending a few days here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Starnes.

Wm. Purdy and daughter, Rena were visiting friends at Rowan, Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Elder entertained Monday afternoon in the honor of her nieces, Mrs. Spooner from Storm Lake, and Mrs. Patterson from San Marcos, Texas. They were formerly Maud and Lucille Thompson. The guests were old friends and classmates of the two girls.

The Progress club held their annual picnic at the Tyrrell Park Tuesday afternoon. The children of the club members were the guests.

Mr. and Mr. Herman Schultz attended a family reunion of the Schultz family at Webster City, Sunday.

The Delphian club members held their annual picnic at the W. T. Gfeller home Monday evening. After the picnic supper the evening was spent in games. The following guests were present; Miss Ruth Klemme, Miss Jaleen Flynn, Miss Slavata from Cedar Rapids, and Mrs. Lee Johnson from New York.

Mrs. O. R. Patterson of San Marcos, Texas, arrived last week for a few weeks visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Thompson.

The Goldfield Auxilliary of the American Legion invited all the Auxilliares of the County to a picnic dinner Yesterday. Ten or fifteen Belmond members were planning to attend. The picnic was to be held in the Goldfield Park.

H. F. Reif of Meservey was a brief business caller here on Monday.

Carl Steffens of Rowan was a visitor here on Tuesday afternoon.

Martin Thoe returned Monday of this week from his vacation trip to Wisconsin, where he has been the past ten days.

Estray Notice—Broke into my enclosure in Section 24, Belmond township, Wright county, Iowa, one Red and White Heifer, aged about one year. Owner is requested to prove property, pay charges, and take anima away. Dated June 15, 1923.—Geo. P. Hardwick. 313*

In order to cose the estate, I offer for sale the Mrs. Nellie Lein house and lot located north of the Great Western R R. tracks in Belmond, Iowa. Paries interested submit bids to me at Kanawha, Iowa.
OLE T. RIKANSRUD,
Executor. 314c.

The ast meeting of the Auxiliary until next fall will be held on next Tuesday evening.

Miss Dolly Wilson, formerly editor of the Meservey Register, was a brief caller here Monday, enroute to Dows where she will be employed in the Advocate office.

W. C. White of Fort Dodge was a business caller in in town the first of the week.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North
Passenger, daily ..... 8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily ..... 11:46 a m.
Combination, daily ..... 2:15 p. m.
Going South
Passenger, daily ..... 6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily ..... 1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily ..... 11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.
Combination, daily ..... 8:30 a. m
Going East
Combination, daily ..... 3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North
Motor, daily ..... 10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S ..... 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S ..... 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight ..... 7:55 a. m.
Going South
No. 11, pass., D & S ..... 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S ..... 3:40 p. m.
Motor ..... 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight ..... 8:20 p. m.

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. Ole T. Rikansrud and daughter Miss Thelma went to New Richland, Minn. last Saturday and on Monday attended the wedding of their son Thorleif and Agnes Eleanora Christensen.— Reporter.

Friday, June 8th was the night set by the council to hear remonstrances on the proposed paving resurfacing, and not a single property owner objected. The council then passed the next resolution and will advertise for bids on the proposed work. The contract will be let, if a satisfactory bid is received, on the night of June 26th. At this meeting the bids will be opened and the successful bider will then be privilged to start the work, so badly needed on our main business street. —Eagle Grove Eagle.

Tuesday evening of this week was the first appearance of the local band in their summer concerts. The crowd that assembled was one of the largest ever in our city on band concert evening. In order to get a place to park, it was necessary for some to get well into the country Our band blossoms out this season greatly improved, and is an organiztion of which we are all proud.—Garner Signal.

Miss Hazel Thomas of Belmond visited here from Saturday until Tuesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lawton. —Reporter.

Mayor Pritchard shipped several cars of cattle from his Belmond farm that Henry Larson lives on and accompanied the shipment to Chicago Saturday evening.—Leader.

Mrs. Ed Eiler spent Tuesday at Belmond with her sister Mrs. G. C. Johnson. —Monitor.

Miss Nellie Pierce spent the first of the week with Mrs. C. A. Templeton, while enroute to Belmond.—Monitor.

EVERYBODY'S HAPPY!

Brother's lost a button from his $14 shirt.
Mother's sewing fasteners on her $40 skirt.
Sister nice and comfy in her $80 fur.
And father works like sixty for his $30 per.
—Dean-Hickey Imprint.

Pop corn that is fresh and covered with real creamery butter; Fresh roasted Jumbo Peanuts—the big fellows—and smiling service are what you get at the Stand on the Corner—Wm. Dempsey's. Have you tried it?

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

THE LITTLE OLD TOWN

I love to live in a town like this --just a little old town like this; where the jessamines bloom along the way, and the birds sing songs the livelong day, and the glorious sun, with a genial kiss, makes it good to live in a town like this.

I love to live in a town like this --just a little old town like this, where you know the names of the folks you meet, though they happen to live on a different street, and if they move their faces you miss, in a little old town like this.

I love to live in a town like this --just a litle old town like this; where every anguish in one's breast is felt and shared by friends the best, who share the gall and share the bliss, in a little old town like this.

I love to live in a town like this --just a little old town like this; where neighbors watch by the loved one's bed and weep with you o'er the bier of the dead, and forgive every deed that was done amiss--in a little old town like this.

Then let me live in a town like this--just a little old town like this; where your foe of today is your friend of tomorrow, who is eager to bear the cross of your sorrow, and make it as light as the morning mist in a little old town like this;

Yes, let me die in a town like this--just a litle old town like this; and o'er my grave let the roses creep to brighten the spot where my poor bones sleep, when my soul has winged the deep abyss and I rest forever--in a little old town like this.-Ex.

GOODYEAR Service Station

GOODYEAR takes the highest-grade, long-staple cotton, of unusual tensile strength, and builds up the carcass of the Goodyear Cord Tire by the exclusively Goodyear method of group-ply construction. The result is a tire that lasts longer in any service and is the most economical you can buy.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

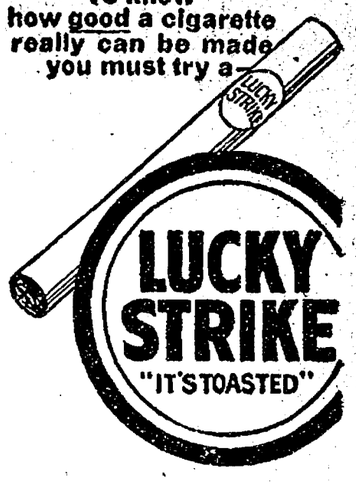
GOODYEAR

SEND SNAKES TO AMES —NEW PROF. WANTS 'EM

There is a new professor at Ames, his name is Dr. J. E. Guthrie, and he is ordered to study the snake life of Iowa. He asks that if you have killed an unusual specie of snake, he would like to have you send its carcass to him for inspection. He wants to find out all about the kinds of snakes there are in Iowa.

Of course he only wants to know about that brand of snakes that crawl on their bellies. He isn't interested in the human snakes that steal chickens from the widowed and orphaned, the peddlers of hootch, the fellows who put sand in the sugar and the rest of that sort.

To know how good a cigarette really can be made you must try a—



The Car That Resists AGE

THE Willys-Knight motor car is the one vehicle you hear talked of with impressive enthusiasm after the owner has driven it 50,000 miles.

It is the Willys-Knight motor that gives this age-resisting vitality to this motor car which combines dependable, unfailing economy of operation with a true elegance of riding comfort.

In the Willys-Knight motor, metal cylinder sleeves, moving one within the other like sections of a telescope, slide up and down noiselessly on a film of oil ---without friction or wear.

Thus you have a motor with no valves to grind, no delicate mechanism to get out of order, no clashing, hammering, wearing parts, no cams, no tappets, no springs that wear out, no expense to speak of on the road. Thus owners say that the Willys-Knight motor actually improves with use.

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

HELLO!

You Renter with $500 or $1,000---You Land Owner with $1,000 or $10,000.

We have the farms---150 of them---in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas. Some first class exchanges---what have you to offer?

Let's Boost A Little

Tell me not in mournful numbers that the country's on the "bum;" rouse up from your peaceful slumbers, get out, buy, and make things hum.

The past is gone; you can't call one moment back; so let's go to work and make things hit on high. Get out your wallet and let's go.

We sell the earth and all it's belongings. Just give us a chance.

Truly yours,

WOLLE LAND AGENCY
Over Griesy's
Belmond, - Iowa

Are You Going On A Vacation?

Do you want to go off for a couple of weeks, where it's cool, where the fish are biting good and the water is inviting? Are you going?

If you have been keeping up a savings account, you can. If you haven't---why not begin now, so that you can take that trip later?

THINK IT OVER!

We will be glad to help you. Our service is at your service.

5 per cent On Time Deposits

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

FARM BUREAU NOTES

FARM BUREAU
-- Gilt Club Members Hear Quist --

Members of the Purebred Gilt club of Wright county met with J. S. Quist, assistant state club leader, at the county agent's office last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Quist's mission in the county was to go over the plans of the Purebred Gilt club with the members so as to outline the work for the year and to give helpful suggestions for feeding care. The members of this club are making great plans for exhibiting the gilts at the county exhibit next August.

The boys and girls of Wright county are proud of the twenty-two gilts which are being fed and fitted for the county club exhibit. Most of the youngsters have high class purebred gilts and with proper care and feed they should be rounded into shape for winners at the club exhibit. The best gilts which are shown at the club exhibit will be taken to the state fair along with the baby beeves and poultry which will be shown at the same time.

All boys and girls who are members of the clubs of the county are looking forward with considerable interest to the county club exhibit because a liberal list of prizes is being arranged for the winners The boys and girls who have taken active part in the club work this season will join their fathers and mothers in the big picnic which is being made part of their exhibit this year.

Pleasant Farmers Hold Social

The J. F. Henn home, three and one-half miles northeast of Belmond, was the scene of a lively community social last Wednesday evening when the farmers of Pleasant township met for the postponed meeting of the township farm bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. Henn should be commended for the splendid spirit of hospitality which they have always shown towards the people of Pleasant township in throwing open their home for such community gatherings. They have always taken active part in the activities of the farm bureau in their community. Miss Grace Gartz, teacher of the Center school, was in charge of the meeting and should be commended for the interesting program which she arranged among the school children.

Superintendent W. J. Guthrie of the Belmond schools, gave an interesting and inspiring address at this community social. Mr. Guthrie reminded the Pleasant farmers of the necessity of organization and the closest cooperation in order to obtain results. All farmers of this community are agreed that Mr. Guthrie is a student of world problems and that he is entirely familiar with the agricultural conditions and problems of the community in which he lives. This address was followed by refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake.

Junior Judges Work at Myer's Farm

Ten of the boys who are taking active part in the junior livestock judging work for this season met with the county agent at the O. R. Meyers' farm last Thursday afternoon, June 14th.

Through the kindness of Mr. Meyers, three classes of draft horses were arranged for the boys and they succeeded in getting a good work-out on the judging of draft horses. Mr. Meyers nas some splended specimens of the Percheron draft horse type on his farm and the boys are fortunate in having this class of horses to work on.

All boys who are taking part in the juging work will be given opportunity to enter the individual livestock judging contest at the state fair this year. Those who make up the Wright County Junior Live stock Judging team will be selected from those who are most regular in attendance and most efficient in the judging work. Those who took part in the judging contest at the Meyers' farm are as follows, Lynn Thompson, Will Paul, Fred Moellering, Arno Meyers, Leo Woodley, Duane Bingham, Laurel Hill, Melvin Buck, Milan Buck and Everett Woodley.

Blaine Social at Toyne Home

Farmers of Blaine township met at the Frank Toyne home last Thursday evening for the regular monthly meeting of the Blaine Township Farm Bureau. The beautiful Toyne farm home was thrown open to this group of interested people and everyone who attended reports a lively good time.

Director T. P. Simpson was in charge of the meeting and opened with a short talk in which he explained the necessity of monthly meetings and urged the closest cooperation among the farmers of the community in work on projects which are of interest to all. A short program was given in connection with this meeting. Miss Toyne, who happened to be home on vacation from college, gave two lively readings. Other numbers consisted of recitations and songs were given. This was followed by a short business session in which final plans were laid for the Blaine township picnic which is scheduled for next Thursday, June 21st.

All farmers of Blaine township are now looking forward to the township picnic which will be held at the Dows community park next Thursday. J. F. Coupe, assistant secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation at Des Moines, has been secured as the speaker of the occasion and will, no doubt, bring a great message to the Blaine township farmers. The committee in charge of the picnic have promised a program filled with plenty of sports, good music, a good speech and plenty of picnic eats.

County Picnic Committee Meets

A meeting of the committee on arrangements for the county-wide picnic-club exhibit was held at the county agents office last Saturday evening when plans were made for holding the joint picnic-club exhibit August 22nd.

All committees and subcommittees for planning and organizing will be appointed sometime this week and the final plans for this county-wide affair will be completed so that the program can be announced in a short time. The place of the picnic has not been decided definitely as yet but some of the towns of the county are biding strong for this big gathering and some liberal inducements have been made by them for having this picnic held in one of th towns of the county. All farmers seem to be agreed that wherever the picnic is held it will be well attended because it is being planned for a time of the year when harvest work will be completed and especially because of the fact that the boys and girls will exhibit their products.

John W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation at Chicago, who has been secured as the speaker of this occasion is an Iowa product and, according to Mr. Coverdale, is pleased to have opportunity to come back to the Hawkeye state. He is an exceptional speaker of wide experience and will have a real message on the activities of the farm bureau as a national organization to bring to the farmers of Wright county.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Stor age Battery Co.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205
T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 — BELMOND, IOWA, JUNE 21, 1923. — No. 13.

RELIABLE MACHINES

McCormick and Deering binders are reliable machines. Your father and probably your grandfather depended on McCormick and Deering binders to harvest their crop. Each year more and more McCormick and Deering binders are being used, showing that your forefathers' faith was well placed. In lightness of draft, ease of operation and accuracy in getting all the grain under varying conditions, these binders have made good under the most severe tests of time. We have binders set up for your inspection. Come in and look over the latest improvements and talk with us about your harvesting problems. We are here to help you.

A Warm Weather Helper.

It won't be long until real warm weather will be with us again. Then's when you will appreciate a helper—One that will do many of the odd jobs around the farm at a minimum of expense. Such a helper is the International kerosene engine. The International helps the whole family and knows no limit to its day when you have work to do. It will pump your water, saw the wood, wash the clothes, separate the milk, grind the feed, shell the corn, churn the butter, and do many other odd jobs about the place if given an opportunity—all at a cost of less than three cents an hour—and we'll say that's going some. Come in and look over the International hard-working kerosene engine.

Three more Primrose Cream separators sold last week. Geo. C. Johnson, John Wirtz and I. N. Soma are the new owners. Ask them.

ARE YOU HOT?

We will bet you are in the fields these days, and—what about the wife who has to stand over a hot range all day? Hadn't you better buy her that New Perfection Oil Range that you promised her? We have all sizes in stock.

Taxes and death may be certain, but they are not similar. You can do all your dying at one time and get thru with it.

AND REMEMBER— Our prices are from 10 to 21 per cent below the market on all farm machines as long as we have a machine left purchased under old contracts.

Dairy Cow Sale

--AT--

BELMOND, IOWA

At Ball Park, across from Rock Island Stock Yard

Saturday, June 23, 1923

At 1:30 O'clock P. M.

30 Jerseys, Guernseys and Holsteins

This offering consists of fresh cows with calves at side; also a few close springers and heifers.

They are all T. B. tested and will be sold on a re-test.

If in need of a good family or dairy cow you cannot afford to miss this sale.

They are from 2 to 6 years and are in good milking condition.

These cows will be in Ball Park at Belmond two days before the sale. Come and look them over.

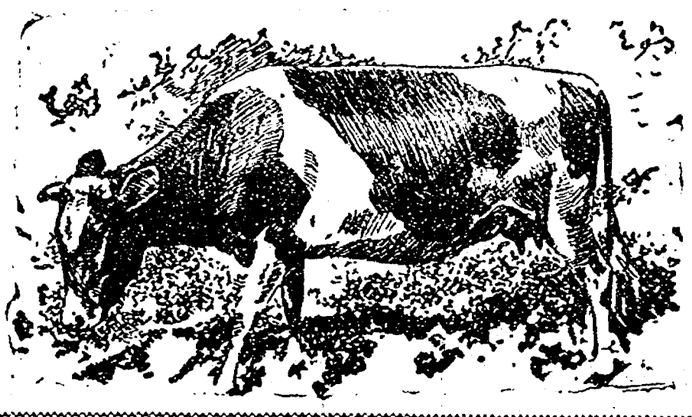
Bring your bucket and try your cow. Free milk to everybody.

With cheap feed and high price of butter fat this is your chance to make money.

Don't forget the time and place, and come and see a real bunch of milk cows.

Ladies are invited to attend this sale.

Sale held rain or shine.



TERMS: 6 months' time on bankable notes. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

BROWN & McHATTON

OF ILLINOIS

Owners and Breeders of Dairy Cows

Clerk---Belmond Savings Bank. Auctioneers---T. D. Rankins, P. N. Gibson

White Produce Weekly

VOL. 1 — NO. 2

A BIG TIME SATURDAY

Saturday will be a big day here again as you know the Second Batalion of the Third U. S. Infantry will spend that night here. They are marching from Ft. Snelling to Des Moines. There will be about 300 men, with their wagon escort and about 50 animals. Be here and see them come in; it will be a sight that you won't forget But remember, while you are watching their activities let us handle your cream, eggs or poultry in that pleasing, satisfying manner that we maintain.

And a band concert Saturday night too. Don't forget to bring the whole family.

We do business every day in the week, and Wednesday nights also, so don't think that Saturday night is the only time we are open.

We want eggs as usual and are paying the highest cash prices

We will do for you just what we are doing for others, so don't have any fear of "taking a chance" on WHITE, as you know White Treats You White.

Phone 272 Belmond and 21 Goodell

"That WHITE Boy"

Editor and Manager

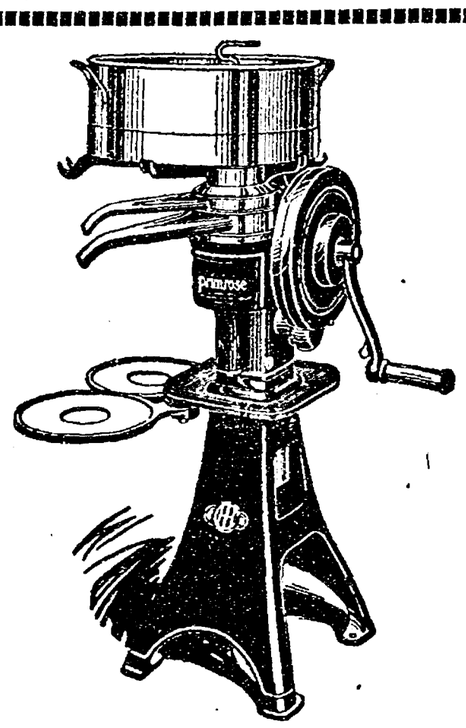
MESERVEY SECTION

For Sale—My property in the north part of town. See Mrs. P. Schove, Meservey, Iowa. 29tfc

A number from here attended the Mission Feast at the Reformed church in Alexander last Wednesday.

The Misses Marie Fischer, Irene Guth, Viola Lauster and Herman Fischer Jr. returned home fron Naperville Ill. last Wednesday for the Summer vacation.

Mrs. A. E. Muller was a Mason City caller last Wednesday.



Better be safe than be sorry. Buy the Primrose, the universal Separator, and wear a CONTENTED SMILE

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

for Economical Transportation

Chevrolet!

You Can See the Difference

ASK THE FIRST 10

Owners of Chevrolets you see, what they think of the car they own---

Then Use Your Own Judgment

For Sale By

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

A Farmer's Capital

---is the sum of his net available resources--plus his credit.

His Banker is thus a contributor of capital, and a genuine factor in the Farmer's success.

The true relation between Banker and Farmer implies good faith, full information and co-operation.

We welcome the accounts of Farmers and business firms upon this basis, and assure you that we will meet you half way.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Mrs. Mary Butz visited at Mason City several days last week.

H. W. Hulsebus and Miss Daisy Clark of Mason City were callers at the S. Hulsebus home last Wednesday evening.

Why Not Have A Boiled Dinner?

It will make a very pleasing change as well as prove economical.

We also have the best quality hams and bacon, and remember we carry a complete assortment of cheese and sausages. We always have good butter on hand.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

L. B. Hulsebus was a Rockwell and Mason City caller last Wednesday P. M.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

We are still here,

altho' you have not heard from us in ad form for several weeks. Have been too busy checking new invoices and getting the goods ready for your approval, to write ads.

We are showtng new goods every day however, and invite you to call and see them before you buy elsewhere.

Munsingwear and Hosiery selling fast, so better stock up while we still have sizes.

As you know, our Grocery Department is ever filling up with fresh clean stock, and our motto "Quality First" holds good.

Yours for fair treatment,

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, - Iowa

Quality Building Material

ALL KINDS

Drain Tile Hard and Soft Coal

Building Blocks and Floor Blocks

Lime and Cement Steel and Cedar Posts

Steel Braces Woven Wire

Galvanized and Painted Gates---priced right

Roof Windows for your hog house--let the sun shine in.

Screen Doors and Window Screens

Porch Screens made to order---keep the flies out.

Iowa Automatic Hog Door--the only door for your hog house

WE ARE AT YOUR SERVICE AT ALL TIMES

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

L. B. Hulsebus motored to Webster City last Thursday for a short visit at the Earl Boughten home, returning Friday evening accompanied by his wife, who had visited there since Tuesday.

Keith Weaver who attends school at Council Bluffs came here last Wednesday to spend the Summer vacation with his mother.

C. J. Wendell and family and Mrs. Pease and son Lindley and Miss Mabel Kirk enjoyed a day's outing at Clear Lake last Thursday.

Mrs. Barbara Geitz of Belmond spent several days last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Gealow and family

W. F. Butz and daughter Irene were Belmond business callers last Friday afternoon.

Irwin Nissen, Frank Guth, Irv. Bier and W. J. Hartfelder were business callers at Mason City last Monday.

Otto and Ernie Strasburg departed last Monday for a two weeks fishing trip at Lake Mille Lac, Minn.

Joe Suntken was transacting business at the County seat last Monday.

C K. and K. K. Pals with their families motored to Allison and Austinville last Sunday to spend the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming were callers at the Ed. Foss home last Thursday evening

Frank Hafferman and C. Bier were business callers at Hampton on Saturday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith, and family who have resided in Ft. Atchinson Wis., for the past few years, are moving to Belmond, where Mr. Smith has a position in the Candy Kitchen. They spent the latter part of last week visiting relatives here, while waiting for their household goods to arrive.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kolb visited at the Nels Meyers home in Thornton on Sunday p. m.

Word was received here Sunday of the death of Lee Lewis at a Mason City hospital. Mr. Lewis was well known here and his many friends will be grieved to hear of his sudden demise, only a few having known of his last illness, altho he had been in poor health for a number of years. We understand the funeral services will be held at Thornton, where interment will also be made. We have not been able at this writing to get particulars in detail.

Miss Dolly Wilson called on friends here between trains Monday. We did not hear where her place of residence is at this time.

H. F. Reif and Mel Smith were business callers at Clarion, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Studer of Waseca, Minn., accompanied their daughter, Mrs. H. Casebeer here last Friday, the latter having been visiting them for about ten days. They returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer, Sr., and three chidren and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Raecker and Jeanette motored to Ackley last Sunday p. m. to hear the men's glee club of Northwestern college, Naperville. From there they went to Abbott to make an over night visit at the Rev. H. Raecker home.

A. E. Muller and family were visiors at the Cliff Brogan home in Garner, Sunday.

The Sunday School picnic of the Evang. church will be held at Twin Lakes on Tuesday, June 26. All are welcome.

Mrs. M. A. Smith, Harry and Esther departed last Monday via Clarion to Chicago, where they will visit the formers daughter. From there they plan to go to Los Angeles for a visit at the home of a sister, to remain indefiniely.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Boelman are rejoicing over the arrival of a boy at their home since Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kolb, Mrs. Irv. Nissen and Mrs. Chas. Waddingham were Belmond callers Saturday.

Rev. Schlesselman, H. F. Reif, Harm Groen and F Hafferman were those to respond to an invitation of the Iowa Falls Electric Co. to spend Tuesday inspecting their plant, etc. The business men here were all bidden, tho only a few were able to be presen. They were given free entertainment.

A. J. Nissen was a Thornton business caller Tuesday.

Miss Selma Fischer left Tuesday for her home in Wisconsin, after a year's stay at the H. Fischer home. The King's Daughters and friends S. S. classes of the Evang. church held a farewell party for her at the F. C. Sprau home last Monday eve.

Mrs. Emil Vos of Germany, who was a guest at the S. Hulsebus home last week left last Friday for Ackley for a visit with relatives.

GOOD ROADS IMPROVEMENT

Good roads improvement in Iowa will be discussed from every angle at the initial general meeting of the Iowa Good Roads Association, which has been called at Des Moines by the executive committee of the new organization for June 28.

This meeting will be open to all persons interested in the improvement of the Iowa highways. The new association, according to President H. B. Allfree of Newton, hopes to put an end to the bitter controversies which have existed in Iowa for several years between those interested in the improvement of the secondary road system, and those who have favored an intensive improvement of the primary roads.

"The Iowa Good Roads Association is in favor of the improvement of the entire road system of the state of Iowa, including both primary and secondary roads, in a manner that every part of such road system will satisfactorily carry at the least cost, the traffic thereon," says Mr. Allfree.

"We believe that sufficient progress has been made along these lines already so as to make it possible for all factions in the past road fights to get together to get together and agree to co-operate in forwarding further improvements in the future.

"It is time for a better understanding on the part of advocates of the hard surfacing of heavily traveled roads of the farmer's viewpoint in the road question. It must be realized that there can be no sacrifice of the secondary roads in the interests of hard surfacing, and that hard surfacing must be done if at all as part of the general road improvement policy which considers all of the roads of the state and not merely the primary roads.

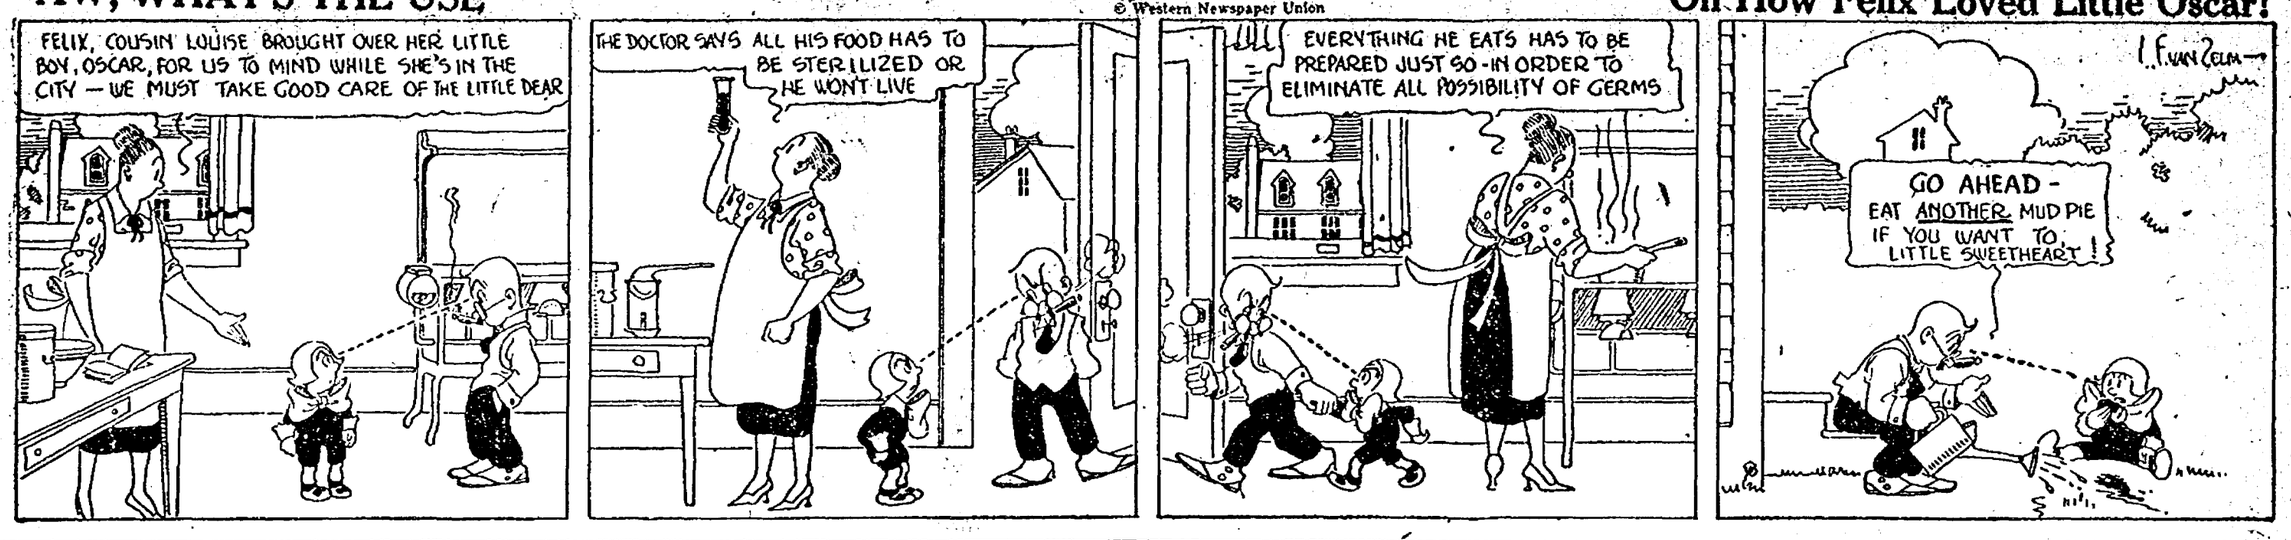
"It is becoming evident to all that some roads cannot be satisfactorily maintained without hard surfacing, and that graveling has some very decided limitations. It is also obvious that hard surfacing is not needed on all roads, and many counties are well satisfied with their gravel programs.

"Our meeting on June 28 in Des Moines will develope, we hope, a real good roads association for Iowa one which will devote itself to the improvement of all of our roads as rapidly as possible. The question of financing these roads, we feel, will be rapidly settled when public sentiment thruout the state has had an opportunity to crystalize upon a united drive for better roads.

All present good roads associations of the state have been invited to unite with the new organization. Inviations to attend the convention to be held June 28 have been extended to all members of the legislature, officials of the Farm Bureau, Farmers Union and other organizations of farmers, to county supervisors, auditors and engineers and to representatives of commercial organizations generally. The meeting will be open to the public.

MAKE NEW DISCOVERY

Richard Guyer of Cherokee, has made a discovery that may be of interest to housewifes. Rhubarb may be successfully dried, and when dried one pound shrinks to one ounce. Three tablespoonsful of water added will produce a quart of sauce the same quality as from the newly gathered plant. The process allows cheaper and more compact storage and shipment by mail without danger of loss from breakage.



ROWAN NEWS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Underdahl and little son of Rake visited over the week end with Rowan friends.

The Fred Aldinger home is nearing completion and Mrs. Aldinger, who has been with her parents at Morrstiown, Minn., is expected home this week,

Carl Steffens returned home last week from Iowa City, where he had been for medical treatment.

Keith Nevitt from Savannah, Ill, visited his mother, Mrs. Henry Azeltine last week. He is planning to take a four year's course in the Armour Text. school in Chicago.

Mrs. F. H. Fowler received word last Friday evening of the serious illness of their daughter, Mrs. Levi Johnson, at her home in Sioux Falls. Mrs. Fowler left Saturday to assist in caring for her

Miss Esther Fowler returned Sunday from Marengo, where she had been visiting her sister, Mrs. Milton Brown

Fred Hackley and Geo. Pritchett went to Cedar Rapids last week. While there Mr. Hackley ordered his new grocery stock.

Mrs Ed. Miller and daughter, Blanche, of Clarion, visited with Rowan friends several days last week.

Mr and Mrs. E. J. Margraitz and children of Waterloo visited at the Roy Hyde home last week.

Mrs J. R. Coulter returned last Friday from Iowa Falls, where she had been visiting at the home of her brother, Thomas Parland.

Messrs. F. B. Sheldon, A. C. Rietz and daughter Anna, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheldon attended the bankers convention at Ames last Wednesday.

G. W. Whitten and family visited Sunday at the C. R. Snow home in Goldfield. Miss Blanche Cleveland returned home with them to visit a few days with Miss Gladys Whitten.

Mrs. Lou Vennum and two children of Fort Dodge are expected by special train on the Great Western Wednesday of this week, boosting for the Fourth of July celebration in their city.

L. R. Fitz is in Minnesota on a ten days' business trip.

The Misses Esther Emerson and Frances Virden are attending the Young Peoples conference at Cedar Falls this week.

Rev. Osborne of Kanawha delivered two very able sermons at the M E. church last Sabbath morning and in the evening. Rev. Osborne expects to move his family here this week and take up the work of this charge, and also at Latimer. We are very glad to welcome this family into our midst and are expecting that his pastorate among the people will be very successful.

Wm. Purdy and daughter Rena of Belmond called on friends in Rowan Sunday.

Messrs. G. W. Whitten, Floyd Whitten and Gay Fletcher autoed to Allison last Friday, where Floyd and Gay secured the contract for hauling gravel between Allison and Greene.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lane from Manley visited Sunday at the Joe Thomas home.

Mrs. Etta Carr, who has been visiting the past month with her daughters at Latimer and Lyle, Minn reurned home last Wednesday accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Klusmeier of Lyle, and Mrs. Henry Miller and two children, who came over from Latimer to spend the day with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bailey, Sr., went to Belmond, Tuesday, from where they accompanied their son Fuller and wife to Minnesota.

Jay Knuths, who taught the past school year at Carrol, has returned home for the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs Clarence Lindsey drove to Iowa Falls, Sunday, and spent the day at the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas. Lamb.

Rev. Hardcastle of Iowa Falls was in town on Monday.

Chas. Aldinger and Lee Aldrich spent Sunday at Charles City.

Mrs. Ben Jergenson had her tonsils removed at the Steele hospital in Belmond, Monday.

Evelyn Whitten had a severe attack of tonsilitis the first of he week

C A. Church of Belmond spent the week end with relatives in Rowan.

Mrs. Bergsma came up from Dows Saturday to spend the day at the Albert Emerson home. She went from here to Belmond to visit relatives.

Erma Donahue of Forest City is a guest at the Fred Aldrich home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Linaweaver and little son left last week for Elma, Iowa, where Harvey will engage in hauling gravel.

Wm. Rietz of Waterloo spent several days last week with his brother Henry and other relatives here

Flet Howell came up Sunday from Des Moines, returning Monday, taking his wife and children back with him. Gay Fletcher took a truck load of their furniture down on the same day. Mr. Howell is building a new home there and the family is living in the garage until the completion of their house

The Jens Kjar family were visiting friends at Humboldt, Sunday.

Mrs. Esther Andrews went to Sheffield, Saturday, to spend some time at the home of her nephew, Glen Seha, who has been quite seriously ill.

Will Azeltine has begun the work on his house. He is building an addition on the house he purchased of Aug. Rietz some time ago.

Mrs. Ed. Riley has begun to harvest her mammoth straw berry crop. She has employed a number of pickers, who are picking several hundred quarts each day.

I wish to sell our household furniture at private sale. Phone 34.—Mrs. O. F. Braden.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gates and son from Pasedena, Cal., came Thursday and visited until the middle of this week at the Harold and Ormal Gates homes.

Mesdames Frost and Rice of Dows spent Friday at the F. B. Sheldon home.

Is your subscription paid up? If not, why not drop into the Independent office and square accounts? Pay in advance and save 25 per cent.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Remember Alexander has free moving picture show on the street every Saturday evening. Don't fail to see them. They are fine.

Theoore Beenen was a Sunday visitor with friends at Eldora

R. L. Carloek returned here Monday from Fargo, N. D., where he has been on a business trip.

Jerry DeFriese was visiting with relatives at Albert Lea, several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas of Iowa Falls were business callers at Alexander last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Larsen and daughter, Mrs. Clarence Smith, and two children were visiting relatives at Hampton last Saturday.

Miss Gertrude Berninghausen of Eldora came Sunday for a visit with friends at Alexander.

John Bell and daughter, Miss Nellie were callers at Belmond on Wednesday.

Leonard Arends was a business visitor at Latimer one day last week.

Mr. and Mr. Hilko Pals and son Ormal Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Hans Pals and children were callers at Mason City last Tuesday.

Cornelius Stoffer was a business caller at Belmond last Wednesday.

The Misses Esther and Velma Larsen spent the past week with relatives at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Misses Jessie, Nellie and Inez Bell, and Mrs Mabel Symens were among the callers at Dows last Friday.

Miss Edna Arends was a caller at Belmond between trains last Saturday.

Mrs. Grace Dirksen went to Mason City, Sunday, to visit her father, Mr. Suntken, who is in the hospital at that place.

Miss Lorene Aldinger of Hampton visited at the W. P. Aldinger home a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Arends and family visited with Glen Seney at the hospital at Mason City, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Muhlenbruch and baby of Iowa Falls visited at the Chris Standtlander home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arends and children were visitors at Mason City on Sunday.

Orvalle Houg of Dows was a caller at Alexander last Saturday.

L. C. Peters and Tenus Johnson left Monday morning on a fishing trip to Biglake, Minn.

Will Muhlenbruch has purchased a fine new Overland car.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield were Belmond callers last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and children were callers at Belmond on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leonard of Swaledale were in town Friday calling on friends and also attending to business matters.

The Ladie Aid society of the Methodist church will meet with Mrs A. L. Nelson next Wednesday, June 27. A large attendance is desired.

P. C. Murphy of Hampton was a business caller in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stoffer were callers at Belmond Saturday.

There will be a child welfare clinic held at the Alexander consolidated school house June 28. It will be held under the directiin of Miss Harriett Lee, Red Cross public health nurse, assisted by child welfare workers of the county.

Dr. John Prentice of Iowa City will examine all babies brought to the clinic under two years of age, and all children between two and six years old who are sick or have some abnormal condition. Phone your district welfare worker and make appointments any time between the hours of nine a. m. and three thirty p. m.

Work and Play.

We work because it is necessary to work in order to live. We play because it is necessary to give mind and body that relaxation which keeps them in condition for the performance of our daily labors.

When at work the wise man centers his mind and his energies upon that work to the exclusion of everything in the realm of play. It is this concentration of thought and action that enables men o accomplish things that stamp them as successful in life.

It is the same when the wise man plays. He puts the cares of business away from him for the time being, and enters whole-heartedly into that physical and mental exercise which develops the body and strengthens the mind and keeps him in condition to withstand the wear and tear of his hours of toil.

Never allow troubles to worry you, especally when they belong to the other fellow.

GOODELL NEWS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Mrs. Thada's little niece returned to Mason City last Wednesday with Arthur Savogue.

Mrs. Elmer Keinenberger has been on the sick list the past week.

Arthur Savogue, Mrs. John Savogue and Mrs. Reed picniced at Mason City last Wednesday.

Mr. Lane of Mason City started work on Mr. Sandberg's new shop June 12.

Warner Butts has moved his old house back and Dan Miller is excavating for his new house.

Miss Ina Ahrenkeil spent a few days last week with some friends at Iowa Falls.

Mrs. Conklin and Mrs. H. T. Miller met with their girls' club on last Thursday at the home of Mae Griggs

Elmer Schneider returned from Chicago, Thursday.

Carl Sandberg spent Sunday at home. Mrs. Okrueg has been very ill the past week.

Mr. Sandberg, daughter Edith and Rev. Miller autoed to Ames Friday an brought Carl home with them.

Eddie and Ethel Hughes of Garner called on Mrs. John Ahrenkeil last Sunday.

Mrs. Cloon of Charles City was in Goodell the past week at the funeral of her son, Earnest.

Master Richard Clark returned to his home in Garner last Wednesday.

John Suurballe of Garner drove to Ames on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Schneider visited relatives at Klemme on Saturday evening

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. H. T. Miller and John Miller accompanied Carl Sandberg to Ames on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jas. Patrick of Charles City and her two sons were in Goodell on Monday to attend the funeral of her brother Earnest.

The Childrens' Day exercises at the U. B. church were well attended on Sunday. The offering was $20.64.

Mr. Wellemeyer was in Goodell on business Monday

The body of Earnest Cloon arrived Monday morning from Butte, Montana, where he was accidently killed while working in a sewer ditch. Mrs. Cloon and child accompanied the body.

Death of Earnest Cloon

Earnest James Cloon was born at Hampton, Franklin county, Iowa, on Jan. 17, 1885, and died at Butte, Montana, June 5, 1923, age 38 years, five months and 18 days. His son, Marriam, died in 1907. In Oct. 1920 he was married to Willa Marie Tucker of Greenfield, Mo. He leaves to mourn his departure his mother, of Charles City, a sister, Mrs. James Patrick of Charles City, a brother, John, of Sanich, S. D., his wife and adopted child, besides other relatives and friends.

New Kind Of Auto

Raymond Keagle has manufactured an automobile which is run by a propeller direct from the engine. The car contains no gears and travels the same as an airplane except it runs on Mother Earth. A trial trip was made Sunday evening to Manly and took two gallons of gas to run 65 miles—the distance via Mason City If the envention is a success or can be made a success it will cut out a lot of machinery in a car that is costly and liable to breakage and much expense. Mr. Keagle has spent much time in trying to get the propeller arranged just right so that it will be a success and whether he reached the point of efficiency will be found out after a few trips have been made. The rate of speed is controled by the engine to which it is attached. It might be able to make one hundred miles an hour.—Titonka Topic.

The wise man knows and observes these necessary laws of nature, and get the substance of life. The foolish man observes them not—and toddles around in his own shadow.

By remembering that charity covers a multitude of sins we can readily a multitude of sins we can readily understand why some people are so overly generous.

Copyright by Underwood & Under wood, N. Y.

NEW LETTER SORTING DEVICE SPEEDS DISPATCH OF MAIL

What is it? A new mechanical contrivance designed to insure an early dispatch of mail has been installed in the Washington Post Office. No hand sorting of mail any longer. Five men at keyboards like this one operate the machine like a linotype machine and by the prsesure of two keys on the keyboard each letter in front of the operator is sent on its way to a particular cell or compartment, leaving before him the next letter in the stack. Thus mail for various states and cities is seg

The Greatest Busines In the Whole World

It's keeping house, and women conduct it. Every other business is subsidiary to this tremendous enterprise. In this bank the fact that waman is the manager of the greatest business is recognized. Special facilities are provided and a cordial invitation is extended to women to bring us their banking business.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

LOCALS

John Brooks and his mother spent Sunday at the Ray Brooks home at Clear Lake.

M. C. Madsen is quite ill again.

Tom Johnson, brother of J. N. Johnson died at his home in Madison S. Dak. last week.

Mrs. O. B. McGowan of West Union is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. U. Leinbach.

Mr and Mrs. Spooner and children of Storm Lake spend the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Thompson.

Mrs. Gene Curtis and children from Webster City are visiting friends and relatives here.

Tom Brooks who suffered a stroke of paralysis recently is improving very nicely.

Friend Bras from Ft. Dodge was here Monday.

Mrs. Mamie Smith of Ft. Dodge was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard, the first of the week.

For Potatoe Bugs use Paris Green or Arsenate of Lead.—Schultz Drug Co.

Louis Tracy left last Saturday for Minneapolis on a business trip. He will be gone some time.

Lenton Collins of Ft. Dodge, was an over Sunday visitor with his parents, Mr and Mrs. L. Collins. He is now employed on the Illinois Central railroad.

Theo. Buchanan left Sunday on a vacation and fishing trip to Gun Lake, Minn.

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

See the Bock Lumber Co., for low prices on barb wire and genuine American Field Fence. 24tfc

C. N. Resse has started pouring concrete for his new building, and is now putting in the foundation.

Adolph Meinders has started work on his new residence in east Belmond, just west of the Hogenson home. The house will be finished in pebble dash.

Art Cuppett came down from his farm in Minnesota Saturday night, to spend a few days here visiting on

While the town of Clarion is torn up with paving, the motorist who desires to reach points south can avoid the rough roads in the Clarion territory by going west of Belmond, past the St. Olaf church, and four miles beyond, where he will strike a graveled road leading to Holmes, and thence west and south. Only three miles of dirt road—from the church west—the balance gravel and smooth. This is the best route to Fort Dodge.

Harry Bohning has purchased a Dodge Sedan from the Motor Inn Co

Chas. Haupt is driving around in a new Dodge Sedan, purchased last week from the Motor Inn Co.

John Dorenkamp is the owner of a new Studebaker Sedan, purchased last week from the Motor Inn Co.

Mrs. Hamilton left last Friday on a six weeks' vacation trip to points in southern California.

N. E. Brear was a business caller at Fort Dodge on Thursday of last week.

Members of the Clarmond Country club enjoyed a picnic at the club house on Wednesday evening.

The Rebekah lodge met on Wednesday evening of last week, at which time they initiated some new members and enjoyed a social evening afterwards.

Fred Lynch is the owner of a new Dodge Sedan, purchased of the Motor Inn Co last week.

The town of Clarion is a mighty good place to stay away from right now, unless you have urgent business there. The streets are all torn up while the paving is going in, and the roads leading to the town are in fierce shape. When the paving has been completed and the roads into town graveled, however, Clarion will be right up among those present in the way of improvements. But just now the streets and roads there are simply rotten.

friends and looking after business affair.

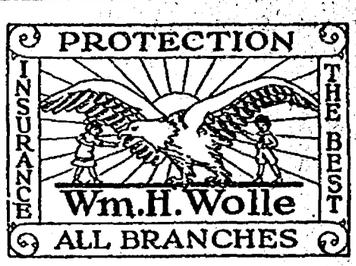
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Moore, who were visiting their son, Howard, and family, last week, went to Iowa Falls, Friday, to visit a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Haword Moore took them down in their car.

Lud Johnson brought us down an album of Japanese pictures, sent by his son, Jasper, who is teaching in an American college at Nagasaki. The pictures are very interesting, and in many ways show the customs and manners of the people.

Cornelia Lake was filled with a crowd of people Sunday, picnicing and enjoying the lake and bathing. Fishing is much better at Cornelia than at Morse Lake, and most of the fishermen are going to the former place.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

PROTECTION
INSURANCE
THE BEST


Wm. H. Wolle
ALL BRANCHES

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Announcement!
I will be at the
Schultz Jewelry Store
in Belmond, on
MONDAY, JULY 2
to test your eyes and fit glasses.
FRIEND C. BRASS
Optometrist.

A Public Distribution and Sale of Furniture and House
Furnishings
Rugs, Stoves and Ranges

That No Reader of This Advertisement Will Care To Miss!

NOW READ ON!

In a supreme effort to raise the required amount of cash NOTHING WILL BE RESERVED

SALE ON THE ENTIRE $60,000 STOCK
Of the
COBBS HOUSE FURNISHING CO.
Mason City, Iowa

$21,000 MUST BE REALIZED!

LOOK FOR THE BIG YELLOW TAG ON EVERY ARTICLE IN THIS BIG STOCK. EVERYTHING ON SALE.

WHY

We believe that your interest in this sale is not so much the personal reasons which necessitate the event, but that you are interested only how cheap you can buy at this sale. With this idea in view, we are quoting as many sample prices taken at random from the prices which will prevail, as our space will permit, and assuring you that you will be amply repaid by a trip to Mason City, where you will find this entire $60,000 stock on sale at radical reductions in a supreme effort to raise $21,000 in cash in seven days of sale. Our nearly thirty years of business life in Mason City guarantees to you the boni-fide character of our advertising.

Vernis Martin bed with 2-inch posts, link fabric springs, all cotton mattress. Regular price complete $28.50. In this sale, complete
$17.50

Beautiful 2x12 heavy Brussels rugs. Good range of patterns. Regular value $38.50. In this sale
$21.85

A 3-piece Over-Stuffed living room suite. Davenport, chair and rocker. Upholstered in fine quality velour. Regular price $225.00. In this sale
$139.50

Doors Open and Selling Begins
Saturday Morning, June 23
At the Hour of 9:00 in the Forenoon
Sale Continues 7 Full Business Days

1c SALE!

Over 200 pieces of high grade Aluminum Ware to be distributed to the crowd at choice One Cent. Includes 2 qt. lipped sauce pans; 1 qt. pudding pans; 8 qt. water pails; rice boilers; covered sauce pans, measuring cups, drinking cups and so forth. JOIN THE CROWD when the doors open at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

An 8-piece dining room set. Oval table, buffet and 6 genuine leather seat chairs, all in walnut finish. Regular price $135.50. In this sale
$78.50

Floor lamps. Mahogany pedestal and a beautiful line of shades to select from. Regular price complete $18.50. In this sale
$8.95

4-piece Walnut finish bedroom suite. Dresser, dressing table, chiffonier and full size bed. Regular price for complete set $144.00. In this sale
$83.50

Sales on a few piece articles of Furniture are advertised each day. But when before have you been invited and urged to take your unrestricted choice from a stock of this size? Memory fails to recall.

Cobbs House Furnishings Company
Mason City, Iowa

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowing

COPYRIGHT, 1922, BY SIDNEY GOWING

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lambe, at Jervaulx abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lambe, Aimee, vivacious daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, is in a rebellious mood.

CHAPTER II.—She wanders into the park, there encountering a strange youth in trouble with a motorcycle. He laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two cement the acquaintance by a ride on the motorcycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgina Berners, her cousin, Aimee sets out for Jervaulx. On the way she decides that Georgina shall impersonate her at Jervaulx, while she goes on a holiday. Georgina's horrified protest is unavailing.

CHAPTER III.—Happy in her new freedom, Aimee again meets "Billy." He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives hers as Amy Snooks, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER IV.—That night Aimee visits Georgina and learns that the deception has not been discovered. By her dominant personality she compels Georgina to continue the subterfuge.

CHAPTER V.—On a trial spin next day on the Sphinx, with Billy, Aimee almost collides with a carriage in which are her aunt, Georgina and Alexander. The pair escape unrecognized.

CHAPTER VI.—Georgina learns that Lord Scroope is coming to visit Lady Erythea and, realizing what will happen on his arrival, is in hopeless bewilderment.

CHAPTER VII.—While Aimee is secretly visiting Georgina at Jervaulx, the place is burglarized. Aimee escapes.

CHAPTER VIII.—Georgina learns, with much relief, that Aimee has got away.

CHAPTER IX.—Police Inspector Panke decides that the robbery is the work of "Jack the Climber" and "Calamity Kate," noted thieves, who travel on a motorcycle.

CHAPTER X.—Billy, aware of his "partner's" nocturnal jaunts, is troubled. He follows her, on the Sphinx, to Jervaulx. He hears the commotion, at once suspects burglary, and follows two figures on a motorcycle who are apparently in a desperate hurry. Cornering the pair, Billy knocks out a man who attempts to shoot him, picking up a package the fellow had dropped. He discovers the other fugitive to be a woman. Stopping to aid her, she strikes him with a stone, rendering him unconscious, and the pair escape.

CHAPTER XI.—Recovering, Billy discovers the package he had picked up is a jewel case, containing emeralds. Realizing they must be part of the loot from Jervaulx, he starts for the abbey. On the way he meets Aimee, with the police in pursuit. In a secure hiding place, a cave among the crag pits, Aimee tells him the whole story. He urges that she make a frank confession to her father, but on reflection both realize Aimee's good name has been compromised by her two nights' stay at Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER XII.—Assuring Aimee he has a plan to save her, Billy leaves her in the cave and, proceeding to Jervaulx, restores the emeralds to the astounded Lady Erythea.

CHAPTER XIII.—Rejecting any reward, after explaining how the emeralds came into his possession, Billy accepts the position of chauffeur to Lady Erythea, seeing in the situation a promise of a way out of the embroglio.

CHAPTER XIV.—Realizing what her father's visit to Jervaulx would mean, Aimee goes secretly to her home, disables the family auto, thus preventing his journey, and induces a parlormaid to let her take her place at Jervaulx.

CHAPTER XV.—Alexander recognizes Aimee as the woman on the motorcycle which ran into the Lambe carriage, denouncing her as "Calamity Kate." Georgina divulges Aimee's identity. Hearing her story, Alexander consents to keep the secret.

CHAPTER XVI.—Alexander finds himself very much in love with Georgina.

CHAPTER XVII.—The approaching visit of Alexander's sister, Lady Diana (who, of course, knows Aimee) brings consternation to the two girls.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Another visitor to Jervaulx is the Vicomte de Jussac, Diana's suitor. Diana recognizes Aimee and threatens to denounce her.

His merry, infectious laugh and quick sallies uplifted the spirits of the others. He made a deeper impression than ever on Diana Lambe, and with the usual perversity that seized her when in mixed company, she felt it due to herself to become the more openly hostile.

"I do not understand how you can defend the spirit of the age," she said coldly, in answer to a sally that made even Alexander smile. "The days of chivalry are dead. What romance can one attach to the modern young man? But in the days of heraldry, when men were splendid in helm and gorget and camail—ah, then," she exclaimed, with a rare touch of enthusiasm, "romance flourished indeed—"

"Talking of mail," said Lady Erythea blandly, "the ghost always appears in a complete suit of it, though his coming is noiseless as a breath of mist. I regret to tell you, Vicomte, that he came to a bad end through a romantic passion."

"Why regret?" protested Bertrand. "I will wager 'twas worth it."

"Because he was refuted—or disreputed—to be an ancestor of yours; a De Jussac taken as hostage by Sir Piers Lambe—after a most gallant resistance," said Lady Erythea smiling. "While here he engaged the affections of a daughter of the house, and being discovered, was permitted to don his armor and debate the matter with Sir Piers. His end was—tragic."

"No end can be wholly tragic, if reached by the path of a great passion. To every rose its thorn. I applaud him!" Bertrand raised his glass. "To you, nameless ancestor!" He replaced the glass appreciatively, and Mr. Tarbeaux refilled it. "Touching this ancestor, Lady Diana—"

But his hostess had given the signal, the ladies rose, and the two men were left alone—a custom that still lingered at Jervaulx. De Jussac did not find Mr. Lambe a very exhilarating companion, but Alexander, though drinking only water, kept him at the table an unconscionable time. When eventually they reached the drawing room Alexander departed at once to his library, and Bertrand found that Diana had retired.

"I must apologize for my niece, Vicomte, but she has gone to her room; to achieve the proper psychic attitude, or whatever she calls it, for her inquiries as to this absurd ghost," said Lady Erythea. "She can, of course, do nothing tonight. And as it is late, and you will not wish to sit up talking to an old woman—"

"Most spirituelle of hostesses," protested the Vicomte, "I should like to sit and talk to you all night, if you will allow me—"

Diana put her head inside the door. "I told you, Aunt," she said, "that my stupid maid lost herself at the terminus, and I cannot retire unattended. May I have yours?"

"My own incumbrance has been away for two days," said her aunt, "but we have a parlor maid who really attends to one's hair very soothingly; she did mine last night." Lady Erythea pressed the bell.

The butler appeared. "Tarbeaux, you will tell Snooks to attend Lady Diana in her room."

"Very good, m' lady."

Mr. Tarbeaux found Aimee on her way upstairs to bed, and gave her the order. Aimee was astonished, and secretly panic-stricken.

"This has absolutely finished it!" she reflected. "I might as well bolt at once." Suddenly she came to a resolution. "But—I'd better go. I shall run against her sooner or later. And anyhow she'll be alone. Di's such a fool she may not know me."

Aimee reached the bedchamber, where Lady Diana had just arrived. She scarcely glanced at the parlor maid, and donning a light wrap, seated herself before the mirror.

"Take down my hair," she said curtly, "and if your fingers are cold, warm them first at the fire. I abhor being touched by cold fingers."

Aimee's fingers itched to warm themselves by a totally different method. But she held them to the fire, and then set about her task. She had hardly commenced when Diana's pale blue eyes, catching sight of her in the mirror, opened in a stare of amazement.

"Whom did they say you were?" she said in a grating voice.

"S-Snooks, m' lady," said Aimee, dropping a curtsey.

"Snooks! You are Aimee Scroope! Don't deny it!" said Diana fiercely. "Don't attempt to deceive me. I should know you in a thousand. What is the meaning of this—masquerade?"

Aimee surrendered.

"Yes, Di—it's me! For goodness' sake don't shout." For once Aimee lost her head. "Aunt doesn't know I'm here, you see. Don't give me away. I'll try and explain—"

"I don't want your explanation. You will explain to Aunt!" rasped Diana. "I can see by your manner there is something more in this than mere folly! I've had my suspicions, from what Aunt has said—"

"Di," exclaimed Aimee imploringly, "there's no use trying to hide it now—I'm in trouble—real trouble. If you give me away now you'll get me into a fearful row with Dad. You don't want to do that, do you? It—it will simply finish him!"

"Very likely! It is high time he knew the truth about you. I know a little more of your character than he does, Aimee. His absurd leniency to you up till now—"

She moved swiftly between Aimee and the door, and pressed the bell.

"Let me out!" said Aimee, rather white and her eyes gleaming. "Get away from that door!" She strode toward Diana.

"I shall not!"

There was a knock at the door. Diana opened it, and the housekeeper appeared.

"Was that your ladyship's bell?"

"Yes!" said Diana. "Ask Lady Erythea to come here immediately. Do you hear? Immediately!"

CHAPTER XIX

Arms and the Man.

The housekeeper looked bewildered. Diana's wrath agitated her. Aimee was standing quietly in the middle of the room, her hands behind her.

"I dare not disturb her ladyship now that she has retired for the night and her room is locked," said the housekeeper; "my orders are strict. May I suggest that you see her yourself, my lady? If there is anything else I can do—"

Diana paused, and appeared to reflect.

"No," she said curtly. "You can go." When the housekeeper had left the room, Diana turned to Aimee.

"You will come with me now—to Aunt!"

"I'll do nothing of the sort," retorted Aimee defiantly. "Go and speak to her yourself, if you want to. Rouse her out of bed now, and tell her all you know. I shall get it hot; I'm used to that—but there's one consolation, she'll jolly well flatten you out, too!"

Again Diana hesitated. She saw herself roaring accusations into the ear-trumpet of an infuriated aunt newly aroused from slumber.

"I am tired, and I do not wish for a scene at this time of night," she said, fixing Aimee with a malignant eye. "On consideration, I shall leave this affair till the morning. And now—you may go."

She stood away from the door.

"Won't you be decent about it, Di?" said Aimee imploringly. "I don't care for myself, but it's going to be awful for Dad. I—I—if you'd only let me tell you—"

"I have no desire to listen to a discreditable story, at which, no doubt, I could give a very good guess. As for your father, he must face the consequences of having allowed you to behave as you do. I have no more to say," replied Diana with cold disdain.

Aimee's eyes blazed at her.

"You utter beast, Di!" she said, and flung out of the room.

For half an hour Aimee mused upon the situation, and mentally pronounced it hopeless. The dreary bedroom became impossible to her. She opened the door; the house was in darkness; everyone, apparently, had retired. Aimee made her way to Georgina's bedroom door, and rapped stealthily for some time, for the door was locked. It seemed impossible to arouse Georgina, and after a lengthy effort Aimee desisted. Lady Erythea's room was next door, and even the deaf hear when they are not wanted to.

Finally, Aimee crept down into the hall, where the suits of armor loomed grimly in the half-light, a silent, threatening host. It was impossible to get out of the house. All conceivable outlets were secured, since the burglary. Aimee passed through the paneled dining hall. The darkness got on her nerves. She switched on a single electric light, and looked round her hopelessly.

"Two or three more days, and I believe Billy would have pulled me through," she said dully. "I know he would. Now, it's all up. I'm done. And I can't get to Billy."

Aimee dropped into an armchair, buried her face in her hands, and began to cry. She cried like a child that has hurt itself.

A large figure stole into the room with a remarkably noiseless step. It was the Vicomte de Jussac. He started as he caught sight of the forlorn figure in the chair, and stared in surprise. The spectacle of a damsel in distress at once roused generous sentiments in the beau sabreur.

He crossed the room and seated himself on the arm of the chair.

"Away, dull care," murmured Bertrand. "Such eyes as those—I cannot see them but I am sure they are adorable—were never made for weeping. Tell me your sorrow, ma petite," he said gently; "it shall be swept away!"

"I'm in awful trouble!" sobbed Aimee.

"Alas! But let me help you. Here am I, a big, gross fellow, but very capable, sent by the gods to aid you. It is what I am for!"

Aimee dropped her hands and stared at him, startled.

"Are you Monsieur de Jussac?" she stammered.

"Infinitely at your service, mademoiselle."

Aimee's eyes searched his face. It was rather closer to hers than appeared necessary, but it was undoubtedly sympathetic.

"Tell me!" he murmured.

Aimee hesitated.

"Well, I will tell you. I've got to tell somebody, or I shall go mad!" said Aimee with a rush. "Anyway they'll know it tomorrow. I'm not the parlor maid. I'm Aimee Scroope—Lady Erythea's niece."

"Hein!" exclaimed the Vicomte. He rose to his feet, staring at her, and twisted his mustache—a habit in moments of bewilderment.

Aimee plunged into her tale breathlessly. She made it brief; it was also very jumbled. But the thread managed to unravel itself. Before she finished, Bertrand turned away. His shoulders quivered and shook, the back of his neck was crimson.

"You're laughing!" cried Aimee accusingly.

"But no!" gasped the Vicomte, choking. "It is grief. Grief and sympathy—for you—mademoiselle."

"You are laughing!" said Aimee stepping in front of him. "Go on then—laugh! If you can laugh at that, you're—you're all right! Billy says—" She checked herself, and suddenly began to laugh, too; a very rainbow of laughter and tears. "But what's to be done? It's the finish!"

Bertrand turned and caught her by the hands.

Continued next week.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

Buick!

Everyone will concede that the Buick is a fine looking car.

Everyone admits that, because everyone sees the Buick.

Everyone who rides it, drives it, or lives with it concedes several other points, including comfort, performance, durability, low service expense, and high resale value.

These are facts which have made possible for Buick to grow so steadily and so permanently into a position of unquestionable prominence in the field of the automobile industry.

Remember that the price of an automobile is not the original list price. It is the list price plus its upkeep, plus the depreciation which must be taken into consideration when it is brought to the second-hand market.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Buick and Chevrolet Sales and Service

Goodyear Tires

Phone 39 Belmond, Iowa

Kinseth's Store News

Foolish question number eleventeen million—Is it hot enough for you?

—K—

It is, thank you. And we have all kinds of fresh fruits to go with this warm weather. A piece of cool, nice fruit satisfies when nothing else will.

—K—

And this weather calls for straw hats. We have them, all sizes for everybody. Come in and get yours now.

—K—

Ladies dress goods, we have them. Latest patterns, good goods.

Shoes from $2.28 up, to fit men and women. Every pair of them are guaranteed

—K—

The canning season is here again, and you want to be getting ready to do your canning. Last year we ran short on cans, but this year we are prepared and can furnish you with cans any time.

—K—

Be sure and come here first when you want sugar.

—K—

The Store on the Corner is the place to trade and save your money for the Fourth of July. Be a wise one.

Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

Means Power

RED CROWN Gasoline is the most highly specialized source of energy that science has been able to extract from the earth and turn to commercial use.

In the manufacture of Red Crown the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) uses every care to make Red Crown a gasoline of quality, that it may be the measure of efficiency wherever it is found. Use Red Crown and of power your engine is capable of developing. There is no waste to Red Crown. Every drop vaporizes and is converted into power—sustained pulling power.

Get Every Ounce

Red Crown contains a perfect chain of boiling point fractions, ranging from about 95° F. to about 427° F. without a gap. Hence the abundance of smooth, rhythmic, steam-engine-like power.

Use Red Crown and get all the power science can give you.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

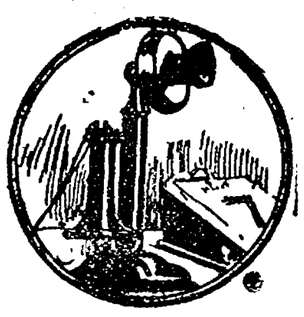
And at the following Garage:

Belmond Motor Sales Co., East Main Street

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

3226



Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Mrs. Herman Schultz is enjoying a visit from her sisters, Mrs. Lee Johnson from New York, and Miss Slavata from Cedar Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cummings drove here from Wibeaux, Montana last week. They are visiting at the T. S. Wallace home.

Mrs. W. H. White is spending a few days with her son, W. C. White, in Ft. Dodge.

Miss Ruth Klemme went to Mason City yesterday for a visit with her sister.

Miss Mary Forristal returned from Fort Dodge, yesterday, after a few weeks' visit with relatives and friends there.

Mrs. Thos. Whelan an d children were guests with relatives at Thornton, Tuesday.

Mrs. L. V. Sharpe and son, and Miss Veone Lobdell went to Mason City, Tuesday, to consult an oculist for Dale Sharp.

Lucretia Morse and Valda Robinson were shoppers at Mason City on Tuesday.

Joe Scott got back Tuesday evening from his trip to Kansas, where he has been the past two weeks visiting friends. He made the trip back—about 700 miles, in two days.

H. B. Bohman of Alexander was a caller in Belmond on Tuesday of this week.

Joe S. White was a business caller at Clarion on Tuesday.

Harry Webb came up from Woden last week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Webb. He returned Friday.

HEMSTITCHING

Hemstitching done at the Gift Shop. Black and white cotton thread furnished. Ten and 15 cents per yard. 30tfc

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Alex McGregor of Des Moines has been here he past week building new fences and making other repairs on his farm.

Mrs. A. E. Martin and Mrs. Rosecrans drove to Garner last Friday to hear a lecture on the Court of Nations, by a prominent club woman from Hartford, Conn. They also attended a luncheon in honor of the speaker.

Joe Barry is the owner of a new Chevrolet coupe, purchased of the Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Jergensen of Rowan had a minor operation at the hospital here Monday.

Peter Bohning has purchased a new Overland "Redbird" from the Nordschow Motor Co.

The Deep Rock Service Station has been completed and began doing business on Saturday. The station is a handsome affair, very nicely arranged, and adds much to that corner of the business section

50,000 MILES OF SMILES!

In order to prove any statement we have made regarding Willys Knight engines, we are willing to have an engine officially sealed so that all working parts are locked and cannot be reached for any adjusting whatsoever. Will any other type motor make this test? Time and miles will tell the tale.—Nordschow Motor Co.

Mrs. James Leavy has been spending a few days the past week with her daughter in Ft. Dodge.

Another heavy rain Sunday night booted the gardens and crops up a few more notches. If we can get a similar shower once a week the rest of the summer, we can watch the rest of the world go by.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Brand new 4— door Ford Sedan. No trade. Nordschow Motor Co. Belmond Iowa.

For Sale—Oliver typewriter, No. 9. See Bert Groen, Meservey. 30tfc

For Sale—Spring frys, 2 to 2½ pounds, alive or dressed. Also fat hens for sale.—C. F. Hedges, phone 3809. 311*

For Sale—Studebaker Six, 1918 model, in good shape. Will sell cheap. Phone 2902.—Gerald Treese. 293c

For Sale—4-door Ford Sedan, brand new.—Nordschow Motor Co.

For Sale—Hot water heating plant, in A I condition. Bargain if taken at once. Inquire of L. O. Skovlin. 291fc

Lost—Child's sandals, at Morse Lake bath house, Friday night. Finder please notify Mrs. Chris Kragh. 311*

For Rent—Six room house, one block south of State Bank. $15 per month. Inquire at this office.

BELMOND MARKETS

Hens, heavy	15c
Roosters	07c
Broilers, 1½ to 2 lbs.	32c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	08c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	16c
Cream	35c
Dairy Butter	40c
Creamery Butter	47c
Corn	68c
Oats	38c

Have You Seen the Power Plant?

We have been entertaining some lately, showing Customers over our Power House and Offices, and if you have not already visited us do so as soon as you can.

We will be glad to show you around, and you will be glad you came.

The object in asking our Customers to look over our Property is to acquaint you all with the Means that have been provided, to furnish your needs of Electric Service, and to fully explain our business.

We believe you should knowall about this Public Business.

So come and see us.

Cordially,
IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY
By H. F. KELLOGG, Manager
IOWA FALLS, IOWA

50,000 MILES OF SMILES!

In order to prove any statement we have made regarding Willys Knight engines, we are willing to have an engine officially sealed so that all working parts are locked and cannot be reached for any adjusting whatsoever. Will any other type motor make this test? Time and miles will tell the tale.—Nordschow Motor Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Trafford and family drove to Minnesota last week Saturday where they are spending a week or so camping.

WE ARE IN THE CLEANING BUSINESS!

Plain and Fancy Dry Cleaning

Are You Ready For the Fourth?

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

ONLY 9 DAYS LEFT

To Take Advantage of Our

Profit Sharing Plan

On July 5th we will announce the day, the cash business of which we will absolutely refund to you. If you hold receipts for merchandise purchased of us on that day, you get every cent of your money back.

IT CAN'T BE DONE? WAIT AND SEE!

We positively guarantee that we will do exactly as we say. The entire cash business of some certain day between June 14th and July 1st will be refunded to those who hold receipts. If you purchased goods of us, between those dates, no matter what you bought, you will be given every cent of the amount back, either in cash or merchandise, just as you prefer.

You will be given ten days after July 5th---until July 15th---to present your receipts and get your refund.

SAVE YOUR RECEIPTS!

We Get Cash Discounts---Why Shouldn't You?

We Deliver

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60

OPENING DAY

Announcement....

The Belmond Deep Rock Oil Company will have its formal Opening

SATURDAY, JUNE 23

At the new Filling Station located in the corner of the Belmond Motor Sales Company Garage.

The Belmond Deep Rock Oil Company is a local organization, financed by local people who are interested in Belmond and this community.

We sell only the best gasoline, lubricating oil and greases. If you are not already one of the multitude of Deep Rock users, give us a trial and be convinced.

Cigars for the Men, and Carnations for the Ladies on Saturday.

Belmond Deep Rock Oil Company

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1923 — NO. 32

Three More Belmond Young People Wed

Two Young Men And One Girl Joined In Wedlock In Past Week In Other Towns.

OTHERS ARE IN PROSPECT

The following accounts of three weddings in which Belmond young people figured were taken from the Garner Leader and Webster City News. Rumors of these events have been floating around for some time, but the young folks stole a march on their friends, and are now enjoying the delights of their honeymoons. The Leader says—

Yesterday, June 20th, at Mason City, occurred the marriage of a couple of Goodell young ladies to young men who belong at Belmond. The parties to the contracts were Mardel Avery, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Avery, and Reynold Kinseth, a young business man of Belmond; Miss Marvel Chase, daughter of Mrs. F. R. Chase, and Gus H. Wenzel of Belmond. The two brides are cousins, and as each had found the young man whom they most desired, decided that they would take the important step of adopting the "Mrs." at the same time, and accordingly Mason City was selected as the place. The grooms are both Belmond young men, and while we have not the pleasure of intimate acquaintance with either of them, the report we have on them is flattering. She who was Miss Marvel Chase, finished her high school work at Goodell a year or so ago and since that time has been staying with her mother. She is a young lady much beloved and decidedly popular with both the young and the older people of her home town. It happens that we are more intimately acquainted with the now Mrs. Kinseth than with any other of those directly iterested in Wednesday's event. It has been our pleasure to know Mardel Avery for several years. Oftentimes she has visited at our home and we alway had the highest regard for her. Her jolly, jovial disposition, her cheery smile and unfailing wit are outstanding characteristics with her. In each instance, their at home cards read Belmond after July 15th or thereabouts. Following the ceremony, the bridal party left Ma-City for Minneapolis in the Kinseth' car. They will spend a few days there and then go on to Lake Bimidji, Minnesota for a few weeks camping trip. The Leader surely wishes these young people all possible happiness and prosperity. The Independent joins them in their happy life which will be spent together.

The News said—

Miss Ruth Shaw, of Belmond, and Mr. Emmett Robert Boggs, of Clarion, were united in marriage last night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Esther Harris, 514 Water street. Rev. Manson E. Miller, pastor of the Webster City Christian church officiating. Miss Ethel Boggs, sister of the bridegroom and Mr. Lewis Shaw, brother of the bride attended the young couple and the single ring cermony was witnessed by several relatives including the mother and sister of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Boggs will reside in Clarion where he is a freight handler for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad.

TYRRELL MILLINERY IS SOLD

Mrs. Fred Wilkins has purhased the stock and fixtures of the Tyrrell Millinery store and took possession yesterday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins moved here from Goodell last spring, and are residing in the north part of town. The shop will be conducted by Mrs. Wilkins and her daughter.

SIX FOOT RYE

Or nearly so, lacking just one inch. Don't believe it? Its a fact just the same, and raised right here in Pleasant township. The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Henn has 18 acres of rye, and a bundle of it brought to town measures five feet eleven inches tall. That is certainly some rye. It was drilled in between the corn stalks last fall, and protected by them during the winter is now over the average man's head.

ERICK N. ERICKSON

Erick N. Erickson was born in Norway, Jan. 11, 1857, his parents being Nels and Bertha Erickson. He emmigrated to this country in the spring of 1874, with his parents, and settled in Kandall Co., Newark, Ill. On Feb. 15, 1883, he was united in marriage to Miss Anna J. Nelson of Newark. The union was blessed with five children, namely, Mrs. Cryder Wicks, Alvan, Joseph, Arthur and Alma Erickson. He leaves to mourn his death a wife, five children, an aged father, two sisters, three brothers, seven grandchildren and a host of relatives.

In the spring of 1891 he came to Wright co., Iowa, and resided here continuously until his death, which occured on June 22, 1923, at the age of 66 years, 5 months and 11 days.

The funeral was conducted Friday afternoon, June 26, from the house at 1 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Jensen. A large congregation of friends and neighbors gathered, evidence of their honor and esteem. A short service was conducted at the house, after which the procession moved to the St. Olaf church, where the final services were held by the pastor. Rev. H. C. Holm, a former pastor, and Rev. P. B. Trelstad of Kanawha, assisted. Mrs. C. O. Fitts and Miss Maud Newgard sang a duet; Miss Florence Simerson and Mrs. H. H. Stewart sang solos. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery by the church of which Mr. Erickson had for so many years been an earnest and useful member.

BECOMING A PROBLEM

How and where to park cars is becoming a problem in most Iowa towns on busy nights, Greenfield, the county seat of Adair county, has a population about 1,700 and averages well with towns of its class. Conditions there are duplicated in about every town of similar size and location in Iowa. E. J. Sidney recently ran across a picture taken of the public square in that town when the hitching chains encircled the court house. Tied to the chain in close order was a variety of horses hitched to vehicles of assorted sizes, shapes an colors. Last Saturday night there were 523 automobiles in Greenfield by actual count. On the square alone there were 257 cars parked. The Saturday night traffic regulation is becoming a problem. Cars were parked three deep around the square and one man had to wait an hour bfore he could get his car to go home. At midnight there were seventy-one cars remaining awaiting their drivers. Conditions at Greenleld are duplicated every Saturday night in a couple hundred towns in Iowa. One man gives the following report of his experience in operating an automobile during its first year, in which he traveled 6,000 miles; Interest on $800 (purchase price,) $48; insurance, $75; tax, $13; garage rent, $120 depreciation, $300; gasoline, $84; oil, $10; one set of tires, $40; repair bill, $45; total $735. His garage bill is too high and his tire and repair bill too low, will be the verdict of the average auto owner.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the church at 8 o'clock.

Saturday morning at 10 the class meets at the church.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10. Divine service in the English language at 11, and Norwegian service in the evening at 8.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school next Sunday at the usual hour, 10.30. Good roads, beautiful weather should fill our church with pupils, parents and teachers. Let this service be a personal notice to each one, and you will be there if you comply with it.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Ladies Missionary society will meet on Thursday afternoon. This is the time of the dollar social and election of officers. Let every member and friend be present.

Usual services next Sunday, both morning and night. A week from Sunday night we will begin our open air meetings at the country homes. The first meeting will be held at the W. D. Schlieffarth home. This is the time of year that tests our christian patriotism.

Monday Morning

Mrs. John Hammill To Speak Friday

Community Club Meeting On Friday To Be Addressed By Noted Speaker.

EVERYONE IS INVITED

The Community Welfare club meets at the library, Friday afternoon, June 29. A patriotic program will be given. An instrumental solo by Miss Marjory Williams, two patriotic readings by Miss Elizabeth Lienbach and a talk on peace problems by Mrs. John Hammill of Britt, wife of the Lieutenant governor of Iowa. The club is fortunate in getting Mrs. Hammill and everyone should plan to hear her.

Mrs. Ralph Christie is chairman of the serving committee.

EAGLE GROVE GETS FARM BUREAU PICNIC

At a meeting of the executive committee, Harry Poundstone, Mrs. Harry Woodley and Will Tillman, with representaives from the various towns of the county, which was held at the County Agent's office last Friday evening, June 22nd, it was decided that the county farm bureau picnic club exhibit which is scheduled for August 22nd should be held in Greenwood park at Eagle Grove this year.

Three towns of Wright county were represented at this meting by committees. Eagle Grove being rpresented by B. H. Moore, secretary of the Eagle Grove Business Men's association, Ed Davis and Mr. Hinkley; Clarion being represented by Dr. E. D. Tompkins, president, and George Richards secretary, and J. H. Ramsay of the Clarion Commercial club; and Rowan by president O. R. Myers, secretary G. E. Toyne and Frank Drury of the Wright and Franklin county Breeder's association. Representatives from each town met with the Farm Bureau committee separately and presented their propositions which they had to offer in the way of accommodations and equipment, other towns of the county sent written invitations to the farm bureau committee for entertaining the farmers at the farm bureau picnic in August.

After the place of holding the picnic was decided upon, the farm bureau committee met with the county agent and made plans and appointed sub-committees for organizing the picnic in order that plenty of time may be given in working out the details. The following were appointed as chairman of the various sub-committees to have full charge of the different departments in making final plans for this club picnic celebration,

Program comittee, County Agent Edwards.

Finance committee, Fred Soults, Lincoln township.

Athletic committee, J. E. Kirstein, Woolstock township.

Livestock committee, Guy E. Toyne, Blaine township.

Poultry committee, Lewis Wilson, Eagle Grove township.

Girls' exhibits, Mrs A. L. Middleton, Troy township.

Police committee, Harry Summers, Dayton township.

Ye Olde Tymme Dance On Friday Night

Belmond Auto Co. Will Stage Big Affair Friday Night In New Building.

EVERYTHING TO BE FREE

Ye Olde Tymme Dance will hold sway Friday evening of this week, and will doubtless be the chief attraction of the week. Ye Ode Tymme Dance will be held in the new building of the Belmond Auto Co., and the company is staging the dance as a treat to its friends and the public. Everybody is invited. Everything is free, no charge for anything. You are invited to come as the guests of the company, to dance any or all of the dances, and have a good time. The Jenison—Nolte four—piece orchestra will furnish the music for the affair, which is for old and young. Choose your partner and be there, for this is going to be one of the happiest occasions for a long time. Everything free and everybody invited.

NINE BLOCKS STORM SEWER

Workmen have been busy the past week digging the storm sewer recently authorized by the city council.

The sewer will consist of about nine blocks of tiling in some of the worst places, this being all that can be financed this year. Next year it is understood more will be put in. The tile were purchased of the Sheffield factory. This is a much needed improvement, and the city officials are to be congratulated upon the progressive move

NEXT PAPER ON FRIDAY.

The busiest day of the week for the Independent force being Wednesday "Press Day," and next Wednesday being the grand and glorious Fourth of July, the paper will be a day late, coming out on Friday of next week.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION

Where you going the Fourth? That's the big idea now. With nothing doing in the old town, the seekers after excitement will have to go elsewhere. Dows is staging a big time, with numerous attractions. Goldfield will celebrate, and if they live up to their past records their celebration will be worth going to. It is probable that most Wright County people will attend one or both of these. Clear Lake will have usual mob and events. Forest City has a good program arranged, and Humboldt is co-operating with the Legion nd Farm Bureau for a big day and Swaledale celebrates, Last year they had a fine little affair. However, if you don't want the dirt and crowds and noise, Morse Lake is still here and the swimming is fine. A lot of folks are going to stay right here at home.

M C. MADSEN DIES

M. C. Madsen died at his home in Belmond about nine o'clock yesterday morning. Death was caused by cancer of the stomach. He had been failing for some time. At this writing funeral arrangements rave not been completed.

NOW THEY RUN WITHOUT A DRIVER

The remark that you can do anything with a Ford was made good at Hayfield Sunday night when the Geo. Cope car ran almost half a mile with out a driver. While returning from Bayside Sunday night Clarence Cope accompanied by Ted Flom were struck by the severe wind storm just west of the J. J. Lowe farm. The boys were afraid the car was going over and they jumped for the ditch leaving Lizzie to make her way alone; rather ungallant of them. Following the lines of least resistance the car turned south going with the wind over the ditch through the fence into the Guy Geddes oats field, then struck out in a southeasterly direction going through the east fence on the Geddes field across the road which is well graded through the east side fence into the Rhiem meadow into the pasture and across a partly filld tile ditch and finally deciding it had gone far enough, stopped right side up with care. Outside of a few scratches the car is unhurt and none the worse for having gone through four wire fences and about half a mile unattended.—Summit.

RECEIVES DEGREE

St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., confered the degree of Bachelor of Arts upon McKinley Munson of Belmond and formerly of Roland on June 11, when the largest class in the history of the institution, with 191 members, was graduated. Governor Nestos of North Dakota delivered the commencement address, and diplomas wre presented by President L. W. Boe. The class was the largest among Minnesota colleges.

Mr. Munson has taken part in many activities outside of the regular school curriculum. He was a member of the college gym team and of the class basketball team. The gym team has for consecutive years won the college championship of the Northwest. Mr. Munson also took part in the inter-society debates and played a role in the college presentation of a Shakespearean drama. He plans to teach next fall.

McKinley Munson is the son of Mr. ad Mrs. E. O. Munson of Belmond but formerly of Roland. He graduated from the local schools wth the class of 1919 and during his years in high school here was an active participant in school athletics and activities of all kinds. He was also honor student of his class. Mr. Munson will teach in the fall, but has a yet not secured a position.—Roland Record.

BELMOND YOUNG MAN GOES STEADILY FORWARD

Howard R. Wolle, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolle of Belmond, has advanced another round on the ladder of success, and is now operating Manager of the Automatic Home Telephone Co., at Pontiac, Ill. This is a branch of the Chicago Corporation, and the advancement is a very important one as it carries with it a great deal of authority and responsibility. The general notice issued by the company to all employees read as follows,—

Mr. H. R. Wolle has been appointed operating Manager and as such will be directly in charge of all matters pertaining to the maintenance and traffic."

DAIRY COWS SELL FAST.

The thirty head of high grade dairy cows, Jerseys, Guernseys and Holstien, sold here last Saturday by two Illinois men, brought good prices and sold fast. They were exceptionally fine animals, and a heavy advertising campaign brought a large crowd of buyers and competition was keen. Two of the cows brought $136. apiece, while some of the calves sold for $50. An increasing interest is being shown among farmers in this community in better dairy stock, which indicates that the money-making cream is going to be considered more in the farm income.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING

The Belmond Deep Rock Oil Co., held their opening day last Saturday and besides entertaining a big attenance had a fine business. Favors in the way of cigars for men and carnations for the ladies were given away, and the company managed to give away a pile of both. The new station vastly improves that end of the business section.

"The Best Town In The United States"

Troops Are Much Pleased With Reception Given Them By Belmond Citizens.

WANT TO COME BACK, TOO

"The best darn town in the United States," the expression of one of the soldiers from the Third Infantry who were in Belmond from Saturday noon to Monday morning, was the universal opinion of every officer and private in the camp. So pleased are they with Belmond that they are going to try and come thru here on their way back in the fall.

The troops, the Second Batallion of the Third Infantry, comprising some 300 men and a dozen officers, reached here about 1:30 Saturday afternoon. Mayor Sullivan had secured quarters for them on the ground just south of the Dillon residence, across the M. & St. L. track, and within 20 minutes after they marched onto the ground camp was made. The men were given liberty, and all who did not have duties at camp were up town giving the town a good inspection. A subscription, taken up among the business men and citizens, furished 20 gallons of ice cream and seven gallons of crushed strawberries, which was presented to the soldiers with the compliments of Belmond at their evening meal, Saturday. To say it was enjoyed does not express it.

A ball game had been arranged between the soldiers and Belmond's representatives for Sunday afternoon, and this, together with a drill which had also been arranged for, was carried out. An immense crowd of people, probably the largest that has been in Belmond for several years, was at the grounds, many of them from long distances, and the field was so jammed with cars that parking room was at a premium. The drill, given just before the game, was an inspiring sight, and was exceedingly well carried out. Uncle Sam's regulars certaily know their business, and the crowd, to which a military drill was a novelty, were highly pleased. The pep and snappy action put into the drill was inspiring.

Following the drill came the big game, which turned out an easy affair for the troops. Belmond made error after error, and presented the troops with two runs at the beginning of the game. Chapman was off form, and had very poor support, with the result that from beginning to end the soldiers were never in danger. The game was for a hundred dollar guarantee, split 60-40, and the troops realized $60 for equipment, uniforms and the like. An admission of ten cents was charged to defray expenses.

After the game some 200 of the boys in khaki were taken to Morse Lake on trucks donated by business firms, and there they enjoyed a cool swim. The way they took to the water was worth any effort made to entertain them. Sunday evening, a large number of the boys were taken for auto rides. The Legion gave them access to the hall, Klemme's cement plant srowers were placed at their disposal, and everything possible done to make them welcome by local citizens.

The troops left about 5:30 Monday morning for Wall Lake, where they camped that night. They expected to reach Des Moines by Saturday noon. They start back from Des Moines about Sept. 15, and if Belmond is on their schedule coming back they should reach here around Sept. 21.

Mayor Sullivan received the following letter from G. S. McCullough captain of the Third Infantry:

"On behalf of the officers and soldiers of Company "F", Third U. S. Infantry, I wish to extend our thanks, thru you, to the citizens responsible for the refreshments and other entertainment furnished the members of this company on our march thru your city

We appreciated every bit that was done for us, and memories of such generous and open hospitality remain long in the hearts of soldiers. Wherever the members of Company "F" may happen to go in the future, they will always remember with pleasure their all-to-short stay in Belmond, Iowa."

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance; $2.00 on time.
$2.00 per year outside state of Iowa

CIRCULATION OVER 1,000

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 03c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents.)

1923 JUNE 1923

SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

Editorials

A GOOD NAME

There is nothing a town can have that is better than a good name. To say that a town is a good town, is to give that town a name among strangers. And as strangers speak of a town does it count. It is not what we who live in Belmond may say of our city, but what is said by the stranger who has been within our gates and has passed on his way. And what may be said of our town is up to us; upon us depends in a large measure what the verdict shall be.

Without exception, the troops who were here last Saturday and Sunday were emphatic in their praise of Belmond They all want to come back. And that is because Belmond people made them welcome. And in their travels the name they give Belmond will be worth all that was done to make them welcome. The immense crowd here Sunday cannot help but carry away a good feeling toward the town. If we can lay aside the consideration of money for a time, we can place Belmond back again to the position she once occupied in the esteem of the state.

No town is ever successful when the inhabitants indulge to any extent in critizing and backbiting and fighting each other. Fighting is commendable if you expend your prowess against a foe who is endeavoring to destroy you, yours, or your country. Criticising is uplifting, when it is directed aganst the forces of evil.

Backbiting can be tolerated, if you confine yorself to bitting your own back. But the moment we begin to inject personalities into community affairs we begin to retard the growth of a progressive community spirit. And without aggressive progressiveness a community will be a community—but nothing more.—Franklin County Recorder.

When you think you are tired just make up your mind that you are not, and go back to work. You will accomplish more.

If you must be a pessimist put off being one until tomorrow. That will give you a long time for optimistic waiting.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

LOCALS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Order your buns for the Fourth of July by July 2.—Belmond Bakery.

Ralph Sharp of Clarion was a business caller in Belmond on last Saturday.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

If it is a good used car that you want, we have it.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Two of the Soldiers here Saturday and Sunday left their names and addresses with the request that if convenient they would be glad to receive letters. They were Pvt. W. S. Snyder, and John J. Kopusick, their address is both Co. H, 3rd Inf., Ft. Snelling, Minn.

Miss Gertrude Ely gave a recital at the library last Friday evening. Her pupils gave a very remarkable and entertaining program. Relatives of the students were enthusiastic, in their praise of the ability shown.

Grading is being done on the Morse Lake road in Belmond township and it is understood this road will be graveled this summer or fall.

See the Bock Lumber Co., for low prices on barb wire and genuine American Field Fence. 24tfc

The Methodist Aid society will hold an ice cream social and cake sale on the grounds just west of the case hotel, Saturday evening. Everyone invited.

Estray Notice—Broke into my enclosure in Section 24, Belmond township, Wright county, Iowa, one Red and White Heifer, aged about one year. Owner is requested to prove property, pay charges, and take anima away. Dated June 15, 1923.—Geo. P. Hardwick. 313*

In order to cose the estate, I offer for sale the Mrs. Nellie Lein house and lot located north of the Great Western R R. tracks in Belmond, Iowa. Paries interested submit bids to me at Kanawha, Iowa.
OLE T. RIKANSRUD,
Executor. 314c.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:40 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Here and There

Mrs. Sullivan came down from Belmond the latter part of last week and visited at the H. F. Graepler home. She returned Saturday at her home.—Reporter.

Miss Maurine Mulnix motored to Belmond, Sunday, and spent the day with friends. She went from here to Rochester.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Baldridge and family and little Miss Audrey Deibler were visiting relatives and friends at Belmond last Thursday.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Carlston and daughter, Miss Margaret, of Belmond were here last Wednesday evening. Mr. Carlston assisted at the clothing store and Mr. Carlston and daughter spent the evening with relatives and friends.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Eggers returned Monday morning from a Sunday visit with relatives and friends at Belmond.—Reporter.

The Garner Progressive Club responded to an invitation from the Progress Club of Belmond to attend a meeting in that City Tuesday afternoon, and a picnic in the evening. At the afternoon meeting, a report of the bi-ennial convention of the state federation which was held in Waterloo, was read.—Ieader

Mrs. Reese and daughters, Miss Winifred and Mrs. Spears and baby of Waterloo were guests at the Geo. Baldridge home the latter part of last week. They went from here to Belmond to visit and from there Mrs. Reese and Winifred will go to their home at Rochester and Mrs. Spears and baby will return to their home.—Reporter.

D. Grace Wilson arrived Monday evening from De Soto, Wis., where she has been helping in the Argus office the past several moths. She visited a short time with friends in Meservey, Monday afternoon, being the editor of the Register at that place at the time the plant was sold to the Belmond Independent nearly two years ago. Miss Wilson will be remembered by many Dows people who will be pleased to know that she is again employed here on the Advocate force.—Advocate.

(Klemme Times)

Joe Stearnes was a Belmond visitor Sunday. Miss Mable returned home with him.

Lu Verne Smith and Ernest Helps drove to Belmond on matters pertaining to business last Friday afternoon.

Mr. James Brooks of Belmond, accompanied by Harry and Arthur Devareaux, of Wisconsin, were visiting Klemme relatives Monday.

Miss Mable Stearnes went to Belmond Saturday for an over Sunday visit with a cousin, whose home is in Chicago and who is visiting at Belmond.

Mrs. Tom Greenwood and children of Belmond visited at the Joe Stearnes home from Thursday until Saturday of the past week.

Mrs. Hake and daughter, Maurine, and Mrs. M. O. Barr, visited at Belmond Friday.

Attorney Jensen, of Belmond, was a professional caller in our city on Monday.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205
T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

IT takes hold. It grips hard. Its high, thick, sharp-edged blocks put up a wedge-like resistance to skidding. It is the maximum safety, traction and long wear you can put under your car—the reinforced, beveled All-Weather Tread of the new Goodyear Cord Tire.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Road Music

"Mamma," begged Betty, "do sing that automobile song again, please."

"Automobile song?" her mother esked. "I don't know any automobile song."

"Oh, yes, you do," the child responded, positively, "we sing it at Sunday school. You know it—that one about going home on high."—Road Economics.

As a cheap vacation, we suggest putting on a bathing suit and being photographed at home.

When a couple of lying golfers meet the recording angel has to start writing shorthand.

PROTECTION
INSURANCE

THE BEST
Wm. H. Wolle
ALL BRANCHES

HELLO!

You Renter with $500 or $1,000---You Land Owner with $1,000 or $10,000.

We have the farms---150 of them---in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Dakotas. Some first class exchanges---what have you to offer?

Let's Boost A Little

Tell me not in mournful numbers that the country's on the "bum;" rouse up from your peaceful slumbers, get out, buy, and make things hum.

The past is gone; you can't call one moment back; so let's go to work and make things hit on high. Get out your wallet and let's go.

We sell the earth and all it's belongings. Just give us a chance.

Truly yours,

WOLLE LAND AGENCY

Over Griesy's

Belmond, - Iowa

Are You As Good

As the Next Fellow?

Our government was founded on the principle that all men are created free and equal. But whether they remain so is entirely up to them.

Are You Free?

Can you do as you please, go as you please, have what you want? Is it not simply a question of "Can I afford it?" If you have acquired the habit of spending less than you earn, of saving a part, no matter how small, you are and will be free, the equal of the next fellow. It is up to you now. We will help you to start a savings account that will make you the equal of any man, free you from worry and want, and place a rosy hue over the future.

The Free Man Is Happy---Are You Free?

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

Low Rate Excursion!

$1.25 to Mason City
$1.65 to Clear Lake
AND RETURN
On Special Train via
GREAT WESTERN
JULY 4th

Leave Belmond 8:40 a. m.
Arrive Mason City 9:52 a. m.
Returning Leave Mason City 10:50 p. m.

Special Attractions

Base Ball---Eagle Grove vs. Clear Lake. July 4th Celebration. Beautiful Clear Lake, Boating, Fishing and numerous other attractions.

No Reduction for Children. No baggage checked.

For detailed information consult
F. L. MORTIMER, Agent
Chicago Great Western R. R.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Junior Judges Meeting Often

Members of the Junior Livestock Judging team and the county agent met at the G. J. Miller home, two and one-half miles southwest of Clarion, last Tuesday afternoon where the boys were given a work-out on the herd of Spotted Poland China hogs. The fore part of the meeting was spent in studying the score card which is used in judging hogs and the balance of the time was spent in working over two classes of Poland China sows.

The boys met with the county agent at the Harry Woodley farm, four miles east of Clarion, last Thursday evening where they were given a work-out on the sheep and dairy cows. The time was spent in explaining the score card and in working over several classes in these different kinds of livestock.

The boys seem to be taking great interest in the judging work and are all determined to see that the silver loving cup or trophy is kept in Wright county this yar. Those who are still interested in joining the Junior Livestock Judging club should get in touch with the county agent and arrange to be at the next meeting. Boys who are taking active part in the judging work are as follows, Lynn Thompson, Will Paul Fred Moellering, Arno Myers, Leo Woodley, Duane Bingham, Laurel Hill, Melvin Buck, Milan Buck and Everett Woodley.

Woolstock Farmers Enjoy Picnic

The Woolstock Township Farm Bureau picnic which was held at Head Grove last Wednesday, June 20th, and which was attended by from three to four hundred farmers of that community laid aside their work for the afternoon and took part in this lively community picnic.

Blaine Picnic Big Success

The township farm bureau picnic which was held at the Dows Community Park last Thursday, June 21st, proved to be a big success from the standpoint of community social life and general interest which was shown in the program. Meeker's orchestra which is so widely known over Wright county, furnished the music for this occasion and everyone was pleased with the life which the music frunished for the occasion.

Poultry Members to Hear Specialist

Professor L. E. Heifner of the poultry department of the extension service at Ames, will be in Wright county next Thusday to meet with the boys and girls who are members of the Wright County Poultry club. The meeting will be held in the county agent's office Thursday afternoon, at 2;30.

Each member of the poultry club is being urged to attend this meeting and get the suggestions direct from Mr. Hiefner who is admitted to be authority on poultry club work.

It has been thought that since there are about ninety members of the poultry club in Wright County, it would be best to hold a county wide meeting at the county agent's office and in this way give every member an opportunity to hear what Professor Hiefner has to say. Every member of the poultry club in Wright county should make a special effort to hear Mr. Hiefner's talk.

Baby Beeves to be Inspected

John A. Day, representative of the Iowa Beef Producers' association with headquarters at Ames, will be in Wright county next Friday to accompany the county agent on a trip to visit all members of the Baby Beef club.

The object of Mr. Day's visit in the county will be to check up on the condition of the calves and to give suggestions to the boys and girls for the proper caring and feeding for the baby beeves.

Plans are being made for the committee in charge of the livestock exhibit of the county picnic and sate fair to give every boy and girl opportunity to show their calves at the state fair. If plans are carried out, a car load of calves will be made up and exhibited at the state fair this year.

COW TESTING IS IMPORTANT

Record Showing High Production of Animal Greatly Increases Price of Bull Calf.

A farmer sold a male calf for $35. Later its dam was tested for advanced registry. When the yearly record was completed it was found that the cow produced over 22,000 pounds of milk and 681 pounds of butter. Her next bull calf was sold for $300. This indicates in a concrete way something of the value of testing dairy cows.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Cording for dress Trimming—

This is a form of trimming for putting designs on silk dresses with rope silk or slip stitching it on; for making belt or sash by braiding three cords and using tassel or ball to finish the ends; to make loop buttonholes.

A—Cut bias strip desired length and as wide as type of your material requires for padding. Try a small piece following the directions before cutting a quantity of bias. B—Fold bias through center. C—Stitch from the fold the desired size of the casing of your cord. This stitching produces a tuck. The material part of this tuck is to be used for the padding of the cord. D—Use a safety pin which is small enough to pass through the casing. Secure it at one end of the casing wrong side out. This draws the material through the tuck turning it inside out and acting as padding. If the tuck is too nuarrow to use a sefety pin as bobin catch one end with a stout threaq and run the threaded needle blunt end forward through the tuck. Pull on the end of the thread and the tuck will turn inside out.

Cleaning Reed Furniture—

Keeping reed or wicker furniture clean is a problem in itself. Before freshening the pieces with paint or varnish, they should be cleaned with this solution; Into one gallon of warm water have three ounces of pure castile soap, add one ounce of any bland oil, such as corn, olive or cotton-seed. When the soap is dissolveed, apply to furniture with stiff brush and pour the rest of solution in jars for future use. After cleaning, a small amount of furniture polish may be rubbed over the surface to remove the oily film of the cleaning solution.

Did you know that tacking a thin piece of silk in the heels of your silk hose add t· their wearing quali'i·?

RICHES IN GYPSUM

When Iowa was being settled back in the "seventies" land seekers avoided the rough prairie and timber land southeast of Ft. Dodge. A deposit known in after years as gypsum from which the famous Cardiff Giant was carved was either unknown or regarded as of no value. Plaster from such a formation was never dreamed of. Lime and sand with cow or horse hair mixed with it to give adhesiveness, were the component parts of the only plastering material known. The conversion of gypsum into the large scale it holds now added immense value to lands underlaid with this deposit. Recently the U. S. Gypsum Co., operating a large plaster mill southeast of Fort Dodge purchased what is known as the Welles tract from George Ringland, trustee, for $401,570, or $1000 per acre. This addition to its holdings will give the United States Gypsum Co., material to last it for many years. There are other rich gypsum deposits in the vicinity and the gypsum industry has added untold wealth to Webster conty, and contributed much to the substantial growth of Fort Dodge, one of the most promising cities in Iowa.—Leader.

Foolish Question.

"I suppose you were touched when your wife gave you that $100 watch on your birthday?" "Of course I was touched. How do you think she got the hundred?"—Boston Transcript.

How to Do It.

"I wish I could earn a large fortune."

"You've got the wrong idea, my boy.
Fortunes are'nt earned; they're saved."

Always be too busy to pity yourself, but never too busy to sympathize with others.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

HOW DO YOU TACKLE YOUR WORK?

How do you tackle your work each day?
Are you scared of the job you find?
Do you grapple the task that comes your way
With a confident, easy mind?
Do you stand right up to the work ahead,
Or fearfully pause to view it?
Do you start to toil with a sense of dread,
Or feel that you're going to do it?

You can do as much as you think you can,
But you'll never accomplish more;
If you're afraid of yourself, young man,
There's little for you in store.
For failure comes from the inside first,
It's there, if we only knew it,
And you can win, though you face the worst,
If you feel that you're going to do it.

Success! It's found in the soul of you,
And not in the realm of luck!
The world will furnish the work to do,
But you must provide the pluck.
You can do whatever you think you can,
It's all in the way you view it,
It's all in the start you make, young man;
You must feel that you are going to do it.

How do you tackle your work each day?
With confidence clear, or dread?
What to yourself do you stop and say,
When a new task lies ahead?
What is the thought that is in your mind?
Is fear ever running through it?
If so, just tackle the next you find
By thinking you're going to do it.

By Edgar A. Guest.

The Fable of Tut.

Three thousand years ago lived an Egyptian king named Tut-Ankh-Amen. It sounded like a stutter and the gang at the Luxor Golf club called him "Tut."

When Tut reached the Cake Eater age and got his hair plastered back right—he died. Dying was one of the leading Egyptian indoor sports and Tut's death was a major event. They slipped him into a swell tomb in the Valley of the Kings.

Three thousand years later a party of snoipers dug up Tut's tomb and all the junk buried with him. The advertising men took charge of Tut and in a few weeks have given him a rep which makes Charlie Chaplin's and Doug's and M. Day by Day Coue's look like last year's almanac is comparison.

Dead for 3,000 years! Lost! Forgotten. Then, Bang! Advertised—and the whole world hollers for more news of Tut.

If advertising can thus put life into a dead one—what cant be done for a live one?

For a live business—for your business?

They could have dug up a hundred Tuts in the desert and if they had kept the good news to themselves only a few would have known of it.

You can have the best merchandise in the world, but if the world don't get hep to it—the business will sleep along peacefully.

Remember Tut!

Marathon Republic.

If you want to change your wife's opinion just find out quietly what she thinks and then spring it as your own idea.

Glory comes to the man who doesn't allow it to slip by.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

United States Tires are Good Tires -and "USCO" confirms it!

YOUR enthusiasm over "USCO" performance won't surprise the motorist who knows the fabric tire field.

Every 30 x 3½ tire user recognizes "USCO" as a value to be respected and to be investigated.

The users of "USCO," know it as a money's worth that came before the public as a leader and that has maintained its leadership.

"USCO" is made by the same people who make Royal Cords.

Where to buy U.S. Tires

Jones Harness Company
Belmond, Iowa

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, JUNE 28, 1923. No. 14.

RELIABLE MACHINES

McCormick and Deering binders are reliable machines. Your father and probably your grandfather depended on McCormick and Deering binders to harvest their crop. Each year more and more McCormick and Deering binders are being used, showing that your forefathers' faith was well placed. In lightness of draft, ease of operation and accuracy in getting all the grain under varying conditions, these binders have made good under the most severe tests of time. We have binders set up for your inspection. Come in and look over the latest improvements and talk with us about your harvesting problems. We are here to help you.

A Warm Weather Helper.

It won't be long until real warm weather will be with us again. Then's when you will appreciate a helper—One that will do many of the odd jobs around the farm at a minimum of expense. Such a helper is the International kerosene engine. The International helps the whole family and knows no limit to its day when you have work to do. It will pump your water, saw the wood, wash the clothes, separate the milk, grind the feed, shell the corn, churn the butter, and do many other odd jobs about the place if given an opportunity—all at a cost of less than three cents an hour—and we'll say that's going some. Come in and look over the International hard-working kerosene engine.

Three more Primrose Cream separators sold last week. Geo. C. Johnson, John Wirtz and I. N. Soma are the new owners. Ask them.

ARE YOU HOT?

We will bet you are in the fields these days, and—what about the wife who has to stand over a hot range all day? Hadn't you better buy her that New Perfection Oil Range that you promised her? We have all sizes in stock.

AND REMEMBER— Our prices are from 10 to 21 per cent below the market on all farm macaines as long as we have a machine left purchased under old contracts.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, JULY 2

Ye Old Tymme Dance

FREE! FREE!

Ye Public is invited to attend Ye Old Tymme Dance on Friday, June 29th

In the new building of the

Belmond Auto Company

The Jenison-Nolte 4-piece Orchestra will furnish the music. All the old time dances. "Allemand Left" and Do-Se-Do" will be there—and everything is FREE!

NO CHARGE FOR ANYTHING!

It's just for a good time. Old and young, from Eight to Eighty, are invited to come; join in, and have a good time, as guests of the

Belmond Auto Company

"CHOOSE YOUR PARTNER"

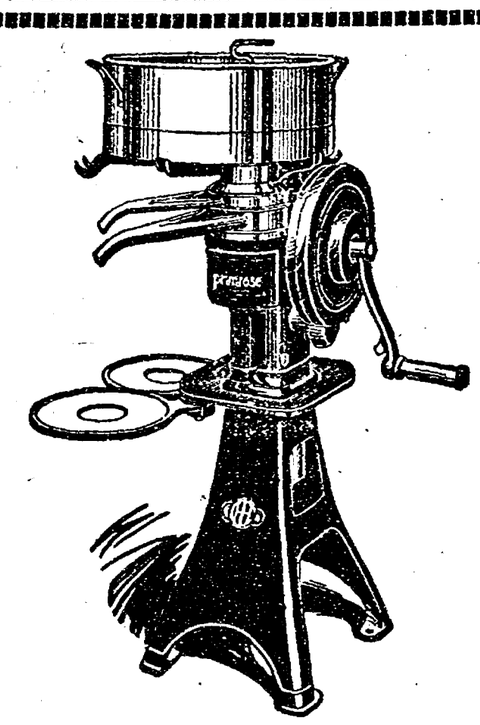
MESERVEY SECTION

For Sale—My property in the north part of town. See Mrs. P. Schove, Meservey, Iowa. 29tfc

Christ Groen of Belmond was in town a short time last Friday, greeting old friends.

Mrs. Simon Fischer and daughter Gladys accompanied the former's niece to her home in Mason City on Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hieko Kuhlers and daughter, Mrs. H. Wendel were Mason City callers last Friday.



Better be safe than be sorry. Buy the Primrose, the universal Separator, and wear a CONTENTED SMILE

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

for Economical Transportation

Chevrolet!

You Can See the Difference

ASK THE FIRST 10

Owners of Chevrolets you see, what they think of the car they own---

Then Use Your Own Judgment

For Sale By

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

The "Place" To Live

The only "place" to live happily is inside your income.

Not until you have lived for a time outside your income do you fully realize this truth.

Make it a practice to save ten per cent of your income. You will then "live within your income"--and live happily.

Start today.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Those who attended the C. E. and S. S. Convention held at Mason City last Friday Saturday and Sunday were, Rev. Schlesselman and children Orvis and Doroth, Agnes Fischer and Eva Sprau.

Why Not Have A Boiled Dinner?

It will make a very pleasing change as well as prove economical.

We also have the best quality hams and bacon, and remember we carry a complete assortment of cheese and sausages. We always have good butter on hand.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

Fred Schluter and family were callers at the County Seat last Wednesday.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Our Motto--"Quality First"

We are showing this week a few new patterns in "King Tut" Voile which will make very desirable frocks for the coming summer months.

Now---

is the time to be wearing nice cool Underwear. We have it in MUNSINGWEAR.

Overalls and Work Shirts are going fast and if you want them at the old price, come soon.

Groceries always fresh and prices right.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

Quality Building Material

ALL KINDS

Drain Tile Hard and Soft Coal

Building Blocks and Floor Blocks

Lime and Cement Steel and Cedar Posts

Steel Braces Woven Wire

Galvanized and Painted Gates---priced right

Roof Windows for your hog house--let the sun shine in.

Screen Doors and Window Screens

Porch Screens made to order---keep the flies out.

Iowa Automatic Hog Door--the only door for your hog house

WE ARE AT YOUR SERVICE AT ALL TIMES

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

Mr. and Mrs. B. Boelman, Mr. and Mrs. R. Boelman and Mrs. Echoft motored to Aplington last Thursday spending the day here visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kolb visited at the Fred Enabit and Geo. J. Fischer homes in Mason City on last week Wednesday.

Grandpa Myers is again able to be out after his recent illness, and we are pleased to see him and hear his cheerful expressions every day.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Raecker were Mason City callers last Thursday.

E. A. and Ott Strasburg returned last Friday evening from their fishing trip to lake Mille Lac, Minn. They report a splendid trip, and good luck fishing altho' the time taken for the trip was hardly long enough, the distance being about 300 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wendell were Mason City calers last Thursday.

Joe White and family, and Lucile Legge of Belmond and Claire White of Ft. Dodge were calling in town a short time last Friday evening.

Mrs. Geo. Watermiller of near Goodell spent a few days last week at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. Gerdes. Her mother is still quite ill since her recent stroke of paralysis.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Gruis are visiting relatives and friends in Pella, making the trip in their car. They were accompanied by their daughter Mrs. John Mennenga and her daughter Edna Mae.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father, and for the beautiful floral offerings and spiritual bouquets.

Mrs. Lee Lewis and children.

Mrs. Mienderts visited several days last week at the Bert Lauen home in Belmond. Her niece Marie Lauen accompanied her home for a few days visit.

Mrs. Burma and Mrs. L. Pals, visited about a week with relatives at Kamrar. Mrs. Burma returned to her home in Little Rock and Mrs. Pals returned here Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Quandt returned home from a four or five weeks stay with her parents at Waukomis, Okla., on Saturday. She reports her mother in a very critical condition with no hopes for her recovery.

Billy Jones arrived last Saturday to spend a few days with his family.

Mrs. Wm. Brower and two youngest children of Sheffield were callers at the Muller home last Sunday p. m.

Those who attended the C. E. and S. S. convention at Mason City from here last Sunday were G. Lauster and family, L. Foss and wife, Irene Guth, Rev. Schlesselman and family, Fred Menzel, C. F. W. Paul and family, H. Fischer and family. They report a good meeting.

Miss Van Deest and nephew Hannes Van Deest, who recently immigrated to this country from Germany and a brother of the latter from Aplington, also Carl Niehaus of Sheffield, were callers at the S. Hulsebus home last Sunday.

Fred Schluter and wife were Mason city callers Monday.

A. J. Nissen and family, Bonita and Neva Muller were Sunday visitors at the Chas. Gealow home near Belmond.

G. E. Raecker, H. Fischer, Sr., and Franklin and Lyle were Mason City callers last Monday, getting car repairs.

Miss Mildred Gealow spent Sunday with her parents at Belmond, returning in the evening with A. J. Nissens.

Dr. Kruso and wife, who arrived here last Friday from Germany, are with the Harm J. Pals family, who are related to them. The doctor we understand, has accepted a place in the Park hospital at Mason City.

Oliver Yelland and family from Sheffield were visitors at the C. J. Wendell home Sunday p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Reif were Motor passengers to Mason City last Tuesday.

Children's Day will be observed at the Evang. church next Sunday, both morning and evening. All are cordially invited. An offering will be taken for missions.

Miss Margaret Mansholt of Soo Falls, S. D., is here visiting at the Mrs. H. Meinderts home.

H. Proost and Simon Fischer were business callers at Belmond on last Tuesday foenoon.

The Misses Grace and Anna Pals, Jennie Meinderts, Peter Ver Duin and Clarence Pals spent Saturday and Sunday wih relatives and some friends at Ackley, Aplington and Austinville. On their way home they stopped at the home of Miss Humke, one of the teachers here last year.

A. J. Nissen and family, and Neva Muller were callers on friends in Klemme last Monday evening.

Heiko Kuhler and family Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wendell and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Enabnit of Clear Lake spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Kuhler's sister, Mrs. Jahn Schroeder at Britt.

Mrs. Bert Lauen and daughter, Janet, of Belmond visited here at the home of her mother on Thursday of last week.

It is reported that one of our well known business men was caught out in the storm Saturday night; that he became so frightened that he looked for a storm cave. That he aroused a farmer from his slumbers and failed to notice the large glass door so walked right into the house without opening it. Results, a broken glass but no other damages, except shattered nerves. (This is a story so we will not vouch for the truth.)

For your 4th of July picnic supplies, Ice Cream. Three gallons and up. Leave your orders early. See H. B. Fry. 1tc

For Sale—A 6 ft. McCormick Binder, in first class shape. Guaranteed. $40.—Joe Smith, Meservey, Iowa. 32tfc

BOYS AND GIRLS TO HAVE BIG PART IN FAIR

Iowa is making preparations to stage the largest farm boys' and girls' Exposition ever held by any state in the Union.

It is to be put on at the coming Iowa State Fair, Aug. 22-31, according to preliminary announcement of plans given at Des Moines by county agents, state club workers and fair officials.

The prize list for the boys and girls competitions will reach the grand total of over $10,000. Entries already scheduled comprise exhibits to be made by more than 1000 junior farmers from every county in the state.

There will be over 500 head of baby beeves alone, representing the most select of more than 1,700 calves now on feed, owned and bred by the boys and girls of the state. Entries are being made in similar proportions in the swine, sheep and poultry departments of the State Fair where equally large prizes are offered.

In addition to exhibiting the livestock and grain which they have raised on their fathers' farms, these junior farmers will give daily demonstrations of all kinds throughout the period of the fair. They will show how to cull poultry, how to milk cows, how to make dresses, cook and can--and a multitude of other things that enter into better farming and better farm home making.

The contests are limited strictly to Iowa boys and girls. Entry blanks can be obtained by writing to the Secretary of the State fair.

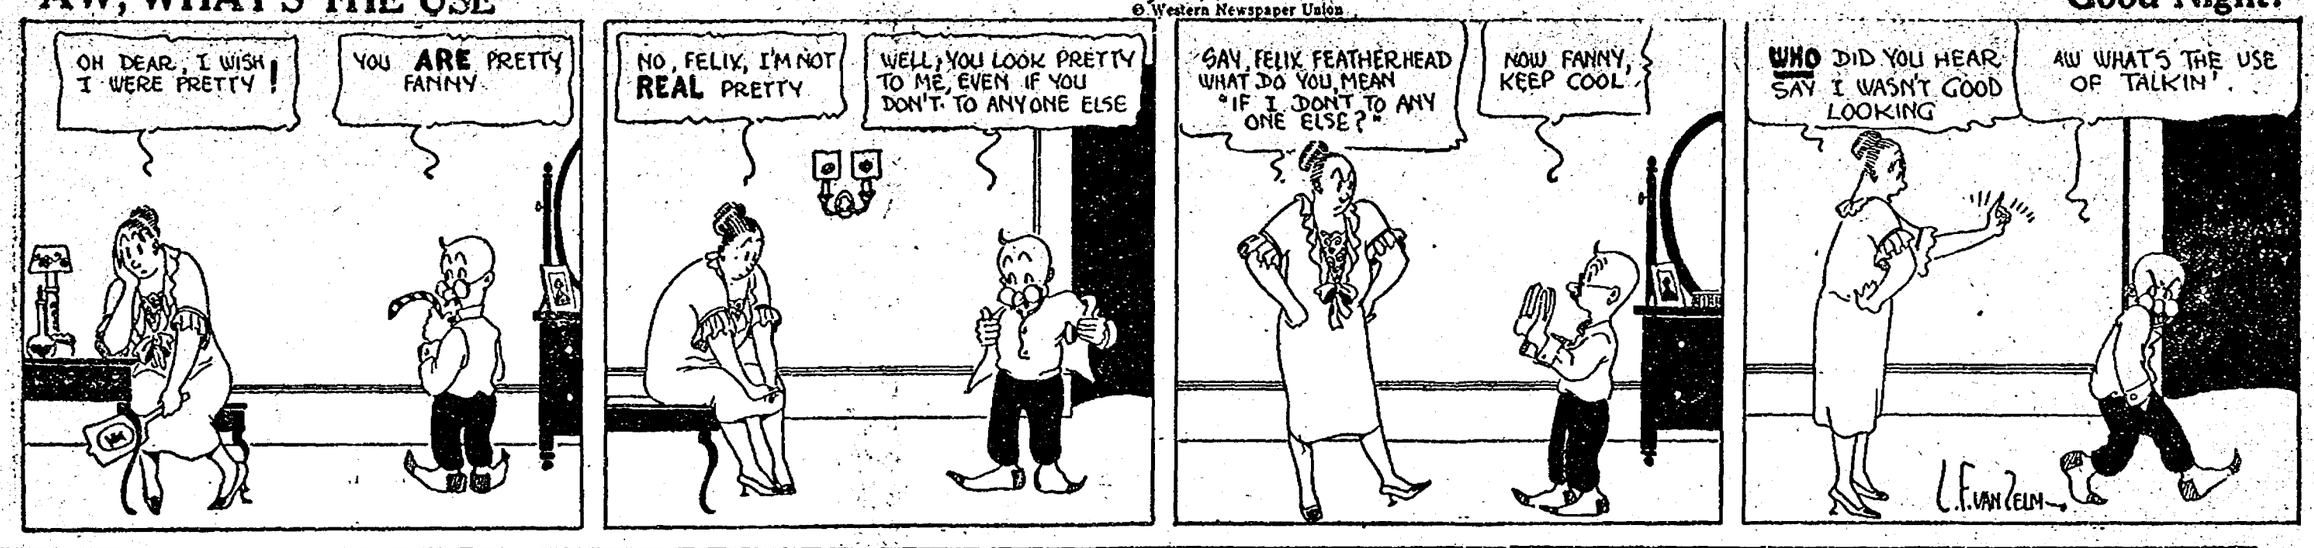
"Will you tell your sister the young millionaire she met at the beach is here?"

"She knows it. She says a patient waiter is no loser, and she saw you waiting on a table today."

Tess—There are microbes in kisses.

Tom—Can you blame 'em?

Independent Wants Ads are little but they bring Big Returns. Try one for what you have to sell or rent.



ROWAN NEWS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Charles Emerson and family drove to St. Paul Minn. Mrs. Emerson expects to remain for some time, visiting her parents and other relatives at St. Paul and other points in Minnesota.

R. H. Keith and Chas. were at Eagle Grove and Ft. Dodge on business last Tuesday.

Byron Riley was quite seriously injured last Wednesday while at work on the section, the spike which he was driving slipped and cut an ugly gash in his leg. It was found ntcessary to take an x-ray picture.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse Sullivan of Ft. Dodge called on Rowan relatives Sunday. They were enroute to Bruce Wis. to visit at he Chester Conn and Tim Weld homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bohnett attended the Farm Bureau meeting at Lincoln Friday evening. Mrs. Bohnett had a part on the programme.

Mrs. G. R. Sheldon, Misses Bernice Hanson, Anna and Nina Rietz, Arno Myers and Kenneth Keith attended the Stardard Bearers Convention at Emmetsburg last Tuesday.

Andrew Sorenson and family from Duncan spent the week end with relatives here.

The Chas. Bowers family were visiting at Iowa Falls over Sunday.

Miss Alice Davis of Clarion is a guest this week at the V. E. Munson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Villin of Marble Rock Iowa were guests at the H. P. Ketchum home last week.

G. S. Liming was called to Maroa, Ill. last Friday on account of the serious illness of his mother.

Miss Bonnie Thomas returned last Tuesday from an extended visit with relatives at Williams.

Violet Patton underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids at the Steele Hospital in Belmond last Tuesday.

Mrs. Daniel Whitten Sr. and Laurel spent part of last week at the J. E. Baines home near Dows.

Ralph Whitten went to Mingo Ia. last Tuesday, while there he acceptd a position in the schools of that place.

Mrs. W. W. Bailey Sr. was qutte ill the first of the week. Dr. George was called Monday morning.

Misses Garnette Stumph and Lorine Lining were Clarion visitors Monday.

Harm Brinkman and family, Chris Klemensen and family of Latimer H. J. Whitten and family, D. W. Whitten and famly, G. W. Whitten and family and Mrs. Daniel Whitten Sr. and family and Vessie Ramsay all enjoyed a picnic dinner last Sunday at the Milt Ramsey home.

George Ballou has begun excavating a cellar on his property in town preparatory to the erection of a new house.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ballou have returned from their trip to Spirit Lake Okoboji, and Clear Lake.

John Dix, who has been attending to repair work on his farm near town returned to his home in Hampton the latttr part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Baines and little son from Dows visited at the Mary Braden home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris drove to Belmond last Friday, called there by the illness of Mrs. Harris' son, Ted Townsan, who was operated on for appendicitis.

Miss Hazel Frakes who has been visiting at the Gordon Sharp home, returned to her home at Webster City, Sunday.

Friends here received word of the birth of a new baby girl at the Floyd Pollard home in Twin Fals Idaho. Mrs. Pollard was formerly Dorothy Pritchett of Rowan.

Mrs. H. J. Whitten, Mrs. G. W. Whitten and Gladys, and Mrs. Floyd Whitten were Hampton callers last Saturday.

Nels Kjar has been on the sick list the past week,

Blanche Cleveland, who has been spending several days with her friend Miss Gladys Whitten, returned to her hime at Goldfield, Thursday.

G. W. Whitten and family were Clarion callers, Thursday afternoon.

Harry Barker, called at the G. W. Whitten home Friday. He is a cousin of Mrs. Whitten's.

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Cundall of Galt attended the anniversary party at Rev. Halbert's, Friday evening.

Florence Sanders of Galt has been visiting at the O. E. Ballou home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rietz went to Webster City Monday, where Mrs. Rietz was to undergo a minor operation.

Several auto loads went from here to Clear Lake, Tuesday to spend the day.

The ladies of the M. E. church spent several days last week at the parsonage arranging the house ior the new minister and family.

The ladies of the Methodist Home Missionary Society are having their annual picnic, Thursday afternoon of this week. The children are having their mite box opening at this time; come and bring your basket.

OBITUARY

Horace A. Chipman passed away June 1st. at the home of his son Harry at St. Paul, Minn. Had he lived until June 10th he would reached the ripe age 81 years. He was one of the veterans of the civil war, and also belonged to the Masonic lodge. For several years he was a resident of Rowan. The remains were buried in the mausoleum at Spring Vallely, Minn, where his people are buried. He leaves to mourn his loss, his eldest daughter, Mrs. Fred Weber of Rowan. Herbert of Manson Iowa, Harry, St. Paul, Clifford of Rowan Claude of Ft. Dodge, and Mrs. Mabel Reed of Cedar Rapids.

OBITUARY

James Andrew Dayton was born in Spafford, Ovandago county New York, Feburary 14 ,1833, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. A. French on June 19, 1923, at the age of 90 years, 4 months and five days. When 11 years of age he moved with his parents to Wisconsin and at the age of 17 moved to Whiteside county Illinois. On August 7, 1853 he was married to Abigail Bruce of Unionville, Ill. This wife, the mother of his chilren passed away at their home in Dysart, Iowa on October 31, 1888.

In later years he married Mrs. Mattie Hamilton of Clintonville Wis. Because of the infirmities of their age they were no longer able to keep house and Mrs. Dayton lives with a stepdaughter, while Mr. Dayton has spent most of the past four years at the French home. Mr. Dayton has been a business man, the most of his life having run a grocery store in Cedar Rapids for many years, where he was very much respected. Besides his wife he leaves four sons and three daughters. Funeral services were held at the D. A. French home, Thursday, June 21, at 10 A. M. conducted by the Rev. C. T. Halbert. Miss La Vanne Ballou and D. W. Whiten sang "There'ill Be No Dark river." The body was taken to Dysart where a son from Estherville and a daughter from Cedar Rapids met them for the burial rite.

Rev. and Mrs. C. T. Halbert declare their people master artists when it comes to planning and carrying out a surprise on Friday evening, June 22nd. The O. E. Ballou family invited them to go for a ride. After a delightful drive of an hour and darkness was drawing on they returned to the parsonage to find the lawn and house filled with friends. Upon entering they were showered with roses, as they had been showered twenty-five years ago when leaving on their honeymoon. On passing into the dining room they beheld upon the table a mammoth wedding cake, banked with roses. This cake a typical Scotch (fruit) wedding cake was a product of Miss Elsie Keith a native of Scotland—very appropriate, as Mrs. Halbert' mother birthplace was near by that of Mis Keith's. The cake was built in three tiers, the total height being about 18 inches and the weight of the cake was twenty-five pounds. The elaborate icing made it a thing of beauty.

After the company, numbering 80 had assembled on the lawn, Mr. and Mrs. Halbert were asked to occupy seats of honor, and Mrs. Frank Kercheval in her inimitable way presented the words written by Miss Elsie Keith.—

'Twas in the year of ninety eight, the rosy month of June, Our pastor and his cherry mate, spent their sweet honeymoon. They've had their ups and downs, But they've no olive branch to show, to mark to count the milestones as they come and go But godd luck brought them to our town, and we could scarcely let their anniversary's sun go down, before we all had met to wish them many more years of wedded bliss our utmost thoughts we can't convey so now we hand them this—(a gift of silver). Let this small token keep us in your memories fresh and green and think of us as kindly as we are (not might have been) There are many here amongst us who will live to bless the day that brought you here to labor In this vineyard by the way."

Rev. Halberts response was full of gratitude to the friends whose love had made possible so pleasant an occasion. The company joined in singing Blest be the tie that binds.

Mrs. Clint Kercheval as master of ceremonies in the entertainment line made the social hour a pleasant one. After ice cream and cake had been served the wedding cake was brought out for the bride to cut into assisted by Miss Keith, who is an adept in the art of cutting Scotch wedding cakes.

The pastor and his wife were wished many returns of the day, as the company departed.

GOODELL NEWS

Brenner The Florist. Phone 134. Clarion, Iowa.

Miss Lizza Cashman fell, Tuesday and hurt her foot badly.

Dr. Missman was in town on Wednesday on professional business.

Mrs. James Schneider was quite ill last week.

Mrs. Okrueg who has been sick for some time was taken to Hampton to the hospital for treatment.

O. A. Nelson of Ames spent Sunday at the Sandberg home. He came up with Carl on Saturday and returned Sunday.

Mr. Pirkin and Prof. Hikcock of Coe college were in town on Friday in the interest of the college.

The passing of the 300 U. S. troops Saturday created some excitement for our village.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenison took Carl Sandberg and Prof. Nelson to Ames Sunday afternoon. Carl and the prof. report that the work at Ames is no play.

Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Miller and Mrs. John Ellsworth and Mrs. John Ahrenkeil attended the M. E. camp meeting at Garner on Sunday.

Wilmer Burk and family were over to Clear Lake on Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Rust was buried from the U. B. church at 2 p. m. on Tuesday. Her body arrived on Monday evening from Minn.

A. C. Carpenter visited relatives at Lake Mills on last Friday.

Mr. Butts was in Goodell, Monday

IS NOT PROHIBITIVE

The United States Supreme court has decided the Iowa law prohibiting the teaching of foreign languages in the grades to be unconstitutional. Similar laws have been passed in Ohio and Nebraska and the three states joined in an effort to sustain the acts in each of them. The Iowa case was brought by August Bartels, a teacher in the St. John's school at Maxfield, Bremer county. The state courts had sustained the validty of the law. Contending that the instructions imparted in a foreign language was in its nature harmless to public morals, and did not imperil the public safety, those bringing the cases asserted that any attempt by the states under such circumsances would be an illegal resriction and abridgement of their constitutional liberties. It was not intended by the restrictions imposed to interfere in any way, the states pointed out, with a person studying foreign languages after reaching the high schools or in any of the higher institutions of learning. The decision was delivered by a divided court, Justice Holmes delivering a dissenting opinion in behalf of himself and Justce Sutherland. They held that the laws should be tried out as to their effect in making more general the use of English as the national language.

ALEXANDER NEWS

St. John's Evangelical Church.
Sunday school at 2 o'clock
Preaching Services at 3 o'clock.

Several children will be baptised at this time all services will be in the English language .

Our ladies aid will meet with Mrs. C. J. Barth, July 3. All are welcome to our services.

C. J. Barth Pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Finkle and daughter Leona of Hampton were Sunday visitors with relatives at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Peters and daughters Dorothy and Irene were callers at Hampton last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Pals and son Raymond were callers at Klemme last Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Palmateer attended the funeral services of her uncle Mr. Dayton at Rowan last Thursday.

Karl Grieman of Latimer was a visitor at this place last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and sons Carrol and Donald Paul visited with relatives at Webster City last Sunday.

Mrs. Kate Kausian and daughter Minnie of Green visited with relatives at this place the first part of the week.

Miss Ruth Polmateer left last week for Iowa Falls where she will attend the Edgewood Sewing school during the summer months.

Will Ammerman has purchased a fine new Ford Sedan, and Mrs. Suntkes a new Dodge Coupe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Miss Jessie Bell and Suste and Ethel Schulte visited at the W. C. Tucker hime in Hampton last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and son Kenneth, Mrs. Wm. Winwood and daughter Mary, were callers at Belmond last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polmateer and family were visitors at Belmond Saturday.

Will Foughty, Mrs. Anna Pekersk and daughter visited with friends at Hampton last Sunday.

John Bell and daughter, Nellie were callers at Belmond last Wednesday

Earnest and Julius Kusian from Green were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. W. P. Aldinger, Mrs. F. L. Greenfield, Mrs. Clarence Murphy, and Mrs. Anna Pekerak autoed to Aredale last Friday and spent the day visiting with Mrs. John Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arends and family and Miss Evelyn Dirksen were callers at Belmond last Sunday.

Mrs. Will Waddington and Mrs. Loomis of Geneva are visiting at the Otto Kieslich home this week.

They are now distilling hootch from acorns. Great soaks from little acorns grow.

Taxes and death may be certain, but they are not similar. You can do all your dying at one time and get thru with it.

If ignorance is bliss, then why are so many of us unhappy?

Don't Kick At the Weather!

How could we have corn on the ear without it?

There is a way to make yourself mighty comfortable. Whether its for work or for dress---for everyday or Sunday---there is a wide range here---the kinds we enjoy selling and you'll enjoy buyiug.

Boy's first long pant Suits---some 2 pants---$22.50 to $35.00.
Men's Suits $25 to $55.
Two-piece $18 to $35.
Boy's Palm Beach Knickers $2.25.
Waists $1 and $1.50.
Shirts $1. 5 to $3.00.
Union Suits for Boys 50c, $1 and$1.50.

Does honest-to-goodness quality count with you? Then you will enjoy trading here. Our goods and our prices will please you.

PATTON BROS. COMPANY
Mason City and Manly, Iowa
WHERE A DOLLAR DOES ITS DUTY

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by
THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.
Oelwein, Iowa
T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa
Agent
Phone 196 or 115

White Produce Weekly

VOL. I NO 4

Just to remind you again of our weekly wants. Let us say now that we are more anxious than ever to handle your Cream, Eggs and Poultry.

And during the hot weather such as we have been having, keep the eggs gathered up often— let the little tots, they enjoy hunting eggs. We want eggs, so if you haven't been in the habit of selling us your eggs, get the habit. It pays. We pay cash. It is the only thing we have to give you for them, and what is better than the cash?

Bring in those hens this week. Also the old roosters. Better get your two and two and a half pound broilers on the market pretty soon, as they are on the decline now.

Don't wait—Do It Now!

Too hot to wash dishes, isn't it? Just remember it isn't necessary to rewash cream cans when they leave our place—we do it up right and relieve you of a little extra work. Try us—we will do for you what we would do for any one else.

"That WHITE Boy"

Manager

PREMIUM LIST

Waterloo Laundry Co.

WATERLOO IOWA

Save Your Laundry Lists

Family Washing
Dry Cleaning
Hat Cleaning and Blocking Dyeing

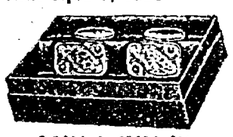
Secure These Valuable Premiums Free

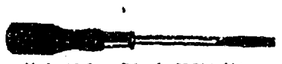
This Offer Applies Only on Lists Dated After April 1, 1923

Men's Silver Buckle Belt for $7.50 in Lists



Cuff Links for $5.00 in Lists

Pocket Knife, Genuine Car-Van Steel for $10.00 in Lists



Mechanic's Screw Driver for $7.50 in Lists

Ever-Rite Pencil for $5.00 in Lists

Gold Embossed Handle Scissors for $7.50 in Lists

ASK - OUR - AGENT

BRADY BARBER SHOP

Belmond, Iowa

Has Congress

Helped the Farmer?

Through Legislation?

The farmer now needs "higher prices" and not "more credit-" But the old debts must be taken care of. And Congress HAS helped.

The Federal Farm Loan Act was passed in 1916. Joint Stock Land Banks and Federal Land Banks have been organized to make long-time mortgage loans to farmers. Over one billion dollars has been loaned on this plan.

These loans run from 5 to 34 1-2 years without renewal charges and at a present 5 1-2 per cent interest rate.

No Commission---Liberal Prepayment

The principal is reduced a little each year by equal regular payments. There is no need of renewals.

We represent the

First-Trust Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

POLICE CHIEF GIVES SOUND SAFETY RULES

Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania state police force, recently promulgated the following simple rules which, he said, if observed by all motorists, would reduce the number of accidents on the highways 95 per cent. The rules are as follows,

1. Read the automobile laws of your state carefully.
2. Never travel at a high rate of speed over a road with which you are unfamiliar.
3. Never drive, at any time, on the wrong side of the highway.
4. Heed warning signs.
5. Never pass, or attempt to pass, a car going in the same direction at the crest of a hill or on a curve.
6. Never stop your car just over the brow of a hill or just around a curve.
7. Never follow a car traveling at a high rate of speed at less distance than 50 yards.
8. If you wish to pass another car going in your direction choose a long, straight stretch of road.
9. When you are traveling at a chosen rate of speed don't "speed up" because someone attempts to pass you.
10. Make careful and frequent inspections and tests of your brakes.
11. Never use bulbs of higher candlepower than those prescribed by law for your lenses.
12. Inspect your taillight frequently. This light marks the position of your car for the following driver, who may be facing light of an oncoming automobile.
13. Remember that the taking of a human life by doing a lawful act in an unlawful manner is involuntary manslaughter, a crime punishable by a prison sentence.
14. Remeber that every time you "take a chance" you are gambling with the lives of other people as the "stakes."
15. "Safety First, Last and Always."

TWO KINDS OF PEOPLE.

There are two kinds of people on earth to-day,
Just two kinds of people, no more, I say,
Not the saint and the sinner, for it is well understood
The good are half bad the bad are half good;
Not the rich and the poor, for to count a man's wealth
You must first know the state of his conscience and health;
Not the humble and proud, for in life's little span
Who puts on vain airs is not counted a man;
Not the happy and sad, for the swift flying years
Bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.
No. The two kinds of people on earth I mean
Are the people who lift and the people who lean.
Wherever you go you will find the world's masses
Are always divided into just these two classes
And oddly enough, you will find too I wean,
There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.
In which class are you? Are you easing the load
Of the overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?
Or are you a leaner who lets others bear
Your portion of labor and worry and care?

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Why do we continue to celebrate the 4th of July with undiminished fervor as the years go by? Because July 4, 1776, represents the birth of our nation—the day on which the Continental Congress threw off the British yoke and brought into official being the United States of America. And because from that day to this these same United States have grown and multiplied and flourished until they absorb every inch of space from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to the gulf.

And because we have grown from the original handful who fought for and won their freedom to a nation of one hundred and ten millions of people—stronger, richer and more powerful than any other country, the soil of our possibilities, with the real crop still to mature.

Have we not reason to be both joyful and thankful on Independence Day? Unfurl the starry flag, and render it the honor that is its due.

Out of 1,000 reasons why couples fight the main is "because".

Who wants to laugh and grow fat with the summer ahead.

The flivver is a old joke but a
The flivver is an old joke and a

Belmond Local News

Test your eyes on our Reel of Vision. Gold filled frames. First quality lenses. Guaranteed for 10 years. $4 per pair.—Schultz Drug Co.

If it is a good used car that you want, we have it.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Rosecrans and Albert Martin were visitors at Garner on Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Wipperman and family are spending a couple of weeks' vacation visiting relatives in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs John Heuerman went to Thornton last Saturday from which place, in company with Wm. Obrecht, they drove to Hubbard, Ia., on Sunday. John returned home on Monday, but Mrs. Heuerman is remaining at Hubbard for some time receiving medical treatments.

Ted Townsan was taken suddenly ill last Friday with acute appendicitis, and Saturday morning underwent an emergency operation at the local hospital. He was very ill for a time, but is coming along nicely now.

Among the recent sales of Dodge cars by the Motor Inn Co., were a touring car to Orpha Anderson, a Sedan to Ed. Bailey, and a Coupe to Otis Nelson. Barney Fry purchased a used Dodge from the same company last week.

Well, By Gum!

The manager of a Tennessee electric railway claims to have received the following letter:

If the simpering, snub-nosed, tight skirted, face-be-daubed tittering little ninny, who stuck her gum on the street car seat last Thursday evening, and permitted me to sit down on it, will call at my office, she can have the gum back. It is on the southern front of my spare trousers. If she can't get the gum off, she can have the pants too.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

SERVICE

Belmond Storage Battery Co.

BUICK

Production

In May Exceeded

19,500 Cars---

YET WE CAN T GET MODELS THAT WE COULD SELL

Another proof that Buick is the Ideal Car to own.

Buick reputation, backed by over one million users---is second to none. We have sold and delivered eleven Buicks in Belmond and vicinity this season. It will pay you to investigate Buick before you buy any make of car, for

When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them

PHONE FOR DEMONSTRATION

For Sale By

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Buick and Chevrolet Sales and Service

Goodyear Tires

Phone 39 Belmond, Iowa

QUICK ACTION BRAKES

EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA SAFE

In the construction of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, every consideration has been given to the owner's safety.

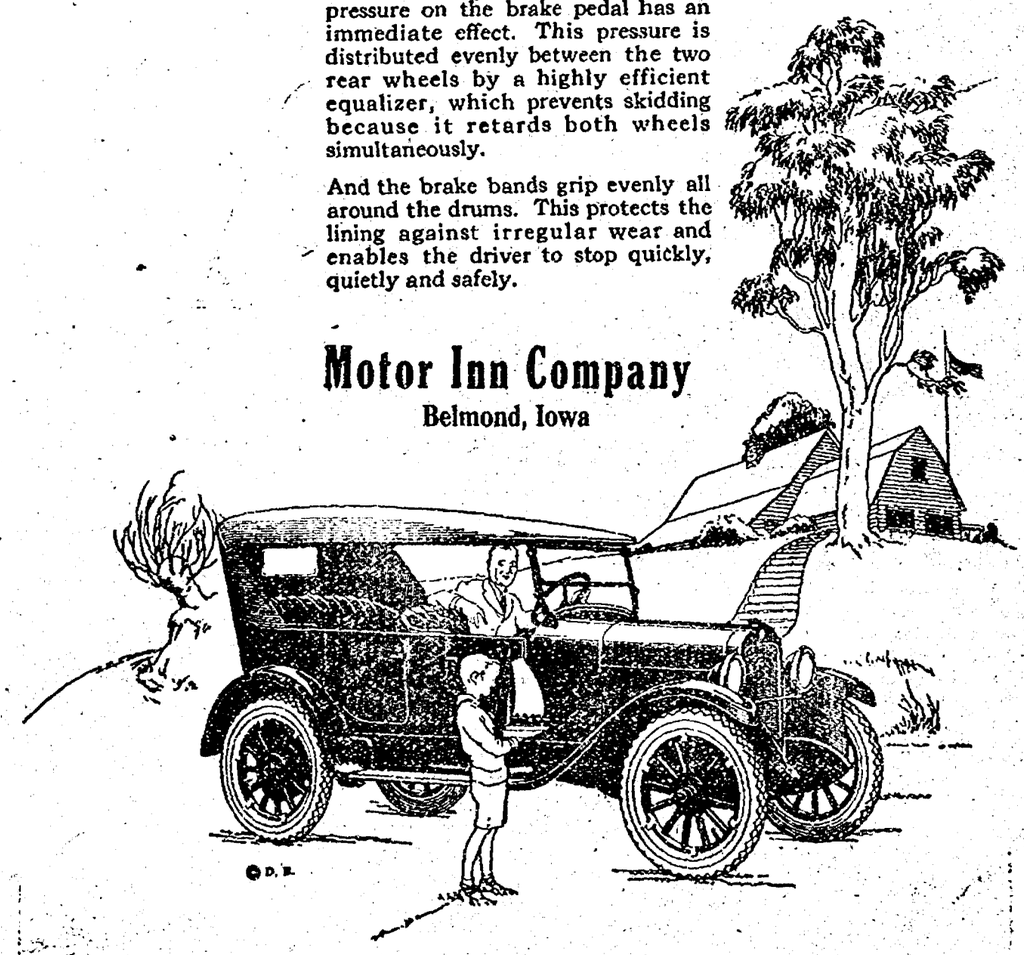
This is particularly evident in the brakes, which, with their 14-inch drums and 2¼ inch lining, are appreciably larger than the average. The extra surface thus provided develops greater friction when the brake bands contract over the drums—and it is this friction which stops the car.

Connecting levers are designed to transmit the maximum of power with the minimum of effort. The slightest pressure on the brake pedal has an immediate effect. This pressure is distributed evenly between the two rear wheels by a highly efficient equalizer, which prevents skidding because it retards both wheels simultaneously.

And the brake bands grip evenly all around the drums. This protects the lining against irregular wear and enables the driver to stop quickly, quietly and safely.

Motor Inn Company

Belmond, Iowa



The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowing

COPYRIGHT, 1922, BY SIDNEY GOWING

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lambe, at Jervaulx abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lambe, Aimée, vivacious daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, is in a rebellious mood.

CHAPTER II.—She wanders into the park, there encountering a strange youth in trouble with a motorcycle. He laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two cement the acquaintance by a ride on the motorcycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgina Bernera, her cousin, Aimee sets out for Jervaulx. On the way she decides that Georgina shall impersonate her at Jervaulx, while she goes on a holiday. Georgina's horrified protest is unavailing.

CHAPTER III.—Happy in her new freedom, Aimee again meets "Billy." He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives hers as Amy Snooks, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER IV.—That night Aimee visits Georgina and learns that the deception has not been discovered. By her dominant personality she compels Georgina to continue the subterfuge.

CHAPTER V.—On a trial spin next day on the Sphinx, with Billy, Aimee almost collides with a carriage in which are her aunt, Georgina and Alexander. The pair escape unrecognized.

CHAPTER VI.—Georgina learns that Lord Scroope is coming to visit Lady Erythea and, realizing what will happen on his arrival, is in hopeless bewilderment.

CHAPTER VII.—While Aimee is secretly visiting Georgina at Jervaulx, the place is burglarized. Aimee escapes.

CHAPTER VIII.—Georgina learns, with much relief, that Aimee has got away.

CHAPTER IX.—Police Inspector Panke decides that the robbery is the work of "Jack the Climber" and "Calamity Kate," noted thieves, who travel on a motorcycle.

CHAPTER X.—Billy, aware of his "partner's" nocturnal jaunts, is troubled. He follows her, on the Sphinx, to Jervaulx. He hears the commotion, at once suspects burglary, and follows two figures on a motorcycle who are apparently in a desperate hurry. Cornering the pair, Billy knocks out a man who attempts to shoot him, picking up a package the fellow had dropped. He discovers the other fugitive to be a woman. Stopping to aid her, she strikes him with a stone, rendering him unconscious, and the pair escape.

CHAPTER XI.—Recovering, Billy discovers the package he had picked up is a jewel case, containing emeralds. Realizing they must be part of the loot from Jervaulx, he starts for the abbey. On the way he meets Aimee, with the police in pursuit. In a secure hiding place, a cave among the crag pits, Aimee tells him the whole story. He urges that she make a frank confession to her father, but on reflection both realize Aimee's good name has been compromised by her two nights' stay at Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER XII.—Assuring Aimee he has a plan to save her, Billy leaves her in the cave and, proceeding to Jervaulx, restores the emeralds to the astounded Lady Erythea.

CHAPTER XIII.—Rejecting any reward, after explaining how the emeralds came into his possession, Billy accepts the position of chauffeur to Lady Erythea, seeing in the situation a promise of a way out of the embroglio.

CHAPTER XIV.—Realizing what her father's visit to Jervaulx would mean, Aimee goes secretly to her home, disables the family auto, thus preventing his journey, and induces a parlormaid to let her take her place at Jervaulx.

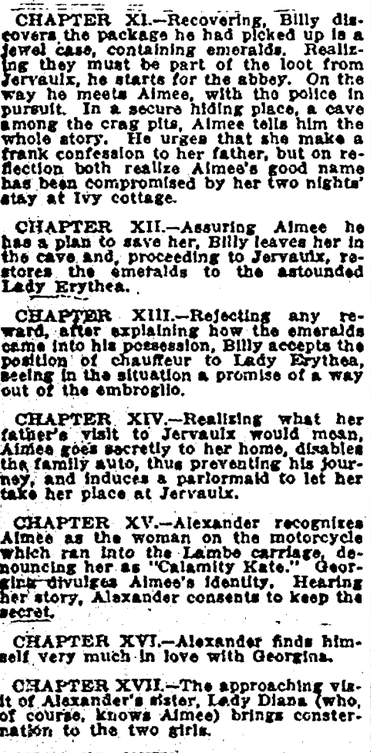
CHAPTER XV.—Alexander recognizes Aimee as the woman on the motorcycle which ran into the Lambe carriage, denouncing her as "Calamity Kate." Georgina divulges Aimee's identity. Hearing her story, Alexander consents to keep the secret.

CHAPTER XVI.—Alexander finds himself very much in love with Georgina.

CHAPTER XVII.—The approaching visit of Alexander's sister, Lady Diana (who, of course, knows Aimee) brings consternation to the two girls.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Another visitor to Jervaulx is the Vicomte de Jussac, Diana's suitor. Diana recognizes Aimee and threatens to denounce her.

"We shall find a way!" he cried. "Courage! Bah! but that is an imbecile remark. If you had not courage you would not be here. Who could betray you?"



"What Does This Mean?" He Said Sternly.

"Diana?" Aimee told him of the encounter in the bedroom.

"It cannot be! She has a heart. Under that icily exquisite exterior, a warm heart beats. It must be softened."

"A heart? Di? She's a—" Aimee stopped just in time. "I'm afraid it's quite hopeless. I only told you because I was in despair."

"A De Jussac never despairs! Especially when there is a charming little lady to be rescued from the Philistines. The difficulty must be overcome at any cost. Ah!" he exclaimed, coming near to her. "I believe I have it! Listen—"

"Oh!" said Aimee with a gasp. She had become conscious that they were not alone.

Alexander stood before them, in a black dressing gown, a candle in his hand. He only needed bell and book to be the very image of an abbot in the act of pronouncing excommunication. De Jussac started violently, and frowned. Alexander took no notice of him; his eyes were fixed on Aimee.

"What does this mean?" he said sternly.

"Diana's found me out, and she's going to tell Aunt, first thing in the morning," said Aimee, with the calm of despair. "And I've told Monsieur de Jussac. I simply had to tell somebody. And everybody will know tomorrow."

"Rather a delicate position, Monsieur le Cure—eh?" said Bertrand dryly, and not without satisfaction.

Alexander flushed to the ears and hung his head. He looked so ashamed and wretched that Aimee felt a pang of remorse.

"For myself," he said unsteadily, "I will face the exposure and the penalty—for I have deserved it. It is you, Aimee, that I should have wished to save! I would sacrifice myself to do it now, if there were any way, but I see none. You—and Georgina. That is all that matters."

"Tiens! The true ring!" cried de Jussac enthusiastically. He seized Alexander's hand and shook it with heartfelt warmth. "Never reproach yourself, mon ami. From first to last, you have acted en galant homme!"

"You've been a brick, Alexander. And you'd better go, and not hear any more—I'll keep you out of it if I can," said Aimee quickly.

Alexander looked at his cousin.

"I will go, then," he said, "on condition that you return to your room immediately, Aimee."

"All right, I will."

"Assuredly—she shall go at once! Till the morning then, Monsieur l'Abbe, and have no fear. The danger shall dissipate itself," said Bertrand, and almost forcibly he shepherded the bewildered Alexander out of the room. Bertrand darted back, and caught Aimee by the hands.

"He is bon enfant, the parson!" he cried, "all shall yet be well. But it is impossible to require deceit from him. Leave that to me! Mademoiselle, I am a magnificent liar!" He smote himself proudly on the breast. "You shall see how my talent—"

"But—!"

"Not a word! I shall consider it an honor—a privilege. It is the one situation in which prevarication becomes a virtue! Retire, then, mademoiselle, and sleep soundly. A way shall be found out of this impasse, I pledge myself to it—foi de chevalier! The morning shall bring, not disaster, but happiness!"

Aimee was whirled out of the room, hardly less bewildered than Alexander. When she had gone upstairs, Monsieur De Jussac returned to the dining room.

He paced the room with long strides, developing a series of plans that flashed through his brain. Some caused him to laugh aloud, others evoked a sigh.

"In this country of Puritans, schemes that elsewhere would glow like a golden mist, become impossible!" he mused regretfully.

Since the coldness of Lady Diana was the main difficulty, Bertraud's thoughts concentrated naturally upon her, and it is to be feared that Aimee's predicament faded into a secondary place. Allowances must be made for those swayed by the grand passion. Suddenly de Jussac halted among the suits of mail.

"Tiens! the armor," he said, brightening, "the same of which Diana should have told me the history, but declined. She shall come to it yet! She approves armor—she adores the days of chivalry long dead.

"Lived we in those days," cried Bertrand with rising fervor, "I would hack my way to her favor though a hundred spears barred the path." He struck the nearest breastplate with his fist. "You Sir Knight! If you did not pay swift homage to my lady," said Bertrand, grinding his teeth, "my lance should crush into your midriff! Scrognon-non-non-non-non!"

He turned to inspect the pectoral of another suit, beautifully engraved and chased with gold.

"Of French workmanship, surely—never of this country. The English are a great nation, but severe—severe." He passed his hands over the breastplate. It detached quite easily from the stand. With a sudden impulse Bertrand fitted it to his broad chest, passing his arm through the thongs that had held it to the stand. He laughed as he caught sight of his reflection in a mirror.

"It becomes me a merveille! Name of a name! Let me envisage myself the conqueror of my Diana!"

He strapped on the greaves and cuisses over his dress trousers, donned the gorget and, lifting down the big helmet, placed it over his head, abrading his nose in the process. The suit—it was the same which had fallen during the night of the burglary—had certainly been made for a knight of great stature—it fitted de Jussac very well.

"Magnifique!" said Bertrand. "And, who knows—it may be the very suit of my ancestor! The—"

He turned slowly, aware of someone approaching. A tall, spectral figure, white and ethereal, stood in the doorway.

It was Lady Diana, in a long girdled wrap trimmed with white fur. In her hand was a rolled up paper that might have been a piece of music; it trembled visibly. Her face, as she gazed at the armored figure, was as white as her garments.

She controlled her nerves with a mighty effort. If it was a spirit, it was indeed a splendid one. To her, of all people, this manifestation of the infinite was vouchsafed.

For some moments she gazed, in a thrilled silence. Then she actually advanced a few steps, faltering.

"Speak!" she said, in a voice that quavered slightly. "Are you he? Speak to me. I am of the elect. I am n-n-n-not afraid."

De Jussac grasped the situation. He searched his mind swifty for the mot juste—the speech of the Fourteenth century.

"Moult puissante dame—" he began, dropping reverently on one knee.

Diana, the moment the unmistakable voice smote upon her ear, gave a piercing shriek, and clasped her hands to her head. She swayed as if about to fall.

Bertrand rushed forward, and caught her just in time.

"B-B-B-Bertrand!" she gasped faintly.

The name, wrung from her by stress, was such music in the Vicomte's ears that he tore off his helmet and kissed her rapturously.

"Angel!" he cried. "Adored Diana! Say it again!" He made it somewhat difficult for her to say anything. "Say it—whisper it—'Bertrand!' Ah, happiest of men!"

Diana struggled.

"How dare you!" she said wildly. "How dare you—pretend to be a ghost!"

"But I did not! I thought you were pretending to be one! Let me bear the blame. I love you—I was in despair—and put on this mail that for one moment I might imagine myself approved. Dear lady of Romance, I am no ghost—I own it!"

He proved it with a kiss that was by no means ghostly.

"Oh!" said Diana faintly.

The mailed arms encircled her tightly.

"Sweetest of all earth's treasures!" exclaimed Bertrand. "You love me? You tremble—your heart beats. Say it! You love me!"

Suddenly she hid her face against his breastplate.

"I-I-I do," she whispered, hardly audible, "and—I should never have dared to let you tell me so."

"Thrice blessed accident! To my unhappy ancestor I owe my happiness! Ah, day of days! Diana, you will marry me, beloved?"

"I suppose so. I can't help it, now. Oh—Bertrand!"

"I said that armor was of no avail. But it has conquered!"

She glanced up at him shyly.

"I shall wear it for evermore!" said De Jussac rapturously. "It shall never be doffed, save at your orders. Diana—"

"But my aunt!" exclaimed Diana suddenly, her blushes changing to pallor. "If—"

"She will give us her blessing. In the morning—"

"But if she found out how it happened!" said Diana in a panic. "And the time—you do not know how terrible Aunt can be—"

"She will not know! I will put myself in order—I will propose to you again in the morning. We will announce it with all formalities." Bertrand was alarmed to find her almost collapsing; he led her to the table and raised a goblet to her lips. "A little wine, my angel! It will revive you!"

"No, no!"

"But yes! You are agitated. Just one sip!"

It was impossible to deny anything to the conquering Bertrand. Lady Diana permitted herself to imbibe a little of the wine; it restored the color to her cheeks.

"And now," said the Vicomte tenderly, "light of my soul—"

A piercing shriek from Diana jarred painfully on his nerves. Bertrand started and spun around.

In the doorway stood the unspeakable parlor maid, capless, her bronze hair flowing over her shoulders. Wicked laughter convulsed her, her eyes shone with triumph.

"Bless you, my children!" said Aimee. "You've made enough row about it!"

De Jussac started hastily towards her. Aimee sprang back and closed the door in his face; the key turned with a click.

Lady Diana had sunk inert into a chair.

"Stop her—make her be quiet!" panted Diana trembling. "Bertraud—if my aunt—"

"Open!" hissed Bertrand, rattling the handle.

"Leave the door alone!" said Aimee's voice, muffled through the panel. "You can't get out—either of you. Can you hear me?"

"Yes, yes! Mademoiselle—"

"Listen! Within three feet of me is a burglar alarm," said the voice, diabolically. "I'm going to start it. Before you can turn yourselves round, the whole household will be down on you—from Aunt Erythea to the pageboy. Especially Aunt. I'm going to count three. When—"

"Misericorde!" gasped Bertrand. "Mademoiselle, I implore you! This is to return evil for good How have we deserved—"

"I have no quarrel with you, Vicomte. You're all right. But I've got you both. You'll accept my terms—"

"Anything!" panted Bertrand distractedly. "Anything—"

"Stand away from the door, then. Get right back."

"Yes, yes!"

Aimee applied her eye to the keyhole to insure that her orders were obeyed. She opened the door cautiously, and regarded the distressed pair with intense satisfaction.

"Let me be the first to congratulate you!" she said. "Vicomte, I don't grudge my cousin to you. You are welcome. Di!" continued Aimee, fixing Diana with a glittering eye, "I don't want your explanation—you can explain the masquerade to Aunt. But I shall hold my tongue about you—and you'll hold yours about me! I require your word of honor. For you daren't break it!"

"Yes!" gasped Diana feebly. "Don't—don't speak so loud, Aimee—"

Aimee looked at her, and exploded with laughter.

"Every happiness, dear people!" she said, and vanished.

"Bertrand!" panted Diana, rising unsteadily. "Did you know anything of this? Do you understand—? She is not the parlor maid—she is my cousin. I cannot explain; you must say nothing about it. Neither will she! Oh—let me go!".

He caught her in his arms before she could escape.

"My angel! In the morning, our love scene all over again. I have your promise!"

"Yes!" she said, wildly. "Oh, let me go!"

Lady Diana fled from the room and scuttled upstairs like an agitated rabbit. The Vicomte, following, blew her an impassioned kiss as she passed out of sight. Returning to the hall, he tore off his armor in a delirium of joy, and replaced it on the stand.

CHAPTER XX

Two Pair.

Lady Erythea beamed. It seems an impossible term to apply to that austere countenance. But it was so. When Georgina entered the drawing room at noon—after nearly twenty-four hours exile in her bedroom—she found her alleged aunt as near to beaming as her features permitted.

"I am glad you have recovered from your temporary indisposition, my dear Aimee," she said amiably. "During your absence an event has occurred, both romantic and desirable. How seldom the two things go together!"

"Indeed! What is it?"

"Your cousin Diana and Monsieur de Jussac are about to contract an alliance. They became engaged this morning."

"How perfectly delightful!" breathed Georgina, after a pause of dramatic astonishment. "I am sure you are pleased—Aunt?"

"Indeed I am. I have not concealed from you my desire that this very thing should come about. It is the more satisfactory, because only last night I quite despaired of it, and came to regard it as hopeless. But Monsieur de Jussac's suit has prospered amazingly; it appears that Diana, as I suspected, has for some time since been far from indifferent to him. I am delighted that I gave them the opportunity. Only two hours after breakfast the Vicomte, with his customary impetuousness, brought Diana to me and begged for my consent. I need not say that I gave it gladly."

Georgina escaped into the garden.

It is possible that Aimee was right when she said that all women are natural actresses in time of need. Georgina's assumption of astonishment at hearing Lady Erythea's news was wholly assumed, and not assumed badly. The announcement was, in fact, no news at all to her.

Having an excellent sense of direction, Georgina soon discovered Mr. Alexander Lambe walking on the sheltered paths of the old yew garden beyond the chapel-at-ease. He looked quite as relieved as Georgina. And his eyes lit up wonderfully when he saw her. He hurried forward to meet her.

"Mr. Lambe—!" exclaimed Georgina.

Mr. Lambe halted, and looked deeply pained.

"Have I offended you?" he said almost wistfully. "I thought you gave me permission—"

"Alexander," murmured Georgina, flushing very attractively.

Continued next week.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

Kinseth's Store News

My, wasn't that cool breeze Tuesday welcome after the heat! Hope it stays with us for awhile. Days like that a person feels mire like working, and friend wife doesn't mind cooking, so much. And we are glad of this, because this week is the last week for canning cherries. After this week they will be hard to get—good ones, at any rate. So be sure to get what you need now. We have them.

—K—

Next week the raspberry and blackberry season opens, and we will have a full supply for you. A good idea would be to leave your order with us for what you want, because the demand may run us short.

—K—

We have some dandy gooseberries, plums and apricots for you, too. Juicy ones, just right for sauce or canning.

And of course the sugar too. Always see us first for sugar.

—K—

The glorious Fourth is almost here. Wherever you go, you want to take your lunch. "Hot dogs" are not very satisfying, to say nothing of being very clean. Come in and get the materials for a good lunch before you start the Fourth.

—K—

For goodness' sake be a wise one. Trade at the Store on the Corner and save your money for the Fourth of July.

—K—

P. S.—Those cherries can be had in either quarts or crates, and when you see the price the sauce will be sweeter.

Red Crown Is Quality Gasoline

It is made to generate power in your engine—the kind of power which makes you smile as your car goes spinning over the roads, up hill or down, without apparent effort.

It is a gasoline of high quality and the quality is maintained. You, who use it regularly, can absolutely depend upon it, for it is always the same and may be obtained everywhere—every few miles in the country and every few blocks in the city.

That Red Crown quality is sustained is evidenced by its continual use by 2½ million motorists.

Red Crown Gives Superior Service

It starts easily—summer or winter; it enables your car to get away quickly; to accelerate smoothly and delivers to your rear wheels all the power and speed your car is capable of developing.

As to mileage, Red Crown gives more miles per gallon than any gasoline you can buy.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

And at the following Garage:

Belmond Motor Sales Co., East Main Street

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

3257

Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Joe S. White was a caller at Ft. Dodge, Sunday where he had disc wheels put on his new car.

Work has started on graveling the No. 10 road from Hampton to Rowan. Crews now being at work on both ends of the road. When completed this road will be one of the best highways in the country, and will give a direct short cut of graveled road to the Franklin county seat.

Miss Vivian Courtney spent the week end with her friend, Miss Grace Cole, of Clarion.

Morse Lake drew its usual quota of bathers Sunday. The swimming is fine, but something certainly ought to be done about the bath house out there.

Rev. Seth Huntington, who is here visiting his family and other relatives, occupied the pulpit at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wenzel, Sr., returned last Saturday from their trip to Illinois, where they have been visiting friends and relatives the past three weeks.

"50,000 MILES OF SMILES!

Did you hear anyone else say their engines would be sealed? We heard a man had said he wouldn't seal his. Why?—Nordschow Motor Co.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard drove to Boone, Sunday, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Carl Wolle, and family.

Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils at the hospital here, Saturday morning.

The Royal Neighbors met at the home of Mrs. E. M. Lathrop last Saturday afternoon, for their regular business meeting, and to take in some new members.

Mrs. R. W. Tomlinson has been quite ill the past few days, but is reported somewhat better.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Morse returned Sunday from their trip via auto to Chicago, where they have been visiting his brother, Rufus, and wife the past week.

Miss Rena Purdy is spending some time in Chicago, visiting relatives and friends.

To Accident and Health Policy holders of the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association—I will be at my office every evening after the 27th of June to accept your quarterly dues, due now. Do not get delinquent.—W. H. Wolle, Secretary Over Griesy's Store.

Mr. and Mrs. La Mon and two children of Alliance, Nebraska, are visiting at the D. L. Mallory home here. Mrs. La Mon was formerly Miss Ida Clark.

HEMSTITCHING

Hemstitching done at the Gift Shop. Black and white cotton thread furnished. Ten and 15 cents per yard. 30tfc

If it is a good used car that you want, we have it.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

J. D. Paul, of Cornelia spent Sunday with his family at Cornelia.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Cato C. Griesy was a caller at Hampton Tuesday afternoon where he secured two more cars for the Motor Inn Co.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blohm of Ames, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Alber of Story City were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Eimbrink, Sunday. Mrs. Blohm and Mr. Alber are cousins of Mrs. Eimbrink.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Thompson and daughter, of Grinnell, were visiting friends and relatives, and the Sprenzel and Ziska families, recently.

Order your buns for the Fourth of July by July 2.—Belmond Bakery.

Mrs. H. D. Moore was hostess to the Kensington club on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Geo. Elder entertained a number of friends Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. La Mon and Mrs. Patterson, formerly Ida Clark and Miss Maud Thompson respectively.

Mrs. A. L. Luick entertained in honor of Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. La Mon, Tuesday afternoon.

The Methodist Aid society will hold an ice cream social and cake sale on the grounds just west of the Case hotel, Saturday evening. Everyone invited.

The heavy wind which came up about nine o'clock Saturday night scared most of the crowd home, but nothing came but the wind. It blew extremely hard for a few minutes and for a time looked dangerous.

The prophesy now is for a dry spell of weather. Perhaps, one guess is as good as another. At any rate, no damage has been done to crops as yet.

Buy your ice cold pop and ice cream at the Belmond Bakery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Winters and son accompanied by Mrs. Sprenzel visited at the A. L. Winters home at Mason City, Tuesday.

The Methodist Aid society will hold an ice cream social and cake sale on the grounds just west of the case hotel, Saturday evening. Everyone invited.

Order your buns for the Fourth of July by July 2.—Belmond Bakery.

Mrs. John Atherton has purchased a new Overland touring car from the Nordschow Motor Co.

A. W Hill has begun work on his new building, on the site where his garage was destroyed in the fire in the spring

A. J. Nissen and family from Meservey spent Sunday at the Chas. Gealow home.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Allen of Mason City visited at the Henry Groen home a few days last week.

If it is a good used car that you want, we have it.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Chas. Sampson and Mrs. Tom Finn were callers at Mason City on Monday of this week.

DODGE BROS. RETAIL DELIVERIES BREAK RECORDS

Since Jan. 1, Dodge Brothers dealers have consistently broken all previous records for delivery of cars to customers. Since April 1st, deliveries to customers have averaged more than 5000 cars per week. This is without taking into account sales in foreign countries. Materially increased production in 1923 has made this performance possible

For the first quarter in 1923 retail deliveries to customers were in excess of any quarter in the history of the business—even including the peak periods of 1919-1920. Following this, deliveries for April exceeded any previous month of the first quarter and delivery figures for each week in April exceeded the totals of the preceding week—each week creating a new high record. May maintained the pace established in April. June should be better than May.

Dodge Brothers are able to compile this sales information because of the cooperation of each of their dealers throughout the entire United States and Canada in sending in a weekly report of all retail deliveries reports they have an accurate, detailed record of exact conditions existing in each sales territory. Their calculations are based upon the number of cars actually consumed by the public, as they believe this to be the only true indication of conditions.

The constantly climbing delivery records coupled with increasing production, lead Dodge Brothers to believe trat the last six months of 1923 added to the record breaking first six months will total by far the greatest year in the history of their business.

Is your subscription paid up? If not, why not drop into the Independent office and square accounts? Pay in advance and save 25 per cent.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Brand new 4— door Ford Sedan. No trade. Nordschow Motor Co. Belmond Iowa.

For Sale—Oliver typewriter, No. 9. See Bert Groen, Meservey. 30tfc

For Sale—My herd boar, Buckeye's Triple Alliance, sired by the $4,000 Buckeye Boy, a big litter breeder. A real Spotted Poland China boar. Will make a special price if taken at once. —J. M. Sampson. 32c

For Sale—Studebaker Six, 1918 model, in good shape. Will sell cheap. Phone 2902.—Gerald Treese. 293c

For Sale—Hot water heating plant, in A I condition. Bargain if taken at once. Inquire of L. O. Skovlin. 29tfc

BELMOND MARKETS

Hens, heavy	14c
Roosters	07c
Broilers, 1½ to 2 lbs.	32c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	08c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	16c
Cream	35c
Dairy Butter	40c
Creamery Butter	45c
Corn	71c
Oats	34c

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

THE STATE RECOGNIZES HUMBOLT PEONY FARM

The following dispatch, altered to make it more perfectly fit the facts, appeared in the Monday morning's Des Moines Register—

"As you turn the corner coming from the west on the Gilmore City road into Humbolt at the top of the hill a most gorgeous panorama of thousands of peonies dazzles your eyes. Red, white, pink, sixty varities, seedlings, year olds and 5-year-old plants. Some are worth $50, some are worth 50 cents. There are plants of every size and description.

"This peony farm belongs to W. G. Johnston who lives on the same farm where he was born, married his wife and is raising his daughter.

"Mr. Johnston has two peonies of his own propagation. The Felix Price it took six years to mature from seed. He allows but one bud to mature on a stem This has necessitated cutting at least 10,000 buds off he thinks, yet they are not missed.

"His latest production is a white, fringed with red, from which the petals do not drop.

"Mr. Johnston has a very dark peony, the Mons Martin Chadwick, but he is working for a still darker variety."—Republican.

"50,000 MILES OF SMILES!

Did you hear anyone else say their engines would be sealed? We heard a man had said he wouldn't seal his. Why?—Nordschow Motor Co.

Chris Sorenson spent several days at Owatonna, Minn. last week, visiting his son, Harry, and daughter, Mrs. Collinske, and their families.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

A number of local people went to Clear Lake, Sunday, to enjoy the facilities of that place for an outing.

For Gasoline; Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

We have the agency for the latest and best double celluloid re-inforced
AUTO CURTAIN LIGHTS
Will last the life of the curtain.
Back Curtain Lights can be installed in five minutes.
New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Celebrate July 4th
--At--
GOLDFIELD
A Full Day's Program
Everything Free!
A Grand Display of Fireworks!

The Day of the "KNIGHT" Is Here
No Small Parts To Break Or Wear
Poppet valve motors have numerous small parts that require frequent adjustment and occasional replacement.
The Willys-Knight Sleeve Valve Motor requires no adjustment. It has no intricate small parts to wear and get out of order.
Consider the construction of the Willys-Knight Sleeve Valve Motor as compared wirh a poppet-valve motor:
There are no valve stems and guides in the Willys-Knight motor to warp and wear, causing leaks and misfiring.
No clashing parts to break.
No springs to weaken.
No valves to pit and require frequent grinding.
No parts that require adjustment.
FOR SALE BY
Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

FLIES LOWER THE MILK YIELD
The South Dakota Agricultural Experiment Station is quoted in a government bulletin as follows: "When we consider the intimate relationship existing between the milk yield and the physical comfort of the cow, no question can be raised as to the benefit obtained by mitigating, so far as possible, the annoyance of these "fly" pests."
"FLY-KIL" WILL GET THEM!
1. "Fly-Kil" quickly kills every fly fairly hit with the liquid or enveloped for a moment in the gas.
2. When properly applied "Fly-Kil" is effective as a repellent for from 12 to 60 hours after application.
3. "Fly-Kil" is pleasant to use; has a sweet smell; is not harmful to the hands of the user; contains no creosote, tar, nor carbolic acid.
4. "Fly-Kill" will not stain nor mat the hair of cattle. When correctly applied as a finely divided spray, it leaves the coat soft and glossy and will not blister nor burn the hide.
5. "Fly-Kil" is equally effective as a killer and repellent against fleas, lice, mites, mosquitos, bedbugs, cockroaches, and certain other insect pests.
"Fly-Kil" is being used by the Belmond Cow Testing Association.
J. M. SAMPSON, Agent
Phone 2707 Belmond, Iowa

Your Money Back Next Week!
In next week's paper we will announce the day, the cash business of which we will give back to you Free! Have you saved your receipts? Bring them in next Friday---or any day up to July 15---and get full value for every cent you spent with us on the day named.
ONLY THREE DAYS LEFT!
Any one of them may be the day. Get a receipt---and save it---for anything purchased here, and we will refund the full value of the receipts.
WATCH NEXT WEEK'S PAPER!
We Deliver
Cash Market
The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa
Phone 60

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1923 — NO. 35

Comedy Of Errors Is Staged Sunday

Belmond And Twin Lakes Give Ball Fans A Real Treat In How Game Isn't Played.

EXCITING FINISH IN 9TH

A ball game was played at Lake View park, near Kanawha, Sunday, that was a joy to behold, in more ways than one, even if we did get trimmed. Belmond's team consisted of John Chapman, pitcher, Glen Thomas, catcher, and seven other men with gloves on. One or two of them had played ball this year and knew the game; the rest were men just picked up, and do you know, they really put up a nice game. The Kanawha team was really a Twin Lake outfit, with some plugged men, and they had a hard time winning at that. The score at the beginning of the 7th was 8-3 for Belmond, but the rusty ones on our side pulled a bunch of boners and at the beginning of the 9th the score was 9-8 for the enemy. In our half of the last inning, we pushed a run over, making it a tie. With two down, a man on third, and two strikes on the batter, he hit a single into left, where the fielder was playing deep enough to shut off Babe Ruth, and the battle was over. Thomas was hit by a ball and laid out for a couple of frames, and here's where the really good stuff comes in. Captain Chapman substituted "old man" Gus Ziska, who hasn't been on a ball diamond for sixteen years. Gus was stationed in center, where he pulled a big league stunt by catching everything that came his way but one fly, which he missed on account of the sun. To make his record still better, his batting average was 666, and he stole second and he stole third and he scored. We suggest that "old man" Ziska be hired to coach future Belmond teams, because Gus is some player, now, you tell 'em. Thomas was back in the game a few innings after he was hit, when another Belmond boy was laid cold by a pitched ball, and Gus kept on playing.

SPECIAL DAYS DESIGNED FOR IOWA STATE FAIR

War veterans, farmers school children and other representative groups are to be honered in special days designated for this year's Iowa State Fair, Aug. 22-23, according to the program given out.

The special days for the fair were announced as follows: Wednesdays &Thursdays, Aug. 22-23--Preparation Days; Friday, August 24--Children's Day; Saturday, Aug. 25--World War Veterans' Day, Des Moines Day, Baby Beef Day. Sunday, Aug. 26--Music Day. Monday, Aug. 27--Farm Bureau Day, Auto & Implement Dealers' Day. Tuesday Aug. 28, Old Settlers' and Business Men's Day; Wednesday, Aug. 29, State Day and Boys' and Girls' Club Day; Thursday, August 30, Livestock parade day and Prosperty day; Friday Aug. 31, Auto race and Grand Finale day.

Admission to the fair will remain at 50 cents this year, it has been announced. Children will be admitted free on August 24, World War Veterans on August 25th, and Veterans of the Spanish War August 28. Veterans of the Civil and Mexican Wars, their wives and widows, will be admitted free every day.

COPS ARE AFTER SPEEDERS

The city officials and police force have started a drive on the fellows who are exceeding the speed limits, and the prospects of some fines to enrich the city coffers are good. It is a commendable move on the part of the city authorities, and perhaps will at least have a tendency to put a thoughtful expression on the face of some of the drivers who have been burning up the pavement lately.

HOME COMING DAY

The Community Club will stage a Home Coming Day Thursday, July 26. Every citizen of Belmond and vicinity is requested to extend a personal invitation to all their old friends and relatives who were former residents of Belmond to visit the old town that day and help make this a truly Home Coming Day.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Saturday evening the boys' choir will meet at the church at 8 o'clock to practice the music for the dramatization which will take place a week from Sunday night.

Did you hear the orchestra last Sunday morning at Sunday school? Come and hear them again next Sunday. We are proud of our peppy nine-piece Sunday school orchestra. Mrs. Goelz's and Mrs. Wallace's classes have charge of the opening exercises for next Sunday.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock. The evening out-of-doors service will be held at Mr. Spitler's. Many are attending these services and enjoying them. Come join us.

A week from Sunday night a sacred dramatization entiled "The Challenge of the Cross will be presented at the evening out-of-door service to be held on Mr. Hinman's lawn. What could be more impressive than a sacred story presented in God's great amphi-theatre just at twilight? The music for the dramatization will be sung by the boys' choir.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school at 10 a. m. This organization runs "on high" in spite of the weather.

Preaching service at 11 a. m. Bring the family, the pastor will have a message any child can understand and appreciate.

No Epworth League until middle of August. Five delegates from the League to the institute on west Okoboji, as follows: Bernetas Wolle, Ethel Thompson, Dorothy Purcell, Raymond Stapley, and Alfred Wilkinson.

Evening services at 8 p. m. unless otherwise announced.

The Ladies Aid meets with Mrs. Nissen on Thursday at usual time.

Let us plan to all do our part to make things go this summer.

ST JOHN'S LUTHERAN CHURCH

St. John's Lutheran church will celebrate its annual mission festival next Sunday.

German services in the morning at 10:30.

English-German services in the afternoon at 2:30.

English services in the evening at 8.00. Rev. R. Schalinki of Britt and Rev. H. J. Brede of Good Thunder, Minn., will preach the English sermons.

Friends of the mission will have an opportunity to hear the cause presented.

Rev. J. F. Wippermann, Pastor.

TRINITY CHURCH

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the church at 8 o'clock.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock promptly the class meets at the church.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Thursday afternoon the class meets at the church at 1:30.

Thursday afternoon the South Ladies Aid meets at the home of Mrs. K. Severtson.

Service in the Norwegian language at 10:30. Announcement as to the evening service will be made at the morning service.

PALS-LECOCQ

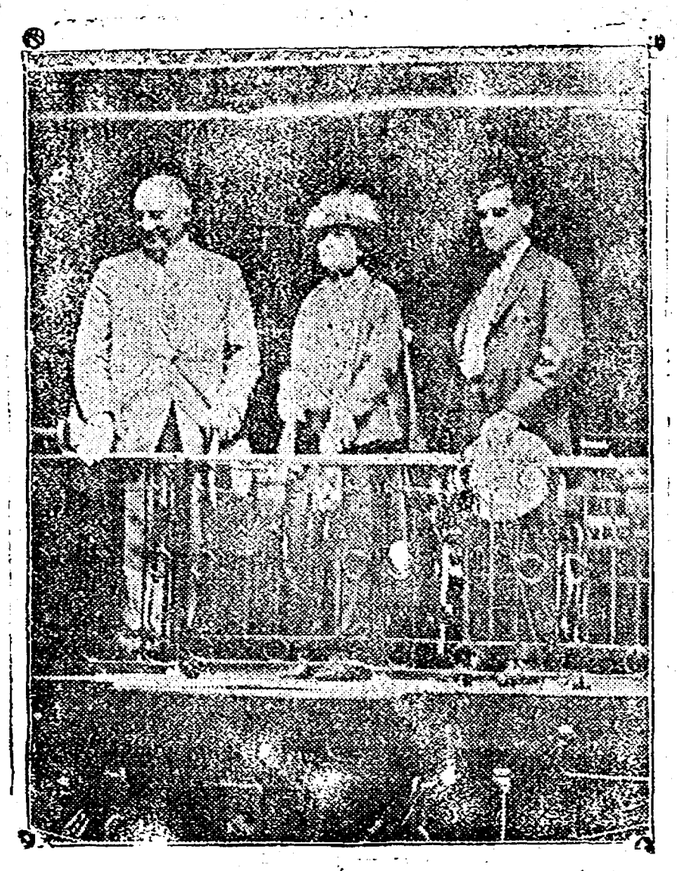
Hajo Pals, one of the teaching faculty of the Belmond high school, and Miss Francis LeCocq, of Pella, were united in marriage on Monday, July 9th, at the home of the bride's parents at Pella. Rev. Bosch, pastor of the 2nd Reformed church of Pella, was the officiating clergyman.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. LeCocq of Pella. Altho she is unknown to Belmond people, she is making friends of all she meets here, her charming personality and pleasant manner winning their regard.

Mr. Pals is well known to local people, having taught in the local school the past year, and has a host of friends who wish he and his bride every good thing in life. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harm J. Pals of Thornton.

Mr. and Mrs. Pals have started housekeeping in the George Avery house, where they are now at home to their friends.

The best wishes of their friends, with whom the Independent takes pleasure in joining, start them on their life together.



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood. N. Y.

HARDING LEAVES FOR ALASKA

Photo shows President Harding, Mrs. Harding and George Christian, his secretary, on the rear platform of the special train which will bear the presidential party westward. The first stop was at St. Louis. Harding will make many addresses from this platform, on top of which is fitted some specially constructed amplifiers so that huge crowds can hear him even tho he modulates his voice.

INDEPENDENT TO GO ON CASH-IN-ADVANCE BASIS

Beginning August 1st, the Independent will go on a cash-in-advance basis on subscriptions. The price is to be $2.00 per year, strictly in advance, and all subscriptions will be stopped promptly at expiration unless otherwise requested.

This is the only business like way of doing, and is being done by most of the papers of the country. The past year or two has required the extension of considerable credit on subscriptions, while times were difficult and money tight, but things are fast getting back to normal and the publisher will put into effect the plan he has always intended to use.

The Independent believes that the readers will see the wisdom of this policy, which will eliminate any disputes about payment or ordering of the paper, and it will insure the advertisers a choice list of bona fide readers.

Up to August 1st, new or renawls will be accepted at $1.50 per year, as at present. After that the price will be strictly $2.00, paper to stop promptly at expiration. The date of your subscription is stamped after your name on your paper. It shows the date to which you are paid. You have until August 1st to renew at $1.50.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Uniform County Teachers' Examinations will be held in Clarion, July 25, 26, 27. Applicants must have had 12 weeks of normal training, or have taught six months on a regular certificate. A year of college work will be accepted in lieu of the 12 weeks or normal training. Candidates writing for the first time should bring their certificates of normal school attendance; if a college student, a certified statement of at least one year's work.

The Normal Training examination will be held at the same time. Only those who have failures to make up are eligible.

BLANCH BOCK, County Supt.

HERE IS PLEDGE FOR ALL LOVERS OF OPEN ROAD

I pledge myself as a motorist to do what I can to preserve the countryside so that all may share in the enjoyment of it. To this end I will leave a resting place or campsite clean. I will be careful of trees and shrubbery, of brooks and streams, and in the making of fires.

I will make every effort to leave the roadside in such condition that the pleasure derived from it shall not be lessened through any careless act of mine.—Ex.

S. D. Martin returned from his trip to Illinois last Saturday.

FARM BUREAU SOCIAL HELD AT HENN HOME

The regular monthly meeting of the Pleasant Township Farm Bureau was held at the J. F. Henn home last Wednesday evening, July 11. The yard of this beautiful farm home was packed with automobiles and the front lawn was completely filled with interested farmers of that community, who gathered for an evening filled with a well arranged program of music, recitations and a splendid address.

Rev. Waalkes of the German Reformed church, was the speaker of the evening and entertained the farmers of that community for an hour or more. According to Mr. Waalkes the farm home is the foundation for all constructive undertakings, whether they be of a social, moral, religious, political, commercial or industrial nature. Rev. Waalkes is a firm believer in community organization and co-operation and according to his statements the family home is the basis for it all.

Miss Grace Gartz, one of the local teachers of the township, worked out an interesting program and with the assistance of Mrs. J. F. Henn, vice director of the township farm bureau, considerable local talent was secured in arranging this program. The farmers of Pleasant township seem to have the pleasant faculty of entertaining themselves in their own community. That township is a splendid example of community co-operation.

SEVEN PETITION COURT FOR CITIZENSHIP PAPERS

Seven petitions for naturalization have been filed with the Clerk of the district court for the October term of court. Four of the petitions are from Norway, two from Denmark and one from Germany.

Those who have petitioned are: Lars Moe, Belmond, who hails from Norway; Dick Wessels, Belmond, a citizen of Germany; Frederick Volksdal, Eagle Grove, a citizen of Norway.

Martin Hodnekvam, Kanawha, a citizen of Norway; Mikkel Olai Olsen Mortvet, Eagle Grove, from Norway; Harold Christensen, Eagle Grove, from Denmark; Chris M. Chrisensen, Eagle Grove, a citizen of Denmark. —News.

LAD FALLS DOWN CELLAR; IS UNCONSCIOUS 24 HOURS

The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McAlpin fell down the cellar at the farm home last Saturday, and suffered concusion of the brain. The little fellow was unconscious for 24 hours, but is coming along nicely at the present time. No bones were broken.

CLARMOND TRIMS ELDORA

The Clarmond Country Club golfers won over the Eldora Country Club in a match Sunday afternoon at the Clarmond club grounds. The score was 17 to 7. A. L. Luick and W. C. Tyrrell of Belmond were on the winning team.

VIOLET LEE FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Violet Lee of Belmond, has filed suit in Wright county district court for a divorce from Leonard Lee on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, alleging that defendant's treatment has been such as to endanger her life.

The petition states that they were married at Clarion February 5, 1919, and lived together as man and wife until June 3, 1923, when the treatment by the defendant became such that the plaintiff was unable to stand it longer. Two children were born to them, a girl three years and a boy one year old, the custody of which the plaintiff asks.

The plaintiff asks $300 suit money and permanent alimony as the court may see fit. She states that the defendant has leased a farm near Thornton and asks that a writ of attachment be issued by the court against the personal property of the defendant.—News.

ALEXANDER'S MAYOR JOINS BENEDICTS

Attorney Arthur M. Butler, Alexander's bachelor mayor, has decided to join the benedicts and today at the "Little Brown Church in the Vale," near Nashua, will be joined in wedlock to Miss Eva Whetstone, who for two years has been principal of the high school at Alexander.

The young couple left for Nashua this morning by auto and accompanying them in another car was the groom's mother, Mrs. Sara Butler, of Alexander and his brother, E. E. Butler and wife, of this city, who will return to Hampton after witnessing the marriage ceremony.

From Nashua the bride and groom will start on an extended motoring trip, going as far west as the Yellowstone National Park. They expect to be at home to friends in Alexander about September 1st.

The bride is a graduate of the State University of Iowa and a young lady whose friends are numbered by her acquaintances. Following the groom's graduation from the high school at Milford, Illinois, he studied law and two years ago successfully passed the Iowa state bar examination and since then has been engaged in his chosen profession at Alexander. He is a young man of high character and is sure to meet with deserved success in a business way. —Recorder.

WRIGHT COUNTY NEWS SOLD WEDNESDAY

The Wright County News was sold Wednesday of this week to R. C. Goshorn, of Eagle Grove, publisher of The Eagle Grove Times. Mr. Goshorn is closing a deal with a competent newspaper man who will have a substantial interest in the business and will move his family to Clarion to take over the management of the paper.

Mr. King, former owner of the News, has moved his family to St. Marie, Idaho, where they will make their home for the present. They left in their car Wednesday, expecting to camp on the way.

The News was purchased three years ago by Mr. King from H. M. Harwood. Under Mr. King's ownership, the name was changed from The Clarion Clipper to the Wright County News, and about a year ago was made a semi-weekly, but later changed back to a weekly.

Under its new management The News will be enlarged to a seven-column paper. The plant will be rearranged and new machinery added as needed to make it one of the best newspapers in this section of the state and one that will reflect credit to Clarion and Wright county. —News.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Quinlin are rejoicing over the arrival at their home of a baby daughter, born Sunday, July 8.

Eagle Grove and Gilmore City staged an air-tight ball game Sunday at the former town, the Eagles winning one to nothing in the last half of the ninth inning.

Arrange Program For Home Coming Day

Community Club Has Program For Entertainment Ready For Annual Affair.

TO BE NEXT THURSDAY

The Community club has completed arrangements for the program for the Home Coming Day, to be held next Thursday, July 26th.

Evening Program

Community Singing, led by O. L. Varland.
Song ---------- Male Quartette
Welcome ------ Mrs. A. E. Martin
Response ------ Former Residents
Solo ---------- Mrs. C. O. Fitts
Reading ---- Miss Beatrice Leinbach
Song ---------- Male Quartette
Drill, Supervised by Mrs. Geo. Goelz.
Reading ------ Miss Gladys Barry
Solo ---------- Bert Nelson
Community Singing.

Afternoon Entertainment Committees

Children—
Mrs. C. P. Luick
Miss Maud Newgard
Miss Grace Gartz

Ladies—
Mrs. J. J. Sharon
Mrs. E. W. Luick
Mrs. A. W. Martin

Men—
J. J. Flynn
H. F. Luick

Picnic Supper at City Park at 6:00 O'clock.

Each family is requested to bring their own dishes and sandwiches and one other article of food.

IOWA LEADS IN TELEPHONES

Iowa leads the world in rural telephone communication, and five out of every six farms equipped with telephones, according to the latest report by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The 1920 census of agriculture shows that 38.9 per cent of all farms in the United States, or approximately two farms out of every five are equipped with telephones. The rural development of telephone facilities is far ahead of that in any other country in the world.

Of all the farms in the state of Iowa there are more than 8-- per cent that have telephones, while in Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska, her nearest competitors, between 70 and 80 per cent of the farms have telephones.

The percentage of farms with telephones in Iowa and nearby states is as follows: Iowa, 81.1; Nebraska, 76.4; Minnesota, 62; and South Dakota, 59.4.

There are also more telephones in proportion to the entire population in Iowa than any other state or country.

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC CO. SUFFERS DAMAGE IN STORM

Eleven high line poles of the Iowa Falls Electric Co. were blown down and broken to pieces a half mile north of the old east side school house in Iowa Falls during the big storm last Tuesday. This high line feeds Popejoy, Dows, Rowan, Coulter, Belmond, Goodell, Klemme and Garner. The Garner plant took care of the towns of Belmond, Goodell, Klemme and Garner, but the other places were without current for almost a day.

The loss of the poles was total, but there was only slight loss to the cables. The construction gang of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. assisted the construction gang of the electric company in repairing the damage. In addition, the local company called in help from outside divisions and had their line working at 5 o'clock Wenesday evening.

The loss to the company will be about $500 in material, not counting the loss of service.

CLARION NEWS' NEW EDITOR

G. W. Newton, of Des Moines, arrived in Clarion, Tuesday, and will manage the News for Editor Goshorn of the Eagle Grove Times, who last week announced that he had purchased the property from Howard C. King. The King family left Clarion last Wednesday afternoon by automobile for their future home at St. Marie, Idaho.—Monitor.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance; $2.00 on time,
$2.00 per year outside state of Iowa

CIRCULATION OVER 1,000

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents.)

Editorials

YOUR PAPER STOPS WHEN OUT

Is your subscription to the Independent paid up? Look at the date stamped after your name. If you aren't paid up, please come in or mail your check to settle. We have several hundred dollars due us on back subscriptions, and we need the money. The two dollars you may owe is not much in itself, but multiplied by the others it amounts to much more than we can afford to carry on our books.

During the past two years, when prices on farm commodities were down to below cost of production, and times and mney were tight, the Independent carried several hundred subscribers, gave them credit until times were better. We feel that the upward swing of prosperity is here again, and that all subscriptions delinquent should be settled.

A good many have failed to notice that their time has expired and have simply neglected to square up. Others have been receiving the paper through the courtesy of credit, or otherwise, have accepted and read it. In all fairness, folks, isn't it about time to get together?

The publisher cannot personally see each subscriber; he must depend upon them. To see each of you personally would take three months doing nothing else. It is up to you. Many of you ask why we do not stop at expiration. That is the really businesslike way of doing, and it is going to be our future policy. The past two years have required many unbusinesslike methods—circumstances alter cases. It has always been our policy to run a newspaper as good business sense would direct, on a business basis. We believe our readers want it conducted that way. We are trying to give you a good newspaper, one that will be a good representative of your community. To do this requires a considerable amount of money.

There are three sources of income to a newspaper—advertising, job printing, and subscriptions. If all three come up to standard, you get a good newspaper; if the income falls down on any one of the three, something must be cut down. With the Independent, the advertisers have paid up promply, the job printing has been taken care of, but the subscriptions have lagged behind. They must come up to the other two.

Therefore, beginning August 1st, all subscriptions to the Belmond Independent not paid in advance will be stopped at expiration, unless we are otherwise notified. The subscription price will be two dollars per year in advance. Until August 1st renewals and new subscriptions will be accepted at the present rate, $1.50 per year. After August 1st the rate will be $2.00 strictly in advance.

GIVING JUST THE "GOOD" NEWS

Every once in a while you hear it said that the newspapers print too much scandal and bad news, that they play up the horrible and dark side of the day's events, ignoring the good things that happen. And then again every now and then some one springs that old remark about printing all the news.

We wonder if people realize just what they are trying to get at? To print "all" the news is something no newspaper has ever done, or ever will do. Life consists of both the "good" and the "bad" news, and the newspapers as a whole endeavor to give their readers the news as it occurs, just as it occurs. Truthfulness is the first aim of a reputable newspaper. If the news is good news, the publisher is more pleased than if it is bad news, but whether good or bad, the mission of the paper is to give it.

There are those who want only the "good" news published. They want the dark side of life suppressed, regardless of the fact that every cloud has two sides. It takes both to portray accurately our lives. A newspaper does not make the news, it simply tells what happens as truthfully as it can get the facts. It cannot control events any more than its readers—not as much, in fact. If we had our way all news would be good news. But until the millineum comes news will be both good and bad, and as it comes so will it be published.

Any newspaper suppresses columns of "bad" news every week, some of it worse than "bad." Many a man who hollers about "printing all the news" should be mighty glad that "all" of it isn't printed. The readers of a newspaper, of this newspaper, can help along with the "good" news by lqtting the editor know when some occurs. What is "good" news? Any news that will interest someone else; a party, a visit, a trip, a birth, marriage, social, and the hundred other things that happen every day of the week. Those are the things any newspaper wants to print and is tickled to get. But if something turns up that isn't as pleasant, do not turn your back upon it and try to cover it up. Publicity has cured more social ills than any other medium, and always will. It is the one thing the evildoer fears more than anything else. The good and the bad; they are both here, always will be here. Let's take them openly as they come.

FORD FOR PRESIDENT

There is a growing demand for Ford for president. The country over, the past month has seen a great and growing talk of the Lizzie maker for the presidential chair. Why? What is there about Henry Ford that appeals to the American people? We believe it is because the people think he is honest, sincere in his beliefs and actions. There are many things about Ford which make him poor timber for a presidential candidate, and many good ones. He is beyond question the most successful business man in America. From poverty to hundreds of millions in 20 years thru his own efforts and vision.

People do not believe that Ford would be "controlled" by the Wall Street gang. They have faith in his ability. As a statesman, he is a complete fizzle. As a business man a howling success. And America is desperately in need of a business administration.

Four out of five men, representative business men, the Independent has talked with, were Ford voters. They say if he gets the nomination that he he will be elected. We believe that is about so. As a democratic candidate his chances will not be as good as on the republican ticket, but he will pull a mighty vote just the same, perhaps sufficient to win. The west, and middle west, we believe, would go for him. The South will go democratic of course. But in the East he will have hard sledding. Colliers' magazine, in a national poll, finds Ford leading the field, with about a third of the votes. But whether he wins or loses, it is almost certain he will be a candidate, and that it will be one of the greatest political battles of American history.

LET 'EM SQUIRM

When foreign governments enact laws they expect Americans to obey them within the territorial jurisdiction of those governments. When the United Staes enacts laws the same principle should apply to citizens of other countries whose those citizens reach American territory.

These are statements of common fairness and justice that no self respecting person can question. Congress has passed a law which prohibits any American ship from carrying liquor on board. The same law prohibits any foreign ship from entering an American port with liquor on board, except for medicinal purposes.

Foreign ship owners (and we suspect some of their governments, as well) are endeavoring to flagrantly disregard that law and the authority of the United States by carrying a full supply of liquor, that for voyage home being sealed by consular agents, to be opened after the ships leave American waters for their home ports. It is a shrewd trick, and if allowed to succeed will drive American passenger ships from the seas unless the law is amended.

Here is the meat of the cocoanut. If a British ship, for instance, is allowed to disregard the law it will have plenty of "wet" goods for its passengers as soon as it passes out of American waters. An American ship, making the same trip, would be required to obey the law and require no liquor on board, except for medicinal purposes. Which ship would get the business, and how long could an American ship continue in commission under such discriminatory conditions?

If foreign ships entering our ports can not obey the law they should be forbidden the right of entry. Either that, or American ships should be placed on an equal footing. The government should stand pat and compel a strict observance of our laws as long as they are in force. Only an imbecile would be guilty of slicing off his own nose.—Ex.

Several years ago at a church down in Missouri a marriage ceremony took place. The bridegroom's name was Wheat and the bride's was Corn. When the ceremony was over the choir surprised the audience by singing "Oh, What Shall the Harvest Be?" Some of the friends said nubbins, others said to wait until it was cradled. In due time it was cradled, and it was nubbins. (A pair of twin girls.)

LOCALS

Roads about the country have been in excellent condition owing to the lack of rain. The shower of Saturday did not do overly much damage to them except in spots.

Harry Reese is the owner of a new Dodge-Coupe, purchased last week from the Motor Inn Co.

Theo. Hansen, one of the leading merchants of Rowan, was in town last Wednesday on business affairs.

Louis Tokman of the Belmond Auto Co. was a business caller at Des Moines last Wednesday.

Rev. H. T. Miller, of the U. B. church at Goodell, was a business caller here last Wednesday.

Mrs. Stephenson of Fort Dodge was here visiting friends and relatives on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Barban drove to Eagle Grove, Sunday, to visit relatives and friends.

F. J. Tuffree drove to Marshalltown the first of the week to meet Mrs. Tuffree and the children, who had been visiting at Monticello.

W. H. Trafford of Belmond was a business visitor here Saturday.—Klemme Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Ely, of Belmond, were Sunday visitors at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Missman.—Times.

Tom Hake and family went to Belmond, Saturday evening, for an over Sunday visit.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schultz and two children, of Belmond, were visiting at the George Kessler home Tuesday afternoon.—Times.

The Ladies of the Trinity Lutheran Aid society will hold a Food Sale at the Cash Meat Market on Saturday, July 21st., beginning at 10:30 o'clock a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butterfield came over from Hampton last week, and are staying at the C. A. Church residence. They expect to remain in Belmond for about a month.

Mrs. Riley and daughter, Dolly, of Rowan, spent Saturday at the Fuller Bailey home in Belmond.

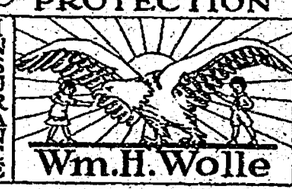
Mrs. Rosecrans spent the week end with the Pritchard family at Clear Lake.

Hans Rickens is the owner of a new Overland touring car, purchased from the Nordschow Motor Co. last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brage and family, from Meservey, spent Sunday at the Dan Wenzell home.

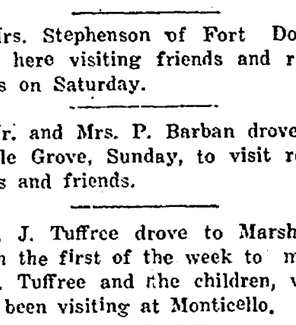
Mrs. George Schanck is enjoying a visit from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Blakewell, and daughter from South Dakota.

Mrs. F. E. Snyder was a busines caller at Thornton on Monday of this week.

PROTECTION
INSURANCE


THE BEST
Wm. H. Wolle
ALL BRANCHES

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.



KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205
T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

$500 Buys 80 Acres
Balance back. Partially improved.

$1,000 Buys 100 Acres
No improvements, but cultivated.

Now Is the Time To Do Your Boosting

160 Acre Improved Farm
5-room house; barn room for 16 head of cattle, and other buildings. Valued at $40 per acre. Will take exchange up to $2500. Balance cash or back on land.

7-room house, modern, and other buildings. $4,550. 1-2 cash, balance back.

WOLLE LAND AGENCY
Over Griesy's
Belmond, - Iowa

WE suppose you are a sensible buyer. We want your business. Therefore, we sell Goodyear Tires—famous the world over for their fine performance—and we give standard Goodyear Service on every Goodyear Tire we sell. That tire and that service are all we can give you—but nobody else can promise half so much and live up to it.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company
GOODYEAR

Everywhere—Royal Cords
United States Tires are Good Tires

THE growing number of Royal Cord Clinchers you see on the roads gives an idea of how many car owners there are who want the best tire money can buy.

There weren't near enough Clincher Royals to go around last year.

This year—even with the production more than doubled—you can best be sure of them by taking them at the moment.

US
Where to buy U.S. Tires

Jones Harness Company
Belmond, Iowa

Sedan
Coupe
Touring Car
Runabout
Truck Chassis
Chassis
Fordson Tractor

Ford
$5.00 Enrolls YOU
Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

$5.00 starts you toward the ownership of any type of Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor.

We will deposit your payments in a local bank at interest. You can add a little every week. Soon the payments, plus the interest, will make the Car, Truck or Tractor yours.

Come in and get full details.

BELMOND AUTO CO.
Louis Tokman Geo. F. Heginger
Authorized Ford and Lincoln Dealers
Phones 108-258 Belmond, Iowa

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Herds Being Tested For T. B.

Dr. L. N. Jargo, federal veterinarian representing the U. S. Bureau of Animal Husbandry, spent several days in Wright county last week testing dairy herds for tuberculosis. Dr. Jargo's visit to the county was for the purpose of making the first test on several herds also applying the second test to other herds.

Farmers of Wright county, particularly the breeders of purebred livestock, are becoming intensely interested in the eradication of tuberculosis from herds of our county. To date, there are sixteen herds on the accredited list and the interest in the eradication of this dreadful disease seems to be growing through out the county. Some of the herds upon which tests were made last week are as follows: G. L. Trask, R W Fisher, G. E. Withers, J. W. Akers, J. W. Azettine, C. J. Toft, Andy Severe, S. U. Leinbach, Martin Halfwassen, and E. E. Akers.

Calf Club Tour Big Success

Rex Beresford, animal husbandry specialist from the extension service at Ames, accompanied the county agent and all members of the Wright County Baby Beef club, except two, on the tour of the county to inspect the baby beeves which are now on feed for the Baby Beef club exhibit at Eagle Grove, August 22nd. and finally the state fair exhibit at Des Moines.

The members of the Baby Beef club, and the fathers of several of the boys and other interested people, made the trip around the county to see the boys' calves which are being fed. Each club member's farm was visited and a short talk by Mr. Beresford given and all members given opportunity to ask questions in connection with the proper feeding and caring of the baby beeves. All boys of the club seemed to enjoy the trip and the instruction which was received from Mr. Beresford was very helpful to the boys in their feeding operations.

According to Mr. Beresford, the Wright county boys have a fine bunch of calves and he seems to think that the calves when shipped to Des Moines will make a splendid showing. He says the calves are all of a good quality and type and with a little more condition on each individual, they will be in splendid shape for the exhibit at Eagle Grove and Des Moines. Boys who made the tour of inspection are as follows: Laurel Hill, Ardis Peterson, Kenneth Tillman, John and Roy Axon, Gerald Kennedy, Gilbert Hansen, Robert Hansen. Craig Nelson, Everett McCutcheon and Ralph Harring.

Poultry Culling Demonstrations

The county agent has worked out a schedule whereby a poultry culling demonstration will be held in each township of the county. The general plan will be to select a farm which is as centrally located as possible and then invite all members of that particular township to witness the culling demonstration.

According to figures previously compiled, there are from twenty-five to thirty per cent of the farm hens which are non-producers, and a series of culling demonstrations is being planned so as to elimnate these loafer hens from the farm flocks. There is no doubt but what there are thousands of hens carried over each year which do not pay for their keep. Poultry diseases will also be taken up at these demonstrations and any one having disease in their flock should bring their questions to the demonstrations.

The places for holding the demonstrations have not been worked out as yet but those who are interested in attending the demonstrations are urged to get in touch with the lady vice director of the township where the culling demonstration is to be held. The schedule which will be followed in conducting the poultry culling demonstratioins will be as follows.

Time—10 A. M.
Lincoln, Wednesday, July 18.
Time—1:30 P. M.
Lake, Thursday, July 19.
Dayton, Friday, July 20.
Eagle Grove, Monday, July 23.
Troy, Tuesday, July 24.
Woolstock, Friday, July 27.
Wall Lake, Monday, July 30.
Vernon, Tuesday, July 31.
Pleasant, Wednesday, Aug. 1.
Iowa, Thursday, Aug. 3.
Blaine, Friday, Aug. 4.
Belmond, Monday, Aug. 6.
Norway, Tuesday, August 7.

Amateurs Judge Sams Polands

Members of the Wright county Junior Livestock Judging Club met at the J. H. Sams & Son farm at the old fair grounds last Friday evening, where they worked on Poland China hogs. The boys gave placings and reasons on one class of aged sows and placings, only, on a class of spring ilts. The balance of the evening was spent at the county agent's office, where the boys were given further instruction on points in the judging work.

Prof. H. H. Kildee, head of the Animal Husbandry department of Iowa State College, has invited the county agent and boys to the livestock judging contest at the college August 11, which contest has been arranged for all jnnior livestock judging teams of the state. The county agent and members of the judging club plan to spend the entire day at Ames, so that the boys will have opportunity to see the college.

The junior judges will also take part in the judging contest at the Mason City fair during the week of August 15. Here the boys will judge in competition with teams from Chickasaw, Floyd, Butler, Franklin, Hancock, Kossuth, Winnebago, Mitchell, Worth and Cerro Gordo counties. The selection of members of the judging team which will represent Wright county at th state fair will depend largely upon the showing made by the boys at the Ames contest August 11.

Picnic-Club Exhibit Plans

Plans are rounding into shape for the county wide picnic-club exhibit which is being planned for August 22nd at Eagle Grove. The committee in charge of arrangements for the livestock at this exhibit has already arranged for a big tent about one hundred twenty feet in length for housing the livestock. The poultry will be housed in a building already on the grounds and the girls garment exhibits will be shown in the round building at Greenwood park.

It has been planned by the executive committee to have all judging of the club exhibits completed by noon in order that everyone may have opportunity to see the prize winning livestock, poultry and fancy work after dinner. The afternoon program consists of an address by John W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, a baseball game between two of the township farm bureaus of the county as well as a number of athletic sports which usually go with a picnic of this kind.

Arrangements have been made for sending all of the baby beeves to the state fair at Des Moines in one carload shipment. It has been planned also to send the first and second prize winners in the various breed classes of purebred gilts and poultry, the transportation charges to be paid by the county farm bureau. Thirty dollars will be paid in prizes to members of the Baby Beef club, thirty dollars to the Purebred Gilt, forty-five dollars to the Poultry club and fifty dollars to the Girls' Garment club. The baby beeves now on feed, are looking fine and according to Rex Beresford, who inspected the calves last week, some of them are above average; the purebred gilts show fine quality and with another month's care and feed will be in excellent show condition. The birds in the poultry club are looking fine and if the livestock and poultry continue to improve as they have in the past month an exceptionally fine exhibit will be made by the boys and girls at Eagle Grove next August.

Very competent judges have been secured to make the placings on the livstock and poultry exhibits. E. L. Quaife, animal husbandry specialist, and L. E. Heifner, poultry specialist, both of the Extension Service at Ames, will judge the livestock and poultry exhibits. Arrangements are now being made to secure a home demonstration agent from some near by county to judge the exhibits in the girls' department. The carload of baby beeves also the first and second prize winning gilts and poultry in the different breeds will be shipped from Eagle Grove to the state fair at Des Moines. The boys and girls of the county who are members of the different clubs are looking forward with great pleasure to the exhibit at Eagle Grove and finally to the state fair at Des Moines.

Belmond Local News

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Goodman and son Bobbie, of Ida Grove, visited with the Barry sisters on Saturday. Mrs. Goodman was formerly Miss Simon, a teacher in the Belmond high school.

Mrs. Chris Sorenson left yesterday for Clear Lake where she will spend a month's vacation. Mrs. Clemonson will keep house during her absence.

Miss Ruth Hill visited Saturday of last week at Cornelia with some friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Kragh and family motored to Dows on Sunday to visit friends and relatives.

Mrs. Duran Nagle, of Clarion, was a visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kinney, a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ramsay of Des Moines, were guests at the home of his brother, Wallace, and family, over the week end.

Miss Rena Purdy drove to Mason City on Monday, Mrs. Wallace Ramsay and daughter, Ruth, accompanying her.

The Chain of Ten will be entertained at the home of Mrs. J. E. Pfaltzgraff on Monday next.

Mrs. Gus Nissen will be hostess to the ladies of the Methodist Aid society today.

Six young ladies, the Misses Shirley Thompson, Clara Johnson, Marjorie Purcell, Pearl Rierson, Gilda Nelson enjoyed an outing at Morse Lake last week at the Griesy-Skovlin cottage, thru the courtesy of the two gentlemen.

The officers of Golden Rod Rebekah lodge were installed last Wednesday night by Miss Nellie Acre's, of Dows. Miss Acres was accompanied by Mrs. Krummen of Dows.

Ed. Bailey drove to Marshalltown last Saturday on business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Heinisch and son enjolyed a camping out at Morse Lake over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings autoed to Eagle Grove, Sunday, to visit relatives and friends.

Wm. Trafford is enjoying a visit this week from his mother, who resides in Illinois.

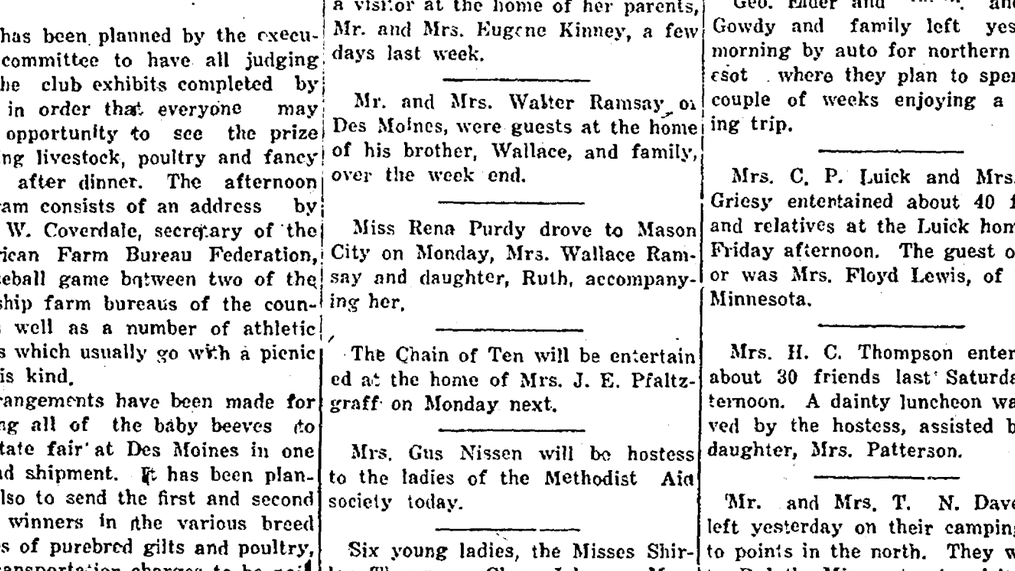
Geo. Elder and [illegible] and Dr. Gowdy and family left yesterday morning by auto for northern Minnesot where they plan to spend a couple of weeks enjoying a camping trip.

Mrs. C. P. Luick and Mrs. Val Griesy entertained about 40 friends and relatives at the Luick home last Friday afternoon. The guest of honor was Mrs. Floyd Lewis, of Tracy, Minnesota.

Mrs. H. C. Thompson entertained about 30 friends last Saturday afternoon. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Davenport left yesterday on their camping trip to points in the north. They will go to Duluth, Minnesota, to visit their son, Earnest, a day or so, and from there will go on to the Yellowstone Park and points in Montana. They will be gone about a month. Wm. Dempsey will take his place on the mail route.

Mrs. Floyd Lewis, of Tracy, Minnesota, has been a guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Val Griesy, and with other relatives the past week.



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.
THE DEMPSEY-GIBBONS FIGHT
General view of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Mont. This photo gives one an idea of the large number of people that did not attend.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, JULY 19, 1923. No. 17.

READ THIS—THEN ACT

Mr. George T. Johnson of Belmond township was running a cream separator that he supposed was working as well as any. We asked permission to install a Ball Bearing Primrose and let him skim part of his milk with the new machine and part with the old. Here is the result:

From one-half of the milk at one skimming with the Primrose he received a check for $1.15 for the cream.

From one-half of the milk at one skimming with the other machine he received a check for 98 cents for the cream.

A gain with the Primrose of 34 cents a skimming, 68 cents a day and $248 a year!

Did it pay him to buy a new Primrose?

Mr. Will J. Boelman and Mr. Theodore Kessler are the owners of new Primrose Cream Separators since last week. Will their records show as well as Mr. Johnson's?

Are You Hot?

We will bet you are in the harvest fields this week and we were wondering if you ever thought about the wife, mother and sister who had to work in the hot kitchen all day over a big coal range? Better come in and buy one of the New Perfection Oil Ranges for her right now. She will appreciate it more than you can guess.

Your Stock Needs Water These Days

And remember the International and Cushman engines never tire out in filling that big tank. Just a little gasolene and oil and they will pump all day. Never have to think about the wind blowing to run the old mill.

Charles Leonard, Martin Nelson and W. A. Tedder are the owners of new Cushman engines. Their pumping troubles are over.

Now Harvest—Soon Threshing

Have you decided to put in that new elevator you have been thinking about so many years. Of course we have the old standard Sandwich elevators and you can just as well use one for threshing an pay for it this fall. Just three machines left at the old price. Better get one of them.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

"FLY-KIL"

Get the flys before they get your profits.

No flies can live after a "Fly-Kil" mist.

"Fly-Kill" is equally effective as a killer and repellent against fleas, lice, mites, bedbugs and cockroaches.

Sold on a money back guarantee.

Some of the leading dairies using "Fly-Kil"---Kurtz Dairy and Hawley Dairy, Belmond; Schultz Dairy, Clarion; H. Pals Dairy Farm, Meservey; Belmond Cow Testing Association.

SOLD ONLY BY

Chas. Sampson & J. M. Sampson

Phone 2707 or 85 Belmond, Iowa

WOODRUFF'S

"Good Shoes"

IN A BIG TEN-DAY

MID-SUMMER

SHOE SALE

Starting Thursday, July 19th

At 8:30 a. m. on this day we place 290 lots of the season's latest styles into one of the most spectacular selling events this big store has ever held. Every pair in these lots of high-grade shoes are to be sold in ten days---the exceedingly low prices will do it.

BE SURE YOU GET YOUR SHARE

WOODRUFF'S

Good Shoes

115 N. Federal Mason City, Iowa

MESERVEY SECTION

For Sale—My property in the north part of town. See Mrs. P. Schove, Meservey, Iowa. 29tfc

For Sale—Shetland pony, 3 years old. Black and white.—Peter H. Pals, Meservey, Ia. 33tfc

Fred, Henry and Lena Pals, Louie and Lena Gruis, are visiting at Blue Earth and Fairmont, Minn.

For sale or rent, a 4-room house. See W. F. Larson, Meservey, Iowa. 35tfc.

OUR MOTTO—"QUALITY FIRST"

JULY

Clearance Sale!

We will continue the Special in Silk Hosiery during the month of July.

Also a few Voiles left which will sell at a reduction.

Come in and get our prices and be convinced that we are selling goods right.

It is hardly necessary to call your attention to the fact that our grocery stock is always clean and fresh.

Honest dealing is our policy.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, - Iowa

Tire Sale

Starting July 12th

For ten days we will discount 10 per cent from today's prices on all

GOODRICH, FISK and DIAMOND

TIRES

We have in stock. Don't let this chance slip by without buying the tires you will need this summer.

30x3 1-2 N. S. Fisk Casing for $9.59.

30x3 1-2 Cord for $12.47.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

Service Counts

When you open your account with this bank you may be sure of two things. One is absolute security and the other is courteous, painstaking service—the sort of personal service you would expect to reveive from your best friend.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Last Monday evening about 40 young people of Rev. Pannkuk's Bible class met at the parsonage, carrying out a surprise in honor of the pastor's birthday anniversary. A good time is reported. Games were played. Refreshments were served. A purse was made up and presented to Rev. Pannkuk as a token of esteem. All departed wishing him many happy returns of the day.

Peter Pals and Mr. and Mrs. Hulsebus were Kanawha visitors on last Tuesday p. m.

C. Bier was a caller at Clear Lake Tuesday forenoon.

We are open every evening, so come in and get your repairs.—C. J. Wendel. 34tfc

For Rent—40 acres of hay land. See Farmers Savings Bank, Meservey, Iowa. 331c

We are the headquarters for good things for your Lunch Basket which are as follows:

Mince Ham
New England Ham
Boiled Ham
Dried Beef
Pickles and Cheese
Armours Best Pork & Beans
Armours Vienna style Sausages

You can afford to eat the best if you buy here.

The Money Savers for Thrifty Housewives.

Butter at all times.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

WHEN SHE'S AWAY

"The wife's away," said the man who wore a sort of run-down look. "And I've been cooking my own breakfasts. The thing that gets me is how in the name of goodness a person can cook three things, excluding coffee, and have them all done at the same time? I'll tell the waiting world that to do it is a gift. If that woman doesn't come back soon I'll be blistered in every exposed part of my body from hot flying grease. Did you ever try first to cook bacon, then drop an egg into the spider and fry it in the hot bacon grease? Do it, and I'll bet if you never uttered a cuss in your life you'll begin right then."—Detroit News.

Opportunity generally makes sure before knocking that it is a lucky man's door.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone—Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Butz, Mrs. Henry Frey and son, Wilbert, were Mason City callers last Thursday.

Word was received here by Mrs. Wm. Quandt, stating that her mother, Mrs. H. Immel, had passed away at her home on Thursday of last week. Mrs. Immel had been a patient sufferer for some time with Brights disease. She will be remembered by a host of friends who sympathize with the family in their time of sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Reif visited last Sunday p. m. at the Wm. Eimbrink and A. Boller homes at Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer, Sr. and three younger children, accompanied by Mrs. H. Raecker and son, Rev. Raecker, Jr., departed last Monday a. m. by auto for Southwestern Iowa where they will visit relatives at different points until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Enabnit and younger children of Des Moines came Sunday to visit until Tuesday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Proost, John Langlitz, Mrs. Ankeny and daughter motored to Mason City last Saturday p. m. Mr. Proost and Mr. Langlitz were business callers. Mrs. Ankeny and daughter were returning after a week's visit here. Walter Witt went as far as Clear Lake with them, he having returned from Cedar Falls for the week end.

Rev. H. Raecker, Jr., and family arrived Sunday accompanied by the former's father, from Abbot. The latter had spent a week at Cedar Falls. Mrs. Raecker and children will spend the week here with relatives.

E. Ruitter and son John were visitors at Aplington last Sunday.

Mrs. Joe West and baby left last Monday p. m. for Webster City where she went in response to a message stating that her cousin, Edward Woods, a young man of 17, was slugged, robbed and killed at that place last Saturday night. He had drawn his savings and was in possession of same when he was stabbed. A gold watch, given to him by his mother last Christmas, which he was carrying was also taken. He was an employee of a R. R. company and was on his way to work when the crime was committed.

The board of education met in special session last Monday evening.

John Ruiter began a 60-day leave of absence last Tuesday. Mr. Anderson of Fairmont, Minn., will fill the place during that time.

E. A. Strasburg and Art Peters of Alexander were Mason City callers Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Larson are the proud parents of a new son, born to them last Monday.

Miss Margaret Mennenga of Belmond visited at the Rev. Pannkuk home last Tuesday.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus of Clear Lake were in town last Wednesday evening.

Cards were received here last announcing the marriage of Mr. Hajo Pals to Miss Francis LeCocq, of Pella. They will be at home in Belmond after August 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Utesch and daughter, and Mrs. Reimer and her grandson, of Chicago, Theo. Wendell and wife, Albert Wendell and wife, Howard Casebeer and wife, Nels Faborg and wife, Henry Wendell and wife, and Ott Strasburg and family Jennie Meinderts and Ralph Wendell made up a party who enjoyed a picnic supper at Clear Lake last Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gruis motored to Stout last Thursday to spend a few days there visiting their relatives and friends.

The Helping Hand society will meet in the basement of the Evang. church today (Thursday) for their regular meeting, with Mrs. Albert Wendell as hostess.

Mrs. G. E. Raecker was on the sick list several days last week.

Supt. J. G. Herbster and brother, Kenneth, were in town on business matters last Thursday. We were informed that the former was married last Tuesday to Miss Hazel Hawthorne, and they will make this their home within a month, or as soon as arrangements can be made.

Mrs. Eilert Dirks and sister, Alma Gruis came Thursday last from their home in Long Island City, N. Y., and will remain visiting relatives and friends indefinitely.

Supt. R. E. Newcomb, of Mason City, was in town last Thursday attending to matters in his line.

Mr. and Mrs. James Faborg are rejoicing over the arrival of a new daughter, who came to their home on Thursday of last week.

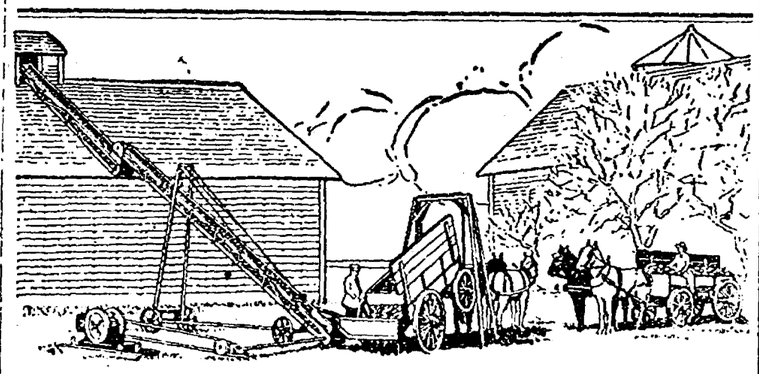
Mr. and Mrs. John Utesch and daughter, and Mrs. Reimer and her grandson returned to their home in Chicago last Friday morning after visiting the Wendell families here for 10 days. They made the trip by auto.

Merle Brogan was in town Friday and Saturday. He is attending Normal at I. S. T. C. at Cedar Falls.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Mrs Wm. Gealow entertained the Ladies Aid society of the St. John Lutheran church of Belmond at her home on Thursday last.

True Christian piety does not require the services of a megaphone.



Real Time and Labor Savers

In storing your ear corn or small grain, the John Deere Elevator will save 20 to 30 minutes' time on every load. Think what this means to you during your harvest season when every minute counts.

Besides, you do away with that hard, back-breaking job of scooping entirely—all the work is done by horses or a 3 to 6 H.P. farm engine.

JOHN DEERE GRAIN ELEVATORS

We have two types of John Deere Elevators—the John Deere Portable Elevator, illustrated above, and the John Deere Inside Cup, illustrated below.

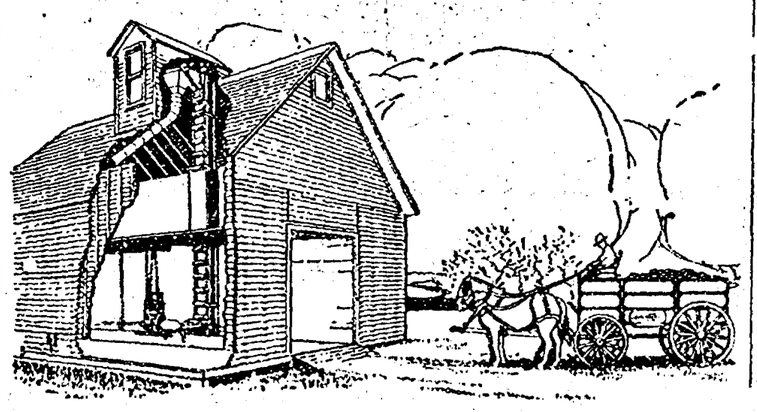
If you have more than one building in which you store your crop, get the John Deere Portable—you can quickly move it from one building to another.

If one building furnishes storage for your entire crop, get a John Deere Inside Cup—this is a stationary outfit that is permanently installed and always ready for use.

If you are going to build a new crib, get our free plans that will save you dollars in material and construction costs—they won't cost you a cent.

No matter what kind of elevator you need we have it for you. Come in and let us figure with you.

C. J. WENDEL, Meservey, Iowa



.....WHEN IN NEED OF.....

Quality Lumber and Millwork
Coal, Salt, Drain Tile
Building Blocks, Floor Blocks
Steel Gates, Can't Sag Gates
Woven Wire, Steel and Cedar Posts
Screen Doors, Window Screens
Lime, Cement, Etc.

See Us and Save Money

IOWA AUTOMATIC HOG DOOR
Try One

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

ROWAN NEWS

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mrs. R. H. Keith and Kenneth were in Hampton on business Friday.

DeRusch Hughes, who has been living with his mother at the Friend Aldrich home, went back to Omaha last Tuesday for a visit with relatives.

Miss Ruth Dailey of Miles City, Mont., arrived Saturday to make an extended visit at the C. W. Fowler home.

Clesson Azeltine and Geo. Brooks have recently purchased saxophones.

Miss Wilda Whitten left Saturday to take up a six-weeks' course at Coe College.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Myers from Indianola and Mrs. Geo. Rodgers of Lacona spent the week end at the F. M. Myers home.

Mrs. Martha Robinson of Estherville is spending this week with her nephews, Wm. and Robert Duffy.

Mrs. E. Everett has returned from a visit with her son at Webster City.

F. H. Brooks and family and Mrs. J. D. Brooks spent part of last week with relatives at Waterloo and Waverly, returning Friday. They left Sunday to spend the week fishing in Minnesota.

Mrs. Will Mullins, who has been visiting relatives here, left Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. Hubbard McCallum, at Mason City. From there she plans to make an extended visit with relatives at Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bowers from Bally, Penn., arrived Saturday for an extended visit with their son, Charles Bowers and family.

Mrs. Ed. Ballou spent part of last week with relatives at Galt.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval, Fred Frances and the Carl D. Smith family visited at Britt Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsay drove to Iowa Falls, Sunday, to attend a family reunion of Mrs. Lindsey's relatives.

Mrs. Etta Carr left Monday evening for Latimer where she expects to remain for some time at the Henry Miller home, caring for the children while Mrs. Miller is away visiting at Thief River, Minn.

Carl D. Smith and family, who have been visiting for some time at the Fred Kercheval home, departed Monday for their home in Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler and Miss Esther autoed to Clarion. Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow stopped at the G. W. Whitten home last Friday, enroute from Grundy Center to their home in Goldfield. They have been selling copies of a new song, "I'm From Iowa," which they recently composed, and report success in the sales.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cowley and Maude, autoed to LaPorte City last Friday, returning the first of the week.

D. W. Whitten recently purchased some electric fans and placed them in his store. These will add much to the comfort of his customers.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten took their son, Lyndon, to Camp Foster on the shore of Lake Okoboji, where he will spend 10 days camping with a company of boys.

Mrs. Harm Brinkman and children of Latimer were over last Tuesday.

Word received from John Brinkman, Mankato, Minn., states that he is recovering rapidly from his recent operation. Miss Alma Brinkman of Long Beach, Cal., has been there assisting to care for him.

Miss Mildred Azeltine arrived home last Thursday for an extended visit with her parents.

Master Gilbert Rowen was on the sick list the first of the week.

Miss Helen Sellers from near Dows spent part of last week with her cousin, Miss LaVonne McCallum.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burger autoed to Cedar Falls to spend the week end with relatives.

Miss Grace Dayton of Cedar Rapids is visiting her sister, Mrs. D. A. French, this week.

The Geo. Unger family from Dows spent Sunday at the Mary Braden home.

The W. C. T. U. held their regular monthly meeting at Mrs. Harry Bohnett's, Wednesday of this week. Mrs. Parliman, who is visiting relatives here, and Mrs. W. R. McCallum, who with her husband are soon to leave for the west, were the honor guests. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Mrs. O. E. Ballou received word from Crookston, Minn., last Sunday that her sister, Mrs. Gildersleeve, was very low. A special delivery letter from her son stated that unless she rallied enough to take nourishment that she could last only a day or two.

Floyd Whitten and Gay Fletcher spent Sunday at home They have a two weeks gravel hauling yet at Greene.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris left on Wednesday for Albert Lea. From there they were going farther into Minnesota expecting to spend some time camping around the lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantle accompanied the Brooks family on their camping trip into Minnesota.

The Christian Endeavor society meets with Dolly Riley this week for their monthly business and social meeting.

The Womens Foreign Missionary society met with Mrs. Oscar Isenberger last Wednesday. Miss Mae Virden gave an excellent report of the Student Volunteer Council held at Yonkers, N. Y., last spring, of which May was a delegate from Cornell College.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes
Geo. A. Osborn, Pastor.

The happiness you get in church on Sunday is a tonic for the whole week.

Class meeting at 9:15 a. m. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Divine worship at 11 a. m. Morning theme: "Pressing Toward the Mark." Epworth League at 7 p. m. Evening service at 8. At the evening service the Whitten memorial pulpit furniture will be presented to the public with appropriate services. Evening sermon theme: "The Man of Refuge."

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

PICKLING ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Produce of Small Garden Can Be Utilized As It Matures

A method of canning pickles on the installment plan, so that the produce of the small home garden can be utilized, is recommended by Miss Ruth Bailey of the home economics division of Iowa State College.

A cup each of salt, sugar and mustard are mixed with a half gallon of vinegar and a half gallon of water. The pickles can be put into this mixture a few each day, until the crock is full. In a week to ten days the pickles will be ready to eat. Prepared in this way they will keep all winter.

If quart jars are used, a tablespoonful of each of the ingredients with a pint of vinegar and a pint of water will give the proper mixture.

BUSINESS

First Girl—So Lucy broke her engagement to that young doctor?

Second Girl—Yes! And can you imagine, he not only demanded all his gifts back, but even sent her a bill for twenty-seven visits.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

GOODELL NEWS

The "Wantano" club met at the home of Mrs. Fred Chase on last Thursday afternoon. About 25 were present. Mrs. Clarence Arnold gave a talk on the history of woolen fabrics, also gave a demonstration on the testing of woolen fabrics which was very interesting and instructive. At the close of this profitable session a fine lunch was served by Mrs. Chase and daughters.

Mrs. Gus Okrueg and daughter returned from Rochester, Wednesday.

Mrs. Kutzner is on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thada drove to Clear Lake on Tuesday afternoon to attend the camp meeting. Mr. Thada returned Wednesday. She remained several days.

Finis Latch and wife arrived Friday morning from Minnesota to visit his parents.

A large number of small children gathered at the home of Master Morris Zelie last Thursday, to celebrate his birthday.

J. W. Griggs and Miss Maude drove to their cottage at Clear Lake on Thursday.

George Halls of Charles City was calling on friends last Thursday.

Howard Africa of Kanawha visited relatives here Friday.

Del Church of Clear Lake was in town Monday.

Mrs. Monroe Graeber is enjoying a visit from her father and mother, and little niece of Harvey Ill.

Wm. Beier's youngest brother and wife and sister of Liberty township visited him on Sunday.

Mr. Brisco and family of Blue Island, Ill., is visiting at the home of Wm. Schlichting this week.

Mr. Wolle of Belmond was in the town Saturday in the interest of Canadian land sales.

The ice cream social given by the 4th division of the Ladies Aid, Saturday, was well patronized. The ladies took in about $35.

The Rosary will sell ice cream the coming Saturday night.

Fathers' Day was well attended at the U. B. church last Sunday. The male choir rendered some excellent music.

Mr. Sandberg's new shop is nearing completion. He is now putting in his machinery.

PLOW WORKS WITHOUT DRIVER

That farmers may before many years pass be able to turn an automatic plow loose in a field in the evening, go to bed and awake in the morning to find the field plowed is a possibility born out by tests with such a plow which has been conducted at Iowa State College.

The automatic plow works without tractor or horses and after it is set does not need a man to run it. In tests at the college, the plow which is still in process of being perfected has worked with considerable success.

It has been developed on lines suggested by J. B. Davidson, head of the agricultural engineering department by D. B. Lucas, graduate student in agricultural engineering.

Two plow bottoms, one left hand and one right hand, are placed on opposite sides of the main axle, about which the entire out is balanced.

The power is furnished by a small gasoline engine mounted above the main axle. One of the drive wheels follows the furrow and thus guides the plow.

A long bar across the top of the machine and extending slightly beyond each plow bottom reverses the direction of the plow when it comes in contact with the fence at the end of the field. Another device makes it possible for the machine to move the width of the furrow toward the land side when the direction has been changed.

Both Mr. Davidson and Mr. Lucas are confident that it can be made to work efficiently and at a great saving of labor, since after it is set going it will not require the presence of a driver. While such a machine would meet with difficulty in stump, stony or extremely rough land. There are hundreds of thousands of acres in Iowa where it would be possible to use it.—Times.

"What has become of the motion picture bathing beauty?" asks an editorial. Maybe she went in the water by mistake and was drowned.

Sugar consumers can't expect much relief. They are not far enough away.

Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.
DEMPSEY-GIBBONS FIGHT
This photo shows Gibbons forcing Dempsey in his corner and Jack fighting for a knockout.
This was one of Gibbon's best rounds and both fighters were going good when the photo was snapped.

ALEXANDER NEWS

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

While at play last Friday afternoon, little Lleywlyn Dunn had the misfortune of falling in such a manner as to fracture both bones in his left arm. He is getting along as nicely as can be expected.

Miss Charity Hansen, of Hampton, was a week end visitor with relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Winwood and son, Kenneth, were callers at Iowa Falls last Saturday evening.

Leonard Arends was a business visitor at Hampton last Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bell of Waterloo visited with relatives at Alexander several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dunn and children were callers at Belmond on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughters Jessie and Nellie were visitors at Dows last Friday.

Mrs. E. E. Butler and two sons of Hampton visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Arends, a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle and daughter, Leona, of Hampton, visited with relatives at this place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murphy and two sons were visitors at Hampton last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Isenberger and family of Latimer, were callers with friends in town Sunday.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

WHY WE SHAKE HANDS

Did you ever ask yourself why you shake hands with a parson whom you know? Here is the reason. In the old days, when every man who had any pretention to being a gentleman carried a sword, it was the custom for men when they met to show that they had no intention of treachery to offer one another their weapon hands, that is, the hand that would be used to draw the sword, and to withhold the hand was usually the signal for a fight.

So fixed did this habit become that long after men ceased to wear swords they still offered their weapon hand to a friend, and declined to offer it to an enemy. To this day when you refuse to shake hands with a person it signifies you are at war.

Among savages, who never carried swords the practice of shaking hands is unknown, and it affords them amusemet to see the white man do it.

One of the largest calamities to a poor man is to have some automobile salesman learn his telephone.

The richer the man is the more he hates to spend a half dollar for a new pair of garters.

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by
THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.
Oelwein, Iowa
T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa
Agent
Phone 196 or 115

Your Paper Will Stop August 1st

Beginning August 1st, the Independent will go on a Cash-In-Advance subscription basis. The price will be the same as now, $2.00 a year.

Until August 1st subscriptions may be renewed at $1.50 a year. After August 1st $2.00 will be the one and only price. The paper will stop promptly at expiration unless renewed, the same as your city daily does.

This policy is the same as that used by the Des Moines Register, and all city papers, as well as scores of weeklies. It is the only business like way. If you want your home paper you should be willing to give it the same treatment you do your daily. By stopping at expiration there can be no question or dispute about ordering or not ordering it.

The publisher wishes to take this opportunity of expressing his appreciation to the thousand subscribers of the Independent for their interest and co-operation, and he hopes and believes you will like the new method better than the old. It is our desire to give you the best paper possible. We want and need your co-operation in all ways at all times.

REMEMBER---Until August you can renew at $1.50. After August 1st the price is $2.00 strictly in advance. Take advantage of this bargain offer!

We need You---You need Us---Let's Get Together!

YOUR HOME TOWN PAPER

THE BELMOND INDEPENDENT

Man's Conquest of Time

The progress of mankind, from the earliest recorded ages, has been marked, by a ceaseless struggle against the limitations of time and space.

Civilization is mutual interchange of thought and the product of thought. This interchange demands transportation, hence the development of civilization has paralleled the improvements in transportation.

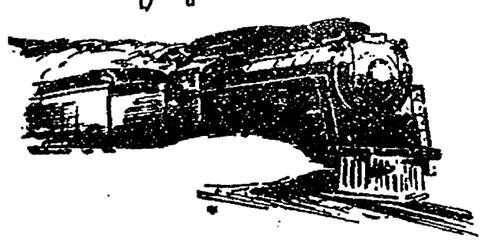
A useful lifetime should not be measured in hours lived, but in deeds done. Doubling man's productive capacity offers the same net result as doubling his period of usefulness or doubling the number of producers.

More than any other single factor of civilization, the automobile has multiplied the producing power of man, by decimating time and distance, and by providing a broad and flexible means for the transportation of men and their products.

The amazing growth of the automobile industry could not have been, had not the automobile more than justified itself as an economizer of manpower, a stimulator of production and a creator of wealth.

for Economical Transportation

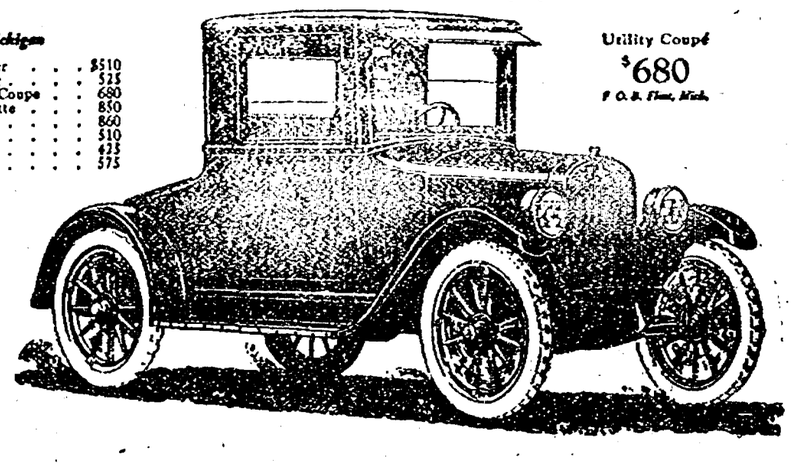
CHEVROLET



epitomizes the progress of the industry to date along the line of maximum economy consistent with modern requirements as to engineering efficiency and satisfactory quality. The wonderful increase in our sales proves that Chevrolet is leading in the evolution of individual transportation which measures and records the progress of civilization.

Prices F. O. B. Flint, Michigan

SUPERIOR Two-Passenger Roadster	$510
SUPERIOR Five-Passenger Touring	525
SUPERIOR Two-Passenger Utility Coupe	680
SUPERIOR Four-Passenger Sedanette	850
SUPERIOR Five-Passenger Sedan	860
SUPERIOR Light Delivery	510
SUPERIOR Commercial Chassis	425
Utility Express Truck Chassis	575



Utility Coupé
$680
F. O. B. Flint, Mich.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Phone 39 Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Local News

Miss Marie Fremming, of Fort Dodge, has been visiting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Jensen for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Thayne Bailey took their little daughter to Iowa City on Saturday for the removal of her tonsils.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Reif and Mrs. Reif's brother, Erwin Langlitz, of Meservey, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eimbrink.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Eilers and family, of Clarion, sent Thursday at the Chas. Longley home near Goodell.

Mrs. N. Hommerding, of Clear Lake, visited last week at the home of her mother, Mrs. P. G. Pederson.

Miss Emma Nelson went to Clear Lake last week to visit at the N. Hommerding home.

The Misses Mildred and Zola Hommerding returned to their home at Clear Lake after a visit with their grandmother, Mrs. Pederson.

Alfred Wilkinson, Ray Stapley, Ethel Thompson, Bernetas Wolle, and Dorothy Purcell left Sunday evening for Lake Okoboji, where they will attend the Epworth League Institute.

1920 Hupmobile for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Soreline and family, of Rowson, North Dakota, arrived Monday for a visit at the B. K. Kinseth home.

Mrs. Patterson, who has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Thompson, returned to her home at San Marcos, Texas, Sunday.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

$20 A Week Income---
$15 A Week Spent---
---Result Happiness.

$20 A Week Income---
$20 A Week Spent---
---Result Doubt.

$20 A Week Income---
$21 A Week Spent---
---Result Worry.

Save yourself DOUBT and WORRY over the future by saving a part of your INCOME NOW.

This bank will help you, just as it has helped your neighbor. We shall be glad to show you how.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowing

COPYRIGHT, 1923, BY SIDNEY GOWING

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lambe, at Jervaulx abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lambe, Aimee, vivacious daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, is in a rebellious mood.

CHAPTER II.—She wanders into the park, there encountering a strange youth in trouble with a motorcycle. He laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two cement the acquaintance by a ride on the motorcycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgina Berners, her cousin, Aimee sets out for Jervaulx. On the way she decides that Georgina shall impersonate her at Jervaulx, while she goes on a holiday. Georgina's horrified protest is unavailing.

CHAPTER III.—Happy in her new freedom, Aimee again meets "Billy." He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives hers as Amy Snooks, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER IV.—That night Aimee visits Georgina, and learns that the deception has not been discovered. By her dominant personality she compels Georgina to continue the subterfuge.

CHAPTER V.—On a trial spin next day on the Sphinx, with Billy, Aimee almost collides with a carriage in which are her aunt, Georgina and Alexander. The pair escape unrecognized.

CHAPTER VI.—Georgina learns that Lord Scroope is coming to visit Lady Erythea and, realizing what will happen on his arrival, is in hopeless bewilderment.

CHAPTER VII.—While Aimee is secretly visiting Georgina at Jervaulx, the place is burglarized. Aimee escapes.

CHAPTER VIII.—Georgina learns, with much relief, that Aimee has got away.

CHAPTER IX.—Police Inspector Panke decides that the robbery is the work of "Jack the Climber" and "Calamity Kate," noted thieves, who travel on a motorcycle.

CHAPTER X.—Billy, aware of his "partner's" nocturnal jaunts, is troubled. He follows her, on the Sphinx, to Jervaulx. He hears the commotion, at once suspects burglary, and follows two figures on a motorcycle who are apparently in a desperate hurry. Cornering the pair, Billy knocks out a man who attempts to shoot him, picking up a package the fellow had dropped. He discovers the other fugitive to be a woman. Stopping to aid her, she strikes him with a stone, rendering him unconscious, and the pair escape.

CHAPTER XI.—Recovering, Billy discovers the package he had picked up is a jewel case, containing emeralds. Realizing they must be part of the loot from Jervaulx, he starts for the abbey. On the way he meets Aimee, with the police in pursuit. In a secure hiding place, a cave among the crag pits, Aimee tells him the whole story. He urges that she make a frank confession to her father, but on reflection both realize Aimee's good name has been compromised by her two nights' stay at Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER XII.—Assuring Aimee he has a plan to save her, Billy leaves her in the cave and, proceeding to Jervaulx, restores the emeralds to the astounded Lady Erythea.

CHAPTER XIII.—Rejecting any reward, after explaining how the emeralds came into his possession, Billy accepts the position of chauffeur to Lady Erythea, seeing in the situation a promise of a way out of the embroglio.

CHAPTER XIV.—Realizing what her father's visit to Jervaulx would mean, Aimee goes secretly to her home, disables the family auto, thus preventing his journey, and induces a parlormaid to let her take her place at Jervaulx.

CHAPTER XV.—Alexander recognizes Aimee as the woman on the motorcycle which ran into the Lambe carriage, denouncing her as "Calamity Kate." Georgina divulges Aimee's identity. Hearing her story, Alexander consents to keep the secret.

CHAPTER XVI.—Alexander finds himself very much in love with Georgina.

CHAPTER XVII.—The approaching visit of Alexander's sister, Lady Diana (who, of course, knows Aimee) brings consternation to the two girls.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Another visitor to Jervaulx is the Vicomte de Jussac, Diana's suitor. Diana recognizes Aimee and threatens to denounce her.

CHAPTER XIX.—Interested in the Lambe collection of armor, De Jussac, during the night, tries on a suit. Diana, investigating an alleged ghostly apparition, meets him. He declares his love, and is accepted. Aimee finds them together and binds Diana to secrecy concerning her affairs.

CHAPTER XX.—Alexander and Georgina become engaged. Lady Erythea, believing Georgina to be Lord Scroope's daughter, is delighted.

CHAPTER XXI.—Billy and Aimee reach an understanding as to their mutual love.

CHAPTER XXII.—A Scotland Yard official arrives and demands to see Billy. Aimee overhears him. Learning Billy's whereabouts, the officer goes after him.

Ten minutes later Aimee was in the bushy dip of ground leading into the crag pits. The police were well ahead of her, converging round the far end. Aimee had taken some trouble to avoid being seen by them. At the moment she could not see them at all, and took it for granted they could not see her either.

Bending low and running between the bushes, Aimee made for the entrance of the Sphinx's cave. It seemed to her that must be where Billy had gone. On arriving at the mouth, however, she discovered her mistake. Through a gap in the brushwood she caught sight of Billy a considerable distance farther along the pits. And with him was de Jussac.

The police arrived almost immediately afterward. Aimee, crouching behind the bushes, watched the meeting.

Her throat felt dry and hot, her hands opened and shut nervously. She hesitated, uncertain what to do. Would Billy "get away with it?" A gleam of hope and confidence returned. Billy had a wonderful knack of getting away with things.

She saw the party disappear into the cave nearest them; she witnessed the emergence of Billy, and was aware of a certain relief of tension when the police returned and spoke with him. Finally, wondering as she watched, Aimee observed the arrival of the gate—saw the prostrate body of Jake carried into the open. The distance was considerable. But the significance of that pathetic figure on the gate came home to her. Aimee was not slow of comprehension. She began to realize the meaning of it all. The police had what they wanted. The captive could be no other than Jack the Climber himself. Billy had "got away with it" with a vengeance.

Aimee was staring dumbly at the group, when she heard a faint animal-like noise close beside her. She turned sharply, to find that she was not alone.

A woman, in a stained and ragged dust-cloak, was crouching behind the screen of brambles a few yards away. She was young, and not ill-looking, save for the deathly pallor of her face and the disorder of her hair. Indeed, there was a wild gipsyish beauty about her, that survived even the hunted expression in her eyes.

She was staring through the bushes at the distant group.

"They got him!" she said in a strangled whisper. She huddled herself together trembling.

"An' they'll get me, too. Let 'em. No good my runnin' for it.

"I dunno who you are!" she muttered. "What you doin' here? Are you goin' to gimme away?"

"Are You Goin' to Gimme Away?"

Aimee did not move. Her heart beat fast. But there was no menace in the woman's eyes; only an expression so broken and piteous that somehow a lump came into Aimee's throat. She had not the faintest doubt who this hunted woman was.

"You know who I am," the woman said thickly; "I can see it in your face." She came a step nearer. "Are you goin' to call out?"

Aimee did not answer that question.

"Is he much hurt?" she said quietly, looking towards the distant group round the man on the gate.

"Hurt?" said Calamity Kate. "He smashed himself days ago, it was." She had subsided on the sand, and embraced her knees with her arms, staring before her with unseeing eyes. "I got him down here. Tried to help him along—couldn't walk. Then I had to carry him."

"You!" said Aimee, looking wonderingly at the girl's slight figure.

"Yes, me. It took me—hours. Carried him—on me back—somehow. When it came daylight, I found the cave. Got him in. I ripped up me skirt to bandage him. I stole food for him, nights. In two or three days more I guess he'd have been able to get away. Now they've got him, an' they'll have me."

She rocked herself gently to and fro.

"It'll be h—l for Jake!" she said thickly. "To know they've got me!" She looked at Aimee. "If I could go with him—if they'd put us both in the same jug—I wouldn't care. But they don't do that."

She gave a great sob.

"I'd give me life to get him out of it. But he's done, and he'll know they've got me. It'll be h—l for him My man!"

An unreasoning flood of jealousy welled into Aimee's eyes. She looked once more towards the group. The police were spreading out across the pits, moving in her direction.

"My man!" sobbed Kate.

"You love him?" said Aimee haltingly.

"He's my husband!" said the woman. She flung herself face downwards on the sand, and wept.

Suddenly Aimee stooped and caught her by the shoulder.

"Come with me!" she said swiftly, and, turning, crept in through the screen of brambles, into the cave.

Kate looked up comprehendingly. Then, with the instinct of the hunted animal she dived through the bushes and went to ground. The girls found themselves together in the cool gloom of the cave.

Kate stared at Aimee with wondering eyes.

"I'm sorry for you!" said Aimee unsteadily.

"I never thought," said Kate, "to find any woman sorry for me."

She glanced round the walls of the cave.

"They'll find me here—just the same."

"They may not." Aimee, very pale, looked at the fugitive. "Don't you think," she said, "that if you got clear this time, you might—drop it all? Try—something different?"

"I might," said Kate slowly. "But—they'll get me."

She caught sight of the Flying Sphinx, standing in the dim light at the cave's end.

"What's that?" she exclaimed, and moved swiftly to the machine. Aimee watched her.

"You couldn't ride it," said Aimee, "not even if the way was clear."

"I can ride anything with an engine to it!" said Kate desperately. There was a gleam of hope in the hunted eyes; already her hands were busy with the levers; searching, examining. But she stopped, baffled. The controls of the Sphinx were too much for her.

The next moment Aimee was beside her.

"That's the throttle!" said Aimee swiftly. "Here's the starter—this changes the gear—you have to be careful with the intake. On the second speed she goes over the roughest ground like a bird—on the level road she'll do eighty. If you could get her out clear of the bushes—but you'd never get away with it—"

The woman turned to her, gasping.

"Will you let me try—?" she exclaimed.

It was then that a shock of revulsion came over Aimee. This was the female rattlesnake who had nearly killed Billy, and caused all the trouble. Why should Aimee feel pity? The broken man in the hands of the police—

A rustle among the bushes at the cave's mouth made the two women turn quickly. De Jussac, stepping inside, halted and stared blankly at them both.

"Ten thousand devils!" exclaimed Bertrand, momentarily startled out of politeness.

"You needn't be frightened for me," said Aimee quickly. "She'll do me no harm."

Bertrand's active brain took in the situation briefly.

"No harm!" he said. "Name of a name! If the police found you here with that!"

Aimee turned very white. That aspect of the case had not even occurred to her. In the stress of new emotions, the realization of danger to herself had been crowded out. If she had to explain to the police . . .

"Yes," said Aimee quietly. "If they come here—I'm done for."

The strident voice of Inspector Arkwright was heard, very close at hand.

Monsieur de Jussac pushed his way out through the brambles and regained the open air. The three policemen together were converging towards the spot.

"Another cave there!" cried Inspector Arkwright. "I thought so. This way, Panke!"

De Jussac halted before the entrance, and, selecting a cigarette from his case, lit it deliberately.

"You may save yourself the trouble, Inspector," he said amiably. "There is nothing here."

Arkwright hesitated.

"Are you certain?" he said, coming forward again.

"I have proved it," said Bertrand, "at much expense to my skin. Curse these briars!"

"All right," said Arkwright, turning away; "push on and search the other end, Panke. No use wasting time here. I think we're on a fool's errand after all."

The three police passed out of sight round the bend of the pits. There was a long pause. Aimee's face peered cautiously through the brambles.

"What a fearful liar you are, Vicomte!" she said with mingled remorse and admiration.

Bertrand, without turning, bowed gravely.

"I do my best," he murmured, "in defense of a lady with such a genius for getting into difficulties. But let me beg of you to remain where you are."

"Are the police out of sight?" said Aimee eagerly.

"For the present, yes. They are away round the corner—all three. But they may come back."

A moment's silence followed the warning. Then the brambles parted, and the Flying Sphinx came thrusting through. Kate was beside it, her hands gripping the bars, her face white and strained, her teeth tight set. She gave a swift glance to either side, and began to run the machine down the slope.

De Jussac, with an amazed exclamation, turned to intercept her. He found a hand detaining him; Aimee had gripped him by the arm.

"Let her go!" said Aimee breathlessly. "Let her go!"

"Name of a name!" said Bertrand blankly. But he obeyed. There was little choice. Already Calamity Kate was well down the slope, running beside the free-wheeling Sphinx that gathered more and more impetus by its own weight. The deftness with which the woman steered it between the clumps of bushes was astounding.

"She hasn't a dog's chance," said Aimee with a gulp, "but what chance there is—let her take it."

"A nation of sportsmen—quoi!" murmured Bertrand with a paralyzed air. He glanced to the left, where the police had disappeared round the shoulder of the bluff. There was still no sign of them. Kate, reaching the trodden path at the bottom, turned sharp to the right and swung herself into the saddle.

"It is one's duty to stop her," said Bertrand, twisting his mustache in perplexity. "But—one does not hunt a woman."

"She'll never get started on that ground," said Aimee.

The engine fired, stopped, fired again—the wheels threw up spirts of sand, then getting onto harder ground the machine ran swiftly ahead with the faint pulsing whirr that was the Sphinx's song of triumphant progress. She shot forward much too fast, and was only just controlled in time.

No other cycle than the Sphinx could have made good over such ground; no other could have sailed so efficiently and noiselessly up the steep path through the gap towards the higher ground at the far end. It was a wonderful exhibition of riding. As the fugitive sped by, Billy, standing on guard beside the captive Jake, turned and stared in petrified amazement.

Jake raised himself to a sitting position on the gate, and stared, too.

He Uttered a Hoarse Cry.

He uttered a hoarse cry—almost a cheer.

The Sphinx and its rider breasted the crest of the rise, staggered, and sailed away out of view.

CHAPTER XXV

Two of a Kind.

Aimee gave a little gurgle of excitement as the Sphinx vanished.

"She's away! And I don't believe they've seen her! If she can stick to it over the field to the gate, there's open road before her and she's clear!"

Aimee turned to de Jussac with shining eyes. He shrugged his shoulders faintly.

"A supremely foolish act, mademoiselle," said Bertrand.

"She was in trouble—just as I've been. Everybody's shielded me at their own risk," said Aimee defiantly. "How could I do less for her?"

"Alas, the morals of the age!" said Bertrand, and he laughed gently. "A sermon would not become me—I also am a coadjutor. I will observe the movements of the enemy."

He climbed quickly onto the shoulder of high ground that divided them from the end of the pit, and returned in a few moments.

"Obviously our industrious police did not see her," he said; "they are now searching the last of the caves."

"Then it's time I got back into mine," said Aimee turning to dive back into her retreat.

"Not so!" exclaimed Bertrand quickly, catching her by the hand. "That is no place for you."

"Why?"

"The gentleman from Scotland Yard will search it before he leaves—he took my word for the moment, but he will make sure. It was merely that he was in a hurry. You must get out of this while you can; like your friend the lady burglar. Come along!" said Bertrand, setting off at a run and pulling her with him.

"You're right!" ejaculated Aimee. With long strides they sped round the clump of bushes, Aimee in tow of Bertrand, and, turning sharp to the right, scurried up one of the steep paths that led out of the pits.

Billy suffered yet one more shock as the pair of them came into his field of vision. He gaped at them, hardly able to believe his eyes. In a few moments they had passed; Aimee reached the top of the pit, and Bertrand glanced apprehensively back in the direction of the police.

"All clear!" he gasped, utterly out of breath. "Get to the road—get out of sight. Back to the abbey, dear lady, and for pity's sake stay there, for you are very wearing. Go!"

"Thanks, awfully!" panted Aimee, and departed as fast as her legs would carry her. De Jussac retreated into the pit, mopping his brow. Taking no notice of the frantic signals of Billy he returned to the cave, dived into it, took a hurried look round and kicked plenty of loose sand over a pool of oil that was the sole legacy of the Sphinx. He left the place with a sigh of relief and, encountering the search party of police, permitted himself to smile.

"Nothing doing!" said Inspector Arkwright. "Panke, will you go back? Bring the car down over the meadow; we'll get the man on it, clear the pits, and set a watch in the cave where we found him." He moved towards the late stable of the Sphinx. "But I'm going to look through this place and make sure."

"By all means, Inspector," said Bertrand yawning. "I am a mere amateur. All caves look alike to me. Mind the briars; they prick most accursedly."

Arkwright's inspection of the cave was brief.

"It is empty, but the place has been used, and recently," he reported. "Strange they should not have chosen it; it is the best hiding place in the pit."

"Perhaps they only recently discovered this desirable residence, and were about to shift their quarters," suggested de Jussac. "No doubt, if a few watchful policemen ambush themselves efficiently during the dark hours, they will catch the amiable consort of that cutthroat yonder. One hopes so. It is painful to the law-abiding to know that malefactors are at large. Particularly when they are females."

Inspector Arkwright looked at him dubiously, and made no reply. Billy, also, when the two rejoined him, eyed de Jussac with extreme thoughtfulness, and had some difficulty in suppressing his emotion. He was still mounting guard over Jake, who lay upon his improvised stretcher and gazed up at the sky with a singularly beatific smile. De Jussac offered him a cigarette, which he accepted silently.

"I think," said Inspector Arkwright, "I'll call on you two gentlemen to assist me and we'll get him out of this. I want the place cleared."

It was not an easy matter to carry the gate and its burden out of the pits. By the time they had achieved it, the car arrived from Jervaulx and wound its way over the flat turf. Jake was lifted into it.

"I must trouble you to accompany me, Mr. Spencer," said Arkwright.

"Anything to oblige the police," said Billy, squeezing himself into the front of the car. It was a tight fit.

The journey to Stanhoe was made almost in silence. When the car arrived at the police station Jake was duly disposed of, while Billy cooled his heels in a dingy waiting room that had been whitewashed some time during the period when Sir Robert Peel was reorganizing the force. Presently Inspector Arkwright joined him. The inspector closed the door, and regarded Billy with a sphinx-like but faintly humorous eye.

"I think, Mr. Spencer," he said quietly, "that you have no very high opinion of my intelligence?"

"Wrong there," said Billy, politely. "I don't know that I'd class the Stanhoe staff with the world's great thinkers. But I've heard a lot about Scotland Yard, and, if I may say so, you come fully up to sample."

"There is no harm now in my telling you that I know precisely what your movements have been, Mr. Spencer. I know that it was you, and not the prisoner, who stayed at Ivy cottage as the tenant of Mrs. Sunning. I know that your companion, at the same time, stayed next door. I have also a fairly accurate comprehension of the reasons which led you to accept temporary employment in the Jervaulx abbey household. I did not, till now, know who you were. But the papers you gave me establish your identity. And that makes all the difference."

Billy was silent.

"I am, you see, in possession of the facts."

"There's one recent fact," thought Billy, "that you're not wise to."

"Your affairs, Mr. Spencer, though somewhat complicated, do not call for the intervention of the police," said Arkwright, with the ghost of a smile, "and no official cognizance will be taken of that matter; unless something unforeseen occurs. I am a thief hunter and not a castigator of rash young men. What I know, I shall, doubtless, keep to myself."

Billy felt an enormous sense of relief, combined with a sharp twinge of conscience.

"The irresponsible couple who ensconced themselves at Ivy cottage," said Arkwright, with a dry smile, "made a good deal of trouble for themselves."

"Inspector," said Billy, "did you ever do a fool thing?"

Inspector Arkwright twinkled.

"A good many, when I was your age. And, sometimes, even now. However, I wish you good fortune. I am not ungrateful to you for your share in the running to earth of Mr. Jake. It is the duty of the civilian to assist the police. The woman will still be brought to book. And I shall call on your formidable employer before I leave. Good-by, Mr. Spencer."

Billy walked out of Stanhoe police station and made his way back to the abbey on foot.

"Gee!" he said pensively. "But that last stunt was awful dangerous! Of course, I see well enough what happened. But it was just a lucky accident neither Aimee nor that blamed nuisance of a woman was seen getting away. The luckiest sort of accident, Inspector Arkwright isn't the fool I took him for, by a long way. I wonder how much he knows? But he can't know that."

He shook his shoulders.

"It came near being a real crash—just when everything had come right. It put the wind up me worse than anything yet. But there's nothing to be scared at now."

Despite the excellent turn affairs had taken, Billy's mind was troubling him. He had the air of a small boy whose raid on the jam cupboard is about to be discovered. When he arrived at the abbey there was no sign of his partner. After lingering for some time near the most likely haunts, Billy sighed and retreated to the garage.

He had not been there long when Aimee's face appeared furtively round the angle of the door.

"Hello!" she said, stepping inside.

She halted; and they looked at each other dubiously. Aimee was decidedly pale, her eyes pathetic and rather frightened.

"I couldn't help it, Billy!" she said suddenly.

"Couldn't help what?"

"You saw us getting away, didn't you? And the girl—and the Sphinx? Has Monsieur de Jussac explained to you?"

"I haven't seen him," said Billy, quietly, "but I guess it isn't hard to see how things were. You might as well tell me, though."

Aimee, very gloomily, described her encounter with Calamity Kate.

"I know," she concluded, shakily, "you're thinking me an idiot. I'd no right to take such a risk—with the police there and everything. I—I suppose she's a thief. But she's done such a lot for that man, and she was so miserable. He's her husband. And I couldn't help thinking about you and me, Billy, and how I should feel if you—you—"

She broke down and began to cry quietly.

"That's how it was. Are you very angry with me?"

Billy gasped and, stepping quickly to her, pulled Aimee's hands away from her face.

Billy Pulled Aimee's Hands Away.

"Angry—with you?" he exclaimed, holding them tight. "I was afraid you'd be mad with me! You ought to. Why, I did the same thing, and I'd no excuse! I ought to have made sure that woman was run in."

"You—did the same thing?" said Aimee, staring.

"Yes! Of course, I never dreamed you were in the pits, or I wouldn't have done it. That crippled crook in the cave got over me. They've got him for five or ten years; and he's earned it. But he was all broken up about his wife. Neither of them deserve a scrap of sympathy. But—the poor devil was in such a state, that somehow I fell for it. He never whined on his own account; he was thinking of his wife. It got me on a raw spot. He knew I must have tracked him through her—he begged me to say nothing about her.

"And I didn't. I gave him that much rope. Never told the police I'd seen her close by. Running down women is their job. If it's got to be done, let them do it. They haven't any choice—but I had. All the same," said Billy, "if I'd dreamed for a moment you were in the pits, I'd have chased fifty female thieves sooner than you should take a chance! I ought to be horsewhipped for riskin' it."

"I think it was fine of you, Billy!" cried Aimee with sparkling eyes.

"No!" he said. "It's you that were fine."

"This," said Aimee, "is what comes of growing sentimental. Neither of us would have dreamed of making such—such fools of ourselves a week ago. What will become of her? Will she get away?"

"I don't know or care. If she made the road, there's juice enough in the Sphinx to take her a hundred miles from here. I only hope they don't find her with the machine. But I'll bet they don't. She'll get clear and cover her tracks—she's the sort that does."

"But the Sphinx," said Aimee, with intense remorse, "our Sphinx, Billy! I've lost her for you!"

Billy laughed.

"We'll mighty soon have another—there's two hundred landed at the docks last week—same model; and a factory being equipped to build the new model over here. Mass production."

"What! You never told me it had got as far as that! But—I wanted the old one, Billy—our Sphinx."

Continued next week.

Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Red Raspberries, Per quart 40c. Phone 162.—E. A. Pierce. 1*

Bargain of Bargains! Lot 66x140; good 7-room house, and out buildings. $2,050; one-half cash. Belmond. —Wolle Land Co. 35tfc

Mrs. E. E. Boughton returned on Thursday last from Laurel, where she has been visiting her sister. She stopped at Dinsdale on the way home where her daughter, Mrs. Bickett, who lives in St. Louis, joined her and accompanied her home for an extended visit.

The Hazel M. Cass Players are holding forth this week in the big tent north of the city park. Reports are that the shows are pretty good.

Kanawha people have made a very nice little resort at West Lake, this side of that city. A number of camps have been established at the lake by business men, who with their families live out there, the men motoring back and forth to town. The bathing facilities have been improved by a fine dock and bath house, and a boat house with boats to rent is a feature. A refreshment stand is on the job every Sunday. What has been done there could be easily accomplished at Morse Lake.

Mrs. John Heuerman, who is at Hubbard taking medical treatments, is coming nicely and it is expected she will be able to return home in a short time.

The Iowa Falls Electric Co. has been inviting the business men of the various towns served by the company, to come to Iowa Falls as their guests and inspect the plant. Rowan, Meservey and Klemme business men are among the guests in this vicinity. Belmond's turn will doubtless came before long.

1920 Hupmobile for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. George Goelz entertained a number of relatives at a six oclock dinner on Tuesday evening.

Aug. Hunst is the owner of a new Overland, purchased of the Nordschow Motor Co.

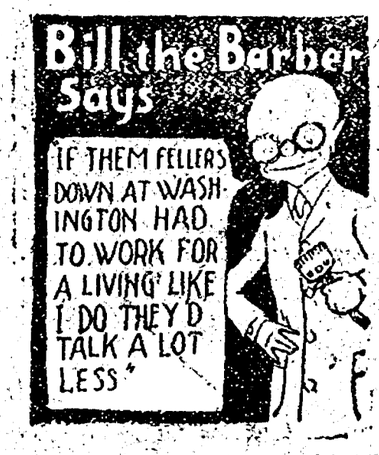
C. O. Fitts was a caller at Mason City this week Tuesday.

The Royal Neighbors held their regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. T. D. Rankins. Refrshments were served. Eighteen ladies were present.

For some reason or other, the Garner band did not show up Saturday evening for the usual concert, and the large crowd, after sticking in town until 10 o'clock, left for home. We have not learned why the band failed to come.

A fine rain last Saturday and another Sunday night pushed all the growing things up another couple of notches. The crops are in the very best of shape, particularly the sugar beets, which are from two weeks to a month ahead. Prospects are very bright for real harvests in this vicinity. Harvesting has been going on for the past week, and many are thru in the oat fields, and with their haying.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc



HEMSTITCHING

Hemstitching done at the Girl Shop. Black and white cotton thread furnished. Ten and 15 cents per yard. 30tfc

NOTICE!

All weeds and weed hedges in streets, parkings and vacant lots must be cut.

B. J. Finn.
333c Street Commissioner

1920 Hupmobile for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

AUTO DRIVERS NOTICE!

All automobiles hereafter must have head and tail lights according to law, and cut out closed inside the city limits.

B. J. FINN, Marshal.

Mrs. Brand, mother of Mrs. E. W. Luick, is visiting her brothers in Henry, South Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherrick and family from Farmington, Iowa, who have been visiting at the F. P. Dibble home, left Monday for California where they will make their future home. Mrs. Dibble and Mrs. Sherrick are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Dibble drove to Garner yesterday on business affairs.

Miss Jennie Gealow, who is attending school in Des Moines, came home Saturday for a week's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gealow.

Miss Mary Hinch, from Winterset, Iowa, is visiting at the Bert Jenison home and with other friends here. She was a resident of Belmond some 13 years ago.

In the matter of the Estate of Charles B. Smith, Deceased:

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

The undersigned executor of the above entitled estate was on the 19th day of June, 1923, authorized by the District Court of Wright County, Iowa, to sell the real estate belonging to the above estate at public sale to the highest bidder, consisting of 300 acres, and said executor by virtue of said order of court and terms of the will of said decedent will on the 20th day of August, 1923, at two o'clock p. m. upon the premises sell to the highest bidder the East Half of Northwest Quarter and the Southwest Quarter of Northeast Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, consisting of 140 acres, and the South east Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, containing 160 acres; said real estate being situated in Pleasant Township, Wright County, Iowa. Said real estate will be sold in two tracts, there being two sets of improvements. Said real estate to be sold for cash terms. $3,000.00 to be paid upon each tract by purchaser upon day of sale, balance to be paid when deed is given and approved by Court. For further particulars see or write the undersigned executor.

CORWIN L. SMITH
Executor of Said Estate. 354

SPEND 'EM AT HOME

If you ever expect to meet that hard-earned dollar of yours again you want to spend it at home. Here are a few of the ways you will meet it:

You'll meet it when you come to town and enjoy the fine concerts that are being put on weekly by the home band.

When you enjoy the fine road system of the county you will meet another fraction of it—when you send your children to our fine schools you will meet another small hunk of it and so on down the line until you wonder if that hard-earned dollar is not returned to you in a measure with the benefits you receive either directly or indirectly.

How about that dollar that goes to the mail order concern in the city? Did you ever hear of them making a donation for the support of the town band—our road system—school or any other of the many propositions of the community that cost money?

When you need a little assistance in a time of trouble is it your local folks or the fellow you patronize in the city who comes across?

When sadness comes to your home who is it who takes your hand in a firm clasp and offers sincere sympathy—certainly not the man in Chicago or Minneapolis? No, it is the man you meet every day.

Just think this matter over as it is worthy of your consideration.—Bancroft Register.

Find the bright side, it may take a little metal polish but the exercise will do you good.

CASS-PARKER-ROCHFORD SHOWS DRAW BIG HOUSES

The Cass-Parker-Rochford Shows, which are playing this week in Belmond, in their own big tent north of the city park, are drawing full attendance every evening, and to judge from the comments by those who have attended, are giving excellent satisfaction. The shows being given are good, clean plays, and the acting is pronounced above the average.

The plays for the last three nights of the week are:

Tonight, Thursday, "The Girl Of the Flying X", a big western drama; Friday night, "Friendly Enemies", a big propoganda play based on the war; Saturday night, a good one, "Bringing Up Father", taken from the cartoons published in most all of the daily papers.

A diamond ring is being given away, the holder of the lucky number winning to receive the ring Saturday night. Each purchaser of a ticket to the shows during the week is given a number, and the holder of the lucky number gets the ring. The lucky holder must be present Saturday night when it is drawn, otherwise another number will be drawn.

Lovers of good clean drama and comedy are assured of a good treat at the shows, which are giving universal satisfaction.

BELMOND MARKETS

(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	16c
Roosters	07c
Broilers 1½ to 2 lbs	26c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	18c
Cream	34c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	29c
Corn	72c

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a. m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—One and three-quarters h. p. gasolene engine, in fine shape. Inquire at Independent.

For Sale—Bed and springs, $8; a large rug $6; new guitar and case $7; scythe $1.50; quart Mason jars 85c a dozen. Phone 158.

For Sale—Hot water heating plant, in A I condition. Bargain if taken at once. Inquire of L. O. Skovlin. 29tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—21 Barred Rock Pullets. Hatched April 2, 1923. Also several week old Barred Rock chicks.—Mrs. W. J. Pech. 342c.

For Sale—One three-burner kerosene stove, new. Inquire at Independent.

For Sale—Seven pups, part Collie. —Jack McIlrath. 1*

For Sale—One very good 16-year-old boy's suit.—New Belmond Tailor Shop.

1920 Hupmobile for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

North Iowa
FAIR
August 11-17-23
Mason City
$15,000
In Premiums and Purses
NO CHARGE TO ENTER TO ANY NORTH IOWA RESIDENT
WRITE TODAY
For Premium Book and Entry Blanks. Entry on Exhibits Should Be Made This Month
A. N. GRIMM, President
CHAS. H. BARER, Secretary

LOST AND FOUND

Lost—One new front spring for Chevrolet car, one pair heavy tire chains, and one rim wrench. Finder please return to Earl Martin for reward. 342c

Found—A man's shoe. Owner may have same by calling at Independent and paying advertising.

It takes a married woman to recognize the good qualities of another woman's husband.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, JULY 30

Cold Meats
Real Cold Butter
Watermelons On Ice
Whole or Half Pieces
Refrigerated Fruits
Cash Market
The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa
Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Kinseth's Store News

Sh-h-h-h! Hist! Want a drink? The real stuff, boy you tell 'em! If you do, just drop into the Store on the Corner next Saturday and we'll give you a good one. No, not of hootch, but of Nector, the best thirst-cooler there is agoing. A free drink Saturday to all who come in. Don't miss the treat.

—K—

Gold Dust two bits and 4 cents, 29 in all, a package.

Or if you prefer Dutch Cleanser, we'll let you have three of them for a cent less, or 28 cents all told. You can't keep clean for less.

And there's Swift's Pride Washing Powder at half a dozen for a quarter.

Corn at a dime a can.

Peas at two nickels a can.

Peaches at 19 cents.

Gallon cans of any old fruit you like at 98 cents a gallon. Why say, you know you can't can it that reasonable. Now can you?

—K—

In the dry goods and clothing line this week we just want to mention men's shoes at $2.28 to $4.50; men's and boys' canvas shoes; underwear and union suits for 95c. Ladies for 55c, boys 60c.

—K—

We pay cash for eggs, we're open every night, and early in the morning, we're the Store on the Corner, and so for goodness' sake, folks, do be a wise one.

NOBODY disputes the merit of clothes made-to-order. But many men hesitate because they think it costs more. WE SAY NO. There's a lot of satisfaction, too, in being able to say "This suit was made for me."
New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

TO INVESTORS

If you have some surplus money to invest for a short time at an attractive rate of interest,

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY
CONVERTIBLE NOTES

will meet your requirements.

We will issue a number of these notes for periods of 1---2---3---4 and 5 years, and they will bear a Special Privilege of conversion which should prove of value.

For these particulars see Mr. H. F. Kellogg, our Manager, at Iowa Falls, or write the Securities Department, 215 S. 2nd St., 2nd Floor, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY
IOWA FALLS, IOWA

Buy by Comparison

When you purchase a suit or several yards of cloth you naturally make comparisons. Why not do the same when buying an automobile?

Compare the Overland engine, disc clutch and transmission in one unit with all working parts protected from mud and dirt, the floating axle with removable shafts--the same as highest priced cars.

No other light car uses such heavy axles, spindles, steering knuckles and rods, one and one-half inch axle shafts or a heavier frame. The ring gear used in the Overland weighs as much as two in another popular car and nine Timken and New Departure bearings are used in the front and rear axles.

"Drive an Overland and realize the difference."

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1923 NO. 36

One Dead, Two Hurt Toll Of Auto Tragedy

Lyman Steenblock, Cashier Of Douglas, Nebraska, Bank Dies Of Injuries.

WIFE IS BADLY INJURED

Lyman Steenblock is dead, his wife is seriously injured, and Louis Steenblock is badly cut and bruised as the result of an automobile tragedy which occured here Saturday afternoon.

The accident occured three miles south of town. Louis Steenblock, of Galt, accompanied by his brother, Lyman, and wife, of Douglas, Nebraska, were enroute to Belmond in a big Reo car. At the three-mile corner, where the side road leads to Cornelia, Irving Madsen and Henry Luick, in a Dodge Coupe, were coming home from Cornelia. The side road runs to the north and south main road, with a corn field at the junction of the two roads. Steenblock, coming from the south, was going at a high rate of speed, said by several witnesses to have been from 50 to 60 miles an hour. Madsen was just turning from the side road and switching over to the right hand side. Steenblock saw him when about 100 to 125 feet away. He was coming too fast to stop, however, and swerved his car into the ditch at the side of the road. The car ran over to the side of the fence, struck a stump, and turned over twice.

W. T. Gfeller and wife were coming from the north, enroute to Story county, and were about 150 feet away when the accident occured. Mr. Gfeller states that it seemed to him as tho the car turned a flip flop in the air, then rolled over and fell on its back. The car was afire before it struck the ground, and was completely burned.

The three occupants were thrown out. Lyman Steenblock was thrown about 30 feet, his wife about 15, and Louis Steenblock lit near the car. Gfeller had stopped, and with the assistance of Madsen and Luick, Will Barry, and two or three other men who ran up, loaded the injured in his car and rushed them to the hospital here. Lyman Steenblock suffered a fracture of the skull, and died at 4:30 Monday morning. He never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Steenblock suffered a fracture of the right thigh, and while painfully injured, bruised and scratched, will recover. Louis Steenblock suffered bruises, cuts and scratches. He is not seriously injured. Louis Steenblock was driving, his brother and wife being at his home on a vacation.

Lyman Steenblock was cashier of a bank at Douglas, Nebraska. He and his wife left their six weeks' old baby at home.

The car, destroyed by fire, shows in the steel frame the terrific blow when the stumph was struck. The frame at the front right, where the car struck, is bent back like a doubled up fist. The fenders and frame are smashed and bent. The car seemed to go straight up from the stumph, turning a loop in the air, and alighted but a few feet from where it struck. The stumph was still burning Sunday.

The corner where the accident occured is a bad place for a driver to see another coming on the other road as both roads go down hill, and the corn field hides the view. All accounts agree that had it not been for the terrific speed at which Steenblock was driving the accident probably would not have occured. As it was, he could not stop. Madsen had just started turning, and the big Reo missed hitting him broadside by a scant inch of space. Madsen states that it was a roar and a bang as the car passed him and struck. Another witness thought an airship was coming by the sound of the motor. Still another, states that he heard the car coming as he was stooping over to pick up a tool from the ground, and before he could straighten up, the car was past.

All day Sunday a continuous array of cars visited the scene to view the wrecked auto. The lesson told should remain long in the minds of every one who saw it. The family of the dead man have the sympathy of every Belmond citizen in their tragic loss.

PAPA CAN SPANK GIRLS UNTIL THEY REACH 21 YEARS

Girls, here is good news for you. Papa now has the right to spank you until you reach 21 years. But he must also feed, clothe and take care of you until you reach that age.

A law went into effect July 4 raising the legal age of girls from 18 to that of men, 21 years. It was passed by the 40th assembly.

If, however, the girl becomes 18 before July 4th then she is her own mistress and neither papa nor any one else has the right to spank her or tell her whether she can bob her hair. But her friend who crossed the 18 mark on July 5 or after will not grow up for three years more.

The new provisions are contained in Chapter 198, Section, 1, of the Acts of the 40th general assembly. It states, however, that the raising of the legal age does not effect contracts for marriage which can be made by girls more than 18 years.—Globe Gazette.

HAMPTON LEGION WILL PUT ON HISTORICAL PAGEANT

The Hampton American Legion Post expects to stage one of the biggest and best historical pageants ever given in Iowa on August 8 and 9. It will be a Franklin County Historical Pageant, and will depict the history of that county from the time of the Indians to the world war.

The pageant, divided into five episodes, will show an Indian village with early customs and ceremonies; the advent of white men into the county; life in the early settlements with the establishing of the first school and church; the first celebration held in that county, with Lincoln's call to arms; and a graphic portrayal of the war days of 1917 and 1918, including one of the battles of the war in which fireworks and electrical effects will play a prominent part.

A queen contest will be held in connection with the pageant, a beautiful watch being given to the girl who wins as queen thru popular vote. The merchants will have on display a variety of old relics and historical curiousities during the two days. The proceeds of the event will go to the memorial building fund of the post started the first of the year.

TO ASSIST IN BUYING FEEDERS FOR FARMERS

A short time ago a letter was sent by the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and the Corn Belt Meat Producers to representative farmers and farm bureaus in Iowa in regard to a plan to assist farmers in purchasing feeding cattle. The thought in mind was that an experienced cattle feeder could render much better service than a man of little experience could furnish for himself and that many feeders can be secured direct from the Western ranges, thus eliminating some commissions and profits that usually occur between the range and the feeder and which, of course, are paid by the latter.

Interest in this proposition over the state has been good. Consequently Mr. T. C. Cessna of Grinnell has been secured to head the buying department. Mr. Cessna is a judge of feeding steers, constantly in touch with the market and well posted on values.

In order to defray the expenses a charge of $25 per car will be made. This likely is less than the average farmer in the state must spend to buy a carload of feeders for himself. The above mentioned organizations want no profit from the plan and any money remaining in this purchasing charge will be refunded to the purchasers.

GARNER BALL TOURNAMENT AUGUST 7-8-9; BIG PURSES

The annual, or nearly annual, base ball tournament at Garner this year comes on three days, August 7, 8, and 9. $175 in purses is up for the two games the first day; $200 for two games the second day; and the wind up will see $250 in cash for the final game. The aggregate purses total in all $1,000. Contracts have been tendered Albert Lea, Austin, Bayside Cubs, and Eagle Grove. Probably as usual a good many Belmond fans will drive up to take in one or more of the days.

The C. B. Johnson family motored to Huxley last Sunday to visit their son and family.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Did you hear the splendid program Mrs. Goelz's and Mrs. Wallace's classes gave us in the opening exercises last Sunday. If you missed that treat, don't miss one ready for you next Sunday. We appreciate the help being given us by our Sunday school orchestra.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Parents, urge your children to remain after Sunday school for this service.

Sunday evening on Mr. Hinman's lawn, there will be presented a sacred dramatization, "The Challenge of th Cross." The cast of characters is as follows:

Evangel ---------- Agnes Hinman
First Disciple ---- Helen Hildebrand
Second Disciple ---- Valda Robinson
Third Disciple ------ Leola Jenison
Fourth Disciple -- Kathryn Thiltgen
Fifth Disciple ------ Marie Stevens
Sixth Disciple ------- Mabel Baker

The dramatization is largely dependent upon the singing of old hymns thruout the drama. These will be sung by the boys' choir. Appropriate lighting and scenery will be used. If you wish to park your car in a good place, come early. Mr. Stephen Hardwick will take charge of the placing of cars.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Be on hand with your "pep.".

Preaching service at 11 a. m. If the heat continues we will have electric fans to keep you cool.

No Epworth League until August.

Evening service at 8 p. m. Come.

The representatives of our Epworth League at the Okoboji institute came home with honors. Berneras Wolle received her diploma for three years attendance at classes. Raymond Stapley and Alfred Wilkinson each won a medal for work done in 4th. department.

KLU KLUX AT KLEMME?

The Times at Klemme last week carried a lead article on a visit (?) paid that town by the Klu Klux Klan last week, and said in part:

"Did the Klu Klux Klan visit this city Saturday night, is the question which ran in the minds of a large crowd as they witnessed the burning of a cross on the hill just at the west end of Main street Saturday night between ten and eleven o'clock, which was plainly visible for a great distance.

Some are inclined to think it was the work of some jokers as there was no literature found near the cross as is usually the case where the Klan makes its appearance.

Others think seriously of the matter and believe that there are Klansmen in this vicinity.

It is rumored about that white-robed figures were seen to leave in a car shortly after the cross was first seen, but we have not been able to trace this rumor down to the person who actually saw the Klansmen."

TRACTOR CATCHES FIRE

Arthur Schlieffarth was driving their Emerson tractor in the harvest field Tuesday about six o'clock in the evening, when a break in the gas feed line caused the machine to catch fire. The arlarm was turned in at Belmond and the fire company made a record run with the chemical truck. The fire had been extinguished before they arrived, however. The only damage was to the tractor, and the extent of this is not known at this writing. Mr. Schlieffarth wishes to thank the fire company for their coming, and appreciates their kindness.

The officials in Iowa township have graded the road past the Gealow and Sheffield farms up to the Veeder corner, and will gravel it in the near future. The Belmond township officials have graded the road from Martin's corner west to the lake, and this will be graveled. When these two roads are graveled, a good highway will lead in all directions from town. It is good work, well done.

Mrs. Duran Nagle, of Clarion, out of couretsy to her mother, Mrs. Eugene Kinney, who is a charter member of the Priscilla club, has invited the members of the club to meet with her at her cottage at Lake Cornelia next Wednesday for their regular meeting.

ITEMS OF DISTRICT COURT

Monitor: Patek Bros. have begun suit against Iva Fritts, Mrs. A. Boone and Ed Budt of Clarion to collect $134.70, balance claimed to be due on a promissory note.

Northing Jobbing Co. of Chicago claim the sum of $421.81 due for merchandise sold to W. A. Parsons of Belmond. The A. B. Dick Co. of Chicago also ask $100 from this same defendant.

Ross & Maurer vs. Alicina Frank is a suit asking that the transfer of certain property in May, 1923, be declared fradulent and tocompel an accounting under orders of court. About this time plaintiffs were awarded a judgment for $1941.50 on their promissory note.

Chas. Feasel of Dows claims the sum of $111.32 due from A. Bawnell for thirty-six bushels of timothy seed.

State Bank of Woolstock asks the court to correct the records in a foreclosure case against R. T. and Harriet McDaniels, against whom foreclosure proceedings were granted at the February term.

Marriage licenses were issued by the clerk this week to George Lea Mallow of Kanawha and Jessie Fern Beach of Goldfield; Charles Arthur McIntosh of Urbana, Ill., and Iva Viola Allen of Woolstock; Eko Bepper of Belmond and Mrs. Hanna Sprenzel of Belmond; George Smith and Lydia Cunningham (colored).

Judge Clock of Hampton held a special session of court Friday to hear the widow's pension case of Mrs. H. R. Gillespie, who sought aid for her four minor children. The board of supervisors opposed the claim on the ground that the applicant had relatives abundantly able to care for the children. The petition was withdrawn and the application will probably be made through the township trustees. In the event of aid being granted by the board the county may later be reimbursed.

$20,000 FARM FIRE AT GARNER

The farm buildings on the Gust Boehnke farm near Garner were almost wiped out in a fire last Tuesday night. The fire started about 11 in the evening, starting in a large barn filled with hay. The origin is unknown. Wind carried burning brads to the house and other buildings, destroying three machine sheds, with practically all the machinery on the place, double corn crib, granary, hen house, tool shed, silo, and other buildings. A tractor was burned. Nothing was saved but a portion of the household goods and furniture. Only $3,000 insurance was carried. The place will be rebuilt as soon as arrangements can be made.

FOREST CITY RUNS BEHIND ON JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

The two-day celebration held at Forest City, July 4th and 5th, did not pay expenses. The celebration was in the nature of a Fourth observance and a county fair boost, the hope being that sufficient funds would be received to pay off in part at least, the indebtedness of the fair.

EAGLE GROVE HAS FIRE

The Kubitschek & Kastler furniture store at Eagle Grove was practically destroyed by fire a week ago. The fire started about eight o'clock in the morning, in a one-story back room used as a repair shop. The stock was insured for $16,500, and $4,000 was carried on the building.

AN OLD PAPER

Pink Trees showed the Independent a real curiousity in the shape of a New York Herald for April 15, 1865. The Herald carries the first reports of the assasination of President Lincoln, with the resulting excitement and hunt for the slayer. It describes the entire tragedy, as well as the attack on Secretary Seward at the same time, and carries some items of battles and the surrender of Lee's army. The paper is in an excellent state of preservation, and to the modern reader is a real curiosity. It consists of one sheet, two pages, printed both sides, all hand set, and with a "make up" which seems very odd nowadays.

Mrs. John McAlpine, of Mason City, is visiting relatives and friends here this week.

SOCIAL AT JENISON HOME ON AUGUST FIRST

The Pleasant township Farm Bureau will hold the next meeting and social time on August 1st, at the O. D. Jenison home. A program is to be given, refreshments served, and an address by Rev. S. U. Leinbach will be the feature of the evening. Everyone is invited.

CULLING DEMONSTRATION AUG. 1ST. AT FROHLING'S

The Farm Bureau of the county is engaged in a series of chicken culling demonstrations, to be held in each township, and the Pleasant township date is August 1st. The demonstration will be given at the Meno Frohling home. Everyone interested in better chicken raising and better egg production should be present, as the work will be given by an expert from Ames. The demonstration commences at 1:30 p. m.

PEG AWAY CLUB MEETING

Members of the Peg Away Garment club met at the home of Mrs. A. C. Hinman, northwest of Belmond, last Tuesday afternoon, July 10th. About 12 of the members and six friends gathered at the Hinman home for their regular business and social meeting. The business session was opened by Miss Ellen Hinman, president of the club. Instructions for the making of garments for the exhibition were read. After the business meeting, a fine lunch was served by Mrs. Hinman, and the social hour was enjoyed by all. The next meeting was held July 17, at the home of Miss Madge Schlieffarth.

CLARMOND CLUB CUTS MEMBERSHIP NUMBER DOWN

At a meeting of the members of the Clarmond Country Club, on July 18th, it was decided to reduce the membership limit from 100 to 75. This was decided upon because there are now 70 active members, and it was feared that 100 would make the club too crowded, and also because of the fact that the financial condition of the club is such that the dues of the present membership will amply support it.

After the 75 is reached, a waiting list will be established, and applicants will only be taken in when one of the present members wants to dispose of their stock.

SAVE IOWA'S BEST CROP IS NEW IOWA SLOGAN

"Reduce Iowa's infant mortality.

"Reduce the death rate among mothers at child birth."

This is the slogan of a great movement to be launched at the coming Iowa State Fair in connection with the widely-known annual Iowa baby health contest.

Instead of making it a contest merely for the selection of the healthiest baby in the state. Fair officials have announced that this year the event will be equally important for babies who are not healthy, and for mothers interested in learning more about maternity care.

Over 18,000 mothers died in the United States last year at the time of child birth. Doctors say that most of them could have been saved.

Thousands of babies died in their first two or three years because of improper care.

The State Fair baby health department—a feature of the women's program—is going to take this subject in hand and devote seven days to it, with sessions every morning and afternoon of the Fair. Every woman in the state is invited to attend the meetings, lectures and discussions.

Over 500 babies are expected to be entered in the regular baby health contest at the Fair, Aug. 22-31, in which $600 in prizes is offered.

TRINITY CHURCH

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the church at 8 o'clock.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. English service at 11 o'clock An offering for the church Extension Fund will be received. Sunday evening service will be in the Norwegian language at 8 o'clock.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Suday morning at 10.30 the Sunday school will meet. All teachers, pupils and parents should be there.

Home Coming Day Is Today's Feature

Entertainment Afternoon And Evening For Former Residents Of The City.

PICNIC SUPPER AT SIX P. M.

Today is the Home Coming Day and picnic, and many former residents are expected to come back to the old home town for the day, to meet old friends and neighbors, talk over old times, and see how the children have grown.

The home coming, under the auspices of the Community Welfare Club is more in the nature of a family gathering than a "big day". A good program of entertainment in the afternoon and evening, with a picnic supper at six o'clock, has been arranged.

The committees and program are as follows:

Afternoon Entertainment Committees

Children—
Miss Maud Newgard
Mrs. C. P. Luick
Miss Grace Gartz

Ladies—
Mrs. J. J. Sharon
Mrs. E. W. Luick
Mrs. A. W. Martin

Men—
J. J. Flynn
H. F. Luick

Picnic supper at city park at 6:00 o'clock.

Each family is requested to bring their own dishes and sandwiches, and one other article of food.

Evening Program

Community Singing, led by O. L. Varland.
Song ---------- Male Quartette
Welcome -------- Mrs. A. E. Martin
Response -------- Former Residents
Solo ---------- Mrs. C. O. Fitts
Reading --- Miss Beatrice Leinbach
Song ---------- Male Quartette
Drill, Supervised by Mrs. Geo. Goelz
Reading ------ Miss Gladys Barry
Solo ---------- Bert Nelson
Community Singing.

AUGUST 1ST IS THE LAST DAY

Beginning August 1st, all subscriptions to the Independent will be in advance. Until that date, $1.50 will pay for a year, either back or ahead. After that, the price will be $2.00.

This is not raising the price. The only change is that the subscription must be paid in advance. It is a policy being followed by practically all the papers in the country. It is the only business like way of doing it. The Independent believes that its readers will appreciate the change, and that they will like it better than any other way after they have tried it. This method elliminates all disputes or misunderstandings of any nature, and leaves both the paper and the subscriber knowing exactly where they stand. All subscriptions will stop at expiration. Renew or pay back dues before August 1st at the $1.50 rate.

INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

What might easily have been another serious auto accident occured Tuesday morning, when Irving Madsen, driving a Dodge Coupe, tipped over. Irving was enroute to Clear Lake, and while going down hill between Klemme and Clear Lake, his car struck some loose sand, throwing the auto sideways and tipping it over. A Mr Brooks, residing nearby, brought him to Belmond, where at the hospital an xray picture showed no bones broken but a badly bruised and wrenched back. Irving was later taken to his home, and will soon be around again, his injuries not being serious. He has had two very narrow escapes within four days, the accident Saturday just missing him by the fraction of an inch.

"JOIN THE ONE BIG UNION"

The Independent maintains a news box at the Great Western depot, and among the items found there this week was the following:

To the Belmond Independent:

If you want news, why don't you print the fact that the I. W. W. gets stronger every day by the addition of 500 new members daily.

Join the One Big Union.

Industrial Workers of the World.

Signed: Member of 110,810,510.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance; $2.00 on time.
$2.00 per year outside state of Iowa

CIRCULATION OVER 1,000

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents.)

Editorials

THE CAUSALITIES OF PEACE

Forty people will meet death on the highways of Iowa during the month of July. Forty a month will die for the next three months. This is the average death toll, according to the Iowa Highway Commission Service Bulletin. And the most of these deaths will be caused by reckless and careless drivers of automobiles.

Deaths in 1922 on Iowa highways totalled 330. Two hundred sixty-four of these occured in accidents on portions of the highways other than on railroad crossings. In other words, by careless or reckless driving.

Put the unsafe driver off the highways of Iowa, and the percentage of accidents will drop to almost nothing. A new law, enacted by the 40th general assembly, makes it a criminal offense for an intoxicated driver to run a car. It is a mighty fine law. But another law, making it a still more serious offense for driving at an excessive rate of speed, should also be enacted. The speed fiend is a menace to everyone, to those whom he meets, as well as those who are his unfortunate passengers. He is more dangerous than the drunk.

During the next three months it behooves every sane autoist to do double duty while he is on the highways; to protect himself and his pass engers, and protect the fool drivers. Speeding joy-riders and tourists who are driving for time, will be all over the roads, coming at excessive speed and paying no attention to dangerous curves or corners, narrow roads or approaching cars. Some person will die every day of the month because of them.

Peace has its causalities no less than war. And the sad part of it is, they cannot defend themselves. They will have to take what comes.

A GOOD CROP—BUT NO PRICE

Iowa will be right where she always is when harvest comes—at the front with a bumper crop. Our farmers will haul to market millions of bushels of foodstuffs, the results of months of toil, of care, of watching and hoping and anxiety.

And when they have plowed and planted and cultivated and tended and harvested and hauled to market what will the price be?

In Iowa, in every state, everywhere, agriculture is the foundation. If you build a house, you do not begin with the chimney; you first fix a foundation for it. How does anyone expect, then, to build prosperity, better times, without first building a strong foundation? And when agriculture is the foundation of our prosperity, of our whole existance, is it not good sense to first see that a fair return is possible to the man who farms?

Bill Jones is a farmer. He works early and late. He waits months before he gets an income from his investment. If, when his ship comes in, its cargo is not worth much more than the cost of carrying it, Bill is not going to do much buying. He won't have the cash.

Bill Brown, and John Smith, and George White, are selling things Bill Jones wants and needs. They must have the money for their goods. Bill Jones has no money. Just how are they going to do business? If Bill Jones made a fair return on his labor, he has money with which to buy. If his work has gone for nothing, or for cost, he cannot buy.

Give the farmer an adequate return for his time and labor, and the rest of us will prosper. Keep him down, and we will all scratch harder than any hen.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Here and There

Miss Helen Harberts came from Belmond, Saturday, for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Buss. She returned home Saturday.—Klemme Times.

H. J. Klemme, of Belmond, was a business caller in our city, Friday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Eggers autoed to Belmond, Thursday afternoon, for a visit at the parental home of Mrs. Eggers.—Reporter.

Mr. Louis Baldridge and Miss Dorothy Payton, from Waterloo, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baldridge and son, Frank, and wife, of Belmond, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldridge.—Kanawha Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Baker and son, David, went to Belmond, Friday, called there by the illness of Mrs. Baker's mother, Mrs. Lieuwen. They drove down Sunday afternoon and were accompanied on the trip by Mrs Geo. McNeish and little daughters, Dorothy and Gretta Jane. They report Mrs. Lieuwen as improving.—Reporter.

The youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper had a painful accident befall him Saturday, while playing in the yard at home. The little fellow fell down and in so doing struck one of the blades of a lawn mower in such a manner as to break one of the bones of the third finger on his right hand, also cutting it quite badly. The accident proved very painful to the little sufferer.—Reporter.

Miss Mildred Schultz, of Belmond, is visiting at the Leo Nelson home.—Clarion News.

Mrs. Lilly Anderson, of Belmond spent Sunday with her friend, Mrs Boone.—News.

In the matter of the Estate of Charles B. Smith, Deceased:

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

The undersigned executor of the above entitled estate was on the 19th day of June, 1923, authorized by the District Court of Wright County, Iowa, to sell the real estate belonging to the above estate at public sale to the highest bidder, consisting of 300 acres, and said executor by virtue of said order of court and terms of the will of said decedent will on the 20th day of August, 1923, at two o'clock p. m. upon the premises sell to the highest bidder the East Half of Northwest Quarter and the Southwest Quarter of Northeast Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, consisting of 140 acres, and the South east Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, containing 160 acres; said real estate being situated in Pleasant Township, Wright County, Iowa. Said real estate will be sold in two tracts, there being two sets of improvements. Said real estate to be sold for cash terms. $3,000.00 to be paid upon each tract by purchaser upon day of sale, balance to be paid when deed is given and approved by Court. For further particulars see or write the undersigned executor.

CORWIN L. SMITH
Executor of Said Estate. 354

LOCALS

The Cass-Parker-Rochford Shows, which played in Belmond all last week, have moved on to Clarion, and are showing there this week. This troupe were among the nicest people in the show line who have ever visited our city, and will be welcomed back next year when they come, as they expect to. They put on good clean shows, and local people seemed to be universally pleased.

A. E. Martin and family, Mrs. Finch and Mrs. Rosecrans drove to Alden, Sunday, to attend a family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie and baby, of Waverly, came Saturday for a few days' visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McGuire.

Miss Caroline Uhl, from Grinnell, is a visitor this week at the C. A. Church home.

Mrs. Russell and niece, Helen Finch, of Minneapolis, are visiting at the T. S. Wallace home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nielson, Mrs. P. J. Peterson and Mrs. Geo. Peterson drove to Hampton, Sunday, to visit at the Chas. Peterson home.

Mrs. Chas. Leonard is visiting this week with friends and relatives in Tama county.

Del Church, of Clear Lake, was visiting at the home of John Brooks last week.

W. C. Tyrrell, Jr., Preston and Carol spent the week end at Okoboji with Cap. Tyrrell.

Dr. and Mrs. Garth and son, from Beaumont, Texas, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell last week, spending a part of the time at the Tyrrell cottage at Lake Okoboji.

PROTECTION
INSURANCE THE BEST
Wm. H. Wolle
ALL BRANCHES

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205
T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Kinseth's Store News

This is our Home Coming Day, when all the former residents are invited to come home, meet all the old friends and neighbors, talk over old times, and see how the kids have grown. Be sure to drop in to the Store on the Corner and say howdy. And take a look at the bargains we have for you.

—K—

We have flour brands as follows:

Occident	$2.35
Seal of Minnesota	2.35
White Swan	2.35
Certified	1.95
Cane Sugar	10.50

—K—

And we want to tell you about our shoe department. We have a shoe department that, really, folks, is a good one. The shoes are honest values, and we mean that. They will wear and they have the style you want. We have men's slippers at $5.00, men's heavy canvass work shoes at $2.75 boys' heavy canvass work shoes at $2.50, and scores of others at equally reasonable prices. Before you buy your next pair of shoes come in and look at our line; it will pay you.

—K—

We have extra size men's work shirts too, full sizes and large sizes.

—K—

And we still have that 38c coffee that tastes so good in the morning.

—K—

And we are open every evening. So don't forget that, if you need anything in our line from six in the morning to nine at night, call 19 and you'll get it. So for goodness' sake consider your own welfare and take a course in being a wise one by trading at the Store on the Corner.

Buy the Famous Road and Race Tested OLDFIELD QUALITY TIRES from established dealers equipped to give you real tire service at these unusual prices

		TIRES	TUBES
30 x 3	"999" FABRIC	$ 7.40	$ 1.65
30 x 3 1-2	"999" FABRIC	8.85	1.75
30 x 3 1-2	CORD	10.65	1.75
31 x 4	CORD	18.95	2.45
32 x 4	CORD	19.90	2.55
33 x 4	CORD	20.90	2.65
34 x 4	CORD	21.80	2.75
33 x 4 1-2	CORD	27.80	3.50
34 x 4 1-2	CORD	28.90	3.65
36 x 4 1-2	CORD	29.65	3.85
33 x 5	CORD	33.90	3.95
35 x 5	CORD	34.90	4.15
37 x 5	CORD	36.70	4.35
36 x 6	CORD	59.80	8.70
38 x 7	CORD	83.90	10.60
40 x 8	CORD	108.90	13.75

Oldfield Tires hold all the track records for the last three years and are the only American tires to win the French Grand Prix Road Race—the classic of Europe.

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa

Red Crown
The High-Grade Gasoline

Adds to the Joy of Motoring

THE spirit of the day is to be out in the open; to seek the by-places; to get closer to nature; here today, there tomorrow.

Hard roads and automobiles have made it possible for one to do all of these things in the companionship of his family.

The chief contributing factor to motoring is gasoline—the chief joy of motoring is to know you have a dependable gasoline in the tank. Red Crown, the High-Grade Gasoline, is dependable. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) guarantees the uniformity of Red Crown.

With Red Crown in your tank your motor sings along the road; eager, purring, at a snail's pace or at high speed, as you please.

Red Crown is always the same, no matter where you get it, and you can get it everywhere—every few blocks in the city; every few miles in the country.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

And the following Filling Stations and Garages:

J. E. Raecker, Meservey, Iowa
Olander Sandberg, Goodell

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

3272

Boys, how are the Pumpkins Comin'?

We want a big show in the Fall---a big show of big pumpkins.

REMEMBER THE PRIZES?
$15.00 Suit for the heaviest.
7.50 for nd.
2.50 in trade for 3rd.
1.00 in trade for each 4th,
5th and 6th.
In case of a tie each will receive a prize.

Our Fall stocks of Boy's Clothes are already coming in. You'll find quality, large assortment and "value first" is the watchword.

Suit range is $8.50, $10.00, $12.50 to $20.00, all with extra knickers.

PATTON BROTHERS COMPANY
Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY AND MANLY, IOWA

Sweet Charity

A big burly man called at the rectory, and when the door was opened asked to see the rector's wife, a woman well known for her charitable impulses.

"Madam," he addressed her in a broken voice, "I wish to draw your attention to the terrible plight of a poor family in this district. The father is dead, the mother is too ill to work, and the nine children are starving. They are about to be turned out into the cold, cold streets unless someone pays their arrears in rent, which amounts to fifty dollars.

"How terrible!" exclaimed the lady. "May I ask who you are?"

The sympahetic visitor applied his handkerchief to his eyes.

"I'm the landlord," he sobbed.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by
THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.
Oelwein, Iowa
T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa
Agent
Phone 196 or 115

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Garment Clubs Hear Specialist

A meeting of the members of the Wright County Girls' Garment clubs, their officers, their mothers, and other interested ladies met in the basement of the Presbyterian church in Clarion last Monday afternoon for the purpose of attending the training school which was conducted by Miss Hazel Spencer, girls' club specialist from the Extension Service, who was in charge of the meeting.

Nine of the girls' garment clubs of the county were represented at this meeting by their leaders, officers and members. Several of the mothers of the girl members were present and took active part in the training school. Miss Spencer spent most of the time in lecturing and demonstrating on the subject of "Tailoring" and in her discussion took up the matter of tailored tacts, pleated skirts and materials and closed the afternoon meeting by giving a detailed explanation of the state fair exhibits.

Since Miss Spencer's last visit to the county two Girls Garment clubs have been organized, making a total of 12 clubs in the county. The interest in Girls' Sewing clubs seems to be on the increase and with the kind interest and co-operation on the part of the leaders who are giving their time so unselfishly to the work the clubs of the county are progressing nicely.

Fifty dollars has been allowed for the Girls' Garment club exhibits at the Eagle Grove picnic on August 22nd so the girls in the club have something worth while to work for.

Wall Lake Holds Lively Social

The Eugene Wassom home, twelve miles southeast of Clarion, was the scene of a live community social gathering on last Tuesday evening, when the regular monthly meeting of the Wall Lake Township Farm Bureau was held on the lawn of this beautiful farm home.

The evening's entertainment was opened by a solo from Mrs. F. L. Bubeck and this was followed by a short talk from the county agent, after which an interesting program consisting of recitations, dialogues and a "special" by Will Meyer were given.

Rev. Bump from Galt gave the address of the evening and talked for an hour to the good people of Wall Lake on community and social life and in his remarks urged closer cooperation among the people not only in social and religious affairs, but also in the business activities of the farm bureau organization. Rev. Bump is intensely interested in the social and religious welfare of the people of that community as is evidenced by the fact that he always attends their social gatherings.

Poultry Culling Gives Results

The poultry culling demonstrations which are being given by the county agent throughout the county are bringing out facts which are of vital interest to the poultry industry of this section of the state.

The resuls of the culling work up to date show that an average of 27 percent of the hens in the farm flocks have been found to be non-producers, which means that this per cent of hens in the average farm flock are being fed with no return being made by them to the owners. Another interesting fact in connection with the poultry culling work is that poultry disease has been found on many of the farms where the culling work has been done. The culling demonstrations are being held not only for the purpose of culling out non-producing hens but also to eliminate poultry disease which is so common in many of the farm flocks.

Those who are interested in attending one of the culling demonstrations will be governed by the following schedule, each meeting being held at 1:30 p. m.:

Troy, July 24, J. C. Middleton.
Woolstock, July 27, Roy Hockman.
Wall Lake, July 30, Will Meyer.
Vernon, July 31, Jess Akers.
Pleasant, Aug. 1, Menno Frohling.
Iowa, Aug. 2, Geo. Aldrich.
Blaine, Aug. 3, Frank Toyne.
Belmond, Aug. 6, J. J. Sloan.
Norway, Aug. 7, Leonard Evans.
Boone, Aug. 8, Oscar Engstrom.
Liberty, Aug. 9, W. D. McCutcheon.

County Agent At Conference.

Our local county agent is spending Wednesday and Thursday of this week attending the Northeast Iowa County Agents' conference which is being held at Mason City, July 25 26.

This conference was announced by and is being held under County Agent Leader Murl McDonald of Ames. All agents in the northeastern part of Iowa as well as the officers and directors of the various county farm bureaus in the same territory are invited to be present at and take part in this conference, which is being held for the purpose of bringing together the problems of all county agents and farm bureaus of this section of the state.

Chas. Hearst of Cedar Falls, president, C. W. Hunt, Des Moines, secretary, of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, R. K. Bliss, Murl McDonald, Dr. K. W. Stouder, representing the Extension Service at Ames, and Dr. Brindlay representing the agricultural economics section of the college at Ames, will take part in the program which has been arranged for this conference. The good which may come from a gathering of this kind is hard to estimate but it is quite certain that by getting together in this way the county agents will be able to talk over problems common to all and as a result render better service to the farmers.

Junior Livestock Judges Meet.

Members of the Junior Livestock Judging team of Wright county met last Tuesday evening at the A. W. R. Schultz dairy farm where the boys had a good work out on the Holstein dairy cattle at this place. A class of four aged dairy cows was arranged for the judging work and the boys gave placings and reasons on this class.

The junior judges spent last Friday evening at the O. J. Pardun home where several classes of draft horses were arranged for the judging work. Through the kindness of Mr. Pardun and L. L. Sams, who lives neighbor, the boys had opportunity to judge draft horses and received valuable information on the important points in draft type.

The boys are making regular trips to different farms of the county and between now and state fair time, the boys will spend considerable time with the county agent in working over the livestock. The members of the team are rounding into shape for the state-wide contest which will be held at Ames Aug. 1.

Boys who are taking active part in the livestock judging work at present are as follows: Milan Buck, Leo Woodley, Everett Woodley, Arno Myers, Max Miller, Lynn Thompson, Ross Mechem, Fred Moellering, Laurel Hill, Will Paul, Donald Strever, Geo. Peterson, and Walter Lyons.

Most people consider it a great misfortune to lose their wealth, although such ill luck as that has its advantages. They can easily tell who are their friends.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, JULY 26, 1923. No. 18.

This week we are not going to talk to you about any certain thing we have to sell, but are just going to say a few words about you and us and friendship and service.

Service is badly overworked in most ways. It is something you hear a lot about, but don't always see. We want to give you service, of course, and we want to give good service. By that, we mean in any way we can. Not just in the lines we carry, but in all lines. If you want an errand done on the street, call 10 and we'll be glad to do it. It will be a favor, and we'll appreciate it. We want our service to be as good as our goods, and both are the best to be had.

Use them! Many are, why not you as well? We are not in business just for the dollar, but for the service we can give and the fun we can get out of it as well. We consider you all our friends. We want to do for you the things a friend should do. Your friendship is our best asset, and we are mighty proud of it.

We want you to make our store your headquarters while in town. It will make us happy to have you here and you have a standing invitation. Consider us your friend; let us do friendly acts to prove we are your friend, to serve you as you would serve your friends. It has been said there is no friendship in business, but in our business we want friendship to have a big part. We will not sell you an inferior article and thus take advantage of friendship; we do not look at friendship that way. To us, friendship means that anything we sell you has got to be genuine and worth the money, or it won't be sold, that's all. To sell you something that was no good would not leave a very friendly feeling on your part, would it? Surely not!

So we ask you all to come in any time, and to feel that Griesy's is a friendly place. You do not have to be a customer, or even to know us personally, to receive our service. It is yours freely and with all good will. Our Service Is At Your Service. May we serve you.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

"FLY-KIL"

Get the flys before they get your profits.

No flies can live after a "Fly-Kil" mist.

"Fly-Kill" is equally effective as a killer and repellent against fleas, lice, mites, bedbugs and cockroaches.

Sold on a money back guarantee.

Some of the leading dairies using "Fly-Kil"---Kurtz Dairy and Hawley Dairy, Belmond; Schultz Dairy, Clarion; H. Pals Dairy Farm, Meservey; Belmond Cow Testing Association.

SOLD ONLY BY
Chas. Sampson & J. M. Sampson
Phone 2707 or 85 Belmond, Iowa

$500 Buys 80 Acres
Balance back. Partially improved.

$1,000 Buys 100 Acres
No improvements, but cultivated.

Now Is the Time To Do Your Boosting

160 Acre Improved Farm
5-room house; barn room for 16 head of cattle, and other buildings. Valued at $40 per acre. Will take exchange up to $2500. Balance cash or back on land.

7-room house, modern, and other buildings. $4,550. 1-2 cash, balance back.

WOLLE LAND AGENCY
Over Griesy's
Belmond, - Iowa

MESERVEY SECTION

New Felt Hats are now in, the latest in style, shape and colors.—Hat Shoppe, Belmond. 1c

H. Heitland, wife and daughter, Arlene, motored to Latimer, Saturday with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Leo Halfpap of Mason City visited relatives and friends here last week.

For sale or rent, a 4-room house. See W. F. Larson, Meservey, Iowa. 35tfc.

OUR MOTTO—"QUALITY FIRST"

JULY

Clearance Sale!

We will continue the Special in Silk Hosiery during the month of July.

Also a few Voiles left which will sell at a reduction.

Come in and get our prices and be convinced that we are selling goods right.

It is hardly necessary to call your attention to the fact that our grocery stock is always clean and fresh.

Honest dealing is our policy.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, - Iowa

Tire Sale

Starting July 12th

For ten days we will discount 10 per cent from today's prices on all

GOODRICH, FISK and DIAMOND

TIRES

We have in stock. Don't let this chance slip by without buying the tires you will need this summer.

30x3 1-2 N. S. Fisk Casing for $9.59.

30x3 1-2 Cord for $12.47.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

Service Counts

When you open your account with this bank you may be sure of two things. One is absolute security and the other is courteous, painstaking service---the sort of personal service you would expect to receive from your best friend.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Foss, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Raecker and Jeanette, Mr. and Mrs. L. Foss, Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming of Thornton, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Bohning and children from Miller, S. D., made up a picnic party to Clear Lake last Friday evening.

Miss Billy Loats was clerking in her old place for Hulsebus-Muller Co. last Wednesday and Saturday nights.

H. Fischer and family and relatives who accompanied them to Magnolia and Logan, returned last week Thursday evening.

Rev. C. H. Schlesselman, wife and baby, of Des Moines, motored to this place last Friday for a short visit at the Rev. Schlesselman home.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bohning and children of Miller, S. D., arrived by auto last Wednesday and are visiting at the Foss home and with other relatives.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus, Herman and Louise Witt of Clear Lake drove down Saturday night, remaining until Sunday evening.

Miss Jennie Gealow of Belmond visited her sister, Miss Mildred, here one day last week.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sprau visited with relatives at Clarion last Sunday

We are the headquarters for good things for your Lunch Basket which are as follows:

Mince Ham
New England Ham
Boiled Ham
Dried Beef
Pickles and Cheese
Armours Best Pork & Beans
Armours Vienna style Sausages

You can afford to eat the best if you buy here.

The Money Savers for Thrifty Housewives.

Butter at all times.

City Meat Market

Waage & Rulter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

Miss Marie Fischer was a week end visitor with a cousin at Cedar Falls, who is attending the Normal there.

Quite a number from here attended Chautauqua at Alexander several evenings last week. We were especially well represented on Tuesday evening for the last number. The Temple Festival Singers gave a splendid entertainment. A large crowd attended, and Alexander can well congratulate themselves for being able to support a chautauqua so successfully. Wouldn't it be worth while to put forth efforts here to put on a Chautauqua for next summer? Who will boost?

Mrs. Joe Meci and children returned to their home at Fort Dodge last Saturday after spending two weeks here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raecker.

Miss Emma Reverts of Pella visited at the Rev. Pannkuk home several days last week, remaining over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Lieuwen and three daughters motored to Dumont last Sunday to spend the day visiting at relatives.

Mrs. H. Mennenga and daughter, Miss Margaret, accompanied Miss Emma Reverts of Pella to this place last Saturday, she having visited at their home for a day.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

.....WHEN IN NEED OF.....

Quality Lumber and Millwork

Coal, Salt, Drain Tile

Building Blocks, Floor Blocks

Steel Gates, Can't Sag Gates

Woven Wire, Steel and Cedar Posts

Screen Doors, Window Screens

Lime, Cement, Etc.

See Us and Save Money

IOWA AUTOMATIC HOG DOOR

Try One

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

Billy Jones and family and Mrs. Mary Butz accompanied Miss Arnold to Mason City last Friday she having been a guest at the former's home for a few days.

A. J. Nissen and family returned from their outing trip thru Minnesota last Thursday at midnight. They report a delightful trip, and brought back the fish, too, as quite a number can vouch for, having had fish for dinners last Friday. While touring they stopped at the Gus Wickersheim home and enjoyed their hospitality at several times. They are well, and wished to be remembered to their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bier departed via the auto route last Thursday morning for Naperville, Ill., where they will visit at the Fred Pieper home for a week or 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Enabnit from Mason City came Wednesday of last week to visit at the Dave Enabnit home indefinitely.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Yarcho of Cedar Rapids arrived here Sunday p. m. on a short visit at the Raecker and H. Fischer homes. They were returning to their home from a visit in Minnesota. They were members of Rev. Raecker's parish during his pastorate at Cedar Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Foss, L. Foss and wife, G. E. Raecker and family, and Al Bohning and family were guests at the James Hemming home in Thornton, Sunday.

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons, Belmond.

Mrs. Schlesselman made a quick trip to Mason City Monday between trains, having dental work done.

R. Karsjens and family of Bradford motored to this place last Saturday evening to visit until Sunday evening with Mrs. R. Eckoff and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kolb, Irv. Nissen and family and Chas. Waddingham and family were Clear Lake callers Sunday, visiting relatives who are staying in their cottage at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Gruis returned from a week's visit with relatives and friends at Stout

Fred Menzel, Herman Ostendorf, and Bert Groen spent last Saturday p. m. at Clear Lake.

Mrs. H. K. Pals and three sons and nephew motored to Soo county last Saturday, where they will spend a week or ten days visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Wendell and Mr. and Mrs. C. Mayers visited at the Crist Enabnit home in Des Moines last Sunday.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The E. L. Christian Endeavor will hold an ice cream social on H. Fischer's lawn, Saturday evening, July 28. The proceeds will go toward building a mission church in Waterloo, Ia. Come and help a good cause.

B. Gruis and wife were Belmond callers last Saturday p. m.

A. J. Nissen attended a convention of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. at Milwaukee the first three days of this week.

THE YOUNG SKEPTIC

A skeptical young collegian confronted an old Quaker with the statement that he did not believe in the Bible.

The Quaker said to him, "Does thee believe in France?"

"Yes, for though I have never seen it, I have seen others who have; besides there is plenty of proof that such a country does exist."

"Then thee will not believe anything thee or others have not seen?"

"No, to be sure I won't."

"Did thee ever see thy own brains?"

"No."

Ever see anybody that did?"

"No."

Does thee believe thee has any?"

Donald Muller is at Camp Roosevelt, at Ventura, for a 10-day Boy Scout outing. His father accompanied him to that place Monday morning when Donald enrolled.

Rev. Eilert Dirks arrived from his home in Long Island City, N. Y. last Tuesday morning to spend his vacation with home folks. Mrs. Dirks arrived several weeks ago.

GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATION STARTS AFTER MEMBERS

All Iowa citizens interested in better roads are invited to become members of the Iowa Good Roads association and a general membership campaign will be made in all counties at once.

The association, formed at a meeting in Des Moines on June 28, hopes to obtain the adoption of a road improvement program in Iowa which will be satisfactory to both the farmers and the city dwellers.

The association platform provides in brief for the adoption of a policy of road improvement in Iowa which will embrace both the primary and secondary roads.

It urges the completion of the grading and drainage of the entire primary road system, and the ultimate surfacing with either gravel or concrete of the whole system.

It asks for the hard surfacing of only "such portions of the primary road system as are subject to traffic which makes any other type of surfacing uneconomical because of expensive maintenance or lack of material within reasonable distance of the section concerned."

It advocates a continuation of the policy of graveling secondary roads with primary funds where the grading and surfacing of a counties primary road system has been completed.

It favors clarifying the duties of the highway commission and the county boards of supervisors by giving to the commission more complete authority over primary roads, and to the supervisors more liberal powers as to secondary roads.

It advocates the doing away of special assessments for hard surfacing, and calls for the payment of all primary road expense from the primary road fund.

The association will work for the better marking of all roads, and advocates the strengthening and enforcement of the road patrol law, to insure maintenance of all highways.

"Every road a better road" is the slogan of the association county chairman have been named in most of the counties of Iowa, and organization work is rapidly being completed.

"This association will work for a better understanding between all who are interested in good roads in Iowa," declares Harry B. Allfree of Newton, president. "We are interested in all of our roads, we have no extravagant or visionary ideas, and we believe that when the purposes and aims of the association are thoroly understood we will have the support of most of the citizens of the state."

TRACTORS MOVING BY TRAIN LOADS

The farmers of the Middle West are preparing to meet any future shortage in farm labor. They are buying tractors these days by the train loads. The fourth Farm Power Prosperity Special of forty-three carloads of tractors is being moved over the Rock Island railroad this week.

The train is scheduled to leave Milwaukee, Wisconsin, at noon on July 12th, at Allis-Chalmers plant, and will be rushed at high speed by way of Cedar Rapids, Des Moines and Kansas City, to Wichita, Kansas. These tractors are to be distributed in the wheat fields of Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas an New Mexico. This movemen of tractors is almost a record breaker for one season. In April the same concern shipped twin trains of 88 carloads to the same points over the Rock Island.

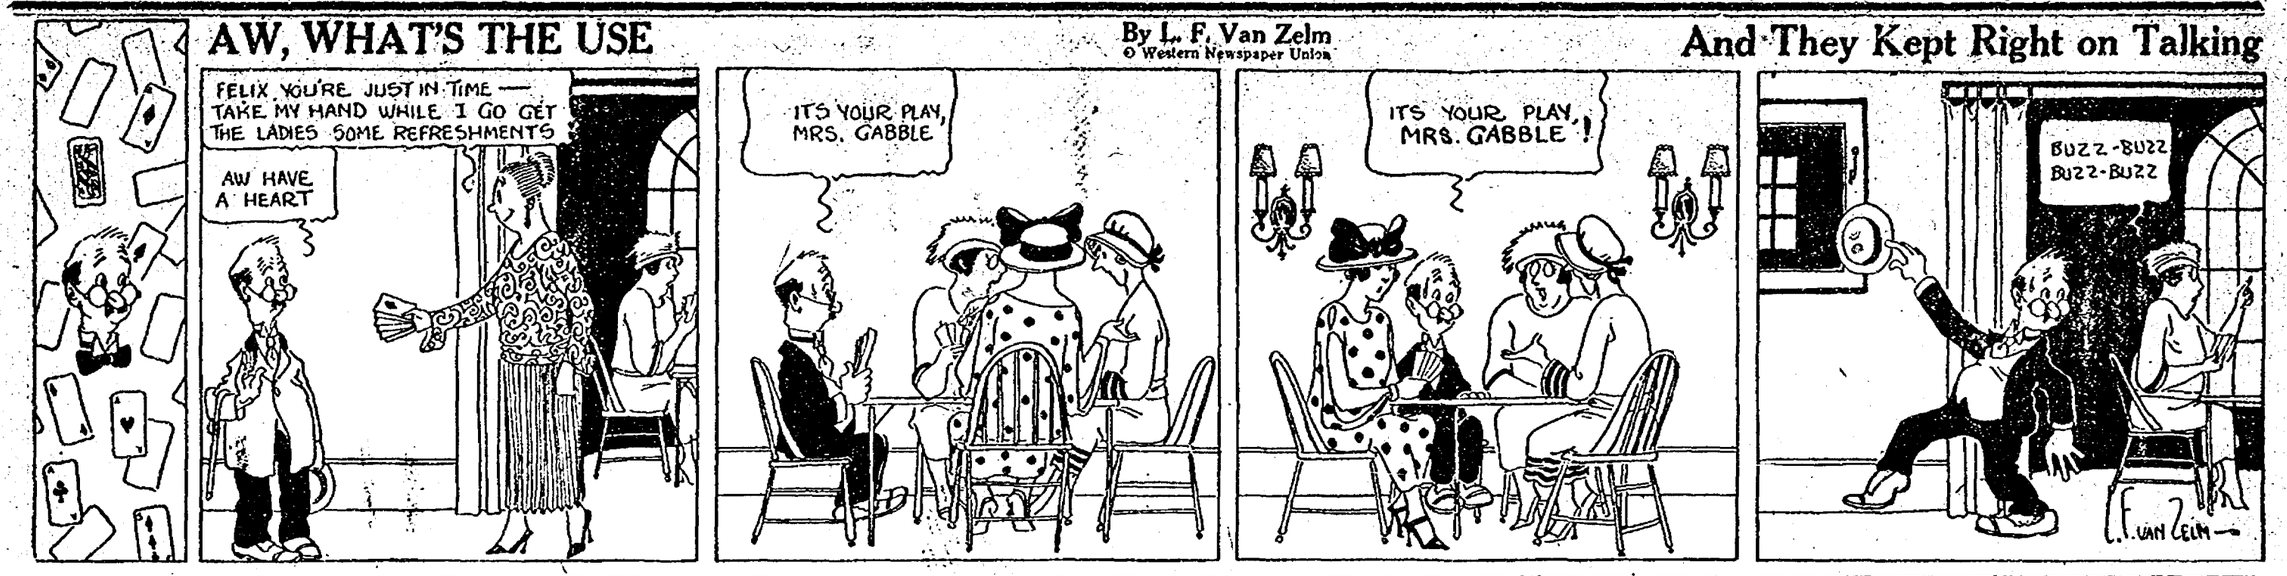
Tractor manufaqturers look upon this unusual shipment of farm machinery as evidence of the changed attitude of the farmers toward the purchase of improved and modern farm power. They say the buyers' strike is over and that prosperity is abroad in the field.

JUST A START

"Here's an article on 'What's Wrong With Congress'?"

"Well, what's the matter with the article?"

"There's only six columns of it."



ROWAN NEWS

Obituary

'Ann Brintha Lynk was born at Wampsville, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1844, grew to womanhood in that state, and was married to Philip L. Gildersleeve at Macedon, N. Y., June 26, 1871. They lived there two years moving to Homer, Ill., where they lived for two years, and from there to a farm six miles south of Belmond, Iowa. In 1882 they moved to Galt and this place was the home of Mrs. Gildersleeve until eight years ago, when she went to live with her son at Crookston, Minn. She passed away on July 17, 1923, aged 78 years 10 months and six days. She was the mother of two children, Earl, who died in infancy, and Charles Edwin, of Crookston. Minn. Besides the son, there survives one sister, Mrs. O. E. Ballou, of Rowan, Iowa; two brothers, Nelson Lynk of Manhattan, Ill., and E. J. Lynk, of Chicago, Ill., a beloved daughter-in-law and two small grandchildren, Jean and Jack Gildersleeve. The body was brought to her old home in Galt, now owned and occupied by her niece, Mrs. John DeNio. Funeral services were held at this home on Friday, at 2:30 p. m., conducted by the Rev. C. T. Halbert of Rowan, formerly pastor at Galt, assisted by Rev. Walter Bump and Rev. H. C. Boissier of Cedar Falls. Burial was in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Gildersleeve was a charter member of the Galt. Cong. church and an active worker in all of its endeavors for a period of 25 years. She was also an important factor in the life of the town and in its progress was instrumental. She was a member of the Star lodge and this organization assisted in the burial service at the grave. Among her favorite sentiments was found the following which seems to have been a motto for her life:

"I expect to pass thru this life but once.
If therefore there be any kindness or any good thing I can do to fellow beings let me do it now.
Let me not defer nor neglect it for I shall not pass this way again."

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Myers Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fowler and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Sinclair of Clarion enjoyed a day's outing at Clear Lake on last Thursday.

Joe Patton, Jr., was a Spencer visitor on business Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steffens accompanied the Glen Jennings family from Clarion on a two-weeks' trip by auto to Minnesota to visit at the Clarence Jennings home. The Alt. Hackley family are staying at the Steffens home during their absence.

Mrs. L. R. McCallum visited at the H. L. Hadley home in Belmond last Wednesday.

Mrs. J. B. McKinstry of Cedar Falls came up Thursday to visit relatives for a few days.

Harry Cain returned from Milledgeville, Ill., Thursday. Jake Steffens returned with him for an extended visit with his brother, Wm. Steffens.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder returned last Tuesday from their Wisconsin trip.

Mr. and Mrs Clifford Snow came over from Goldfield to attend the Gildersleeve funeral at Galt.

Mrs. Fred Webber, Florence and Lorraine returned home Thursday from their Minnesota visit.

Two men of the branch of the Salvation Army, of which Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth is leader, gave a service of song on our streets Saturday morning.

The Lynk family gathered at the Frank Drury grove Sunday after the morning hour of worship for a picnic dinner, together. Those present were Edwin Lynk, Chicago; Nelson Lynk, Manhattan, Ill; Ed. Gildrsleeve and wife, Crookston, Minn; Mrs. Winifred Harrigan, Joliet, Ill; the John DeNio family, Galt; Mrs. Anna Aldrich, Cedar Ranids; Oval Ballou family, the Frank, Clint and Fred Kercheval families, Rowan.

Geo. DeMaris and family have recently moved into Mrs. Peddie's residence. Mr. DeMaris is the new section foreman on the C. G. W.

The Cong. C. E. society will hold an ice cream social on the church lawn, Sat. July 28.

The Iowa township Farm Bureau ladies meet Friday p. m. at the H. J. Whitten home for their regular monthly meeting. An interesting program will be given as follows:

Song, America, all.
Roll Call, Answered by patriotic quotations.
Repeating of the American Creed in Concert.
Reading, What Can I Do For My Country, Mrs. J. H. Munnis.
Solo, I'm From Iowa, Miss LaVonne Ballou.
Reading, A Heap of Living, Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen.
Hints on Home Nursing, Mabel Azeltine.

A business meeting and social hour will follow the program. The public are cordially invited to this meeting.

Dean Fitz of Churdan, Ia., spent the week end with his parents here.

The James Clowes family of Renwick spent the Sabbath at the R. H. Keith home. Malcom and Donald the two young sons, remained here for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French and Miss Grace Dayton autoed to Fort Dodge last Wednesday.

R. H. Keith R. Virden and H. J. Whitten drove to Greene last Wednesday where several of the Rowan boys are hauling gravel

About 50 of the relatives of Mrs. Jennie Rowan, assisted her in celebrating her 75th birthday last Sunday. Dinner was served on the lawn. Mrs. Rowen was the recipient of many nice gifts. Besides the relatives here, those from a distance were her two brothers, Fred and Sam Farmer from Goirfield, Fred Farmer, Jr., of Cedar Rapids, Mrs. Nora Farmer, a niece from Steubenville, O., Mrs. Martha Robinson.

Mrs. Frank Hake from Belmond, Mrs. Cady Templeton, Mrs. Katy Bradfield of Spirit Lake. These last three are her daughters and a sister, Mrs. Lily Pierce, Goldfield

Mrs. Bert Harris and son Leland of Thornton spent last Wednesday at the parental Stevenson home.

Mrs. Ashley Andrews, Mrs. H. O. Hansen and Miss May Pohl from Coulter called at the Theo. Hansen home one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs N. B. Streveler of Blairsburg came up to spend the week end with their brother, T. S. Streveler.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Keith and Enid and Miss Elsie Keith of Goldfield visited at the R. H. Keith home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cowley, Miss Maud, and Irvin, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Ingraham and LaVonne, Mrs. J. E. Baines and son Darrell, and Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Igraham of Swaledale were entertained at dinner at the home of Mrs. Mary Braden last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Temple of Burt and Mr. and Mrs. Grayson of Washington, Ia., spent Sunday at the D. A. French home.

Bob Halsey and family, who now reside on a farm, near Dumont, visited in Rowan last week.

Mrs. Etta Carr departed Tuesday to make an extended visit with her brother's family at Marengo, Ill.

Izetta Fletcher went with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodley and Marvel Weld for an auto trip to Bruce, Wis. to visit the former's sisters, Mesdames C. B. Conn and Tim Weld.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pritchett went to Anita to spend a few days with Mrs. Emma Cate, formerly Emma Ballou.

Wm. Duffy and family left early Monday morning by auto for Oswego Kan., to spend two weeks at the Jno. Walker home. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tressidler are doing the work at the Duffy farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson came down from Mason City, Sunday, bringing Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCallum with them. Mr. and Mrs. McCallum have been visiting at Mason City and Minneapolis for some time. Both families spent Sunday at the Ormal Gates home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barker and Mrs. Beckman of Grundy Center stopped at the G. W. Whitten home last Tuesday. They were enroute to Okoboji to camp for ten days.

The W G. Bingham and Les Peyton families, Miss Gladys Whitten and Lyndon Whitten enjoyed a picnic supper at Lake Cornelia Monday evening in honor of Jannice Rowen, who leaves for her home at New Richmond, N. D., soon.

G. W. Whitten, wife and daughter Gladys, drove to Goldfield, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Brinkman and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Klemensen of Latimer attended the church service Sunday at the M. E. church here.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. McCallum, Guy Toyne and Gladys Rydor camped out at Lake Cornelia for the week end.

Mr and Mrs. Arthur Emerson and Carl, Mrs. Roy Hyde and May autoed to Cedar Falls to visit the girls who are attending summer school.

The out of town folks who attended the Gildersleeve funeral were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gildersleeve of Crookston, Minn; Nelson Lynk, Manhattan, Ill; Edwin Lynk, Chicago; Mrs. Winifred Harrigan, Joliet; Rev. H. C. Boissier and wife, Cedar Falls; Mrs. Louise Letts, Webster City; and Mrs Anna Aldrich, Cedar Rapids.

Mrs. David Pepper, Sr., of Dows, spent part of last week visiting relatives and friends here.

Mrs. Chas. Boyington was quite ill last week, but is on the mend.

Ione Francomb went to Clarion last Tuesday to visit a few days with her sister, Mrs. Claude Allie.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Davenport of Belmond were Rowan callers on last Wednesday.

H. B. Bradshaw of Ft. Dodge visited friends between trains while enroute to and from Dows, where he supplied the pulpit at the Methodist church.

Miss Anna Rietz is working in the bank during the absence of Guy Sheldon.

The Epworth League folks who left for the Clear Lake institute were Bonnie Thomas, Lorene Liming, Garnet Stumph, Delila Thomas, Nora Schaffer, Mrs. Liming and the Osborns. Others expect to drive up this week for a day or two.

Mr. Liming is digging a ditch along No. 10 preparatory to placing the over-head telephone wires under the ground.

The Whitten memorial furniture was dedicated at the Methodist church last Sunday evening. The service used was a part of the regular service used for dedication of churches. The Laymen were represented by Bert Pelley, who spoke in memory of Uncle Dan Whitten. The chairs are of pleasing massive oak construction and the pulpit desk is a thing of beauty.

The churches of Rowan will have four weeks of union service at the evening hour. The first one is to be held at the Cong. church next Sunday at 8. Rev. Osborn is to preach.

The graveling on primary road No. 10 is progressing nicely and we will soon have a graveled road to Hampton.

The small grain is cut and is reported to be at least an average crop.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m. Sunday school at 10. Let us not neglect this important service. Morning worship at 11. Dr. James J. Bushnell, district supt., will deliver the message. He is worth hearing. Epworth League at 7. Miss Esther Fowler is leader. Please note there will be no evening service.

The pastor is to speak at the union services at the Cong. church at 8.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

A cordial invitation to attended all our services is extended.

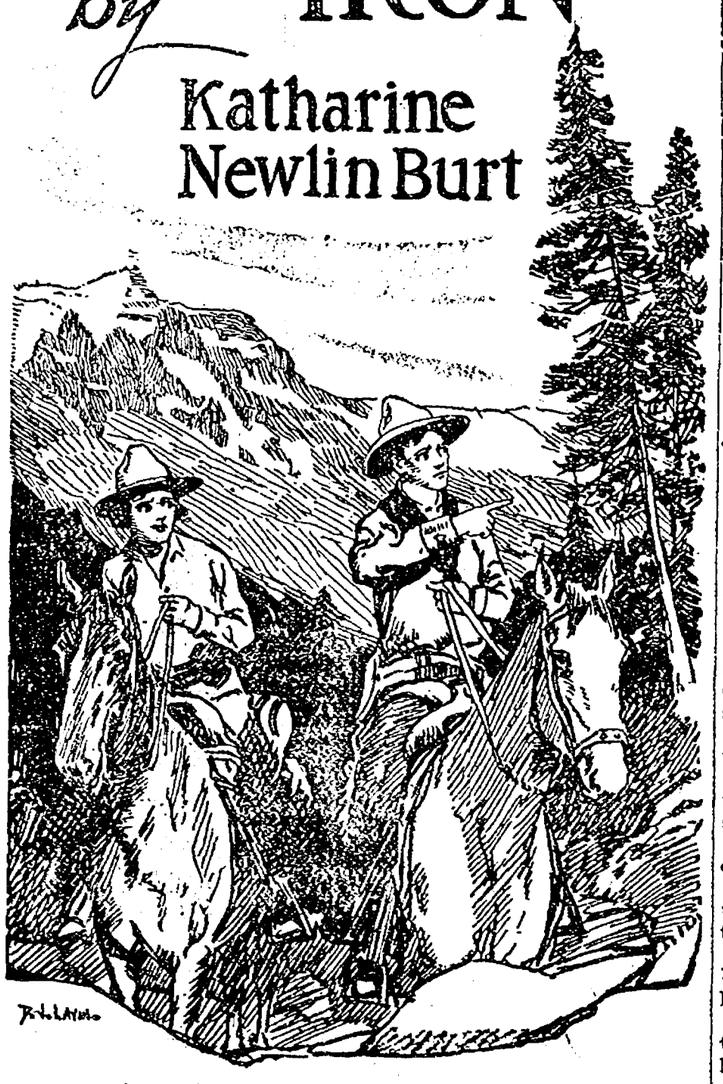
1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

THE BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt



A Compelling Romance of Love and Marriage

Intensely human in its vivid characters, impulses and emotions.

Contains the concentrated charm and tenderness of the West, along with a sense of the terrors of wild places and the fear that comes from great silences. Some of the best writing this authoress has yet done.

This Fascinating Novel Will Be Printed Serially in

Belmond Independent

GOODELL NEWS

Finis Letch and wife returned to Mora, Minn., last Tuesday after a few days' visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kutzner moved their household goods to Mason City on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Graeber, Mr. and Mrs. Moore spent Thursday at the Geo. Ruka home.

Mrs. Snearley and Mrs. Wm. Heginger were at Garner, Tuesday, in the interest of the American Legion.

Mrs. John Rust and Miss Dorthea Okrueg were at Garner, Tuesday, in the interest of the girls club work.

Mrs. Dewiske of Milwaukee, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Hamilton, returned home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Beier of Milwaukee have returned home after a visit at her sister's, Mrs. T. Hamilton.

Mr. Sandberg and daughters, Edith and Selma, drove to Ames. Friday, and brought home Carl who had completed his six weeks' of summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker of Garwin visited her parents Sunday.

E. P. Meyer and son, Donald, went to Chicago, Saturday night, with stock.

Anderson brothers shipped three carloads of fat cattle Saturday.

C. W. Ennis and family of Grinnell were over Sunday visitors at the Rev. Miller home.

The Killburn children of Des Moines visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chelavig.

Mr. Moore Mrs. Monroe Graeber's father, returned to Harvey, Ill., on Monday.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

KNOCK ANY HEAD

Even the advocates of government ownership of railroads do not assert that either economy or efficiency would be promoted by such a policy. They just naturally believe in knocking any head that appears above the mass, so when some man spends forty or fifty years training himself to make a success of railroading, and sees his property on a good paying basis, they want to "knock" his block off." To them success in business is a near crime.

LET'S HOPE NOT

Nell—They say that the morals of the young girls of today are worse than they were in the hisory of civilization.

Will—Aw, I don't believe the girls are as bad as they are painted.

ALEXANDER NEWS

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons, Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and baby were Hampton callers on last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Modderman and sons were visitors at Belmond Sunday.

Mrs. Younglin, of Latimer, visited with Miss Anna Beenen a few days the fore part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Larsen and daughters Esther and Velma, visited with relatives at Hampton on Sunday.

R. L. Carlock left Monday for Fargo, N. D., where he expects to remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Misses Jessie and Nellie Bell, and Susie Schulte were callers at Hampton on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen, Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens and Susie and Ethel Schulte were Clear Lake callers last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith and two daughters were Sunday visitors with relatives at Hampton.

Little Gracie Frohling of Belmond spent the past week here with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte.

Mr. Rankin, insurance agent of Dows, was transacting business at Alexander last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son, Frederick. Mrs. John Bell and Jessie Bell were visitors at Belmond last Sunday.

C. I. McCallum of Rowan was a visitor at Alexander a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen, Miss Nellie Bell and Arthur Winwood were callers at Belmond last Saturday evening.

Miss Anna Beenen visited with friends in Hampton last week.

John Conrad came Sunday for a visit with friends in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and children visited at the Joe Veeder home in Hampton last Sunday.

Mrs. George Dunn and children left last week for a visit with relatives at Geneva, Minn.

Karl Griemann of Latimer was a visitor at this place Sunday.

Forrest Gillett was a business visitor at Hampton last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Larsen and sons Elmer and Wilbur visited with relatives at Hampton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Beenen are visiting at Des Moines with friends this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen and Miss Anna Beenen autoed to Renwick, Thursday, on a business trip.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

AND WIFE

This story concerns a certain public official prominent in Marion county political life who recetly became a bridgroom and went on a honeymoon journey to the South.

The man and his young bride stopped at a hotel in a Florida city and as he proceeded to the hotel register, it seemed to him that some one had announced to the bellboy, the porter, the clerk and every one about that he was just married, for they waited and watched eagerly. He wrote something and started toward his wife.

"Haven't you forgotten something, sir?" the clerk asked.

The husband turned quickly, sized up the situation in his mind hurriedly and with a snap of his finger, characteristic of him, he said.

"By dad, I most certainly have."

With that he returned to the register and to his own name, which he already had written he added "and wife."—Indianapolis News.

Your Paper Will Stop Next Week!

Beginning August 1st, the Independent will go on a Cash-In-Advance subscription basis. The price will be the same as now, $2.00 a year. All subscriptions not paid up by August 1st will be dropped from the list.

Until August 1st subscriptions may be renewed at $1.50 a year. After August 1st $2.00 will be the one and only price. The paper will stop promptly at expiration unless renewed, the same as your city daily does.

This policy is the same as that used by the Des Moines Register, and all city papers, as well as scores of weeklies. It is the only business like way. If you want your home paper you should be willing to give it the same treatment you do your daily. By stopping at expiration there can be no question or dispute about ordering or not ordering it.

The publisher wishes to take this opportunity of expressing his appreciation to the thousand subscribers of the Independent for their interest and co-operation, and he hopes and believes you will like the new method better than the old. It is our desire to give you the best paper possible. We want and need your co-operation in all ways at all times.

REMEMBER---Until August you can renew at $1.50. After August 1st the price is $2.00 strictly in advance. Take advantage of this bargain offer!

Look At the Date On Your Paper. Are You Paid Up? Only One Week Left!

YOUR HOME TOWN PAPER

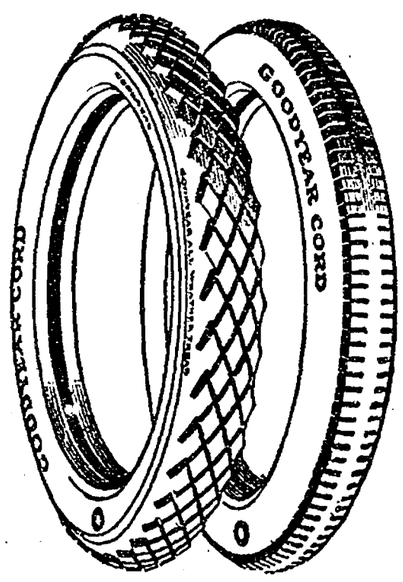
THE BELMOND INDEPENDENT

...SPECIAL...

New Low Prices

- On -

Goodyear Tires



Goodyear Pathfinders

30x3	$7.35
30x3 1-2	8.55

Goodyear Cords

30x3 1-2	$12.50
32x3 1-2	19.49
31x4	19.89
32x4	21.38
33x4	22.94
34x4	23.36
32x4 1-2	27.24
33x4 1-2	27.71
34x4 1-2	28.26
33x5	34.44

Other Sizes At Attractive Prices.

Why experiment with lesser known tires when you can buy Goodyear at these low prices? Also other makes at a low price.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Phone 39 Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Local News

Mrs. George Roberts, of Clarion, spent last week Friday with Mrs. Amy Peterson.

Glenn Smith, from Ruthton, Iowa, spent the week end at the R. H. Rierson home.

Mrs. Henry Schultz was a Mason City caller on Monday of this week.

Miss Freda Cramer and Miss Cecilia Finn went to Mason City on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barry and niece, Kathrine Blake, drove to Iowa City last Thursday to visit relatives and friends.

Mrs. Eugene Kinney entertained the Priscilla club ladies at her home on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Miss Bertha Thorman returned on last Wednesday from Wisconsin, where she had been attending school taking teachers normal course.

Mrs. Laura Nelson and sons, Stanley and Vernon, from Ruthton, are visiting at the R. H. Rierson home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Webb went to Woden, Sunday, and spent the day with their son, Rev. Harry Webb, who has charge of the M .E. church at that place.

Mrs. E. W. Luick and Mrs. A. W. Martin entertained about 45 friends at afternoon tea, at the beautiful home of E. W. Luick, on east Main street, last Friday afternoon. The house was very prettily decorated with garden flowers of different kinds. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostesses.

The paving at Clarion is coming in nice shape, and some streets have already been opened up. When the job is finished, Clarion will have some fine streets, but until it is, they are a fright. The best thing Clarion ever started was their paving, for it was certainly needed.

Sunday evening saw the usual quota of bathers at the lakes, seeking relief from the intense heat. The water is very warm, and ideal for a good swim.

Did You Ever Find A Five Dollar Bill ?

How would you like to? Did you ever stop to think that a savings account is just like finding money? And you find it when you need it most.

If you save a hundred dollars you have found a five dollar bill, for that is the interest your money will earn. The more you save the more you "find."

This bank will be glad to show you how easy it is to "find" money. Will you let us?

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowing

COPYRIGHT, 1922, BY SIDNEY GOWING

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lambe, at Jervaulx abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lambe, Aimee, vivacious daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, is in a rebellious mood.

CHAPTER II.—She wanders into the park, there encountering a strange youth in trouble with a motorcycle. He laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two cement the acquaintance by a ride on the motorcycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgina Berners, her cousin, Aimee sets out for Jervaulx. On the way she decides that Georgina shall impersonate her at Jervaulx, while she goes on a holiday. Georgina's horrified protest is unavailing.

CHAPTER III.—Happy in her new freedom, Aimee again meets "Billy." He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives hers as Amy Snooks, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER IV.—That night Aimee visits Georgina and learns that the deception has not been discovered. By her dominant personality she compels Georgina to continue the subterfuge.

CHAPTER V.—On a trial spin next day on the Sphinx, with Billy, Aimee almost collides with a carriage in which are her aunt, Georgina and Alexander. The pair escape unrecognized.

CHAPTER VI.—Georgina learns that Lord Scroope is coming to visit Lady Erythea and, realizing what will happen on his arrival, is in hopeless bewilderment.

CHAPTER VII.—While Aimee is secretly visiting Georgina at Jervaulx, the place is burglarized. Aimee escapes.

CHAPTER VIII.—Georgina learns, with much relief, that Aimee has got away.

CHAPTER IX.—Police Inspector Panke decides that the robbery is the work of "Jack the Climber" and "Calamity Kate," noted thieves, who travel on a motorcycle.

CHAPTER X.—Billy, aware of his "partner's" nocturnal jaunts, is troubled. He follows her, on the Sphinx, to Jervaulx. He hears the commotion, at once suspects burglary, and follows two figures on a motorcycle who are apparently in a desperate hurry. Cornering the pair, Billy knocks out a man who attempts to shoot him, picking up a package the fellow had dropped. He discovers the other fugitive to be a woman. Stopping to aid her, she strikes him with a stone, rendering him unconscious, and the pair escape.

CHAPTER XI.—Recovering, Billy discovers the package he had picked up is a jewel case, containing emeralds. Realizing they must be part of the loot from Jervaulx, he starts for the abbey. On the way he meets Aimee, with the police in pursuit. In a secure hiding place, a cave among the crag pits, Aimee tells him the whole story. He urges that she make a frank confession to her father, but on reflection both realize Aimee's good name has been compromised by her two nights' stay at Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER XII.—Assuring Aimee he has a plan to save her, Billy leaves her in the cave and, proceeding to Jervaulx, restores the emeralds to the astounded Lady Erythea.

CHAPTER XIII.—Rejecting any reward, after explaining how the emeralds came into his possession, Billy accepts the position of chauffeur to Lady Erythea, seeing in the situation a promise of a way out of the embroglio.

CHAPTER XIV.—Realizing what her father's visit to Jervaulx would mean, Aimee goes secretly to her home, disables the family auto, thus preventing his journey, and induces a parlormaid to let her take her place at Jervaulx.

CHAPTER XV.—Alexander recognizes Aimee as the woman on the motorcycle which ran into the Lambe carriage, denouncing her as "Calamity Kate." Georgina divulges Aimee's identity. Hearing her story, Alexander consents to keep the secret.

CHAPTER XVI.—Alexander finds himself very much in love with Georgina.

CHAPTER XVII.—The approaching visit of Alexander's sister, Lady Diana (who, of course, knows Aimee) brings consternation to the two girls.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Another visitor to Jervaulx is the Vicomte de Jussac, Diana's suitor. Diana recognizes Aimee and threatens to denounce her.

CHAPTER XIX.—Interested in the Lambe collection of armor, De Jussac, during the night, tries on a suit. Diana, investigating an alleged ghostly apparition, meets him. He declares his love, and is accepted. Aimee finds them together and binds Diana to secrecy concerning her affairs.

CHAPTER XX.—Alexander and Georgina become engaged, Lady Erythea, believing Georgina to be Lord Scroope's daughter, is delighted.

CHAPTER XXI.—Billy and Aimee reach an understanding as to their mutual love.

CHAPTER XXII.—A Scotland Yard official arrives and demands to see Billy. Aimee overhears him. Learning Billy's whereabouts, the officer goes after him.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Billy finds "Jake the Climber," his leg broken, in the crag pits. He hears the thief's story and has a feeling of something like sympathy. "Jake" is arrested and the police search for "Calamity Kate."

CHAPTER XXIV.—Aimee, hastening to the crag pits to warn Billy of his danger, meets "Kate" and, touched by the girl's devotion to her husband, allows the woman to escape on the Sphinx.

CHAPTER XXV.—The capture of "Jake" of course clears Billy of connection with the Jervaulx robbery. But they are not yet "out of the woods."

CHAPTER XXVI.—Lord Scroope, at Jervaulx, is astounded at the bewildering mixup resulting from Aimee's escapade. Her confession clears up the situation. Lady Erythea's wrath at the deception is cyclonic.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Lord and Lady Scroope are convinced of the eligibility of "Billy" Spencer as a husband for their daughter. Alexander and Georgina are supremely happy, and the clouds roll away. A double wedding is arranged.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—The story ends with Billy and Aimee starting on their honeymoon on the original "Sphinx," which was the medium of their introduction.

"Maybe you'll have her yet. Only I'm not going to let her make trouble for you. We're pretty near done with trouble."

"But how—"

"Never mind. I'll tell you some time. Gee! how you'll laugh! But I'm giving you the cinch—it is so."

"Billy!" she cried, "isn't that splendid! Though I—I—"

"Well?"

"I haven't been worrying so much about it lately," said Aimee swiftly. "But it's good to know. And what's going to happen now?"

"I know one thing that's going to happen now," said Billy, and he kissed her with—as de Jussac would say—empressement.

"Billy!" said Aimee a little breathlessly. "Aunt said we had to be decorous!"

"So we are," replied Billy. He kissed her again.

Half an hour later Billy, passing the main porch, encountered Lady Erythea.

'Spencer," she said, "I was about to send for you. The person from Scotland Yard, who has just left, informed me that he had not only captured one of the thieves, but that you had rendered him invaluable assistance. It really seems a remarkable ending to the affair—but it does not surprise me in the least! I said from the first that you were more likely to make a success of this problem than all the police in the country, if they would only consult you. I was perfectly right—my judgment, in fact, is never wrong."

"Yes, my lady."

"I am quite capable of reading between the lines," said Lady Erythea with suppressed triumph. "It is my conviction that the capture of this abominable thief was due entirely to you. The police are imbeciles."

Billy shook his head.

"On the contrary, Inspector Arkwright is an uncommonly clever man, my lady," he said respectfully. "As for me, I had—luck. Luck's a queer thing. Even cleverness won't always beat it."

Lady Erythea looked a little out of her depth.

"In any case," she continued, "I am very pleased that this absurd suspicion of the police regarding you is cleared up, and that you come out of the affair with such credit. It confirms my opinion of you."

Lady Erythea contemplated Billy's tall figure and serenely handsome face with a certain regret.

"I am sorry," she said, "that you are leaving Jervaulx."

Billy smiled.

"The week I have spent in your ladyship's service," he said gently, "has been the happiest time of my life."

Lady Erythea was not given to expressing her emotions. But her austere face positively tinged a faint pink color with pleasure.

CHAPTER XXVI

"Where Is My Daughter?"

"Why can't we stay on for another week, Billy?" said Aimee, leaning a little farther out of the study window, duster in hand. "Go to Aunt—the Missus, I mean—and ask her to let you keep the job. She'll jump at it."

"Nothing doing!" said Billy sternly.

Aimee sighed. The hour was nearly noon on the day following the Odyssey of the crag pits. No news had been heard of Calamity Kate, who appeared to have drifted out of history on the Sphinx. A brief interval of peace had settled upon Jervaulx.

"There'll be a vacancy for a parlormaid an' chauffeur," announced Billy with decision. He was standing on the gravel just outside the window. "All the bother with the police is wiped off the slate. It's only a fool that backs his luck too far. And it's time to quit the game and turn the lights out."

"That means Aunt has got to know who I am, and who Georgie is; and—and all the rest of it."

"There's no way out of that, I'm afraid."

"I know. But I do rather funk it, Billy. The worst if it is poor old Georgie is in a tighter place than I am."

"We'll have to see her through it."

"Don't you think," said Aimee, distinctly worried, "that it would be best if Georgina arranged to cut short her visit and went home—and Amy Snooks gave notice, or just cleared out. You as well. Then we—we could explain it all by letter, or something. I think it would look better that way."

Billy looked at her a little oddly.

"I am in a funk, Billy," said Aimee, trembling slightly. "I don't care for myself, but it's awful to think of poor Georgie having the storm break on her. She isn't built for it. I believe if the thing isn't sprung on us suddenly, and we manage it at the right time, we—we might get away with it."

"Right again," said Billy, "but I shan't go. I shall stay and put it through myself."

"No!" said Aimee quickly. "I won't hear of that."

"You just leave it to me," said Billy, soothingly, "there's another way. I'll show you—"

The whirr of a motor interrupted him. A large automobile was approaching up the park road. Aimee looked at it. Such an expression of horror came over her features that Billy was startled.

"What's the matter?"

"That's absolutely torn it!" said Aimee in strangled tones.

"Eh!"

"It's Dad!"

Aimee dived back into the room like a rabbit retreating into its burrow.

The automobile swept up to the main entrance; the Very Reverend Lord Scroope descended.

"Is Lady Erythea in?" he said, almost curtly, to the butler. "Announce me at once, please. Lord Scroope."

Mr. Tarbeaux showed him into the empty drawing room. Lord Scroope deposited his hat among a cluster of Dresden ornaments. His brow, usually white and serene as alabaster, was clouded. Lady Erythea entered majestically.

"Anthony!" she said.

Lord Scroope, omitting any greeting, regarded her fixedly.

"I received your letter by last night's post, Erythea, announcing Aimee's engagement to Alexander. I borrowed the bishop's car, and I have been traveling from Closeminster since seven this morning."

Lady Erythea received the news with a smile of approval.

"The silly child wished me to delay announcing her betrothal. But that, of course, I could not consent to. I wrote to you at once, Anthony. I commend the energy you have shown in hastening to congratulate them—and me. One so seldom sees you in a hurry."

Lord Scroope deliberately placed a pair of gold-rimmed pince-nez on his nose and stared at his sister-in-law.

"The news of this engagement," he said earnestly, "is unwelcome to me. Entirely unwelcome."

Lady Erythea stiffened in every limb. Her ear-trumpet was presented in one hand; with the other she raised her lorgnettes and directed them at Lord Regarded Each Other Glassily.

Scroope. The two regarded each other glassily.

"I do not understand you," said Lady Erythea with frigidity. "Alexander is a young man of unexceptionable character and prospects. Jervaulx will be his. The Scroope estate is entailed, and I am sufficiently au fait with your affairs to know that when your two sons in the Service are provided for there will be no overpowering fortune left for Aimee. It appears that if there is any complaint, it should come from me."

"The financial aspect of the question does not weigh with me," said Lord Scroope with asperity. "I object to the match itself. If Alexander is to marry at all—"

"If he is to marry!" interrupted Lady Erythea warmly. "Of course he is to marry. Though I confess I was very much afraid he never would. Permit me to tell you, Anthony, that in taking up this attitude as to the marriage of priests, you stand on a very shaky foundation. You yourself are a Clerk in Orders, and an extreme Ritualist. Shall I remind you that if you had not married Delicia—and an excellent thing it was for you—this situation would never have arisen!"

"I am not conscious of having expressed any such argument," said Lord Scroope very stiffly, but with a certain pinkness about the ears. "As for Alexander, he is in every way an excellent young man. But if he is to marry, the last thing I should have desired is his alliance with my daughter. Their temperaments are so opposed that I am convinced nothing but unhappiness could result—in fact, your news seemed to me almost incredible. I do not know what to do—the position is very difficult for me, if the child has really become attached to him," concluded Lord Scroope, with visible distress.

"Good gracious, man, what did you expect?" exclaimed his sister-in-law.

"It never entered my head," said Lord Scroope, emphatically. "I thought that your influence, and that of Alexander, would have a steadying effect on Aimee, who was in some need of it. But this—!"

Lady Erythea showed increasing exasperation.

"You are talking rubbish!" she exclaimed, sharply. "Of all the girls known to me, no more suitable mate could be found for Alexander. Indeed, during her sojourn here Aimee has endeared herself to me scarcely less than to him. Her piety, her quiet devotion—the complete absence in her of all slanginess—all these speak eloquently in her favor."

Lord Scroope gazed at her in bewilderment.

"I really do not follow you, Erythea. And I am greatly disappointed," said Lord Scroope heavily, "greatly disappointed. I did not foresee this."

"I am not responsible, my dear Anthony, for your lack of foresight," said his sister-in-law, acidly. A shadow darkened the window, and she turned. "But your daughter can answer for herself."

Georgina stepped in through the open window, followed by Mr. Lambe. Suddenly observing Lord Scroope she halted and became rigid. Every scrap of color left her cheeks. Alexander halted also, and slowly turned a deep plum color.

"Since it is a fait accompli," said Lady Erythea to her brother-in-law, almost with a touch of pleading, "be amiable, Anthony, and bestow your blessing on the happy pair."

She raised her ear-trumpet as though to share in the benediction. Lord Scroope looked at Georgina dumbly and then stared at Lady Erythea.

"What did you say?" he asked dizzily.

"The happy pair!" said Lady Erythea, loudly and irritably.

"Where is my daughter?" exclaimed Lord Scroope with consternation. "Erythea, where is my daughter?"

Lady Erythea started. She glanced at Georgina's horror-stricken face, and then, with deep concern, moved to her brother-in-law's side.

"My dear Anthony," she said in a low voice, "come upstairs and lie down. It will soon pass off. Do not be alarmed, Aimee. Lean on my arm, Anthony."

Lord Scroope shook himself free.

"Are you in your senses, Erythea? This is my niece by marriage—Georgina Berners. What is she doing here?"

"Y-yes," gulped Alexander's fiancee. "I'm Georgina. I couldn't help it."

She collapsed into an armchair and burst into tears. Alexander stood over her like a large and protective dog; he laid a hand on her shoulder and glared at the others with defiance.

Lady Erythea turned pale. It was disconcerting to find two members of the Scroope family simultaneously smitten with insanity.

"Where is Aimee?" insisted Lord Scroope, turning upon her. "Where is my daughter?"

"Dad!"

The disheveled parlor maid darted in through the door. Aimee's cap was awry, her face was pale, her eyes very bright; the top of her apron heaved tumultuously. She stopped short, as Lady Erythea glared speechless at this irruption.

"Don't cry, Georgie," said Aimee; "it wasn't your fault."

"Have I been transported into Bedlam?" asked Lord Scroope, dizzily. "Or are you rehearsing a charade? What is she doing in this costume?"

Lady Erythea struggled for breath.

"This," she said grimly, "is my parlor maid, Snooks, whom I foolishly engaged on your recommendation. She has engaged herself again, however, to my chauffeur."

Lord Scroope looked at his sister-in-law with commiseration.

"This," he said, in the soothing tone with which one would address a delirious person, "is my daughter, Aimee. I am rather glad to find her—in any costume. I began to wonder what you had done with her."

Lady Erythea's frame slowly stiffened. Her fingers clenched the ear-trumpet as though it were the handle of a club. Her eyes were terrible. Before the storm could break, Aimee intervened.

"It wasn't Aunt's fault, Dad," she said breathlessly, "nor Georgie's—nor Alexander's. It was all mine. And if you all want to beat somebody, it had better be me! I—I'm here to explain!"

"Some explanation," said Lord Scroope quietly, "seems to be called for."

Aimee, avoiding her aunt's eyes, addressed herself to the quivering ear-trumpet.

"I didn't want to come here. Dad made me. I was—frightened of you. Anyway, I didn't think Jervaulx would suit me, and that you'd hate me. So I skipped the car at Burn Ash," said Aimee, her speech pouring from her like a torrent, "and made the chauffeur bring Georgina on here. And I went off on my own!

"Georgina arrived here, and you took her for me. You insisted she was me. And she didn't dare explain, for fear of getting me into a row. That's what Georgie is! She can't lie—she can't even act—but she'd let you cut her in pieces before she'd get me into trouble!

"I got here the same night, and climbed into her room. And Georgie begged me to own up, and I wouldn't. And I came the next night; Georgie was ready to give it all away—and then the burglars got in. I was nearly caught, all the household chased me, the butler tore a great piece out of my skirt. But I got away, and at last, right down by the crossroads, I ran into Bil—Mr. Spencer."

Aimee paused for breath.

"Who," inquired Lord Scroope, in the hush that followed, "is Mr. Spencer?"

"A motorcyclist. He had come across the thieves getting away, had a fight with them—they were too many for him, but he got back some of the jewels. I told him the awful mess I was in. Of course, the police were after me—I'd seen their car already. If they got hold of me, they'd know the—the silly thing I'd done," said Aimee with a gulp. "It would come out that I was your daughter—it would be all over the country, and in all the newspapers!"

Lord Scroope, very pale, drew a deep breath, and gave a prolonged shudder.

"B—Mr. Spencer told me I'd got to go back and make a clean breast of it all. He wanted to tell you. But I didn't dare. I refused to let him say anything—I made him swear he wouldn't. It was my trouble, not his. So he did what I asked; even though it meant the police would suspect him, too. So he took the jewels to Aunt Erythea, and never said a word about me; and when she offered him the job as chauffeur he took it; so that the police wouldn't suspect him—or me! He came here and drove Aunt's cars!"

"And you?" said her father quietly. "What happened to you?"

"I went back to Scroope next day. I found Amy Snooks was coming here as maid—I made her go to Seabridge, and took her place, Dad. Just to be safe from those beastly police—in the hope they'd catch the thieves, if we gave them time—and then they wouldn't catch me and make me explain. And it's just what happened; Billy—Mr. Spencer—caught one of them yesterday, and the police have got him. Nobody knows anything about me, except you here!"

Aimee panted like a doer at bay.

"And Billy's asked me to marry him, and I'm going to!" she said desperately. "I love him! There's nobody like Billy—he's been splendid! He isn't a chauffeur at all—till Aunt made him one. And I'd marry him, even if he was!" declared Aimee, on the verge of tears.

There was a stunned silence. For once speech denied itself even to Lady Erythea. Georgina was sobbing gently in the chair. Alexander still stood over her and said nothing.

"I seem to find a thread of enlightenment in this story," said Lord Scroope, slowly. "Yes, I think I know enough of you, Aimee, to understand. I have a question to put. You came here on the day following the burglary. Where did you spend the previous night? What were you doing?"

"I was in a cave!"

Lord Scroope passed a long white hand across his brow.

"A cave?" he repeated, blankly. "You have reverted, it seems, to the customs of our Neolithic ancestors—"

"It was a ripping cave," said Aimee a little hysterically, "down in the crag pits. All the little rabbits for company. It was more peaceful than Jervaulx. I know it wouldn't have suited Georgie."

"May I ask when this unknown young man permitted himself to propose to you?"

"Yesterday!"

"We will not pursue that matter," said Lord Scroope, gloomily; "this hardly seems the time or place for detailed explanations. I feel—"

The door opened and Monsieur de Jussac entered. He gave a slight start as his eyes traveled rapidly over the group.

"A thousand pardons! A family matter, I perceive," he said quickly, "I will withdraw—"

"Don't go, Vicomte!" exclaimed Aimee. "Anyone who's a friend of mine is welcome here. You may as well be in at the death."

"If I can be of any service—" said Bertrand. He bowed courteously to Aimee's father. "Lord Scroope, I presume."

"You," said Lady Erythea to Bertrand, trembling with wrath, "were

"You Were Also in This Conspiracy."

also in this conspiracy! You appear to know the whole story!"

"Oh, of course he knows it," said Aimee, wildly, "just as Billy knew it, and Georgina, and Diana, too. They all did their best for me—right from the beginning. I wasn't worth it—but they did."

"It seems," said Lady Erythea, gripping the back of a chair, "that everyone in my household knew all about this—except myself and my nephew! Who, through his position and his innocence, now finds himself—"

"I beg your pardon, Aunt," said Alexander, pallid but calm, "I, also, knew everything that was to be known—from the moment Aimee entered this house. I knew that Georgina—was Georgina. I am as culpable as any."

Lady Erythea stared at her nephew blankly. A curious expression came into her eyes. At last she seemed to detect in Alexander the one thing she had believed was lacking—the touch of the original Adam. But Lord Scroope's face hardened.

"You!" he said grimly. "You also knew the truth? The action of the others, I can understand. But—a Churchman cannot lend himself to such a conspiracy as this."

"Under correction, Lord Scroope," said de Jussac gently; "a gentleman cannot betray a woman's confidence without her consent."

Lord Scroope winced perceptibly. He turned to de Jussac and bowed.

"Am I receiving instruction from a layman?" he inquired.

"It is the last thing I would dare," replied Bertrand humbly. "It is I who seek instruction. Does not the Church respect the seal of the confessional?"

"I make no claim, and no excuses!" said Alexander suddenly. "I have only this to say. I loved Georgina Berners from the day I saw her. When I learned the real position I loved her more. Her loyalty and devotion only increased my esteem. She is the only woman living that I care for; I require you to remember that she is my promised wife. And nobody in this room," said Alexander hotly, "shall address one word of reproach to her!"

"Well done!" cried Aimee. "Alexander, you're a man. I'm proud of you, cousin!"

"Thank you, Aimee," said Alexander. "It is for me," said Lord Scroope sternly, "to apportion the blame. Georgina Berners is here under—"

He was interrupted by the volcanic arrival of Billy through the window, panting and eager, the tuft of hair on top of his head erect like the crest of a cockatoo.

"I've been looking for you everywhere!" he cried. "You—"

"Go out!" said Lady Erythea fiercely.

"Pardon me," said Billy, advancing, "but I guess my place is here. Whatever blame is, I take it. Lord Scroope, I know that what I've done is past apology, but—"

"Shut up, Billy!" exclaimed Aimee. "I've told them everything—I've said all there is to say. And," she added, under her breath, "for once I think I've made a better hand of it than you could."

Before anyone could reply, Georgina rose, sobbing, and made a dive for the door.

"Let me go!" she said brokenly. "I want to go away. I want to go—"

Billy, glancing quickly from her to Aimee and Lord Scroope, turned and flitted out again through the window. No one noticed him. All eyes were on Georgina.

Alexander intervened—but it was Lady Erythea who, with an extraordinarily determined movement, overtook Georgina. Passing a supporting arm round the girl's waist, she turned and faced the stupefied company.

"Let me remind you all," said Lady Erythea, in a voice that compelled silence, "of one thing that is in danger of being overlooked. I am mistress here at Jervaulx! I have listened with an unexampled patience. Hold your tongue, Anthony! I have welcomed the alliance of Georgina with this family, and Alexander will have such a wife as I myself would have chosen for him. Georgina, your only fault is your devotion to the mad creature there, and for that I give you absolution. I require direction from no one—your marriage with my nephew shall take place as soon as possible."

"Aunt!" exclaimed Mr. Lambe, joyously, "I—"

"Do not interrupt me, Alexander!" said his aunt. She turned to Aimee.

"As for you," continued Lady Erythea, icily, "I really find myself in your debt. I can never be sufficiently thankful that you did not come here as my guest, and that Alexander was spared your authorized companionship! One shudders to reflect on the possibilities.

"You appear to have enlisted the services of everyone but me to shield your disreputable escapade, and to have enrolled many simple-minded persons in your defense. You may have deluded these men," said Lady Erythea, with a scornful wave of her hand towards the company, "but you do not delude me! I find in you no qualities but selfishness and deceit—and I am glad that your sojourn in my house has been confined to the servants' hall, though I dread to think what your influence may have been on my domestics, from whom I require honesty and decency."

Aimee, very white, suddenly broke into a flood of tears. The next moment Lord Scroope had his arm around her and held her to him.

"Not another word, Erythea!" he said sternly. "You have had provocation—but you have said enough and much more than enough. Gentlemen, I thank you for what you have done on my daughter's behalf. And you, too, Georgina. Come, Aimee, little girl. Let us go home."

He led her away; Aimee clung to her father, sobbing as she went. Before they reached the door it was opened quickly, admitting Billy, who closed it again. Over his arm was a long hooded driving cloak of Lady Erythea's, ravished from the lobby.

"Put this on!" he said to Aimee.

"Billy," she gulped, darting at it, "you think of everything."

In a moment the cloak covered the parlor maid's dress and the hood was drawn over her cap. Lord Scroope stared in surprise at Billy.

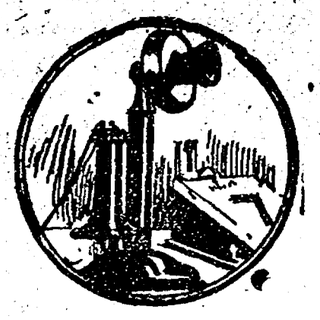
"I've told your chauffeur, sir," said Billy, "to bring the auto round to this side—I thought you would like to avoid the front and the servants."

As he spoke the big motor slid to a standstill on the drive opposite the windows.

"Mr. Spencer," said Lord Scroope, looking at him judgingly, "I include you in my thanks."

Mr. Spencer bowed and passed out quickly through the window. He was holding the door of the car open when Aimee and her father got in. He snapped the door to, and, stepping to the front, spoke in an undertone to the chauffeur.

Continued next week.



Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Mrs. Wm. Meyer and daughter, Mrs. L. Aweve, and children, from Chicago, are visiting this week at the Ben Smith and Mrs. P. Steenblock homes.

Mrs. J. H. Fetrow returned from Red Oak, and other points in Iowa, last Thursday. She had been visiting relatives and friends for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rorick, from Ocean Park, California, were guests at the W. C. Tyrrell, Jr., home last Wednesday. From here they went to Okoboji, Saturday, to visit Cap. Tyrrell and other relatives who are enjoying a vacation there for a few weeks.

The C. N. Reese building is progressing nicely, and the walls are now up. When completed, this building will be one of the best looking business establishments in Belmond, and the post office, to be moved into the west half, will be in fine quarters.

Art Hill is coming along nicely on his new building, and will have it completed within schedule time. The Jones Harness Co. will occupy a part of it when completed, the Boughton Second Hand store moving to the present quarters of the Jones Harness Co.

Jack Neal, of Mason City, was greeting old friends here last Thursday. He was formerly a resident of this place.

Mrs. A. O. Hereim of Roland is spending a month at the home of her son, T. A. Hereim, and family.

Tom Greenwood was the lucky winner of the diamond ring, given away by the show troupe here last week.

The Harvey church, between Belmond and Clarion, a land mark for many years, is to be sold at auction in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. John Purcell from Michigan and Mrs. Gertie Steinhelfer of California, left for Bradley the first of the week after a visit at the home of their sister, Mrs. A. C. Meyers. They were entertained at dinner, Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stadtlander.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

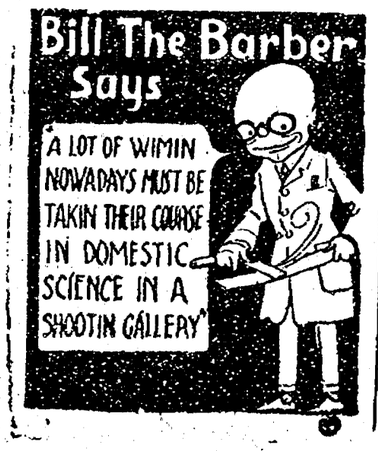
Mrs. Anna Case is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Berry, at Chicago, and other relatives and friends in Wisconsin, this week. She expects to be gone about a month, and during her absence Miss Helen Hildebrand is acting as librarian.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leonard, and son Ralph, of Swaledale, were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meyers, and family, of Indianola, have been visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity the past week.

Last Friday the Griesy family drove to Clear Lake where they enjoyed a family reunion and picnic dinner. In the afternoon they drove to Mason City, from which place Mrs. Floyd Lewis returned to her home at Tracy, Minnesota

Miss Mildred Ericson of Nevada left Saturday for her home, after spending three weeks at the homes of T. A. Hereim and E. O. Munson.



HEMSTITCHING

Hemstitching done at the Gift Shop, Black and white cotton thread furnished. Ten and 15 cents per yard. 30tfc

NOTICE!

AUTO DRIVERS NOTICE!

All automobiles hereafter must have head and tail lights according to law, and cut out closed inside the city limits.

B. J. FINN, Marshal.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Bargain of Bargains! Lot 66x140; good 7-room house, and out buildings, $2,050; one-half cash. Belmond.—Wolle Land Co. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gfeller drove to Story County, Saturday, on business and to visit friends.

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons.

J. M. Sampson is visiting his wife and relatives at Fairmont, Minnesota, a few days.

L. O. Skovlin and C. T. Enger were business callers at Mason City on Monday.

Dr. Kruse and wife, of the Park hospital at Mason City, arrived Tuesday night for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hajo Pals. Mr. Pals and Mr. Kruse are cousins. The latter came over from Germany about a year ago.

Your cows will give more milk if you use Dr. Hess Fly Chaser. The best on the market. $1.50 per gallon. Fly Sprayers 50 cents each.—Schultz Drug. Co. 362c

Mrs. M. H. Lord arrived Wednesday of last week from Minneapolis, on a combined pleasure and business trip. She was a resident of Belmond for many years

There are rumors of an approaching marriage to take place in the near future.

Mrs. John Lieuwen, who has been quite ill the past week or so, is reported much better.

Fred Bohning, who attends summer school at the Iowa State Teachers College at Cedar Falls, spent the week end at the home of his parents.

Miss Alyce Ersland leaves Tuesday for Des Moines, where she will take up some business.

Miss Agnes Dillon returned home last Thursday from Illinois, where she accompanied Miss Edna Stedman shortly after school was out.

Cato Griesy was a business caller at Fort Dodge on Tuesday.

C. O. Fitts was a caller Tuesday at Iowa Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Young and Dr. Russell and family left last Friday on their camping trip. They expected to go to Ipswich, S. D., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tracy.

E. F. Bailey has the contract for graveling the roads at Clarion, and is laying a spur of track at the M. & St. L. to his pit, just east of the Klemme cement plant.

Mrs. Ernest Stapley and family enjoyed a visit Sunday from her uncle and family, of Iowa Falls, who drove up.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Collins left Tuesday by auto for northern Wisconsin, where they will spend about 10 days visiting relatives.

Mrs. Warneke, formerly Miss Edna Buchanan, of Oelwein and her sister, Ruth, are visiting their mother here this week.

Mrs. Nelson and daughters from Fort Dodge, are visiting at the home of Tolford Thompson and with the Adolph Thompson family.

Mr. and Mrs Chris Kragh and daughter, and Miss Leula Polhemus, autoed to West Bend, Sunday, to see the famous grotto.

Mrs. Bernard Mennenga, of Mason City, was visiting old friends here Tuesday.

Mrs. L. Collins was a visitor at Mason City on Sunday, at the Dietz home.

Mrs. John Robbins entertained a sister and her husband, and a brother and wife, from Hazelton, Iowa, over the week end.

Chas. Gealow was a business caller at Waterloo on Tuesday.

Carl Wenzel, of Cedar Rapids, came Saturday on a combined business and pleasure trip. He and his wife expect to move to Belmond this fall.

Mrs. Lyman Steenblock's mother and brother from Lincoln, Nebraska, came Monday to be with her during her stay here. Mrs. Steenblock is the lady injured in the automobile accident last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morse entertained their son, David, who lives in Minnesota, Sunday.

Miss Jennie Groen spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Groen.

Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell, Jr., and son, William, went to Colorado last week for a few weeks' stay.

HOME BAKING

Leave your orders at house, on Main street, between Lyric theatre and garage.

Mrs. E. McCallum.

Wm. Stadtlander, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stadtlander, celebrated his seventh birthday July 12.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hall all of Roland, spent the week end at the home of T. A. Hereim.

John Butterfield and wife drove to Hampton on business, Tuesday.

Miss Rena Purdy entertained a number of friends at bridge on Monday evening.

Miss Jean Wolcott from Des Moines, came Wednesday to attend the Home Coming Day.

Henry Saatoff went to Minneapolis, Wednesday, to attend the Twin Cities barber school. He will be gone six or eight weeks. Mrs. Saatoff will remain here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Gartin, while he is away.

Workman are repairing the dam in the river, preparatory to the ice harvest next winter.

The Great Western has employed Tom Bayliss as flagman at the crossing west of town. He will stay there until a signal can be installed in place of the present bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Colby enjoyed a visit last week from their son, Fred, who is an officer in the army.

Edd Webb was traffic cop Saturday evening, stationed at the corner of Grant Tracy's, on the Wilson highway. He halted a number who were running without tail lights or with only one headlight. He had a carload of scared ladies for one of his orders, who thought they were being pinched.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—One and three-quarters h. p. gasolene engine, in fine shape. Inquire at Independent.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—One three-burner kerosene stove, new. Inquire at Independent.

For Sale—5-room cottage, six blocks north of Main Street, on the Wilson Highway. Electric lights, furnace and basement. Inquire of A. J. Nihoof, Phone 176 1-3, Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—One very good 16-year-old boy's suit.—New Belmond Tailor Shop.

LOST AND FOUND

Lost—30 x 3 1-2 casing and rim. Finder please leave at Independent office for reward. 361c

Wanted—Work by the day, by two ladies. Inquire at the Independent. 363*

Sunday, all day, a continuous string of cars were going down the south road, filled with people going to view the wreck of the Reo auto destroyed in the accident last Saturday afternoon. The remains of the car were an object lesson to the speeding drivers, but it is a question whether they will remember it for any length of time.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

FALL TERM SEPT. 4
New catalog just off the press. Write for it.
Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

Buy by Comparison

When you purchase a suit or several yards of cloth you naturally make comparisons. Why not do the same when buying an automobile?

Compare the Overland engine, disc clutch and transmission in one unit with all working parts protected from mud and dirt, the floating axle with removable shafts--the same as highest priced cars.

No other light car uses such heavy axles, spindles, steering knuckles and rods, one and one-half inch axle shafts or a heavier frame. The ring gear used in the Overland weighs as much as two in another popular car and nine Timken and New Departure bearings are used in the front and rear axles.

"Drive an Overland and realize the difference."

Nordschow Motor ompany
Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Roosters	07c
Broilers, 1 1-2 to 2 lbs.	27c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	18c
Cream	34c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	29c
Corn	72c

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, JULY 30

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

GOODYEAR Service Station

THERE is a difference in tires. Only the new Goodyear Cord Tire is made of highest-grade, long-staple, high-tensile cotton, built up by the Goodyear patented group-ply method, and equipped with heavier sidewalls and the beveled All-Weather Tread. The difference shows in the Goodyear's longer wear and lower cost per mile.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

NOBODY disputes the merit of clothes made-to-order. But many men hesitate because they think it costs more. WE SAY NO. There's a lot of satisfaction, too, in being able to say "This suit was made for me."

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Threshing Time

Is now on hand and we have secured an especially good grade of Young Fat Steers and Heifers

for your wants in Fresh Beef.

Remember our complete line of

Fresh Groceries

All new stock---just put in.

Fresh Fruits

Refrigerated

PEACHES PEARS PLUMS

Cantaloupes and Really Cold Watermelons

This is the last week in July to get in on the Cash Refund Day.

Save the Receipts

The winning date will be announced

NEXT WEEK!

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1923 | NO. 37

Missouri Sheriff Gets Own Kin For Forgery

Man Who Left Car At Rowan Last Week Turns Out To Be Forger Also.

OTHER COURT NEWS NOTES

Last week Sheriff Frank Haight of Montgomery county, Mo., made an official visit to Mason City in search of his son-in-law, L. L. Alderson. This is the fellow who stole the Ford automobile in Missouri and drove it to Rowan, then went to the telegraph office and notified the owner where he could find his car. Before leaving Missouri he is alleged to have cashed a number of checks without proper security in the bank on which they were drawn. It is on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses that he has been arrested. Alderson was found living with his wife and baby in a rooming house in a distant part of Mason City. The Missouri sheriff turned the forger over to the Mason City officials and took his daughter and baby home.

Eva Nelson of Goldfield brings action against M. F. Coons, administrator of the Geo. C. Nelson estate to enforce an oral contract. Plaintiff alleges she was to care for Mr. Nelson during his life time and upon his death his property was to be divided between herself and daughter; that she did care for Mr. Nelson beginning June, 1912; that when he purchased a home in Goldfield, herself and daughter moved to town with him and continued to care for him until his death in February, 1913; that he is the owner of the Goldfield property mentioned, valued at $3,900, also a note for $11,200.00 given in part payment for the farm, and bank deposits amounting to $4,970. Deceased had no living wife or children.

Emmie Landon of Belmond asks for a divorce from her husband, Clarence Landon, alleging cruel treatment.

Burdette Coddington of Eagle Grove alleges his wife, Mattie has deserted him and for that reason is suing for a divorce.

A second divorce case from Eagle Grove is that of Alice Conklin vs. Ray Conklin. Cruel treatment and abusive language in the presence of others is ground for suit.

Ione Middleton of Eagle Grove seeks to collect the sum of $141.50 from C. H. Hanson and wife, said amount alleged to be due for rent.

Marriage licenses were issued to Charles Farrow and Mrs. Katherine Sluter, both of Eagle Grove; Rank Meinders of Belmond and Lottie Beenken of Lakota; Rufus House and Amelia E. Whippermann, both of Grimes.—Monitor.

RUNS OFF GRADE

Tourists ran off the grade on the south side of the Elder bridge, south of town, one day last week. The car bore a Minnesota license, and a Minneapolis name plate. The car evidently got too far to the edge of the road and slipped down the ditch. No damage was done, and the party drove on after a little labor in getting out of the ditch.

THE SPEED COPS'LL GET YOU!

The city is doing some nice work lately in calling down the violators of the auto laws regarding lights and speeding. A number of offenders have been "called" for running with one light, or no tail light, for speeding, and other infractions of the traffic laws. The officials seem determined to enforce reasonably the rules and regulations and are doing it. It behooves all auto drivers to watch their step and keep to a safe speed in the city limits, to watch their lights, and do their part to prevent any regretable accidents.

THORNTON'S BIG DAY AUG. 22

The annual barbecue and "big day" will be held on Wednesday, August 22, this year. The Chamber of Commerce and Farmers' Co-operative Society are co-operating on the affair, which is planned to be one of the best yet. A good ball game will be one of the main attractions, and as usual the crowd will be served free eats. A dance will be held in the evening. Belmond usually sends a goodly sized representation, and doubtless will this year.

Ole T. Rikansrud went to Belmond today, Wednesday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Forristall and family and on Thursday attend the Home Coming Day to be held there.—Reporter.

HOLD AUTO AND TRACTOR SCHOOL

A free school for every owner of an auto, truck or tractor, regardless of what make it may be, will be held by Johnson & Wright tomorrow night, Friday, at the Nordschow garage, two doors south of the Independent. The school will be in charge of representatives of one of the largest tractor manufacturers in the country, and visitors will be shown how to operate their cars, trucks or tractors more economically on oil and gas, how to avoid excessive wear, and many other worthwhile points. Everyone is invited, and everything is free.

MEETINGS OF THE PEG AWAY CLUB

About 20 of the members and friends of the Peg Away club met at the home of Miss Madge Schlieffarth on Tuesday, July 17. Under the leadership of Mrs. Hardwick and Mrs. Tiara work was started on the club caps. The place for the next meeting was decided upon and then the business meeting adjourned. Refreshments were served. Music was rendered by Miss Schlieffarth and Miss Harvey during the social hour.

On Tuesday, July 24 Miss Laura Riley entertained the club at her home two and one-half miles southwest of Belmond. At this meeting the unfinished caps were completed and work was decided upon and planned for the next meeting. A delicious lunch was served by Miss Riley and everyone present thoroly enjoyed the social hour.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Let us make this a family affair. There are classes from cradle roll to granddad's.

Preaching service 11 a. m. We will try and interest all who come to this service.

Epworth League will begin meeting again on August 12th.

Evening service at 8 p. m. Last Sunday evening the electric fans made the church a pleasant place to spend an hour.

The Woman's Foreing Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Ed. Webb on Thursday. Mrs. Wilkinson will lead the lesson. All ladies invited.

The conference will soon be here. The pastor would appreciate it very much if all having subscriptions to the missionary work or the church would pay in to C. C. Benson, our treasurer.

HAS CALL FROM NEW YORK

Rev. Waalkes, of the Immanuel church, east of town, has received a call from Hagaman, New York, to become pastor of the church there. We are not advised whether he has accepted or not, but all Belmond people will hope that he declines. We want men like Rev. Waalkes to stay with us. He has been very successful in his work here, and his going would be a real loss to the community as well as the people of his pastorate.

GIVES FIREMEN FINE PRESENT

W. D. Schlieffarth made the Belmond fire company a present of a ten dollar check last week, as a token of his appreciation for their run to his farm last week when he had a fire. Mr. Schlieffarth greatly appreciated the kindness of the boys, and took this substantial way of showing how he felt. It is a fine idea, one which every farmer who has need of the fire company's services might well follow. The country runs are an accomodation on the part of the boys, who are glad to do it. The company wishes to acknowledge with many thanks the kind contribution of Mr. Schlieffarth to the cause.

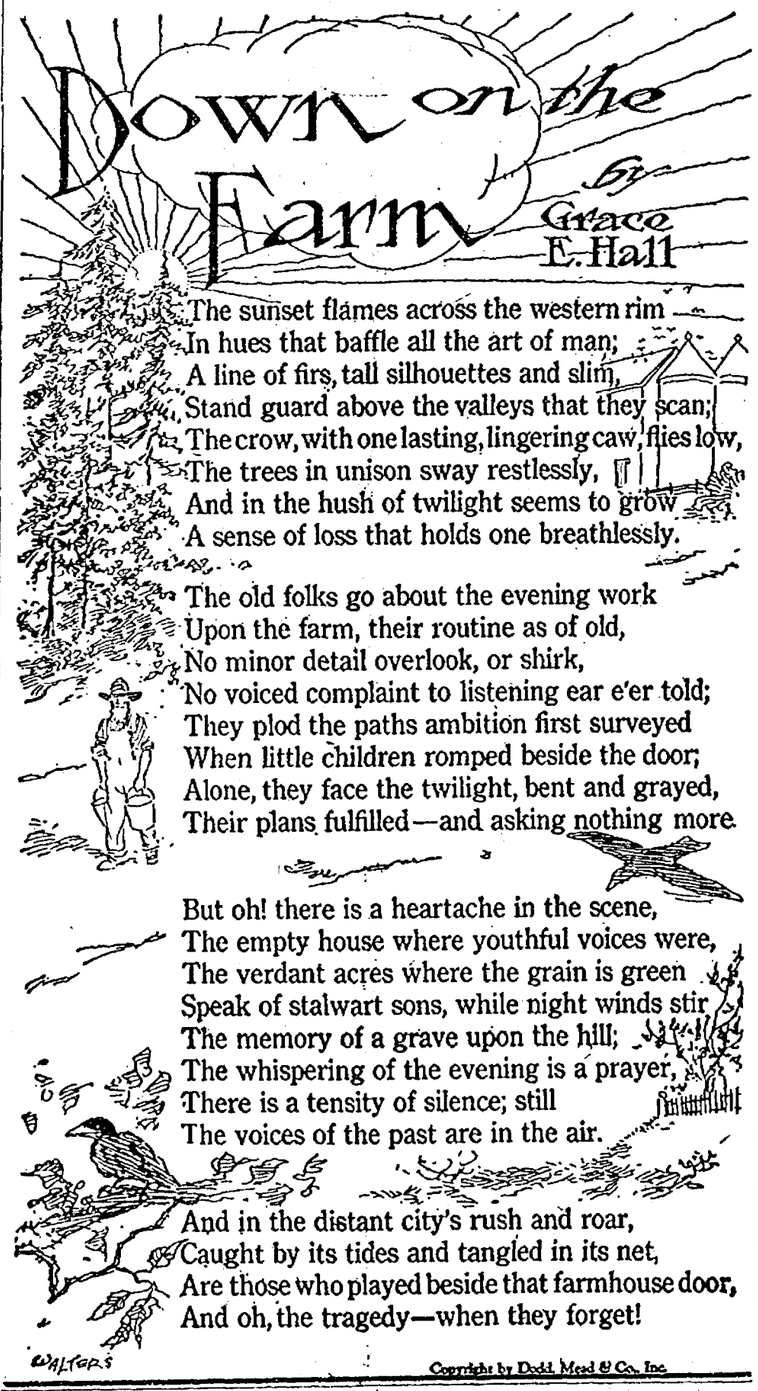
FIRE AT SOLSBERG MONDAY

The men of our town were called out Monday to assist in extinguishing a fire set by the C. G. W. freight near the Solsberg elevator, in a field of oats. While the men were fighting the fire, another blaze started near the O. F. Myers home, threatening the buildings, but with the aid of nearby farmers and a crew from Clarion, the fire was soon put out. About 10 acres of oats belonging to Charlesworth and Shepler were burned.—Rowan Corres.

MEETING IS POSTPONED

The Iowa Township Farm Bureau meeting has been postponed indefinitely on account of threshing.

Old man Rain, who has been away on an extended vacation, came back Tuesday night for a very welcome visit, and as a consequence the growing things are all sprucing up.



STOLEN AUTO IS LEFT AT ROWAN

More considerate than the average automobile thief was the young man who abandoned a Ford at Rowan last week and then wired the car's owner down in Missouri, telling him where he had left it.

The young man gave his name as Louis Addison, when he drove into Rowan with the car. He took it to the Keith garage, where he said he wished to leave it for some time. The car was minus two tires, having been driven on the rims a long ways, and bore other evidence of hard usage. The garage men were suspicious and notified the sheriff's office of the case. Deputy Johnson went to Rowan to investigate and found that Addison had left town but not until he had wired to Troy, Missouri, to David Turnbull, the car's owner, telling him where he could find it. Turnbull arrived in Rowan Friday and took the car home with him.—News.

TO HELP STORE IOWA GRAIN

The Iowa Department of Agriculture has announced that it is ready to help farmers throughout the state in organizing local boards to put into effect the warehousing plan for grain storage adopted during the last legislature.

Secretary R. W. Cassidy said today that this was a particularly advantageous time to take such steps, with Iowa wheat prices making it advisable to hold until an increase in the market.

The printed matter necessary to put into effect the warehousing bill has now been received by the Department of Agriculture and full information regarding the plan may be had upon application to Secretary Cassidy.

STEENBLOCK FUNERAL HELD

Funeral services for Lyman Steenblock were held at the church last Wednesday in charge of the American Legion boys of Dows, Rev. W. N. Bump preaching the sermon. The services were attended by a large number of friends and relatives, the church was packed as well as the yard outside. By actual count eighty five autoes followed the remains to its resting place in the Galt cemetery. The young wife and babe, the parents and relatives have the deepest sympathy of their many friends in the sad accident and bereavement. —Monitor.

Mrs. LuVerne Smith went to Belmond last Thursday evening to visit until the next day with her parents.—Times.

PETITION TO STOP BELMOND FROM KILLING FISH

A petition was circulated at Iowa Falls recently, by the Isaac Walton Club of that city, to stop the beet sugar factory at Belmond from dumping refuse from the beets during the campaign, in the Iowa river. This petition will be presented to the state board of health. It is to be a test of a new law designed to protect Iowa streams from pollution by factories or any other source. The new law was passed last winter by the state legislature and the state board of health has authority to decide whether a stream is being polluted so as to endanger the public health. It has been claimed that the refuse from the Belmond factory was responsible for the death last winter of thousands of fish in the Iowa river below Belmond, altho the fact has never been proven. If it is, the factory officials express perfect willingness to dispose of the beet refuse in some other way.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Sunday morning English services at 10:30. An offering will be received at this service for the church extension. At 3 o'clock a program will be given by the children who have attended the Vocational Bible school. We desire a good congregation at both services. Come and help the good work along.

PLEASANT LASSIES ORGANIZE

The Pleasant township girls met at the Center school Monday and organized the Pleasant Lassies Garment club. Virgie Jenison is the leader, Ethel Thompson president, Gail Thompson sec-treas., and Leola Jenison vice president. They will meet at the Henn home on next week Monday afternoon, August 6th.

THIS MUST BE OUR HENRY

Justice Field held court on Monday afternoon on a misdeameanor charge filed by S. E. Soens against Henry Sporaa. It is alleged by the complainant that the defendant's hogs trespassed upon his property and did damage to the extent of $20.00 as appraised by trustees, and that after locking up the hogs that defendant came and released them without paying damages and without the consent of the complainant. The trial was held in the court room and Justice Field imposed optional fine and costs upon Mr. Sporaa.—Forest City Republican.

B. K. Kinseth was called to Bode, Sunday, by the death of his brother.

KLEMME LADY WINS P. O. JOB

August 5th the Klemme folks will have a lady as head of their post office, when Mrs. Emma Gibbs takes over the duties of the office. She succeeds J. W. Waterman, the present incumbrent, who has been post master for the past nine years at that place.

CAR FIRE AT HAMPTON, SUN.

A tourist car caught fire Sunday at the Standard Oil Service Stion in Hampton, just after the tank had been filled with gasolene. In filling the tank, some of the gasolene had spilled over, and falling down on the hot exhaust pipe started a fire. It was necessary to call out the city fire department to save the car. Damage was slight, only to the seat and cusions.

KOSSUTH COUNTY ORDERS ROAD SIDE SIGNS OUT

The board of supervisors of Kossuth county have ordered all road side posters and signs to be taken down before the first of August. The resolution passed by the board was as follows:

"Notice is hereby given to all parties who have advertising signs located on the public highways of Kossuth county, Iowa, that on or before August 1, 1923, all such signs must be removed from the public highways or steps will be taken by the board of supervisors of this county to remove them."

WANT NATIONAL CO-OP. SUGAR BEET MARKETING

Scotts Bluff, Neb., July 28.—An effort will be made to organize sugar beet growers thruout the country into one great co-operative marketing association as a result of a visit here of Walton Peteet, representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, it was learned today. Mr. Peteet addressed three audiences interested in the beet industry and advised that success could not attend local or restricted growers' associations. As a result the co-operative association of the North Platte valley will start a movement for nationwide marketing agreements, it was stated.—Des Moines Sunday Register.

WALL LAKE GETS SUPPLY OF FISH

Fishermen of northern Iowa will again find Wall Lake an ideal spot for their sport, as the result of the action of the state fish and game department in planting 50,000 black bass in the lake last week.

The work of stocking the lake was under the supervision of Deputy Warden Greiner, of Blairsburg. Black bass were used for Wall Lake because feeding conditions there are best adapted for bass, according to Deputy Greiner.

All of the fish planted were from the state's stock, and many of them were more than half grown. Until recently Wall Lake was one of the state's best fishing grounds, but the supply of fish gradually became exhausted until there were only a few bullheads left. The restocking of the lake will renew its old popularity as a sportsmen's resort.

94 COUNTIES, 24 STATES

Last Sunday five men, stationed in different parts of the city, were given the task of ascertaining how many counties in Iowa, and how many states of the union were represented here by autoes. The reports of all were combined, and it showed that of the ninety-nine counties of Iowa ninety-four were represented here and that of the forty-eight states in the union one-half or twenty-four were represented here.

This is a fine showing, one that we believe could not be duplicated by any other city in Iowa.

Those operating stands, etc., report the best Sunday thus far this season.—Clear Lake Reporter.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid meets in the church parlors.

Saturday morning the class meets at the church at 10 o'clock.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Sunday evening English service at 8 o'clock.

OUR NEW SERIAL STORY

Beginning next week, the Independent starts a new serial story. "The Branding Iron." This story is exceptionally high grade fiction, written by a well known and popular author, and we believe you will like it very much. It is an entirely new angle of the West and of home life, and will give you much food for thought. Read The Branding Iron, beginning next week.

Home Coming Brings Many Old Friends

First Annual Affair Is Success In Every Way And Fine Time Is Enjoyed.

ANOTHER ONE NEXT YEAR

The Home Coming last Thursday, staged under the auspices of the Community Welfare club, was a complete success in every way. It was not planned as a "big day", with lots of noise and excitement, but as a social, home coming day, spent in visiting with the former residents.

Belmond people and the guests of the day started gathering in the city park early in the afternoon. Games and amusements had been arranged by the committee in charge, but the out of town folks preferred to talk with the old friends rather than indulge in the amusements, and spent many happy hours during the afternoon and evening visiting back and forth, comparing notes and talking over old times.

At six o'clock the picnic supper was served, with a great variety of good things prepared by the best cooks in the city. After supper, O. L. Varland led the community singing. Mrs. A. E. Martin, in behalf of the club and the city, welcomed the guests, and in response W. C. Ramsey, Miss Jean Wolcott, Dr. Meyers, H. J. Klemme, and Cap. W. C. Tyrrell gave short talks which were greatly enjoyed.

Miss Betty Pritchard of Garner gave two very good readings. Miss Gladys Barry and Miss Beatrice Leinbach gave excellent readings. A drill, given by ten little girls under the direction of Mrs. George Goelz, was highly enjoyed. The program ended with community singing.

The suggestion was made that a Home Coming Association be formed The suggestion was misunderstood by many. Such an association was to be formed along the lines of the old settlers association at Goldfield, was the idea, which has many points in its favor. The Community club, however, does not favor organizing such an association here, preferring that the old friends and residents of Belmond return as the guests of the town, community, and club. The Home Coming will be made an annual affair, we understand, and the community hopes that next year will see all the former residents and old friends back, with many more.

Those who registered at the Home Coming were:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGuire, of Dubuque.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Connor, of Hampton.

W. C. Tyrrell, Sr., of Beaumont, Texas.

Dr. J. W. Garth, of Beaumont, Texas.

Mrs. F. Miltner, of Iowa City.

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Meyer, from Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGuire, of Mason City.

C. G. Pritchard, of Buffalo Center.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McCurnin, of Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pritchard and daughter Blanch.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ramsey, from Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brooks, of Waverly.

Mrs. Laura Nelson, of Ruthton, Minnesota.

Miss Caroline Uhl, of Mitchellville.

Miss Jean Wolcott, of Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butterfield, of Los Angeles, California.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Graepler, of Dows.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Beckett, of Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McGregor and daughters of Des Moines.

There were a number of other visitors who did not register and whose names the Independent was unable to secure.

SPRENZEL-BEKKER

Mrs. Joe Sprenzel and Mr. Eko Bekker were united in marriage on Wednesday evening of last week, the Rev. A. H. Waalkes of the Reformed church performing the ceremony. The newly weds are residing in the bride's residence in north Belmond.

OUR NEW POEMS

Beginning this week, the Independent starts a series of poems by Grace Hall. These poems are of the better class of poetry, and we believe our readers will enjoy them more than cartoons. Read them, and tell us what you think of them and how you like the new feature.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription price $1.50 per year in advance; $2.00 on time.
$2.00 per year outside state of Iowa

CIRCULATION OVER 1,000

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents.)

1923 AUGUST 1923

SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

Editorials

THE NEXT GOVERNOR

At the Home Coming Celebration, our fellow townsman, Walter C. Ramsay, was introduced as "Iowa's next Governor."

Well, why not? No one will gainsay that Walt has the ability to handle the job. His record as secretary of state for Iowa is sufficient proof of that. Going into an office that had been shot to pieces by politics, he has created an efficient, smooth working piece of governmental machinery that is going and has given the people of Iowa a sound, substantial service.

His record as postmaster here was perfect. Government inspectors said they had never found an office with a better, cleaner record.

Walt is capable, earnest, and efficient. He has executive ability of the highest order, something which, as governor, would be of immense value to the people. He knows how, and he sees that things are done right. He has been in the game for a good many years, he knows the ropes from A to Z. He has been a staunch republican all his life.

The people of Iowa would have a mighty good executive in Mr. Ramsay, and should Gov. Kendall refuse to run again, as it is reported he will not, Ramsay will be a strong contender for the honors, and a man whom Iowa should give serious consideration.

HALF A MILLION FOR A FIGHT

When big Jess Willard, the Kansas Giant, and Louis Angel Firpo, the Bull of the Pampas, had their argument at Boyles Thirty Acres July 12, one hundred thousand people paid half a million dollars to see which man could take the hardest beating.

When Jack Dempsey pounded Tom-Gibbons to a pulp, July 4th, at Shelby, Montana, nearly three hundred thousand dollars was paid to see the fuss.

When Dempsey and Firpo meet in September to maul each other around the squared ring, it is estimated that a million cold, round, hard dollars will be paid to watch the fight.

Doesn't it seem as tho; considering the times and the tight pinch this country has just gone through, that the American people need to do quite a bit of thinking? When the farmer must work sixteen hours a day to raise a crop and then get only about what the cost of production came to; when the business man lies awake nights trying to figure out how he is going to come through; when the laboring man sees his hard earned dollar take wings and fly away for the necessities of life, then is it not downright criminal to give one man $300,000 for fighting forty-five minutes? And for the American people to pay that $300,000 to watch him?

Recreation, sports and play is essential, we all know that, but how absolutely wicked to spend so much when thousands are starving here; thousands are without adequate shelter or clothing; when the country has fatherless and motherless children with no protection.

The American people are going pleasure mad. They are spending the money for momentary pleasures which they should apply to their debts, to a safeguard for the future. The pace we are traveling is a fast and furious one. It is the same pace that ancient Rome traveled in her height of fame and strength, and Rome fell. America could read history to advantage.

BELMOND INDEPENDENT IS CASH IN ADVANCE

Humboldt Republican—August 1st the Belmond Independent will go to a cash in advance basis. The Independent is showing excellent judgment, but is going against a hard proposition. It takes a lot of nerve to cut off the name of a personal friend and a man who you know is positively good for several thousand subscription prices. It looks like suicide. The average editor backs up and stutters when he goes against the proposition.

However, the pay in advance plan on all sums as low as newspaper subscriptions, is the only method. When a man don't pay for his newspaper at least once a year, it is simply because he don't want to. If he don't want to pay at the end of thes ubscription, he won't want to pay when the paper is one year in arrears. And if he won't pay when it is a year back, how can he be expected to pay when it is two or three or four years back?

The Republican is cash in advance except to those who ask for credit. Our book-keeper has taken from the list some of the best personal friends the editor has in Humboldt county. When the editor went down to the office and saw those names taken off he received a severe jolt, and he admits that he couldn't have done it himself. But the girl that handles that list knows neither friend or foe. She follows directions, and her directions are to remove the names of all subscribers who neither pay nor ask for credit.

Further, the people are appreciating the change. When they become accustomed to it they like it. No more debts. Everything paid, and stop if not paid at expiration. Don't have to go down to the office and tell the editor you don't want it. Just don't pay for it and it stops. All the good payers come back, and the others go elsewhere.

The editor of the Independent will find he has a hard row to hoe for a few months, but it will win in the end. We know one editor who adopted the cash-in-advance plan and lost one-fourth of his subscribers and took in one-fourth more cash on what he had left than he took in on the big list of pay-as-you-please names before.

LOCALS

Miss Clara Chase is here from Clear Lake, visiting at the home of Edna Bohning and other friends.

Bob Walters autoed to Clear Lake on Sunday to spend the day with Wm. Chase and family. They report the crops up that way suffering from the drought.

Wm. P. Bohning and family spent Sunday at the John Smit home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sarber of Dows are spending a week or two at the home of their son, S. S. Sarber.

Mrs. Pennel enjoyed a visit from some friends from Des Moines on Monday.

H. F. Reif and Marshal Proost of Meservey were business callers here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Collins did not go on their camping trip last week Tuesday as was reported. They are going to Ladysmith, Wisconsin, and left this week Tuesday.

Mrs. Marshall, from Fox Lake, Wisconsin, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Nourse.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Quandt of Klemme were visiting at the Rudy Quandt home on Monday.

Florence Johnson, who has been visiting at the Geo. Hunst home, left for her home in North Dakota on Tuesday. She was accompanied by her grandfather, W. C. Johnson, who has also been visiting in Illinois. Wisconsin and Iowa.

Louis Tokman was a Des Moines visitor on business, Tuesday.

Mrs. Henry Anderson went to Mason City on Tuesday. Her daughter, Miss Francis, who is clerk in a store there, accompanied her home.

Henry Johnson and Geo. Johnson went Monday to the funeral of Henry Johnson's granddaughter, Mrs. Sara Allison, at Silver Springs, North Dakota. Mrs. Allison was burned to death.

Mrs. Fray Frohling started Friday last for California.

M. A. Holtzbauer and children left Tuesday afternoon for Algona, to attend the funeral of Matt's grandfather, whose funeral was held yesterday morning. The old gentleman had reached close to the century mark, being 99 years and four months of age at his death.

In the matter of the Estate of Charles B. Smith, Deceased:

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

The undersigned executor of the above entitled estate was on the 19th day of June, 1923, authorized by the District Court of Wright County, Iowa, to sell the real estate belonging to the above estate at public sale to the highest bidder, consisting of 300 acres, and said executor by virtue of said order of court and terms of the will of said decedent will on the 20th day of August, 1923, at two o'clock p. m. upon the premises sell to the highest bidder the East Half of Northwest Quarter and the Southwest Quarter of Northeast Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, consisting of 140 acres, and the South east Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, containing 160 acres; said real estate being situated in Pleasant Township, Wright County, Iowa. Said real estate will be sold in two tracts, there being two sets of improvements. Said real estate to be sold for cash terms. $3,000.00 to be paid upon each tract by purchaser upon day of sale, balance to be paid when deed is given and approved by Court. For further particulars see or write the undersigned executor.

CORWIN L. SMITH
Executor of Said Estate. 354

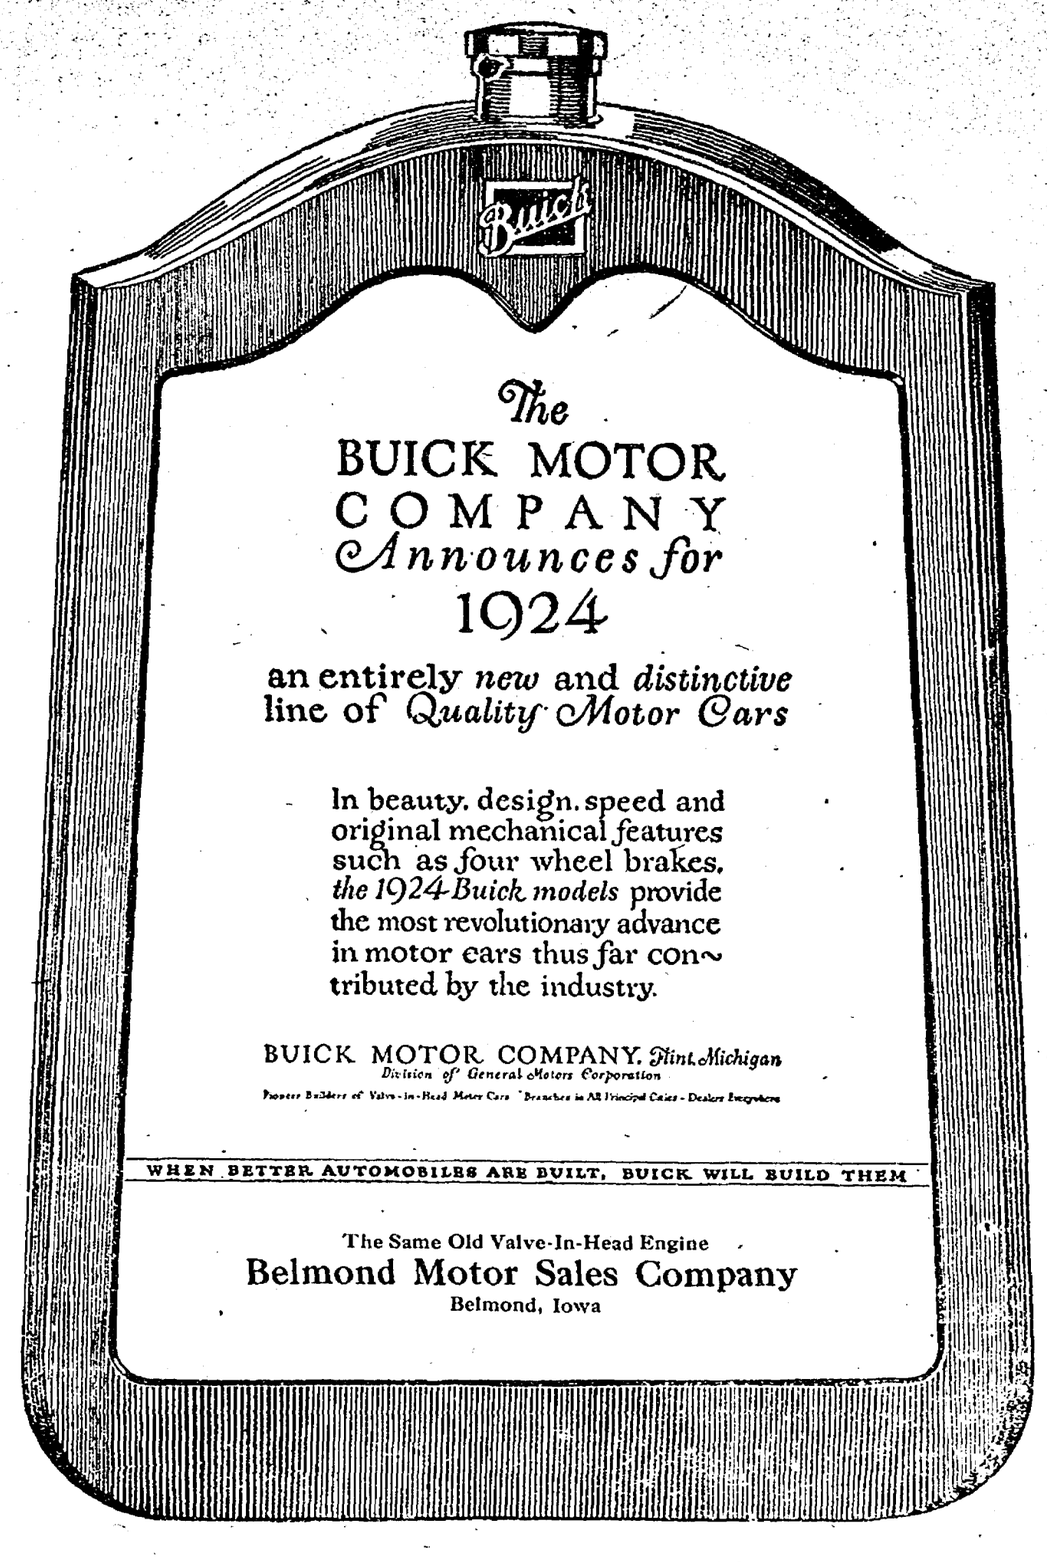
KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Baseball Tournament

At Garner, August 7-8-9

1st Day's Game Called At 1:30 O'clock
Bayside Cubs vs. Gilmore City
PURSE $175
Dows vs. Spencer
PURSE $175
2nd Day's Game Called At 1:30 O'clock
Losers of 1st Day's Games
PURSE $200
Winners of 1st Day's Games
PURSE $200
3rd Day's Game Called At 2:30 O'clock
Winners of 2nd Day's Games
PURSE $250



The BUICK MOTOR COMPANY Announces for 1924

an entirely new and distinctive line of Quality Motor Cars

In beauty, design, speed and original mechanical features such as four wheel brakes, the 1924 Buick models provide the most revolutionary advance in motor cars thus far contributed by the industry.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, Flint, Michigan
Division of General Motors Corporation
Pioneer Builders of Valve-in-Head Motor Cars - Branches in All Principal Cities - Dealers Everywhere

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

The Same Old Valve-In-Head Engine
Belmond Motor Sales Company
Belmond, Iowa

That Rainy Day Is Bound To Come!

How Will It Find You?

THE wise man or woman who always keeps the future in mind when making present plans, does not worry about "rainy days"---either now or when they come. They are ready.

A number of these wise people have an ever-growing saving account in this strong bank. They will be ready. They will be ready not only for a rainy day but for opportunity as well.

How about you? A savings account in this bank will insure your future---whether the sun shines or not.

There is no time like the present to start saving here.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

FARM BUREAU NOTES

By Conty Agent Edwards

Baseball At County Picnic

Arrangements have been made by J. E. Kirtstein, chairman of the athletic committee on arrangements for the picnic-club exhibit at Eagle Grove, for having a baseball game between Woolstock and Lake townships.

Many of our members have suggested that a ball game between two townships of the county would be of greater interest than to watch two outside teams, the members of which would be unknown to many of our people. For this reason Mr. Kirtstein has arranged for a game between the two townships mentioned. We understand that both townships have real lively baseball teams and the game will, no doubt, be rather close.

Movies For Boys and Girls

Special arrangements have been made by the program committee for entertaining the boys and girls of the county at the county picnic by showing a couple reels of special club pictures, also one or two comic reels.

Through the kindness of the business men of Eagle Grove the youngsters will be entertained at an afternoon movie while the older folks are enjoying the address by J. W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who will deliver the principal ddress of the occasion.

This special program of movies has been arranged for all boys and girls who expect to attend the county picnic-club exhibit. Two reels of special club pictures will be shown and one or two comic pictures and all boys and girls, and especially the members of the different clubs of the county, are invited to take in the movie program.

Judge Work At Toyne Farm

Members of the Junior Livestock Judging club met at the Frank Toyne farm, three miles southwest of Rowan, last Tuesday evening where the boys were given opportunity to work on two classes each of sheep and hogs.

G. E. Toyne, who is chairman of the livestock committee on arrangements for the county club exhibit on August 22, made a special effort to arrange good classes for the boys to work on. The boys were entertained by Mr. Toyne by being served to ice cream and cake after the judging contest.

Members of the judging team are now making plans to attend the state-wide junior livestock judging contest which will be held at Ames on Saturday, August 11th. The boys are being invited to this judging contest by Prof. H. H. Kildee, head of the animal husbandry department at the college.

Store That Surplus Wheat

The American Farm Bureau Federation has worked out a definite and comprehensive plan for storing surplus wheat on farms and financig it under the new Intermediate Credit and Warehouse Acts. The plan was proposed by Gray Silver, Washington representative, before the Southwestern Wheat conference in Wichita, Kansas, and was endorsed there last week. Minnesota is the first state farm bureau to approve the plan.

The American federation believes that co-operative marketing is the ultimate solution to the national wheat price problem. They are now at work on a national co-operative grain marketing policy being formulated upon instructions from the members. Under this plan the growers of the nation will in effect place their grain in a common bin and will merchandise it in an orderly way over the consumptive period, instead of dumping it on an already overloaded market during the four months following harvest. Co-operativo marketing of wheat will unquestionably solve the price problem to the benefit of both producer and consumer. But except in a few sections, the southwest and the northwest, co-operative marketing is not ready to meet the present wheat crisis.

Fortunately we have ready at hand the machinery which, if permitted to function, will enable our farmers to store their wheat and hold it for orderly distribution. We refer to the intermediate farm credit, provided by the last session of congress at the insistence of the farm bureau and the farm bloc, to be used in conjunction with the amended U. S. Warehouse Act.

Debate Question Announced

The question chosen for the 1923-1924 state wide farmers' debate is "Resolved that a state board of assessment and review, county assessors, local budget boards and a state budget board should be provided by law."

This question has been selected in response to very general request that next winter's debate be one relative to taxation and the administration of public finance.

Plans are being made o enter a debating team from Wright county in the state-wide debate this year. It would seem that the question for debate which has been announced ought to bring out an unlimited amount of information on both sides of the issue.

Time To Cull

If every flock of poultry in Iowa could be thoroughly culled once every thirty days beginning the last of June or first part of July, the saving would run into millions of dollars. The first saving would be in the fact that poultry prices are usually higher earlier in the season than later; second, culls that are not capable of producing eggs would be eliminated and this feed saved for good producers; third, the loss from disease would be practically eliminated as disease first affects the birds of low vitality and then often quickly spreads to the rest of the flock.

Another great saving could be made in the poultry management if our birds were fed more liberally during the summer season. Fresh water and a well balanced mash will help to keep the hens laying. At this time of year few worms are available and the grass is tough so that the birds do not get much nourishment from it. A mash made of one part ground corn. two parts ground oats, one part tankage, placed before the birds in a self feeder would be a profitable investment, and we are looking for profits.

Don't forget the mites and lice. Sodium fluoride kills lice and if the oil is drained from the auto crank case often and the hen house sprayed with it, both the auto and the poultry will be benefited thereby.

Poultry Lice and Mites

In spite of the fact that remedies for destroying these pests have been given repeatedly, people are still asking what is the best treatment for them.

For lice use sodium fluoride. A mixture of one part sodium fluoride and two parts road dust, cement, flour, talcum powder, or any such substance well dusted into the feathers of the birds will rid them of lice. A talcumized sodium fluoride is made by the Burrell-Dugger company and has been found to be very effective in ridding poultry of lice. We understand care must be taken in using this product on turkeys, as it has been known to kill young turkeys when too much is used.

For mites one of the best remedies is a thorough cleaning of the poultry house and spraying with gas drips. These can be procured at the gas plant at a very nominal charge. Thoroughness in the use of this material being absolutely sure to cover all parts and have all cracks and crevices filled is essential to success. Carbolineum which can be bought of your druggist or hardware dealer is very effective; or one part of stock dip and two parts of kerosene, thoroughly sprayed over the hen house and roosts will keep the mites in control.

AFRAID OF TUBERCULOSIS SO HE KILLED HIS CHICKENS

The editor of the Tripoli Leader is very enthusiastic about stamping out tuberculosis, and knows that the disease appears in chickens as well as in cattle and humans. He was told that a chicken afflicted with tuberculosis would first go lame, hobble around for a short time, and then die of tuberculosis. Therefore he kept a close watch for lame chickens.

In the mean time it must be stated that the editor of the Leader is a chicken enthusiast. He has a blooded flock, and is very proud of his birds. But he does not want any tuberculosis in his.

Last spring his best laying pullet went lame. He promptly chopped her head off and burned her carcass. Shortly after another fancy pullet went lame, and there was another slaughter and cremation. This kept up until the flock was pretty well cleaned out. At last, however, he decided to give the carcass of a chicken to the local veterinarian to discover just how much tuberculosis there was in the bird. What was his dismay and chagrin to have the veterinarian tell him that his bird did not show a sign of tuberculosis, but that it was suffering with bumble-foot, a disease caused by the chicken jumping from a high perch every morning and alighting on a cement floor. Now he puts a straw covering over his cement floor, and has no more lame chickens—and no more tuberculosis.—Humboldt Republican.

THE EDITOR LEADS THE WAY

The Chief of the Division of Rural Schools, U. S. Bureau of Education, has a word to say in appreciation of what the country editor does for the schools:

"The editor gives freely the use of his columns for the publication of all news items relating to education in the territory covered by his paper. He leads the movement for the establishment of the county agricultural high school. He points the way to school consolidation in sections of the county where several districts can unite to have one good school with high school grades. He voices the demand of the people of the outlying districts for modern schoolhouses, for improved school methods, with better pay for better teachers. He advocates the use of the schoolhouse as a community center where the people can get together, not only to talk over school progress but to discuss the many subjects relating to better farming. The editor is the best friend of the boys' and girls' clubs, which generally start in the schools, and will print any number of items about the best acre of corn, the best pigs, the best chickens and the largest tomatoes raised by club members. And all this is free."

HOME TOWN COMMANDMENTS

Thou shalt honor thy home town with a neighborhood house. Thou shalt meet they neighbors there on equal footing. Thou shalt work with them for the common welfare. Thou shalt play with them there with all thy heart and strength and mind. Thou shalt know thy fellows better and they friendships shall multiply.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Kinseth's Store News

My, wasn't that a nice rain we had Tuesday night! Makes you feel more cheerful and optimistic, doesn't it? Maybe now we'll have a good crop of corn, and maybe we'll get a good price for it, too. Things sure do look cheerful after a rain!

—K—

And the prices in our store are cheerful ones too; they bring that famous smile that won't come off, and start you on the road to Wiseville where the college of wisdom is located that teaches you how to be a wise one. There's Peerless Flour for instance, in 24 1-2 pound sacks at 95c, and 49 pound lots at $1.78. And it makes bread just like mother used to make. Why pay more?

—K—

We guarantee Peerless, and will refund your money if any sack you get isn't satisfactory. Isn't that a fair deal?

—K—

Those gallon fruits, all kinds, at 98c are a bargain from 'way back. Have you got yours yet?

—K—

Fresh peaches for canning are in now. Got 'em in boxes, and pears in baskets. Call us up—19—and place your order early. We expect that they will go fast.

—K—

Just received a shipment of oilcloth in colors which we are selling at the low price of 35c a yard. It makes a nice covering for the kitchen table, or to put behind the oil stove to prevent grease from spattering on the wall, or for a hundred other purposes. If you can use a piece, look this stock over.

—K—

Men's dress socks at 18c a pair, in brown and black.

—K—

Remember that we are open every evening, that we have bargains at all times, that it pays to be a wise one, and for goodness' sake try the Store on the Corner. Ask your neighbor—she knows!

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, AUGUST 2, 1923. No. 19.

This week we are not going to talk to you about any certain thing we have to sell, but are just going to say a few words about you and us and friendship and service.

Service is badly overworked in most ways. It is something you hear a lot about, but don't always see. We want to give you service, of course, and we want to give good service. By that, we mean in any way we can. Not just in the lines we carry, but in all lines. If you want an errand done on the street, call 10 and we'll be glad to do it. It will be a favor, and we'll appreciate it. We want our service to be as good as our goods, and both are the best to be had.

Use them! Many are, why not you as well? We are not in business just for the dollar, but for the service we can give and the fun we can get out of it as well. We consider you all our friends. We want to do for you the things a friend should do. Your friendship is our best asset, and we are mighty proud of it.

We want you to make our store your headquarters while in town. It will make us happy to have you here and you have a standing invitation. Consider us your friend; let us do friendly acts to prove we are your friend, to serve you as you would serve your friends. It has been said there is no friendship in business, but in our business we want friendship to have a big part. We will not sell you an inferior article and thus take advantage of friendship; we do not look at friendship that way. To us, friendship means that anything we sell you has got to be genuine and worth the money, or it won't be sold, that's all. To sell you something that was no good would not leave a very friendly feeling on your part, would it? Surely not!

So we ask you all to come in any time, and to feel that Griesy's is a friendly place. You do not have to be a customer, or even to know us personally, to receive our service. It is yours freely and with all good will. Our Service Is At Your Service. May we serve you.

Belmond Local News

Mrs. Amy Case Peterson is visiting for a few days at Spirit Lake, at the C. W. Peterson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Townsan are the parents of a baby boy, born to them Thursday, July 19.

The new buildings on Main street, the C. N. Reese double building and the A. W. Hill garage building, are making rapid progress, and vastly improve the appearance of this end of the busine s section.

Miss Josie Gealow left last Friday evening for Washington, D. C., after a month's vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gealow.

The usual crowd was in attendance at the band concert Saturday night. Many visitors from surrounding towns were in evidence, proof that the entertainment draws the crowds.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Stacy and family drove to Hampton, Saturday afternoon, where they spent the week end with relatives.

Have you tried some of Belmond's newest product—potato chips? They are being made by E. M. Schmidt, who presented ye Ed with a sample Saturday. We arise to remark that these chips are the cat's whiskers, and certainly hold up to their slogan, "They Taste Better."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fetrow moved last week from the Steinlicht house in south Belmond to the John Greenlander house, formerly occupied by F. E. Purcells.

Miss Mildred Gealow, of Meservey, spent the week-end in Belmond, visiting relatives.

Irving Madsen, who was injured when his auto tipped over near Klemme last week, is conting along nicely, and is able to be up and around the house. Irving's many friends hope to see him about the streets again soon.

Will Kruse is driving a new Dodge sedan, purchased of the Motor Inn Company last week.

Roy Jenison brought his wife and baby home from the Hampton hospital last Friday. Mrs. Jenison recently underwent an operation for acute appendicitis at the hospital. The baby, which was left at home, became ill and was taken to the hospital also. The two patients are recovering nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sampson returned last week from Minnesota, where they were visiting relatives. Mrs. Sampson had been up there a couple of weeks, and Joe went up to bring her home, remaining a few days for a visit. While there he acquired the golf bug, and now talks strokes and greens and putts as fluently as he does farming.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

YOU ALWAYS HAVE A RECEIPT!

THERE WILL BE NO ARGUMENTS OVER BILLS—THERE WILL BE NO HARD BOOKKEEPING—AND YOU KNOW AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE JUST WHERE YOU STAND.

A checking account in this bank is the modern method of personal finance.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

A PROGRAM

Arranged To Please Everybody

- At the -

North Iowa Fair

EDUCATING ENTERTAINING FEATURES

FIREWORK'S SPECTACLE
"INDIA"

EVERY WEEK, AUGUST 13 TO 17

The most elaborate Fireworks production ever attempted with live animals used in the Pageant.

Monday August 13 - Auto Races - Monday August 13

SEVEN DAYS---ONE WEEK
August 11 to 17 Inclusive

MESERVEY SECTION

New Felt Hats are now in, the latest in style, shape and colors.—Hat Shoppe, Belmond. 1c

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Miss Ona Ulrick left last Tuesday for Ames, where she will remain indefinitely.

For sale or rent, a 4-room house. See W. F. Larson, Meservey, Iowa. 35tfc.

OUR MOTTO—"QUALITY FIRST"

August News

Now that Threshing time is here, we are prepared to fill your orders.

We have Cream and Brick Cheese and Butter, always on ice.

A good supply of Dried and Canned Fruits, Pickles, Pork and Beans, Salmon, and everything that goes to make up a good threshers' dinner.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

NOTICE!

If you owe us money, this is a good time to settle.

We Need the Money!

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

MONEY

represents human power. It is of vital importance to you whether its force is exerted for or against you. Money saved is your friend, ready to help you when you need help most urgently.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

The Evang. Missionary society met at the home of Mrs. H. Reif, last Thursday p. m., for their regular meeting. Quite a few were present and an interesting meeting was held.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer and two younger children motored to Britt last Thursday to visit friends for the day.

Miss Marie Fischer returned home from Mason City last Friday, having spent several days there taking the teachers' examinations.

Albert Kuhlers, Sr. ,and Klaus Gruis were Mason City callers last Thursday. Mr. Kuhlers returned the same day, Mr. Gruis remaining a few days for medical treatment.

Mrs. Della Prall arrived here the fore part of last week and is visiting at the C. J. Wendell home.

Mrs. C. E. Brogan and baby of Garner were visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity last week.

A. J. Nissen returned last Thursday from Milwaukee, where he had spent a few days attending a life insurance convention.

Mrs. Abbes, of Ackley, visited at the B. Gruis home several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Heiko Kuhlers, son Henry and daughter Miss Dena, were business callers at Fort Dodge one day the fore part of last week.

Mrs. Muller was a Thornton caller last Friday between trains.

JUST TELL THE MEN THAT YOU GOT YOUR THRESHING AND LUNCH MEATS FROM WAAGE & RUITER AND YOU WILL HAVE A SATISFIED CREW.

We have the best butter on hand.

We buy Cream

We Deliver Threshing Meat

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Redeker of St. Paul visited with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Laube, last week.

Bernard LaDassor, of Nevada, this state, is a guest of F. A. Lemke.

A. E. Muller and family visited Donald at the Boy Scouts camp at Ventura Heights, several evenings last week. Mr. and Mrs. S. Hulsebus accompanied them on Tuesday evening and on Friday evening Orvis and Dorothy Schlosselman and Marvin Nissen.

Joe Meci and a friend from Fort Dodge were business callers here on Thursday last.

Miss Bertha Thorman of Belmond began her work as instructor of piano here again last week, after an absence of about six weeks, having been in Milwaukee during that time.

Among the exhibitors at the North Iowa fair this year will be Heiko Janssen of Thornton, who will show his herd of Hampshire swine, and R. O. Clemmons who will show some Duroc Jerseys.

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons, Belmond.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone—Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

.....WHEN IN NEED OF.....

Quality Lumber and Millwork
Coal, Salt, Drain Tile
Building Blocks, Floor Blocks
Steel Gates, Can't Sag Gates
Woven Wire, Steel and Cedar Posts
Screen Doors, Window Screens
Lime, Cement, Etc.

See Us and Save Money

IOWA AUTOMATIC HOG DOOR
Try One

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

ENCAMPMENT ENDED

The Boy Scout activities at Ventura Heights were progressing nicely and great interest was taken in behalf of the boys during their 10-days' encampment. County executive Fred Thomas had charge and various speakers from Mason City and Clear Lake were present to address the boys, and many visitors attended the council fires which were held each evening.

The Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary clubs of Mason City and Clear Lake were also represented at different times. On Monday evening of this week, C. H. McNider, Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Stillman and the Rev. Tandy were among the principal speakers. We think this organization a good and grand thing for our boys, and are in hopes more of our local boys will be able to attend next year's encampment, which we understand will be held later so that more of our farm boys will be enabled to participate.

Mrs. Mary Butz received word last Monday of the death of her brother, Dan Knoll, who resided with his family at Spokane, Wash. Mr. Knoll formerly lived in this vicinity and will be remembered by many here who sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Janssen were calling on friends in Klemme on last Sunday.

Mrs. Schroedemeier, her son Arthur and the Misses Koenig of Waverly motored to this place Sunday and visited the Raecker and H. Fischer families. The young folks returned home the same day, Mrs. Schroedemeier remaining for a longer visit.

C. J. Wendell and wife, and Mrs. Della Prall, went to Mason City last Monday. Mrs. Wendell entered the Park hospital, where she will remain indefintely.

Herman, Marie, Agnes, and Franklin Fischer left last Mosday via the auto route for Des Moines, where they will spend the week visiting relatives. Rev. Raecker, Sr., accompanied them and will make a short stay at Colfax.

Ferd Lemke, Bernard LaDassor and Dale Smith visited the Boy Scouts camp at Ventura Heights on Sunday p. m.

Fred Menzel, Herman and Agnes Fischer visited at the Rev. H. Raecker home at Abbott last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Pendarvis and baby and a party of friends from Des Moines stopped here last Sunday p. m. for a short visit with old friends. They were returning home from a week end stay at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Wendell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. Mayers spent last Monday evening at the Lake near Ventura.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Fischer and daughter were Sunday guests at the W. R. Prelipp home.

Mrs. H. Brater was a Mason City business caller last Tuesday.

NEW PARTNER IN HARDWARE

C. J. Wendell has taken in a junior partner in his hardware business, the new partner starting in Tuesday July 31. The new member of the firm is not taking an active part in anything but the management of the business and C. J. so far, being but eight pounds and born Tuesday at the Park hospital in Mason City. You've guessed it—a brand new son of standard weight. Everyone is doing nicely, including C. J., who is managing not to look like much over a million dollars. Henceforth the hardware will be C. J. Wendell & Son.

H. Reif and wife were partakers of country hospitality at the W. F. Butz home last Sunday.

J. F. Zimmerman of Sheffield is in this vicinity this week painting at the Ferd Lemke place.

Billy Jones was home for a few days the fore part of this week.

Dr. Agler and family left last week by auto for a visit with relatives and friends in Kansas. They stopped off at Marathon for a short visit with relatives before resuming their journey.

Eddie Kuhlers the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Heiko Kuhlers, was quite ill the fore part of the week with an attack of appendicitis. Up to the present writing it was not thought that an operation would be necessary.

Joe Stattlander sold his farm to Harm Watermiller of near Kanawha last week. We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Stattlander contemplate moving to our town. altho we have not heard their definite plans.

E. Thomas and family spent last Sunday p. m. at the home of the former's brother near Hampton.

The Misses Ollie Pals and Mildred Gealow and Mrs. Henry Pals were Mason City shoppers last Tuesday.

Miss Mildred Gealow went to Belmond, Saturday, to visit with the home folks until Sunday noon.

Mrs. H. K. Pals and children who accompanied her on the auto trip to Soo county, returned Monday p. m. They report a pleasant trip, having visited relatives and old friends.

Joe Stattlander had for their guests last Sunday, Harm Meintz and family of Chapin, A. Esk and family of Belmond, and H. Heitland, Sr.

Dr. Krue, recently from Germany, but who is located in Mason City at the Park hospital, was a professional caller at the Geo. Gerdes home last Saturday evening.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on Wednesday p. m., Aug. 8th, for their yearly meeting. All members are requested to be present, and you are urged to bring others who may wish to join the Union. Place will be announced later.

Mrs. Irv Nissen and daughter Arlene, and Neva Muller, were Klemme callers last Tuesday p. m., where Arlene and Neva are taking violin lessons.

CARLOAD OF

Woven Wire

Barb Wire

- And -

Nails

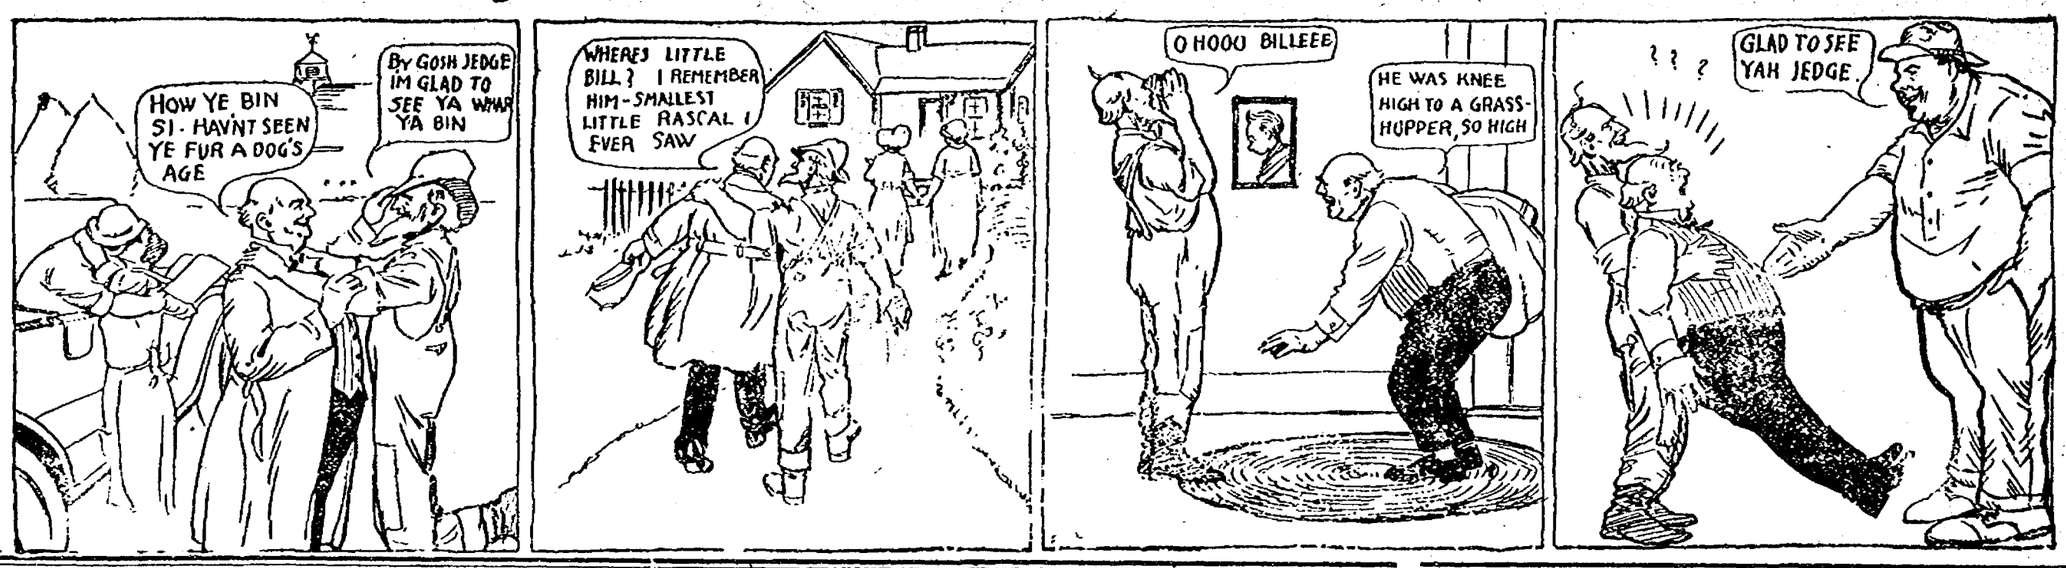
IN SOON!

See us for prices before buying somewhere else.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

'The Judge'------ He Visits An Old Friend



ROWAN NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers left by auto last week for their son, Howard's, near Jenkins, Minn Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bingham and Faye are staying in their home until their return.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten were Webster City visitors Sunday.

Miss Jessie Allen, who is a nurse in the Hampton hospital, stopped over on her way to her home at Armstrong for a vacation. She is a cousin of Mrs. G. W. Whitten.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sullivan of Ft. Dodge came Sunday to the Dan Fletcher home. Mr. Sullivan returned Monday, but Mrs. Sullivan remained for a longer stay.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten and daughter Gladys, departed Tuesday morning to spend a ten days' vacation visiting relatives at Armstrong, and from there to Lake Okoboji to camp out on the lake shore.

Rev. C. T. Halbert went to Webster City, Wednesday, to attend a meeting of the advisory committee of the Webster City conference. Mrs. Halbert accompanied him. They returned by Blairsburg where they visited friends.

Miss Ruth Daily, who is visiting friends here, spent part of last week with friends at Webster City.

Kenneth Keith was taken Saturday with a very severe case of tonsilitis.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gildersleeve left Wednesday for a visit at Cedar Falls. From there they were going to St. Paul and then on to their home at Crookston, Minn.

Mrs. Everett, who has been staying with Mrs. J. D. Brooks for several months, has moved into the Hake house, where she will keep house for her son, who has been at Webster City. He is coming here to work.

Mrs. E. R. Ballou and son Kenneth departed Friday morning for Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, to join Mr. Ballou who has been there for some time.

Wm. Brooks and family were in town last week. They were enroute home from the Home Coming Day at Belmond.

E. R. Harris and family spent last Wednesday at the Bert Harris home at Thornton.

Mrs. Kate Conn left last Thursday for Bruce, Wisconsin, where she expects to spend some time at the home of her son, Chester.

Mrs. F. H. Fowler and Miss Esther started for Sioux Falls, S. D., to visit Mrs. Levi Johnson, who has not yet recovered from her recent illness. She has been suffering with an abcess in her foot, which has had to be lanced several times.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brooks and Mr. and Mrs Edgar Mantle attended the show at Hampton last Wednesday evening.

Miss Lenore Osterhus of Ruthven visited last week at the Ormal Gates and W. R. McCallum homes.

Mrs. O. E. Ballou, LaVonne, Ed. Lynk, Nelson Lynk and Mrs. Winifred Harrigan autoed to Webster City last Thursday to spend the day with their cousin, Mrs. Wright Letts.

Oval Ballou's, H. J. C. Box's, J. H. Munnis' and Clint Kerchevals' attended the auction sale of the Harvey church Friday morning. They were afterwards entertained at the Ed. Lindsay home. The church was sold to Ed. Lindsay for $210.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of a former Rowan girl, Miss Hazel McCallum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard McCallum, to Mr. Carl Johnson, of Mason City, where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Johnson is a mechanic in one of the garages of Mason City.

Mrs. H. H. Hathaway of Pukwana, S. D., arrived last Saturday for a visit at the W. W. Azeltine home.

Miss Lelia Klinefelter from Dows visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Floyd Whitten, last week.

L. A. McCallum was a Garner business caller last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomas, Mack, Geo. Liming, Max Steffens and Geo. Brooks drove up to Clear Lake last Thursday to spend the evening.

The little child of John Thayer's, who live in Frank Drury's tenant house, was seriously ill with convulsions the first of the week.

Mrs. Edith Robinson, of Alexander visited Friday and Saturday at the Leonard McCallum home.

Glenn Liming returned home Friday from Corwith, where he has been helping his uncle with his harvesting.

Theo. Hansen and family departed Monday by auto to Minneapolis, and from there they expect to spend some time camping around the lakes north of Minneapolis, then to return home by way of McGregor. H. O. Hansen of Coulter accompanied them.

The regular monthly meeting of the ladies division of the Iowa township farm bureau met with with Mrs. Bertha Whitten last Friday afternoon, with a large attendance of members and visitors. One interesting part of the program was the hints on home nursing by Miss Mabel Azeltine, who gave the ladies valuable information in treating the ills so common in the home. By vote of the members the slogan given by Mrs. Lieuwen, "The work is worth while," was adopted.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Shauer and son Clesson, from Storm Lake, are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fitz from Churdan and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. LeGore of Rockwell City visited at the L. R. Fitz home Sunday and Monday. The former are Mr. Fitz' parents, and Mrs. LeGore is a sister of his.

Mrs. John Pritchett returned last Friday from Twin Falls, Idaho, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Pollard.

John Butler and family of Perkins, Okla., arrived Tuesday to spend a with with her mother, Mrs. E. Peddle and other relatives.

Floyd Whitten drove over to Greene, Monday evening, to see about the gravel work.

Geo. Hartwig and mother, Mrs. August Hartwig from Meservey, came over last Wednesday to spend the day with her sister, Mrs. Henry Rietz.

Mr. and Mrs. Rev. Osborne, Mrs. W. H. Whitten and Mrs. A. O. Pelley were Goldfield callers on last Monday evening.

COUNTRY MAN'S AUTOMOBILE

Many people seem to think that the possession of great numbers of automobiles by the country folks is a sign that they are making a lot of money and that the difficulties that the farmer is supposed to encounter are largely imaginary. Many people living in outlying districts, however, can testify that the automobile is an absolute necessity for them. With their old team of horses it might have taken them a day to get to the market town and back again. But with the automobile, they can usually do it in half the time. Time is worth a great deal of money to the farmer now, with the high prices that must be paid for help. Gasoline and tires on his flivver are cheaper than the pay of a farm hand. But when the use of an automobile is abused the upkeep may overbalance their usefulness.

DANGER FROM OWLS

Henry Frederick, of Strawberry Point reports that on his street the owls have become so sassy that women and children are afraid to pass along the sidewalks at night for fear of being plucked. Several of the women of the neighborhood have been chased within their homes, the owls being so scrappy that they even lit on their heads and pulled their hair. The owls apparently have a nest in some hollow tree in the neighborhood. They fly so quietly that their presence is not known until they light, when they give out a rusty squak, at the same time snapping their bills and doing a lot of scratching.—Ex.

GOODELL NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

The Misses Matson and Ina Ahrenkeil and Mrs. Stacy spent Tuesday last at Mason City.

Prof. Peters and wife arrived on Wednesday. They will stay at the A. C. Carpenter home until Sept.

Last Wednesday there was a large attendance at the Ladies Aid. Mrs. Wm. Allaben and Mrs. Robert McNutt were hostesses.

Joseph Burgess returned from Clear Lake, Wednesday. Cyril Church came with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Caryl Church came Thursday. Mrs. Church will help to care for her mother, who has been ill for some time.

Mrs. Sandberg, Mrs. Hanson, Edith and Carl were in Mason City last Thursday.

Wm. Deiger and family drove to Hampton last Thursday.

The Iwantano club had a large attendance and profitable meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller on Thursday afternoon.

J. W. Griggs and Miss Griggs were at Ventura last Wednesday.

Miss Louisa Ahrenkeil visited with friends in Garner last week.

Miss Ethel Hughes, of Garner, spent the week end with friends at Goodell.

Miss Pearl Engeseth of Frost, Minn., visited at the Mrs. Fred Chase home last week.

Mrs. John Ahrenkeil visited at Albert Lea, Minn., Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hanson drove to Albert Lea on Saturday to visit Mr. Hanson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ahrenkeil accompanying them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth drove to Greene and back on Saturday.

Miss Scott, of Minneapolis, was visiting her aunt, Mrs. Estle, last week.

The American Legion held a picnic at West Lake last Thursday evening.

Miss Hill of Clarion called at the Mrs. D. C. Christensen home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thada with her people drove to West Bend on Sunday.

Miss Alva Matson drove to Clarion early Sunday morning to get her brother, Togie, who is having a vacation now.

Early Monday morning Mrs. A. C. Carpenter, daughter Thora, sons Alfred and Richard, and Mrs. A. Christie left for an extended trip through Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. They expect to spend next Sunday in Chicago with Rev. and Mrs. Doty.

Mr. Spitler and family visited at Woden on Sunday.

Elmer Born and family were at West Bend on Sunday.

STATE FAIRS TO HAVE A JUST DOG EXHIBIT

It has been left to Iowa to bring the little, mongrel playmate into fame.

While eastern society groups are planning their annual pedigreed dog shows, the Iowa State Fair, in cooperation with the Des Moines Capital is making preparations this month for the first known Boys' and Girls' Playmate Dog Show. The show will be held at the Iowa State Fair on Children's Day, August 24.

It will be exclusively for playmate dogs owned by Iowa boys and girls. No pedigreed or full blooded dogs will be allowed to compete. The entrants will be shown in the paddock, just to the west of the main grand stand, throughout the day. Prizes will be awarded as follows: First, $10; second, $7; third, $5; fourth, $4; fifth, $3; seventh and eighth, $2.

In connection with the event, the first dog race ever held in Iowa will be staged on the race track at 1:30, August 24. Any boy or dog in the state are eligible for entry in the race. The dogs will be hitched to coaster wagons and carts and driven by their owners in a quarter mile dash around the track. Purses will be: First, $15; econd, $10; third, $8; fourth, $5. The regular starters and judges who will preside over the main speed events of the day will officiate in the race.

ALEXANDER NEWS

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons, Belmond.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Allinger and sons Franz and Rex were callers at Hampton last Friday.

A number of friends of Mrs. John Murphy were entertained at the home of Mrs. F. D. Rodemeyer on Saturday afternoon, in honor of Mrs Murphy, who now lives at Aredale, and who has been visiting here the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Green and family of Bradford were Sunday visitors at the Lloyd Green home.

Geo. Yaw of Iowa Falls was in town the first of the week attending to his farm interests.

Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Kingeth of Belmond were callers in Alexander last Monday.

Joe Veeder of Hampton was a visitor in town Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens were business callers at Latimer on last Tuesday.

Arthur Thomas and Mrs. Albert Yaw of Iowa Falls were visitors in Alexander last Saturday.

Miss Wilma Foughty visited with relatives at Belmond a few days last week.

Miss Marjorie Flynn of Belmond visited her sister Mrs. Leslie Reed, last Saturday.

Mrs. John Murphy and two children of Aredale visited with relatives and friends in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen spent the first of the week visiting with relatives at Eldora.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and two sons were callers at Lake Cornelia Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larsen and family visited at the Edd Miles home at Clear Lake last Sunday.

Miss Carrie Baxter of Milwaukee, Wis., came last Thursday for a few weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCallum and two sons Robert and Philip were visitors in Rowan, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte, Miss Hannetta Schulte and John were callers at Hampton, Saturday.

Mrs. Alta Barker and daughter of Hampton visited at the Chas. Winwood home Sunday.

Miss Hilda Nelson of Eagle Grove visited with friends here the first of the week.

Miss Anna Beenen was a caller at Hampton last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schulte and children John and Hanetta left on Monday by auto for Oskaloosa, Grundy Center and other points to visit for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Aldinger and sons were in Minnesota the first of the week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Murphy and children visited relatives at Hampton last Sunday.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP NOTES

Rev. Waalkes occupied the pulpit for Rev. Johnson at Chapin last Sunday afternoon, due to the latter's illness.

The Pleasant Township Garment Club met in the Center school Monday afternoon.

E. B. Critchett from Mason City was tuning pianos here the first of the week.

The people of this community are glad to hear that Fred Loats, who at present is in Hot Springs, South Dakota, is much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frohling were Sunday visitor at the Andrew Bohning home.

Bill Finn is spending part of his summer vacation visiting at Victor, Iowa.

Quite a few improvements are being made in the remodeling of the Palsville elevator.

EDITOR PRINTS TRUTH —GETS "BEAT UP"

William Lyons, editor of the Milford Mail, has been roundly abused in the past because he had been suppressing certain misdemeanors of his community, and decided to print the truth regardless of the consequences.

About the first thing that happened after his decision was two prominent business men of Milford, who went to Spencer and got "lit up." On their wild way home they ran over an old man driving a horse and buggy. The editor in his next issue told of the occurrence, giving the names and details of the affair, and one of the offenders immediately repaired to the print shop and beat the editor up. The other threatened to do the same thing.

The editor is wondering if it really pays to print the news.—Humboldt Republican.

A SEASONABLE POEM

I do not like ants in my sugar
Nor flie on the edge of my cup,
And for some odd reason I don't care to season
My bacon with sand, when I sup.
Though life in the open is healthy
And time for vacation is near,
Since I'm not ambitious to wash my own dishes,
I'm not going camping this year,
This year.
I'm not going camping this year.
I hate to get up in the darkness
When rain is engulfing the tent,
To try without matches to fasten with patches
A flapping and sinuous rent.
While lying in soggy pajamas
On blankets as cold as a bier,
I find so inviting, it sets me reciting,
I'm not going camping this year,
This Year.
I'm not going camping this year.
Oh, life may be joyless and dismal
At times at the mountain or shore,
Though noisy and rapid, essentially vapid,
A dreamy, monotonous bore;
And bugs won't disport in my coffee,
And though I don't know yet just where I will go yet,
I'm not going camping this year,
This Year,
I'm not going camping this year.
—Swiped

INNOCENT DARLINGS

W. M. B. favors us with the following group of unconsciously humorous remarks made by girls to their escorts at the ball game.

"When a player strikes out that makes him a fan, doesn't it?"

"Are they really so tired that they go to sleep on the bags?"

"The baseball report yesterday said that Kelly died at the plate. But he's playing today."

"Three men on bases, you say? That's nothing—the other side has, too!"

"Then, why don't they call a right-handed pitcher a northpaw?"

"The umpire said 'Safe,' I'm so glad. I thought when the runner made that awful slide he'd hurt himself."

Most men would be content with their lot—if it were a lot of money.

Attention, Farmers!

We have leased the blacksmith shop formerly operated by the late Peter Stacy, located one block south of State Bank of Belmond, and are now fully equipped to fill your needs promptly and efficiently in

Blacksmithing and Woodwork

HORSESHOEING AND PLOW WORK OUR SPECIALTIES

We guarantee first-class work in every way, and earnestly solicit your patronage.

Walrod & Brevig

Belmond, Iowa

"Bill" Walrod "Bill" Brevig

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by

THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.

Oelwein, Iowa

T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa

Agent

Phone 196 or 115

Here and There

At the home of Henry Olson, located six miles south of Belmond, was held a big reunion of the relatives of Mrs. Olson. Those from a distance were Wm. Stuenicker and family, of Hayfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gast, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meckstroth, Mrs. Martha Prull and daughter Ruth, O. H. Marten and grandpa Gast, of Garner; J. J. Stille and family and Herman Gast and family, of Liberty township. A picnic dinner was partaken of in the Olson grove. And just before leaving for home everyone ate all the ice cream that they could hold. Everybody present enjoyed the day immensely.—Garner Leader.

Mrs. Finndorf and little Miss Dorothy, of New Richland, Minnesota, are visiting here with relatives and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Swenson bringng them up from Belmond, Sunday. They expect to return to Belmond today where they will visit Mrs. Finndorf's brother before returning home. She reports crops up there as being equally as good as here and state that rye threshing has begun.—Reporter.

When Mr. Shaw was hurt at the Elling place last Friday, the neighbors immediately turned in and finished the harvesting of the crops, a fine spirit to be shown, and we are glad that we live in a community where such things are done.—Garner Leader.

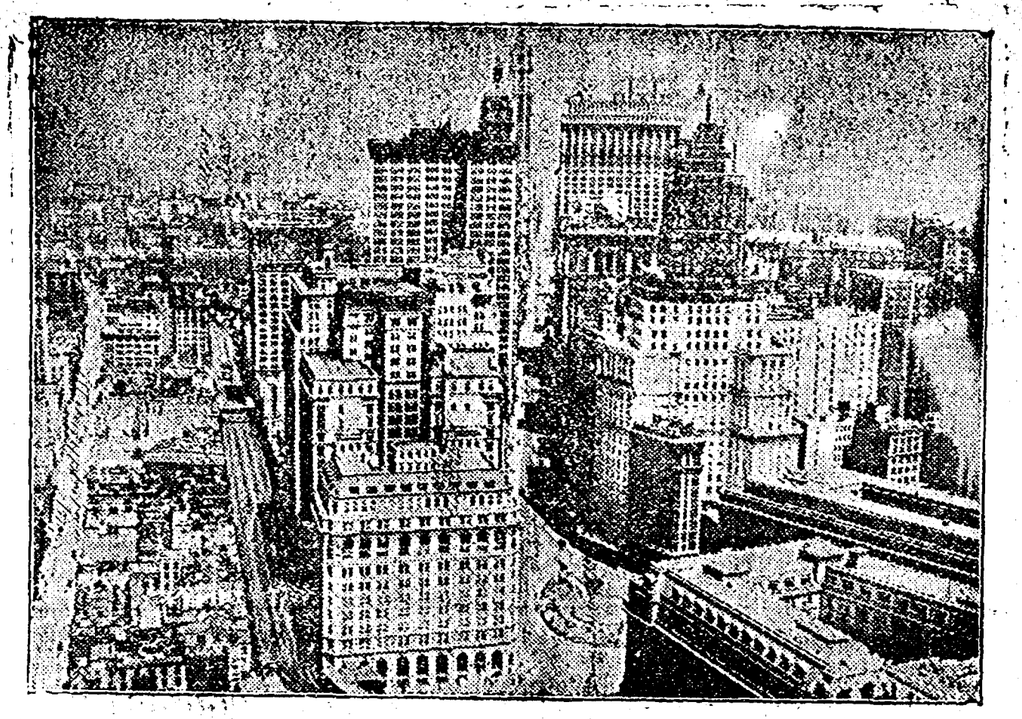
Mrs. Tom Hake and daughter, Maurine, went to Belmond last week Thursday for a visit between trains with friends.—Times.

The W. S. Pritchard family, the C. E. Barnes family, the Earl Martin family and Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans, of Belmond, Chas. Pritchard, his son Jim and wife and son-in-law Roy Arkright and wife of Buffalo Center, and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McGregor and daughters, of Des Moines were guests at the Ed Pritchard home at Alden Sunday. Ed Pritchard is a brother of Chas. Pritchard, and they are Walt's cousins.—Signal.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY

SERVICE

Belmond Storage Battery Co.



Copyright by Underwood & Underwoice.

THE LONG NARROW STREET CALLED "BROADWAY," NEW YORK CITY, FROM THE AIR.

Looking north from the Battery, New York City, as far as the human eye could ever reach, the camera has rivaled its perception. In this photo can be seen the long narrow canyon of commerce and finance, towered by steel mountains built by the science of man—the street called Broadway. From left to right of the photo can be seen a contrast of the old and the new, the small structures and the new steel towers. The circle in the center just below the photo is Bowling Green, and the U. S. Customs House. The Standard Oil Company building. Looking up, are the American Express building, the Equitable, Singer, and Woolworth buildings, a little over towards the right is the Municipal building and the World building tower dome

THE TOURISTS PARK —ITS USE AND ABUSE

The authorities have been having some trouble with the people who make use of Tourists Park in Humboldt. Some of its abuses are as follows:

Local parties sometimes go to the park for supper and remain far into the night, talking, laughing and sometimes playing music instruments. Of course the tourists who come in after a hard day's run find it impossible to rest while such a racket is going on about them.

One of the ladies clubs that uses the park and has a table there, recently purchased a beautiful hanging basket and placed in it several beautiful flowers, hanging the basket from one of the trees, directly over their table. A few days later they went to the park for an evening meal, and found that someone had stolen the basket and taken it away.

Recently a gang of gravel-haulers camped in the park. They drove their trucks roaring in every night, and roaring out every morning. They monopolized a large portion of the space in the park, and all the best space. More, they dissembled one of their trucks and spread its greasy parts over one of the tables there, using it for a work bench. Of course the authorities of the park were compelled to ask them to clean up the table and camp elsewhere.

The tourists park is what its name implies—and a place where the people of Humboldt county can picnic. It is not a permanent camping place for traveling bodies of workmen who are spending some time in town. It is not a place for fun and frolic at all times of the night. People who go there should respect the rights of others, and may expect that they will be allowed to use the tables and stoves for their picnic dinners or others meals, and the tourists who camp there may expect to be undisturbed during the night they spend there.—Humboldt Republican.

EGRETS MADE OF HORSE HAIR

When some hundreds of American women tourists step from the gangplank in Manhattan in August and September wearing what looks like some billion dollars' worth of egrets, let neither the United States customs nor the society for the preservation of birds for whatever it is called) get excited.

Frantic protests from these ladies cannot prevent Universal Service from giving away the great secret: They are not egrets, they are horsehair, and they come from that part of the equine anatomy customary utilized to whisk the flies away.

Egrets, or aigrets, are the fashionable thing in millinery this year. They are dyed every color of the rainbow and some that are not in the rainbow. They are mostly worn on small toques, the plumes being the color of the gown, but some women are wearing them as evening adornmen in the hair or as trimmings for the corsage.

A Frenchman heard that egrets were to be fashionable. According to Fantasio it was an American woman, closely allied to a prominent French milliner, who got the first tip. She straightaway set forth and cornered the egret market, buying them whereever egrets grow.

But unfortunately the prominent milliner had another lady friend, who in turn had another gemmun friend. The milliner confided in the gemmun friend. The latter was a skilled chemist and he saw a fortune for himself if he could succeed in manufacturing fake egrets before the real ones were put on the market.

The chemist succeeded and the day the great milliner launched his egret hats he was astounded to discover that egrets were in every department store window!

So common were the fake plumes and so well did they imitate the genuine ones that it is declared the American women had to let go of a lot of real egrets at fake egret prices.

That, anyway, is the story. And every woman who has an egret on her hat is wondering if it was an expensive one, whether it might not be an imitation, and, if it was a cheap one, whether it might not be real.—Des Moines Register.

MATERNITY AND CHILD WELFARE CLINICS SOON

A series of infant and maternity clinics in every county and a demonstration clinic at every county seat are being planned by the division of infant and maternity hygiene of the State University of Iowa, under the provisions of the Sheppard-Towner law.

Iowa passed the bill at the last session of the legislature and will receive a federal appropriation of $70,000 for the promotion of child welfare work throughout the state.

A series of clinics will be held in Warren county the week of July 29 and in Allamakee county the week following.

Results of the clinics already held show the value of periodical examinations. About three-fourths of the children examined were found to have physical defects, 90 per cent of which were capable of being cured. By following up clinic work it has been discovered that about a third of the parents of the children examined are taking their children to their family physicans to have these defects corrected.

Want Regular Examination

These facts are making local physicans and the community enthusiastic about the clinics and bringing a realization of the need for them.

The national health council in cooperation with the United States public health service is inaugurating a movement for regular physical examination. Their slogan for the movement is "Have yourself examined on your birthday." The campaign will be carried on until July next, ending on July 4.

It is hoped that by educational propaganda ten million people in the country will be induced to be physically examined every year. It is believed that this will save the lives of thousands and prevent much sickness. At the end of the campaign a study will be made to see what effect it has had on the death and sick rates of the country.

Save Many Babies

A prominent insurance company, which has all of its policy holders physically examined every year, claims that 52,000 lives were saved in 1922 because of latent defects which examination revealed.

The regular physical examination movement in Iowa will be promoted by a state-wide committee composed of members of the state board of health, state medical society, Iowa Tubercular society, state dental society, State Council of Social Workers, and other welfare organizations. —Des Moines Register.

PREMATURE

Boss—Sir, what does this mean? Some one just called us and said that you were sick and could not come to work today.

Clerk—Ha, ha! The joke's on him. He wasn't supposed to call up until tomorrow.

But too many people get into an argument who have nothing to say.

Free School!

LEARN MORE! About Operating

Tractors, Trucks and Automobiles

A general "Get-together" meeting of all tractor, truck and automobile owners regardless of what make you have.

Come in and learn how to operate your engine more economically by saving fuel, lubricating oil and reducing your up-keep expense.

WE ASSURE YOU OF THIS!

School will be conducted by representatives of one of the largest Machinery Manufacturers in the United States.

Come in and ask questions about any make of engine you may have.

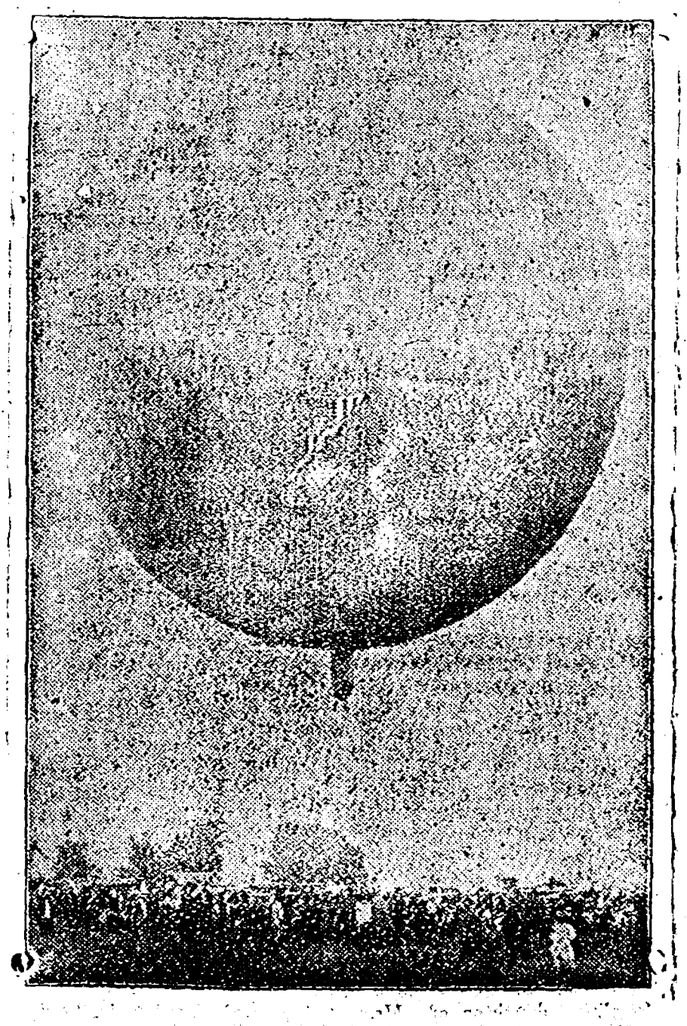
This is educational to all men interested in machinery of any kind, and is absolutely FREE. EVERYBODY WELCOME!

JOHNSON & WRIGHT, Belmond, Iowa

Friday Night, August 3rd

At 8:30 O'clock

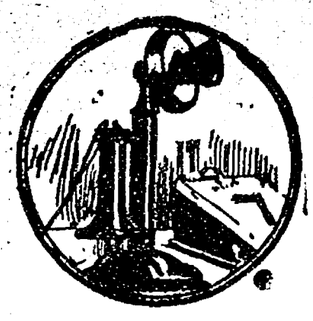
Nordschow Garage, Belmond, Iowa



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

NAVY AVIATORS LOSE LIEVES

Shows the baloon bearing Lieut. Louis J. Roth and Lieut. Telford B. Null as it started on its flight from Indianapolis July 4th. These two aviators were forced down in Lake Erie and Lieut. Roth lost his life.



Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Mrs. L. Boelman, living north of town, has been very ill, suffering from internal cancer. Miss Helen Harberts is assisting in the care of her.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butterfield expect to start back to California the latter part of this week. They will go from here to Hampton, where they will spend a few days, and start from Hampton the first part of next week. Belmond people hope to see them back in the old home town again next year.

The Independent has a job for a good farm hand who wants a steady position on the farm. Call at this office.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bohning and family, of Miller, South Dakota, have been visiting his brother, George, and other relatives the past week.

Win Dziewanowski, who has charge of Pleasant township roads, was seen at work on the road the other day with a hoe, pulling stones off the gravel, which is one reason why Win's roads are among the best in the country. These little stones don't amount to a terrible lot, but Win evidenly believes in having things the best he can get them, and the township has the right man on the job, we'll say.

I am now located in the former Peter Stacy shop.—"Bill the Blacksmith."

C. J. Papousek installed a Delco lighting system for Fred Albert, at Klemme, recently, the gift to Mr. Albert of Mrs. Emma Stadtlander. Mr. Albert is a son-in-law of Mrs. Stadtlander, and this substantial gift is being highly enjoyed.

The Independent is in receipt of a copy of Christian Home, the paper of the Christian Home Orphanage at Council Bluffs, Iowa, in which are listed the contributions made the Home. Among them is $5 from Belmond, sent by Mrs. Pennel, the total being donations from various friends. This Home is one of the best in the world, absolutely worthy and doing a wonderful work. Every donation to this institution is assuredly going for a good cause, and the Home should receive much better support than it is being given. Mrs. Pennell will be glad to receive your contribution, no matter how small.

Quite a number of Belmond people are planning to attend the historical pageant to be given by the American Legion at Hampton next week Wednesday and Thursday.

Why keep that stuff around the place when a want ad in the Independent will sell it for you? Try a want ad—they sell anything.

Jay Buchanan and family, of Goodell were Sunday guests at the W. J. Buchanan home. The two Buchanan families then drove to Kanawha where they visited at the Andrew Hanson home.

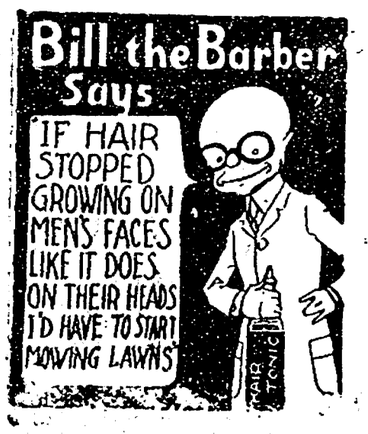
Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Quandt are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl, born Saturday.

M. J. Thoe and Mrs. H. G. Nordschow enjoyed a visit last week from their father, who resides at Lake Mills.

Mrs. Chase, from Colorado, was visiting at the C. J. Boughton home last week.

Miss Angie Kaufman and Mrs. Stonebraker, from Minneapolis, are visiting at the Peter Kaufman home.

Chas. Peterson and family, from Hampton, spent Sunday with relatives here.



Mrs. Henry Schultz is in the Mercy Hospital at Mason City. She had an operation on her nose, also her tonsils removed. She is getting along nicely.

The Congregational Missionary Society will enjoy a picnic in Tyrrell Park this afternoon.

Earl Martin and family, and P. V. Ketchem and family, from Cambridge, left Wednesday for a camping trip to the Canada line in Minnesota.

Rev. Wippermann and family left this week for Good Thunder, Minnesota, where Mr. Wippermann will occupy the pulpit in the German church this coming Sunday. There will be no services in the St. Johns church here this Sunday.

Friend Bras, of Fort Dodge, was here Monday on his regular semi-monthly visit to fit glasses at the Schultz Jewelry store.

Irving Madsen is again about the streets after his recent accident, in which he was injured when his car tipped over near Klemme.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Eimbrink, northeast of Belmond, was the scene of a big picnic dinner Sunday. Those present were Miss Velma Panahof of Klemme, Mr. and Mrs. A. Boller and family of Goodell, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kienenberger and daughter of Goodell, Erwin Langlitz of Meservey, Mrs. C. Morse and son of Austin, Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eimbrink ad family, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Traeger and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boller and daughter, and C. L. Smiths, all of Belmond.

Mrs. C. Morse and son, of Austin, Minnesota, are spending a few weeks at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Henry Eimbrink, and other relatives.

AUTO DRIVERS NOTICE!

All automobiles hereafter must have head and tail lights according to law, and cut out closed inside the city limits.

B. J. FINN, Marshal.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 321fc

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

AT THE GIFT SHOP

Hand painted ware and the New Pottery make fine wedding gifts. Orders taken for monogram stationery and McCall Patterns. We have beautiful Dolls for the little girl. The Mine with the Iron Door, by Harold Bell Wright and The Alaskan by Oliver Curwood, now on sale at The Gift Shop.

The Harvey church was sold at auction last Friday, the building going to Ed. Lindsay for $210.

Mrs. Jake Meyers and son, from Buffalo Center are vsiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ben Stadtlander.

Mrs. Jean Curtis and children, from Webster City, were visiting relatives here, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bullard returned last Saturday from Minnesota, where they had been visiting the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Jacobson left this week on a trip to Minnesota by auto. They will go to Kenyon, Minnesota first, to visit relatives, and will then drive over the country enjoying the lakes and an outing.

Mrs. Louis Tokman and children, from Mason City, spent the day here Sunday with Louis.

Chester Bullis, a former Belmond boy, was a brief visitor in town Sunday. He is now located in Chicago. His wife died recently and was buried at Cedar Rapids last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. McBroom, of Laurel, came Tuesday and are visiting at the E. E. Boughton home. Mrs. McBroom is a sister of Mrs. Boughton.

Tuesday afternoon the beautiful home of E. W. Luick on east Main street was the scene of another social event. Mrs. A. W. Martin and Mrs. E. W. Luick entertained about 40 of their friends at an afternoon tea. Every minute of the afternoon, including the delicious tray luncheon was enjoyed by the guests, who pronounced Mesdames Martin and Luick the most delightful of hostesses.

Peter H. Pals of Meservey visited at the home of Chris Groen on last Thursday.

John Freeze of Iowa Falls was a visitor at the Chris Groen home on Monday.

HUMBOLDT TO START WELL AFTER DREAM OIL THERE

Humboldt, where they have an oil field beneath the corn fields—or think they have—is about ready to wake up. They have a drill on the grounds ready to set up, and an expert with a divining rod, or magic wand, or something, has located the best place to spend the money. Pretty soon they will begin going down—in the ground and their pockets.

Opinion is divided, like in a political election, as to whether there is any oil in Humboldt outside of the gas tanks or not. Some say there is, and b'gosh they're gonna get it. The question has agitated them considerably for some time, and curiosity has got to be satisfied. They will find out at least, what kind of dirt Iowa is made of, and whether it is worth three hundred dollars an acre. It must be said in all fairness, however,—that the test well is plainly labeled a gamble, and no one is allowed to put any money in it who is not willing and can afford to lose it. The money being put up is furnished strictly upon that understanding, and no one is promised anything or smooth-tongued into investing. We all hope Humboldt hits a gusher, but we are like the Irishman who brought a load of hogs to town—he thought they would weigh 200 pounds, but he knew they wouldn't.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meinders Jr., and family were guests at the Harm J. Pals home in Thornton last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hajo Pals were visiting at the home of his people, at Thornton, on Sunday.

Chris Groen, who has been quite ill, is reported somewhat better at this writing.

Miss Shirley Thompson was hostess to a slumber party at her home west of Belmond, over the week end. The guests were Clara Johnson, Marjorie Purcell and Luella Christie.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn and Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Fitts drove to West Bend, Sunday, to visit the famous grotto.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris, from Rowan, were guests of relatives in Belmond on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Christie left Sunday on a trip to Albert Lea and other points in Minnesota.

Mrs. Ed. Webb will be hostess to the Woman's Foreign Missionary society this afternoon.

Several local business men visited the Iowa Falls electric plant last week

It happoded the other night at the theater. The young couple had disurbed everybody around them by their whispering and murmuring. Folks frowned and growled but they talked on. Until suddenly the young man stopped and bagan to dig around on the floor for something. Then he nudged the man in front of him, "I've lost my muffler some place," he said.

"Let it alone," the man growled back. "You didn't know how to use it when you did have it, judging from the noises I've been hearing back there."—Indianapolis News.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—5-room cottage, six blocks north of Main Street, on the Wilson Highway. Electric lights, furnace and basement. Inquire of A. J. Nihoof, Phone 176 1-3, Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—Jersey bull, registered, 5 years old. Nice and gentle. Chas. Gealow. Phone 2712. 372

Wanted—Work by the day, by two ladies. Inquire at the Independent. 363*

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Roosters	07c
Broilers	24c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	19c
Cream	35c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	28c
Corn	71c

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

Your cows will give more milk if you use Dr. Hess Fly Chaser. The best on the market. $1.50 per gallon. Fly Sprayers 50 cents each.—Schultz Drug. Co. 362c

FALL TERM SEPT. 4
New catalog just off the press. Write for it.
Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

"Bill the Blacksmith" is now located in the former Peter Stacy Shop.

Miss Alyce Ersland returned last week from Des Moines where she had been a few days.

Unknown parties in an automobile smashed into the Ward Martin Ford Tuesday evening, while Miss Harriett was driving, and damaged the Ford more or less. The other car was turning the corner by the Independent, on the wrong side of the street, and struck the Martin car on the hub of the left front wheel.

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, AUG. 13

Willard STORAGE BATTERY
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
SERVICE
Belmond Storage Battery Co.

GOODYEAR Service Station
"SALE" and "bargain" are attractive words. But there is something more attractive in Standard Goodyear Service. For one thing, it is trustworthy. When you buy a Goodyear Tire from us authorized Goodyear Dealers, you know we'll help you get all the mileage out of it. That's ... Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company
GOODYEAR

Now Is the Time To Have Your Summer Cleaning Done!
We have all our new equipment installed. Let us steam press your clothes. They will look like new.
New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Buy by Comparison
When you purchase a suit or several yards of cloth you naturally make comparisons. Why not do the same when buying an automobile?
Compare the Overland engine, disc clutch and transmission in one unit with all working parts protected from mud and dirt, the floating axle with removable shafts---the same as highest priced cars.
No other light car uses such heavy axles, spindles, steering knuckles and rods, one and one-half inch axle shafts or a heavier frame. The ring gear used in the Overland weighs as much as two in another popular car and nine Timken and New Departure bearings are used in the front and rear axles.
"Drive an Overland and realize the difference."
Nordschow Motor ompany
Belmond, Iowa

July 17th
Cash Refund Date
Bring in your Cash Receipts of July 17th and receive refund for the full amount.
Did you have a refund in June? Your neighbor did. See that you get yours for July.
Save Your Receipts for August!
Some day's business in August will be given back free. Get your share.
BRING IN YOUR JULY 17 RECEIPTS BEFORE AUGUST 15
Specials for Saturday August 4th
BACON NUGGETS, per lb. 18c
3-lb. Average. Sugar cured.
PICNIC HAMS ..... 14c per lb.
Regular run 8 to 10 lb. average.
HEINZ PORK AND BEANS, medium size can ..... 12c per can Regular price 15c
Cash Market
The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa
Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1923 — NO. 38

Nation Mourns For Departed President

Belmond Learns Of Death Thru Radio Friday Night But Cannot Believe It.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY

President Harding died of a stroke of apoplexy at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. His exact age was fifty-seven years and nine months.

The end came suddenly while Mrs. Harding was reading to him and after what had been the best day he had had since the beginning of his illness exactly one week ago.

Suddenly it was noticed that the President was shuddering and gasping. Mrs. Harding ran to him, but he was unable to respond to her inquiries. She then ran to the door of the sick room and called to the secret service man there to summon the President's physicians.

When General Sawyer reached the room the President was still alive, but he died almost at once.

Recovery Seemed Assured

The President's death came as a shocking surprise. But an hour earlier General Sawyer had been telling newspaper men that Mr. Harding had had the best day since he became seriously ill. He said that the President had definitely entered upon the stage of convalescence and that everything went to show that Mr. Harding was on the road to ultimate recovery.

The members of the official party—those who had accompanied the President and Mrs. Harding—had no warning that the President was in danger. They, like the newspaper men, had been assured that a fatal termination of the President's illness was a thing not to be expected, in view of his apparent improvement—the evident lessening of serious symptoms—in the last forty-eight hours.

Mrs. Harding Brave

It was announced later that Mrs. Harding did not collapse but bore the shock quietly and bravely. She said to friends of her party and relatives of the late President who gathered around her that she did not fully realize the blow that had come to her. She had a duty to perform, she said, and must bear up.

She agreed with the four cabinet members who are here that the body of her husband should be taken east on a special train leaving here at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Optimistic Feeling Had Prevailed

During the day, while entirely optimistic, General Sawyer had said that some complications had come through the reappearance of a minor intestinal trouble from which the President had suffered a long time ago. This had increased the strain on his nervous system and to that extent the strain upon his heart. General Sawyer did not care to have details like this stressed, but he pointed to them as evidence that convalescence would be slow.

At Mrs. Harding's request a number of her friends went to her sitting room late in the evening and sat with her. The widow of the President was remarkably self contained. She showed the grit that was largely responsible for her recovery from the dangerous illness through which she passed during last autumn and winter.

Official Statement Given Out

It was about twenty minutes from the time Mr. Harding was stricken until he died. The circumstance is told briefly in the following formal announcement:

"The President died at 7:30 p. m.

"Mrs. Harding and the two nurses, Miss Ruth Powderly and Miss Sue Drusser, were in the room at the time. Mrs. Harding was reading to the President when utterly without warning a slight shudder passed through his frame, he collapsed, and all recognized that the end had come. A stroke of apoplexy was the cause of his death.

IF THEY WOULD ON SATURDAY!

The Garner band was in town last Thursday and played a number of pieces advertising the base ball tourn ament held there this week. Some dozen cars of boosters accompanied the band. The selections given were played with a vim and could be heard several blocks. If the band would play that way here Saturday nights folks would appreciate their music more.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. White plan to leave about the 20th of the month on a trip to Washington state. They will drive thru in their new car and stop enroute at Yellowstone Park and other points of interest. An uncle of Mrs. White's Mr. Davis, will accompany them, his home being in Washington.

PLEASANT SOCIAL HELD AT JENISON FARM HOME

A record meeting as far as attendance is concerned was held at the Oscar Jenison home, three miles north of Belmond, last Wednesday evening, August 1st, when the regular monthly meeting of the Pleasant Township Farm Bureau was held.

The front yard of the Jenison home was packed full of interested farmers, their wives and children, who assembled at this beautiful farm home to enjoy the usual program which had been arranged through the efforts of Miss Grace Gartz, one of the successful teachers of Pleasant township. A unique system of lighting was arranged by using storage batteries connected to small light bulbs which were hung on the front porch of this farm home. All farmers of the community had had a rest from their threshing work on account of the rain and felt like enjoying themselves at this community get-to-gether.

The program consisted of a stirring address by Rev. S. U. Leinbach of the Congregational church of Belmond, a reading by Miss Vergie Jenison, a violin solo, two instrumental piano duets, a reading by Miss Leinbach, and several special special numbers by the pupils of Miss Gartz's school, including a clever patriotic dialogue in which about 25 or 30 youngsters took part. Special music was furnished by the local orchestra led by Miss Barry.

The busy threshing season does not seem to halt the farmers of Pleasant township in their determination to meet with one another in their regular monthly community socials, where they always enjoy the talent of their own people. The people of Pleasant township are living up to their old standard of holding their regular monthly social meetings, when they get together to talk over problems which are of common interest to all. The people of this township believe in and practice community organization and co-operation.

The large crowd greatly enjoyed the following program:

Instrumental Duet—Yellow Butterflies——Viola Mennenga and Loretta Barry.
Recitation—Sheep of the Flock——Esther Frohling.
Instrumental Duet—Approach of Spring——Thada Boelman and Louella Loats.
Instrumental Solo—Trot De Cavalerie ——Iola Jenison.
Drill—Supervised by Grace Gartz.
Reading—Christopho Columbo—Virgie Jenison.
Instrumental Duet—Camp of Glory ——Jessie and Wilhelmine Loats.
Violin Solo——Irvin Haupt
Reading ——Elizabeth Leinbach
Song—A Doll's Lullaby ——Arleen Loats and Marian Waalkes.
Orchestra Music—Directed by Cecilia Barry.
Talk by Rev. Leinbach.

REV WAALKES WILL GO TO NEW YORK CHARGE

Rev. A. H. Waalkes, of the Immanuel Reformed church in Pleasant township, has accepted the call to the church at Hagaman, New York, and will preach his farewell sermon to his congregation on Sunday, August 19th. The members of Rev. Waalkes pastorate, as well as the citizens of Belmond, regret very greatly that he has been called away. He has been a great influence for better things in Belmond, and in his local field. He has taken active part in our social, moral and community enterprises, has always worked for better conditions, and the public welfare. In his church he has achieved a signal success, and every member of his congregation is more than sorry to see him go. He is a good man. He has done a good work. The loss of Belmond will be the gain of his new home, and he will carry with him the best wishes of all for his continued success and welfare. His successor has not been appointed as yet.

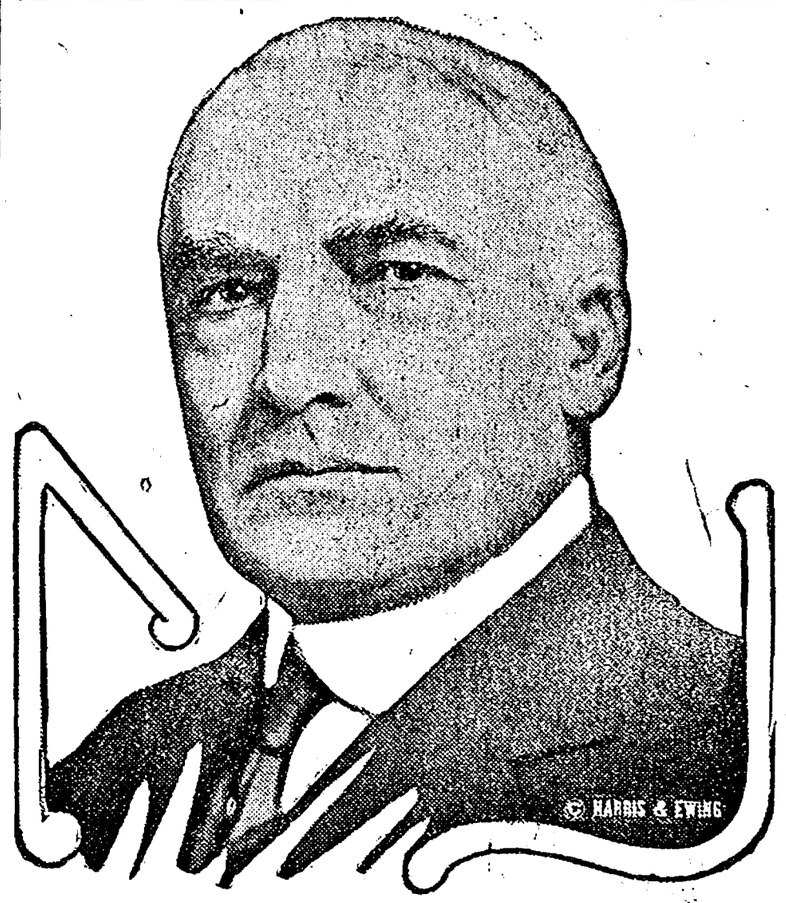
PLEASANT LASSIES MEET

The Pleaant township girls' club, "The Pleasant Lassies' Garment Club." met Monday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. J. F.Hemm. Some 24 of the members were present and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. Mrs. Lawrence Dorr, of Clarion, was present and addressed the club on sewing and kindred work. The time was spent mostly in laying out a schedule of work and making plans for future activities. After the meeting refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held next Monday at the home of Ed Jenison.

Ben Blake, daughters Mary Elizabeth and Kathrine, and Mrs. Mike Kenefick drove to Ackley last week Thursday to attend the home coming at that place.

1865—Warren G. Harding—1923



JACKSON-REYNOLDS

The marriage of Miss Hazel Jackson of Minneapolis, and Mr. Joseph W. Reynolds of Seattle, Washington, took place Monday, July 30th, at the Westminister church, Minneapolis.

The young couple left on a short honey moon trip in the East. After their return they will reside in Minneapolis until November 1st, after which they will make their home in Seattle, Washington.

The bride is a former Belmond girl and is remembered by many local people. Mr. Reynolds is connected with the Mining Mining & Dredge Co. Friends of the young couple wish them a happy and prosperous life.

RENNER-VANZANTE

Miss Ethel Loretta Renner of Le-Roy, Minn., and Mr. Benjamin H. F. VanZante of Belmond were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage in Clarion on Wednesday afternoon, August 1, Rev. J. B. Walker, pastor of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony. The bridal couple was accompanied by Bernard Moody of Belmond.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. VanZante will be at home to their friends in Belmond.—Clarion News.

NOTICE

The local Sugar Factory is now ready to receive applications from those desiring employment during the operating season.

We expect to employ fifteen or sixteen girls or women in the factory, and preference will be given to all applicants having had experience during the seasons of 1920 or 1922.

Applications to be filed with the Factory Superintendent at the Factory Office.

Iowa Valley Operating Co., Inc.
383c

ARE SUCCESSFUL OUT WEST

The editor ran across the following item in the Publishers' Auxiliary, which will interest many Belmond people:

"The Buffalo Voice (Wyoming) got out a fine special with four yellow inside advertising pages for which it offered special prizes for misspelled words, that had a circulation of 1,500 copies. The paper is always a fine one but this time it excelled previous efforts and we congratulate Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Miller on their extra. They have the right idea in boosting their own paper, as they do in fine style on the front page."

TO HOLD SOCIAL

The Dorcas society of the Immanuel Reformed church will hold a social at the church next Thursday, August 16th. Refreshments will be served. The girls will also sell their fancy work at this time.

You can bank on finding a well filled pocket book interesting.

Even a prohibitionist makes no kick about the horn of plenty.

DISTRICT COURT ITEMS

Monitor: S. M. Ellsworth of Eagle Grove is defendant in a suit brought by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. in the sum of $157.78, alleged to be due for casings, tubes, etc., sold to said defendant.

Mrs. Laura France of Eagle Grove brings suit against Harry and Ethel Ferguson and Emily Wilde to recover the sum of $2,370,85. Suit is based on a past due note for $2,200 executed by Emily Wilde and later assumed by the Fergusons.

Mrs. Emily Holmes, aged 94 was granted a pension for the blind by the board of supervisors on Monday. The law limits the amount to $150 per year.

Miss Mae Odland, deputy county superintendent, is spending a two weeks' vacation at her home in Liberty township.

Marriage licenses for the week:
J. C. Bonner, Jewell.
Mabel Fife, Paulina.
N. A. Anderson, Holton, Kan.
Minnie L. Rouse, Holton, Kan.

The August meeting of the county board of education was held last week in the office of Supt. Bock. Questions of importance concerning the school work of the county were discussed.

CLARMOND CLUB WINS AGAIN

The Clarmond Country club golfers were victorious Sunday over the Forest City swingers by the score of 51 to 18. Twenty-six matches were played. About 50 members and their wives of the Forest City club came over. They were served dinner at 12:30, and light refreshments were served at 7 p. m.

BANKERS PICNIC AUGUST 14TH

The bankers of Wright county will hold their annual picnic at the Eagle Grove Country club on Tuesday, August 14th. On this date the various banks of the county will be closed after the noon hour.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nelson and baby and Mrs. Nelson's sister, Miss Summers, were in an automobile smashup last Saturday night when the car they were driving was struck by the Great Western midnight passenger. They were returning from Fort Dodge, it is said, and were on a side road southwest of town about three miles. Nelson claims he did not see the train, which struck and completely demolished the car. Mrs. Nelson, the baby and Miss Summers got out of the car and escaped uninjured, but Nelson is said to have stayed and was struck by the train, which was late and going a fast clip. He escaped with a few slight bruises. The train was stopped, and backed up. The family was brought to town where medical aid disclosed no serious injury to anyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelp and daughter Violet, of Brookings, South Dakota, were guests a few days last week at the home of relatives here. Mrs. Shelp was formerly Miss Rena Rankins, a resident of this community about 23 years ago.

EVERYTHING READY FOR STATE FAIR OPENING

Everything is now in readiness for the opening of Iowa's big Prosperity Fair, the 69th annual Iowa State Fair, August 22-31.

Entries in the live stock departments of the Fair which closed last week have boosted the horse, cattle, swine and sheep lists to unprecedented proportions. Between 7,500 and 8,000 head of live stock are now entered for the Fair, giving Iowa a record as the biggest livestock and agricultural fair in the Union this year. In one of the exhibits there will be 500 head of baby beeves raised by Iowa's boy and girl farmers. In addition to the above, over 3,000 birds are entered in the poultry and pigeon show.

Every available foot of space on the fair grounds will be crowded with exhibits and amusements, fair officials said today. Grain and produce displays will be particularly heavy. Many new features are also enrolled in the educational departments, including a special carload of displays by the United States Department of Agriculture, a section by Iowa State College, exhibits by the Pure Bred Sire and Cow Test Associations, the Highway Commission, the State Board of Control and numerous others. Two hundred cars will be seen in the auto show and nearly 40 acres of farm machinery and equipment in this section.

There will be amusements galore; horse racing, auto racing, mule races, seven bands, twelve circus and hippodrome features, a big night fireworks spectacle, "India," a state horseshoe pitching tournament, a horse and mule team pulling conest, an 80-acre free camp. New attendance records are forecast for this year.

RECENT FORD DELIVERIES

All Ford cars and trucks delivered by the Belmond Auto Co. from July 1 to August 6:

Thomas Lundy, Kanawha, Touring.
Helmer Hanson, Belmond, Touring.
W. T. Kutzner, Mason City, Runabout.
Carl W. State, Dows, Touring.
W. W. Weld, Galt, Runabout.
F. F. Gobeli, Meservey, Touring.
Henry B. Nelson, Belmond, Touring.
W. S. Brady, Dows, Runabout.
P. W. Kaufman, Belmond, Touring.
Oscar Nelson, Belmond, Coupe.
L. M. Andrews, Rowan, Touring.
Geo. Brady, Belmond, Touring.
Owen Sullivan, Belmond, Coupe.
M. G. Luick, Belmond, 2-door Sedan.
F. L. Mortimer, Belmond, 2-door Sedan.
C. H. Jennings, Belmond, 4-door Sedan.
D. L. Rankins, Belmond, Runabout.
Geo. Braun, Belmond, Touring.
Geo. Coburn, Cornelia, Coupe.
W. F. Bier, Goodell, Truck.
Louis Moe, Belmond, Truck.
Ben Daniels, Belmond, Truck.
Chas. Strait, Clarion, Truck.
W. H. Milligen, Belmond, Truck.
B. J. Eldadge, Dows, Truck.
J. M. Johnson, Alexander, Truck.

WELCOME, GENTLE RAIN!

It was a good one, that Monday night rain, slow and steady, and it soaked down quite a ways. It arrived too late to save much of the garden truck, but it put a real boost into the corn and sugar beet crops, which now look like a bumper yield.

NOTICE THE NEW CANS

The city has placed two refuse or garbage cans on Main street for your convience in disposing of the banana peels and pop corn sacks. One is by the post office, the other at the corner of Barban's bakery. A very good idea, but not enough cans. On any morning Main street generally has the appearance of the morning after the night before. At least until the merchants have had time to sweep off the walks. The cans are self-closing and should go a long ways toward keeping Main street clean. If the people will use them.

START NEW BLACKSMITH

"Bill the Blacksmith," Wm. Walrod and Wm. Brevig, have leased the Peter Stacy blacksmith shop and are now doing business. Walrod is an experienced blacksmith, having been at the business for many years, and Brevig is an old hand at woodwork. The combination should prove successful.

BUCKEYE WINS AT DOWS

The two-day base ball tournament held at Dows on Sunday and Monday was won by Ruckeye. Four good teams, Eldora, Dows Buckeye and Williams were entered and some fast games were played. A number of Belmond fans attended the games on Sunday.

Proclamation Asks All To Close Friday P.M.

Mayor Sullivan Asks All Business Places To Close In Homage To Dead Chief.

HOURS FROM 1 TO 4 P. M.

Mayor's Proclamation

In compliance with the proclamation of President Coolidge setting aside Friday, August 10, 1923, as the day appointed when the body of our dead president, Warren G. Harding, will be laid in its last resting place, I earnestly request that all business in Belmond be suspended between the hours of 1 and 4 p. m., and that all flags be displayed at half mast in homage and reverence to the memory of our great and good president.

M. D. Sullivan, Mayor.

CLARION MAYOR APPLIES LID

A couple of our local pool halls were denied a renewal of their licenses at the regular meeting of the city council. After being suspended for a few days the mayor called the proprietors into his office and had a friendly understanding. In short, the mayor proposes that the ordinance relating to minors, gambling and drinking shall be observed. Otherwise licenses will be cancelled. Just a square deal for all.—Monitor.

HAVE INTERESTING TIME

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society meeting at the home of Mrs. Ed Webb on August 2nd might almost be called a "substitute meeting," those appointed to take charge of the study part being absent. However, this meeting, like "pick-up" dinners, after all proved to be as good as a planned one. Mrs. Wilkinson conducted a very interesting lesson concerning Tho Church in India. Mrs. Trafford and Miss Harriett Martin gave enjoyable musical selections. Mrs. Purcell had charge of the mystery box, after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be the last one of the year. Officers will be elected.

* * *

GREAT WESTERN DANGER SIGN TO BE INSTALLED

The Great Western railroad company have the new danger sign for the crossing at the foot of the hill, and will install it as soon as the new steel is laid at the crossing. The sign is of pretty fair size, and contains a bell which will ring at the approach of a train, and at the same time a red light flashes on. It will make a vast improvement to the safety of this dangerous crossing and will be heartily welcomed by all Belmond people.

CAP. TYRRELL RETURNS HOME

Cap. W. C. Tyrrell, Sr., left Sunday evening from Clarion for his home at Beaumont, Texas, after visiting the past two or three weeks with his son, Will, at Belmond, and enjoying the lake breezes at Okoboji. Mr. Tyrrell is remarkably well looking and says he thoroly enjoys coming back to his old home town and meeting the old friends.

CROWDS FLOCK TO WEST BEND

The editor and family drove to West Bend, Sunday, to visit the Grotto. A visit was made there two years ago, but considerable work on this famous structure has been done since then. To all Belmond people who have not seen the Grotto we would say, by all means see it if at all possible. It has a natural beauty that appeals to everyone, and is a sight that you cannot see duplicated anywhere in the world. An immense crowd, from all over the country, was there, and every Sunday finds the same size attendance.

PLENTY OF COMPANY ENROUTE

In the Independent's news box at the Great Western last week was a sheet with the words: "going to hell." It was signed, but whether with the right name or not, is the question. There are a number of folks going to the same place, so the author of the note will doubtless have plenty of company enroute and should meet some old friends when he gets there.

Ernest Haupt was a visitor at Dows on Monday of this week.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

1923 AUGUST 1923

SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

Editorials

WHAT OF THE NEW MAN?

The unexpected death of President Harding was a severe blow not only to the United States, but to the entire world. No ruler, no national executive, in the world has the power of our president. And today, none is more important. America's chief today is beyond question the greatest man in the world. Upon him rests the attention and thought of every nation.

In Harding's death we have lost a good man. It was never said of him that he favored one over another, or that he was controlled by a side or faction. He was a compromise candidate, and he went into office freeer from entanglements than our public officials usually do. The presidential job is the hardest job in the world; a job that in the end breaks a man and leaves him glad to get out. None can say that Harding failed to do as he thought best. He had an exceedingly difficult position, and altho he made his mistakes the same as any other, he was a good president. We have lost a good man.

But what of the new president, Calvin Coolidge? Where does he stand and what are his policies? The vice president is, normally, merely a figurehead, a sort of invited guest to whom little attention is paid. The president is the greatest man in the world. There is a great difference. America, while it mourns the departed president, is wondering what the new president is going to do. He knows we are waiting. His every move will carry a vast significance. What will he do? Europe wonders, the politicians are up in the air, the people are waiting and watching.

America seems to be blessed with the right man at the right time. Perhaps in Coolidge the right man was found. His record is good, his previous policies have been progressive. If he carries on as we believe he will America will be riding safely on the troubled waters. It is our duty to have faith in him, to give him our support, until he proves that he is not deserving. Coolidge has a hard place to fill, and he will need all the support he can get.

A FEW IMPROVEMENTS

It has been said that it is often the little things that count. There is a lot to that. Many times the big things are incomplete without the little ones.

A recent visitor to Belmond, Cap. Tyrrell, brought to the attention of the Independent one of the "little things," the walk to the cemetery given by Henry Crist. This walk, one of the nicest gifts of Uncle Henie, needs attention. All along the way to the grove, the walk is more or less overgrown with weeds, so much so in places that one must keep to the very center of the walk to avoid them. Mr Tyrrell says that Belmond should keep its gift in better shape, and the Independent agrees with him.

A little attention will remedy this little thing. Whose place is it? Should we not look after the little things when the big things have been given us?

Another little thing Belmond should look after is the matter of lights and shelter at Tyrrell Park. Numerous complaints of tourists have reached the Independent lately regarding our park. Some of them are refusing to use it because of no lights, which, with the park some distance from town, is a serious handicap. Every one who goes to the park has only praise for its beauty, and in daylight it is a fine spot to camp. But after dark is another matter.

Belmond should erect a shelter in the park. Why not a log cabin, as has been done in other places? The material is there, free; who will donate the labor? Should we not have the grounds lighted? Could it not be done with a little time and boosting? And why not a telephone in the shelter? In case of an emergency at night, a telephone would be the difference, possibly, between life and death.

It is the little things that count.

"CAST OUT THE MOTE"

For a year or more, some folks have been cussing the Iowa Valley Operating Co. for dumping refuse in the Iowa river during the operating campaign and thereby killing all the bull heads, catfish and suckers.

Iowa Falls seems to have been the headquarters of the agitation, with the Isaac Walton League as the instigator.

Iowa Falls has some dead fish a floatin' around down there today, even tho the Belmond factory has not been operating since last December.

Iowa Falls dumps its city sewerage in the Iowa river.

An Iowa Falls citizen said recently that some folks down there thought there was too much talk about the Belmond factory. Maybe Iowa Falls would be asked to build a disposal plant for its sewerage.

Iowa Falls papers please copy.

ONE EDITOR'S SCHEDULE

We recently came across a schedule of prices charged by a country weekly editor, who offers to give a per cent of his earnings each year to founding an asylum for those febble-minded people who believe that an editor has a soft snap. Here is the schedule—read it closely:

For telling the public a man is a successful citizen when everybody knows he is as lazy as a bench warmer—$2.75.

For referring to some galavanting fellow as one who is mourned by the entire community when he will only be missed by the boozers—$10.08.

Referring to one as a hero and a man of courage and one who will stand by his convictions when everybody knows he is a moral coward and would sell out for 30 cents—$16.21.

Referring to some gossipy female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet and know when every man in town would rather see Satan coming—$8.10.

Calling an ordinary preacher an eminent divine—60 cents.

Lambasting the daylights out of John Barleycorn at the behest of the local dry forces—$6.77.

Whooping 'em up for the recall of the Volstead law in the interests of the members of the local Funnel Club—$6.77.

Referring to a deceased merchant who never advertised and who was too stingy to contribute toward needed public improvement as a leading citizen and a progressive resident—$349.99.—Sheldon Mail.

WITH A CAPITAL M

"You know all the capitals?"
"Yes, that is, of all the states."
"Well, what is the capital of the state of matrimony?"
"That's easy—Money."

LOCALS

Father Barry, from Webster City, is visiting this week with his sisters and brothers in Belmond.

Mrs. Carrie Sheffield, of Fort Dodge, was in town the first of the week looking after business interests and visiting relatives.

F. J. Tuffree left Tuesday for Minneapolis, where he will receive treatments during the week at a sanatorium there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wallace were Sunday guests with friends at Boone.

Ray Hawley and family, of Hayfield, Iowa, are guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Green.

Mrs. Edna Hall, of Ohio, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pletch drove to Latimer, Sunday, where they spent the day with friends and relatives.

Crist Friesleben and Wm. Vestweber were business callers at Fort Dodge last week Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wenzel, Sr., were guests at the John Wenzel home in Alexander, Sunday.

The Misses Marjory Williams and Mildred Veeder went to Des Moines, Monday, to attend a house party at the home of one of their Grinnell college friends.

Mrs. Miltner returned to her home in Iowa City the first of the week, after a visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. C. Barry.

The Cemetery Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Earn Luick on Friday, August 10th. The hostesses are Mesdames E. W. Luick, H. N. Hill, Snyder, and Miss Pals.

Mrs. H. L. Bamford left the first of the week for California, where she will visit her mother, Mrs. King. She was accompanied by Gladys Qualey, who is going to her home at Silverton, Oregon.

Messrs. Roy Goetzke and Henry Sprau were visitors over Sunday with home folks at Meservey. They left Sunday night for Fort Dodge where they are employed as carpenters on the Great Western railroad.

Mrs. Wm. Meyer and daughter, Mrs. Awvae, of Chicago, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Ben Smith, and with other relatives and friends.

For Sale—Modern semi-bungalow, oak finish, on North 3rd Ave. M. O. Crawford. 381c

H. J. Klemme and daughter, Ruth were visitors at Mason City on Tuesday.

Clifford Trees, who has been very ill the past few weeks, is much improved and is now able to sit up.

F. J. Tuffree was a business caller at Alexander on Monday morning of this week.

BEWARE THE AMMUNITION

He—I had a good joke to tell you this evening, but I see you are not in a condition to hear it.

She—Why?

He—Because if your face lights up the powder will go off.

BAD BREAK

"Tom says his heart is broken. I refused him." "Why so did I." "Then it's a compound fracture."

NATURAL SCIENCE

She: "Come, Dick, we must be going. I felt a drop of rain on my cheek."

He: "You forget we are under a weeping willow."

In the matter of the Estate of Charles B. Smith, Deceased:

NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE

The undersigned executor of the above entitled estate was on the 19th day of June, 1923, authorized by the District Court of Wright County, Iowa, to sell the real estate belonging to the above estate at public sale to the highest bidder, consisting of 300 acres, and said executor by virtue of said order of court and terms of the will of said decedent will on the 20th day of August, 1923, at two o'clock p. m. upon the premises sell to the highest bidder the East Half of Northwest Quarter and the Southwest Quarter of Northeast Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, consisting of 140 acres, and the South east Quarter of Section 4, Township 93, Range 23, containing 160 acres; said real estate being situated in Pleasant Township, Wright County, Iowa. Said real estate will be sold in two tracts, there being two sets of improvements. Said real estate to be sold for cash terms. $3,000.00 to be paid upon each tract by purchaser upon day of sale, balance to be paid when deed is given and approved by Court. For further particulars see or write the undersigned executor.

CORWIN L. SMITH
Executor of Said Estate. 354

A GENTLE REMINDER

Mrs. Benham—Do you remember when you kissed me under the mistletoe?

Benham—I remember it every time one of your bills comes in.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by
THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.
Oelwein, Iowa
T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa
Agent
Phone 196 or 115

Save To Educate Your Children!

The importance of education for your children goes without debate. You may leave them penniless, but with an education they always can make their way in the world.

For that reason it is essential that you adopt some systematic plan of saving---some plan whereby they are assured the right kind of education.

Come to this Bank and let us show you several excellent methods whereby you can set aside a certain sum over a certain number of years and provide for your children's future.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

TO INVESTORS!

If you have some surplus money to invest for a short time at an attractive rate of interest,

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY
CONVERTIBLE NOTES

will meet your requirements.

We will issue a number of these Notes for periods of one, two, three, four and five years, and they will bear a Special Privilege of Conversion which should prove of value.

For the particulars see Mr. H. F. Kellogg, our Manager at Iowa Falls, or write the Securities Department, 215 S. 2nd Street, 2nd Floor, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Iowa Falls Electric Company
Iowa Falls, Iowa

FARM BUREAU NOTES

John W. Coverdale.

Secretary American Farm Bureau Federation, who will deliver the address at the county picnic and exhibit at Eagle Grove on August 22.

Cash For Boys and Girls

Members of the Boys' and Girls' clubs of Wright county will be interested in the list of cash prizes which have been arranged for the exhibits in the various departments.

The committee in charge of the different departments of the club exhibit have worked out the cash prizes in such a way as to give equal opportunity to all club members to exhibit and to make winnings at the club show.

Prizes For Baby Beef Exhibits: Hereford: $4, $3, $2, $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c; Aberdeen Angus: $4. $3, $2, $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c; Shorthorn: $4, $3, $2, $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Prizes for Purebred Gilt Exhibits: Poland Chinas: $2.50, $1.75, $1.25, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c; Duroc Jersey: $2.50, $1.75, $1.25, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c; Spotted Poland China: $2.50, $1.75, $1.25, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c; Chester White: $2.50, $1.75, $1.25, $1.00, 75c, 50c, 25c; Hampshire: $2.50, $1.75, $1.25, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Prizes for Poultry Exhibits. The following cash prizes will be awarded in each breed: Three or more birds or trios entered: First—75c and blue ribbon; second—50c and red ribbon; third—25c and white ribbon.

Two birds or trios entered: First—50c and blue ribbon; second—25c and red ribbon. Where only one is entered—First 25c and blue ribbon.

Girls' club prizes: club uniform, $1.50 $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Cotton school dress (other than club uniform) suitable for tall, slender girl: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Set of three pieces of Underwear, suitable for girls of club age, accompanied by card giving age of girls by whom garments are to be worn: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Wash suit, suitable for boy, 3-6 years of age: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Wash dress suitable for girl, 3-6 years of age: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Garment suitable to be worn at club picnic (other than middy suit) $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Collar and cuff set: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Posters, full length silhouttes, showing good and bad postures for girls (one or two posters: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Best demonstrations: $1.50, $1, 75c, 50c, 25c.

Club getting most prizes: $2.50, $1.50, $1, 75c, 25c.

Junior Livestock Judging Contest

Members of the Junior Livestock Judging club met at the home of Chester Moellering. two and one-half miles northwest of Rowan, last Wednesday afternoon where, thru the kindness of Mr. Moellering, the county agent had arranged two classes of dairy cattle and one class each of horses and hogs for the boys to work on.

The boys in the judging club are rounding into shape for the statewide contest at Des Moines and with a few more visits to some of the livestock farms in our county, they will be in good training for the state contest.

The boys will spend Thursday afternoon, August 9, at the Kirstein Brothers' farms, where they will judge several classes of Purebred Polled Hereford beef cattle and from there they will drive to the F. M. Zenor farm near Woolstock where classes will be arranged in big type Poland China hogs, also one or two classes of draft horses.

Members of the livestock judging club will accompany the county agent on a trip to Ames, Saturday, August 11, where they will enter the state-wide junior livestock judging contest which has been arranged by Prof. H. H. Kildee, head of the animal husbandry department at the college. The Ames contest will be more or less of an elimination contest and the members of the team which will represent Wright county at the state fair will be selected more or less on the showing which is made at Ames. All members of the judging club will accompany the county agent on a trip to the North Iowa fair at Mason City Tuesday, August 14, where the boys will compete with junior livestock judges from about 16 counties of nothern Iowa.

Cunningham At State Fair

Iowa Farm Bureau folk will have an opportunity to listen to Mr. Cunningham soon in the capacity of a member of the Federal Reserve board. He has agreed to attend the state fair and address the farm bureau meeting to be held on Monday, August 27.

Under the circumstances this is quite a concession on Mr. Cunningham's part, even though, he would rather be in Iowa than any other place under the sun. But he is very busy with the duties of his new position, which he took up only 60 days ago. However, he has been persuaded to come out for the occasion, and federation members may expect a few pages from his experience in Federal Reserve work.

Complete program for the Farm Bureau day, August 27, is as follows, with President Charles Hearst presiding:

9:00—Concert.

10:00—Community Singing. Address of welcome by C. E. Cameron, President State Fair. Response by President Hearst.

Music by ladies quartette.

Address by E. H. Cunningham, member Federal Reserve Board.

Afternoon

1:30—Music by State Fair Orchestra and community singing.

2:00—Reading by Miss Margaret Webster.

10-minute talk by Mrs. C. E. Loomer, Clay county.

10-minute talk by Mrs. Henry Wood, Woodbury county.

Address by Mrs. Harley Condra, Wayne county.

Music.

Discussion of Current Organization Topics, led by Leroy Anderson. of Hardin county, and Mrs. Tom Jordon of Mahaska county.

Farm Bureau Camp

The farm bureau camp at the state fair will be conducted this year as usual. The fact that Mr. and Mrs. Grant Chapman have consented to look after the general management of the camp insures its success. Mr. I. W. Van Nice and son, James, have likewise volunteered their services to the camp.

A. R. Corey, secretary of the state fair board. reports that many improvements have been made and that added accomodations will be provided for the farm bureau campers this year. The fair board is interested in the farm bureau camp It is hoped that the camp will be bigger and better than ever this year.

It is hoped that all the Farm Bureau members in the state will be informed regarding the camp and report promptly to their county agent so that the necessary arrangements may be made in regard to locating the tents, etc. In so far as possible, the tents will be grouped by counties. The choice of location will depend more or less upon the promptness with which reservations are made. All who have tents of their own will do well to bring them to camp and thus save some expense. In all such cases a report should be made to the county agent so that the tent may be located with the others from the same county.

Social At Lincoln Church

The regular monthly meeting of the Lincoln Township Farm Bureau was held at the Lincoln church Friday evening. August 3, when a goodly number of the farmers of that township gathered for an evening's entertainment consisting of music, readings, and dialogues, and other interesting numbers.

L. W. Collins. director of Lincoln farm bureau, was in charge of this meeting and opened the program with a short talk, which was followed by a piano duet by Vivian and Lois Cooley. This was followed by a short talk by the county agent. after which Mrs. Harry LaBarr gave a splendid reading. Miss Ketchum, who is visiting at the Dwight Ketchum home, followed with two unusual readings.

The special feature of this program was the inspiring address which was given by Rev. J. B. Walker of the Methodist church of Clarion, who spoke on the application of the Golden Rule to commercial and industrial affairs of life. According to Mr. Walker, the farmers have the right to organize as long as the organization squares itself with the Golden Rule. He spoke of the farm bloc, and the wonderful work which this organization has been doing in behalf of the farmer, but he said he hoped the time would soon come when blocs would not be necessary in carrying on the affairs of our great commonwealth. He feels that farm bloc is a very necessary instution at present as a matter of self-protection.

Here and There

Dr. Missman and family spent Sunday visiting at Belmond.—Klemme Times.

J. P. Larsen & Sons of this city have sold their meat market at Garner to Frank Perkins of Garner and Leman Twaites of Charles City. Mr. Perkins has managed their Garner shop for over a year, or since Scoop Larsen took over the Belmond shop. —Times.

Mrs. Robert Beckett spent Thursday with her parents at Belmond.—News.

Miss Blanche Rohrback spent a few days with Belmond friends last week.—News.

Miss Iris Trumbell of Belmond was visiting at the Sumner Trumbell home near here for a few days the past week.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carlston and son LeRoy accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Carlston and daughter Margaret of Belmond on an auto trip to Galesburg, Ill., last week Wednesday, where they visited until the first of this week with the Messrs. Carlston's father and other relatives and friends —Reporter.

The Pritchard and Barnes families attended the Home Coming at Belmond, Thursday. It was a fine time for everyone of the old timers. and no doubt such celebrations will be held every year. Cap. Tyrrell was one of the old settlers who was called upon to respond to the address of welcome. But first, we should say that Walt Ramsay was the first one called upon. Belmond people take great pride in the success that Mr. Ramsey has made politically, and of the fine way he has handled the state's affairs while he has been secretary of state. Mr. Ramsey made a fine address. Mr. Tyrrell told the people of his travels and expressed upon his hearers that he had never yet seen the investment that was safe and sure, and equal to Iowa Land.—Signal.

Charlie Luick, wife and son, Lee, and the Joe Stearnes family spent Sunday at Belmond.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. John Butterfield. Mr. and Mrs. George Avery and Cyrus Church of Belmond were visiting here Saturday.—Times.

Miss Lorraine Lieuwen and brother Coolidge, of Belmond, are spending this week with their cousin , David Baker. at Lake View park.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brooks and family from Belmond were Sunday visitors at the Edward Nelson home.—Reporter.

Wm. Nelson of Belmond was a Kanawha caller on Tuesday.—Reporter.

Francis G. Keane is visiting his sister Mrs. John J. Sloan and family at Belmond. Mr. and Mrs. Sloan and children came down Wednesday to attend the band concert and for a brief visit with relatives and Francis accompanied them home. —Williams Item in W. C. News.

OBSERVED TIME LIMIT

We were to have out-of-town guests for dinner.

I had no salad forks, so I borrowed some from a neighbor. I cautioned my young son to say nothing about them during the meal.

He didn't, but just as we finished he picked up several of them and said. "Well. I guess we'd better take these things home now."

WILLING TO HELP

Madge—I hear she married him out of sympathy.

Marjorie—Yes; she was sorry to see such a rich young man spending all his money on himself.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, AUGUST 9, 1923. No. 20.

When you come to town you like to stop on the corner and meet your neighbors, your friends, and swap notes with them on the way the world wags, don't you? In other words, you enjoy a friendly little visit with them.

So do we. We like to meet you when you come to town, to talk crops and cows and threshing and things in general. We are as interested in farming as you are, every bit. Why shouldn't we be? You till the soil, we furnish the tools; the success of the venture depends on us both, and means everything to us both. If you get a good crop and a good price, we know you will get a number of things you have been wanting to, some of them things that we sell. If you don't have success, then your business will react on our business, and we both suffer.

Our interest in you and your success is entirely a friendly one. We like to see folks prosper; all folks; just as we want to ourselves. The trouble has been that the farmer, who puts in as long hours as anybody, hasn't had the success he deserved. Sometimes, we admit, it has been his own fault, but largely we believe it has been due to the fault of our system of selling our agricultural products. Farmers today are coming to the co-operative idea, and just as co-operation made the unions strong, so will it in time put you and your neighbor in a position where you will not have to do as the whim of the broker dictates.

We have our problems to solve, just as you have. And your problems are ours, because they affect us. We are really interested in you, as we want your friendly interest in us. We'll both go a long ways farther together than we would singly. And going along in a friendly fashion is much better for us both. You know, we like to be friends; it's so much nicer! We want you to feel that Griesy's is a friendly place, interested in you and yours. We like to do friendly things! Let us do them for you. If you have a little errand you want done in town, why our phone is No. 10, and we will do it while you are cranking up Henry to come in, and glad to.

Our idea of good business is one where friendship and service and quality equal 100 per cent. If we are your friend, we will serve you. When we serve you, we want to give you real service. And we want the quality of the friendship, the service, and our goods to be alike. Our goods are quality, and it is up to us to make the other two equal our goods. That's our aim, folks, the goal we keep shooting at. If our arrows fall wide of the mark, we'll pick them up and shoot again. We want you to remember, always, first of all, that Griesy's is a friendly place.

WAS THAT POSSIBILITY

A little girl of six sat looking thoughtfully out of the window of her home the other day. Her mother questioned her as to the cause of her seriousnss.

"Oh," she replied, "I was just thinking that when I grow up to be a big lady I'm going to get married and have three children."

Her mother, although very much surprised, was also amused.

"You will be very fortunate indeed," replied the fond parent.

The little miss grew silent and thoughtful again. Finally she said: 'jBut, of course, you can never tell, mother, I might marry a bachelor."

A small boy's idea of happiness is to be able to lick another boy a size larger.

KNEW HER MOTHER

"And shall I speak to your father, dearest?"

"Yes, but for goodness' sake, don't say a word to mother."

"Why not?"

"Because we don't want the engagement made public for two or three days yet."

There'll come a thrashing time for those who sow wild oats.

Buick for 1924!

Buick again creates a new standard of car comfort, safety, utility and beauty. And Buick again establishes a new dollar for dollar value for quality motor cars.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, FLINT, MICH.
Division of General Motors Corporation

Pioneer Builders of Valve-in-Head Motor Cars

Branches in All Principal Cities—Dealers Everywhere

The Same Old Valve-In-Head Engine

Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Belmond, Iowa

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Buick Models and Prices

SIXES

Five Passenger Touring..	$1295
Two Passenger Roadster..	1275
Five Passenger Sedan ...	2095
Five Passenger Double Service Sedan.....	1695
Seven Passenger Touring	1565
Seven Passenger Sedan..	2285
Brougham Sedan	2235
Four Passenger Coupe...	1995
Three Passenger Sport Roadster.....	1675
Four Passenger Sport Touring	1725

FOURS

Five Passenger Touring..	$ 965
Two Passenger Roadster.	935
Five Passenger Sedan ...	1495
Four Passenger Coupe...	1395

Prices f. o. b. Buick Factories; government tax to be added. Disc Wheels optional, $25.00 net additional charge.

1924

MESERVEY SECTION

Prof. Waalkes, of German Valley, occupied the ulpit at the Reformed church last Sunday.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Miss Altes, of Steele, N. D. is visiting at the Dave Enabnit home with her sister, Mrs. Fred Enabnit.

For sale or rent, a 4-room house. See W. F. Larson, Meservey, Iowa. 35tfc.

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

August News

Now that Threshing time is here, we are prepared to fill your orders.

We have Cream and Brick Cheese and Butter, always on ice.

A good supply of Dried and Canned Fruits, Pickles, Pork and Beans, Salmon, and everything that goes to make up a good threshers' dinner.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

NOTICE!

If you owe us money, this is a good time to settle.

We Need the Money!

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

MONEY

represents human power. It is of vital importance to you whether its force is exerted for or against you. Money saved is your friend, ready to help you when you need help most urgently.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

C. J. Wendell visited his wife and son at the Park Hospital last Sunday.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enabnit and son Ivan, of Mason City, are staying at the home of their son. Fred, during the absence of Mrs. Enabnit.

John Peters and wife, Louie and wife and daughter, and Art, of Alexander were calling in town last Friday evening.

Rev. Schlesselman and postmaster Smith motored to Algona last Thursday on a business errand.

Mrs. Emma Dorenkamp and daughter Esther were in Thornton between train last Thursday, the latter having dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bier returned on Friday of last week from their trip to Illinois, visiting at the home of Fred Pieper at Naperville, and with old friends and relatives at other points in that state. They report a very delightful trip.

The Misses Tillie Pals and Jennie Meinderts are visiting relatives and friends at Little Rock, this state, and at Soo Falls, S. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gerdes and daughter Lena, were Mason City callers last Friday, to consult the doctors in regard to the latter's health.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Waddington and children were to Rockford on Wednesday of last week visiting the Jim Wilson family for the day.

JUST TELL THE MEN THAT YOU GOT YOUR THRESHING AND LUNCH MEATS FROM WAAGE & RUITER AND YOU WILL HAVE A SATISFIED CREW.

We have the best butter on hand.

We buy Cream

We Deliver Threshing Meat

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

MICKIE SAYS—

RUPTURE

EXPERT HERE

Seeley, Famous In This Specialty, Called To Mason City

F. H. Seeley, of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted truss expert, will personally be at the Hanford Hotel, and will remain Friday only, August 17. Mr. Seeley says: "The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incissional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions. Warning—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surpical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. He will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

P. S.—Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. Seeley.

Home Office, 117 N. Dearbarn St., Chicago.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

HEINIE, PLEASE NOTICE

Our friend Heinie, if you will remember, sent us a clipping some time back referring to editors who were on the inside looking out. We submit the following clipping to further strengthen our reputation—and incidently, we are looking up some statistics on barbers:

"Of more than 5,000 prisoners in the Leavenworth (Kans.) federal prison, there is not a single newspaper reporter or news editor. The warden declared much difficulty has been experienced in getting out the prison paper because of the lack of reporters and news editors. Volunteers were asked for and no one responded so a survey was made and it was found that out of 5,000 or more men there was not a reporter nor an editor inside the prison walls.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rankins were callers at this place Monday evening.

Albert Wendell and Howard Casebeer and their wives were Sunday visitors at the home of the latter's parents at Waseca, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Drewes and sons of Chicago returned to their home last Sunday after visiting for several days at the Wm. Messelheiser home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nissen, Mrs. John Hartfelder, Mrs. Frank Nissen and Arlene were Mason City dental callers one day the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Wm. Messelheiser submitted to the removal of her tonsils at one of the Mason City hospitals last week.

Rev. Reeverts and family from Stout visited several days last week at the Rev. Pannkuk home.

Simon Echoff was a Thornton caller last Wednesday, having dental work done.

H. Proost, Harm Groen, C. J. Wendell and Harry Smith were Mason City callers last Wednesday p. m. driving up in the former's car.

Grandma Wickersheim visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Schmidt, and family in Belmond several days last week.

Mrs. Dave Enabnit and younger children are visiting her parents in Cedar Falls. Mrs. Enabnit had been ill for some time and it was thought best for her to rest up and be where she could receive medical aid.

Mrs. H. Brater was a Mason City dental caller last Thursday.

Ed. Schmidt of Belmond was a business caller here last Thursday evening.

John Ruiter returned home Tuesday evening from Thornton, where he had been for a few days taking the station agent's place, while that gentleman and his family were away for a few days.

Mrs. Schroedemeier returned to her home in Waverly last Thursday evening, after visiting at the Raecker and Fischer homes since Sunday. Mrs. Butz accompanied her as far as Dumont, where she will visit relatives about a week. Fred Menzel drove them over to Coulter by auto.

ANOTHER BIG FARM FIRE NEAR KLEMME LAST WEEK

Last Monday night the Charles Lawhorn farm near Klemme was the scene of a destructive fire which consumed practically all the buildings on the place. The fire started about 9.30 in the evening, and the large barn filled with Lawhorn's hay crop of the year, was burned, together with five horses and some calves, all the harness and other articles in the building. A new hog house went up in smoke, a grainery and corn crib with 500 bushels of corn and 700 bushels of oats, the chicken shed and some chickens, machine shed and practically all the machinery on the farm, and most of the tools were consumed. Practically everything but the house and car was destroyed. A little insurance was carried, but not enough to meet the loss by several thousand. No clew has been found as to the origin of the blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Speck and son and daughter, of Wichita, Kansas, are visiting at the Joe Smith home. Mr. Speck and Mrs. Smith are brother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nissen had for their over Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wright and son, and Miss Martha Sloss, of Ames. The latter remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Courtney and daughter, Marjory, of Belmond were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Reif on Sunday evening. They were returning to their home from Thornton where they visited at the Joe Courtney home.

Rev. and Mrs. Pannkuk and Lydia left last Monday afternoon for Stout where they will visit several days at the Rev. Reeverts home and also attend the Bible Conference being held at Riverview Park, Cedar Falls, this week.

The Cemetery Society will meet with Mrs. Joe Smith on Tuesday, August 14th for the regular meeting. All are invited to attend.

A. E. Muller and wife, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. S. Hulsebus motored to Cedar Falls last Sunday to attend the Bible Conference which began its session that day. On Monday they visited friends at Cedar Falls and the former made a short business trip to Waterloo, all returning home that evening.

August Guth and daughters, Miss Irene and Mrs. L. Foss, and Miss Mildred Gealow were Mason City callers last Monday afternoon.

G. E. Raecker went to Mason City on No. 16 Monday afternoon, returning in the evening with a new Chevrolet car.

Misses Mary Becker and Mary Haas, of Fort Dodge, returned to their home last Sunday after a week's visit at the Unferferth home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Groen and younger children visited his brother Crist and family in Belmond last Sunday afternoon.

Geo. Sundlinger, of Fort Dodge arrived Sunday for a short visit with his children who are spending the summer with their grandmother Unferferth.

.....WHEN IN NEED OF.....

Quality Lumber and Millwork
Coal, Salt, Drain Tile
Building Blocks, Floor Blocks
Steel Gates, Can't Sag Gates
Woven Wire, Steel and Cedar Posts
Screen Doors, Window Screens
Lime, Cement, Etc.

See Us and Save Money

IOWA AUTOMATIC HOG DOOR
Try One

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

CARLOAD OF

Woven Wire

Barb Wire

- And -

Nails

IN SOON!

See us for prices before buying somewhere else.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

ROWAN NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Rowan Methodist Church

"The Church is the State's hope of stability. As an act of patriotism come to church."

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m. The place to start the Sabbath right.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. The hope of the church. Bring the children and the good will be many fold.

Morning worship at 11 a. m. The theme: "The Man of Sorrow."

Epworth League at 7 p. m. Lorine Liming, leader.

No evening preaching at our church The pastor speaks at the union services at the Congregational church.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:30. A hearty welcome for all at all our services.

A telephone has been installed in the pastor's study at the Methodist church. The number is 45, the same as the parsonage.

Plans are being made to build a new Methodist parsonage. The house will be built modern and two stories.

The Azeltine Brothers have purchased a threshing machine, which they will use with their engine.

Mrs. Mary Braden spent several days of last week at the J. E. Baines home near Dows.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. French departed Monday by auto for Wadena, Minn., to visit Mr. French's brother Eugene. They expect to visit several other places before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boyington and baby from Mason City spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Boyington.

Prof. Holliday and family returned from their eastern trip last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arbright and son Lloyd and Mrs. Mary Beck, from Polo, Ill., visited at Mrs. Ina Stumphs last Thursday. Mrs. Arbright is a great aunt of Mrs. Stumph.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

About 46 of the members of the Azeltine family enjoyed a family reunion and picnic at the Community Park near Dows last Sunday after church, in honor of their cousins, Frank Gage and family, and also A. J. Azeltine, the occasion being his 84th birthday.

Word from Mrs. F. B. Sheldon states that they had arrived last Monday in Wenatche, Wash., where they expect to remain for an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Carl Hadley, and family.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Fowler have left Sioux Falls and gone up to Iroquois, S. D., to look after their farm interests. Miss Esther is staying with her sister, Mrs. Levi Johnson, at Sioux Falls.

Roy Cupp left Monday for Otho, where he has a job with the gravel gang.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krugg and family from Dixon, Ill., arrived last Wednesday for several days' visit at the James Langdon home.

Miss Alberta Peters of Highmore, S. D., arrived last week for a visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Esther Andrews, and other relatives.

Bernard Stumph went to Clarion last Friday to visit his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs Homer Parliman who have been visiting relatives here for several weeks, returned Sunday evening to their home at Minneapolis.

Several of the ladies of the W. C. T. U. are planning to attend an all-day Wright county convention at the Presbyterian church Thursday of this week.

Dr. Hornel Hart of the Iowa State University will speak along child welfare lines in the afternoon. This will be a lecture well worth hearing. There are other interesting items on the program. Dinner and supper will be served by the Clarion ladies.

All boys between the ages of 12 and 18 who are interested in Boy Scout work were asked to meet in Rev. Osborne's study at the M. E. church for the purpose of organizing a Boy Scout troop. Mr. Osborne has had considerable experience along this line, and will make a success of the work if possible.

The George Stephens family from Dexter came last Tuesday for a visit with their relatives here. Rev. Stephens is taking a two weeks vacation from his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Virden, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Emerson and family left Friday to attend a religious conference of the Congregational church.

The Girl Scouts of Clarion are camping this week in the woods on the property belonging to C. W. Fowler.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brooks Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantle were Hampton callers Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Butterfield from Long Beach, and Miss Wallace from Minneapolis, visited last week at the D. E. Harris home.

Pete Mathiason and family from Coulter, Lee Sellers and family from near Dows, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCallum, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sellers and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCallum and Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCallum enjoyed a picnic supper in the Wm. Steffens grove last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. E. Richards of Alexander visitedj at the Chas. and Ed. Richards homes last week.

Our new barber Chas. Scott, moved his family into the house vacated by L. W. McCallum last Thursday. Mr. Scott comes to Rowan well reccomended, having been employed recently in the barber shop at Belmond.

Miss Nellie Hackley came up from Dows, Thursday to spend the day with her home folks.

L. W. McCallum and family and his brother Donald departedj Thursday for the we t. They expect to make their home in Pasedena, where Mr. McCallum has employment in a barber shop.

The Wm. Duffy family returned from their Kansas trip last week.

Mrs. Henry Cowley and her two daughters of LaPorte City, arrived last Thursday for a visit with the A. F. Cowley family and with other old time friends.

Mrs. J. McAlpin of Mason City visited her son, J. J. McAlpin, and family last week.

Word received from Sheridan, Wyoming, last Friday stated that the one day old babe born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hammond had passed away Mrs. Hammond will be remembered as Miss Carrie Hiams.

W. H. Bingham and wife, daughter Faye, and Miss Ruth Dailey spent Thursday at the Diltz home at Webster City.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCallum went to Fort Dodge where the latter took the train for Sioux City where they expect to visit with friends until Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCallum and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McCallum plan to meet them at Omaha and the three families plan to leave at that time for their future home at Pasadena, Cal. Willard McCallum is taking his wife west hoping that her health may be benefited by the change in climate. We are very sorry to lose these people from our midst, but we extend our heartiest good wishes to them in their new location.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gage and daughter arrived Friday from Sioux Falls, S. D., to visit the Azeltines, who are cousins. They came from Rochester, Minn., and Cedar Falls, and were enroute to their home at Sioux Falls.

Mrs. Dan Bangs came up from Dows, Thursday, and spent the day at the Wm. Bailey, Sr., home. Mr. and Mrs. Bangs are back from California on a visit.

Miss Florence Gordon, at one time "hello girl" in the Rowan office, and now chief operator at Dows, called at the office here last Friday.

Virgil and Howard Colton of LaMonte, nephews of Bert Pelly's, dropped in at the Pelly home on last Thursday. They were on the way to Sioux Center to haul gravel.

Mrs. Floyd Whitten was an Alexander caller Monday afternoon.

Theo. Hansen and family returned Sunday from a week's vacation in Minnesota. They were at Minnehaha Falls and other places of interest.

At this week end the Rietz families are planning to attend a family reunion and the 80th birthday anniversary of Mrs. August Hartwig at Meservey. Mrs. Hartwig and Mrs. Henry Rietz are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Brinkman and children of Latimer were Sunday visitors at the H. J. Whitten home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Keith, Margaret and Miss Hazel Utz drove to Goldfield Sunday afternoon to see Mrs. Keith's sister, Mrs. Andrew McCutcheon, who is seriously ill.

Mrs. Ina Stumph and Garnette, Mr and Mrs. Edgar Mantle were Sunday visitors at the J. E. Miller home in Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fletcher and two children stopped at the Cliff Stefens home Sunday on their way to Bruce, Wis., to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Fletcher.

The Sheldons are reported to be enjoying the trip to the coast, but had to make some stops on account of the rains. The roads for the most part were good but somewhat rough Montana. Among the things of interest on the way was a combined thresher and sacker in the wheat fields of the Big Bend wheat country. The wheat was reported to be going from 40 to 60 bushels per acre.

ROWAN VISITED BY THIEVES

Some time Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning, thieves entered the D. W. Whitten general store, the drug store, post office, the hardware store, Fred Hackley general store, the garage and the Standard Oil tank station. They seemed to be strong for cash, as very little stock was taken. The cash amounted to somewhere around $40 or $50. At the Whitten store three pieces of silk and some men's silk hose were taken, and at the Hackley store a pair of men's oxfords were missed. The oil station probably yielded gasolene enough to fill their car.

A LITTLE OF BOTH

"Jack is perfectly devoted to that blonde. His family thinks it is a case of hypnotism."

"Huh! Seems to me more like chemical attraction."

ALEXANDER NEWS

Charlie Hansen was a Hampton caller last Saturday.

Miss Esther Larsen left last week for Estherville where she has accepted a position as telephone operator at that place.

Arthur Winwood was a business caller at Hampton on Saturday.

Miss Charity Hansen of Hampton visited at the home of her brother, Charley, the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jelto Pals were visitors at Hampton on Monday.

John F Bell was a business caller at Hampton, Monday.

Mrs. W. G. Schanke and children, Bobbie, Wilkie and Jean Marie, from Minneapolis, are visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. R. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Beenen were callers at Hampton last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughter Miss Jessie were Belmond callers Thursday.

Leonard Arends was a business caller at Belmond last Thursday.

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons, Belmond.

George D. Pals and daughter, Miss Jennie, of near Belmond, were callers in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens were Belmond visitors Monday.

Mrs. Oscar Hensel and sons Carrol and Donald, visited with relatives at Webster City several days the past week.

Mrs. Henry Polmateer and children were Belmond callers last Saturday.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals and son Ormal, Mr. and Mrs. Class Symens and Miss Susie Schulte visited with relatives at Greene last Sunday.

H. J. Bohlen and son Norman were business callers at Hampton on Saturday.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polmateer and children were Sunday visitors at Iowa Falls.

Dick Schmidt had the misfortune of spraining his ankle very severely while wrestling last Monday afternoon.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens were callers at Latimer on Monday afternoon.

GOODELL NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Miss Clara Johnson returned home Wednesday from a visit with her sisters in Minnesota.

Miss Mary Sullivan returned home Friday from Des Moines, where she spent three weeks with her brother and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlichting and Bill Tell spent Sunday at the Sandberg home.

Miss Maude Griggs spent a few days at the Jewel Cook home, helping Mrs. Cook with the housework.

Miss Eliza Cashman is spending some time in Hayfield caring for her farm interests.

The Matson family autoed to Ames Friday.

C. H. Tomkins and family of Garner drove thru our city Sunday afternoon.

The John Hughes family from Garner spent Sunday afternoon with relatives and friends here.

Mr. ad Mrs. Lewis Johnson are at New Richland, Minn., visiting their three daughters.

The Kenseth and Bier families were Sunday guests at the Avery home.

Mr. Matson and son were at Garner having dental work done last week.

Rev. H. T. Miller left for Holloway, Minn., Wednesday evening, to spend a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Benson from Kanawha spent Sunday afternoon at the Sandberg home.

Mrs. Albert Whitaker returned to her home in Garner, Saturday.

Morris Ahrenkeil, who has spent a week with his grandmother in this place, returned to his home Sunday.

John Miller spent several days at the Okrueg farm during the threshing season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hanson from Hartland, Minn., Mrs. Eric Hanson and two children of Vinett, Montana, visited Sunday at the Sandberg home.

The ladies of the Missionary society enjoyed a quiet picnic on the school grounds Friday afternoon. A few visitors present, and all report a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Houghton, Sundayed in Goodell.

The Conwell family and Mrs. T. R. Burgess autoed to Mason City Thursday.

Earl Clark spent Sunday with his family.

Mrs. Christensen, who has improved very much, returned with her daughter, Miss Hughes, of Garner.

Ethel Hughes returned to her home in Garner Sunday, after spending a week at the Louise Ahrenkeil home.

Mr. and Mrs. Donahue of Lakota are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Finn.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Butts, daughter Bernice and son Edward were Goodell callers Thursday.

Mrs. Amos Hanson and Miss Edith Sandberg drove to Garner, Thursday where the former is having dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCorkle from Kanawha Sundayed at the Graeber home.

Harvey Hubbard, Selwyn Houghton Louisa Mason and Edith Halfpop autoed to Cedar Falls to visit Margaret Kearney, who is attending summer school there.

Tony Boller and wife. Harvey Christensen and family drove to Clear Lake. Sunday.

Otto Kemp and family of Fort Dodge are visiting at the Will Schlichting home.

A large crowd enjoyed the free movies Saturday evening.

Ed. Mellum spent Sunday with his family.

Mrs. Iva Tracy is at her mother's home, Mrs. Archie Christie, during her mother's absence.

The Missionary program was well rendered at the U. B. church Sunday morning, the pastor being absent.

The farmers are very busy with threshing, and a good crop is being reported.

The many friends of the A. C. Carpenter family are hearing of their fine trip and sight seeing in Wisconsin and other localities.

A FIVE DOLLAR BILL

Crinkle, crinkle, little bill,
Goodness, gracious, you look ill.
Are you losing all your power?
You seem weaker every hour.
"Now that prices are so high
I'm so tired that I could die.
I just circulate all day,
No one dares put me away.
When the evening board is set
With the fruit of father's sweat
My small voice is hushed and still.
I am in the butcher's till.
And no matter where I go
People disregard me so.
I don't seem to count for much
Mong'st the profiteers and such."
Bill, take heart, your day may change,
I'll admit the times are strange.
Tho you're weak, I love you still,
Crinkle, crinkle, little bill.
—Selected.

When you think you are becoming great it is time to take heroic measures to prevent shrinking.

He who gets rich quick is apt to go broke in a hurry.

No man approves of flirting—unless he's in the deal.

Your friend will smile if you let your money talk.

Money may help the man who helps himself.

No man is so illiterate that he can not teach others something.

Before raising the dust with a touring car it is necessary to raise the "dust" for one.

Marriage often means dollars for a woman and doughnuts for the poor man.

USCO Users Stick

United States Tires are Good Tires

YOU can switch ordinary tire buyers from brand to brand.

But try to switch an Usco user. He knows. Usco Fabrics settle the tire question wherever they are tried.

Built to absorb punishment —and they do.

The big, rugged Usco Fabric is honest all the way through—no bargain streaks under the surface.

At the new prices especially—they are a great money's worth.

Where to buy U.S. Tires

Jones Harness Company

Belmond, Iowa

Harvest Time, Blistering Heat—

IT is in these times of pressure that the farmer thanks his lucky stars he chose an Allis-Chalmers tractor!

For in the Allis-Chalmers you find the ability to work as efficiently in hot weather as in the dead of winter! An oversize copper fin-and-tube type radiator positively prevents overheating, even though motor be held at full-rated horse power, hour after hour.

Cuts 40 Acres in 10-Hour Day

Hitched to two 8-foot binders, the A-C 15-25 holds a steady four-acres-an-hour gait. You forget about the weather—take the field and cut before the grain is over-ripe. The Allis-Chalmers water air-washer always gives plenty of cool, moist air—keeps the motor running smoothly even on scorching, dust-heavy days.

Operates 24-Inch Separator

Irregular feeding, matted bundles—of course you need an Allis-Chalmers tractor with its tremendous reserve! Equipped with automobile-type steering, the A-C 15-25 can be easily "lined-up" for belt work. Should it be necessary to stop thresher for a moment you don't have to "throw the belt"—just disengage the pulley clutch and motor runs idle.

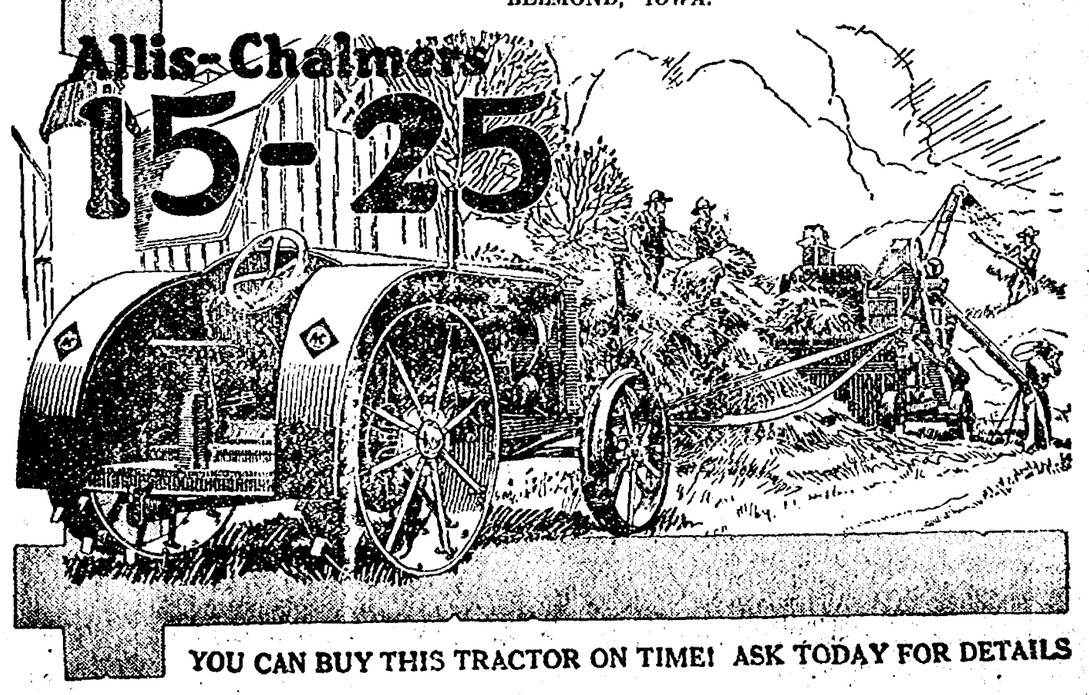
The A-C 15-25 motor holds a constant speed, too. As the load varies, an automatic governor advances or retards the throttle—keeps belt travel the same at all times.

By doing their own and custom work, many farmers have paid for their Allis-Chalmers tractors in one season. Come in—ask for a demonstration!

15-25 $1185, F. O. B. FACTORY

JOHNSON & WRIGHT

BELMOND, IOWA.



YOU CAN BUY THIS TRACTOR ON TIME! ASK TODAY FOR DETAILS

NOW NATION'S CHIEF EXECUTIVE

COOLIDGE TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

Sworn In by Father at His Home in Vermont.

GOES AT ONCE TO CAPITAL

Statement Issued Indicates That Present Cabinet Will Be Asked to Retain Office—Has Short Conference With Leaders.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Calvin Coolidge took the oath as President of the United States at Plymouth, Vt., at 2:47 a. m. today.

The ceremony took place in the living room of the residence of the new President's father, John C. Coolidge.

The oath of office was administered by the father, who is a notary public.

The text of the presidential oath had been telephoned to Mr. Coolidge at Plymouth from the White House.

How Coolidge Received News.

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 3.—President Calvin Coolidge received the news of the death of President Harding and of his own elevation to the presidency at ten minutes before midnight, standard time.

Mr. Coolidge received the first news through telegrams from George C. Christian, Jr., secretary to President Harding, and from the New York Times, whose telegram reached him at the same moment as the notification from Mr. Christian.

Statement by New Chief.

Mr. Coolidge issued the following statement:

"Reports have reached me, which I fear are correct, that President Harding is gone. The world has lost a good man. I mourn his loss. He was my chief and my friend. It will be my purpose to carry out the policies which he has begun for the service of the American people and for meeting their responsibilities wherever they may arise.

"For this purpose, I shall seek the co-operation of all those who have been associated with the President during his term of office. Those who have given their efforts to assist him I wish to remain in office, that they may assist me.

"I have faith that God will direct the destinies of our nation."

The following telegram was sent to Mrs. Harding:

"Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 3, 1923.

"Mrs. Warren G. Harding, San Francisco, Cal.: We offer you our depest sympathy. May God bless you and keep you.

"CALVIN COOLIDGE,
"GRACE COOLIDGE."

PRESIDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Calvin Coolidge grasped the helm of the ship of state as it fell from the lifeless hand of his captain, Warren G. Harding. Quietly he took upon himself the duties of pilot.

Up practically all night after receiving the news of his chief's sudden death, he had taken the oath to perform the duties of the thirtieth President of the United States.

Visits Mother's Grave.

Then a visit to his mother's grave and he was off to Washington. He arrived in the capital, after an all-day journey, at 9:10 p. m., accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, to be met at the railway station by an official party including Secretary of State Hughes and Postmaster General New. Before retiring he conferred with Secretary Hughes and Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican whip.

The new Chief Executive intends to remain in Washington until the body of Mr. Harding arrives from San Francisco Tuesday, and go to Marion, Ohio, for the burial.

President Coolidge went directly to his suite in the Willard Hotel, where he and Mrs. Coolidge will remain until Mrs. Harding, at her convenience, moves from the White House.

MILESTONES IN LIFE OF CALVIN COOLIDGE, 30TH U. S. PRESIDENT

Born July 4, 1872, at Plymouth, Vermont.

Graduated from Amherst college, 1895. Studied law at Northampton, Mass.

Married Grace A. Goodhue, Burlington, Vt., 1905.

Councilman of Northampton; city solicitor; clerk of courts; chairman Republican city committee, 1899 to 1904.

Member General Court of Massachusetts, 1907-'08.

Mayor of Northampton, 1910-'11.

Member of state senate, 1912-'15. President of senate, 1914-'15.

Lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, 1916-'17-'18.

Governor of Massachusetts, 1919-'20.

Elected vice president of United States, 1920.

Harding Fifth President to Be Buried in Ohio

Washington, Aug. 4. — President Harding is the fifth Chief Executive whose body has found a last resting place in the soil of Ohio.

William Henry Harrison, the ninth President, was the first to be buried in that state, interment being made at North Bend. Hayes was buried at Fremont; Garfield at Cleveland, and McKinley at Canton.

Four of the five died in office, Garfield and McKinley falling before assassins' bullets and Harrison dying from bilious pleurisy after serving only one month of his term.

HUMAN NATURE

Omar—Fifteen Indianapolis mothers agreed to decide by ballot which had the handsomest baby.

Heiny—What was the result?

Omar—Each baby got one vote.

IMPORTANT NEWS ITEMS

Oil refiners meeting at Kansas City refused to take concerted action to close down plants.

The German newspapers are asking insistently why the United States cannot be induced to send its surplus grain to Germany on easy terms.

The former crown princess of Germany traveled from Holland after a visit with her exiled husband, in a crowded train compartment.

The Navy department announced that Yerba Buena island (known as Goat island) has been abandoned as a training station for naval recruits.

Additional equipment which will total nearly $1,000,000 is being installed in the Standard Oil company plant at Whiting, Ind.

Diamonds valued at $80,000 were stolen from a safe on the steamship Boswell of the Lamport & Holt line, which arrived at New York from South America.

A terrific wind and rain storm did damage of about $75,000 near Glendale, Ariz. Crops were leveled, buildings demolished and trees, telephone poles and telegraph poles torn down.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced that a $20,000,000 Swiss loan would be floated in this country. A public offering of three-year notes has been made.

High winds fanned the fire which has covered more than 2,500 acres near the Magee ranger station, Idaho. Lightning is believed to have caused the blaze.

French troops occupied five coal mines in the town of Dortsfeld. The miners immediately quit work and the French forbade them to re-enter the premises.

The United States must recognize the Russian government if peace is to be established in Europe, Senator Borah said in an address at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Prison sentences ranging up to life imprisonment were imposed upon four Germans by the French court-martial at Werden for listening in on French military telephone lines.

Two hundred cases of choice cognac valued at $40,000, were confiscated at New York when the crew of the coast guard cutter Seminole took into custody the speedster Martha II a 40-foot motor launch.

The Farmers and Merchants' bank of Tolu, Ky., was destroyed by fire after yeggmen blew up the vault doors and escaped with loot thought to aggregate $20,000 in cash and Liberty bonds.

Farm lands and property in Illinois and all territory west of the Mississippi increased in value by approximately $44,000,000,000 during the last twenty years, according to figures published by the Railway Age.

A cloudburst and electrical storm, during which 7.26 inches of rain fell, caused thousands of dollars' worth of damage in Richmond, Va., and vicinity. The water reached a depth of fifteen feet. Many persons were rendered homeless.

Alfred Merian, Jr., of New York and his chum, Gaston Dallendsch of Switzerland, who lost their way on Mount Katahdin, Maine, were found near the monument of stones at the highest peak of the mountain, in fair physical condition.

DRIVE ON, JAMES!

The Ford taxi suddenly came to a halt in the middle of the street.

"What's the matter?" called the man on the back seat.

"I thought the young lady said 'stop'", answered the chauffeur.

"Well, she wasn't speaking to you, was she?"

Wise is he who selects an obedient daughter of a good mother for his wife.

SAYS IOWA COURTS TOO EASY ON BOOTLEGGERS

"Iowa's courts seem to be much more lenient with the violator of the prohibition law than are the courts of many of the states further west," declared William L. Wade, former superintendent of the Iowa League in a statement in which he compared Iowa Officials unfavorably with Wyaming law enforcers.

"The solution of a dangerous prohibition enforcement situation in Iowa rests in heavy jail and penitentiary sentences," says Sup't. Wade.

Wade calls attention to the fact that in Iowa the sentence for bootlegging is often a light fine while in Wyoming and other western states $200 is the minimum sentence for first offenses with possibilities of a term in prison. For second and all subsequent offenses jail sentences are compulsory. The Federal judge at Chyenne habitually imposes one year and one day in the Federal penitentiary on all second offenders. As a result liquor law violation is much less flagrant in Wyoming than in Iowa according to Wade's observation.

"I think the time should arrive when Iowa should recognize that bootlegging is as bad as any other crime and that its extermination rests in jail and penitentiary sentences for bootleggers.

"Personally I am in favor of generous jail sentences with sufficient extra fine to cover all expenses of prosecution. I am also in favor of punishing the purchaser as well as the bootlegger. He is no less an offender. With no demand there can be no supply."

Wade, who became superintendent of the Iowa League July 1 returns on September 1 to the superintendency of the combined Anti-Saloon leagues of Wyoming and Montana. His resignation from the Iowa post was made necessary by the illness of his daughter who is advised by physicians to make her home in a western climate.

GOVERNMENT MARKET REPORT

Washington.—For the week ending Aug. 2.—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Virginia and Maryland Irish cobbler potatoes, $5.00@5.75 per bbl. in city markets, $4.65@4.85 f. o. b. usual terms; Kentucky sacked Irish cobblers, $2.65@3.00 in midwestern cities. Georgia, North and South Carolina Tom Watson watermelons, 22-30-lb. average, $200.00@400.00 bulk per car, $115.00@350.00 f. o. b. cash track; Texas stock, $340.00@360.00 at Chicago. North Carolina cantaloupes, standard 45's, green meats, $2.25@2.50 few city markets. Georgia peaches, Elbertas and Belles, $2.25@3.25 per 6-basket carrier, reaching $3.50 in midwestern markets, $2.25@2.75 f. o. b. usual terms.

LIVE STOCK—Chicago prices: Hogs, top, $8.15; bulk of sales, $8.60@8.00; medium and good beef steers, $8.25@11.25; butcher cows and heifers, $3.50@10.50; feeder steers, $4.15@8.00; light and medium weight veal calves, $9.50@11.50; fat lambs, $10.50@13.00; feeding lambs, $10.50@12.50; yearlings, $7.75@11.00; fat ewes, $3.50@7.50.

HAY—No. 1 timothy, $20.00 Cincinnati, $21.00 Chicago, $17.00 Minneapolis, $18.50 St. Louis; No. 1 prairie, $14.50 Minneapolis, $15.50 St. Louis, $10.75 Kansas City; No. 1 alfalfa, $20.50 Kansas City.

FEED—Minneapolis bran $20.00; middlings, $25.00; flour middlings, $28.50; red-dog, $32.00; gluten feed, $31.15 Chicago; white hominy feed, $31.00 St. Louis, $32.00 Chicago; 32 per cent linseed meal, $42.00 Minneapolis.

GRAIN—Chicago cash market: No. 2 red wintor wheat, 99c; No. 2 hard winter wheat, 95c; No. 2 mixed corn, 87c; No. 2 yellow corn, 88c; No. 3 white oats, 33c. Average farm prices: No. 2 mixed corn in central Iowa, 75c; No. 2 hard winter wheat in central Kansas, 78c; No. 1 dark northern wheat in central North Dakota, 92c.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—Butter, 92 score, 41½c Chicago. Cheese prices at Wisconsin primary markets: Flats, 21¼c; single dai ies, 21¼c; double daisies, 21c; young Americas, 23¼c; longhorns, 22¾c square prints, 23c.

WELCOME STRANGER

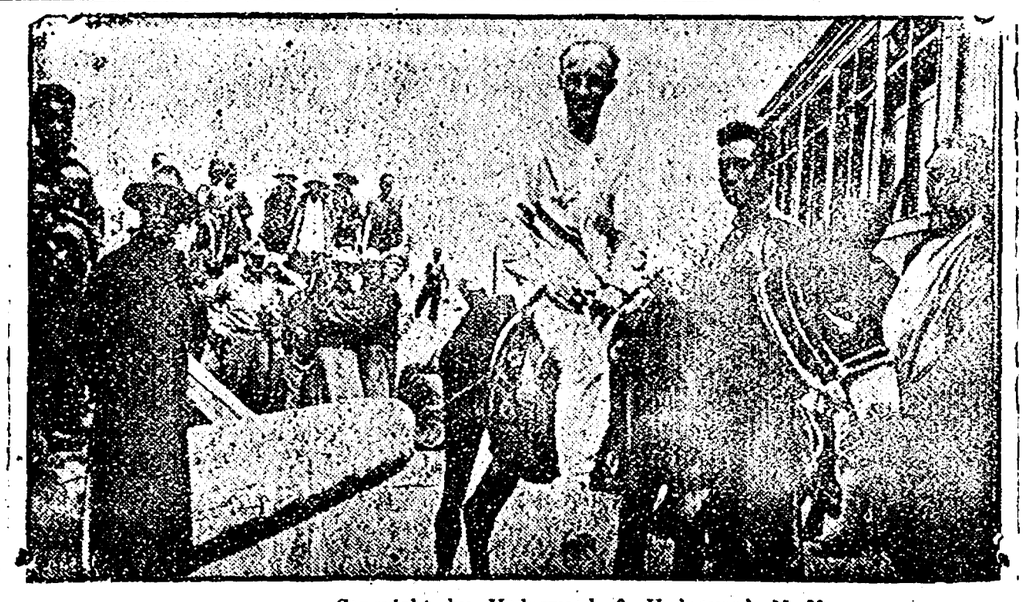
The Nurse—A little boy has just arrived.

The Father (who is an absent-minded office manager)—Take his name and address and put him to work at once. We need help badly.

A TEAR STOPPER

Bride: "Oh, Jerry boy, I made you the necest chicken pie today, and the cat ate it."

Hubby: "There, there, Queenie dear, don't cry. I'll get you another cat."



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

JEROME A. HENLEY ARRIVING AT RELIEF CAMP AFTER CHINESE BANDIT STRUGGLE.

An unusual photo of the bandit region in China, showing Jerome A. Henley, and American captive, on his arrival at the relief camp after the struggle to free himself from Chinese bandits. The man holding the donkey is a brigand guide and the other Chinese was a captive who had obtained his freedom.

Kinseth's Store News

Now is the time to get your peaches to can. We have them, the best on the market for canning. And the sugar too. So be sure to see us when you get ready to can.

—K—

That Peerless flour at $1.78 for a 49 pound sack is an honest to goodness bargain, and you certainly should take advantage of it. It is a real bread flour, as good for all kinds of pastries, and every sack is guaranteed.

—K—

Men's dress hose, brown and black are a special this week at 18 cents.

—K—

And ladies' hose at 18 cents too.

Then there are men's army socks which are really wool at only 30c a pair. Army blankets for $3.95, and Navy blankets of the heavy kind at $4.75. It isn't cold yet, but it is going to be, so why not get a pair now while the price is so low?

—K—

Of course we have all kinds of the best groceries, at prices that are in reason. When you need anything to eat this is the place to get them, because this is the place to learn how to be a wise one. You should do it for goodness' sake.

—K—

We're open every evening. Follow the crowds to the Store on the Corner.

Your Red Crown Guarantee

When you see a Red Crown Sign—no matter where—you may be sure that only Red Crown Gasoline flows from that particular pump.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is very proud of the quality and uniformity of Red Crown Gasoline.

Red Crown has won its way against the field. The man at home uses it and the tourist demands it.

Red Crown Gasoline Everywhere and Everywhere the Same

It starts instantly; it enables your car to get away quickly; to pick up smoothly without effort; it delivers to your rear wheels all the power your engine can develop—and tremendous speed, for Red Crown is fast gas.

Look for the Red Crown Sign.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

And the following Filling Stations and Garages:

J. E. Raecker, Meservey, Iowa
Olander Sandberg, Goodell

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

8295

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

Next to the impulses to satisfy hunger and thirst, and to rest when tired, the most elemental is to possess something; to acquire property. With possession comes the thought of protecting and so marking the property as to distinguish it from that belonging to others. The branding iron is only an improvement upon crude methods of marking in vogue since the beginnings of the human race. The brand has been put to many strange uses in its history, but in all probability, never to such an unusual one as forms the chief incident in this story.

This is a romance of the cattle country which presents to mind very vividly the natural characteristics and strong human types of that section. Primarily it is a love story in which the passions of virile, strong-willed, danger-defying people are realistically and powerfully revealed. Jealousy and revenge work havoc in the lives of certain of these people, who ultimately are redeemed by the effects of a great purifying love.

Katharine Newlin Burt is an authoress born in the state of New York, who has had much experience of the West and who finds great inspiration for her work in the life and characters of that region. Her novels are vigorous, but she does not treat so much of the adventurous side of western existence as do other writers. She deals more directly with the people themselves and evolves powerful stories out of their problems and their loves. Besides "The Branding Iron," her best known books are "Hidden Creek," "The Red Lady" and "Snow Blind." There are few writers who equal her in ability to make readers feel the emotions of her characters and the effects of life spent in close conjunction with wild nature.

Book One: The Two-Bar Brand

CHAPTER I

Joan Reads by Firelight.

There is no silence so fearful, so breathless, so searching as the night silence of a wild country buried five feet deep in snow. For thirty miles or so, north, south, east and west of the small, half-smothered speck of gold in Pierre Landis' cabin window, there lay, on a certain December night, this silence, bathed in moonlight. The cold was intense: below the bench where Pierre's homestead lay there rose from the twisted, rapid river a cloud of steam above which the hoar-frosted tops of cottonwood trees were perfectly distinct, trunk, branch and twig, against a sky the color of iris petals. The stars flared brilliantly, hardly dimmed by the full moon, and over the vast surface of the snow minute crystals kept up a steady shining of their own. The range of sharp, wind-scraped mountains, uplifted fourteen thousand feet, rode across the country, northeast, southwest, dazzling in white armor, spears up to the sky, a sight, seen suddenly, to take the breath, like the crashing march of archangels militant.

In the center of this ring of silent crystal Pierre Landis' logs shut in a little square of warm and ruddy human darkness. Joan, his wife, made the heart of this defiant space—Joan, the one mind living in this ghostly area of night. She had put out the lamp, for Pierre, starting townward two days before, had warned her with a certain threatening sharpness not to waste oil, and she lay on the hearth, her rough head almost in the ashes, reading a book by the unsteady light of the flames. She followed the printed lines with a strong, dark forefinger and her lips framed the words with slow, whispering motions. It was a long, strong woman's body stretched there across the floor, heavily if not sluggishly built, dressed rudely in warm stuffs and clumsy boots, and it was a heavy face, too, unlit from within, but built on lines of perfect animal beauty. The head and throat had the massive look of a marble fragment stained to one even tone and dug up from Attic earth. And she was reading thus heavily and slowly, by firelight in the midst of this tremendous northern night, Keats' version of Boccaccio's "Tale of Isabella and the Pot of Basil."

She Followed the Printed Lines With a Strong, Dark Finger.

The story for some reason interested her. She felt that she could understand the love of young Lorenzo and of Isabella, the hatred of those two brothers and Isabella's horrible tenderness for that young murdered head. There were even things in her own life that she compared with those; in fact, at every phrase she stopped, and, staring ahead, crudely and ignorantly visualized, after her own experience, what she had just read; and, in doing so, she pictured her own life.

Her love and Pierre's—her life before Pierre came—to put herself in Isabella's place, she felt back to the days before her love, when she had lived in a desolation of bleak poverty, up and away along Lone river in her father's shack. This log house of Pierre's was a castle by contrast. John Carver and his daughter had shared one room between them; Joan's bed curtained off with gunny-sacking in a corner. She slept on hides and rolled herself up in old dingy patchwork quilts and worn blankets. On winter mornings she would wake covered with the snow that had sifted in between the ill-matched logs. There had been a stove, one leg gone and substituted for by a huge cobblestone; there had been two chairs, a long box, a table, shelves—all rudely made by John; there had been guns and traps and snowshoes, hides, skins, the wings of birds, a couple of fishing-rods—John made his living by legal and illegal trapping and killing. He had looked like a trapped or hunted creature himself, small, furtive, very dark, with long fingers always working over his mouth, a great crooked nose—a hideous man, surely a hideous father. He hardly ever spoke, but sometimes, coming home from the town which he visited several times a year, but to which he had never taken Joan, he would sit down over the stove and go over heavily, for Joan's benefit, the story of his crime and his escape.

Joan always told herself that she would not listen, whatever he said she would stop her ears, but always the story fascinated her, held her, eyes widened on the figure by the stove. He had sat huddled in his chair, gnomelike, his face contorting with the emotions of the story, his own brilliant eyes fixed on the round red mouth of the stove. The reflection of this scarlet circle was hideously noticeable in his pupils.

"A man's a right to kill his woman if she ain't honest with him," so the story began; "if he finds out she's ben trickin' of him, playin' him off fer another man. That was yer mother, gel; she was a bad woman." There followed a coarse and vivid description of her badness and the manner of it. "That kinder thing no man can let pass by in his wife. I found her"—again the rude details of his discovery—"an' I found him, an' I let him go for the white-livered coward he was, but her I killed. I shot her dead after she'd said her prayers an' asked God's mercy on her soul. Then I walked off, but they kotched me an' I was tried. They didn't swing me. Out in them parts they knowed I was in my rights; so the boys held, but 'twas a life sentence. They tuk me by rail down to Dawson an' I give 'em the slip, handcuffs an' all. Perhaps 'twas only a half-hearted chase they made fer me. Some of them fellers mebbe had wives of their own." He always stopped to laugh at this point. "An' I cut off up country till I come to a smithy at the edge of a town. I hung round for a spell till the smith hed gone off an' I got into his place an' rid me of the handcuffs. 'Twas a job, but I wasn't kotched at it an' I made myself free." Followed the story of his wanderings and his hardships and his coming to Lone river and setting out his traps. "In them days there weren't no law ag'in' trappin' beaver. A man could make a honest livin'. Now they've tuk an' made laws ag'in' a man's bread an' butter. I ask ye, if 'tain't wrong on a Tuesday to trap yer beaver, why, 'tain't wrong the follerin' Tuesday. I don't see it, jes becos some fellers back there has made a law ag'in' it to suit themselves. Anyway, the market fer beaver hides is still prime. Mebbe I'll leave you a fortin, gel. I've saved you from badness, anyhow. I risked a lot to go back an' git you, but I done it. You was playin' out in front of yer aunt's house an' I come fer you. You was a three-year-old an' a big youngster. Says I, 'What's yer name?' Says you, 'Joan Carver'; an' I knowed you by yer likeness to her. By G—d! I swore I'd save ya. I tuk you off with me, though you put up a fight an' I hed to use you rough to silence you. 'There ain't a-goin' to be no man in yer life, Joan Carver,' says I; 'you an' yer big eyes is a-goin' to be fer me, to do my work an' to look after my comforts. No pretty boys fer you an' no husbands either to go a-shootin' of you down fer yer sins.'" He shivered and shook his head. "No, here you stays with yer father an' grows up a good gel. There ain't a-goin' to be no man in yer life, Joan."

But youth was stronger than the man's half-crazy will, and when she was seventeen Joan ran away.

She found her way easily enough to the town, for she was wise in the tracks of the wild country, and John's trail townwards, though so rarely used, was to her eyes plain enough; and very coolly she walked into the hotel, past the group of loungers around the stove, and asked at the desk, where Mrs. Upper sat, if she could get a job. Mrs. Upper and the loungers stared, for there were few women in this frontier country and those few were well known. This great, strong girl, heavily graceful in her heavily awkward clothes, bareheaded, shod like a man, her face and throat purely classic, her eyes gray and wide and as secret in expression as an untamed beast's—no one had ever seen the like of her before.

"What's yer name?" asked Mrs. Upper suspiciously. It was Mormon day in the town; there were celebrations and her house was full; she needed extra hands, but where this wild creature was concerned she was doubtful.

"Joan. I'm John Carver's daughter," answered the girl.

At once comprehension dawned; heads were nodded, then craned for a better look. Yes, the town, the whole country even, had heard of John Carver's imprisoned daughter. Sober and drunk, he had boasted of her and of how there was to be "no man" in her life. It was like dangling ripe fruit above the mouths of hungry boys to make such a boast in such a land.

"Your father sent you down here fer a job?" asked Mrs. Upper incredulously.

"No. I come." Joan's grave gaze was unchanging. "I'm tired of it up there. I ain't a-goin' back. I'm most eighteen now an' I kinder want a change."

She had not meant to be funny, but a gust of laughter rattled the room. She shrank back. It was more terrifying to her than any cruelty she had fancied meeting her in the town. These were the men her father had forbidden, these loud-laughing, crinkled faces. She had turned to brave them, a great surge of color in her brows.

"Don't mind the boys, dear," spoke Mrs. Upper. "They will laff, joke or none. We ain't none of us blamin' you. It's a wonder you ain't run off long afore now. I can give you a job an' welcome, but you'll be green an' unhandy. Well, sir, we kin learn ye. You kin turn yer hand to chamber-work an' mebbe help at the table. Maud will show you. But, Joan, what will dad do to you? He'll be takin' after you hot-foot, I reckon, an' be fer gettin' you back home as soon as he can."

Joan did not change her look.

"I'll not be goin' back with him," she said.

Her slow, deep voice, chest notes of a musical vibration, stirred the room. The men were hers and gruffly said so. A sudden warmth enveloped her from heart to foot. She followed Mrs. Upper to the initiation in her service, clothed for the first time in human sympathies.

CHAPTER II

Pierre Lays His Hand on a Heart.

Maud Upper was the first girl of her own age that Joan had ever seen. Joan went in terror of her and Maud knew this and enjoyed her ascendancy over an untamed creature twice her size. There was the crack of a lion-tamer's whip in the tone of her instructions. That was after a day or two. At first Maud had been horribly afraid of Joan. "A wild thing like her, livin' off there in the hills with that man; why, ma, there's no tellin' what she might be doin' to me."

"She won't hurt ye," laughed Mrs. Upper, who had lived in the wilds herself, having been a frontierman's wife before the days even of this frontier town and having married the hotel-keeper as a second venture. She knew that civilization—this rude place being civilization to Joan—would cow the girl, and she knew that Maud's self-assertive buoyancy would frighten the soul of her. Maud was large-hipped, high-bosomed, with a small, round waist much compressed. She taught Joan impatiently and laughed loudly but not unkindly at her ways.

"Gee, she's awkward, ain't she?" she would say to the men; "trail like a bull moose!"

The men grinned, but their eyes followed Joan's movements. As a matter of fact she was not awkward. Through her clumsy clothes, the heaviness of her early youth, in spite of all the fetters of her ignorance, her wonderful long bones and her wonderful strength asserted themselves. And she never hurried. At first this apparent sluggishness infuriated Maud. "Get a gait on ye, Joan Carver!" she would scream above the din of the rough meals, but soon she found that Joan's slow movements accomplished a tremendous amount of work in an amazingly short time. There was no pause in the girl's activity. She poured out her strength as a python pours his, noiselessly, evenly, steadily, no haste, no waste. And the men's eyes brooded upon her.

If Joan had stayed long at Mrs. Upper's, she would have begun inevitably to model herself on Maud, who was, in her eyes, a marvelous thing of beauty. But, just a week after her arrival, there came to the inn Pierre Landis and for Joan began the strange and terrible history of love.

In the lives of most women, of the vast majority, the clatter and clash of housewifery preludé and postlude the spring song of their years. And the rattle of dishes, of busy knives and forks, the quick tapping of Maud's attendant feet, the sound of young and ravenous jaws at work: these sounds were in Joan's bewildered ears, and the sights which they accompanied in her bewildered eyes, just before she heard Pierre's voice, just before she saw his face.

It was dinner hour at the hotel, an hour most dreadful to Joan because of the hurry, the strangeness and the crowd, because of the responsibility of her work, but chiefly because at that hour she expected the appearance of her father. Her eyes were often on the door. It opened to admit the young men, the riders and ranchers who hung up their hats, swaggered with a little jingle of spurs to their chairs; clean-faced, clean-handed, wet-haired, and lifting to the faces of the waiting girls now and again their strange, young, brooding eyes, bold, laughing and afraid, hungry, pathetic, arrogant, as the eyes of young men are, tameless and untamable, but full of the pathos of the untamed. Joan's heart shook a little under their looks, but when Pierre lifted his eyes to her, her heart stood still. She had not seen them following her progress around the room. He had come in late, and finding no place at the long, central table sat apart at a smaller one under a high, uncurtained window. By the time she met his eyes they were charged with light; smoky-blue eyes they were, the iris heavily ringed with black, the pupils dilated a little. For the first time it occurred to Joan, looking down with a still heart into his eyes, that a man might be beautiful. The blood came up from her heart to her face. Her eyes struggled away from his.

"What's yer name, gel?" murmured Pierre.

"Joan Carver."

"You run away from home?" He too had heard of her.

"Yes."

"Will your father be takin' you back?"

"I won't be goin' with him."

She was about to pass on. Pierre cast a swift look about the table—bent heads and busy hands, eyes cast down, ears, he knew, alert. It was a land of few women and of many men. He must leave in the morning early and for months he would not be back. He put out a long, hard hand, caught Joan's wrist and gave it

"Will You Be Comin' Home With Me, Gel?"

a queer, urgent shake, the gesture of an impatient and beseeching child.

"Will you be comin' home with me, gel?" asked Pierre hurriedly.

She looked at him, her lips apart, and she shook her head.

Maud's voice screamed at her from the kitchen door. Pierre let her go. She went on, very white.

She did not sleep at all that night. Her father's face, Pierre's face, looked at her. In the morning Pierre would be gone. She had heard Maud say that the "queer Landis feller would be makin' tracks back to that ranch of his acrost the river." Yes, he would be gone. She might have been going with him. She felt the urgent pressure of his hand on her arm, in her heart. It shook her with such a longing for love, for all the unknown largesse of love, that she cried. The next morning, pale, she came down and went about her work. Pierre was not at breakfast, and she felt a sinking of heart, though she had not known that she had built upon seeing him again. Then, as she stepped out at the back to empty a bucket, there he was!

Not even the beauty of dawn could lend mystery to the hideous, littered yard, untidy as the yards of frontier towns invariably are, to the board fence, to the trampled half-acre of dirt, known as "The Square," and to the ugly frame buildings straggled about it; but it could and did give an unearthly look of blessedness to the bare, gray-brown buttes that ringed the town and a glory to the sky, while upon Pierre, waiting at his pony's head, it shed a magical and tender light. He was dressed in his cowboy's best, a white silk handkerchief knotted under his chin, leather "chaps," bright spurs, a sombrero on his head. His face was grave, excited, wistful. At sight of Joan he moved forward, the pony trailing after him at the full length of its reins; and, stopping before her, Pierre took off the sombrero, slowly stripped the gauntlet from his right hand, and, pressing both hat and glove against his hip with the left hand, held out the free, clean palm to Joan.

"Good-by," said he, "unless—you'll be comin' with me after all?"

Joan felt again that rush of fire to her brows. She took his hand and her fingers closed around it like the frightened, lonely fingers of a little girl. She came near to him and looked up.

"I'll be comin' with you, Pierre," she said, just above her breath.

He shot up a full inch, stiffened, searched her with smoldering eyes, then held her hard against him. "You'll not be sorry, Joan Carver," said he gently and put her away from him. Then, unsmiling, he bade her go in and get her belongings while he got her a horse and told his news to Mrs. Upper.

That ride was dreamlike to Joan. Pierre put her in her saddle and she rode after him across the Square and along a road flanked by the ugly houses of the town.

"Where are we a-goin'?" she asked him timidly.

He stopped at that, turned, and, resting his hand on the cantle of his saddle, smiled at her for the first time.

"Don't you savvy the answer to that question, Joan?"

She shook her head.

The smile faded. "We're goin' to be married," said he sternly, and they rode on.

They were married by the justice, a pleasant, silent fellow, who with western courtesy, asked no more questions than were absolutely needful, and in fifteen minutes Joan mounted her horse again, a ring on the third finger of her left hand.

"Now," said Pierre, standing at her stirrup, his shining, smoke-blue eyes lifted to her, his hand on her boot, "you'll be wantin' some things—some clothes?"

"No," said Joan. "Maud went with me an' helped me buy things with my pay just yesterday. I won't be needin' anything."

"All right," said he. "We're off, then!" And he flung himself with a sudden wild, boyish "Whoopee!" on his pony, gave a clip to Joan's horse and his own, and away they galloped, a pair of young, wild things, out from the town through a straggling street to where the road boldly stretched itself toward a great land of sagebrush, of buttes humping their backs against the brilliant sky. Down the valley they rode, trotting, walking, galloping, till, turning westward, they mounted a sharp slope and came up above the plain. Below, in the heart of the long, narrow valley, the river coiled and wandered, divided and came together again into a swift stream, amongst aspen islands and willow swamps. Beyond this strange, lonely river-bed the cottonwoods began, and, above them, the pine forests massed themselves and strode up the foothills of the gigantic range, that range of iron rocks, sharp, thin and brittle where they scraped the sky.

At the top of the hill, Pierre put out his hand and pulled Joan's rein, drawing her to a stop beside him.

"Over yonder's my ranch," said he.

Joan looked. There was not a sign of house or clearing, but she followed his gesture and nodded.

"Under the mountains?" she said.

"At the foot of Thunder canyon. You can see a gap in the pines. There's a waterfall just above—that white streak. Now you've got it. Where you come from's to the south, away yonder."

Joan would not turn her head. "Yes," said she, "I know."

Suddenly tears rushed to her eyes. She had a moment of unbearable longing and regret. Pierre said nothing; he was not watching her.

"Come on," said he, "or your father will be takin' after us."

They rode at a gallop down the hill.

CHAPTER III

Two Pictures in the Fire.

The period which followed had a quality of breathless, almost unearthly happiness. They were young, savage, simple, and their love, unanalyzed, was as joyous as the loves of animals: joyous with that clear gravity characteristic of the boy and girl. Pierre had been terribly alone before Joan came, and the building-up of his ranch had occupied his mind day and night except now and again, for dreams. Yet he was of a passionate nature. Joan felt in him sometimes a savage possibility of violence. Two incidents of this time blazed themselves especially on her memory: the one, her father's visit, the other, an irrelevant enough picture until after events threw back a glare upon it.

They had been at Pierre's ranch for a fortnight before John Carver found them. Then, one morning, as Pierre opened the door to go out to work, Joan saw a thin, red pony tied to the fence and a small figure walking toward the cabin.

"Pierre, it's father!" she said. And Pierre stopped in his tracks, drew himself up and waited, hands on his cartridge belt.

How mean and old and furtive her father looked in contrast to this beautiful young husband! Joan was entirely unafraid. She leaned against the side of the door and watched, as silent and unconsulted as any squaw, while the two men settled their property rights in her.

"So you've took my gel," said John Carver, stopping a foot or two in front of Pierre, his eyes shifting up and down, one long hand fingering his lips.

Pierre answered courteously, "Some man was bound to hev her, Mr. Carver, soon or late. You can't set your face ag'in' the laws of natur'. Will you be steppin' in? Joan will give you some breakfast."

Carver paid no heed to the invitation. "Hev you married her?" said he.

The blood rose to Pierre's brown face. "Sure I hev."

"Well, sir, you hev married the darter of a—" Carver used a brutal word. "Look out for her. If you see her eyes lookin' an' lookin' at another man, you kin know what's to come." Pierre was white. "I've done with her. She kin never come to me fer bite or bed. Shoot her if you hev to, Pierre Landis, but when she's kotched at her mother's game don't send her back to me. That's all I come to say."

He turned with limber agility and went back to his horse. He was on it and off, galloping madly across the sagebrush flat. Pierre turned and walked into the house past Joan without a word.

She still leaned against the door, but her head was bent.

Presently she went about her housework. Every now and then she shot a wistful look at Pierre. All morning long he sat there, his hands hanging between his knees, his eyes full of a brooding trouble. At noon he shook his head, got up, and, still without word or caress, he strode out and did not come back till dark. Joan suffered heartache and terror. When he came she ran into his arms. He kissed her, seemed quite himself again, and the strange interview was never mentioned by either of them. They were silent people, given to feelings and to action rather than to thoughts and words.

The other memory was of a certain sunset hour when she came at Pierre's call out to the shed he had built at one side of their cabin. Its open side faced the west, and as Joan came her shadow went before her and fell across Pierre at work. The flame of the west gave a weird pallor to the flames over which he bent. He was whistling and hammering at a long piece of iron. Joan came and stood beside him.

Suddenly he straightened up and held in the air a bar of metal, the shaped end white hot. Joan blinked.

"That's our brand, gel," said Pierre. "Don't you fergit it. When I've made

"That's Our Brand, Gel," Said Pierre. "Don't You Fergit It."

my fortune there'll be stock all over the country marked with them two bars. That'll be famous—the Two-Bar brand. Don't you fergit it, Joan."

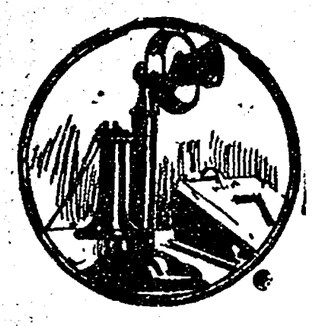
And he brought the white iron close so that she felt its heat on her face and drew back, flinching. He laughed, let it fall, and kissed her. Joan was very glad and proud.

CHAPTER IV

The Sin-Buster.

In the fall, when the whole country had turned to a great cup of gold, purple-rimmed under the sky, Pierre went out into the hills after his winter meat. Joan was left alone. She spent her time cleaning and arranging the two-room cabin and tidying up outdoors, and in "grubbing sagebrush," a gigantic task, for the one hundred and fifty acres of Pierre's homestead were covered for the most part by the sturdy, spicy growth, and every bush had to be dug out and burnt to clear the way for plowing and planting. Joan worked with the deliberateness and intentness of a man. She enjoyed the wholesome drudgery. She was proud every sundown of the little clearing she had made, and stood, tired and content, to watch the piled brush burn, sending up aromatic smoke and curious, dull flames very high into the still air.

She was so standing, hands folded on her rake, when, on the other side of her conflagration, she perceived a man. He was steadily regarding her, and when her eyes fell upon him, he smiled and stepped forward—a tall, broad, very fair young man in a shooting coat, khaki riding-breeches and puttees. He had a wide brow, clear blue eyes and an eager, sensitive, clean-shaven mouth and chin. He held out a big white hand.



Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

For Sale—A 14 in. P & O gang plow, in good condition. All complete with 5-horse hitch. Phone 3318. 38tfc.

Mrs. George Norris, Jr., has been laid up the past week or so with a sprained ankle.

Mr. O. H. Thompson, wife and daughter, of Ottowa, Ill., are visiting at the Wm. Rabey home. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Rabey are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Baker and family motored to Manly, Sunday, to visit friends.

Mrs. E. J. Baker, Mrs. T. E. Bayliss, Mrs. Harry Larson, Miss Della Bayliss and Miss Alphia Bayliss were recent Mason City shoppers.

Mrs. Orville N. Cook and daughter Margie of Kanawha were in town last week, enroute to Fort Dodge where they were called by the serious illness of Mrs. Cook's father.

NOTICE!

My office will be closed for two weeks, beginning Monday, July 30.—Dr. L. R. Parsons.

Mrs. Chris Enger returned Wednesday of last week from Minot, North Dakota, where she has been visiting relatives and friends for the past two months.

M. J. Thoe and father left last Thursday morning by car on a trip to South Dakota and North Dakota to look after farming interests. They will be gone about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White drove to Ames, Sunday, and spent the day with relatives. Monday morning they drove to Boone to view the funeral train.

The free school held last Friday evening at the Nordschow garage by Johnson & Wright, attracted quite an attendance and is reported to have been good.

AUTO DRIVERS NOTICE!

All automobiles hereafter must have head and tail lights according to law, and cut out closed inside the city limits.

B. J. FINN, Marshal.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Leo and Loretta Barry were week end visitors at Forest City. Leo returned home Monday, but Loretta will go for an outing with friends the last of the week.

Miss Helen DeHilt of Chicago was a guest of her friend, Miss Marjorie Purcell, last week.

George Heginger was a visitor at Charles City, Sunday, with some of his friends.

Atty. Jensen has moved his offices from the rooms over the Candy Kitchen to quarters at the rear of the First National bank building.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fitts are enjoying a trip thru South Dakota this week. They left last Thursday and are expected home today.

Lester Johnson left Monday for Wightman, Ia., to take charge of the Moore elevator.

O. L. Varland, Jacob Thompson, Austin Nelson, and H. O. Stockseth motored to Des Moines, Saturday, to witness the opening of the Pyramid Portland Cement Co.

Mrs. E. F. Bailey and Doris returned from Nebraska, yesterday.

Johnson & Wright are starting an advertising campaign on Allis-Chalmers tractors and their opening ad will be found on page five. Several of these tractors are being used for threshing, among them being a 15-25 and a 30-35 by C. C. Johnson, west of Alexander, and a 30-35 by Cyrus Brooks east of Klemme. Both men are enthusiastic over their performance.

Fred Meacham brought the Independent a sample of his apple crop this year, which consisted of 13—count 'em— Duchess apples on one twig. He says his trees are loaded to breaking this year, altho the apples are not quite as large as they were last season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stacy drove to Hampton on Thursday afternoon, to attend a Royal Neighbor picnic and gathering held that day.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dibble, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lathrop, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lathrop, and Dennis Delaney and family were among the visitors Sunday at West Bend, to see the famous grotto.

Mrs. Wm. Leonard came down from Swaledale, Sunday, to attend the chicken culling demonstration at the J. J. Sloan farm on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Rosecrans was quite ill last week, being confined to her home. She is now at Clear Lake enjoying a rest.

A number of base ball fans from Belmond have been attending the tournament at Garner this week. Today is the last day.

J. A. Harlow the division passenger agent of the Wabash Railway Co., was in town last week arranging for the return of sugar beet workers to their homes in Texas and Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Gowdy returned last Thursday from their trip to points in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Klemme and Miss Ruth Klemme returned Monday of this week from their western trip.

J. P. Larsen & Sons have sold their meat market at Garner., and will devote their attention to the market at Belmond and Klemme.

The Young and Russell families returned Thursday last from their trip to South Dakota.

Ed. Bailey, Thayne and wife and Miss Marie Johnson drove to Boone, Monday, to be present when the funeral train of President Harding went thru.

Raymond Walton and a friend of Iowa Falls were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolle and daughter Bernetas, drove to Boone, Sunday, to visit Carl Wolle and family, and to witness the presidential funeral train.

Mrs. Birdsall and children and Mrs Wolf and son, of Hampton, were visitors at the Snyder and Bailey homes Saturday.

Mr. an Mrs. Will Weigle an son, of Fox Lake, Wisconsin, are guests at the J. H. Nourse home. The two ladies are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Christie are visiting this week at Stillwater, Minn. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. Oren Bamford, of Kanawha.

Rev. Wilkinson and family are enjoying a vacation at Spirit Lake this week.

The Standard Bearers met Monday evening at the home of their president Mrs. Wilkinson.

Robert William Bickett is the new boy who arrived at the E. E. Boughton home Monday. The mother, Mrs. Lester Bickett, is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Boughton.

Mrs. Irene Bailey of Minneapolis is making a two weeks' visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harley Goslin.—Monitor.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

N. M. Wolcott stopped in town last Thursday, enroute to his home in Des Moines from the Dakotas, where he had been on business. He says Dakota crops this year are good in almost everything.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	8:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	8:20 p. m.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—5-room cottage, six blocks north of Main Street, on the Wilson Highway. Electric lights, furnace and basement. Inquire of A. J. Nihoof, Phone 176 1-3, Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—Jersey bull, registered, 5 years old. Nice and gentle. Chas. Gealow. Phone 2712. 372

For Sale—Second-hand lath.—M. O. Crawford. 381c

Wanted—Work by the day, by two ladies. Inquire at the Independent. 363*

FALL TERM SEPT. 4

New catalog just off the press. Write for it.

Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

Rockwell Day

- At the -

North Iowa Fair

Thursday, August 16th

Vaudeville
Harness Races
Fireworks
Fordson Display
Stock Judging

Monday August 13 - Auto Races - Monday August 13

Sunday August 12 Sacred Concert Sunday August 12

By Roy D. Smith's Royal Scotch Highlander Band

SEVEN DAYS---ONE WEEK

August 11 to 17 Inclusive

Fordson

THE UNIVERSAL TRACTOR

$395 F.O.B. DETROIT

Fordson Often Does More In a Day Than Six Horses

The Fordson substitutes motors for muscles.

The Fordson substitutes tractor wheels for the legs of man and horse.

The Fordson takes the burden off flesh and blood and puts it on steel.

It allows the farmer's energy to be devoted to management, and not merely to operation. It gives him time. It cuts his producing costs.

There's a big story of savings made possible by the Fordson. Let us tell you. Write, phone or call.

BELMOND AUTO CO.

Louis Tokman Geo. F. Heginger
Authorized Ford and Lincoln Dealers
Phones 108-258 Belmond, Iowa

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Roosters	07c
Broilers	24c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	20c
Cream	35c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	28c
Corn	70c

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.

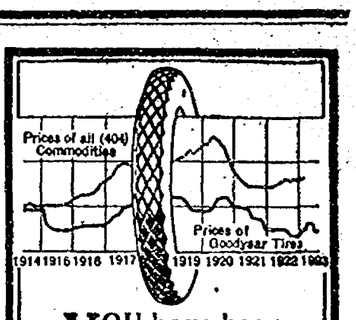
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store

Belmond, Iowa

MONDAY, AUG. 13



YOU have been able for many years to get Goodyear Tires at prices below the average commodity price level, as the above chart shows. You can get them today for 30% less than they cost ten years ago. But you have never been able to get so much quality in a Goodyear Tire as you get today in the new Goodyear Cord. This is a good time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Now Is the Time To Have Your Summer Cleaning Done!

We have all our new equipment installed. Let us steam press your clothes. They will look like new.

New Belmond Tailor Shop

F. J. TUFFREE

South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Threshing Meats!

As complete a line as can be found, and we also have all the

Fresh Fruits and Groceries

you will need.

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

OVERLAND Leads In Sales

During the month of June there were delivered to actual retail purchasers of Toledo, Ohio— 290 Overlands
119 Willys-Knights

A total of 409 Willys-Overland Cars.

For the same period the County Clerk's records show the following number of new cars registered up to July 3—the only reliable record of sales of other makes available to us:

Buick	41	Hupmobile	12
Chevrolet	119	Jewett	10
Columbia	26	Maxwell	33
Dodge	38	Nash	12
Durant	15	Star	11
Ford	227	Studebaker	23

All others recorded (less than 10 each), 91.

In other words, Toledo bought 409 Overland and Willys-Knights in June as against 667 new cars of all other makes combined, as recorded by the County Clerk during June and to July 3.

Similar outstanding sales records in all parts of the country are conclusive proof of the public's increasing realization of greater dollar for dollar value in Overland and Willys-Knight cars.

THERE'S A REASON—AND WE CAN TELL YOU WHY.

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1923 — NO. 39

Tourist Camp Moved From Tyrrell Park

City Council Takes Action To Change Location At Meeting Monday Night.

WILL BE ON NORTH SIDE

Belmond's tourists' camp will be changed from Tyrrell Park to the City Park. The city council, at their meeting Monday night of last week, officially took action to this effect.

The new tourist camp will occupy the north side of the City Park between the sidewalks. The walks come in at an angle from the northeast corner and the northwest corner. The ground between will be the new camping grounds.

Not much change in the City Park will be made this year, but next season it is planned to make a number of improvements and changes.

It is claimed that tourists are avoiding Tyrrell Park because it is so far from town, and inadequately supplied with conveniences. To fix it up it is claimed would require several thousand dollars, inasmuch as a state law requires that a man be stationed at the Park to look after it. This would require that the city build a house, it is said, which, with his salary, would be more than the town could afford. Hans Hanson is the present caretaker of the City Park, and will, it is presumed, continue as caretaker of the tourist camp, also.

Sentiment among the people is divided on the question, some favoring the change, and others declaring that Belmond should not ignore the gift of Cap. Tyrrell but should take measures to remedy any existing deficiencies for tourist use.

FOUR ARRESTED AT FALLS FOR SHOOTING PHEASANTS

Four Chicago sportsmen were arrested near Iowa Falls, recently, for shotting pheasants. The arrest was made by state fish and game warden Greimer, of Blairsburg. Each man of the four had four birds in his possession, and under the charges that were filed against them they can be fined $500 each. Pheasants are protected by law. The four men were charged with shooting pheasants, hunting on the public highway, and hunting without the required non resident license. They gave bonds for a future hearing, but the chances are they will never appear.

THIEVES MAKE GOOD HAUL AT BLAIRSBURG WEDNESDAY

Unknown thieves made a thoro visit to the town of Blairsburg last Wednesday night, entering nearly all the business places in the town. Cash seems to have been their desire, for nothing else was taken. The post office lost the most, $78.34 being taken. The pool hall, McComb motor company, Cooper grocery, Gardner hardware, Merryman drug store, implement company store, were all entered and at most of them sums of money were taken. An attempt was made to enter the elevator but the attempt failed. It is thought local talent was responsible. Blairsburg has no night police protection.

ROAD WORK TO BE PAID FOR BY CERTIFICATES

Wright county will issue $42,000 worth of anticipation certificates to pay for this year's work on the county's primary road system. This action was decided upon Monday by the board of supervisors, in their regular meeting.

The certificates will be issued against the 1924 automobile fund of the county. The money they represent will be used for the improvements being made on the two stretches of road east and west from Clarion, each one mile long, and on the road leading south from Eagle Grove.

Bids for the certificates were received by telegraph, the lowest bid being entered by Ballard, Hassett & Bey, of Des Moines. The certificates will be sold for par, plus the accrued interest, and $190 was the bid accepted for the work of handling them.

After voting to issue these certificates, the supervisors turned their attention to their routine duties, principally the allowing of monthly bills and claims. Nothing else of importance was transacted.—News.

ST. OLAF CHURCH

Service next Sunday in the Norwegian language. No evening service. But all young and old are welcome and should not without good reason be absent from the services. Come and bring someone with you.

FOREIGNERS TO VISIT DAIRY CONGRESS IN U. S.

Acceptance from three foreign delegates in Switzerland, England and Scotland to the invitation extended by the management of the Waterloo Dairy Cattle Congress and International Belgian Horse Show, Sept. 24-30, was received recently. Many more acceptances will probably be received in the near future from the dairy experts, agriculturists and sanitation workers in the foreign countries.

The party of foreign delegates will inspect the show on September 26-27 and from Waterloo will go to Ames to officially close their visit in the middlewest. Prior to coming to Waterloo, the party will visit the great dairy producing regions of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

FUSS OVER TOURISTS PARK

Hampton, thru the columns of the Des Moines Register, has been defending its reputation for hospitality. Seems a couple of agents who were taking subscriptions to some magazines and taking chickens in payment, made the tourist park their headquarters for a week or longer. Their presence and their poultry becoming objectionable, they were requested to move on. They promptly wrote the Register, criticising Hampton's hospitality. Hampton's commercial secretary and T. W. Purcell, editor of the Chronicle, as promptly replied. Judging from all the evidence, Hampton was perfectly right. A tourist park is no place for permanent quarters, either for agents or poultry.

NEW BUILDINGS MAKE FINE IMPROVEMENT TO STREET

Folks from adjacent towns who view the new buildings erected on our business streets all comment upon the vast improvement they make in the appearance of our city. Local people probably do not notice it so much. The completed buildings of the Belmond Auto Company and C. Schmelz, and the rapidly finishing buildings of C. N. Reese and A. W. Hill certainly have changed the appearance of Belmond's business section, and no mistake. But we can stand a lot of improvement in that line yet.

THRESHING YIELDS GOOD

Threshing operations have been going forward the past week, and reports of yields are good. Some pieces of oats have run away ahead of others. The Slining boys secured around 60 bushels to the acre, while McLaughlin threshed around 80. The general average seems to be in the neighborhood of 50 bushels per acre. This wouldn't be half bad if the farmer could get something for his grain, but at 28 cents for oats how can you figure any profit?

A COMPARISON OF PRICES

An exchange carries a comparison of prices that will be of interest. It says:

Plumbers are now receiving $1.50 an hour in Des Moines, or $12 for an eight-hour day. That is what the master plumber must pay and he passes the service to the customer for $15 a day. A farmer has been doing a little figuring and here is the result: It requires 18 bushels of wheat to pay a bricklayer for a day's work, and he is limited by the unions to lay only 800 bricks a day. It requires 80 dozen eggs to pay a plasterer for an eight-hour day. A master plumber will exact the proceeds from the sale of 20 bushels of corn for one day's work, or 40 pounds of butter, the output from 14 cows for 24 hours. An humble carpenter will knock down the price of a 175 pound hog that has required eight months' feeding and care.

MESERVEY MAN'S IDEA PRACTICAL FOR FARMERS

Henry H. Pals, a practical "dirt" farmer near Meservey, has invented and now has on the market the "Iowa Automatic Hog Door." The writer inspected one of these doors last week, and to us it appears like a mighty practical article for every farmer. The door is automatic, self-closing. Big hogs or little ones can open it, and upon passage of the animal the door closes. Thus the hog house is always closed, keeping out drafts, and preventing chickens from entering. It should make a big difference in the comfort of the hogs, and in their feed bill, too. We predict that Mr. Pals will ultimately have a large sale on his invention.

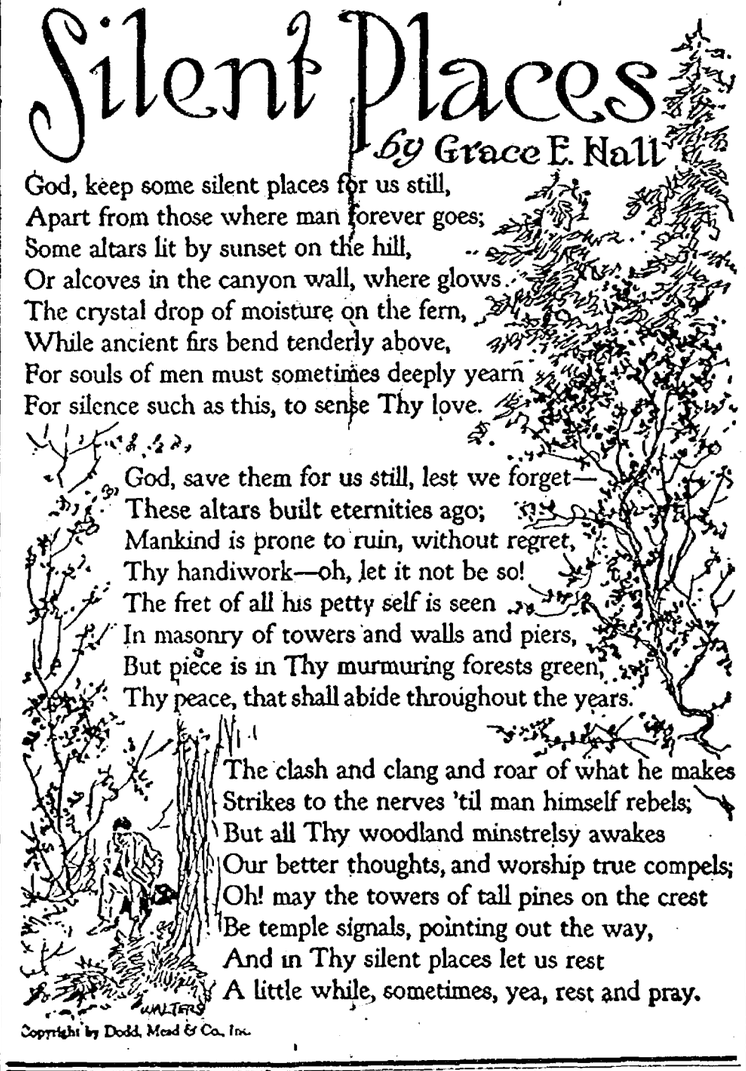
TRINITY CHURCH

Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock the Class meets at the church.

Sunday school at 10:00 next Sunday. Evening service in the English language at 8:00 o'clock.

Silent Places

by Grace E. Hall



God, keep some silent places for us still,
Apart from those where man forever goes;
Some altars lit by sunset on the hill,
Or alcoves in the canyon wall, where glows
The crystal drop of moisture on the fern,
While ancient firs bend tenderly above,
For souls of men must sometimes deeply yearn
For silence such as this, to sense Thy love.

God, save them for us still, lest we forget—
These altars built eternities ago;
Mankind is prone to ruin, without regret,
Thy handiwork—oh, let it not be so!
The fret of all his petty self is seen
In masonry of towers and walls and piers,
But piece is in Thy murmuring forests green,
Thy peace, that shall abide throughout the years.

The clash and clang and roar of what he makes
Strikes to the nerves 'til man himself rebels;
But all Thy woodland minstrelsy awakes
Our better thoughts, and worship true compels;
Oh! may the towers of tall pines on the crest
Be temple signals, pointing out the way,
And in Thy silent places let us rest
A little while, sometimes, yea, rest and pray.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc.

Farm Bureau Picnic Next Week Wednesday

Annual Event Of Farmers' Organization To Be Feature Of Next Week's Events.

CLUB EXHIBIT IS FEATURE

Plans are practically completed for the county Farm Bureau picnic-club exhibit which is to be held at Greenwood park in Eagle Grove, August 22. The committee in charge of the livestock has arranged for a big tent about 120 feet in length to house all livestock exhibits.

John W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation will give the address of the occasion. Mr. Coverdale, who has been in close touch with the inner workings of the national organization, will give out information which should be heard by every member as well as by every farmer interested in the welfare of agriculture.

Exhibits of the boys' and girls' clubs of the county will be one of the most interesting parts of the day's events. Fancy work, garments, poultry, baby beef, and dozens of other interests of the farm boys and girls will be featured.

The program as arranged at present is as follows:

9:00 Music by Eagle Grove band.
9:30 Judging Boys' and Girls' club exhibits.
15 Head of baby beeves, Prof. E. L. Quaife, Judge.
22 Head of Purebred Gilts, Prof. E. L. Quaife, Judge.
150 Birds in Poultry Exhibit. Prof. L. E. Heifner, Judge.
300 Girls' Club Exhibits, Miss Elizabeth Storms, Judge.
Picnic Dinner At Noon.
1:00 Music by Eagle Grove band.
Address of Welcome, Representative of Eagle Grove.
Male Quartette Selection, An Eagle Grove Quartette.
1:30 Short Address, J. E. Kirstein, Pres., Wright County Farm Bureau.
Bass Solo.
Address, John W. Coverdale, Secretary American Farm Bureau Federation.
Movies for all Club Members at movie theatre while grown-ups hear the address.
3:00 Athletic Program, Full line of Athletic Sports.
3:30 Base Ball Game, Woolstock vs. Wall Lake Township.

EAGLE GROVE TO IMPROVE SCHOOL BUILDING SOON

The old high school building at Eagle Grove is getting into pretty bad condition, and the board has decided to make some improvements to it rather than build a new school. Des Moines architects, brought there to look it over, advised that the entire top story be removed and a roof of less weight put on. This the board has decided to do before school opens this fall.

School Opens Here On September Third

Only Two More Weeks Before Johnny Will Be Back At The Hateful Studies.

STUDENTS TO ENROLL NOW

The Belmond Public Schools will open for the new school year Monday, September 3. Superintendent W. J. Guthrie will be in his office every day from 9:00 o'clock until noon and in the afternoon from 2:00 until 5:00. All new grade pupils are expected to enroll with him.

Miss Thomas, principal of the high school, will also be in her office every day beginning Monday, August 20. All new high school students are expected to enroll with her.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The services of last Sunday were well attended and full of interest. The meeting at Mr. Henry Groen's in the evening was delightful and well attended. Next Sunday night the services will be held at the home of Mr. Wm. Eckersley. Sabbath school at 10:00 a. m. and the morning worship at 11:00.

Only two more evening services outdoors. Do not miss either of them.

FAMILY REUNION

Sunday, August 12th, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hanson with their families, gathered at the parental home for a family reunion.

At twelve o'clock the party, all with well filled baskets, drove to Tyrrell Park, where all partook of a bounteous dinner.

The afternoon was spent in a social way and as this was the first family gathering in sixteen years it proved a very happy one.

Those present were Mrs. Thos. Thompon, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Mr. and Mrs. Severt Lanning and family of Crystal Lake, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. White and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Gardalen and family, of Dows, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Gudvel Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Swan, Ole Hanson and families, of Kanawha, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Bamford and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, of Belmond. There were twenty-three grandchildren and one great grand child present.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school at 10 a. m. It looked good to see so many at this organization in hot weather.

Regular preaching service at 11 a. m. We will try and interest all who come.

Evening service at 8. Let us get back to normal as soon as possible.

The Algona district conference meets at Garner on Monday, August 20th, for a business session to last just one day.

John W. Coverdale.

Who will deliver the address at the Wright County Farm Bureau picnic at Eagle Grove next Wednesday afternoon.

GARNER MAN LOSES 26 HOGS

A farmer near Garner, Lou Schleusner, recently lost 26 big fat hogs by heat. The animals averaged 275 pounds each. They had a runway into pasture from a smaller yard, and had been there all summer. Schleusner threshed last Monday, and someone closed the gate to the pasture, shutting the hogs in the small runway. They had not shelter from the sun, and when the farmer went to the yard late in the day, the entire herd were dead. A rendering plant from Mason City bought the carcasses, but the loss to Schleusner was about $500.

HUMBOLDT WANTS COURT HOUSE, BUT DON'T WANT IT

Over at Humboldt a pretty little fuss is going on over a new court house. The present court house is located at Dakota City, and is an old, unsafe structure of antique design and a veritable fire trap. Some Humboldt folks want a new one, but they don't want it at Humboldt. They say there is no place for it there. You often read of one town trying to move the court house to another, but we never heard of one town agitating to build a new one in another town. No one in Humboldt seems willing to have the county jail located next to their property.

THORNTON MAN SUES FOR $25,000

Two gentlemen of Thornton have been having an argument thru the columns of the Thornton Enterprise over the good roads question, nationalities, schools, the right way to part the hair and the proper color of neckties. Said argument has reached a warm stage; so warm, in fact, that Marius Floy has filed suit against Soren Peterson for the sum of $25,000 damages, alleging malicious slander on the part of Peterson in some remarks printed in last week's Enterprise. The gentlemen became real personal in their writings, which have been spread over several weeks.

WE HAVE A LITTLE TRAFFIC

Have you ever stopped to think that there is a lot of traffic on our Main street? Just for the fun of it, the writer counted the cars going by the Independent office for an hour, the hour being from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. During that time a total of 92 cars and trucks passed, of these 15 were foreign cars, cars of other counties, and other states. It is safe to say that during one day, close to 1,500 cars will pass a given point on Main street. That's a lot of pounding on our pavement every day.

THE ROAD TO WEST BEND

Belmond folks going to West Bend to see the grotto will find the following road the shortest: Go west of town to the St. Olaf church, then west of church across river; winding road west and north a short distance to school house. Take road at left to consolidated school on south side of road. Turn right 1 mile, west to end of road. Jog south, then west to Livermore, keeping thru town on the road you enter on, west to Bode. Turn north at road going past church to second corner north of town (1½ miles), turn left going past Otteson and keep straight ahead until south of West Bend.

Legion To Stage A Celebration Next Month

Big Day Filled With Variety Of Entertainment Is Planned For Belmond.

AUGUST 30TH IS THE DAY

The American Legion will stage a celebration in Belmond on August 30th. The affair will be a big one, with the day filled with events of all kinds. Automobile races, horse racing, a big ball game, and attractions of various kinds are planned.

The Legion at a special meeting last Friday completed arrangements for the big day, and appointed committees for the various branches of its activities. Very probably this will be the biggest day Belmond has had for some time, and a large crowd is expected to attend.

Full details of the day have not been completed as yet, but will be announced later. Plan to be in Belmond Wednesday, August 30th, and enjoy the entertainment to be provided.

RADIO SERVICES FOR HARDING

Altho no memorial services for President Harding were held in Belmond, radio owners had their choice of several good services broadcasted Friday afternoon. Listeners at the Independent heard a good service sent out by the Minneapolis station Friday afternoon, and in the evening several other services were heard. The news of Harding's death was spread to almost every town in the nation by radio far ahead of any other notice, and the nation heard memorial services for him on his funeral day. Perhaps no other event has brought so graphically before the country the range and usefullness of the radio.

HAMPTON MAN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING LAST WEEK

Herman Stellhorn, of Hampton, is thanking his lucky stars that he got off as easy as he did when a bolt of lightning struck him during the storm last Tuesday. Stellhorn was kneeling by an open window in his home, when, as he described it, a ball of fire burst in front of him. The bolt struck him in the left shoulder and went thru him to his feet, knocking him to the floor where he was so numbed that he could not call for help. Aside from the shock and a slight laceration to one little toe he is O. K.

COMMISSIONS IN OFFICERS RESERVE CORPS, U. S. ARMY

The Independent is requested to announce that those persons who hold grants of commissioned officers or enlisted rank above that of Sergeant during the world war and who now desire to secure a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps of the United States Army, should call upon Captain N. V. Brunson, U. S. Army, at Eagle Grove, not later than August 24th. Captain Brunson has been authorized by the Commanding General, 7th Corps Area, to forward applications from qualified eligibles.

WHAT'S A POTATO BALL?

Garner Signal: Marion Fell is the Luther Burbank, of Garner. He is always bringing in some vegetable or fruit that is worthy of note. Monday morning he brought to this office two apples that grew on one stem. They are of the Wealthy variety and are perfect apples, except that they are joined together. They may be seen in the Signal office window. Mr. Fell also tells us that while digging his potatoes this year he found seven or eight potato balls, and unless he sells them, he will plant them another year.

Probably many of our readers do not know what a potato ball is, and possibly we do not either. But we have read of potato balls, and have also inquired of some who should know such things. The ball forms in the top of the vine where the blossom has been, and ripens. In this ball is small seed, resembling ground cherry seed, and these seeds when planted, are said to bring forth a new variety of potatoes.

AUTO PLATES BLACK AND WHITE FOR NEXT YEAR

The auto plates for 1924 are to be black and white, it is announced, a black background with white figures. The contrast is said to be much greater than on the 1923 plates. Each plate will cost the state a little over 17 cents.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 03c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

1923 AUGUST 1923

SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

Editorials

THE GASOLINE WAR

Gov. McMasters, of South Dakota, seems to have started something when he ordered the State of South Dakota to sell gasoline at 16 cents a gallon. The Governor, after investigating the gasoline business there, found that gasoline could be laid down in South Dakota for 13 cents a gallon. Every cent over that he claimed was profit. Gasoline was selling there at 23 and 24 cents.

His attack on the Standard Oil interests came as a complete surprise, and the Standard for the moment seemed to be stunned, accepting the gage of battle. However, Standard gasoline Saturday was reported selling at 15 1-2 cents a gallon in South Dakota.

Immediately the Governor of North Dakota demanded that, if gas was to sell at 15 1-2 cents in South Dakota, it should sell proportionately in North Dakota, otherwise the Standard Oil Company was discriminating, a serious offense. Governor Kendall, of Iowa, and the Nebraska governor are investigating with a view of forcing down the prices in these two states.

Automobile clubs, commercial organizations, highway associations and the like are backing up the Dakota governor, who appears to have blood in his eye.

There is no question in the minds of most people but what gasoline is selling at an unholy price. If, as McMasters is claimed to have said, gasoline can be laid down in South Dakota for 13 cents, it can certainly be laid down in Iowa for less than that. Ten cents then, would seem to be about a dime too high.

Gasoline is high, we all think, and we miss our guess if Rockefeller, Rockefeller, however, is not the Standard Oil Co. He and his family together do not hold even a majority interest in Standard Oil. They hold about 20 per cent. But probably they do control sufficient shares to largely dictate its policies. It is not, however, Rockefeller, it is Standard Oil, the Institution. It is the policy behind the company. And the Standard Oil policy seems to be all the traffic will bear. Wherever possible they buy out the competition, or drive it out, leaving them a monopoly. Perhaps the state can battle to a finish.

Tuesday gasoline began selling in Belmond at 16 1-2 cents a gallon. The fight is on! Where it will end no man knoweth. That this is to be a bitter battle seems to be assured. All stations, Standard, Community and Deep Rock, are selling at the new price. How long this will last, or whether, in the end, the price will remain down, is merely a guess. Just so long as the state sells for 16 cents gasoline will doubtless remain down. But it takes a mighty cheerful optimist to believe that the public will enjoy the cut for very long.

Meanwhile, fill your tanks!

BEWARE THE AGENTS!

An agent came along to a farm house not far from Belmond recently, and wheedled the farmer's wife into letting him dope her chicken house for lice and mites. As payment he would take old hens. He doped the hennery all right, and collected ten dollars' worth of hens in payment. The lice and mites are still there, but the chickens are gone. The moral is: Sell your chickens and buy your dope at home. It's cheaper and more effective.

Agents going thru the country selling this or that article or magazine are reaping a rich harvest. Almost invariably they take the poultry at a low price, and their goods do not always come up to standard. A couple of such agents at Hampton recently made a nice clean-up, it is said. Similar tactics have been and are being worked around Belmond. The best way is to tell them there is "nothing doing;" you will likely be money ahead if you do.

Since the farmer became too wise to invest in gold bricks, the smooth-tongued fellows have had to think up something different, and in taking chickens as payment at an outrageous price they seem to have originated a good one. A dozen chickens doesn't seem like parting with eight or ten dollars. If you really want something they have, pay them cash. Keep your chickens. You might just as well make the profit on them as the agents. You will at least be sure you received their full value.

THINK RIGHT, FOLKS!

If a man thinks every one is against him, he will soon begin to treat them so they will be. If he thinks every one is his friend, he will treat them right, unconsciously, and they will soon be his friends. The man who lives his daily life according to this formula has in his make-up a spark of sound and true philosophy that will make his home life brighter. If we put into all the relations with our fellows a full measure of friendliness and good will we are pretty sure to get it back, full and overflowing. On the other hand if a man is suspicious of everybody, every one will be suspicious of him. The man who goes about looking for a fight is sure to get licked some day, good and plenty.

True friendliness is founded on sincerity. And sincerity is about the only thing in this world that can't be counterfeited. The impulse toward friendliness springs from the very soul of man.

The world needs friendliness, and kindness, and good-will. Not Sundays only, but every day in the week and every hour of the day. Think friendly thoughts. If you've got a soul, don't be ashamed of it. Bring it into the office with you. For the soul is the source and fountain-head of every good and worthy impulse. Put your faith in men. Believe they are your friends and they will be.—Parry's Pickings.

SOME HOT WEATHER DRINKS

Fruit juices make excellent drinks. The following receipes from The Farm Journal, August number, are good: Orange and pineapple juices added to a rich lemonade improve it for many people.

Currant jelly dissolved in either hot or cold water makes a refreshing drink. So do many other jellies. Chilled blackberry or raspberry juice diluted to taste and served with or without a slice of lemon touches the spot.

Fruit punch is made by adding to lemonade small pieces of sliced pineapple, orange, muskmelon, cherries, and a sprig of mint leaves. Use the lemon squeezer on oranges, just as on lemons, and pour the juice on finely cracked ice.

Milk drinks are good. Use about two tablespoonfuls of fruit sirup with threequarters of a glass of milk. Sugar may be added to suit the taste, but it is generally unnecessary. Add the flavoring rather than the flavoring to the milk. A small stream of charged water is an addition to these drinks. All mixtures should be well shaken or whipped. A little nutmeg or cinnamon sprinkled over the top of these drinks makes them even more appetizing.

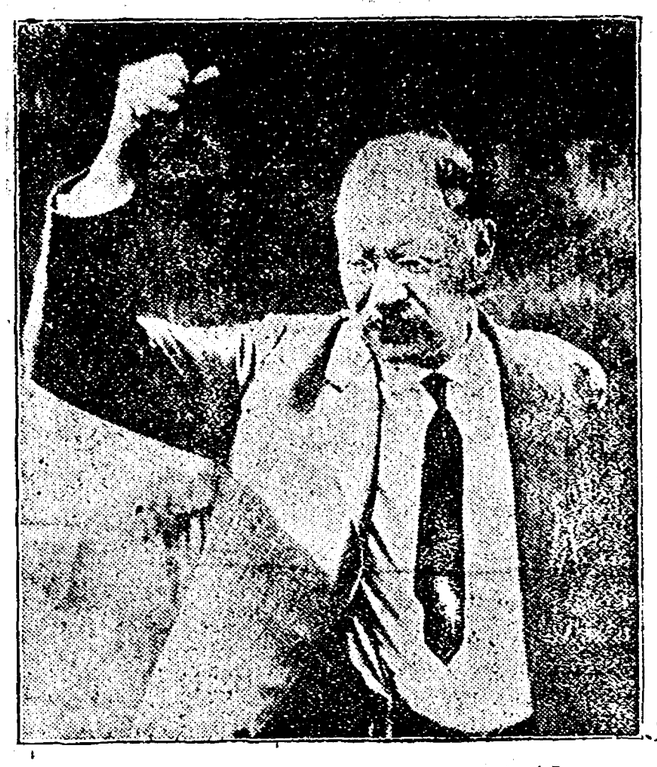
Macaroon milk is made by sifting crushed macaroons over the top of themilk. V anilla, root beer, maple, chocolate, strawberry, pineapple, grape, orange, raspberry, or cherry sirup may be used as flavoring. To make milk juleps, add two-thirds of a glassful of milk to about two tablespoonsful of sirup, then break an egg into the glass, shake thoroly, and add charged water if available. Use a whole egg with cherry, root beer, chocolate, strawberry, or pineapple sirup.

SOME DIFFERENCE

"I wonder is my little boy knows how many seconds there are in a minute?"

"Do you mean a real minute, mamma, or one of those great big wait-a-minutes?"

Don't rush into anger when people criticise you. It is barely possible they may be right.



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

SENATOR-ELECT MAGNUS JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA.
Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Laborite for the Republicans, defeated Gov. J. A. Preus for a seat in the U. S. Senate—to succeed the late Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. Someone said that Magnus Johnson resembled Roosevelt. Here he is in a Roosevelt pose.

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shipley of Belmond arrived Saturday and remained over the Sabbath, guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Richards. Mr. Shipley and Mrs. Richards are brother and sister. Mr. and Mrs. Shipley are landlord and landlady of the Case hotel at Belmond, and are prospering.—Garner Leader.

Druggist E. S. D. Kahrs and wife, of Klemme, and Druggist Adams and wife of Belmond, were entertained by Druggist Wm. Lamer and wife at their home in Goodell, Sunday, for dinner. Kahrs said it was a regular convention of druggists.—Times.

Harry Rosecrans and wife and Carl Rosecrans and wife of Dubuque, Dr. and Mrs. Clack of Clear Lake, C. G. Pritchard and Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans were guests at the C. E. Barnes home Sunday afternoon.—Signal.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carlston and son Leroy and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Carlston and daughter Margaret of Belmond returned Thursday from the home of their father and other relatives at Galesburg, Ill., the occasion being a family reunion of the Carlston family, the first in fourteen years. They also stopped at Davenport for a visit with their grandmother who is aged 93 years—Reporter.

Just as we go to press we learn of a very serious accident that occured this morning at nine o'clock, when Robert, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Townsen, west of Britt, was run over by an auto, getting both legs and his left arm broken. The car had slowed up for a dog and the child, who had just gotten the mail ran across the road in front of the car. He was taken to the St. Luke's hospital at Mason City immediately The names of the party in the car, who were from Algona, we hear, were not learned.—Britt News-Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. Heinish and son, of Belmond were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis, Saturday evening.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson and family were visiting at the Thomas Brooks home in Belmond, Sunday.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. LuVerne Smith were visiting at Belmond and at Clarion on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Luick were in charge of the cafe during their absence.—Times.

Ye editor wants a big stalk of good old Iowa corn. The bigger the stalk the better as we are going to Nebraska next week and we want to advertise the state "Where the tall corn grows." So will some farmer please bring us the tallest stalk he can find? Everywhere we go the corn will go too, and that is a long ways as we will go way out into the western part of Nebraska, almost six hundred miles from Klemme. Bring in the big ones!—Times.

Mrs. Frank Baldridge of Belmond, accompanied by Miss Bail Thomas of Lewistown, Mont., and little Chas. Baldridge of Cedar Rapids, autoed here Friday and spent the day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldridge. Charles remained for a longer visit.—Reporter.

The Pritchard family came home from Clear Lake last Wednesday after spending a month in a cottage. They are now keeping house on the A. E. Martin farm near Belmond while the Martins are off on a trip to International Falls, with some people from Des Moines and Cambridge. "Bud" Pritchard has been staying with the Martins this summer and working on the farm, and he accompanied them on the trip. The Mayor intended to stay in Garner and look after business, but the second day after the folks went down to Belmond he went too. He says he was sick, but we believe he was more homesick than anything else.—Garner Signal.

Devere Braga, of Belmond, was a week-end visitor with his uncle, Joseph Courtney, and his aunt, Mrs. Jesse Brogan.—Enterprise.

Walter and James Courtney, together with their families and their families and their mother, from Belmond, spent Sunday at the Joseph Courtney home.—Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson, of Goodell, Iowa, are guests since Saturday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Hagen. They will visit other relatives in the vicinity before returning to their home.—New Richland (Minn.) Star.

Miss Minnie Johnson, of Belmond, Iowa, arrived Wednesday and is a guest at the home of her cousin, T. J. Rikansrud. New Richland (Minn.) Star.

PEOPLE DON'T BELIEVE IT.

What Cheer Patriot: While Brookhart never had a firmer supporter than this paper yet he is human and there are some things he must change his views on if the people of Iowa re-elect him to the United States senate and one of them is his view on Russia. The Russian officials evidently showed him what they wanted him to see and not what they didn't want him to see for on his arrival home he said Lenine was a man like Woodrow Wilson and suffering from the same cause. The great Lord pity us if Wilson is to be compared with Lenine who was once a soap box orator in New York City till trouble broke out in Russia when he immediately went over and set himself up as dictator and has caused the death and destruction of nearly the entire country. He has had wives and mothers murdered and others left to starve, he has confiscated property, not alone of Russia but of America. He said not long ago that Russia owed no country a cent when the United States loaned them a huge sum which has never been paid.

And now old man Gompers wants us to recognize Russia, but Secretary Hughes says no, nothing doing, and the American people will Amen. In his article answering Gompers, Secretary Huges says:

He quoted from recent speeches of Lenine and Trotsky to show that a world revolution was still their goal. Trotsky's most recent utterance, dated last October was, "That means, comrades that revolution is coming to Europe as well as in America, systematically, step by step stubbornly and with gnashing teeth in both camps. It will be long, protracted, cruel and sanguinary."

This country will never recognize such brutes. A country that declared a man must not have his own wife but that women were the property of the state and other equally revolutionary ideas. Brookhart must get away from the idea that he is backing Russia by saying they have the most stable government in the world outside of ours. If this is true why have we been sending ship loads of goods over there to feed the starving women and children and then to have the officials grab it? No we don't want to hear anyone praising Russia as it now stands in this great state of Iowa for it won't go and our junior senator better cut the comedy if he expects any votes next year.

How Are Your Hogs?

Are they doing well---as well as you would like? Are they getting the necessary mineral in their rations?

Completion of the mineral feeding experiments at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station show that all the hogs which were fed minerals in their rations made better gains than the hogs in the check lots fed only on a cornbelt ration. The experiment also showed that the pigs fed minerals made quicker gains and were in better shape physically than the no mineral pigs.

Occo-Mineral Mixtures

Will make your hogs grow and gain. You haven't fed the best until you have tried Occo-Mineral Mixtures. They increase your profits.

OCCO DRY DIP does not wet the nest, and will positively keep lice from the hogs, mites from chickens, and bugs from plants.

OCCO WORM EXPELLER is an oil preparation. It will rid your hogs of worms, and is guaranteed harmless.

Manufactured by
THE OELWEIN CHEMICAL CO.
Oelwein, Iowa

T. D. Rankins, Belmond, Iowa
Agent
Phone 196 or 115

LUCK

You might call it luck, but have you ever noticed how often the systematic savers succeed--and how often the steady spenders fail?

In fact, did you ever know a man or woman who spent every dollar as fast as they earned it who ever amounted to much?

And did you ever know a successful man or woman who did not follow the practice of spending less than they earned and saving the difference?

Look about town---think of the spenders you know---think of the dull future that lies before them in the years to come.

Then think of the savers you are acquainted with---those who live comfortably but save systematically---a fixed sum each week or month. Think of the bright, comfortable, sun-shiny future that lies before them.

Then, think about yourself! Think about your financial position a year, ten years or twenty years from today. Then decide upon the amount you should save each month, come down to this bank and

OPEN A SAVINGS ACCOUNT TODAY AND

Watch It Grow!

$1.00---WILL START IT---$1.00

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

FARM BUREAU NOTES

By County Agent Edwards

Champion Club Member To International

Word has just been received by the county agent from the extension service at Ames that a special prize of an amount equal to the railroad fare to Chicago and return at the time of the International Livestock Exposition is being offered by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company to the champion club boy or girl of Wright county. This special prize is being awarded to every county in the state which is touched by this particular line of railroad.

The Extension Service at Ames requires that the winner shall furnish a record of the work done in his club, results obtained and something of a story about himself or herself. This record will be used by the Extension Service in a publicity way in promoting the club work throughout the state.

The selection of the champion club boy or girl in Wright county will be made by a county club committee and in placing this special prize the committee will probably take into consideration the amount of work done by the club member, the quality of the work accomplished, the winnings made at the Eagle Grove and state fair exhibits and a complete report of the year's work.

Every boy and girl in Wright county who is a member of any of the clubs is eligible to this special prize, which is being offered by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company. The winnings at the Eagle Grove club exhibit and at the state fair at Des Moines, also the club reports will, no doubt, determine in a large measure which club member will enjoy the trip to the International Livestock Show at Chicago through this special prize which is being offered.

Bradfute States Farm Bureau Wheat Policy

"The Farm Bureau proposal that farmers withhold 200,000,000 bushels of wheat from the market is an emergency measure, seeking immediate relief of the present market situation," according to O. E. Bradfut, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. "This does not mean indefinite storage," continued Mr. Bradfute.

"We are urging farmers to hold their wheat for orderly distribution over the entire consumptive period instead of dumping it on the present low market.

"In doing this the American Farm Bureau Federation is counseling sound business policy. Storage will have a tendency to relieve the present situation and if a considerable portion of grain remains in the farmer's had as daily reminder of unprofitable surplus, plans for next season's planting will more likely be curtailed. Adjustment of acreage in line with world supply and demand is the permanent solution ad our proposal is aimed toward that objective."

Ames To Have Field Week

Instead of the farm crops and soils "field day" which has been held at Iowa state college early in September for the past five years, a "field week" offering the latest information on Iowa crop and soil problems, has been scheduled for the period from September 10 to 15. H. D. Hughes, head of the farm crops section at Ames, says that a larger number of farmers will find it possible to visit Ames and take home new ideas by this arrangement.

Among the experiments that will be given publicity at that time is the large number that has to do with soy beans. More work has been done at the Iowa station than at any other in the country according to the U. S. Deparment of Agriculture. In the variety test 136 distinct kinds of soy beans have been tried out.

"An attempt is being made to find a legume for each of the soil types in Iowa," says Mr. Hughes. Many of them, including dalea, lespedeza, Cherokee clover, velvet and mung beans, are not commonly grown in the middle west. In addition, something new on the use of lime, phosphorus and legumes in different rotations is expected from the soils department. Experiments running over a series of years will be discussed.

"The farm crops and soils staff and experiment station officials at Ames will be ready to give every possible assistance in getting to Iowa farmers the results of the experiment it has under way," states Mr. Hughes. "Groups may come any day. They can choose good weather days when heretofore only one day was available."

Progressive Cooperative Marketing

Two years ago the farmer was debating the idea of organizing in a national way to market his livestock. The enemies of cooperative marketing filled the papers with progaganda that said it could not be done, that the farmer's job was to produce and let someone else do the selling. Who, if not the producer of a product, has the right to follow that product as far as he possible can on its road to the consumer.

The producers' commission companies which have been organized during the past two years are certainly aiding the producer of livestock in his effort to render the consuming public a more efficient service.

During the week of July 7th to July 13th, the various producer agencies did a good business. Chicago, Buffalo and St. Louis ranked second in their respective markets. The Peoria and Indianapolis companies stood first among the commission companies at those markets. The Kansas City firm, tho youngest of the lot, ranked seventh. At Sioux City and Sioux Falls the producers were third, while at Fort Worth they ranked well up toward the top.

The total number of cars of stock handled by these nine producer owned and controlled companies was 1288 cars. Not bad for a bunch of farmers that everybody said would go broke.

AUGUST CROP REPORTS

CORN: The Iowa corn crop with a condition of 90 per cent of normal on August 1, 1923 is two points better than the 10-year average condition of 88 per cent according to reports received from correspondents of State and Federal Crop Reporting Service. This condition of 90 per cent forecasts a yield of 39.6 bushels per acre and a State production for this year of 412,909,000 bushels. This is only slightly above the July 1 estimate of 412,713,000 bushels and about 53 million bushels less than last year. The heavy rains over the state since the first of the month will undoubtedly increase our prospects for another bumper corn crop in Iowa.

The August 1 condition of corn of 84 per cent for the United States, as compared with a 10-year average condition of 80 per cent, forecasts a production of 2,981,752,000 bushels for 1923 as compared with 2,891,000,000 bushels in 1922 and the July 1 estimate of 2,877,000,000 bushels for this year.

WHEAT: The yield of winter wheat, in owa is reported on August 1, 1923 as 19 bushels per acre as compared with a yield of 23.3 bushels last year and a 10-year average yield of 20.3 bushels. This yield of 19 bushels per acre indicates a state production of 13,946,000 bushels as compared with 15,621,000 bushels last year. The quality of Iowa wheat, reported as 93 per cent, is slightly better than the 10-year average quality of 92 per cent.

Iowa spring wheat with a condition of 79 per cent of normal forecasts a yield of 14.8 bushels per acre and a state production of 798,000 bushels as compared with 814,000 bushels in 1922.

The total production of wheat for the United States in 1923 is estimated at 568,386,000 bushels of winter wheat and 224,990,000 bushels of spring wheat or a total of 793,376,000 bushels as compared with 817,000,000 bushels in 1922. Juality of winter wheat for the United States is reported as 89 per cent as compared with a 10-year average of 90.1 per cent.

OATS: Iowa oats on August 1, 1923 show a condition of 88 per cent of normal which is somewhat better than the 10-year average condition of 85 per cent. This condition of 88 per cent forecasts a yield of about 37 bushels per acre or a state production of 202,596,000 bushels. This is a gain over the July 1, 1923 estimate which was 197,829,000 bushels but less than last year's production of 218,000,000 bushels.

The United States condition of oats is 82 per cent as compared with a 10-year average condition of 80 per cent. This condition forecasts a crop of 1,315,843,000 bushels as compared with 1,201,000,000 bushels in 1922.

Oat stocks on farms August 1, 1923 are reported as 15,902,000 bushels as compared with 14,721,000 bushels a year ago. For the United States 70,082,000 bushels are reported as compared with 73,204,000 bushels a year ago.

BARLEY: With a condition of 87 per cent of normal on August 1 forecasts a yield of about 28.3 bushels per acre and a state production of 4,245,000 bushels as compared with the July 1, 1923 forecast of 4 132,000 bushels, and a production of 4.604,000 bushels in 1922. RYE with an estimated yield of 17 bushels per acre on August 1 indicates a state crop of 1,020,000 bushels as compared with 1,088,000 bushels in 1922. The yield of rye in 1922 was 19.7 bushels per acre and the 10-year average yield 18.4 bushels. The quality of rye is reported as 94 per cent.

TAME HAY with a condition of 80 per cent on August 1 forecasts a state production of 4,256,000 tons as compared with 4,700,000 tons produced in 1922. WILD HAY, condition 84, forecasts 492,000 tons as compared with 487,000 tons last year. The condition of TIMOTHY HAY is reported as 81 per cent of normal, CLOVER 84, ALFALFA 94, MILLET 86, PASTURE 75, FLAXSEED condition of 88 per cent with an acreage of 8,000 indicates a yield of 81,000 bushels, GRAIN SORGHUM 88, SOY BEANS 93, BUCKWHEAT 83, SORGHUM CANE for syrup 88 per cent.

The reported condition of fruits and vegetables on August 1 is as follows: WHITE POTATOES 82 indicates a yield of 7,790,000 bushels as compared with 7,287,000 bushels in 1922. SWEET POTATOES 87, TOMATOES 87, CABBAGES 83, ONIONS 87, PEACHES 50, GRAPES 90, PEARS 69, WATERMELONS 85 and APPLES 75 per cent of normal. The 10-year average condition of apples for Iowa on August 1 is 55, pears 50 and grapes 79. The production of blackberries and raspberries is estimated as 75 per cent of last year. On August 1, corn, oats, barley, spring wheat, onions and pears show an increased production over the July 1 forecast for Iowa.

Belmond Local News

We don't want to "kid" Ed Webb at all, but just ask him what he thinks of bobbed haired auto drivers. We understand he met a couple last week, in fact chased six miles in order to meet 'em.

Theodore Ziska and daughter, of Jewell, were visitors here Sunday at the home of his mother and brother.

Mrs. W. H. White and son, Claire, and wife, of Fort Dodge, are spending a few days at the White Cottage at Clear Lake.

Determined not to be bothered by a shortage of ice, the City Market this week insalled a new artificial ice making machine, which makes a fine improvement to their already well equipped shop.

"Horse Shoe Camp" was moved Monday evening to a more exclusive section in the City Park, where the ringers are now being tried for. This set was the Club's, and another set has been placed at the old stand for the use of the public.

A jury trial was held in Justice Purdy's court, Monday, at which Atty. Jensen, representing a cement company, sued Rich Thompson for a $49.50 account. The jury found for the defendant, and the case was appealed to district court.

No band concert was held Saturday evening owing to the rain. Quite a crowd was in town regardless of the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Hanson drove to Iowa City last week with their son, Verdell, where the latter underwent an examination at the State Hospital. Verdell's friends will be glad to lear that he is improving nigely.

Chris Floy and family, and Marcus Floy and family, of Thornton, visited friends in Belmond, Sunday.

Clarence "Pug" Obrecht, of Thornton, was calling on some old friends in Belmond last Saturday.

C. O. Fitts was a business caller at Des Moines last week Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haupt returned last Friday from their Illinois trip, which they made by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Busman, of St. Paul, are guests at the R. D. Box and Chas: Leonard homes. Mrs. Busman is a daughter of George Leonard, a former resident of this community, and she and her husband are on their wedding trip.

The historical pageant held at Hampton last week was reported to have been very good, with some very unusual scenes and action. The pageant was staged by the American Legion Post of Hampton, and occupied the evenings of two days. A Latimer girl was voted queen of the Pageant. Business places of Hampton had a variety of objects historical of Franklin county, their window displays being one of the best features of the event.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, AUGUST 16, 1923. No. 21.

In previous issues of Griesy's Store News we have told you briefly of the service it is our desire to render. We have told you of the friendly spirit that is back of all our dealings. Fully realizing our shortcomings we are open to any suggestions from our friends for the betterment of our service.

In this issue we wish to tell you just a little of the history of our firm and show you that from the very beginning the policy of this store has been: MERCHANDISE AT PRICES CONSISTENT WITH GOOD QUALITY AND A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF SERVICE FOR EVERY DOLLAR SPENT.

In the year 1889 Mr. Val Griesy purchased the hardware business of Mr. D. L. Cuppett. A few years later an implement stock was added and this part of the business carried on in the location that is now the Belmond Furniture Company. Shortly after the big fire of 1899 the implement stock was moved to our own building located just west of the present home of Mrs. Val Griesy. Increasing business made it necessary to increase our storage room and in 1900 the implement stock and buildings of Mr. Harry Tyrrell (formerly the D. L. Cuppett Co.) was purchased. At this time Mr. George Lieuwen purchased a share in the firm which was known as Val Griesy and Company. In 1915 the present owner purchased an interest in the busiess which was then known as Val Griesy and Son until 1919 w hen the writer purchased the complete business. Since that time we have enlarged our quarters and have endeavored to build up our institution upon the sound basis of good business always advocated by the founder of Griesy's—my father, who was always encouraged and helped by my mother. If we fail to do business on these teachings we are violating a sacred trust.

In line with the above we wish to give you just a brief list of the standard lines carried by us to show that we purchase only from companies who will stand back of their merchandise and give us the service we expect to pass on to you. The following lines will stand comparison with anything sold in the hardware and implement industry and Griesy sells them:

Majestic, Round Oak, Acorn and Cole's stoves and ranges.

Minnesota paints, Dutch Boy lead and Minnesota varnishes.

Community, Rogers, Henry Sears and Remington cutlery.

Remington and Winchester fire arms.

Perfection oil stoves.

Goodyear belting and rubber hose.

I. H. C., Cushman and Sandwich engines.

Primrose and Iowa cream separators.

Schroeder and Sandwich farm elevators.

McCormick, Deering, Moline, Emerson Brantingham, Hayes and Pattee full line implements.

Remember—not the best looking building in town but merchandise inside that merits your consideration when buying hardware and implements.

AW, THEY AIN'T THAT BAD!

The Humboldt Republican is responsible for this piece, and we don't really believe it's all so. The Republican says:

Last spring, while the roads leading into Emmetsburg were in such bad condition, a couple, accompanied by three small children, drove up to the court house square, climbed out of their mud-bespattered rig and sought the clerk's office, where they asked for a marriage license. The clerk was shocked. Said he: "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, asking for a marriage license at this date with three children with you." Said the lady: "You see, mister it's this way. We started all right. But the roads were so bad—". She got no further; the marriage license was produced with no further delay.

You can always tell a strong minded woman, but you can't tell her much.

TAKING NO CHANCES!

Ronnie, age four, had grown tired of blowing bubbles, so he asked his mother to read him the story in the Bible about the city with the golden streets.

"Very well, dear, but have you taken the soap out of the water?" she asked.

"I'm pwetty sure I have," said Ronnie, who was a little short tongued.

When she reached the words: "And there shall in no wise enter into it any that . . . . maketh a lie," he slid from her knees and said: "I fink I'll go and thee about that thoap."

SOUND REASON

Herbert, aged four, was irritated by the crying of sister Harriet, aged two. "Why don't you stop crying?" he asked his sister with great seriousness. "You must be sick. You don't look well and you don't sound well."

IDENTIFIED!

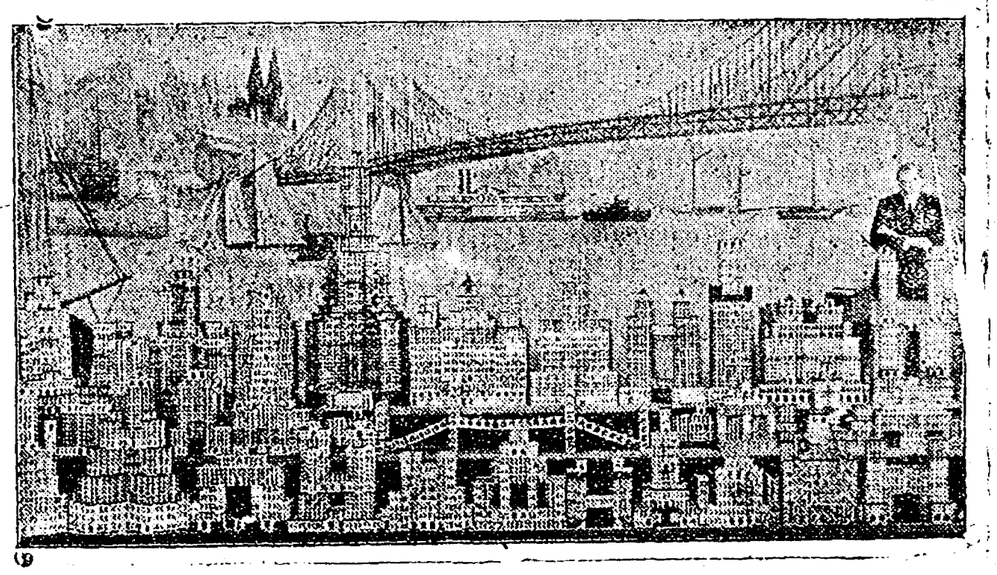
Rastas, newly up from Alabama, had secured a job as waiter in a Kansas City restaurant. He felt out of place and moped around, every day getting more and more desolate. One afternoon a customer arrived and ordered bacon and eggs, but when they appeared they didn't suit.

"Look here!" roared the newcomer, "what the wah-hoo-wah do you mean by serving by blink-blank bacon in such a zig-bazzled way? I've a good mind to rip your mp-tra-la-la hide off, you ding-dang-dong!"

"Deed, boss," he ejaculated, "It sho' seems good to wait on a true southerner gempum agin."

When you get thoroly mad at some business associate or firm, the correct way to write them of the fact is as follows:

"Sir: My typist, being a lady, cannot take down what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot write it. You, being neither, can guess it all."



Copyright by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

ARCHITECTS PLAN SKY SCRAPERS WITH TOY.

This is not a skyline of a large city which has been built or is about to be erected but it is the astounding toy, Bilt E Z, brought out recently by the Scott Mfg. Co. of Chicago.

The toy was first intended to amuse children, but architects have found it so helpful that they are now using the blocks to assist them in their work, and several large municipal enterprises or improvements have been visualized by the use of the parts. Our photo shows a skyline recently erected by one of the inventors.

"Moving Your Future Forward"

IS A SPLENDID BOOK, FULL OF HELPFUL COUNSEL AND ADVICE FOR AMBITIOUS YOUNG PEOPLE. IF YOU PLAN TO GO AWAY TO SCHOOL, NO MATTER WHERE OR WHAT LINE OF WORK YOU EXPECT TO TAKE UP, SEND FOR A COPY OF THIS BOOK.

THE HAMILTON UNIVERSITY

MASON CITY, IOWA

So. Delaware Ave. At 1st St.

MESERVEY SECTION

K. C. Ruigh and Frank Ostendorf were callers at Hampton on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

L. B. Hulsebus and wife, of Clear Lake were calling in town last Wednesday evening.

Wm. Larson and Ferdinand Halfpop were Mason City callers last Thursday.

For sale or rent, a 4-room house. See W. F. Larson, Meservey, Iowa. 35tfc.

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

August News

Now that Threshing time is here, we are prepared to fill your orders.

We have Cream and Brick Cheese and Butter, always on ice.

A good supply of Dried and Canned Fruits, Pickles, Pork and Beans, Salmon, and everything that goes to make up a good threshers' dinner.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller. Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

NOTICE!

If you owe us money, this is a good time to settle.

We Need the Money!

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

MONEY

represents human power. It is of vital importance to you whether its force is exerted for or against you. Money saved is your friend, ready to help you when you need help most urgently.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Rev. and Mrs. Eilert Dirks had the stork visit them Sunday forenoon, who left a nice baby girl. The young lady arrived a little late to attend Sunday School. All concerned are doing nicely, including the father.

Mrs. M. S. Jackson and son, Kenneth, of Clarion, came last Wednesday for several days' visit at the Henry Friesleben home.

Rev. and Mrs. Schlesselman and children, Dorothy and Paul and Bonita Muller attended the Bible Conference at Riverview Park, Cedar Falls, from Wednesday until Saturday of last week.

C. J. Wendell, Mrs. Theo Wendell, Mrs. Reif and Harm Groen motored to the county seat last Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Viola Lauster was a motor passenger to Mason City Wednesday of last week, where she had dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. W. Paul, accompanied by Fred Enabnit, Mrs. Simon Fischer and Gladys motored to Mason City last Thursday to spend the day.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer and three children motored to Cedar Falls on Wednesday of last week to attend the Bible Conference that day and Thursday. They returned Thursday evening accompanied by Miss Margaret Schoenweiss, of Waverly, who visited several days at their home.

Mrs. J. W. Nissen and children, Mrs. A. Kolb, Mrs. A. J. Nissen and Marjory and Neva Muller were Klemme callers Thursday afternoon.

John Knapp, of near Hampton, was in town one day last week. His last visit was 32 years ago. We trust he will shorten the intervals.

JUST TELL THE MEN THAT YOU GOT YOUR THRESHING AND LUNCH MEATS FROM WAAGE & RUITER AND YOU WILL HAVE A SATISFIED CREW.

We have the best butter on hand.

We buy Cream

We Deliver Threshing Meat

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Billy Larson and family departed from this place last Thursday for Parkersburg where they will make their future home. Billy will have charge of a medicine route.

The Helping Hand Society will meet with Mrs. U. J. Cooper on Thursday afternoon, August 16, for their regular meeting. All requested to be present.

Mr. Fred Lehman, son and a nephew, of Polk county, spent a few days last week at Clear Lake, returning Thursday to their home after calling for Mrs. Lehman, who had visited with Mr. and Mrs. C.. Mayers during their outing. They also visited at the A. Kolb home, being old friends of them.

Rev. H. Raecker Sr. returned home last Friday after spending several weeks at Colfax for the benefit of his health.

Miss Bonnie Brogan, of Garner, visited with Neva Muller last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas and daughters Thelma and Lois motored to Cedar Falls last Saturday morning to visit Viola and Evelyn, and they also planned to take in part of the Bible Conference at Riverview Park.

We are iformed that the Stone farms north of Meservey have been sold to Woods Bros., of Omaha, the tract containing some over 3,200 acres and has been held by the Stone family over 30 years.

Gasoline dropped to 16½ cents at this place Tuesday morning. Either some one is selling at a loss or they were profiteering before. We rather think it is the latter.

The hours from 2:00 to 4:00 p. m. were observed here last Friday in honor of our late President Harding. Mr. Harding surely was a beloved President.

Mrs. Lehman, of Alliman, this state, visited several days last week with her old friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mayers. They had not met in 40 years, and they enjoyed their meeting to the utmost relating past experiences. They immigrated to this country together from Switzerland years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sprau and daughter, Rozelle were callers at Mason City last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Langlitz and son, Irvin were calling on relatives in Goodell last Thursday evening.

Mr. Geo. Waddingham, of Milton, Oregon, arrived last Wednesday on the midnight to spend several weeks with his sons, Chas. and Ralph and with other of his children who live in the surrounding vicinity. Mr. Waddingham was a resident of this place for many years prior to his removal to the present home.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

NOTICE FOR BIDS

The Board of Directors of the Consolidated Independent School District of Meservey will receive bids at the office of the Secretary of the Board for janitor and bus drivers until 8 p. m. Saturday, August 18, 1923.

Bids should state the number of the route for which application is made and the amount asked per month of 20 school days. Bids for janitor should state the amount asked per school month. The Board reserves the right to accept any or reject any or all bids.

K. Clarence Ruigh, Secretary.

Clark Shove has filed a petition asking for a divorce from his wife. In his petition he alleges that she threw a clock and lamp at him some time during the month of July. He also claims cruelty.

Nothing is said in the petition about Beecher, Leone and Tabby, but no doubt these will go to the plaintiff.

Marius Floy has filed a petition in the district court asking $25,000.00 damages from Soren Peterson for alleged slander in an article written by Peterson several weeks ago and printed in the Thornton Enterprise. These two gentlemen have been throwing more or less mud at each other for some time past, and the outcome could hardly have been expected to be other than something of the above nature, or worse. There is a rumor that Peterson will file a $50,000 suit against Floy. Some fine picking for the attorneys as both parties are reported well to do.

A. E. Muller and family are spending the week visiting their old home at Harlan and Defiance. Billy Loats and Mrs. A. J. Nissen are the chief egg counters at the store during their absence.

The City Fathers and officials of the C. G. W. R. R. met at the city hall Tuesday relative to opening the crossing on Third street. It is the same old story, "nothing doing until force is used." The council feels that they have waited many years in an effort to get a crossing with nice words and waiting, and their patience is exhausted. J. C. Williams, Attorney, is assisting the council and unless we miss our guess there will be a crossing.

O. L. Varland, of the State Bank of Belmond, was a business visitor here last Monday.

Threshing is progressing nicely since the weather has cleared up. This week will finish up most of the shock threshing.

Mrs. Mary Butz returned from her visit to Dumont.

Jacob Nissen motored to Mason City, Saturday with some fruit exhibits for the North Iowa Fair.

Rev. Pannkuk, Rev. Johnson, of Chapin, Ben Gruis and Klaas Gruis motored to Rochester early Monday morning where Rev. Johnson and Klaas Gruis expect to pass thru the Mayo Bros. clinic.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas visited their daughters at Cedar Falls Saturday and Sunday.

Most people have habits and faults which are better known to their friends than to themselves. The same is true of their conversation—some talk on all subjects and say very little, others have certain subjects on which they are better posted. Take Heinie for instance. He tells you about radio frequency, audio frequency, W. D. 11, W. D. 12, fading, static, super regenerative, how well the Unique cleans clothes and what Jack Gerhard said

Little Heinie most always has a smile and seldom frowns unless the juice happens to be off when he has the cooler full of fresh meats.

Jack talks about the White Socks, Cubs, Red Rocks, Babe Ruth and is the best posted ball fan in town, always happy in spite of his weight.

Gar tells what speed the old "Cad" has and how economical the Chevrolet is on gasoline.

Hutch is somewhat quiet but does warm up on a fish or duck story.

Fischer loves his family and delights to tell about the farm he used to own on an Island in the Mississippi river. He awoke one morning to find that he only had a boat left and $400 in debts. We understand however that the $400 has long since been paid.

Fred Menzel seldom frowns, but one day last week he did, for when he met the train and his sweetie did not come, but a letter came instead, which informed him that she had a slight attack of appendicitis and might not be able to come until the troublesome member was removed.

Muller seldom complains in spite of the condition of the shingles on his head, talks about prunes and radio and lets it go at that.

Harm is such a joker that it is hard to tell if he is in earnest or not. If you complain about the high price of coal he will inform you that he has a car on track this week on which the freight is $6.00 per ton so what can the poor fellow do about it?

Anderson seldom smiles and attends strictly to business.

Cap says he is not sure that the Co-Operative movement will work out, but he is sure that he has a letter which says that he can write accident insurance.

C. J. is most always busy and if you ask him about business he will tell you that it is growing and that he is putting up windmills 10 miles from home.

Hi tells about the speeders and the new hog door factory that is soon to be built here.

Smithy says that if the government would furnish the coal his place of business would be more comfortable on cold days.

E. G. talks abut his new animal (Ford) about the quality of milk that his cow gives, and how many gaits Fox has.

Harry T. says collections are rotten, and to prove it he will turn his pockets inside out and hold the palms of his hands up.

Crow has little to say and is usually busy with the broom or a dust cloth. his frown usually comes with the rain on Saturday night when he has a big supply of ice cream on hand.

Our brick building is somewhat of a cold affair, cold cash, past due paper, and security is the main subject.

Note—If any one has been missed please call our attention to the fact and we will write you up next week.

J. G. Herbster is moving into the Jones house this week.

.....WHEN IN NEED OF.....

Quality Lumber and Millwork
Coal, Salt, Drain Tile
Building Blocks, Floor Blocks
Steel Gates, Can't Sag Gates
Woven Wire, Steel and Cedar Posts
Screen Doors, Window Screens
Lime, Cement, Etc.

See Us and Save Money

IOWA AUTOMATIC HOG DOOR
Try One

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

CARLOAD OF

Woven Wire

Barb Wire

- And -

Nails

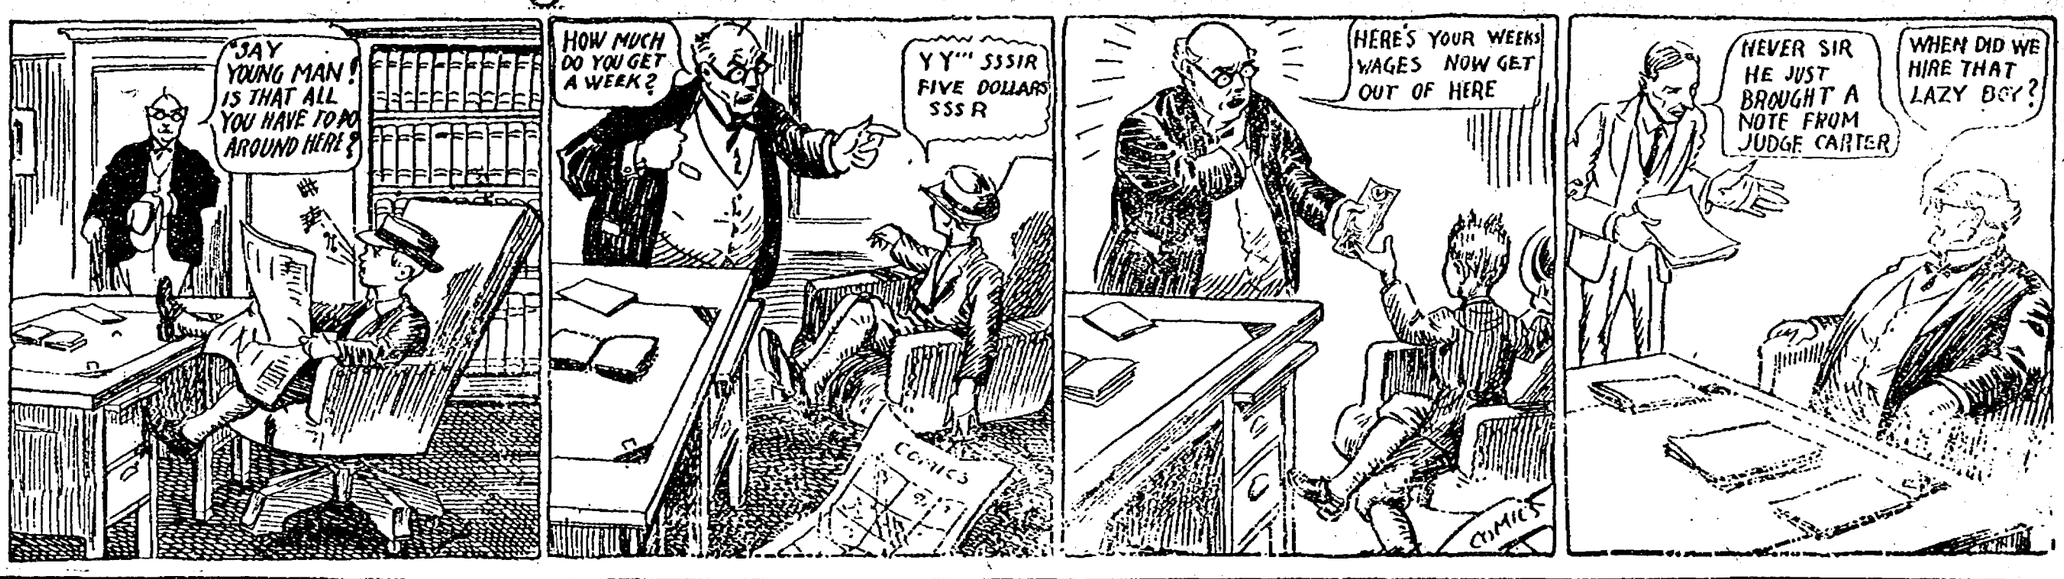
IN SOON!

See us for prices before buying somewhere else.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

"The Judge" — — — — His Honor Gets Fined



ROWAN NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other [illegible] at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Don't stay away because the church is not perfect. How lonesome you would feel in a perfect church.

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m. Sunday school at 10. The attendance is increasing. Come thou with us and we will do thee good.

Divine worship at 11 a. m. Morning theme, Victory Over the World.

Epworth League at 7 p. m.

Evening services at 8. This is the last one of the union services of this summer. Let us fill the church. Rev. Halbert will preach.

Prayer meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

The Methodist church invites you to join its friendly people.

Mrs. C. C Lucas and Maxine of Kanawha, Mrs Hanson and daughters from Montana, and Mrs. Fritz and daughters of Clarion were callers at the Rev. G. A. Osborn home Sunday.

Rev. Wm. H. Welch and wife and daughter stopped Thursday afternoon for a brief visit with the Osborns, and to see the Methodist church, which has been built since Rev. Welch was a resident of our vicinity. Rev. Welch is pastor of the Methodwist church at Lehigh, where he is doing a fine piece of work. They were returning by way of our city from a trip thru Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, having traveled over 1,600 miles.

Mr. Osborn was a caller in Hampton last Thursday.

Miss Elsie Keith who has been in Goldfield visiting, arrived at the R. H. Keith home Thursday for a short visit.

Mrs. Melissa Osborn, of Okaloosa, is visiting her son, Rev. Osborn, until the latter part of this week, when she will go to Farnhamville on business and to visit with friends.

The Methodist Ladies Aid are to have a work meeting and supper in the church basement on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Mesdames L. A. McCallum, Oscar Isenberger, Dan Whitten, Wm. Tresidder, John Farran, L. W. Stevenson, Oscar Myers and R. H. Keith attended the county W. C. T. U. in Clarion last Thursday. Mrs. R. H. Keith was elected superintendent of Child Welfare.

The following were entertained at the Fred Brooks home Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peterson and daughters Mildren and Veone, and niece Viola, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hildebrand, Walter Peterson and Paul Davis of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brooks, Miss Orle Brooks and Ida Anderson of Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ballou and little daughter of Parkersburg spent Thursday and Friday at the O. E. Ballou home. Misses LaVonne Ballou and Faye Bingham drove over to Galt after them Thursday.

The Bluebird class were entertained last Friday afternoon at Evelyn Whitten's.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Fasset from St. Paul, and Mrs. Basset's mother, Mrs. James Parsons, of Galt, were visitors last Saturday at the O. E. Ballou home.

Fleming Evans, wife and daughter of Dows were Rowan callers Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris and son from Thornton spent Sunday at the parental Stevenson home. They have recently purchased a new Chevrolet Sedan.

Tom Ross took some live stock to the No. Iowa Fair at Mason City which is on this week. Mrs. Ross and Marladene expect to go up on Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval were Hampton callers last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fetrow and Mrs. N. F. Easton of Belmond were Sunday guests at the Fred Kercheval home.

Mrs. L. R. Fitz returned from Churdan Friday, where she had been attending the funeral of a sister-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Agnew and family of Kansas City were guests at the Ray Azeltine home the last of the week. They were enroute to Clear Lake.

Mrs. Mary Braden was a guest at the J. H. Brannon home near Dows over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Heath entertained at 6 o'clock dinner Thursday in honor of Mrs. Susan Bixler. The following guests were present: Mrs. James Allen and Alta, Mrs. Howard Box and son.

Mrs. Oscar Johnson of Dows was a guest part of last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cliff Steffens.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsay were Hampton visitors last Thursday.

Mrs. R. H. Keith, Kenneth, Margaret and Miss Elsie Keith were Hampton business callers last Saturday.

Carl Steffens and wife returned last Tuesday from their Minnesota trip. They enjoyed their outing immensely.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Whitten autoed to Minnesota, Saturday, and spent Sunday with their uncle, Art. Walker, and family.

Herb Ketchum had the misfortune of having nine head of young cattle run into and killed by passenger No. 6 on the Great Western last Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Hannah Whitten received the sad news from Perry, Okla., that her brother, H. W. Baines, has been found dead Saturday. She departed Monday evening for Oklahoma.

Miss Eva Hackley and a friend of Sioux Falls spent last week with her folks. They departed Sunday on their return, accompanied by Miss Nellie Hackley and Mrs. Elsie Gaulke from Dows.

Lou Richards and family and Dick Andrews of Cuba City, Wisconsin, arrived last Wednesday at the Chas. Richards home. Mr. Richards is a brother of John Richards, Sr.

John Richards, Jr., and family of Iowa City arrived Saturday for a visit with relatives here.

The Misses Amy and Clara Azeitine went to Iowa Falls, Thursday, to spend the week end at their sister, Lillian's, who is attending school at that place.

Mrs. James Rowen has been quite ill the past week. Her mother, Mrs. Griffin, of Clarion, has been caring for her.

Dr. S. F. Osborne and wife from Waterville, Minn., and Dr. T. C. Osborne and wife of LeSuer, Minn., arrived Monday at the home of their brother, Rev. Osborne. Another brother, Dr. O. H. Osborne had planned to come but was detained at home on account of sickness.

Mrs. Louise Letts of Webster City and her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Petty of Waterloo visited last week at the Kercheval and Ballou homes.

Wilbur Utz and Miss Marie Hinckley were united in marriage Thursday, August 9th, at the M. E. parsonage in Clarion by Rev. Walker. They departed Friday by auto for a short honeymoon at Dixon, Illinois, after which they will be at home to their friends at the home of his mother Mrs. James Langdon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hinckley near Dows. She was a graduate of the Rowan high school in the class of 1922-23. The groom is one of the successful young farmers of this vicinity.

Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

The following is the program to be given at the Congregational church August 17 at 8 p. m. by Miss Charter and her pupils:

At Dusk, Nina Rietz.
Minuet in G, Robert Smith.
Sing, Robin, Sing, Mariam Sellers.
Nearer My God to Thee, Hazel Utz.
Slumber Song, Dolly Duffy.
Reading, Faith Porter.
Star of Hope, Alec. Smith.
Gondolier: Margaret and Kenneth Keith, Esther Emerson, Anna Rietz Viola Charter.
In the Swing, Mabel Fanselow.
March, Doris and Pearl Hiams.
Reading, Faith Porter.
In the Sweet Long Ago, Nina Rietz.
Falling Waters, Edith Hill.
Reading, Faith Porter.
Traumerei, Anna Rietz.
Piano Duet, Gladys Whitten.

GOODELL NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Robert McNutt spent two days with her sister last week, assisting her with her work.

Miss Hill was in town a part of last week lining up her work for the coming school year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth were Belmond callers Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. L. G. Avery on Tuesday of last week entertained a number of friends. Her daughter, Mrs. Kinseth, of Belmond, was present.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week Mrs. John Ahrenkiel entertained the Matson family.

Mrs. Blum, of Cedar Rapids came last Friday and is visiting at Mrs. John Ahrenkiel's.

Mrs. Dan Miller made a business trip to Belmond on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. White visited their daughter, Mrs. Ed Hughes on Thursday last.

Mrs. Wm. Bier visited her brother who is in the hospital at Mason City. She reports her brother some better.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beiers are visiting at Mr. Beier's parents this week.

Mr. Anton Boller on last Thursday while driving a team for Mr. Lackore was thrown from the wagon and his shoulder was put out of joint. It was necessary to have two doctors to put it back.

Dr. Missman, of Klemme was in town on last Thursday on professional business.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beier and Mrs. Wm. Beier drove to Mason City Sunday afternoon to see Mrs. Wm. Beier's brother.

Miss Maude Griggs helped at the Julius Cook home last week.

There was a fine attendance at the Rosary on Thursday. A very pleasant time was had by all who attended.

Mrs. Orlanda Sandberg assisted her daughter, Mrs. Jenison during threshing last week.

Mrs. Benson, of Gladbrook, Iowa, is visiting at the H. T. Miller's.

The United Brethren Sunday School will hold their annual picnic on Thursday, August 16. Bring a well filled basket and enjoy the day at West Lake.

Mrs. Graham, of Klemme, visited her mother, Mrs. Gee, on Wednesday of last week.

On Monday J. W. Griggs unloaded a car load of cement for the dam that is to be put in at East Lake this fall.

The "Wantano" Club met with Miss Mildred Borne last Thursday.

The Twin Lake Farm Bureau met last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Luick. It is reported that attendance was very large.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hanson and Miss Clara Johnson visited at the Schlichting home Sunday afternoon.

Rev. H. T. Miller returned from his Minnesota trip, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenison visited at the Jay Buchanan home, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donahue who have been visiting Mrs. Donahue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Finn, returned to their home in Lakota, Saturday.

Mrs. Africa enjoyed a visit from a brother who live in Des Moines.

Mr. Savogue spent Monday in Osage.

Toge Matson returned to his work after a visit with his parents.

Mrs. Julius Cook was in Hampton last week for treatment.

Dan Miller is hauling sand for the new dam at East Lake.

The Wan-to-no Club met at the home of Miss Mildred Beier, Thursday, August 9. The program was very much enjoyed by all. Eleven members were present. Nettie Chase talkd on "Care of Hair," Viola Finn on "Health Habits," Dorothy Lackore played an instrumental piece, and Edith Halfpop talked on "Care of Feet." Mrs. Chas. Conklin and Mrs. F. R. Chase were there to look after sewing affairs. After the meeting fine refreshments were served.

The spoon is an insignificant little utensil, yet it creates a stir in every home.

MICKIE SAYS—

ANNOUNCEMENT!

The White Produce Company

will not be closed during the absence of J. S. White.

Lateer Bros,, who have been assisting the management the last two years, will have complete charge.

Your continued patronage is solicited.

Belmond Phone 272 — Earle E. Lateer

Goodell Phone 21 — Earnest F. Lateer

COURT HOUSE NOTES

W. C. Halsey of Eagle Grove brings suit against R. S. and Mary Woodard to recover the sum of $3,829.52 alleged to be due on two promissory notes. The defendants made and executed these notes in favor of the Clarion Savings Bank and for value received were later transferred to the plaintiff, who alleges defendants have or are about to dispose of their property.

William R. Lambert of Clarion seeks a divorce from his wife, Hattie Frances, whom he married at Perry in November 1919. The husband alleges wilful desertion without cause and that the wife has absented herself from him for more than two years.

During one of the hot days last week janitor McGrath "snowed" away a fifty-ton car of lump coal in the court house basement.

Judge Clock of Hampton will convene court on Monday next to dispose of the unfinished busines remaining on hand from the April term.

The salary of the county attorney was increased by the last general assembly from $1,400 to $1,600. This change in the new law was accidently discovered only last week in the auditor's office.

Preliminary steps have been taken and unless "the man in the case" mends his ways another divorce case from a neighboring town will probably be a matter of record.

The Bankers Life Company ask judgment against R. W. Healey and wife, formerly of Belmond, now living in California, in the sum of $7,650, alleged to be due on a promissory note executed December 1st, 1920.—Monitor.

ON PRESIDENT HARDING

He has gone, he has left us lonely,
Burdened with tears and sighs.
How nobly he struggled onward
To join Them in the skies!
With crowns of national glory,
Gained thru struggle and strife
His spirit has left us, only;
To awake to a greater life.
Oh God, Thou didst safely guide him,
He who managed the helm and sail
And now You have taken him from us—
From the struggles of life's long trail.

Tom French, Iowa Falls, Ia

THE SONG OF THE FARMER

Most ev'ry day we read about some one who has his life knocked out because, before the train goes by, he tries to get across in high. He doesn't want to stop and wait until some passenger or freight has rumbled by and cleared the way, he hasn't got no time to stay and so he steps upon the gas, he won't wait for the train to pass. The chances are he learns too late it's safer for to stop and wait, the engine strikes and knocks him hence, his auto's straddle of the fence, while he is lucky at, by heck, he hasn't got a broken neck.

When I come to a railroad track I look down it both ways and back and if the limited's in sight I stop the motor and sit tight until the train has hurried by, for I ain't in a rush to die. A moment's waiting, more or less won't hurt me very much, I guess, I'd rather be alive and late than knocked to pieces by a freight. I'd rather stand for some delay than to smear up the right-of-way. I'd rather wait awhile, by gee, than have a funeral with me the guest of honor, while gee whiz, they say "How natural he is." When my time comes and life shall cease, I want to go all in one piece, so when the bell begins to ring I stop my car and wait, by jing!—The Prairie Farmer.

A NEW VERSION

Teacher—Once there was a very bad boy and he took his knife and cut off a cat's tail. Now what verse in the Bible does that remind you of?

Johnnie—What God has joined together let no man put asunder.

When you expect an opportunity it usually misses the train.

It takes a rousing demonstration to get a small boy out of bed in the early morn.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Canning Chicken. Kill, dress and cut chicken into usual pieces. Cook until the meat can be removed from the bones; cut into small pieces or run thru food chopper and season to taste. Pack into half-pint jars, pouring in enough of the broth left from the boiling to fill air spaces. Put rubber and cap into position and sterilize one and a half hours in hot water bath or 45 minutes in steam pressure cooker at 20 pounds pressure. This makes excellent sandwich filling or chicken salad.

2. Place pieces of raw chicken in jars. Season, add water if desired, or let juices from the broth. Place rubber and cap in position and sterilize for three hours in hot water bath or one and a half hours in steam cooker at 20 pounds pressure.

3. Season. Fry pieces of chicken as for table use, until nicely browned. Pack into jars and pour in the fat used for frying. Do not add water. Place rubber and cap in position; sterilize one and a half hours in hot water bath or 45 minutes under 20 pounds pressure in steam cooker.

Make Your Own Candied Fruit

Fruit which is to be candied should be washed, peeled and pared, then cut or slice into small pieces. Drop fruit into boiling water for two or three minutes, drain well and cover with syrup made by boiling together one pound of sugar for each pound of fruit, with one cup of water. Boil fruit rapidly in this syrup for 15 minutes. Remove from fire and let stand over night. Repeat heating and cooling for four to six days, according to how rapidly the water is drawn out and the syrup absorbed. When the fruit is transparent and bright, lift from syrup and dry in sun or in cool oven.

BUNDY'S GOT A CARBURETOR

Rube McFerren of Webster City recently received a letter from Henry Ford asking him to come to the Ford plant at Detroit and demonstrate the Bundy Developement company carburctor. This carburetor is made especially for Ford cars and is claimed to effect a saving of from a third to a half in gasoline. A good many of them have been sold in this part of the state and Mr. Ford is now anxious to have a demonstration which may lead to it becoming a part of the regular Ford car equipment. Mr. McFerren, who was the republican candidate for senator from this district at the last election, plans to make the trip to Detroit soon.—Webster City Journal.

"Levine," said the manager of a bank, "there'll be a vacancy at the head office shortly, and I'm thinking of nominating your twin brother for the job."

"My twin brother!" exclaimed Levine. "But—"

"I mean the one I saw watching a ball game yesterday while you were at your aunt's funeral," said the manager.

"Oh—yes," said Levine. "I'll go and get him!"

"Good!" said the manager. "And don't come back until you've found him."

"Safety first" is a good motto, but too many people wait until it's too late to be careful.

A pessimist likes a thing he can't enjoy, and an optimist enjoys a thing he can't like.

A lot of foolish birds must pass for wise owls if they would only refrain from talking.

A fat girl ought to be insulted if you offer her candy, but generally she isn't.

"Politics is politics," and that is about the best and the worst that you can say of it.

Keep your temper. Nobody wants it.

Don't worry over the criticism of others. It is often caused by envy.

Never climb over the obstacles in the pathway of life. Remove them, instead.

COMING

To Cornelia, Iowa, beginning with Sunday, August 19th

Gospel Union Tent Meeting

Heart Searching, Soul Stirring, Spirit Breathing Messages In Sermon and Song

AN OLD TIME REVIVAL IN THE POWER OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

REV. T. DE BOYCE FRANKLIN
Evangelist and Musical Director

ELSIE R. FRANKLIN
Pianist, Musical Manager and Children's Worker.

Singers Wanted For A Large Chorus Choir

COME AND HELP
AND BE HELPED

Independent Wants Ads are little but they bring Big Returns. Try one for what you have to sell or rent.

IT LOOKED THAT WAY

Two miners had never seen golf played before. They stood watching a fat, unskilled player at work in a bunker. The sand flew up but the ball remained. Seven agonizing shots had been played. The player made his eighth attempt. The ball was lobbed up, dropped on the green, and rolling to the pin, settled in the hole.

"By gum, Bill!" said one miner to the other, "He's got a duece of a job on, now!"

A LITTLE LIVER CURE

We usually try out all the remedies friends suggest to us, but occasionally it is necessary to balk. An editorial friend tells us how to cure a sluggish liver, which we now have. Says he: "Take one spade, one hoe and one rake, twice a day, and dig a cure out of the garden."—Honey Grove Signal.

No, we will not relent. We don't like winter any better because of the excesses of summer.

After a rough lie has been polished it is called hypocrisy.

KURTZ DAIRY

Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

LOCALS

The Dorcas Society of the Immanuel Reformed church will hold their social tonight. Refreshments will be served, and the girls will sell their fancy work.

All business places in Belmond closed last Friday afternoon, from one to four, in honor of President Harding, whose funeral was held at Marion, Ohio, that afternoon.

The Spencer base ball team won the tournament last week, defeating Dows 10 to 3 in the last game. Spencer has a fast team, one of the best in Iowa, and if the Legion secures them for a game on their big day in September local fans should see a real game.

M. J. Thoe returned the first of the week from his trip to points in South Dakota. He was accompanied on the trip by his father, of Lake Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. White expect to leave next Sunday on their trip to Washington state. They will go by way of Yellowstone Park, and expect to be gone about a month and a half. Earl Lateer will have charge of the White Produce Station during Mr. White's absence. Ernest Lateer will have charge of the Goodell station.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Jacobson and family returned last Thursday from their trip to points in Minnesota, where they visited relatives and enjoyed an outing.

Two more rains, one last Friday and another Saturday night, have freshened the growing things considerably, and as a result prospects for a big corn crop now depend upon the frost staying away another month.

HER WAY OUT

"A man came in the other day," said the medium to an acquaintance in the same business, "and asked me to get into communication with the shade of Julius Caesar right away. He wanted to know what Caesar really said when Brutus stabbed him."

"That was easy."

"Of course. But for a moment I forgot the stock line we always use, so I had to clutch at the air three or four times and tell my client that as I was a lady I couldn't repeat such language."

WHERE LIGHT WAS NEEDED!

The stingy farmer was scoring the hired man for carrying a lighted lantern to call on his best girl.

"The idea," he exclaimed. "When I was courtin' I never carried no lantern. I went in the dark."

"Yes," said the hired man sadly. "and look what you got."

SIGNS OF WEAR

"What do you think of your new mama, Elsie?"

"Well, papa, if you took her for new, I think you got cheated."

The boy who once wished his dad had a candy store now has a son who wishes his dad had a filling station.—

With the delights of summer only fairly upon us we are confronted with the perplexities of another winter's supply of coal.

You can not expect others to see the justice of your position unless you are able to see it yourself.

Kinseth's Store News

We're full of prunes. An odd remark to make in an ad, isn't it? But we aim to be truthful first of all in our advertising, and so we have to say that we're full of prunes.

We mean by that, we are ready

—K—

to sell you some Italian Prunes. We have a fresh shipment of them, and we want to say right here that they are some prunes! If you haven't had a dish of Italian Prunes, you don't know what prunes can be like. They make the finest desert dish on the table, and we want you to try a small order of them to begin with. The large order will come as soon as you have tried them.

—K—

And of course we have all kinds of good groceries to go along with the prunes. Our goods are good goods, if you get any that aren't it will be a favor to us if you will just send them right back. We consider that a satisfied customer is better than the money in bad goods.

—K—

Don't forget that we have those gallon cans of fruit, and that if you haven't canned what you want or all you want, this fruit will fill the vacant place on the pantry or cellar shelf.

—K—

And don't forget those army and navy blankets either, or the fact that we have shoes of all kinds that are real shoes.

—K—

Remember we're open evenings, and that we deliver any time. So remember the Store on the Corner and follow the crowds.

Quickly Regrow Your Bobbed Hair

Women who wish to stimulate the growth of their hair should try Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage, which is so successfully growing hair. Strong, vigorous hair surely follows a healthy condition of the scalp and a good circulation of blood to the hair roots. Ask us for Van Ess, which comes in a patent applicator bottle. Easy to apply. If used as directed it will cause your hair to grow 8 to 10 inches each year.

SCHULTZ DRUG COMPANY
Belmond, Iowa

BARGAINS!

MUST BE SOLD BY AUGUST 18

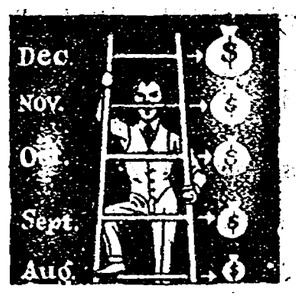
Come in and get the benefit of these bargains in the new all-ready-to-use farm machinery and household necessities.

SALE BEGINS WHEN YOU READ THIS AD

One 1 1-2 h. p. I. H. C. engine on trucks	$ 67.00	One Deering corn binder	190.00
One Voss power washer	42.00	One 10-20 Titan with plows	800.00
One 3-burner kerosene oil stove	20.00	One 8-16 I. H. C. tractor with plows	600.00
One 3-burner New Process oil stove	$21.00	One No. 2 cylinder sheller	200.00
One 3 h. p. gas engine	50.00	One wood saw with frame	35.00
One 6-inch I. H. C. grinder	27.00	One P. & O. gang plow	110.00
One John Deere spreader	150.00	One I. H. C. speed truck.
		One Ford touring car.

L. W. Wesenberg

GOODELL, IOWA

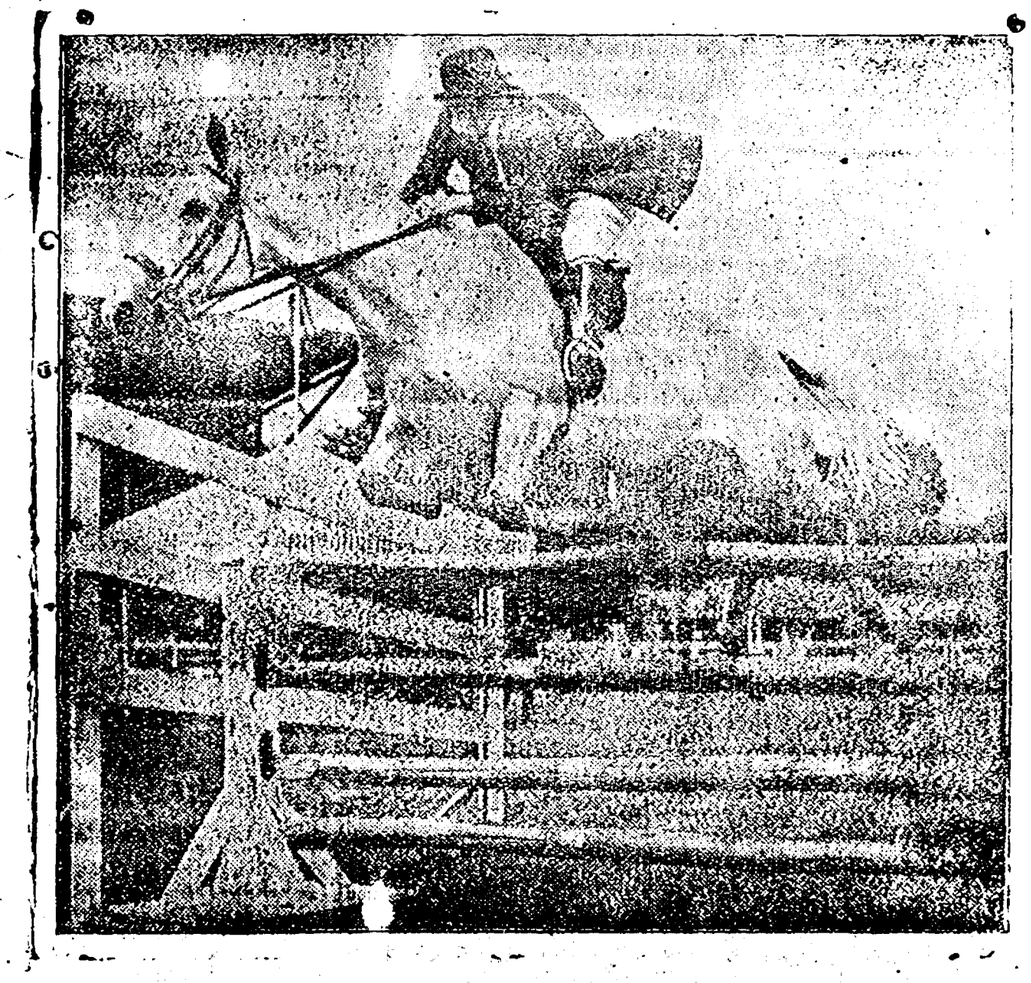


Climbing Upward!

EVER UPWARD. THAT'S WHAT YOUR SAVINGS ACCOUNT SHOULD BE DOING. COMPOUND INTEREST HELPS TREMENDOUSLY—BUT YOUR REGULAR DEPOSITS ARE THE THINGS THAT RAISE YOU TO SUCCESS.

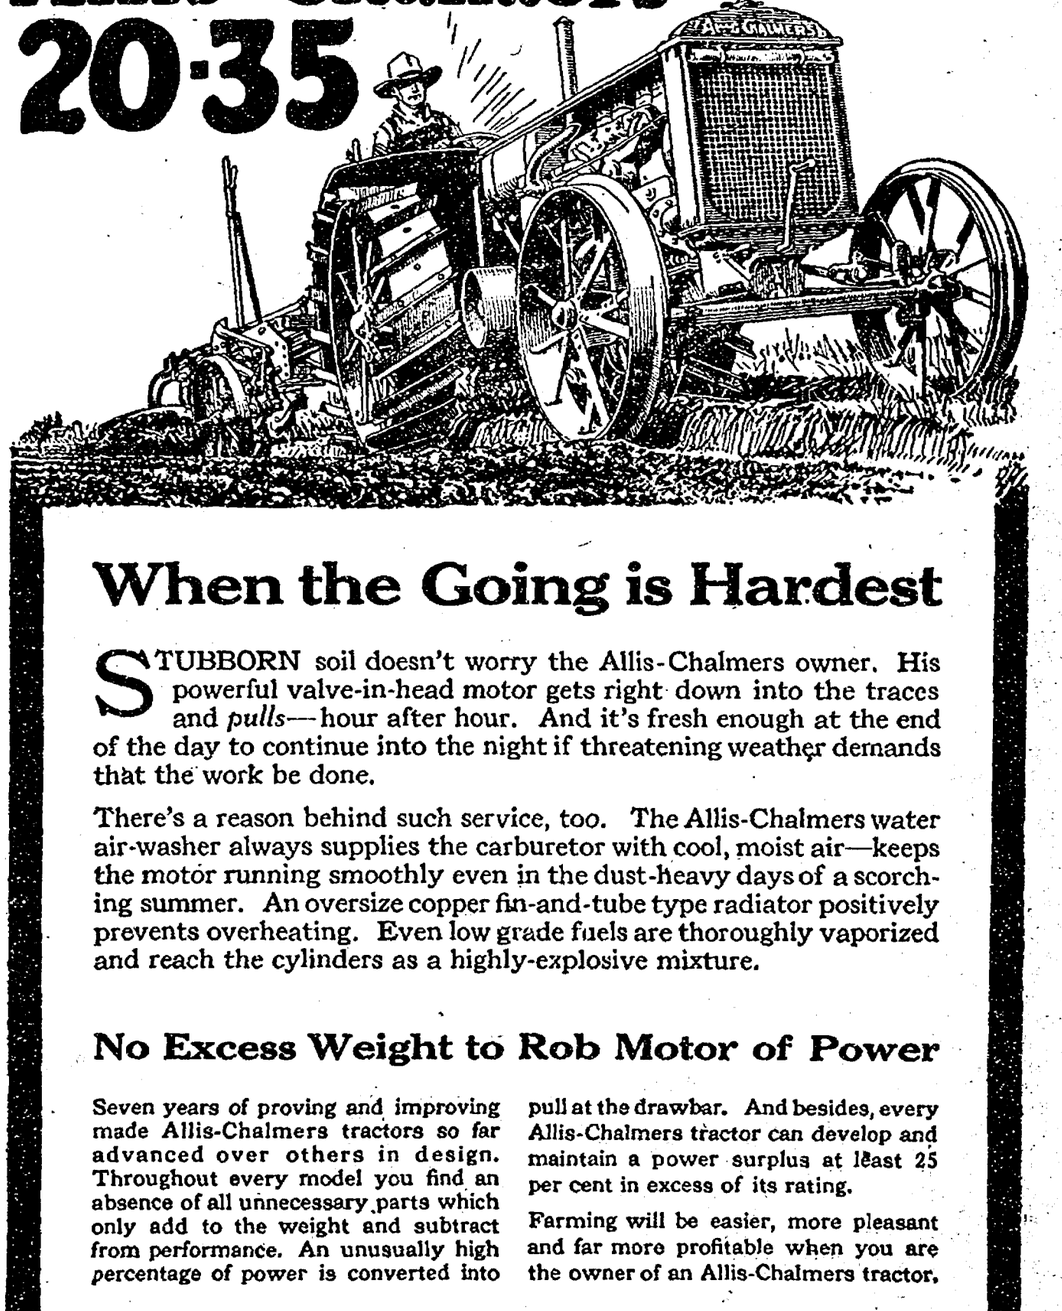
Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa



Copyright by Underwood & Underwolce.
A QUAKER CITY SOCIETY BUD AT THE DEVON HORSE SHOW
Photo shows Miss Rebecca W. Stout, of Philadelphia, riding "Grey Dolly" over the jumps at the Devon Horse Show, Philadelphia.

Allis-Chalmers 20-35



When the Going is Hardest

STUBBORN soil doesn't worry the Allis-Chalmers owner. His powerful valve-in-head motor gets right down into the traces and pulls—hour after hour. And it's fresh enough at the end of the day to continue into the night if threatening weather demands that the work be done.

There's a reason behind such service, too. The Allis-Chalmers water air-washer always supplies the carburetor with cool, moist air—keeps the motor running smoothly even in the dust-heavy days of a scorching summer. An oversize copper fin-and-tube type radiator positively prevents overheating. Even low grade fuels are thoroughly vaporized and reach the cylinders as a highly-explosive mixture.

No Excess Weight to Rob Motor of Power

Seven years of proving and improving made Allis-Chalmers tractors so far advanced over others in design. Throughout every model you find an absence of all unnecessary parts which only add to the weight and subtract from performance. An unusually high percentage of power is converted into pull at the drawbar. And besides, every Allis-Chalmers tractor can develop and maintain a power surplus at least 25 per cent in excess of its rating.

Farming will be easier, more pleasant and far more profitable when you are the owner of an Allis-Chalmers tractor.

The $42,500,000 Allis-Chalmers Company has authorized us to sell A-C perfected tractors on time in our territory. One easy down-payment, then we make delivery at once! 'Phone, write or come in today and ask us for the details. No obligation whatever.

JOHNSON & WRIGHT

BELMOND, IOWA.

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

"Mrs. Landis," he said, in a crisp voice of an accent and finish strange to the girl, "I wonder if you and your husband can put me up for the night. I'm Frank Holliwell. I'm on a round of parish visits, and, as my parish is about sixty miles square my poor old pony has gone lame. I know you are not my parishioners, though, no doubt, you should be, but I'm going to lay claim to your hospitality, for all that, if I may?"

Joan had moved her rake into the grasp of her left hand and had taken the proffered palm into her other, all warm and fragrantly stained.

"You're the new sin-buster, ain't you?" she asked gravely.

The young man opened his blue and friendly eyes.

"Oh, that's what I am, eh? That's a new one to me. Yes. I suppose I am. It's rather a fine name to go by—sin-buster," and he laughed very low and very amusedly.

Joan looked him over and slowly smiled. "You look like you could bust anything you'd a mind to," she said, and led the way toward the house, her rake across her shoulder.

"Pierre," she told him when they were in the shining, clean log house, "is off in the hills after his elk, but I can make you up a bed in the sittin'-room an' serve you a supper an' welcome."

"Oh, thanks," he rather doubtfully accepted.

Evidently he did not know the ways and proprieties of this new "parish" of his. But Joan seemed to take the situation with an enormous, calm impersonality. He modeled his manner upon hers. They sat at the table together, Joan silent, save when he forced her to speak, and entirely untroubled by her silence, Frank Holliwell, eating heartily, helping her serve and talking a great deal. By the end of dish-washing he had her history and more of her opinions, probably, than any other creature she had met.

"What do you do when Landis is away?"

She told him.

"But in the evenings, I mean, after work. Have you books?"

"No," said Joan; "it's right hard labor, readin'. Pa learned me my letters an' I can spell out bits from papers an' advertisements an' what not, but I ain't never read a book straight out. I dunno," she added presently, "but as I'd like to. Pierre can read," she told him proudly.

"I'm sure you'd like to." He considered her through the smoke of his pipe. He was sitting by the hearth now, and she, just through with clearing up, stood by the corner of the mantel shelf, arranging the logs. The firelight danced over her face, so beautiful, so unlighted from within.

"How old are you, Joan Landis?" he asked suddenly, using her name without title for the first time.

"Eighteen."

"Is that all? You must read books, you know. There's so much empty space there back of your brows."

She looked up smiling a little, her wide gray eyes puzzled.

"Yes, Joan. You must read. Will you—if I lend you some books."

She considered. "Yes," she said, "I'd read them if you'd be lendin' me some. In the evenings when Pierre's away, I'm right lonesome. I never was lonesome before, not to know it. It'll take me a long time to read one book, though," she added with an engaging mournfulness.

"What do you like—stories, poetry, magazines?"

"I'd like real books in stiff covers," said Joan, "an' I don't like pictures."

This surprised the clergyman. "Why not?" said he.

"I like to notion how the folks look myself. I like pictures of real places, that has got to be like they are"—Joan was talking a great deal and having trouble with her few simple words—"but I like folks in stories to look like I want 'em to look."

"Not the way the writer describes them?"

"Yes, sir. But you can make up a whole lot on what the writer describes. If he says 'her eyes is blue,' you can see 'em dark blue or light blue or jest blue. An' you can see 'em shaped round or what not, the way you think about folks that you've heard of an' have never met."

It was extraordinary how this effort at self-expression excited Joan. She was rarely self-conscious, but she was usually passive or stolid; now there was a brilliant flush in her face and her large eyes deepened and glowed. "I heerd tell of you, Mr. Holliwell. Fellers come up here to see Pierre onct in a while an' one or two of 'em spoke your name. An' I kinder figured out you was a weedy feller, awful solemn-like, an' of course you ain't, but it's real hard for me to notion that there ain't two Mr. Holliwells, you an' the weedy sin-buster I've ben picturin'. Like as not I'll get to thinkin' of you like two fellers." Joan sighed. "Seems like when I onct get a notion in my head it jest sticks there some way."

"Then the more wise notions you get the better. I'll ride up here in a couple of weeks' time with some books. You may keep them as long as you will. All winter, if you like. When I can get up here, we can talk them over, you and Landis and I. I'll try to choose some without pictures. There will be stories and some poetry, too."

"I ain't never read but one pome," said Joan.

"And that was?"

She sat down on the floor by the hearth, her head thrown back to lean against the cobbles of the chimney-piece, her knees locked in her hands. That magnificent long throat of hers ran up to the black coils of hair which had slipped heavily down over her ears. The light edged her round chin and her strongly modeled, regular features; the full, firm mouth so savagely pure and sensuous and self-contained. The eyes were mysterious under their thick lashes and dark, long brows. This throat and face and these strong hands were picked out in their full value of line and texture from the dark cotton dress she was wearing.

"It's a pome on a card what father had, stuck ag'in' the wall." She began to recite, her eyes fixed upon him with childlike gravity. "'He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. . . . Yea, though I walk through the valley of shadows, Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.'"

Holliwell had taken the pipe from between his teeth, had straightened up. Her deep voice, the slight swinging of her body to the rhythm she had unconsciously given to her lines, the strange glow in her eyes . . . Holliwell wondered why these things, this brief, sing-song recitation, had given a light thrill to the surface of his skin, had sent a tingling to his finger-tips. He was the first person to wonder at that effect of Joan's cadenced music. "The valley of the shadow—" she had missed a familiar phrase and added value to a too often repeated line.

"Joan! Joan!" said the "sin-buster," an exclamation drawn from him on a deep breath, "what an extraordinary girl you are! What a marvelous woman you are going to be!"

Joan looked at him in a silence of pure astonishment and that was the end of their real talk.

CHAPTER V

Pierre Becomes Alarmed About His Property.

The next time Holliwell came he brought the books, and, finding Pierre at home, he sat with his host after supper and talked men's talk of the country; of game, of ranching, a little gossip, stories of travel, humorous experiences, and Joan sat in her place, the books in her lap, looking and listening.

John Carver had used a phrase, "When you see her eyes lookin' an' lookin' at another man—" and this phrase had stuck in Pierre's sensitive and jealous memory. What Joan felt for Holliwell was a sort of ignorant and respectful tenderness, the excitement of an intelligent child first moved to a knowledge of its own intelligence; the gratitude of savage loneliness toward the beautiful feet of exploration. A consciousness of her clean mind, a consciousness of her young, untamed spirit, had come slowly to life in her since her talk with Holliwell. Joan was peculiarly a woman—that is, the passive and receptive being. Pierre had laid his hand on her heart and she had followed him; now this young parson had put a curious finger on her brain, it followed him. Her husband saw the admiration, the gratitude, the tender excitement in her frank eyes, and the poison seed sown by John Carver's hand shot out roots and tiny, deadly branches.

But Joan and Holliwell were unaware. Pierre smoked rapidly, rolling cigarette after cigarette; he listened with a courteous air, he told stories in his soft, slow voice; once he went out to bring in a fresh log and, coming back on noiseless feet, saw Joan and her instructor bent over one of the books and Joan's face was almost that of a stranger, so eager, so flushed, with sparkles in the usually still gray eyes.

It was not till a week or two after this second visit from the clergyman that Pierre's smoldering jealousy broke into flame. After clearing away the supper things with an absent air of eager expectation, Joan would dry her hands on her apron, and, taking down one of her books from their place in a shelf corner, she would draw her chair close to the lamp and begin to read, forgetful of Pierre. These had been the happiest hours for him; he would tell Joan about his day's work, about his plans, about his past life; wonderful it was to him, after his loneliness, that she should be sitting there drinking in every word and loving him with her dumb, wild eyes. Now, there was no talk and no listening. Joan's absorbed face was turned from him and bent over her book, her lips moved, she would stop and stare before her. After a long while he would get up and got to bed, but she would stay with her books till a restless movement from him would make her aware of the lamplight shining wakefulness upon him through the chinks in the partition wall. Then she would get up reluctantly, sighing, and come to bed.

For ten evenings this went on, Pierre's heart slowly heating itself, until, all at once, the flame leaped.

Joan had untied her apron and reached up for her book. Pierre had been waiting, hoping that of her free will she might prefer his company to the "parson feller's"—for in his ignorance those books were jealousy personified—but, without a glance in his direction, she had turned as usual to the shelf.

"You goin' to read?" asked Pierre hoarsely. It was a painful effort to speak.

She turned with a childish look of astonishment. "Yes, Pierre."

He stood up with one of his lithe, swift movements, all in one rippling piece. "By G—d, you're not, though!" said he, strode over to her, snatched the volume from her, threw it back into its place and pointed her to her chair.

"You set down an' give heed to me fer a change, Joan Carver," he said, his smoke-colored eyes smoldering. "I didn't fetch you up here to read parsons' books an' waste oil. I fetched you up here—to—" He stopped, choked with a sudden, enormous hurt tenderness and sat down and fell to smoking and staring, hot-eyed, into the fire.

And Joan sat silent in her place, puzzled, wistful, wounded, her idle hands folded, looking at him for a while, then absently before her, and he knew that her mind was busy again with the preacher feller's books. If he had known better how to explain his heart, if she had known how to show him the impersonal eagerness of her awakening mind—! But, savage and silent, they sat there, loving each other, hurt, but locked each into his own impenetrable life.

After that Joan changed the hours of her study and neglected housework and sagebrush-grubbing, but nonetheless were Pierre's evenings spoiled. When he talked he could not escape the consciousness of having constrained his audience; she could not escape her knowledge of his jealousy, the remembrance of his mysterious outbreak, the irrepressible tug of the story she was reading. So it went on till snow came and they were shut in, man and wife, with only each other to watch, a tremendous test of good-fellowship. This searching intimacy came at a bad time, just after Holliwell's third visit, when he had brought a fresh supply of books.

"I Didn't Fetch You Up Here to Read Parsons' Books an' Waste Oil."

"There's poetry this time," he said. "Get Pierre to read it aloud to you."

The suggestion was met by a rude laugh from Pierre.

"I wouldn't be wastin' my time," he jeered.

It was the first rift in his courtesy. Holliwell looked up in sharp surprise. He saw a flash of the truth, a little wriggle of the green serpent in Pierre's eyes before they fell. He flushed and glanced at Joan. She wore an almost timorous air, accepted his remarks in silence, shot doubtful looks at Pierre before she answered questions, was an entirely different Joan. Now Holliwell was angry and he stiffened toward his host and hostess, dropped all his talk about the books and smoked haughtily. He was young and over-sensitive, no more master of himself in this instance than Pierre and Joan. But before he left after supper, refusing a bed, though Pierre conquered his dislike sufficiently to urge it, Holliwell had a moment with Joan. It was very touching. He would tell about it afterward, but for a long time he could not bear to remember it.

She tried to return his books, coming with her arms full of them and lifting up eyes that were almost tragic with renunciation.

"I can't be taking time to read them, Mr. Holliwell," she said, that extraordinary, over-expressive voice of hers running an octave of regret; "an' someway Pierre don't like that I should spend my evenin's on them. Seems like he thinks I was settin' myself up to be knowin' more than him." She laughed ruefully. "Me—knowin' more'n Pierre! It's laughable. But anyways I don't want him to be thinkin' that. So take the books, please. I like them." She paused. "I love them," she said hungrily, and blinking, thrust them into his hands.

He put them down on the table. "You're wrong, Joan," he said quickly. "You mustn't give in to such a foolish idea. You have rights of your own, a life of your own. Pierre mustn't stand in the way of your learning. You mustn't let him. I'll speak to him."

"Oh, no!" Some intuition warned her of the danger in his doing this.

"Well, then, keep your books and talk to Pierre about them. Try to persuade him to read aloud to you. I shan't be back now till spring, but I want you to read this winter, read all the stuff that's there. Come, Joan, to please me," and he smiled coaxingly.

"I ain't afraid of Pierre," said Joan slowly. Her pride was stung by the suggestion. "I'll keep the books." She sighed. "Good-by. When I see you in the spring, I'll be a right learned schoolmarm."

She held out her hand and he took and held it, pressing it in his own. He felt troubled about her, unwilling to leave her in the snowbound wilderness with that young savage of the smoldering eyes.

"Good-by," said Pierre behind him. His soft voice had a click.

Holliwell turned to him. "Good-by, Landis. I shan't see either of you till the spring. I wish you a good winter and I hope—" He broke off and held out his hand. "Well," said he, "you're pretty far out of everybody's way here. Be good to each other."

"D—n your interference!" said Pierre's eyes, but he took the hand and even escorted Holliwell to his horse.

Snow came early and deep that winter. Pierre had cut and stacked his winter wood; he had sent his cows to a richer man's ranch for winter feeding. There was very little for him to do. After he had brought in two buckets of water from the well and had cut for the day's consumption a piece of meat from his elk hanging outside against the wall, he had only to sit and smoke, to read old magazines and papers and to watch Joan. Then the poisonous roots of his jealousy struck deep. Always his brain, falsely interpreting her wistful silence—she was thinking of the parson, hungry to read his books, longing for the open season and his coming again to the ranch.

In December a man came in on snowshoes bringing "the mail"—one letter for Pierre, a communication which brought heat to his face. The Forest service threatened him with a loss of land; it pointed to some flaw in his title; part of his property, the most valuable part, had not yet been surveyed. . . . Pierre looked up with set jaws, every fighting instinct sharpened to hold what was his own.

"I hev put in two years' hard work on them acres," he told his visitor, "an' I'm not plannin' to give them over to the first fool favored by the Service. My title is as clean as my hand. It'll take more'n thievery an' more'n spite to take it away from me."

"You better go to Robinson," advised the bearer of the letter; "can't get after them fellers too soon. It's a country where you can easy come by what you want, but where it ain't so easy to hold onto it. If it ain't yer land it's yer hosses; if it ain't yer hosses it's yer wife." He looked at Joan and laughed.

Pierre went white and dumb; the chance shot had inflamed his wound.

He strapped on his snowshoes and bade a grim good-by to Joan, after the man had left. "Don't you be wastin' oil while I'm away," he told her sharply, standing in the doorway, his head level with the steep wall of snow behind him, and he gave her a threatening look so that the tenderness in her heart was frozen.

After he had gone, "Pierre, say a real good-by, say good-by," she whispered. Her face cramped and tears came.

She heard his steps lightly crunching across the hard, bright surface of the snow; they entered into the terrible frozen silence. Then she turned from the door, dried her eyes with her sleeve like a little village girl, and ran across the room to a certain shelf. Pierre would be gone a week. She would not waste oil, but she would read. It was with the appetite of a starved creature that she fell upon her books.

CHAPTER VI

Pierre Takes Steps to Preserve His Property.

A log fell forward and Joan lifted her head. She had not come to an end of Isabella's tragedy nor of her own memories, but something other than the falling log had startled her: a light, crunching step upon the snow.

She looked toward the window. For an instant the room was almost dark and the white night peered in at her, its gigantic snow-peaks pressing against the long, horizontal window panes, and in that instant she saw a face. Joan came to her feet with pounding pulses. It had been Pierre's face, but at the same time the face of a stranger. He had come back five days too soon and something terrible had happened. Surely his chancing to see her with her book would not make him look like that. Besides, she was not wasting oil. She had stood up, but at first she was incapable of moving forward. For the first time in her life she knew the paralysis of unreasoning fear. Then the door opened and Pierre came in out of the crystal night.

"What brought you back so soon?" asked Joan.

"Too soon for you, eh?" He strode over to the hearth where she had lain, took up the book, struck it with his hand as though it had been a hated face, and flung it into the fire. "I seen you through the window," he said. "So you been happy readin' while I been away?"

"I'll get you supper. I'll light the lamp," Joan stammered.

Pierre's face was pale, his black hair lay in wet streaks on his temples. He must have traveled at furious speed through the bitter cold to be in such a sweat. There was a mysterious, controlled disorder in his look and there arose from him the odor of strong drink. But he was steady and sure in all his movements and his eyes were deadly cool and reasonable—only it was the reasonableness of insanity, reasonableness based on the widest premises of unreason.

"I don't want no supper, nor no light," he said. "Firelight's enough fer you to read parsons' books by; it's enough fer me to do what I oughter done long afore tonight."

She stood in the middle of the small, log-walled room, arrested in the act of lighting a match, and stared at him with troubled eyes. She was no longer afraid. After all, strange as he looked, more strangely as he talked, he was her Pierre, her man. The confidence of her heart had not been seriously shaken by his coldness and his moods during this winter. There had been times of fierce, possessive tenderness. She was his own woman, his property; at this low counting did she rate herself. A sane man does no injury to his own possessions. And Pierre, of course, was sane. He was tired, angry, he had been drinking—her ignorance, her inexperience led her to put little emphasis on the effects of the poison sold at the town saloon. When he was warm and fed and rested he would be quite himself again. She went about preparing a meal in spite of his words.

He did not seem to notice this. He had taken his eyes from her at last and was busy with the fire. She, too, busy and reassured by the familiar occupation, ceased to watch him. Her pulses were quiet now. She was even beginning to be glad of his return. Why had she been so frightened? Of course, after such a terrible journey alone in the bitter cold, he would look strange. Her father, when he came back smelling of liquor, had always been more than usually morose and unlike his every-day self. He would sit over the stove and tell her the story of his crime. They were horrible home-comings, horrible evenings, but the next morning they would seem like dreams. Tomorrow this strangeness of Pierre's would be mistlike and unreal.

"I seen your sin-buster in town," said Pierre. He was squatting on his heels over the fire which he had built up to a great blaze and glow and he spoke in a queer sing-song tone through his teeth. "He asked after you real kind. He wanted to know how you was gettin' on with the edication he's ben handin' out to you. I tell him that you was right satisfied with me an' my ways an' hed quit his books. I didn't know as you was hevin' such a good time durin' my absence."

Joan was cruelly hurt. His words seemed to fall heavily upon her heart. "I wasn't hevin' a good time. I was missin' you, Pierre," said she in a low tremolo of grieving music. "Them books, they seemed like they was all the company I hed."

"You looked like you was missin' me," he sneered. "The sin-buster an' I had words about you, Joan. Yes'm, he give me quite a line of preachin' about you, Joan, as how you hed oughter develop yer own life in yer own way—along the lines laid out by him. I told him as how I knowed best what was right an' fittin' fer my own wife; as how, with a mother like your'n you needed watchin' more'n learnin'; as how you belonged to me an' not to him. An', says he, 'She don't belong to any man, Pierre Landis,' he said, 'neither to you nor to me. She belongs to her own self.' 'I'll see that she belongs to me,' I said. 'I'll fix her so she'll know it an' every other feller will.'"

At that he turned from the fire and straightened to his feet.

Joan moved backward slowly to the door. He had made no threatening sign or movement, but her fear had come overwhelmingly upon her and every instinct urged her to flight. But before she touched the handle of the door, he flung himself with deadly, swift force and silence across the room and took her in his arms. With all her wonderful strength, Joan could not break away from him. He dragged her back to the hearth, tied her elbows behind her with the scarf from his neck, that very scarf he had worn when the dawn had shed a wistful beauty upon him, waiting for her on a morning not so very long ago. Joan went weak.

"Pierre," she cried pitifully, "what are you a-goin' to do to me?"

He roped her to the heavy post of a set of shelves built against the wall. Then he stood away, breathing fast.

"Now whose gel are you, Joan Carver?" he asked her.

"You know I'm yours, Pierre," she sobbed. "You got no need to tie me to make me say that."

"I got to tie you to make you do more'n say it. I got to make sure you are it. H—l-fire won't take the sureness out of me after this."

She Turned Her Head, All That She Could Turn.

She turned her head, all that she could turn.

He was bending over the fire, and when he straightened she saw that he held something in his hand . . . a long bar of metal, white at the shaped end. At once her memory showed her a broad glow of sunset falling over Pierre at work. "There'll be stock all over the country marked with them two bars," he had said. "The Two-Bar brand, don't you forget it!" She was not likely to forget it now.

She shut her eyes. He stepped close to her and jerked her blouse down from her shoulder. She writhed away from him, silent in her rage and fear and fighting dumbly. She made no appeal. At that moment her heart was so full of hatred that it was hardened to pride. He lifted his brand and set it against the bare flesh of her shoulder.

Then terribly she screamed. Again, when he took the metal away, she screamed. Afterward there was a dreadful silence.

Joan had not lost consciousness. Her healthy nerves stanchly received the anguish and the shock, nor did she make any further outcry. She pressed her forehead against the sharp edge of the shelf, she drove her nails into her hands, and at intervals she writhed from head to foot. Circles of pain spread from the deep burn on her shoulder, spread and shrank. The bones of her shoulder and arm ached terribly; fire still seemed to be eating into her flesh. The air was full of the smell of scorched skin so that she tasted it herself. And hotter than her hurt her heart burned, consuming its own tenderness and love and trust.

When this pain left her, when she was free of her bonds, no force nor fear would hold her to Pierre. She would leave him as she had left her father. She would go away. There was no place for her to go to, but what did that matter so long as she might escape from this horrible place and this infernal tormentor? She did not look about to see the actuality of Pierre's silence. She thought that he had dropped the brand and was sitting near the table with his face hidden. How long the stillness of pain and fury and horror lasted there was no one to reckon. It was most startlingly broken by a voice. "Who screamed for help?" it said, and at the same instant a draft of icy air smote Joan. The door had opened with suddenness and violence. With difficulty she mastered her pain and turned her head.

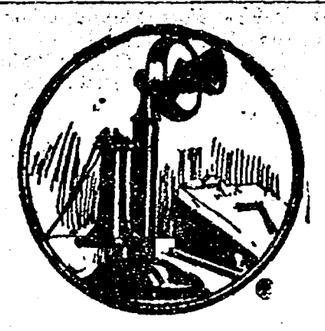
Pierre had staggered to his feet. Opposite him, framed against the open door filled with the wan whiteness of the snow, stood a spare, tall figure. The man wore his fur collar turned up about his brow, a sharp aquiline nose stood out above frozen mustaches, keen and brilliant eyes searched the room. He carried his gun across his arm in readiness, and snuffed the air like a suspicious hound. Then he advanced a step toward Pierre.

"What devil's work have you been at?" said he, his voice cutting the ear in its sharpness of astonished rage, and his hand slid down along the handle of his gun.

Pierre, watching him like a lynx, side-stepped, crouched, whipped out his gun and fired. At almost the same second the other's gun went off. Pierre dropped.

This time Joan's nerves gave way and the room, with its smell of scorched flesh, of powder and of frost, went out from her horrified senses. For a moment the stranger's stern face and brilliant eyes made the approaching center of a great cloud of darkness, then it, too, went out.

Continued next week.



Phone the News to 115.

LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller Bailey were visitors, Sunday, with relatives at Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith are the parents of a nine-pound baby boy, born to them Monday, August 13th.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, of Hampton, drove over Sunday to spend the day at the home of his mother, Mrs. P. J. Peterson, and with other relatives.

Mrs. Roseerans and Mrs. Finch drove to Garner, Sunday, where they spent the day at the Clarence Barnes home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Papousek are the parents of a baby girl, born Saturday, August 11th.

Mrs. Geo. Hake and daughter, Beryl, are visiting relatives this week at Stephens Point, Wisconsin. They left last Wednesday.

Mrs. Mills and daughter, Marian, of Chicago, are guests at the Ernest and Earl Haupt homes this week.

Mrs. Lyle Hall, of Alexander, was a visitor in Belmond last Wednesday.

Miss Angie Baines, of Rowan, was a caller in town, Monday morning. Miss Baines is the Rowan representative of the Independent.

Miss Minnie Johnson is visiting this week at the home of her cousin, T. I. Rikansrud, at New Richland, Minnesota.

Morris Brogan, of St. James, Minnesota, was a visitor last week at the home of his sister, Mrs. O. Young.

Mrs. E. A. Pierce went to Clarion, Saturday, to visit her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Beckett, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Scott are enjoying a visit this week from relatives of Huxley.

Miss Dorothy Purcell left Tuesday for Crystal Lake, to visit a few days with friends.

Miss Daisy Cameron entertained a number o fher friends at bridge, Monday evening. Dainty refreshmets were served by the hostess. Everyone present spent a most enjoyable evening.

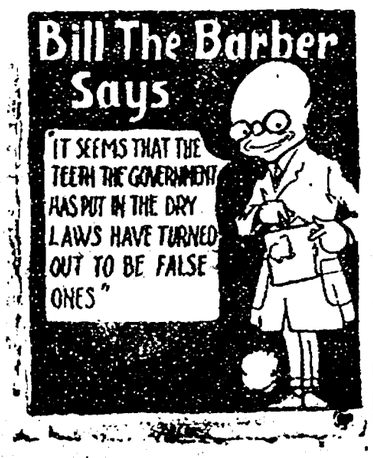
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stacy were West Bend visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Helen Laplont and little daughter, of Crystal Lake, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bailey.

Philip McBurney spent the week end at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. F. McBurney.

The North Iowa Fair is now in full swing at Mason City, beginning Saturday and lasting until Friday. Those from here who have attended state that this year's fair is fully up to the usual standard.

Miss Olive Ashpole and sister, Beulah, of Thompson, passed thru here Saturday enroute to Clarion for a visit with friends.



E. F. Bailey was a visitor at Crystal Lake and Marshalltown last week a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whittaker are enjoying a visit from his mother and a niece.

D. Bishop and family have been enjoying a visit from his parents of Churdan, Iowa, the past week. The visitors returned home Saturday.

Adam Cline and family, of Freeport, Ill., came Saturday for a visit with relatives here. They are thinking of moving back to Belmond, it is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Luick and family and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Baker left Saturday by auto for points in Minnesota on a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Henn and family left Sunday by auto on an outing trip to Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Luick started on a vacation trip yesterday morning. They expect to auto thru different points in Iowa and Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bullis drove to Dows, Sunday, to visit Mrs. Bullis' sister, Mrs. Graves. Andrew returned that evening, Mrs. Bullis remaining for a few days.

Miss Elma Stapley went to Eagle Grove, Saturday, for a couple weeks' visit with friends.

Mr. Fatherman, C. G. W. Superintendent, at Clarion, and W. C. Hines, District Freight and Passenger Agent, of Ft. Dodge, with a party of railroad officials, were in Belmond last week making an inspection trip. The Great Western is offering cash prizes to agents of stations making the best appearance.

NOTICE

The local Sugar Factory is now ready to receive applications from those desiring employment during the operating season.

We expect to employ fifteen or sixteen girls or women in the factory, and preference will be given to all applicants having had experience during the seasons of 1920 or 1922.

Applications to be filed with the Factory Superintendent at the Factory Office.

Iowa Valley Operating Co., Inc. 383c

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barry drove to Okoboji, Tuesday, where they met Mrs. Barry's brother, L. J. Miltner, of Iowa City, who is studying medicine at the University of Iowa. He returned home with them for a few weeks' visit before returning to his school duties.

Mrs. R. W. Hall, formerly Miss Edna Guest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Guest, has been visiting in Belmond the past three weeks. She expects to return to her home at Toledo, Ohio, this week Friday. Her brother, Marvin, will accompany her, and will make his home in Toledo for some time.

"Do it electrically." The slogan is famous. When the redman roamed the western prairies his son and daughter were cradled in a rude fashion, practical then, perhaps, but it would not do at all today. They say that a certain papoose in Belmond is to have a wonderful carriage in the near future. It will conform strictly to the slogan, "Do it electrically." An electric motor will furnish the power; no pushing by hand. Set into the top will be an electric fan, for hot weather; underneath the seat an electric heater will drive away the chills when its cold. Little headlights will comply with the laws of traffic. Attached to one side will be an arm, angling up over the edge of the cab, and fastened to the end will be a rattle, operated from the motor. A series of cogs beneath the springs will gently rock the buggy when a switch is thrown in. Above the cab will be a hood, specially constructed, with a series of copper wires interwoven for an aerial, and a tiny pair of headsets will connect to a radio set tuned in to all bedtime stories being broadcasted.

Pass the cigars!

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a. m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	8:20 p. m.

The M. E. Aid will meet at the church this afternoon.

Miss Viola Peterson has been spending a few weeks' vacation with relatives at Hampton.

Miss Ruth Ramsay was pleasantly surprised last Saturday afternoon when five girl friends came in to spend the afternoon in honor of her 15th birthday. Mrs. Ramsay served a dinner at 7 o'clock.

By request, the farewell sermon of Rev. Waalkes of the Immanuel Reformed church, will be given August 26th instead of the 19th as had been planned.

The Pleasant Lassics Garment club met at the Ed. Jenison home Monday afternoon. The next meeting is next Monday at the Geo. Thompson home near Palsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alden from Sheffield were visiting Monday at the Ed. Jenison home.

Miss Francis Perry, a sister of Mrs. A. A. Keiser, died Tuesday at the John Lieuwen home where she had been staying.

Mrs. Rena Bailey of Superior, Wisconsin, was visiting here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. McBroon of Laurel are guests at the E. E. Boughton home.

H. H. Hawley and son Lyle drove to Sioux City yesterday to bring back Ray, who has been attending summer school there.

Mrs. Edd. Thompson entertained the Peg Away club at her home on Tuesday, August 14th. Ten members were present. The next meeting of the club will be held August 21st at the Ed. Hauge home. An interesting program is being planned for this meeting. Each girl is to bring some article or garment to work on.

P. J. Scarbro and wife are expected in Belmond from their home at Brookings, South Dakota, in the near future. They are enroute to Cedar Rapids by car for a visit with relatives. The Scarbro family were former residents of this place, where Mr. Scarbro was superintendent of our schools for nine years. They are expected to arrive here this evening. The Priscilla club will entertain them as guests Friday afternoon at a picnic dinner. Mrs. Scarbro was a member of this club when she resided here.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Nine 14-weeks' old shoats, weighing about 100 lbs. each. A fine lot. Ed Gruis. 391*

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—Second-hand lath.—M. O. Crawford. 381c

For Sale—A 14 in. P & O gang plow, in good condition. All complete with 5-horse hitch. Phone 3318. 38tfc.

For Sale—Modern semi-bungalow, oak finish, on North 3rd Ave. M. O. Crawford. 381c

Wanted—Married man to work on farm, close to town. Good wages and groceries furnished. Inquire at the Independent. 392c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

The annual Mission Festival of the Immanuel Reformed church will be held August 29th, next week Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Collins returned last Wednesday from their Wisconsin trip.

Mrs. Ray Hawley and children of Hayfield are guests at the R. Brooks home this week.

John Chapman was overcome with the heat Tuesday afternoon and for a time was very sick. He is recovering nicely however, and no ill effects are looked for.

FALL TERM SEPT. 4

New catalog just off the press. Write for it.

Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	23c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	20c
Cream	37c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	28c
Corn	74c

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.

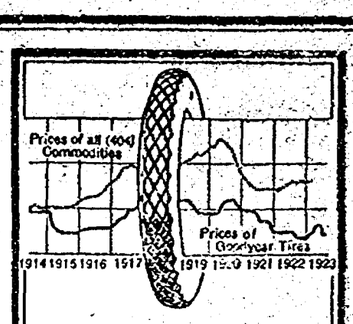
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store

Belmond, Iowa

MONDAY, AUG. 27



IT'S always a good time to buy Goodyear Tires, for, as this chart shows, Goodyears are priced extremely low, year in and year out. But now is the best time, because Goodyears are selling today 30% below 1914 prices, and their quality now is better than ever before.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Now Is the Time To Have Your Summer Cleaning Done!

We have all our new equipment installed. Let us steam press your clothes. They will look like new.

New Belmond Tailor Shop

F. J. TUFFREE

South of Case Hotel Phone 28

THE RIGHT KIND OF MEATS

AT THE RIGHT KIND OF

PRICES

With the Right Kind of Service

SAVE YOUR RECEIPTS---THEY ARE AS GOOD AS MONEY

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan Makes It Easier to Buy

Let the Whole Family Participate

$5.00 Enrolls You

For as little as $5.00 you can start toward the ownership of a Ford Car under the terms of the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. This enables you to become a Ford Owner out of your weekly earnings.

Your money is deposited in the bank and draws interest. What easier way could there be? The whole family can participate.

You'll be surprised how quickly the car will be yours.

Come in! Get full particulars!

Belmond Savings Bank

BELMOND AUTO CO.

Louis Tokman Geo. F. Heginger

Authorized Ford and Lincoln Dealers

Phones 108-258 Belmond, Iowa

OVERLAND Leads In Sales

During the month of June there were delivered to actual retail purchasers of Toledo, Ohio— 290 Overlands
119 Willys-Knights

A total of 409 Willys-Overland Cars.

For the same period the County Clerk's records show the following number of new cars registered up to July 3—the only reliable record of sales of other makes available to us:

Buick	41	Hupmobile	12
Chevrolet	119	Jewett	19
Columbia	26	Maxwell	33
Dodge	38	Nash	12
Durant	15	Star	11
Ford	227	Studebaker	23

All others recorded (less than 10 each), 91.

In other words, Toledo bought 409 Overland and Willys-Knights in June as against 667 new cars of all other makes combined, as recorded by the County Clerk during June and to July 3.

Similar outstanding sales records in all parts of the country are conclusive proof of the public's increasing realization of greater dollar for dollar value in Overland and Willys-Knight cars.

THERE'S A REASON—AND WE CAN TELL YOU WHY.

Nordschow Motor Company

Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1923 | NO. 40

Alexander Man Dies In Auto Wreck Sun.

Lambert Freeks Dies And Raymond Pals Is Seriously Injured In Accident.

HAPPENS SUNDAY EVE.

One killed and one seriously injured was the toll of an automobile accident at Alexander, Sunday.

Three miles south of the town, Raymond Pals and Lambert Freeks were coming to town Sunday evening about nine o'clock. They were in a Ford car. They caught up with W. P. Aldinger, one of the Alexander merchants, who was driving a Dodge car. He was on the right side of the road.

In attempting to pass Pals and his companion turned out to the right, and as there was not sufficient room their car turned down the side of the road and ran along the ditch for some distance. It appears that when Pals tried to turn back into the road the car upset and turned over. The top was smashed and the radiator broken. The steering wheel was broken off short.

Aldinger stopped and rushed to assist the two men, whom he found on the ground. He spoke to them, but they did not answer. At first he did not know who they were. He got them into his car with the aid of his wife, and was starting for aid when another car came up containing the balance of the party with whom the two men had been for a good time. The injured men were then taken to Dows to a doctor, where Freeks died while the physician was working on him. Pals was badly injured but it is believed he will recover.

The people of Alexander are grief stricken over the tragedy, as the dead man and his companion have many friends there.—Alexander Correspondent.

CHURCH CONVERTED INTO SCHOOL HOUSE

The old M. E. church structure and the one and a half lots of ground was purchased last week by the Kanawha Independent School District board and is now being remodeled for school purposes. Ole Fosen and crew are doing the work and expect to have the building in readiness for the opening of the fall term of school, which will be the first Monday in September.

The purchase price was $2,000. This building will be arranged for the use of the pupils in the first and second grades and will eliminate the over-crowded condition of the main building. Our school was too crowded the past two years and it was up to the school board to do something to secure relief. They did not feel that at the present time the taxpayers should be called upon to pay a heavy tax for an addition to the present building; neither would they harbor thought of turning away the rural pupils who come to Kanawha to finish their school work year after year. The church property, they feel is an investment at the price paid. By securing this building the cost of conducting the school will be but a little more than last year, and the tuition received will take care of the additional cost and pay for it within a short time.

We are informed that the city park, which lies just across the street, will be converted into a playground for the little folks.—Reporter.

SECOND ANNUAL BOONE VALLEY TOURNEY TODAY

The second annual Boone Valley golf tournament starts today at the Clarmond Country club, and will be played today and tomorrow. A championship cup goes to the winner, an a silver cup to the runner-up., with several consolation cups.

ROBBERS HOLD UP STORE OF FORMER BELMOND BOY

The Groh Pharmacy, at St. Paul, owned by Edmund P. Groh, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Groh of Belmond, was held up by two bandits August 8th. Edmund was taking a short vacation, and was not at the pharmacy at the time. The two bandits were unmasked, and entering while the two clerks were serving some customers, drew guns and ordered everyone to put 'em up. They backed the clerks up against the counters, and while one thief covered them and the customers with his gun, the other robbed the cash register. They then made their escape thru the back entrance, and to date no clew has been found to identify them. The loss was covered by insurance.

TEACHERS FOR NEXT YEAR

It is necessary that the high school enrollment be registered early this year, in order that the faculty may know how many for whom to make provision. All high school pupils will e[illegible] Miss Thomas at her office on the third floor, south end. Freshmen are requested to enroll Saturday, August 25; Sophomores, Monday, August 27; Juniors, Tuesday morning, August 28; Seniors, Tuesday afternoon, August 28. If impossible to enroll in person, telephone Miss Thomas at her office, No. 69, or at the house, No. 174.

Corps of Teachers for 1923-1924

Wm. J. Guthrie ---------- Algebra
Miss Hazel V. Thomas, Principal ---------- Normal Training
Miss Adelade Sharon, Asst. Prin. ---------- Latin and Math.
Miss Selma Hill---------- Music In High School and Grades.
Mrs. Martha C. Gibbs---Commercial
Miss Gladys Skouge Home Economics
Miss Katherine Barrow-----English
Miss Mary Brown ---------- History and English
Mr. L. Z. Crozier, Athletics ---------- Science
Mr. Hajo Pals, Athletics ---------- Manual Training

Grade Teachers

Mrs. Opal Anderson------ 8th Grade
Miss Vergie Jenison ---- 7th Grade
Miss Bessie Quigley---- 4th and 6th
Miss Edna Miller ------ 5th Grade
Miss Dorothy Ferrie-----6th Grade
Miss Hazel Fritze ------ 4th Grade
Mrs. Louise Madsen ---- 3rd Grade
Miss Northrup -------- 1st and 2nd.
Miss Rena Purdy ------ 2nd Grade
Miss Mae Murphy ------ 1st Grade
Miss Blanche Rohrback---------- Kindergaren

COMMUNITY CLUB FRIDAY

The Community Welfare Club will meet at the library this week Friday, August 24. A splendid college program has been arranged by the leader, Miss Olive Butts.

There is some excellent talent among our college young people, and you will be certain to enjoy every number on this program. Everyone is invited to attend. If not a member of the club come any way. You are welcome.

Social hour and refreshments after the program. Mrs. J. E. Wallace is chairman of the refreshment committee.

CLASS OF 1915 HOLDS FINE REUNION SUNDAY

Sunday, August 19, was another memorable day for the members of the class of 1915. Those who were so fortunate as to be with us drove to Lake View park where we partook of a real picnic dinner.

Many fond memories of school days were recalled. Words of regret were spoken for the absent ones. Letters from two of the classmates who could not be with us, were read. Jasper Johnson sent a very interesting letter from Japan. He vividly described the main facts about his trip, the foreign land, and his school work. We wish "Jap" success and hope that he may be with us at our next reunion. Beatrice Barry, who is attending school at Cedar Falls, sent her regrets and a fitting message for each one.

A few plans were made for our next gathering, and with the feeling of a day well spent we said our good-byes.

BANKERS OPPOSE BRANCH BANKS

At their meeting held in Eagle Grove Tuesday the Wright county bankers went on record as opposed to the establishing of branch banks. The large city banks would dominate the banking field if the practice were generally followed.

The Wright county bankers also urged its members to oppose individuals taking advantage of the bankruptcy law and to use their influence with the attorneys in the various towns of the county with the view of getting them to refrain from or to refuse to take bankruptcy cases.

The meeting was held in the former K. C. hall, now the Wehrheim hall. Dinner was served at two o'clock by Mrs. A. L. Campbell. About thirty-five members and guests were present. The business session followed, at which Mr. DeGraff, of Belmod, was elected president, M. F. Coons, of Goldfield, vice-president, Hall Smith, of Clarion secretary, and Duane Young, of Clarion, treasurer. At the conclusion of the business session the bankers went to the Country Club and enjoyed the balance of the afternoon playing golf. In the evening luncheon was served at the club house. The meeting next year will probably be held at the Clarmond club house. The association meets once a year.

Miss Halverson from St. Paul is the new trimmer at The Hat Shoppe.

Popularity

by Grace E. Hall

Whom all adore I cannot love—
Too often he is weak,
Pliant, adjusting to wish of those Whose voices speak.

Give me the strong, who swiftly take
Their chosen way, alone;
Nor cringe nor fawn, but boldly make
The world their own.

Whom all adore I cannot love—
There is no real force there,
For he whose will is like a rod
Stoops not to share.

Give me the strong! The lonely tree
Upon the storm-swept mountain great,
Has twice the strength of those we plant
Inside our gate.

Give me the strong! The plastic clay
Is moulded by the hands
Of every one who pauses, passing by—
The marble stands.

Copyright, Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc.

"BILL" CONNOR MAY VISIT HIS FAMOUS COUSIN

William A. Connor, of this city, who is a third cousin of General John J. Pershing, has received an invitation to attend a Pershing family reunion which will be held at Westmoreland, Pennsylvania, on September 8th.

Mr. Connor's mother, Mrs. John Connor, is a second cousin of General Pershing. She now resides at Manilla, Ia., with a daughter, and hopes to be able to attend the reunion. The Pershing family is made up of descendants of Frederick Pershing, who was born about 1724, in the Kraischgau district, of the now famous Rhine Valley. He came to America with other Huguenots in October, 1749, and landed at the port of Philadelphia.

One of the members of the Pershing family has completed the work of the family genealogy, and it is said that there are about 7,000 descendants of the late Frederick Pershing.

General John J. Pershing, one of the direct descendants, will be at the reunion, and will deliver the dedicatory address at the monument which has been erected in honor of Frederick Pershing, the first settler of the name to come to America.—Hampton Recorder.

ZOOK-PETERSON

Ted Zook of Belmond and Miss Fern Peterson of Dows, were united in marriage at Austin, Minnesota, on last Thursday, August 16th. They returned to Belmond Friday, and are living temporarily at the home of the groom's father, John Zook. The bride had been visiting her sister at Austin.

The Independent takes pleasure in joining with the friends of this young couple in extending the best of good wishes.

BUYS MILLINERY STORE

Mrs. E. Norton of Audubon has purchased the Tyrrell Millinery shop owned by Mrs. Fred Wilkins. The new proprietor took possession Monday of this week.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching service at 11. The Epworth League plans for an interesting meeting at 7 p. m. Let us work hard for a good League this fall and winter.

The Woman's Missionary societies of the Congregational and Methodist churches will hold a joint meeting Thursday afternoon on the lawn at Mrs. A. W. Russell's. All ladies invited.

We are making plans for celebrating the 50th anniversary of building of our church. Would be pleased to have suggestions and information for this event.

Miss Agnes Dempsey left Sunday on a visit to Waterloo, Waverly, and Allison, during the next week.

LARGEST STOCK EXHIBITS EVER AT IOWA STATE FAIR

Over 500 carloads of exhibits and amusement features have arrived at the state fair grounds preparatory to the opening of Iowa's biggest state fair and exposition tomorrow, August 24.

Every state in the Union, every community in Iowa, is represented in the myriad entries which have been coming in an evergrowing stream during the last week to join in forming this mammoth exposition. Products of farm, field, and factory will occupy more than 200 acres all told when the gates of the Fair swing open Friday morning. Fair officials declare that this final rush of entries would place Iowa exposition head and shoulders above any other state fair held in America this year.

To enumerate all the things which the hundreds of thousands of fair visitors will view here this week would be impossible. Here are a few of them, however: 40 acres of machinery, over 150 acres of livestock and agricultural entries, five days of horse racing, two days of auto races, a state horseshoe pitching tournament, several bands, boys' and girls' club demonstrations, airplane circus day and night, twelve hippodrome acts, a complete women's program, big night fireworks spectacles, society horse shows, mule races, team pulling contest. The program will be continuous for eight days, beginning at 9:00 every morning and continuing until 11:00 every night.

"We expect to see all previous attendance records shattered," fair officials said.

LATIMER CELEBRATES TODAY

The Latimer boosters with their band paid Belmond a visit last week, advertising their home coming celebration to be staged today, Thursday. Charles E. Hearts of Cedar Rapids will deliver the address. The Hampton band furnishes the music. A complete line of sports and entertainment has been provided, with a ball game between Eagle Grove and Dows as the main feature. Cash prizes are given for the best entries in farm produce. A unique feature of the day will be fifty balloon ascensions. Each balloon will have a check attached, ranging from twenty five cents to three dollars, good in cash to the person who captures the balloon.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

The usual services will be held Sunday at the usual time.

Sunday evening an open air meeting will be held at the city park.

Thursday afternoon the missionary societies of the M. E. and Congregational churches will be held at the home of Mrs. Russell.

Miss Jane Ramsay of Garner arrived Tuesday to attend the party given by Miss Rena Purdy.

DISTRICT COURT NEWS

A readjustment of a divorce decree granted October 18, 1920, in the case of Emma Helgevold vs. Hans Helgevold is asked for at the October term of court. Plaintiff alleges that the alimony allowed her on the above date has depreciated in value to such an extent that she is practically without support. The decree included 129 acres of land valued at $1,907.00 against which there were mortgages for $20,000, also $1,907.00 in cash. Plaintiff says she was unable to pay the mortgages and they have been foreclosed. She has tendered into court a deed for said property in order that defendant may protect his interests if he so desires.

An aftermath of the condemnation proceedings for state park purposes of what is generally called Big Wall Lake in this county, is a suit filed by R. N. Corwin and five others against Sheriff Lang. The petition alleges the proceedings were not legal and without jurisdiction; that on Elston King of Webster City was a member of the jury of awards and that his selection for such service was not properly made and not approved by the chief justice of the supreme court, and further that all members of said jury were not freeholders of the state of Iowa.

A marriage license was granted this week to John Johnson and Martha Spanier, both of Dows.

A gentleman from a neighboring state came to Clarion last week and procured a marriage license of Clerk Goslin. Everything seemed destined to go as merrily as a wedding bell, but eviently he had not taken the bride-to-be into his confidence, for last week the groom-to-be sent back word that his name better be stricken from the record; that the lady in question did not want to marry him. —Monitor.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Tete Boelmann, nee Rust, was born on the 6th day of August, 1847, at Dyksterhusen, Germany.

While still in the old country she was joined in marriage to M. Wubbena. Two children were born to them, one of whom, a daughter, together with the father, preceded the deceased in death. The son, Meint Wubbena, now residing in Ackley, just recently came to this country with his family to gladden the heart of the aged mother after a long period of abscence.

In the year 1881 she was again joined in marriage to Jaja Boelmann. This union was blessed with four children, one of whom preceded the deceased in death. While the children were small the father died, and she was left as the only provider. About twenty-two years ago Mrs. Boelmann came to this country with her three children, Casper, William and Nesco. They settled in the vicinity of Belmond. Several years later the boys bought a place for her in the northern part of town where she made her home and continued to live until death called her.

About a year ago she sought medical advice for she felt something was wrong with her system. Six months later other medical men were visited and their diagnosis was internal cancer. For several months she went to live with her son, Meint, at Ackley, but homesickness for her old home brought her back here. The boys engaged Miss Helen Harberts to care for her, who, with the neighbors, did all they could to make her declining days pleasant. She failed rapidly, for she took no nourishment the last few weeks. The end came Saturday afternoon, bringing her age to seventy-six years and five days.

Her life was one of hard manual labor. Both her husbands were taken from her when the children were small and she had to provide for them. But she trusted in God and now she rests from her labors.

There remain to mourn her departure her two brothers and two sisters, living in Germany; her four sons, Meint, Casper, William and Nesco, with their families. Besides these she leaves many friends and acquaintances, for she lived in town eighteen years and went out working wherever such could be had.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon. After a very brief service at the home the procession moved to the church, of which she was a faithful member, where the services were continued. Interment was in the Immanual Cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to the neighbors and many friends who have loyally ministered to our mother during her illness.

The Children
Meint Wubbena
Casper Boelmann
Wm. Boelmann
Nesco Boelmann

Program Now Ready For Legion's Big Day

A Wide Variety Of Entertainment From Early Morning To Late At Night.

BALL GAME TO FEATURE

The complete program for the big Legion celebration next Thursday has been arranged, and may be found on page seven of the Independent this week.

It is going to be a big day, and no mistake. The program calls for a variety of entertainment from the early morning to late at night. Beginning at 9:00 a. m., band concerts, a spectacular parade consisting of three sections, horseshoe contest, free attraction, and junior athletic sports fills the forenoon. In the afternoon, the attractions, the big ball game between Spencer and Bay Side Cubs, senior athletic contests, horse racing, auto races, and the second parade at 5:45 are the program. In the evening a variety of amusing and entertaining stunts until 9:00 o'clock, when the big dance starts. A bowery dance will be on all afternoon and evening.

Prizes are being awarded for the parade, with special prizes for Buick, Chevrolet and Ford cars, and good prizes in all the races and the stunts in the evening. It is one of the most complete and well arranged programs that has been arranged for any "big day" this summer.

The Legion is advertising the day heavily, and with good weather undoubtedly Belmond will entertain an immense crowd. Make all plans to be in Belmond next Thursday, for it is going to be "some" day!

FIRE DESTROYS BARN ON DAVIS FARM

Fire destroyed the large horse barn on the C. C. Davis farm about a half mile north of Denhart, Tuesday.

The barn was electrically lighted and it is thought that a short circuit in the wiring caused the conflagration.

The barn loft was full of straw which burned freely, the flames consuming the building in a short time. The intense heat and flying fire brads endangered other buildings but by the united efforts of neighbors the fire was kept under control. The Kanawha fire truck was called out but the fire had gained such headway on the burning building that it was not used but held in readiness in case other buildings caught.

The barn was a total loss, a few sets of harness were consumed but the live stock was all removed.

This farm, which has one of the finest sets of buildings in that section, is occupied by C. Ramshaw and family.

The reflection of the flames could be seen for many miles and within a short time hundreds of people had gathered to give assistance. Automobiles were lined up along the road for a mile.—Reporter.

NEW RECORD REACHED IN FORD PRODUCTION

July brought two new sales records to the Ford Motor Co.

In addition to bringing retail deliveries of Ford cars and trucks into the mid-summer season with a new high record for the month, July also carried the sales figures for the year past the million mark.

Increasing popularity of the Ford is most strikingly illustrated in the figures just announced which show that from January 1st to August 1st this year sales of cars and trucks totaled 1,050,986 in the United States alone. And the rapidity of the increase in demand is further emphasized by the fact that sales for the first seven months of the year, during which the million mark was passed, were 391,796, 267,394 more than the same period last year when they totalled 659,190.

July sales mounted to 156,908, an increase of 36,821 over the same month a year ago.

For 16 consecutive months now, Ford sales have been well over 100,000 every month.

Production, which, by the way, is set at a higher schedule for August than any month so far, apparantly continues to be the only factor limiting sales of cars and trucks.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Service next Sunday will be conducted by the lay brethern, visiting and local, at 10:30 in the morning, and 2:30 in the afternoon. The services will be conducted in the Norwegian language.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 03c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

THE BIG DAY

Belmond's big day, next Thursday, will undoubtedly draw an immense crowd if the weather permits. It is entirely up to the citizens of the city as to the impression the visitors take away with them.

A "big day" is a good thing for a town in many ways. It shows, for one thing, that the town is alive, is progressing. Belmond needs a big day, needs it badly. From a town known all over the state, we have degenerated to a town that is a name for grins when traveling men speak it. Belmond needs many things, not the least of which is some pep. The Legion, in staging their celebration, should have the support of all. We ought to all do a little boosting, in any way we can. The Legion has arranged a real progrm, one that is far head of the average "big day" entertainment. The Independent believes the boys will carry it thru successfully, and will co-operate, for its part, in every way.

But one of the biggest things any town gains is the impression left to the visitors. If they receive a friendly, open-hearted welcome, and are treated as tho they really were welcome, and their money was not the only object, the town receives a far greater reward than the advertising which the day itself may give. It is to be hoped, and we feel certain it will be, that our visitors next Thursday will carry home with them the impression that Belmond is a friendly place, and that they are coming here again.

THE STANDARD'S SIDE

The attention of Independent readers is called to the advertisement in this issue of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana, giving their side of the gas war.

The Standard claims that the war in prices is not of their doings, and that they have not intention of cutting the throats of the independent concerns. They declare that competition is good for any business, and that they do not want a monopoly. They say that the present price of gasoline is too low, that it is being sold at a loss. We do not know whether that is true or not, but we do believe that the price we have been paying was too high. Practically everyone believes that. Sixteen and a half may be too low, but from all the figures being thrown around these days it is not very much so.

Few believe that the present price of gasoline will long remain. It is one of those things that are too good to be true. Very probably the price will soon go up again, but very likely, too not as high as it was. The wise auto owner is the fellow who buys all he needs or can handle now, while the price is down.

GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR

The Auxiliary of the American Legion have started their campaign to place a uniform decoration of flags on Main street, and are now canvassing the business places and the property owners. The proposition is to have a pole on each lot, a certain height with a certain sized flag to fly at the same height on all poles, one to each lot on Main street. The cost is $2.75. The plan is to have the flags in place for the celebration next Thursday.

In winter, the same poles will be used for appropriate decorations at holiday time.

Every business place and every lot owner is urged to sign for the flags. It will look decidedly odd if when the flags are up and flying, there are a few empty places, like teeth missing from a full row. At the small cost no one can afford to turn the ladies down. And as a decorative idea it is the best that has come to town so far.

Gov. McMaster, of South Dakota, undobtedly occupies the same position in the Standard Oil hall of fame that Judge Landis does.

We would like to have someone inform us as to just what a "dirt farmer" is.

Don't pay $25 to see Dempsey crown Firpo. Get a ringside seat at some radio set.

The Hampton papers say that the feminine garb of long ago exhibited at their historical pageant recently drew more attention than the modern gowns. Why shouldn't it? There's more to look at.

Since Brookhart's declaration that Russia has the most stable government next to ours, he hasn't had quite the same look to some people.

Some of the folks against Ford for President make more noise than his cars.

And then again, some folks say Ford would make a rattlin' good president.

Don't try conclusions with the Legion police next Thursday. They've had too much experience.

Half-hearted advertising won't bring whole-hearted returns.

LOCALS

Mrs. Long, from Waverly, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pletch last week.

Mr. and Mr. Chris Groen, Mrs. Harm Meinders, and Mrs. Ben Stadtlander were Mason City callers last week.

One of the best yields of oats in this vicinity this year was that of Hio Goeman, who threshed an average of 52.22 wagon box measure. He had 79 acres.

Prof. Scarbro and family were the guests of friends in Belmond last week Friday and Saturday. They arrived Thursday night, and left Sunday for Cedar Rapids to spend a few days with relatives there. Mr. Scarbro, who is state club leader of South Dakota, now has over seven thousand members in charge.

The ball game Legion Day between the Spencer team and the Bayside Cubs ought to be a thriller from the start. These two teams have fought some bitter games this year and the scores have always been close.

E. J. Hylbak and family of Perry were visiting at the H. G. Nordschow home last week. Mrs. Hylbak and Mrs. Nordschow are sisters.

Rev. Waalkes of the Immanuel Reformed church will deliver his farewell sermon Sunday. He goes soon to his new charge at Hagaman, New York. His successor has not been chosen as yet.

H. Barkema, Jr., and wife, from Alexander, were visitors in Belmond last Friday.

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth visited her parents at Goodell last Tuesday.

Mrs. Dan Brooks was numbered on the sick list last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wenzel and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wenzel went to to Clear Lake on Sunday to spend the day.

Mrs. Wallace Ramsay entertained a cousin, from Hollywood, California, on Monday.

Mrs. Bridge and family, of Cedar Rapids, were guests at the Hawley home Sunday. They were enroute by auto to Minnesota. The two ladies are sisters.

H. N. Hill and family left Sunday by auto for a two weeks' visit in Kansas.

T. C. Johnson and family, from Latimer, were guests of relatives in Belmond last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bailey drove to Iowa Falls on Sunday. They were accompanied by the Misses Marjorie and Dorothy Purcell.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wolle and family of Boone came last Saturday for a visit with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White and Mr. Davis left Monday on their trip to Washington state. They will be gone about six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Guest are the parents of a baby boy, born on Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Mallory were visiting at Cedar Falls and Waterloo Sunday and Monday.

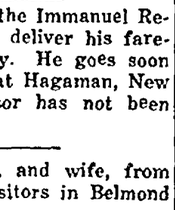
Rev. Meier and family of Manson arrived Monday for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Ed Carlston and daughter, of Belmond, visited relatives and friend in our city a few days last week.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker, of Belmond, visited here the latter part of last week with Mrs. Parker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rourk, and family and sister, Mrs. Gilligan and husband.—Reporter.

Ray P. Morris is the new mechanic at the Garner Motor Sales Company. Mr. Morris comes to Garner from Belmond where he has been engaged in work of this character for a number of years. He is a married man with three children as the family quota, and desires a home in Garner wherein the family may be installed. If you know of a house for rent, communicate with Mr. Morris.—Leader.

If you want to grow hair —do this



Science proves that only 5 in every 100 need ever be bald. But thousands of men and women, too, are greatly concerned by falling hair which leads to baldness. This is positively unnecessary, for Van Ess, the new scientific liquid scalp massage, is all that is necessary to remove dandruff, stop itching scalp and grow new hair. Van Ess, through its scientifically designed applicator, goes to the roots of the hair. It cleans out the infected Sebum which causes all of the trouble. Tones, cleanses, and nurtures the hair roots which still live and in a short time develops a growth of new, healthy hair.

Be sure to get Van Ess. We will give you a signed guarantee.

SCHULTZ DRUG COMPANY
Belmond, Iowa

The Truth About Gasoline Prices

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has announced an immediate reduction in the price of gasoline of 6.6c per gallon applicable throughout the entire territory in which it does business.

It asserts that the retail prices thus made are below the cost of production and distribution.

The Governor of the State of South Dakota, buying distress gasoline below cost of production, and charging against the State no adequate cost of distribution, is selling gasoline to the public in the State of South Dakota at 16c per gallon.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), operating on its established policy that the customers who purchase its goods should never be compelled to pay a higher price than that fixed and maintained by any competitor, quality and service being duly considered, has met this price.

Other State Executives and Officers of municipalities, with entire propriety, have suggested that any prices made in South Dakota be made applicable in their States. Competitors in other states and communities over the territory, also buying distress gasoline below cost of production, have also cut the prices hitherto established and maintained, in substantial amounts.

In establishing the above price, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is not endeavoring to injure any of its competitors in any way.

It deprecates the stand taken by some of its competitors that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is endeavoring, by reason of meeting these cuts in price and these demands for lower prices, to put its competitors out of business.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) does not wish to put any competitor out of business because it feels that competitors are necessary to the successful conduct of its business. It will welcome a change of attitude on the part of all parties concerned resulting in a reasonable price for gasoline which will enable not only it but all of its competitors to enjoy a reasonable profit.

It recognizes that the majority of its competitors are fine business men, entitled to the fairest treatment both by the public and by this Company.

The present situation is an exact parallel to one where the butcher, the grocer, the druggist, the dry goods and shoe merchants and every other retailer would be forced to sell at less than the wares cost.

How long would it last? What would a condition like this do to all of us—if it persisted and spread?

We want no monopoly—seek none. We want your trade—but only on the basis of quality and service—not as the result of impossible prices.

We want competition—you want us to have it. It makes the scales of business balance.

These are not idle words. They mean just what they say.

Standard Oil Company
(Indiana)
910 So. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

347

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII

The Judgment of God.

The man who had entered with such sudden violence upon so violent a scene stood waiting till the smoke of Pierre's discharge had cleared away, then, still holding his gun in readiness, he stepped across the room and bent over the fallen man.

"I've killed him!" he said, just above his breath, and added presently, "That was the judgment of God." He looked about, taking in every detail of the scene, the branding iron that had burnt its mark deep into the boards where Pierre had thrown it down, the glowing fire heaped high and blazing dangerously in the small room, the woman bound and burnt, the white night outside the uncurtained window.

Afterward he went over to the woman, who drooped in her bonds with head hanging backward over the wounded shoulder. He untied the silk scarf and the rope and carried her, still unconscious, into the bedroom, where he laid her on the bed and bathed her face in water. Joan's crown of hair had fallen about her neck and temples. Her bared throat and shoulder had the firm smoothness of marble, her lifeless face, its pure, full lips fallen apart, its long lids closed, black-fringed and black-browed, owing little of its beauty to color or expression, was at no loss in this deathlike composure and whiteness. The man dealt gently with her as though she had been a child. He found clean rags, which he soaked in oil and placed over her burn, then he drew the coarse clothing about her and resumed his bathing of her forehead.

She gave a moaning sigh, her face contracted woefully, and she opened her eyes. The man looked into them as a curious child might look into an opened door.

"Did you see what happened?" he asked her when she had come fully to herself.

"Yes," Joan whispered, her lips shaking.

"I've killed the brute."

Her face became a classic mask of tragedy, the drawn brows, horrified eyes and widened mouth.

"Pierre? Killed?" Her voice, hardly more than a whisper, filled the house with its agony.

"Are you sorry?" demanded her rescuer sternly. "Was he in the habit of tying you up or was this—branding—a special diversion?"

Joan turned her face away, writhed from head to foot, put up her two hands between him and her agonizing memories.

The man rose and left her, going softly into the next room. There he stood in a tense attitude of thought, sat down presently with his long, narrow jaw in his hands and stared fixedly at Pierre. He was evidently trying to fight down the shock of the spectacle, grimly telling himself to become used to the fact that here lay the body of a man that he had killed. In a short time he seemed to be successful, his face grew calm. He looked away from Pierre and turned his mind to the woman.

"She can't stay here," he said presently, in the tone of a man to himself. He looked about in a hesitant, doubtful fashion. "G—d!" he said abruptly and snapped his fingers and thumb. He looked angry. Again he bent over Pierre, examined him with thoroughness and science, his face becoming more and more calm. At the end he rose and with an air of authority he went in again to Joan. She lay with her face to the wall.

"It is impossible for you to stay here," said he in a voice of command. "You are not fit to take care of yourself, and I can't stay and take care of you. You must come with me. I think you can manage that. Your husband—if he is your husband—is dead. It may or may not be a matter for sorrow to you, but I should say that it ought not to be anything but a merciful release. Women are queer creatures, though. . . . However, whether you are in grief or in rejoicing, you can't stay here. By tomorrow or next day you'll need more nursing than you do now. I don't want to take you to a neighbor, even if there was one near enough, but I'll take you with me. Will you get ready now?"

His sure, even, commanding voice evidently had a hypnotizing effect upon the dazed girl. Slowly, wincing, she stood up, and with his help gathered together some of her belongings, which he put in the pack he carried on his shoulders. She wrapped herself in her warmest outdoor clothing. He then put his hand upon her arm and drew her toward the door of that outer room. She followed him blindly with no will of her own, but, as he stopped to strap on his snowshoes, her face lightened with pain, and she made as if to run to Pierre's body. He stood before her. "Don't touch him," said he, and, turning himself, he glanced back at Pierre. In that glance he saw one of the lean, brown hands stir. His face became suddenly suffused, even his eyes grew shot with blood. Standing carefully so as to obstruct her view, he caught at the corner of an elk hide and threw it over Pierre. Then he went to Joan, who stared at him, white and shaking. He put his arm around her and drew her out, shutting the door of her home and leaning against it.

"You can't go back," said he gently and reasonably. "The man tried to kill you. You can't go back. Surely you mean to go away."

"Yes," said Joan; "yes, I did mean to go away. But—but it's Pierre."

He bent and began to strap on her snowshoes. There was a fighting brilliance in his eyes and a strange look of hurry about him that had its effect on Joan. "It's Pierre no longer," said he. "What can you do for him? What can he do for you? Be sensible, child.

"Don't Waste Time. There Will Be Snow Today."

Come. Don't waste time. There will be snow today."

Joan bent over her head and followed him across the snow.

CHAPTER VIII

Delirium.

It is not the people that have led still and uneventful lives who are best prepared for emergencies. They are not trained to face crises, to make prompt and just decisions. Joan had made but two such resolutions in her life: the first when she had followed Pierre, the second when she had kept Holliwell's books in defiance of her husband's jealousy. The leaving her father had been the result of long and painful thought. Now, in a few hours, events had crashed about her so that her whole life, outer and inner, had been shattered. Beyond the pain and fever of her wound there was an utter confusion of her faculties. Before she fainted she had, indeed, made a distinct resolve to leave Pierre.

It was this purpose, working subconsciously on her will, as much as the urgent pressure of the stranger, that took her past Pierre's body out into the dawn and sent her on that rash journey of hers in the footsteps of an unknown man. This being seemed to her then hardly human. Mysteriously he had stepped in out of the night, mysteriously he had condemned Pierre, and in self-defense, for Joan had seen Pierre draw his gun and fire, he had killed her husband. Now, just as mysteriously, as inevitably it seemed to her, he took command of her life. She was a passive, shipwrecked thing—a derelict. She had little thought and no care for her life.

As the silent day slowly brightened through its glare of clouds, she plodded on, setting her snowshoes in the tracks her leader made. The pain in her shoulder steadily increased, more and more absorbed her consciousness. She did not know that they were traveling north and west toward the wildest and most desolate country, that every time she set down her foot she set it down farther from humanity. She began soon to be a little lightheaded and thought that she was following Pierre.

At noon they entered the woods, and her guide came behind her and led her through fallen timber and past pitfalls of soft snow. Suddenly, "I can't go no more," she sobbed, and stopped, swaying. At that he took her in his arms and carried her a few hundred feet till they entered a cabin under the shelter of firs.

"It's the ranger-station," said he; "the ranger told me that I could make use of it on my way back. We can pass the night here."

Joan knew that he had carried her across a strange room and put her on a strange bed. He took off her snowshoes, and she lay watching him light a fire in the cold, clean stove and cook a meal from supplies left by the owner of the house. She was trying now to remember who he was, what had happened, and why she was in such misery and pain. Sometimes she knew that he was her father and that she was at home in that wretched shack up Lone river, and an ineffable satisfaction would relax her cramped mind; sometimes, just as clearly, she knew that he was Pierre who had taken her away to some strange place, and, in this certainty, she was even more content. But always the horrible flame on her shoulder burnt her again to the confusion of half-consciousness. He wasn't John Carver, he wasn't Pierre. Who, in God's name, was he? And why was she here alone with him? She could not frame a question; she had a fear that, if she began to speak, she would scream and rave, would tell impossible, secret things. So she held herself to silence, to a savage watchfulness, to a battle with delirium.

The man brought her a cup of strong coffee and held up her head so that she could drink it, but it nauseated her and she thrust it weakly away, asking for cold water. After she had drunk this, her mind cleared for an instant; she tried to stand up.

"I must go back to Pierre now," she said, looking about with wild but resolute eyes.

"Lie still," said the stranger gently. "You're not fit to stir. Trust me. It's all right. You're quite safe. Get rested and well, then you may go wherever you like. I want only to help you."

The reassuring tone, the promising words coerced her and she dropped back. Presently, in spite of pain, she slept.

Continued next week.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Junior Livestock Judges Selected

Members of the junior livestock judging team, which will represent Wright county at the state fair this year, have been selected and are now making final preparations for the state wide contest at Des Moines.

The Wright county junior livestock judging team which will judge at Des Moines will consist of Milan Buck, Leo Woodley, Arno Meyers, and Will Paul, alternate. The selection of the above named boys was made after they had judged at Ames and at Mason City. These boys made a trip last Saturday with the county agent to a number of leading livestock farms in Hancock and Humboldt counties, where the boys had opportunity to judge good specimens of livestock.

The state wide junior livestock judging contest at Des Moines will be held at the livestock pavilion next Friday, August 24, beginning at eight o'clock. At this time our boys will enter into competition with teams from about twenty-five to thirty counties from other parts of the state. The boys have been working faithfully and will do their best to represent our county at the state fair.

Will Buy Wisconsin Dairy Cattle

A delegation of Wright county farmers living in the vicinity of Clarion and Belmond will drive in cars to Wisconsin during the first week in September for the purpose of buying a few carloads of high grade Holstein and Guernsey dairy cattle.

Arrangements have been made by the local county agent with breeders' associations and with a number of county agents for locating the cattle in that terriory when the Wright couny men arrive. The farmers of this territory have had this trip under consideration for some time, but have been withholding on account of the busy threshing season.

A great many farmers of Wright county have indicated their intention of buying dairy cattle this fall and there will, no doubt, be quite a delegation from this community who will make the trip to Wisconsin to bring home dairy cattle for their farms. Those who are plannig to make the trip and who wish more definite information as to the exact time of starting and where the delegation plans to go should attend the meeting which will be held at the county agent's office next Thursday afternoon, August 23, at 2:00 o'clock.

Store Grain On Farms

The Iowa farm warehouse act, which was made into law at the last session of the legislature is now in operation. Several counties have already organized for this purpose. In general, the law provides that when requests for the privilege of storing grain on the farms come from a group of farmers in any county, the secretary of agriculture will appoint a board of directors for such a group. The board in turn meets and appoints a local man for the official sealer in that community. The sealer, upon the board's recommendation, will be officially so designated by the secretary o agriculture, and will be given authority to seal grain in the bin on the farm. He is further required to inspect such grain in storage every thirty days. A receipt for this grain in storage is given the owner, who may then use it for collateral in borrowing money.

"This system," says Secretary Hunt of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, "should benefit the farmer in two ways. In the first place, it will enable him to get a form of collateral which should get for him money at lower rates of interest than he is now paying. In the second place, it will permit a more orderly system of marketing than at the present time."

Anyone interested in this subject should write the state secretary of agriculture or information may also be secured at the local farm bureau office.

Fine Meeting In Grant

An interesting program filled with good music, a splendid program of recitations, an unusual address and a play by local talent was held at the Myron Hill home, Friday evening, August 17th. The occasion of this community social was the regular meeting of the Grant Township Farm Bureau.

Wright County At State Fair

Wright county will be well represented at the state fair this year especially in the boys' and girls' club department. On Wednesday of this week a carload shipment of fourteen baby beeves, ten purebred gilts and about thirty or forty coops of club poultry will be shipped from Eagle Grove immediately after the club exhibit, August 22nd. This car of exhibits will arrive in Des Moines Thursday morning and all will be in place by Thursday evening.

Guy E. Toyne of Rowan has been employed by the farm bureau to take charge and be with the shipment of exhibits from Wright county. All boys and girls who send exhibits to Des Moines will be given opportunity to work on their animals or birds after they have arrived on the state fair grounds and in this way will have a chance to fit their exhibits before showing in the state contest.

Word has been received from the secretary of state fair association that space is being reserved on the camping grounds for Wright county representatives and it has been planned to have all people from our county grouped together. Those who are interested in having the tents located with the Wright county delegation on the fair grounds should write or call the county agent. Reservations for tents may also be made through the county agent's office.

Joint Picnic Planned

A joint four township picnic between the four corner townships of Franklin, Hardin, Hamilton and Wright counties is being planned to be held on September 19 at the Ed. Evans grove in the southeast corner of Vernon township of Wright Co.

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, AUGUST 23, 1923. No. 22.

Remember--

GRIESY'S

Is A Friendly Place

ANNOUNCEMENT!

We are now in full charge of the White Produce Co., and solicit a share of your patronage in

CREAM EGGS POULTRY

Mr. Earle E. Lateer has charge at Belmond, and Mr. Earnest F. Lateer at the Goodell station.

We offer you the same good smiling service and highest Cash Market Prices. It is our aim to make more friends, to make YOU a friend just as we have made others. All we ask is a trial. You'll come again. Ask your neighbor---he knows.

We are open every Wednesday and Saturday evening, and any other evening if you will phone us you're coming. We are here to serve you.

Belmond Phone 272 Earle E. Lateer

Goodell Phone 21 Earnest F. Lateer

Why--

Is it that every BIG man has been a saver?

Because--

He could not become a big figure in affairs unless he did save.

You may not plan to be a big man of affairs, but your own affairs will always be better if you will save something.

It's easy---will you let us tell you how?

STATE BANK OF BELMOND

BELMOND IOWA

MESERVEY SECTION

Mrs. Frank Nissén and daughter and (Babe) Sloss left Saturday for a few days' visit.

Mrs. Ostlind, Mrs. Lodge, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Quaife visited at the G. Lauster home last week.

Harry T— is often seen driving south, apparently headed for Dows. Why is he so quiet about it?

To become all right, just imagine that other people are setting you a good example and go them one better.

OUR MOTTO—"QUALITY FIRST"

August News

Now that Threshing time is here, we are prepared to fill your orders.

We have Cream and Brick Cheese and Butter, always on ice.

A good supply of Dried and Canned Fruits, Pickles, Pork and Beans, Salmon, and everything that goes to make up a good threshers' dinner.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

NOTICE!

If you owe us money, this is a good time to settle.

We Need the Money!

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

MONEY

represents human power. It is of vital importance to you whether its force is exerted for or against you. Money saved is your friend, ready to help you when you need help most urgently.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

A new beet dump is being erected by the Belmond sugar company.

There is an unconfirmed report current that dogs are being shot in such large numbers southeast of town that it reminds the soldiers of the war, all on account of the mad dog scare. More particulars will be found in another part of this paper.

Alma Witt, of Clear Lake is spending the week at the H. Fischer home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Quandt and son and Mrs. Wm. Quandt are visiting at Bruce, Wisconsin this week. They left by auto Friday morning and expect to stop at the G. Wickersheim home at Grandy, Minnesota on their way up.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morris are the happy parents of a baby girl, born last week.

Mrs. M. A. Smith and daughter, Esther returned from their visit last week.

Mrs. C. A. Anderson and baby visited Mr. Anderson a few days last week.

Klaas Gruis and Rev. Johnson returned from Rochester last Thursday. The physicians told them there was nothing wrong with them except shattered nerves, which is good news.

Lambert Freeks, 23, son of John Freeks, wasac cidently killed Sunday eve about 9 o'clock, about three miles south of Alexander. The young man was riding in a Ford owned and driven by Raymond Pals. They were riving at a fast rate of speed, said to be around 40 miles an hour, when their car went into the ditch and turned over several times.

JUST TELL THE MEN THAT YOU GOT YOUR THRESHING AND LUNCH MEATS FROM WAAGE & RUITER AND YOU WILL HAVE A SATISFIED CREW.

We have the best butter on hand.

We buy Cream

We Deliver Threshing Meat

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Fred Menzel left Saturday for Auburn, where he visited friends.

Mrs. Voss, who lives in Germany, but who has been visiting friends at Ackley is spending the week at the S. Hulsebus home.

Hy Proost left for Des Moines on Tuesday where he will exhibit the Iowa Automatic Hog Door for Henry H. Pals, who patented the door.

Carl Eckhoff and brother-in-law R. Karjens, are planning to take in part of the state fair.

Agnes and Herman Fischer and Mrs. Gar Raecker attended the convention at River View park last Sunday.

Rev. Schlesselman and family and Bernard Brater are at Cedar Falls attending the convention in session there for ten days.

Miss Mildred Gealow spent Sunday with home folks at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Thiel and daughters of Renwick were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Aug. Prelipp.

John Buck and family of Klemme visited Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Aug. Prelipp and children.

Those who motored to West Bend to see the famous grotto Sunday were G. E. Thomas and family, F. C. Sprau and family, Ott. Strasburg, wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Langlitz, and Irv, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. Alb. Wendel, and Mr. and Mrs. Casebeer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nissen and family and Donald Muller visited at the Hartley Blewitt home at Thornton last Sunday.

M. A. Smith and family visited at Iowa Falls last Sunday.

L. B. Hulsebus and wife of Clear Lake were visitors at the S. Hulsebus home last Sunday.

A. E. Muller and family returned from their motor trip to Harlan and Defiance last Monday p. m. They were accompanied home by Miss Mildred Muller, a niece of the former, who is taking a 10 day vacation from county Red Cross office duties.

Ralph Waddingham and family and G. Waddingham were visitors at the Tim Wadingham home at Klemme last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming of Thornton were Sunday visitors at the Ed. Foss home.

Mrs. Mathilda Fogg and two children of Mason City spent a few days at the Wm. Gealow home the fore part of the week.

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone—Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

BLAIRSBURG RESIDENT BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

As a result of a slight accident near the railway crossing of the Illinois Central road near Blairsburg, T. H. Busboom, a resident of Blairsburg, has been bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $500, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The complaining witness, Esley Burlee, a young man who is said to be employed in a garage in Blairsburg, swore out the complaint, also causing the arrest of Mr. Busboom upon a charge of assault and battery. The cases were brought in the justice court of Chas. J. Harris, yesterday and the charge of assault and battery was dismissed. A change of venue was obtained for the other case which, by reason of a law enacted by the Fortieth General Assembly, is a criminal case. Therefore, the case of the State vs. T. H. Busboom was tried yesterday afternoon in Justice Chas. Biernatzki's court. The defendant pleaded not guilty, and following the hearing of evidence, Mr. Bushboom was bound over to the October hearing of the Grand Jury under $500 bonds. This offense of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated is punishable by one year's imprisonment or by a maximum fine of $1,000, or by both fine and imprisonment, according to the facts in the case.

The trial of the case was an event of considerable interest in Blairsburg and the courtroom at Squire Biernatzki's court was filled with spectators. The complainant testified that the defendant was operating his car in such a manner on the public highway, that a serious accident was narrowly averted, and that defendant's car was forced into the ditch because of his condition. To these charges the defendant made denial.—Webster City Daily News.

ITINERANT HERSELF

The Maid—Mistress has a new husband.

The Cook—Do you think he will stay?

HER NEAT LITTLE SCHEME

Wife—Dear, if you get a car I can save a lot on clothes during the vacation this summer.

Hub—How do you mean?

Wife—Well, you see, if we go to one hotel as formerly I'll need seven dresses whereas if we have a car I can get one dress and we'll go to seven hotels.

DIPLOMACY

"I suppose Senator Shortsworthy has had a great deal of experience in telling disappointed constituents he couldn't get them a government job."

"Oh yes. But the senator sends most of them away in a more cheerful frame of mind than you'd expect."

"How does he do that?"

"He keeps a chart on his desk to show them they couldn't live on a government salary."

Frank Nissen went to Ames Tuesday to bring home Mrs. and the baby who spent a few days at the parental home.

Mr. Ozier of Iona this state was in town last week one day. He will teach General Science in our school the coming year.

EAST TWIN LAKE TO BE DAMMED

Work has been started on a new dam at East Twin Lake, east of Kanawha. The old plank and dirt dam gave away in one or two places a year ago last spring but was repaired and held until this spring when it went out again. The concensus of opinion is that the muskrats dug through the dirt embankment beneath the plank piling and the water eventually washed its way through.

The new dam will be constructed of reenforced concrete and will be about 700 feet long. The concrete spillway, which was constructed several years ago, is still in fine condition and there is no reason to believe that after the completion of the new dam there will be any future trouble in retaining the water in the lake.

J. W. Griggs and others of Goodell, a number of citizens of Klemme, Meservey and Kanawha, have taken sufficient interest in the project to secure a permanent dam. The state is also aiding in financial and other ways to retain this body of water for future generations.

Actual work was begun last week. Gravel is being hauled and as soon as this is done a crew will begin the work of pouring concrete.

The lake at present is dry and the entire bed is covered with a heavy growth of lake weeks. The conditions as they are at present could hardly be improved upon for the construction of the dam. The lake is also free of carp and other scavanger fish which makes it ideal for the "planting" of game fish. This work can and will be done just as soon as the lake gets suffient water.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we chronicle the reclaiming of this lake as it has been a source of great pleasure to many people during the past, and is also in keeping with the program mapped out by the leading public men of our state—to save and beautify every lake and stream within our border.—Reporter.

Gave the Right Name

Tom and his little brother, Jack, were new pupils, and the master was about to enter their names upon his register.

"Now, my lad," he said turning to Tom, "what is your name?"

"Tom, sir," was the reply.

"You should say Thomas, my boy," said the master. "And what is your brother's name?"

"Jackass," replied Tom.

Money Worries

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones were discussing the affairs of a neighboring household and Mrs. Smith said: "Mr. Robinson is greatly worried about the money market."

"And," added Mrs. Jones, "Mrs. Robinson is greatly worried about the market money."

Some married men do not believe in paying out good money for spats. They get all they want at home for nothing.

The fellow who invites trouble seldom remains to see the end of it.

Some intellects are so small there is not even room enough for vanity.

Great minds do not run in the same channel. The channel is too small.

.....WHEN IN NEED OF.....

Quality Lumber and Millwork
Coal, Salt, Drain Tile
Building Blocks, Floor Blocks
Steel Gates, Can't Sag Gates
Woven Wire, Steel and Cedar Posts
Screen Doors, Window Screens
Lime, Cement, Etc.

See Us and Save Money

IOWA AUTOMATIC HOG DOOR
Try One

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

. . . CARLOAD OF

Woven Wire

Barb Wire

- And -

Nails

IN SOON!

See us for prices before buying somewhere else.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

ROWAN NEWS

Knuths—Burt

There was a very pretty wedding on Tuesday, August 14th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. D. Burt, when at high noon their eldest daughter, Nina Cirl, was united in marriage to Mr. Jay J. Irwin Knuths. Promptly at the appointed hour, with Miss Alta Allen playing the wedding march, the bridal couple descended the stairs and took their places under the arch banked with green and festooned with pink and white streamers from which hung a wedding bell. The only attendant was the little cousin of the bride, Mary Jane Burt of Wilkie, who carried the wedding ring in an American Beauty rose. The bride carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. In the presence of 40 relatives and friends the beautiful ring ceremony was read by the Rev. C. T. Halbert of the Congregational church of Rowan. After congratulations had been extended the company sat down to a sumptuous three course dinner which was presided over by girl friends of the bride.

The bride is a charming young woman with many friends. She is a graduate of Rowan school.

The groom is also a graduate of the Rowan school, and of Upper Iowa University at Fayette with the class of 1922. He is a young man of sterling qualities. Last year he was teacher of mathematics and science in the Carroll high school. He goes this year to fill the same position, at Farmington, Ill. They left that evening for Rockford, Ill., to visit relatives and from there to Farmington.

Rowan Methodist Church

"Don't stay at home for company, bring them with you."

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m. Sunday school at 10. Morning worship at 11. Theme: The New Ten Commandments. Epworth League 7 p m. Evening worship 8. Theme: The Victory of Faith. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30. A cordial welcome is extended to all our services.

The Missionary society of the Cong. church will present a Home Missionary program at the church next Sunday evening. Among the numbers are two playlettes, an orchestra selection, several violin solos by Mis Viola Charter, and a reading by Miss Inez Parsons. A thank offering will be taken.

Fifty-one of the members of the Harris family enjoyed a family picnic and reunion at Hampton on last Sunday.

The W. C. T. U. met Wednesday with Mrs. Jake Aldinger. The old officers were reelected with the exception of recording secretary. Mrs. Wm. Bailey, Jr., was elected to succeed Mrs. O. H. Isenberger who was elected county secretary at the county convention.

Mrs. A. Ahren and son of Falls City, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Mikesell of Belmond, and the Wm. Steffens family were guests at a six o'clock dinner Saturday at the Miss Nora Shaffer home.

Rev. H. Rust of Northwood visited the Frank Kercheval Tuesday.

Chas. Keith went to Omaha last Saturday and drove home the Buick Sedan which Ed. Azeltine purchased of R. H. Keith. Jack Peddle is also the possessor of a Buick touring car.

Art Walker and family of Fairibault, Minn., came Saturday for a visit with relatives.

Fred Kercheval and their guests and Miss LaVonne Ballou attended the Farm Bureau meeting at Myron on Friday evening.

Mrs. J. D. Brooks returned from Cornelia Sunday where she had been spending a few days with her son Ed. and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller from Tonkawa, Okla., have been visiting at the Fred Kercheval home. Mr. Miller is Mrs. Kercheval's oldest brother. The two families departed Monday morning for a week's outing at Spirit Lake.

R. H. Keith and Kenneth were at Fort Dodge, Friday, on business.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten and Gladys were Sunday visitors at the Chris Klemenson home at Latimer.

Mrs. Philip Klineshrodt and daughter Viva returned last week from their visit at Coggon and Ryan.

Glen Lee and wife of Ventura visited last week with their cousin, Mrs Ina Stumph.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs of Goodell were Rowan visitors Saturday.

Mrs. Jake Aldinger left Sunday for Iowa City accompanied by Mr. Aldinger. She expects to undergo an examination at the state hospital

Arthur Emerson is taking his vacation this week. James Rowan is driving the mail route.

Friends here are very sorry to hear from Sioux Falls that Mrs. Levi Johnson does not seem to improve.

A deal was consumated last week in which F. H. Brooks became the owner of the Patton elevator, and Joe Patton is in possession of the Brooks tract of land in the north part of Rowan.

About 60 of the Bingham and Emersons relatives spent a very pleasant afternoon and evening at the A. H. Emerson home last Friday. This was a family reunion and picnic in honor of Mrs. Susan Bixler who has been visiting here.

S. F. Stout and wife departed on Tuesday to take in the state fair. Mr and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder are doing the work at the farm.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Walter Allen to Ruth McLaine Bamford at Sioux Falls. They expect to make their home there.

Miss Mae Virden departed last Wednesday for Evanston to spend a few days with her college room mate.

Mrs. Peter Hansen and Miss Edna Nelson left Saturday for Sheffield Ill. to visit relatives.

Rev. Osborn is suffering severely with an abcess on his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hanks, who have been visiting her parents at Dows, transferred here Saturday on their way to Ft. Dodge

Mrs. May Hauseman, who had been to the hospital at Hampton for treatment, stopped at the G. W. Whiten home Friday night.

Garnette Stumph spent several days last week at the Edgar Mantle home.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Ketchum are the proud parents of a four and a half pound boy, born Thursday, the 16th.

Mrs. J. F. Howell and two children returned to Des Moines, Saturday, after visiting several days here.

Miss Anna Brinkman, who has been caring for her brother, John, at Mankato, Minn., came last week to spend a few days with friends. She expected to leave Monday from Mankato for her home in Long Beach.

Myrtle DeWald of Montrose, S. D., came last week to visit her cousins, the Azeltines.

D. A. French and wife returned on Thursday from their auto trip to Wadena, Minn.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

GOODELL NEWS

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Glen Avery attended the North Iowa fair at Mason City Tuesday of last week.

Martin Grover and daughter arrived last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thada were at Mason City last Tuesday attending the fair.

Rev. R. B. Emerson, of Kinsley, stopped here on his way to Charles City to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. L. Wesenberg.

Tuesday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Graeber and Mrs. Graeber's mother visited at the Wm. Graeber home at Corwith.

Mr. Allaben took in the fair at Mason City last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ruka returned from their Wisconsin trip last week Tuesday. They report fine roads and a very pleasant time.

Mrs. Belle Burgess visited friends at Algona on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenison and Mr. and Mrs. O. Sandberg attended the fair at Mason City last week.

Rev. Miller and family and Mrs. Miller's mother called on friends at Algona last Wednesday.

Wilmer Burk and family attended the fair last week.

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth of Belmond spent Tuesday with her parents.

Mrs. J. W. Benson retuned Friday to her home at Gladbrook.

John Savogue was at Bayside to the ball game Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ellsworth autoed to Green and back last Friday.

Rev. G. W. Emerson of Des Moines visited his sister. Mrs. Wesenberg, on Saturday. In the afternoon he and hi family drove to Clear Lake where they spent Sunday.

Mrs. D. Christensen returned last Friday.

John Hughes and family were visiting friends Friday.

T. R. Burgess was a caller at Belmond last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beier spent Sunday at West Bend.

James Schneiders were callers at Klemme on Saturday.

Dr. Snearly is enjoying a visit from his father and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Graeber, Mrs Moore and granddaughter were visitors at West Bend, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allaben, Dorothy and Mrs. Robert McNutt and daughter drove to Traer to visit Hamlin Allaben. They returned Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandberg, Edith and Carl were visitors at West Bend on Sunday.

Mr. Mason and family spent Sunday at West Bend.

The Wesenbergs enjoyed a trip with their grandfather, Rev. R. B. Emerson, to Charles City last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Conwell had an outing at Clear Lake last week.

The last step in a questionable undertaking may be a lock step.

One word may make a new friendship or break an old one.

Kinseth's Store News

We want every one of you to be in town a week from today, and attend the American Legion big celebration. Just read over the program as shown in the Independent this week, notice that there is something doing ALL the time, and that it is a mighty good lay-out of entertainment.

—K—

And when you come in, stop at the Store on the Corner and meet the gang. If you need anything for your lunch, just ask us. We've got just about everything you need to make a good feed.

—K—

Have you tried some of those Italian Prunes yet? Say, you want to. You haven't tasted a real prune until you've had a dish of these prunes. This is no pruny talk, either.

Peaches from $1.78 to $2.35, just right for canning, and just right to make fine eating. We've sold a good many dozen boxes of them and not a kick on them yet. When shall we send you a box?

—K—

Remember our coffee at 38 cents is as good as most 45c coffees, so why pay more?

—K—

And don't forget our shoe department, where you can get a pair of foot covers that wear and have style.

—K—

Be sure, now, to come in next Thursday, August 30th, to the Legion celebration.

ALEXANDER NEWS

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Carl Bohlen and sons Burton and Myron were callers at Dows last Monday.

Kate Starkey visited with relatives at Hampton the first of the week.

Mrs. Mary Kausian of Ackley was a visitor here the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and two children, and Mrs. A. B. Arends were Clear Lake visitors last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and son Kenneth were Iowa Falls callers Saturday p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Johansen and two children autoed to Rochester, Minn., Thursday last.

St. John's Evang. Luth. Church.

Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Preaching service in the English language at 3 o'clock.

Our Aid society meets with Mrs. Henry Schimp, Tuesday afternoon, August 28. The Ladies Aid will hold their bazaar and ice cream social on Saturday evening, Sept. 1, and there will be special music. Everybody is welcome.

C. J. Barth, Pastor.

(Too late for last week)

Henry Schulte and son, John were business callers at Belmond last Friday.

Alvin Greenfield, of Williamsburg, Iowa, visited with relatives in this vicinity a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Winwood and daughter, Miss Mary, were Hampton callers last Wednesday.

H. Penning, of Ackley, was a visitor with relatives in town the first of the week.

Mrs. Clay Klinefelter and children were callers at Hampton last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dirksen, of Ames visited with relatives and friends at this place a few days the past week.

Andy Severe, of Dows was transacting business in town the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kline, of Freeport, Illinois, are visitors at the Bernard McCallum home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Misses Jessie and Nellie Bell, Frederick Greenfield, and Eldon Bell were callers at Dows, Saturday.

J. M. Hemingway and Miss Frederika Harriman, of Hampton, visited at the Lewis Bell home last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens and family were visitors with friends at Rowan last Sunday.

Leonard Arends was a caller at Hampton several days the past week.

John F. Bell was a business caller at Latimer last Tuesday.

Albert Larsen, Lewis Bell and Fred Greenfield were business callers at Hampton, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Miss Jessie Bell, Mrs. F. L. Greenfield and son visited with relatives at Ackley last Monday.

Miss Anna Beenen was a visitor with friends at Aplington last week.

Henry W. Severt, of Eldora was a business caller in town several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield and son, Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and Miss Jessie Bell were Sunday visitors with friends at Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Rodemeyer and children visited with relatives at Coulter last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Kausian, of Ackley, came Monday for a visit with relatives at Alexander.

Mrs. Younglin, of Latimer, was a visitor with friends at this place last week.

KURTZ DAIRY

Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

The following attended the North Iowa fair at Mason City, Monday: Will Foughty, Wilma Foughty, Mrs. Anna Pekarek and daughter Josephine, Miss Nellie Bell, Arthur Winwood, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Aldinger and sons Franz and Rex.

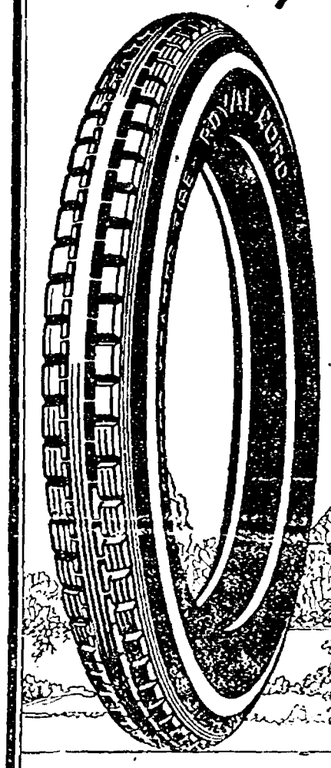
CANNING FACTORY STARTS OPERATION

Summit: The canning factory commences its yearly run Thursday of this week. The length of the run is hard to predict as it depends entirely upon the yield of the surrounding farms. The corn this year is in surprisingly good condition according to reports and is well above average, although some fields are practically worthless. There will be over eighty-five employed at the factory throughout the length of its run this year. The factory at Lake Mills started operations last week and it is reported that they are having a good year, the corn being in good condition there also.

Be courteous to your neighbors if you want them to be more so to you.

Most really good men readily admit that they are full of sin.

Here's Good News for the Man who needs a Royal Cord



ROYALS are the only tires in which you get the benefit of the three new U. S. discoveries — Sprayed Rubber — Web Cord and the Flat-Band Method of building a Cord Tire.

Made in all sizes 30 x 3½ and up.

United States Tires are Good Tires

Where to buy U.S. Tires

Trade Mark

JONES HARNESS COMPANY

BELMOND, IOWA.

BUY YOUR TIRES

from regular dealers — and get tires of reputation for quality and service

OLDFIELD

Tires are listed among the highest quality manufactured. You can get them from us and be sure of real mileage, satisfaction and dealer-service.

Compare these Unusually Low Prices with the so-called Tire "Bargains"

		TIRES	TUBES
30 x 3	"999" Fabric	$ 7.50	$ 1.75
30 x 3½	"999" Fabric	8.50	1.95
30 x 3½	Cord	10.65	1.95
31 x 4	Cord	18.95	2.45
32 x 4	Cord	19.90	2.95
33 x 4	Cord	20.90	3.05
34 x 4	Cord	21.80	3.10
33 x 4½	Cord	27.80	3.75
34 x 4½	Cord	28.90	3.80
36 x 4½	Cord	29.65	4.00
33 x 5	Cord	33.90	4.10
35 x 5	Cord	34.90	4.20
37 x 5	Cord	36.70	4.90
36 x 6	Cord	59.80	10.20
38 x 7	Cord	83.90	13.75
40 x 8	Cord	108.90	15.75

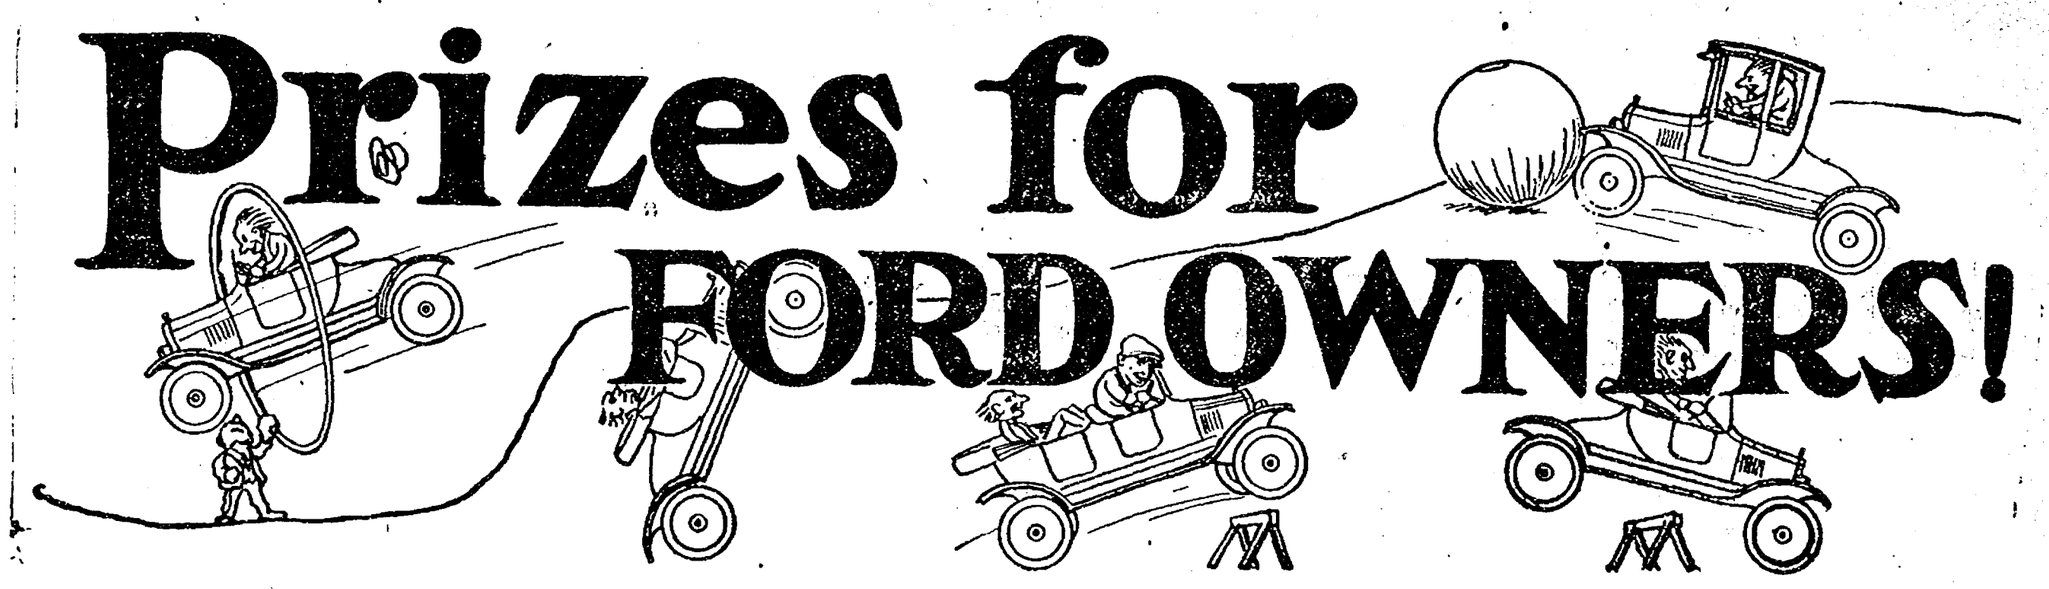
Oldfield is the only American tire to win the famous European Road Race, the French Grand-Prix — the only tire to win and hold the records in every notable speed event in three years—the only set of tires to make an official highway record of over 34,000 miles before the first tire gave way.

Buy These Wonderful Tires Now While Our Stocks are Fresh and Sizes Complete. Let Us Demonstrate Our Ability to Serve You

Belmond Auto Company

Belmond, Iowa

Prizes for FORD OWNERS!



Belmond Legion Day August 30th

Get ready for the big parade! Here, Mr. Ford Owner, is your chance to get rightful recognition, and an opportunity to win one of the nine prizes offered. Every Ford owner is invited to enter the parade or contest under the classifications shown on this page.

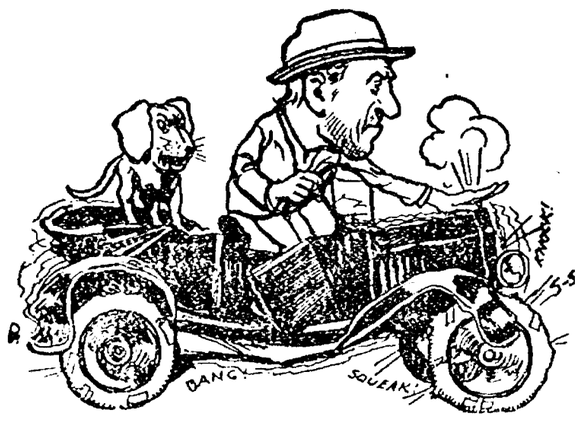
The Ford section of the Legion Day parade will be a separate section. As shown in the advertisements below, nine separate prizes are offered. The winners will be given the amount stated in the ad under whose classification their prize falls. The prize is anything the merchant has that you want. All prizes are being given by the Belmond Auto Co, who will pay the merchants. The Legion Day parade judges will judge all entries.

Enter the parade and w'n a prize! Open to everyone who owns a Ford, regardless of where he lives. Parade will take place at 11:00 a. m., August 30th. Crank up Henry and come! Nobody barred, no fees, everything free!

Belmond Legion Day August 30th

Five Dollar Prize For

The Most Ramshackle Looking Ford



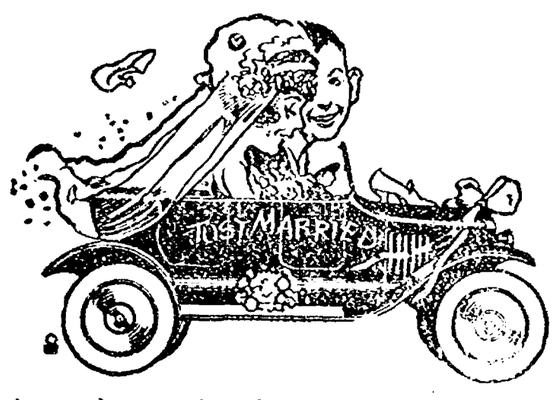
There is nothing ramshackle about Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothing. It is made to wear and to last, with a quiet style that distinguishes the well-dressed man.

We carry a complete line of Gent's Furnishings.

C. C. MCGUIRE
Clothing and Shoes

Two Dollar Prize for the

Ford Carrying Most Recently Married Couple



She's happy because her dress was hemstitched at—
—THE GIFT SHOP—
Headquarters for Happy Gifts for Happy Occasions at Happy Prices—Weddings, Birthdays, Parties.
Get Your School Supplies Here—All Kinds.

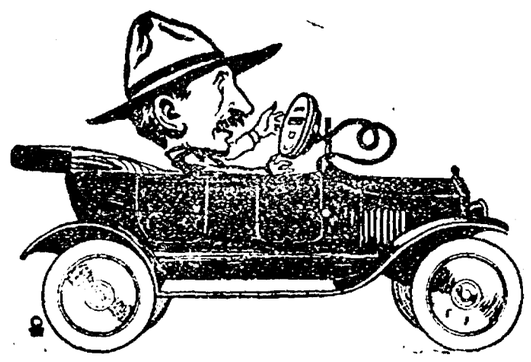
Two Dollar Prize for the

Ford Carrying the Fattest Woman

Ice Cream Ice Cold Pop Lunches Pastries
—If you eat at
—FOSTER'S CAFE—
You will be sure to gain. Home Cooked Meals like your mother served—Substantial, Satisfying, and All You want.
Legion Day Dinners and Suppers Fifty Cents.
Bring the family to supper on your prize.

Two Dollar Prize for the

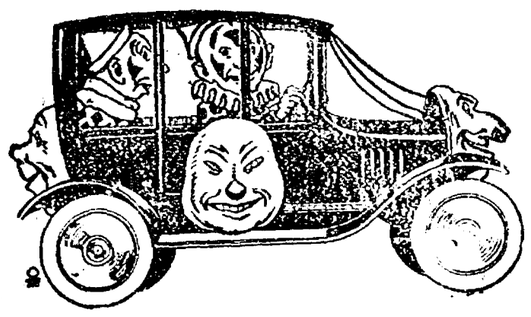
Ford With Greatest Speedometer Mileage



You Will Have To Go A Long Ways Before You Find Better Batteries than—
Willard Storage Batteries
Or Better Service Than Is Offered By The
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY
J. W. Scott Phone 46

Two Dollar Prize for the

The Most Comical Ford



There's nothing funny about our Service and Quality in Developing and Printing Your Films.
Get an EASTMAN KODAK and let us develope your pictures of the parade on Legion Day.
SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

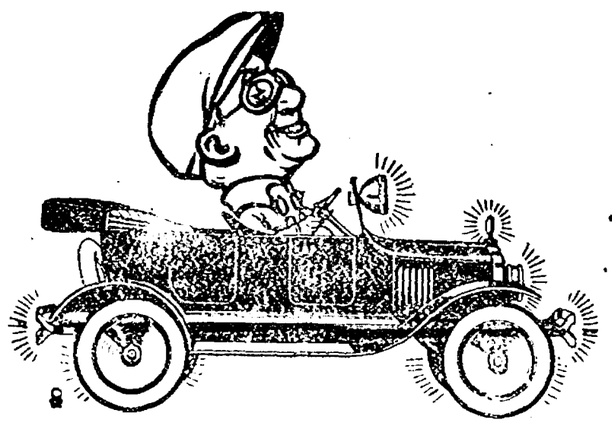
Two Dollar Prize for the

Ford Carrying the Oldest Person

The Old as well as the Young Enjoy Our
HAVA SLICE BREAD
And the complete line of Cakes, Pies, Cookies and Pastries of all kinds that we carry.
Let us furnish your Legion Day cooking. You can enjoy the entertainment without spending half the day over a hot stove.
BELMOND BAKERY
P. Barban, Prop.

Five Dollar Prize For

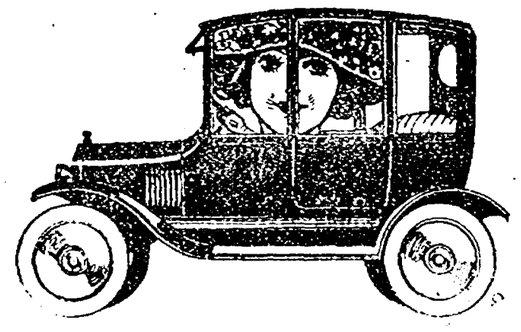
The Most Spruced-up Ford



You will always be spruced up in a suit of
KUPPENHEIMER GOOD CLOTHES
They keep their shape and style. With Kuppenheimer Clothes you always feel easy, because you know you are well dressed.
NUNN BUSH SHOES MCKIBBIN HATS
CARLSTON & SKOVLIN

Two Dollar Prize for the

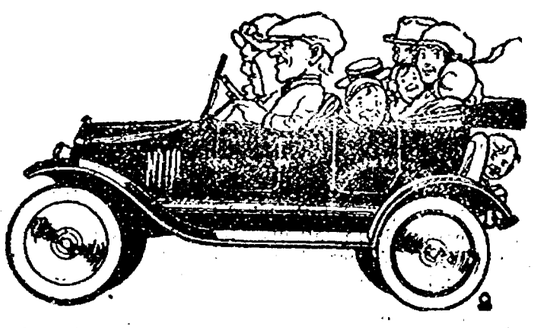
Ford Carrying the Prettiest Girl



Of Course A Pretty Girl Needs A Pretty Hat!
* * * MONOGRAM HATS * * *
The last word in Style, are being featured at
THE HAT SHOPPE
Mrs. Catherine Rosecrans, Prop.

Two Dollar Prize for the

Ford Carrying the Biggest Family



—We have Furniture for the whole family—
From Cradles to Easy Chairs.
We are the home of the Napanee Kitchen Cabinet. No home is complete without one. Apply Your Prize on one for the home.
WRIGHT COUNTY FURNITURE COMPANY
C. I. Williams, Manager.

BELMOND
American Legion
CELEBRATION

Thursday, August 30

EVENTS OF THE DAY

Morning Program

9:00 a. m.--Band Concert on Main Street.

9:30 a. m.--Junior Athletic Contests at City Park.

Races—Boys under 8 years
Boys 8 to 10 years.
Boys 10 to 12 years.
Boys from 12 to 14 years.
Boys from 14 to 16 years.
Boys from 16 to 18 years.

Cash prizes ranging from 75c to $2.00 for 1st prize, 50c to $1.50 for 2nd prize, 25c to $1.00 for 3rd prize.

10:30 a. m.--Free Attraction, accompanied by Band.

10:45 a. m.--PRIZE CONTESTS for following prizes will close at this time and the winners announced. The winners of these prizes must enter the 11:00 a. m. and 5:45 p. m. Parades

$15.00 CASH PRIZE to the Buick or Chevrolet car coming to Celebration from the furtherest distance and registering at the Belmond Motor Sales garage.

$24.00 SPECIAL PRIZES FOR FORDS.
Those competing for Special Ford Prizes register at Belmond Auto Co. garage and enter 11:00 parade.

11:00 a. m.--PARADE, Spectacular and Entertaining

Led by Band, consisting of three sections. Parade will form in sections at Rock Island Depot. Contest open to all.

Section One: $25.00, $15.00, and $10.00 Cash Prizes will be awarded for the most attractive floats. Prizes to be awarded after the 5:30 P. M. parade, at Judges' Stand.

Section Two: $10.00 Cash Prize for the most amusing and entertaining entry in this section.

Section Three: All Contestants for Car Prizes.

11:30 a. m.--Horseshoe Pitching Contest at City Park.

12:00 Noon---FREE ATTRACTION, accompanied by Band.

Afternoon Program

12:45 p. m.--BAND CONCERT on Main Street.

12:45 p. m.--The Iowa Valley Operating Company offers cash Prizes of $5.00 and $2.50 for the Grower bringing in the largest Sugar Beet with top. Register at Judges' Stand.

1:00 p. m.--MARCH, led by Band to Ball Ground for Senior Athletic Contests.

This is done for better accomodations, and a charge of 50c for Adults and 25c for Children will be made at the gate. This charge is for the ball game only. Money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not stay for the ball game.

100 yard dash, Free for All	$ 5.00	$3.00	$1.00
Three-Legged Race	3.00	2.00	1.00
Sack Race	2.00	1.50	1.00
Fat Mans Race	2.00	1.50	1.00
Four Man Relay Race	10.00

2:00 p. m.--BASE BALL GAME, Spencer vs. Bayside Cubs

These are two of the best teams in the State. $500.00 is being spent to get these teams together. It will be the best game you will be able to see this season.

4:00 P. M.—SPECTACULAR RACES, immediately following Ball Game.
Potato Horse Race, 1st. Prize $7.50, 2nd $5.00
Novelty Auto Races, 1st prize $15., 2nd $5.
All entries in this race must register before 11:30 A. M. at Judges' Stand on Main Street. No car can enter with a valuation of over $50.00.

HORSE RACE—Free for all running race. Best two out of three heats. First Prize $10.00, Second Prize $5.00.

5:30 P. M.—FREE ATTRACTION.

5.45 P. M.—Parade of Three Sections, led by Band. Prize winners announced after this parade.

Evening Program

7:15 P. M.—GRAND FREE ATTRACTION, accompanied by Band.

7:30 P. M.—Band Concert on Main Street.

8:30 P. M.—BIG ENTERTAINMENT on Main Street. $15:00 Prize for most amusing and entertaining quartette.
Pillow Fight, First Prize $2.00.
Watermelon Eating Contest, First Prize $2.00, Second Prize $1.00.

9:00 P. M.—BIG DANCE.

Bowery Dance Afternoon and Evening

EVERYBODY WELCOME!

Come and have a Big Time on a Big Day

LOCALS

E. F. Bailey was a business caller at Humboldt on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Nourse, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fitts and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chamberlain drove to West Bend, Sunday.

Claude Veeder is the owner of a new Overland touring car, purchased of the Nordschow Motor Co.

The Missionary societies of the Methodist and Congregational churches will hold a union meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Russell.

A pleasing social event was the club picnic dinner last Friday evening at the city park, held by the Priscilla club in honor of Mrs. P. J. Scarbro of Brookings, South Dakota, a former member.

Mrs. E. E. Hanson, of Blair, Wisconsin,, Alma Hukee, of Winger, Minnesota, and Edna Johnson, of Menford, North Dakota, were guests at the C. B. Johnson home last week. The ladies drove thru, and are relatives of the Johnsons.

Mrs. P. W. Qually, of Bode, was a guest at the H. G. Nordschow home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vestweber and two sons, and Chris Friesleben drove to Peru, Illinois, on Monday where they will visit friends and relatives for a week.

Lester Bickett of St. Louis, Mo., arrived Monday to get acquainted with his new son. After a few days' visit he will take his wife and son home. Mrs. Bickett is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Boughton.

The danger sign and signal at the Great Western crossing is now installed and is a vast improvement over the old sign. The new danger signal can be heard for six blocks.

Mrs. Geo. G. Barry and two daughters Marie and Rose, and little son David, left Tuesday for a visit at the J. N. Nelson home in Fort Dodge.

Mrs. L. A. Lewis and son visited the Nelson home at Dows last week, returning home the 20th to Austin, Minn.

Mrs. Arthur Lewis and three children, who have been visiting here the past month, returned to their home at Sisseton, South Dakota, on Monday.

Mrs. Falconer, from Omaha, Nebraska, has been visiting at the M H. Hanson home the past week. She is a sister of Mrs. Hanson.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell, of Klemme was visiting in town on Friday of last week.

F. J. Tuffree was a caller at Mason City on Monday.

P. Barban was a business caller at Alexander the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer and family, and Mrs. Ed. Aweve and children of Chicago, their guests, all motored to West Bend, Sunday, to view the grotto.

Mr. Cooper, of Buffalo Center, was a guest at the Atty. Jensen home the first of the week.

The oldest son and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Stadtlander enjoyed birthday parties recently. The boy was 13 on August 7th and the girl 6 on the 8th. Ice cream and cake were served.

Ray Morris came down from Garner, Sunday, to visit his family. He is now employed at the Barnes garage at Garner. Monday he went to Eagle Grove to interview the recruiting officer there preparatory to enlisting in the aerial reserve corps of the army.

READ EVERY WORD!

This is a Bargain o Bargains! 80 acres 5 miles from Little Falls, Minnesota. 3-4 mile to station. 3-4 mile to paved road to Twin Cities. This is not any of your have-to-sell, but the owner's wife is in the hospital and he wishes to sell and is sacrificing the farm. No better soil; good buildings, some grove, good water. Everything goes, with the horses, hogs 3 cows, 15 tons of hay in barn, implements enough to take care of the land. Also 30 acres of corn in field. Possession given as soon as deal is closed. Price is as follows: $8,000. Hand money $1,000. Settlement $2,000. Balance back if need be for term of 10 years at 5 per cent semi annually or annually. Now you have it. This beats renting, you renter or speculator. Free ride to place if desired if you mean business.

Other bargains.

WOLLE LAND AGENCY.
Belmond, Iowa.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school and Bible class will meet at the usual hour on Sunday.

There will be no morning service In the evening Rev. Thompson will give an illustrated lecture on the Passion Play. You are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Daniels and children, Mrs. Wm. Myers of Chicago, Mrs. Steenblock, and Mrs. Daniels, S. A. Bohning and Miss Edna and Pearl Bohning were visitors at the E. B. Cukes home at Buffalo Center on Sunday.

Quite a number of local people tended the North Iowa Fair at Mason City last week, and a good many are planning to attend the state fair at Des Moines this week or next.

A number of farmers from this vicinity attended the Farm Bureau picnic held at Eagle Grove yesterday.

NOTICE!

Foot ball practice Monday evening at 6:00 o'clock.

Hajo Pals.

Miss Stella Murphy arrived home the first of the week from Bison, South Dakota, where she has been teaching school. She stopped at Sioux City to visit Miss Nellie. She will teacher the Murphy school here this winter.

Mrs. R. W. Tomlinson spent the day Sunday at the home of her son Ralph, near Cornelia.

The Legion boys, accompanied by citizens and business men, will leave at 8:00 o'clock this morning on a booster trip to all the surrounding towns, advertising the Legion Day next Thursday. The trip will take all day.

NOTICE

The local Sugar Factory is now ready to receive applications from those desiring employment during the operating season.

We expect to employ fifteen or sixteen girls or women in the factory, and preference will be given to all applicants having had experience during the seasons of 1920 or 1922.

Applications to be filed with the Factory Superintendent at the Factory Office.

Iowa Valley Operating Co., Inc.
383c

Wanter—Family washings to do.—Mrs. Amanda Johnson. 1t*

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. [illegible] pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
[illegible]	5:19 p. m.
[illegible]al Freight	3:20 p. m.

FALL TERM SEPT. 4

New catalog just off the press. Write for it.

Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—A 14 in. P & O gang plow, in good condition. All complete with 5-horse hitch. Phone 3318. 38tfc.

For Sale—Pure bred Spotted Poland fall gilts and yearling sows, due to farrow in September. Also spring boars. At farmers' prices.—Roy Jenison. 402*

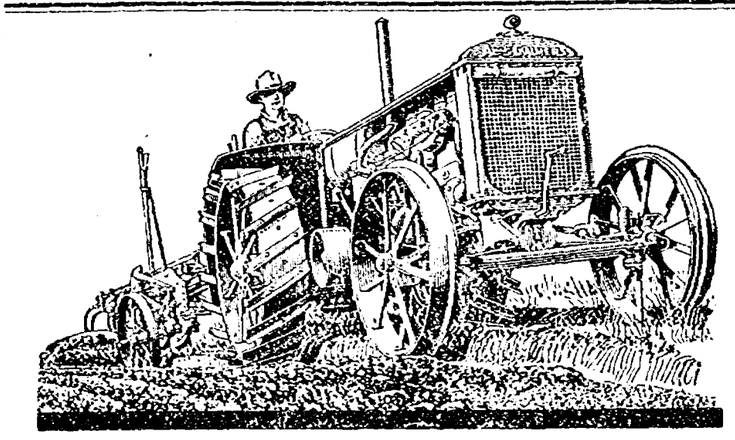
For Sale—John Deere gang plow, almost new. Also two gasoline engines, one six h. p. and one 12 h. p. In good running order. At reasonable prices.—Belmond Auto Co. 402c

Wanted—Married man to work on farm, close to town. Good wages and groceries furnished. Inquire at the Independent. 392c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc



The End of "Endless" Days

DOING farm work with an Allis-Chalmers tractor means more than raising bigger crops at less expense. You can do more and better work in less time and put an end to working days that hold you on the job long after dark.

Whatever the work to be done, you go into the fields with an Allis-Chalmers tractor and finish up on time! The powerful valve-in-head motor is as finely built as the engine of a motor car or truck. Rated conservatively, it is capable of developing and maintaining a power surplus which overcomes emergencies on either drawbar or belt. Two large side-inspection plates give quick access to crankcase; valves are easily reached for grinding or cleaning of carbon by simply removing cylinder heads.

All we ask is the opportunity to give you a demonstration of what an Allis-Chalmers tractor will do on your farm. Come in—ask us for the proof—and for details about our easy time-payment plan.

JOHNSON & WRIGHT
BELMOND, IOWA

Iowa Falls Electric Company NEWS!

More light for THORNTON from the new street lights.

Rebuilding the distribution system in ROWAN. This system was recently taken over by the Company, and the work when completed will result in uniformly good service which will give our Customers in this town Regular Iowa Falls Service.

Connection of our 13,000 volt line at BELMOND, with the Sugar Beet Factory.

These important improvements will cost the Company about $3,200.

Still a few of the CONVERTIBLE NOTES left, and we advise those of our Customers who want a good short time Investment to see our Manager, Mr. H. F. Kellogg, at Iowa Falls, Iowa for the particulars.

Iowa Falls Electric Company
Iowa Falls, Iowa

"Moving Your Future Forward"

HAS BEEN SENT TO HUNDREDS OF YOUNG PEOPLE DURING THE PAST FEW WEEKS. IT HAS HELPED THEM SOLVE THE BIG PROBLEM, HOW TO GET A GOOD POSITION WITH A GOOD SALARY. IT WILL HELP YOU. SEND FOR IT. ADDRESS:

THE HAMILTON UNIVERSITY
MASON CITY, IOWA
So. Delaware Ave., At 1st. St.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	16c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	18c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	22c
Cream	37c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	30c
Corn	75c

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, AUG. 27

GOODYEAR Service Station

CLUTCHING, clinging, digging, the big thick blocks of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread bite through mud or snow to solid footing beneath. That powerful grip means safety, and it means economy, too; for it insures against spinning wheels, loss of traction and undue engine strain.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Vacation Is Over---

Now is the time to have your clothes repaired and pressed. Get ready for cool weather. We make old clothes new and new clothes, too.

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

4 per cent for One Month

48 per cent for One Year

That is the amount our Cash Refund Plan nets you. Can you afford to miss it?

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

PRICES REDUCED!

At this time when other manufacturers are advancing their prices the factory is handing them a knockout blow.

OVERLAND

The wonderful growth of Overland and Willys Knight sales makes possible this reduction.

COME IN AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT IT

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

LOCALS

E. F. Bailey was a business caller at Humboldt on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Nourse, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fitts and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chamberlain drove to West Bend, Sunday.

Claude Veeder is the owner of a new Overland touring car, purchased of the Nordschow Motor Co.

The Missionary societies of the Methodist and Congregational churches will hold a union meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Russell.

A pleasing social event was the club picnic dinner last Friday evening at the city park, held by the Priscilla club in honor of Mrs. P. J. Scarbro of Brookings, South Dakota, a former member.

Mrs. E. E. Hanson, of Blair, Wisconsin,, Alma Hukee, of Winger, Minnesota, and Edna Johnson, of Menford, North Dakota, were guests at the C. B. Johnson home last week. The ladies drove thru, and are relatives of the Johnsons.

Mrs. P. W. Qually, of Bode, was a guest at the H. G. Nordschow home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vestweber and two sons, and Chris Friesleben drove to Peru, Illinois, on Monday where they will visit friends and relatives for a week.

Lester Bickett of St. Louis, Mo., arrived Monday to get acquainted with his new son. After a few days' visit he will take his wife and son home. Mrs. Bickett is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Boughton.

The danger sign and signal at the Great Western crossing is now installed and is a vast improvement over the old sign. The new danger signal can be heard for six blocks.

Mrs. Geo. G. Barry and two daughters Marie and Rose, and little son David, left Tuesday for a visit at the J. N. Nelson home in Fort Dodge.

Mrs. L. A. Lewis and son visited the Nelson home at Dows last week, returning home the 20th to Austin, Minn.

Mrs. Arthur Lewis and three children, who have been visiting here the past month, returned to their home at Sisseton, South Dakota, on Monday.

Mrs. Falconer, from Omaha, Nebraska, has been visiting at the M H. Hanson home the past week. She is a sister of Mrs. Hanson.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell, of Klemme was visiting in town on Friday of last week.

F. J. Tuffree was a caller at Mason City on Monday.

P. Barban was a business caller at Alexander the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer and family, and Mrs. Ed. Aweve and children of Chicago, their guests, all motored to West Bend, Sunday, to view the grotto.

Mr. Cooper, of Buffalo Center, was a guest at the Atty. Jensen home the first of the week.

The oldest son and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Stadtlander enjoyed birthday parties recently. The boy was 13 on August 7th and the girl 6 on the 8th. Ice cream and cake were served.

Ray Morris came down from Garner, Sunday, to visit his family. He is now employed at the Barnes garage at Garner. Monday he went to Eagle Grove to interview the recruiting officer there preparatory to enlisting in the aerial reserve corps of the army.

READ EVERY WORD!

This is a Bargain o Bargains! 80 acres 5 miles from Little Falls, Minnesota. 3-4 mile to station. 3-4 mile to paved road to Twin Cities. This is not any of your have-to-sell, but the owner's wife is in the hospital and he wishes to sell and is sacrificing the farm. No better soil; good buildings, some grove, good water. Everything goes, with the horses, hogs 3 cows, 15 tons of hay in barn, implements enough to take care of the land. Also 30 acres of corn in field. Possession given as soon as deal is closed. Price is as follows: $8,000. Hand money $1,000. Settlement $2,000. Balance back if need be for term of 10 years at 5 per cent semi annually or annually. Now you have it. This beats renting, you renter or speculator. Free ride to place if desired if you mean business.

Other bargains.

WOLLE LAND AGENCY.
Belmond, Iowa.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school and Bible class will meet at the usual hour on Sunday.

There will be no morning service In the evening Rev. Thompson will give an illustrated lecture on the Passion Play. You are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Daniels and children, Mrs. Wm. Myers of Chicago, Mrs. Steenblock, and Mrs. Daniels, S. A. Bohning and Miss Edna and Pearl Bohning were visitors at the E. B. Cukes home at Buffalo Center on Sunday.

Quite a number of local people tended the North Iowa Fair at Mason City last week, and a good many are planning to attend the state fair at Des Moines this week or next.

A number of farmers from this vicinity attended th picnic held at day.

Foot ball
ing at 6:00 o

Miss Stella
the first of South Dakot teaching scho
ux City to will teacher
this winter.

Mrs. R. V
day Sunday
Ralph, near

The Legio citizens and at 8:00 o'cl
booster trip towns, adve
next Thursd
all day.

The local ready to those desirir
the operatin
We expect teen girls and prefere applicants during the Applicatio
Factory Su
tory Office.
Iowa V

Wanter—
Mrs. Aman

For Sale
plows. P
Motor Co.,

BELMOND

(Co
R

Passenger,
Freight, da
Combination

Passenger,
Freight, da
Combinatio

Combinatio

Combinatio

GR

Motor, dail
No. 16, pas
No. 12, pas
Local Frei

No. 11, pas
No. 15, pas
Motor
Local Frei

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—A 14 in. P & O gang plow, in good condition. All complete with 5-horse hitch. Phone 3318. 38tfc.

spring boars. At farmers' prices.—Roy Jenison. 402*

For Sale—John Deere gang plow, almost new. Also two gasoline engines, one six h. p. and one 12 h. p. In good running order. At reasonable prices.—Belmond Auto Co. 402c

Wanted—Married man to work on farm, close to town. Good wages and groceries furnished. Inquire at the Independent. 392c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubri-

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	16c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	18c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	22c
Cream	37c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	30c
Corn	75c

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses

GOODYEAR Service Station

CLUTCHING, clinging, digging, the big thick blocks of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread bite through mud or snow to solid footing beneath. That powerful grip means safety, and it means economy, too; for it insures against spinning wheels, loss of traction and undue engine strain.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
elmond Motor Sales Company

OODYEAR

ver---
ur clothes repaired
cool weather. We ew clothes, too.

Tailor Shop
REE
Phone 28

One
th
One Year
Cash Refund Plan
fford to miss it?

Market
hing To Eat
Belmond, Iowa
e'll Deliver

GRAPHIC SCIENCES

RETAKE OF PROCEEDING DOCUMENT

FALL TERM SEPT. 4
New catalog just off the press. Write for it.
Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

advise those of our Customers who want a good short time Investment to see our Manager, Mr. H. F. Kellogg, at Iowa Falls, Iowa for the particulars.

Iowa Falls Electric Company
Iowa Falls, Iowa

"Moving Your Future Forward"

HAS BEEN SENT TO HUNDREDS OF YOUNG PEOPLE DURING THE PAST FEW WEEKS. IT HAS HELPED THEM SOLVE THE BIG PROBLEM, HOW TO GET A GOOD POSITION WITH A GOOD SALARY. IT WILL HELP YOU. SEND FOR IT. ADDRESS:

THE HAMILTON UNIVERSITY
MASON CITY, IOWA
So. Delaware Ave., At 1st. St.

CES REDUCED!

At this time when other manufacturers are advancing their prices the factory is handing them a knockout blow.

OVERLAND

The wonderful growth of Overland and Willys Knight sales makes possible this reduction.

COME IN AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT IT

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa

LOCALS

E. F. Bailey was a business caller at Humboldt on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Nourse, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Fitts and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chamberlain drove to West Bend, Sunday.

Claude Veeder is the owner of a new Overland touring car, purchased of the Nordschow Motor Co.

The Missionary societies of the Methodist and Congregational churches will hold a union meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Russell.

A pleasing social event was the club picnic dinner last Friday evening at the city park, held by the Priscilla club in honor of Mrs. P. J. Scarbro of Brookings, South Dakota, a former member.

Mrs. E. E. Hanson, of Blair, Wisconsin,, Alma Hukee, of Winger, Minnesota, and Edna Johnson, of Menford, North Dakota, were guests at the C. B. Johnson home last week. The ladies drove thru, and are relatives of the Johnsons.

Mrs. P. W. Qually, of Bode, was a guest at the H. G. Nordschow home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vestweber and two sons, and Chris Friesleben drove to Peru, Illinois, on Monday where they will visit friends and relatives for a week.

Lester Bickett of St. Louis, Mo., arrived Monday to get acquainted with his new son. After a few days' visit he will take his wife and son home. Mrs. Bickett is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Boughton.

The danger sign and signal at the Great Western crossing is now installed and is a vast improvement over the old sign. The new danger signal can be heard for six blocks.

Mrs. Geo. G. Barry and two daughters Marie and Rose, and little son David, left Tuesday for a visit at the J. N. Nelson home in Fort Dodge.

Mrs. L. A. Lewis and son visited the Nelson home at Dows last week, returning home the 20th to Austin, Minn.

Mrs. Arthur Lewis and three children, who have been visiting here the past month, returned to their home at Sisseton, South Dakota, on Monday.

Mrs. Falconer, from Omaha, Nebraska, has been visiting at the M H. Hanson home the past week. She is a sister of Mrs. Hanson.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell, of Klemme was visiting in town on Friday of last week.

F. J. Tuffree was a caller at Mason City on Monday.

P. Barban was a business caller at Alexander the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer and family, and Mrs. Ed. Aweve and children of Chicago, their guests, all motored to West Bend, Sunday, to view the grotto.

Mr. Cooper, of Buffalo Center, was a guest at the Atty. Jensen home the first of the week.

The oldest son and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Stadtlander enjoyed birthday parties recently. The boy was 13 on August 7th and the girl 6 on the 8th. Ice cream and cake were served.

Ray Morris came down from Garner, Sunday, to visit his family. He is now employed at the Barnes garage at Garner. Monday he went to Eagle Grove to interview the recruiting officer there preparatory to enlisting in the aerial reserve corps of the army.

READ EVERY WORD!

This is a Bargain o Bargains! 80 acres 5 miles from Little Falls Minnesota. 3-4 mile to station. 3-4 mile to paved road to Twin Cities. This is not any of your have-to-sell, but the owner's wife is in the hospital and he wishes to sell and is sacrificing the farm. No better soil: good buildings, some grove, good water. Everything goes, with the horses, hogs 3 cows, 15 tons of hay in barn, implements enough to take care of the land. Also 30 acres of corn in field. Possession given as soon as deal is closed. Price is as follows: $8,000. Hand money $1,000. Settlement $2,000. Balance back if need be for term of 10 years at 5 per cent semi annually or annually. Now you have it. This beats renting, you renter or speculator. Free ride to place if desired if you mean business.

Other bargains.

WOLLE LAND AGENCY,
Belmond, Iowa.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Sunday school and Bible class will meet at the usual hour on Sunday.

There will be no morning service In the evening Rev. Thompson will give an illustrated lecture on the Passion Play. You are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Daniels and children, Mrs. Wm. Myers of Chicago, Mrs. Steenblock, and Mrs. Daniels, S. A. Bohning and Miss Edna and Pearl Bohning were visitors at the E. B. Cukes home at Buffalo Center on Sunday.

Quite a number of local people tended the North Iowa Fair at Mason City last week, and a good many are planning to attend the state fair at Des Moines this week or next.

A number of farmers from this vicinity attended the Farm Bureau picnic held at Eagle Grove yesterday.

NOTICE!

Foot ball practice Monday evening at 6:00 o'clock.

Hajo Pals.

Miss Stella Murphy arrived home the first of the week from Bison, South Dakota, where she has been teaching school. She stopped at Sioux City to visit Miss Nellie. She will teacher the Murphy school here this winter.

Mrs. R. W. Tomlinson spent the day Sunday at the home of her son Ralph, near Cornelia.

The Legion boys, accompanied by citizens and business men, will leave at 8:00 o'clock this morning on a booster trip to all the surrounding towns, advertising the Legion Day next Thursday. The trip will take all day.

NOTICE

The local Sugar Factory is now ready to receive applications from those desiring employment during the operating season.

We expect to employ fifteen or sixteen girls or women in the factory, and preference will be given to all applicants having had experience during the seasons of 1920 or 1922.

Applications to be filed with the Factory Superintendent at the Factory Office.

Iowa Valley Operating Co., Inc.
383c

Wanter—Family washings to do.—Mrs. Amanda Johnson. 1t*

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

FALL TERM SEPT. 4

New catalog just off the press. Write for it.

Fort Dodge Business College
Fort Dodge, Iowa

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—A 14 in. P & O gang plow, in good condition. All complete with 5-horse hitch. Phone 3318. 38tfc.

For Sale—Pure bred Spotted Poland fall gilts and yearling sows, due to farrow in September. Also spring boars. At farmers' prices.—Roy Jenison. 402*

For Sale—John Deere gang plow, almost new. Also two gasoline engines, one six h. p. and one 12 h. p. In good running order. At reasonable prices.—Belmond Auto Co. 402c

Wanted—Married man to work on farm, close to town. Good wages and groceries furnished. Inquire at the Independent. 392c

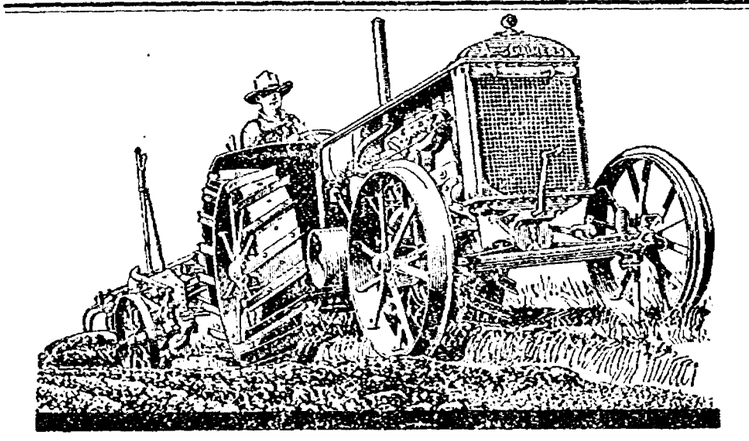
For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

1921 Ford Coupe for sale.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	16c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	18c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	22c
Cream	37c
Creamery Butter	43c
Oats	30c
Corn	75c



The End of "Endless" Days

DOING farm work with an Allis-Chalmers tractor means more than raising bigger crops at less expense. You can do more and better work in less time and put an end to working days that hold you on the job long after dark.

Whatever the work to be done, you go into the fields with an Allis-Chalmers tractor and finish up on time! The powerful valve-in-head motor is as finely built as the engine of a motor car or truck. Rated conservatively, it is capable of developing and maintaining a power surplus which overcomes emergencies on either drawbar or belt. Two large side-inspection plates give quick access to crankcase; valves are easily reached for grinding or cleaning of carbon by simply removing cylinder heads.

All we ask is the opportunity to give you a demonstration of what an Allis-Chalmers tractor will do on your farm. Come in—ask us for the proof—and for details about our easy time-payment plan.

JOHNSON & WRIGHT
BELMOND, IOWA

Iowa Falls Electric Company NEWS!

More light for THORNTON from the new street lights.

Rebuilding the distribution system in ROWAN. This system was recently taken over by the Company, and the work when completed will result in uniformly good service which will give our Customers in this town Regular Iowa Falls Service.

Connection of our 13,000 volt line at BELMOND, with the Sugar Beet Factory.

These important improvements will cost the Company about $3,200.

Still a few of the CONVERTIBLE NOTES left, and we advise those of our Customers who want a good short time Investment to see our Manager, Mr. H. F. Kellogg, at Iowa Falls, Iowa for the particulars.

Iowa Falls Electric Company
Iowa Falls, Iowa

"Moving Your Future Forward"

HAS BEEN SENT TO HUNDREDS OF YOUNG PEOPLE DURING THE PAST FEW WEEKS. IT HAS HELPED THEM SOLVE THE BIG PROBLEM, HOW TO GET A GOOD POSITION WITH A GOOD SALARY. IT WILL HELP YOU. SEND FOR IT. ADDRESS:

THE HAMILTON UNIVERSITY
MASON CITY, IOWA
So. Delaware Ave., At 1st. St.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, AUG. 27

CLUTCHING, clinging, digging, the big thick blocks of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread bite through mud or snow to solid footing beneath. That powerful grip means safety, and it means economy, too; for it insures against spinning wheels, loss of traction and undue engine strain.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Vacation Is Over---

Now is the time to have your clothes repaired and pressed. Get ready for cool weather. We make old clothes new and new clothes, too.

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

4 per cent for One Month

48 per cent for One Year

That is the amount our Cash Refund Plan nets you. Can you afford to miss it?

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

PRICES REDUCED!

At this time when other manufacturers are advancing their prices the factory is handing them a knockout blow.

OVERLAND

The wonderful growth of Overland and Willys Knight sales makes possible this reduction.

COME IN AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT IT

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1923 — NO. 42

Rock Island Plans To Remove Trains

Officials Plan To Take Off Both Passenger Trains Thru Belmond In Near Future.

WILL RUIN MAIL SERVICE

The officials of the Rock Island railway company are planning to remove both passenger trains running on the Dows to Estherville branch, which goes thru Belmond. The Independent has not learned just when this move will take place, but is informed that it will be done.

Taking off both passenger trains will just about ruin the mail service in Belmond on that road, and as the mail service on the morning and evening passengers is one of Belmond's most important services, it will mean a hardship in many ways. There may be some excuse or reason for taking off one of the passenger services, but to remove both seems like folly. It will leave one mixed train a day each way, but a few hours apart.

It is reported that measures towards protesting the removal of the two trains is to be taken in Belmond and other main towns along the line.

Wednesday a petion was circulated among the business men of Belmond, to present to the railway commision board, protesting against the removal of the morning and evening passengers. The petition was signed by almost every business man in town, and by every one to whom it reached. Sentiment locally is exceedingly "hot" over the removal of both the trains, and strong measures will be taken to prevent it if possible. It is a foolish move, to take both trains off, and it will effect Belmond seriously. The morning and evening passengers are our main service with the eastern markets and mail and express business.

CLIFFORD WALTER TREES

Clifford Walter Trees, son of J. W. and Allie Trees, was born in Champaign county, Illinois, October 23, 1873, and died at his home in Belmond, Iowa, August 28, 1923, aged 49 years 10 months and six days. Death was due to heart trouble from which he had been a patient sufferer for several years.

On September 20, 1900, he was married to Maud May Aldrich, of Belmond, and to this union were born three sons, James W., age 22, Gerald E., age 18, and Virgil C., age 7, all of whom survive their father.

Besides his wife and three sons, he leaves to mourn his untimely death three sisters, Mrs. Henry Doctorman and Mrs. Howard Forrestal, of Belmond, and Mrs. Otto Madison, of Colorado Springs, Colorado; one brother, Howard Trees, of Baltimore, Maryland, besides other relatives and many friends. His father, mother and one sister preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the home in West Belmond at 1:00 o'clock, and at the M. E. church at 2:00 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. W. A. Wilkinson, officiating. Interment was in Franklin Grove cemetery.

Clifford Trees was a man with many friends, a strong character, honest and reliable. His life in Belmond was always one of fairness and good citizenship, and he will be missed from our community life.

Card of Thanks

Our heartfelt thanks goes out to you, our friends and neighbors, for your sympathy and assistance during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father, for your beautiful floral offerings and many acts of kindness. You will always remain in our hearts.

Mrs. Clifford Trees and Family

TO HAVE NEW NIGHTWATCH

Pat Dillon resigned as nightwatch the first of the week, and as yet another has not been chosen. The business men, upon whom the chief responsibility of financing falls, met at the State Bank Tuesday and named Halver Rierson and Rudy Quandt as their choice, and the mayor will probably appoint one of the two in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmar Rikansrud, of Leland, were guests at the home of Mrs. Rikansrud's sister, Mrs. Forrestal, last week. They were recently married and on their honeymoon trip. Mr. Rikansrud is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole T. Rikansrud, of Kanawha.

Miss Mildred Schultz spent the week end with friends in Clarion.

DISTRICT COURT NEWS

Anna Wiley vs. Wright county is a case wherein plaintiff says she is a widow and without adequate means of support for self and four children, and asks the court to grant her a widow's pension of $2 per week for each of the children, from September 1st until they are sixteen years of age.

Patek Brothers vs. Clayton I. Brown is a suit on a promissory note given by the defendant to A. H. Zeigler and transferred to the plaintiff, which note is claimed to be due, and payment refused. Judgment is asked for $103.20.

Louise Larsen of Belmond asks that she be decreed a separate support maintenance from her husband, Elias Larsen, in the sum of $300 as temporary alimony and such sum as the court may give as permanent alimony. Plaintiff alleges that since their marriage in December 1922, the defendant has abused and threatened her so that in February 1923 she was forced to leave him.

Grace Henderson of Eagle Grove asks for decree of divorce from her husband, Robert Henderson, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, stating that they were married in October 1922, and have lived together until August 1923.

Isabelle Wallin et al. vs. Rea. L. Wallin et al. is a suit for division and settlement of estate of Manuel Wallin, deaceased. Plaintiff asks for adjustment of claims of defendants in compliance with terms of the will of the deaceased.

The Eagle Grove Plumbing and Heating Co. asks that it be given judgment against J. T. Johnson in the sum of $638.41 with interest and costs. Plaintiff avers that above amount is due them on account of installation of plumbing apparatus in defendant's dwelling house and for which settlement has not been made.

Jacob Askvig asks judgment against R. P. Christensen in the sum of $3,500. The contraversy arises over a residence property in Eagle Grove sold to the plaintiff in 1920 by defendant for the sum of $5,500. Plaintiff states that conditions of house was knowingly misrepresented to him by defendant and that he was damaged in the above amount.

Sarah Stokke of Eagle Grove seeks a divorce from R. L. Stokke charging a desertion. The couple were married in August 1905, and lived together until 1914. Plaintiff also desires the custody of their only child, Norene Stokke. This case makes fourteen divorces filed for trial at the October term of court.

W. F. McLaughlin & Co. demand judgment against George Marshall of Woolstock in the sum of $91.20 for a bill of merchandise sold defendant.

Roper Hardware Co. of Eagle Grove asks judgment against Amos Thompson. M. O. Thompson and H. A. Oakdale on their promissory note for $2,633.31.

Andrew Drampolis is made defendant in a suit brought by Frank Hellicksen. Plaintiff states that about May 20, 1923, an automobile driven by defendant negligently collided with plaintiff's horse on the public highway in Grove township, Humboldt county. Plaintiff claims injury in the sum of $200.

Fort Dodge officers wired Sheriff Lang's office Tuesday to arrest a colored gentleman supposed to be in this city. He was located among the Great Western extra gang and is now locked up in the jail of the first named city. He procured a letter belonging to another person, which he opened, abstracted $3.00 and threw the letter away.—Monitor.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Trinity Aid meets Thursday afternoon in the church parlor.

Saturday morning the Class meets at the church at 10 o'clock.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock Sunday school as usual. At 11 o'clock service will be conducted in the Norwegian language. Evening service in English.

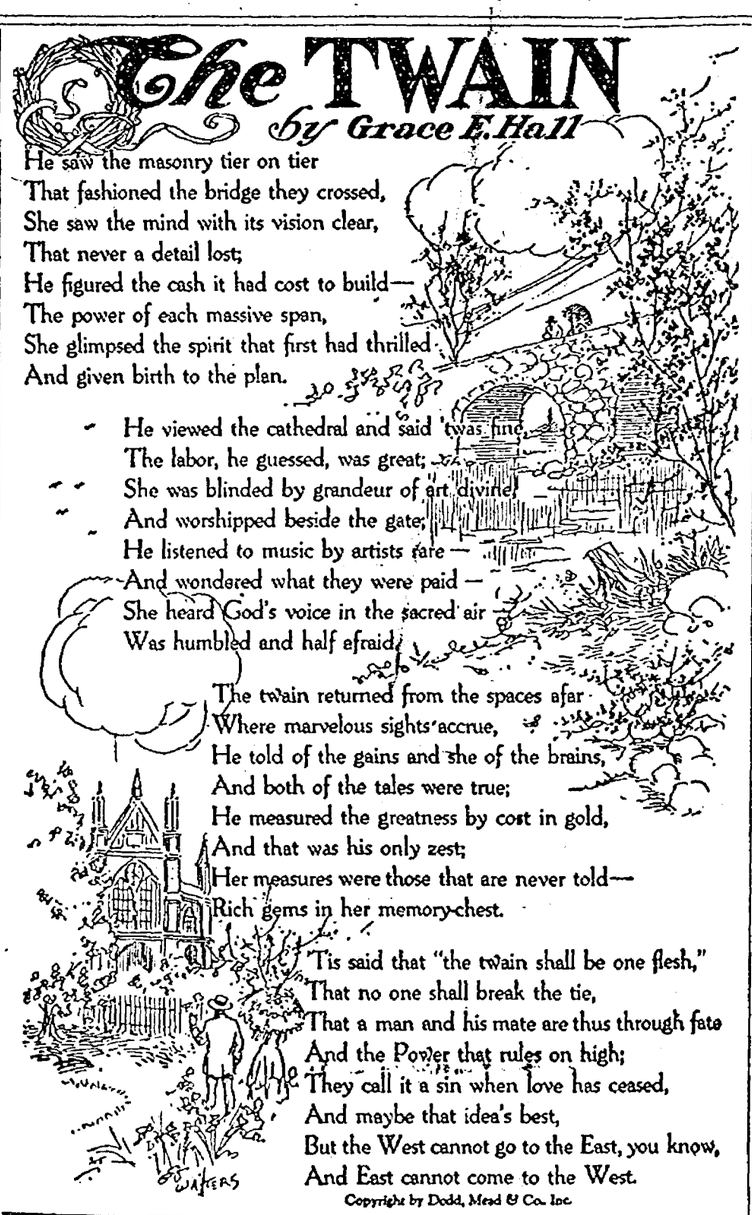
Please remember too, we have our annual mission days. We are to have two missionaries with us. Our meetings begin Monday evening with a sermon by one of the missionaries at 8 o'clock. Then the two following days will be given over to discussion of Matt. 21, 28-32, with special stress laid upon mission work. Look this portion of scripture up. Think on it. Come and take some one with you. English in the evening.

HAVE SUIT OVER PLOWING

A suit was held in Justice Purdy's court Monday, in which Leo Prince sued D. H. Hake for pay for 18 acres of fall plowing on the Hake land. Prince alleged that he had never received payment. A judgment was rendered the plaintiff in the sum of forty dollars.

The TWAIN

by Grace E. Hall



He saw the masonry tier on tier
That fashioned the bridge they crossed,
She saw the mind with its vision clear,
That never a detail lost;
He figured the cash it had cost to build—
The power of each massive span,
She glimpsed the spirit that first had thrilled
And given birth to the plan.

He viewed the cathedral and said 'twas fine
The labor, he guessed, was great;
She was blinded by grandeur of art divine
And worshipped beside the gate;
He listened to music by artists rare—
And wondered what they were paid—
She heard God's voice in the sacred air
Was humbled and half afraid.

The twain returned from the spaces afar
Where marvelous sights accrue,
He told of the gains and she of the brains,
And both of the tales were true;
He measured the greatness by cost in gold,
And that was his only zest;
Her measures were those that are never told—
Rich gems in her memory-chest.

'Tis said that "the twain shall be one flesh,"
That no one shall break the tie,
That a man and his mate are thus through fate
And the Power that rules on high;
They call it a sin when love has ceased,
And maybe that idea's best,
But the West cannot go to the East, you know,
And East cannot come to the West.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co. Inc.

CEDAR RAPIDS BUSINESS MEN COMING TO BELMOND

The Cedar Rapids wholesalers, manufacturers, bankers and other business men of the Chamber of Commerce will be in Belmond, on Wednesday, September 12, at 9:39 a. m.

The visitors will call upon the business men of our city interested in their respective lines and hope to find them at their places of business during the time of their visit.

These visits are for the purpose of forming a better acquaintance and understanding between the wholesalers, manufacturers and other institutions and their customers thruout the state. The history of past excursions prove that great benefits result from these trips. Year after year the merchant orders from the wholesaler, jobber or factory thru their salesmen or by mail, but seldom, if ever, has an opportunity of meeting the head of the institution from which he buys his goods. On these trips, however, he meets face to face and shakes hands with the head of the house, which promotes a feeling of good fellowship and a better understanding of their mutual problems.

The business men are traveling in a specially chartered train consisting of Pullmans Dining Car, Club Car and Day Coach. This will bring to our city about 100 representatives of Cedar Rapids institutions, including the famous Hanford Post, American Legion Band. This band is made up of veterans of the World War and present a very attractive appearance in their uniforms of French blue. Their repertoire contains not only selections from the classics, but they play all the popular selections as well. The band carries two soloists which adds greatly to the variety of program offered.

Cedar Rapids was one of the first cities in Iowa to inaugurate "Good Will Tours" and has been conducting them successfully for over eighteen years. This year's tour leaves Cedar Rapids Monday evening, September 10th, and will visit our city on Wednesday, September 12th, at 9:39 a. m.

A WORD FROM THE LEGION

The Eimbrink Post No. 35 of the American Legion, realizing their inability to personally thank the citizens of Belmond for helping them make Legion Day a success, take this method of showing their appreciation to every one who so willingly donated time, money, material and moral support. We thank you.

C. M. Morse, Post Commander.

JURORS DRAWN FOR OCTOBER

Judge McCall, of Nevada, will open the October term of court on the first. The jurors have been called, to report for duty Monday, October 8th. Those from here are:

Rae Barry, F. A. Stevens, R. J. White, Percy Swenson, Roy Guest, Alec. Smith and Wilbur Linaweaver.

RUNAWAY LAD IS APPREHENDED AT THORNTON

Lloyd Hamilton, a ten-year-old lad from Belmond, arrived in Thornton Monday morning on the way freight enroute, as he said, to Minneapolis to visit his mother and little sister, and was turned over to the authorities by the freight crew. The lad had walked from Belmond to Meservey Sunday in his bare feet and had spent the night in an empty freight car. After having gotten breakfast from kindly hands the lad boarded a tank car on his northern journey, arriving here and was turned over to the authorities, as stated above. Geo. Farrell was called and took charge of the boy and learned from him that he was the son of Harley Hamilton, the divorced husband of the boy's mother. Mr. Hamilton, it will be remembered, married Mamie Juhle here about five years ago. Previous to the marriage of his father, the boy had lived with his grandmother in Belmond.

The lad seemed to be little concerned about his detention here by Mr. Farrell, and after being given a good meal, talked quite freely about his trip and the little sister at Minneapolis who was sick and whom he desired to see. Later he was turned over to repair men of the Belmond Telephone Company, who were in town, and who promised to safely convey him to his home. To this arrangement the boy made no objection.—Enterprise.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Sunday School at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching Service at 11:00 a. m.

Epworth League at 7:00 p. m. All young people invited to join with us in this service.

Evening Service at 8:00 p. m.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society meets at the parsonage on Thursday. Annual election. Please bring your mite boxes, and the money for "Thank Offering," if pledge is still unpaid.

The Sunday School plans for its Annual Picnic on Saturday. We will meet at the church at 10:30, and go to Tyrrell Park where dinner will be served at noon. Each one is asked to bring sandwiches for their family and one other dish of something good to eat. Also bring a cup, plate and spoon.

Rally Day will be on September 23rd. Let us plan for at least three hundred at Sunday School that day. We will observe our 50th Anniversary on that day. Why not make it a "Red Letter Day."

W. A. Wilkinson, Pastor.

TURNS DOWN SUNDAY MOVIES

The town of Bode recently voted on the question of Sunday movies, and the people came to bat in pretty heavy numbers. The proposition was bitterly contested and defeated by a close margin, the vote being about 100 to 80—odd.

SWEET TO RUN FOR SENATOR

Burton E. Sweet, congressman for eight years from the Third Iowa district, has announced that he will be a candidate for United States senator against Senator Brookhart at the republican primaries in June, 1924. Mr. Sweet would make no further statement at this time, saying to a newspaper reporter that his formal announcement will be issued in due time. The demand from all parts of the state that Mr. Sweet become a candidate was so strong that Mr. Sweet decided at this time to let his friends know his decision to get into the race.

Always A Strong Candidate

Mr. Sweet has represented this district in congress for eight years, and gave up his place in the house of representatives to become a candidate for United States senator last year, but lost in the race with Brookhart because of so many candidates in the field. Mr. Sweet made the most consistent race of any of the half dozen candidates. He carried every county in his district by large majorities except one county, which he lost by a small vote to Brookhart. The vote showed to the state how Mr. Sweet is regarded by the people who knew him best, and this evidence of strength will greatly add to his prestige in the race against Brookhart next June. Every year he has been a candidate for congress he has carried the vote of his home county almost unanimously, and this is largely a democratic county, too, while Mr. Sweet has always been an ardent republican.

Sweet Favored Farmer and Soldier

His service in congress included the war period, a critical time in the history of the United States, and he worked hard for his constituents. He gained wide fame throughout the country for his sponsoring of soldier and farm legislation. He was behind the farm bureau federation program and other agricultural organizations. Mr. Sweet owns a fine farm near Waverly and personally looks after its operation.

In addition to his service as congressman, Mr. Sweet's political career includes three years as city solicitor of Waverly, membership in the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth general assemblies of Iowa, and four years on the state central committee from the Third congressional district.

Born In Bremer County

Mr. Sweet was born in Bremer county, Iowa, December 10, 1867. He was educated in the common schools, attending Iowa State Teachers' College, graduated from Cornell college and from the law department of the State University of Iowa. He was admitted to the bar in 1895 and has since been practicing his profession.—Chronicle.

THAT LIBEL SUIT

Ex-Secretary of Agriculture E. T. Meredith has instituted a suit for slander against Senator Brookhart for thirty cents, claiming that he (Meredith) has been libeled and slandered, and that the damages—owing to the fact that Brookhart is never taken seriously—is not to exceed thirty cents. The ex-secretary, however, gives as the real object of suit a desire to get Brookhart on the witness stand and make him either show the proof of his statements or admit that he is just plain ignorant, or that he deliberately lied.

There is no question that Senator Brookhart is given too much to talk and little thought. He is a man who jumps at conclusions, and makes the vehemance with which he makes his statements, and the number of times he repeats them, stand for reliability. Someone has said that a lie well told and oftimes repeated is as good as the truth. Senator Brookhart does not lie. His statements are true, he believes, though he does not have the proof of his statements such as most men demand of their statements. That is why he tells so many things that are not founded on fact—though the Senator thot they were.

It is generally conceded that if E. T. Meredith ever gets Senator Brookhart on the witness stand, he will have some fun with him, to say the least. We have an idea that Senator Brookhart on the stand will look very much like Henry Ford on the stand in his famous suit against the Chicago Tribune.—Humboldt Republican.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE

Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald, accompanied by her mother, was driving to town Friday afternoon and when they went to make the turn at the corner five miles south of here, their Ford car skidded in the sand and turned completely over, wrecking it quite badly. Miss Beatrice received a bruised arm, but her mother was unhurt.—Reporter.

School Opens With Enrollment Of 545

Enrollment Tuesday was More Than Last Year—Third Grade Overcrowded.

FIRST FOOT BALL SEPT. 21.

The Belmond schools opened this year with an enrollment Tuesday of 545, which is more than the enrollment for last year. Of this total, 168 are in the high school. This number in the high school is not as many as the enrollment total last year, but is more than were enrolled at this time in 1922.

The third grade is overflowing, there being 52 in that grade now. A part of the children are being placed with Miss Purdy, second grade teacher, who will have part second and part third. Mrs. Louise Madsen will not teach the third grade, Mrs. Ed. Carlston taking her place.

The faculty is getting things at the school shaped up for efficient work, and are just getting the classes down to regular study. The athletic department are preparing for a strong season in foot ball, and the squad is out every night practicing hard. A practice game will be played at Hampton next week Friday, the 14th, and the first scheduled game will be with Clear Lake on the 21st. The second game will be with Garner on September 28th. The boys are deserving of support and should receive it from Belmond people this fall in all their games played here.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP

Rev. A. H. Waalkes and family left Thursday for their new home at Hagaman, New York. Altho we regret not having Rev. Waalkes in our midst we wish them great success in the future.

Our school reopened this week for another year's grind. The corps of teachers for 1923-24 is as follows:

Dist. No. 1—Esther Thorman.
Dist. No. 2—Dale Jenison.
Dist. No. 3—Ruth Tiara.
Dist. No. 4—Ethel Thompson.
Dist. No. 5—Grace Gartz.
Dist. No. 6—Sadie Frohling.
Dist. No. 8—Lyle Jenison.
Dist. No. 9—Estelle Murphy.

Carrie Baxter returned to St. Paul last week after an extended visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Thompson, and other relatives.

Bill Finn returned from his visit at Victor to resume his school duties.

Little Howard Finn, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the local hospital, was taken home last Friday. He is doing very nicely.

Little Mildred and Ruth Frohling had their tonsils removed at the local hospital Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenison are the happy parents of a baby boy, born Friday.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

Summer vacations are now over and every one should be back in his place of work. Let us make this autumn season the time of great effort in the things of the kingdom.

Services at the usual hours. Sabbath school at 10 a. m., morning worship at 11, and evening service at 8.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Class meets next Saturday at 2 o'clock at the church.

Service in the Norwegian language next Sunday at 3 o'clock.

Do not forget the series of mission meetings beginning next Thursday morning, Sept. 13. Please remember the date. Visiting missionaries will be with us and speak on the important cause. Look up Luke 16, 1-9. Think on it. Come and take others with you. Let us have a good attendance. Remember that on Sunday the missionaries will speak in both churches. Sunday, Sept. 16, at the regular service hours.

HAVE FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion of the Chapman family was held at the home of Andrew Bullis on September 4th, all members being present. They were: L. M. Chapman of Cherokee, Iowa; Mrs. Bello Bullis of Belmond, Iowa; Mrs. Fidelia E. Perry of San Jose, Calif; Mrs. Mary F. Thompson, of Dickens, Iowa; Mrs. Lois A. Greig, of Storm Lake, Iowa; Mrs. Nellie I. McKee, of Cherokee, Iowa; and Mrs. Grace E. Pendleton of Marcus, Iowa. A big family dinner and social time was enjoyed.

A number of Belmond people are attending the Minnesota state fair this week.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 03c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

A CHANCE TO DEMONSTRATE

The famed League of Nations will soon have an opportunity to demonstrate its practical worth. The Greek-Italian dispute will furnish the medium. Both Italy and Greece are members of the League, sworn to submit their disputes to its jurisdiction. According to the daily press, Greece has appealed to the League, Monday's papers stated that Italy had refused to have the League of Nations try the dispute.

Here you have the first big problem of international peace submitted to an international body for settlement. Two members of that body have a quarrel. One agrees to abide by the decision of this body; the other flatly refuses to permit this body to have anything to say about the disagreement.

In such a case, what will the League of Nations do? What can it do? Law, whether local, state, national, or international, amounts to nothing unless it is backed by force. Will the League of Nations produce the force and compel Italy to arbitrate?

From all appearances, the present dispute between Greece and Italy is one deliberately forced by Italy. The murder of her representatives was a cowardly, dastardly act, but no one believes Greece as a nation instigated the crime. With a rush, and without awaiting a calm reflection, Italy issues an ultimatum, humiliating and merciless, and even before Greece has time to reply, bombardes and occupies Greek soil.

The Italian government gives every indication of meaning to force a fight. With Greece down and out from devastating warfare in the past, Italy sees her opportunity to climb higher by stepping on the broken Greeks. Assuming a bold front, defying the League, and denying her sworn word, she proposes to grab while the grabbing is good.

Americans will watch keenly the result of the first attempt of the League of Nations to settle an international dispute conceived by old country distrust, greed, and suspicion.

Some of the tourists who go thru this city didn't leave much at nome.

Meredith is suing Brookhart for 30 cents damages. Somebody is going to feel like it before this thing is over.

Yes, we have no Chamber of Commerce today.

We heard of one fellow who thot the garbage cans were something else, and mailed a letter.

Well, when is our next "big day" coming?

Italy seems determined to make it hot for Greece.

The Ford boom appears to have punctured a tire, altho there's plenty of gas left.

Did you notice how happy the kids were Monday morning?

The League of Nations will now have an opportunity to demonstrate whether or not macaroni and greece will mix.

Quite a bit of money changed hands on the ball game Thursday. In a ball game the only safe bet is that the umpire's decisions will be disputed.

Every day is labor day for most folks.

NOTES OF THE "BIG DAY"

There were a few who had a nip or so and were feeling Pretty good. One fellow, however, felt rather sad, and stood outside our office door for half an hour relating a sad and pathetic tale about his father, who was killed by a horse.

The Legion police maintained excellent order, and were especially good on traffic. With all the cars and the jam of people, no accident of any consequence occured.

How many men did you see doff their hat as the flag went by. We saw one. A little thing, but it means a lot.

We heard some kick because of the blanket stand concession, when local merchants had just stocked up on blankets and had them for sale.

It was a very good natured crowd, and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

The parade was very good, what there was of it. Not enough were represented. Next time let's all jump in.

Probably nine out of ten people had the Auxiliary float picked for first prize. We imagine the judges had a hard job deciding.

The great majority of the crowd at the ball game were "pulling" for Spencer. Why?

Many favorable comments were heard regarding the free attraction. When you can pick a free attraction that will please the majority you haev accomplished something.

Here and There

The Misses Mildred and Lola Smith and Mable Starnes went to Belmond, Monday.—Times

---

Mr. and Mrs. Del Luick, of Belmond, were in Klemme visiting on Sunday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hansen, of Belmond, were callers in Klemme Sunday.—Times.

Mrs. Dan Brooks and son, Johnny, of Belmond, were visiting at the J. W. Brooks home, Sunday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thayer and son, of Belmond, were shopping in Klemme, Friday.—Times.

Henry Luick and mother, of Belmond, were Klemme visitors Friday evening.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Graepler returned last Saturday from an auto trip to Chicago and other points in Illinois. They accompanied Mrs. Graepler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Sullivan, of Belmond, who visited their old home folks at Wheaton and Ithaca, Illinois. They report a fine time.—Advocate.

KEEP A-GOIN'

When you strike a thorn or rose,
Keep a-goin'.
When it hails or when it snows,
Keep a-goin'.
'Taint no use to sit and whine
When the fish ain't on the line;
Bait your hook and keep on tryin'—
Keep a-goin'.

When the weather kills your crop,
Keep a-goin'.
When you tumble from the top,
Keep a-goin'.
S'pose you're out of every dime;
Gettin' broke ain't no crime.
Tell the world you're feelin' fine—
Keep a-goin'.

When it looks like all is up,
Keep a-goin'.
Drain the sweetness from the cup;
Keep a-goin'.
See the wild birds on the wing,
Hear the bells that sweetly sing;
When you feel like singing—sing—
Keep a-goin'.—Exchange.

BREAD BIGGEST ITEM IN AVERAGE PERSON'S DIET

Bread takes a more prominent place than any other single article of food in the diet of the average person. It is usually served at every meal and often is the chief item.

This is due says the Bureau of Home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture to the fact that bread contains certain food materials needed for health and is inexpensive, wholesome, palatable and very generally available.

When it sells at ten cents a pound bread furnishes body fuel or energy at about 8 cents a thousand calories. There are few common foods that supply fuel in so cheap a form. The man who works hard with his muscles can safely eat a pound or two a day without crowding out all the other things he must have.

Bread is useful not only for fuel but also to some extent as a muscle building food. If made from the whole grain, it contributes no inconsiderable amount to supply of mineral substances needed. Milk supplements it in some ways very well and as a combination of bread and milk is therefore a more nearly complete food than either bread or milk alone.

It did not take science to tell our ancestors that bread milk and berries make a good supper but science has confirmed their opinion by proving that the combination provides almost everything needed for health, to the latest word in dietetics—vitamins.

Some men exert themselves more in trying to borrow a dollar than in trying to earn one.

His Profession.

She was very curious about things.

"They tell me your husband is a hydraulic engineer," she said to her best friend, "but I always understood he was something in the city. I didn't know he was a technical expert, or anything wonderful like that."

"He is a hydraulic engineer," said her friend, "but it's not wonderful. He just waters mining stock."

Any woman can marry any man she wants—if he is willing.

Brief Acquaintance.

"My dear, who is that man staring at you?"

"He was my husband once. You are not jealous I hope?"

"Certainly not. I can tell by his puzzled look that he can't quite place you."

Among Those Present.

Who cannot pile a fortune up
And own a flock of motor cars,
May at a banquet table sup
And hobnob with the movie stars.

Dodging Insurance.

"Now is the time to get your life insured, young man. The longer you delay it, the higher your premiums will be."

"I know that, but the longer I wait, the fewer premiums I will have to pay."—Judge.

Corrected

"He's a gent of the old school."

"Pardon me, you mean a gentleman. There are no gents in the old school."

An Official Statement by the Governor of South Dakota

On August 29, Governor McMaster, of South Dakota, issued the following statement:—

"At a meeting with Colonel Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and other Standard Oil Officials, held in Pierre this morning, Mr. Stewart expressed unqualifiedly the willingness of Standard Oil to comply with the wishes of the consumers of the State of South Dakota in so far as those wishes could be expressed and interpreted by the governor of this state. These Standard officials, although they contend that the present prices do not properly reflect the costs of production, refining and distribution, plus a reasonable profit, were willing, at my request, to do one of two things—raise the price of gasoline immediately in the State of South Dakota where it would represent a six and six-tenths cent reduction over former prices, or maintain, for the time being, sixteen cent gasoline in the State of South Dakota, using Mitchell as a base.

"After due consideration, the Standard Oil officials were asked by the governor to maintain the present price of 16 cents for the time being. I wish to accept full responsibility for this situation and state that Standard Oil, by deed and act, is working in fullest co-operation with the governor of this state and therefore can in no respect be blamed for 16 cents gasoline from this date.

"I realize that the independents who have viciously assailed and attacked me will raise bitter complaint against this condition. However, after due consideration and investigation, I wish to say that if the former gasoline prices of this state were excessive, the independents of this state were just as responsible for that condition and were just as guilty of taking excess profits as was Standard Oil.

"At no time during the period which former gasoline prices prevailed did any independent of this state raise one objection or bring one complaint to this office in an effort to bring about any reduction in price but they were perfectly willing to profit to the fullest extent.

"I realize that all sorts of charges will be made against me because of this action, but in view of the fact that gasoline can be purchased at various refineries today for approximately seven cents a gallon, it will not work injury to the public cause if the Independents are forced for the time being to do business on a small margin of profit. There is no particular reason why the State Government should guarantee to the Independent Oil Dealers of this state, at least for the time being, fixed profits, especially in view of the fact that they were perfectly willing and were a party to take excessive profits from the people."

This clearly defines the position which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has maintained throughout this controversy.

Standard Oil Company
(Indiana)
910 So. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

3378

FACTS RELATING TO

GOVERNMENT FARM LOANS

Long Term Loans.
Optional Payments.
The Lowest Interest Rates.
Prompt Closing--No Red Tape.
Small Expenses In Securing Loans.
Plenty of Money, Always on Hand.
Loans Up To $100 per Acre---$25,000 to One Borrower.
Payment of Interest and Principal made and receipted for at Belmond.

THIS LOAN MAY BE SECURED AT THE

State Bank of Belmond

BELMOND, IOWA

A. L. LUICK, President. OLE THOMPSON, Vice President. W. T. GFELLER, Cashier.
O. L. VARLAND, Assistant Cashier. C. M. MORSE, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

G. F. ELDER
T. A. DAVENPORT
HENRY GROEN
JOE PLETCH
W. C. TYRRELL, Jr.
O. L. VARLAND
R. H. KLEMME
A. L. LUICK
M. C. BARRY
OLE THOMPSON
SIMON SIMERSON
W. T. GFELLER
M. F. CHRISTIE
A. O. HAUGE

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Some good used cars for sale.—At Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Miss Carrie Baxter left Friday for Milwaukee, where she will resume her school duties at Riverside high school.

Lawrence Gealow went to Waterloo, Sunday, on business affairs.

Miss Agnes Dillon went to Corwith, Saturday, where she will be employed this coming year in the schools. Miss Dillon taught in the Corwith schools last year, also.

Miss Marjorie Flynn went to Waterloo last Friday, where she will spend a few days visiting with friends.

Geo. Wilmot and family, of Eagle Grove, moved back to Belmond the first of the week. Mr. Wilmot will be employed at the sugar factory.

Miss Jennie Gealow returned Saturday to Des Moines, to resume her studies at the Des Moines University.

Mrs. Ed Thul, of Clarion, visited Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Papousek.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Warman, of Alden, were guests of Belmond friends last week Thursday.

The Independent has had several inquiries lately of houses to rent. Those having any may list them at this office.

W. L. Kent left last week for Carlack, North Dakota, where he is spending a few weeks at the home of his son, Guy Kent.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ersland and M. J. Thoe drove to Minnesota last Friday, on business affairs.

Mrs. W. L. Kent and daughter, Inez, left for Lincoln, Nebraska, last week, where Mrs. Kent is taking medical treatments.

Mrs. Pat Dillon has been enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Schwartz, who resides at Fairmont, Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ziska returned Sunday from a visit with relatives at Jewell, Council Bluffs and Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn and daughter, Marjorie, Mrs. M. H. Lord, and Mrs. Mauch, of Hampton, drove to Grand Valley, South Dakota, last week in the Flynn's car, returning home Friday.

Earnest Lateer ran his truck into the ditch the other evening, somewhere between Belmond and Goodell, he was going along nicely when he saw a pretty country maid, and he got sort of confused or something, and ran off the grade on the left side—her side—of the road. Anyway, that's what we heard—and Earnie won't give us any particulars. He's wearing smoked glasses now while driving.

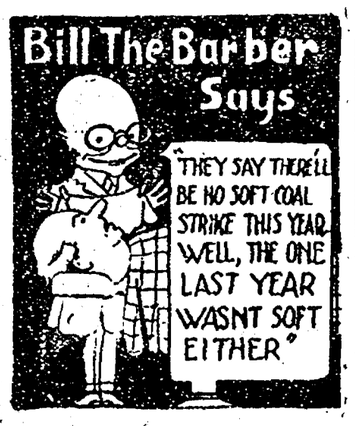
Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Menno Frohling underwent an operation for the removal of their tonsils last Friday.

The Community Club meeting that was to have been held this week Tuesday was postponed until September 28 on account of the illness of Miss Mildred Elder, of Ames, who was to demonstrate the use and alteration of the commercial patterns.

The Misses Anna and Veronica McNamara were visitors with friends and relatives at Ft. Dodge and Clare, Iowa, last week. They returned Monday evening.

Mrs. Hamilton, head nurse at the local hospital, returned last Friday from her trip to California, where she had been visiting and enjoying the country for the past two and one half months.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenison are the parents of a fine new son, born to them last Friday, August 31.



J. W. Smith has purchased the T. Tomson house, located just west of the city park, and will move to town the first of March. Mr. Tomson has not decided as yet what his future plans will be.

During the month of August 255 registered at the ladies rest room in the city hall. This is the largest number that has registered in any one month since the rest room was started.

Mrs. Amy Peterson went to Webster City last Saturday, where she will teach this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Scott left the first of the week on a vacation trip via auto to different points in northern Minnesota.

Mrs. Rosecrans went to Garner on Saturday, to visit relatives. She returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Martin and Albert returned home from their camping trip last Friday.

Miss Rena Purdy entertained the Delphian club at her home on Monday evening.

Miss Marie Johnson went to Ft. Dodge, Saturday, where she will teach this coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reed and family, from Sioux City, spent the week end with relatives here.

Will the party that took child's tan coat from Barban's Bakery August 30 please return and save trouble

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Lieuwen and family left yesterday morning by auto for their future home at Green Bay, Wisconsin, where Sam is employed with the Green Bay Sugar Company.

Guy Bates is in again. Friday of last week he was arrested for being drunk and disorderly, and Mayor Sullivan gave him five days on the labor list of the town. Mr. Bates is now assisting in maintaining the city streets.

ANNOUNCEMENT

My studio will open September 10 at the W. A. Parsons residence. Appointment for piano lessons should be made before September 9th by calling at my home, or phoning 211. Beginners classes for children from five to eight years old will be started October 1st.—Gertrude Ely.

Some good used cars for sale.—At Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Louis Steenblock, who was injured in the auto accident last month was taken to the home of relatives at Galt last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bohning and daughters, Edna and Faye, were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bohning, at Clear Lake.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

One Joe Hartman, a beet weeder from east of town, went thru Main street the other evening at an excessive rate of speed. Marshal Finn called his attention to it, and Mayor Sullivan said ten dollars. Hartman elected to work it out, we understand.

Fred Bohning returned home a week ago Friday from Cedar Falls, where he has been attending summer school at the state college. He left the latter part of last week for Rock Rapids, Iowa, where he has accepted a position as superintendent for the coming year.

Lud Simerson returned from North Dakota, Monday, where he had been looking after his farm interests.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Jensen arrived home Monday evening from their vacation trip to Minnesota points. They report a very enjoyable time, and state that they met Edmund Groh and family. Edmund has a pharmacy between the Twin Cities. He sent his regards to all his old friends in Belmond.

The State Bank will install the big bell used on their Legion Day float, on top of the bank building.

A heavy rain visited the vicinity north and east of Belmond, Monday evening. It was a terrific rain, said to have been the hardest experienced this year. Roads were flooded until water stood on them up to the hubs of cars. Warm weather the next few days, dried them out to a large extend.

Some good used cars for sale.—At Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Truer Davenport returned from their western trip last Saturday, feeling fine and enjoying every bit of the journey. They traveled some 3,000 miles.

F. O. Fitts, I. H. Benson, Claude Benson and their families drove to Minnesota, Monday, for a couple of weeks' vacation.

Mrs. A. W. Martin had the misfortune Monday of falling down the stairs at her home and dislocating her right shoulder. It is very painful, and it will be several weeks before the bandagaes can be removed.

The Jones Harness Co. are moving this week to the Hill building, just west of the Dibble dray office, where they will have their new quarters in the new building. Elmer Boughton will move in the present location of the Jones Harness Co.

Ford Touring car for sale.—City Meat Market. 1c

George Polmateer returned Tuesday from his trip to Canada, South Dakota and Nebraska, where he has been the past few weeks looking after his land interests and visiting relatives. His 18-year-old son, Floyd, returned with him and will remain with his father for some time. George says the crops out west are fine, the best he ever saw them.

There are rumors of a wedding in which Belmond young people will figure to occur in the near future.

E. F. Bailey is filling in just west of the river bridge with dirt taken from his gravel pit in south Belmond.

Jesse Baker returned home the first of the week from Nebraska, where he has been visiting with relatives.

W. A. Tedder went to Lime Springs this state, the first of the week, to do some fall plowing on the farm he will move to March first.

Mr. and Mrs. Lud C. Johnson have received no word from their son, Jasper, who is teaching in an American college at Nagasaki, Japan, since the disastrous earthquake in that country. It is thought that he was several hundred miles away from the scene of disaster, however, at the time. Cable communication is not expected to be repaired for a week or more. Jasper will doubtless have some thrilling tales to tell his friends when he writes.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	17c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	23c
Cream	39c
Creamery Butter	45c
Oats	31c
Corn	74c

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Passenger, daily	8:15 a. m.
Freight, daily	11:46 a m.
Combination, daily	2:15 p. m.

Going South

Passenger, daily	6:28 p. m.
Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Combination, daily	11:46 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

OVERLANDS DROP!

Roadster and Touring
OLD PRICE $605.00 NEW PRICE $575.00

Sedan
OLD PRICE $985.00 NEW PRICE $910.00

Red Bird
OLD PRICE $865.00 NEW PRICE $805.00

Nordschow Motor Co.
Belmond, Iowa

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—New Chevrolet Coupe. Call or phone 206. 422c

For Sale—24x42, 7-room bungalow; lights, furnace, cistern, bath. 3 blocks from city park; separate garage; barn 24x28. $4,000 if taken at once. Inquire at State Bank of Belmond. 412*

For Sale—Frame semi-bungalow, 7 rooms and bath, oak finish, furnace, water, lights, cistern, full basement. North 3rd Ave.—M. O. Crawford.

For Sale—Herrick refrigerator, baby bed, collapsable baby cab, iron davenport bed, 3-4 springs, upright dresser, and other household goods. Phone 345.—M. O. Crawford.

For Rent—Clean sleeping rooms. Board if desired, also home pastry, including good home made bread. Order now. First house west of Rock Island depot. 421*

Lost—Brooch, Sunday, on Main street. Has red set.—Mrs. George Hunst. 1tc

Found—License plate and tail light. Owner can have same by calling at Independent and paying cost of advertising. 423c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Vacation Is Over---

Now is the time to have your clothes repaired and pressed. Get ready for cool weather. We make old clothes new and new clothes, too.

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Some good used cars for sale.—At Belmond Motor Sales Co.

Mrs. Henry Schultz and children returned Wednesday morning from Chicago and Peru, Illinois, where they had been visiting the past few weeks. Henry drove to Dows to meet them.

M. O. Crawford and family left the first of the week for Detroit, Michigan, where they will make their future home. They have rented their house in north Belmond to Mrs. Gibbs one of the teachers in the Belmond school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Luick, Mrs. Val Griesy and Cato returned home Tuesday night from Minnesota, where they have been the past two weeks. They report a fine time, and excellent fishing.

A Hen-Pecked Bird

"What's Henpeck feeling so cheerful about?"

"He's found someone worse off than he; he's just read that the male ostrich hatches the eggs."

Justice is blind until it reaches your case.

What will become of the booze runners when they die? Surely the devil will not want people who can outdevil him.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, SEPT. 10

WHITE PRODUCE WEEKLY

The butter market continues strong Whether or not it will be influenced by the recent rains is a question. The markets are reported in good condition. We are paying 39 cents for cream now. Bring your can in and get the highest market price.

Heavy hens are down to 15 cents a pound now, and the chances are a still lower price will be paid on the markets. The best time ao sell them is right now. We will give you the highest prices at any time, and can always handle them.

Springs are 17 cents today. We do not anticipate that they will go a great deal higher; in fact, the market is apt to drop. If yours are in good shape to sell we advise that you sell now.

Eggs at this time are 23 cents a dozen. That is a pretty fair price, and we will take all your bring in. At all times we aim to give you the highest cash prices.

Our service is at your service, and we hope you will let us serve you. If you ask your neighbor he will tell you we treat you White. May we have a share of your patronage?

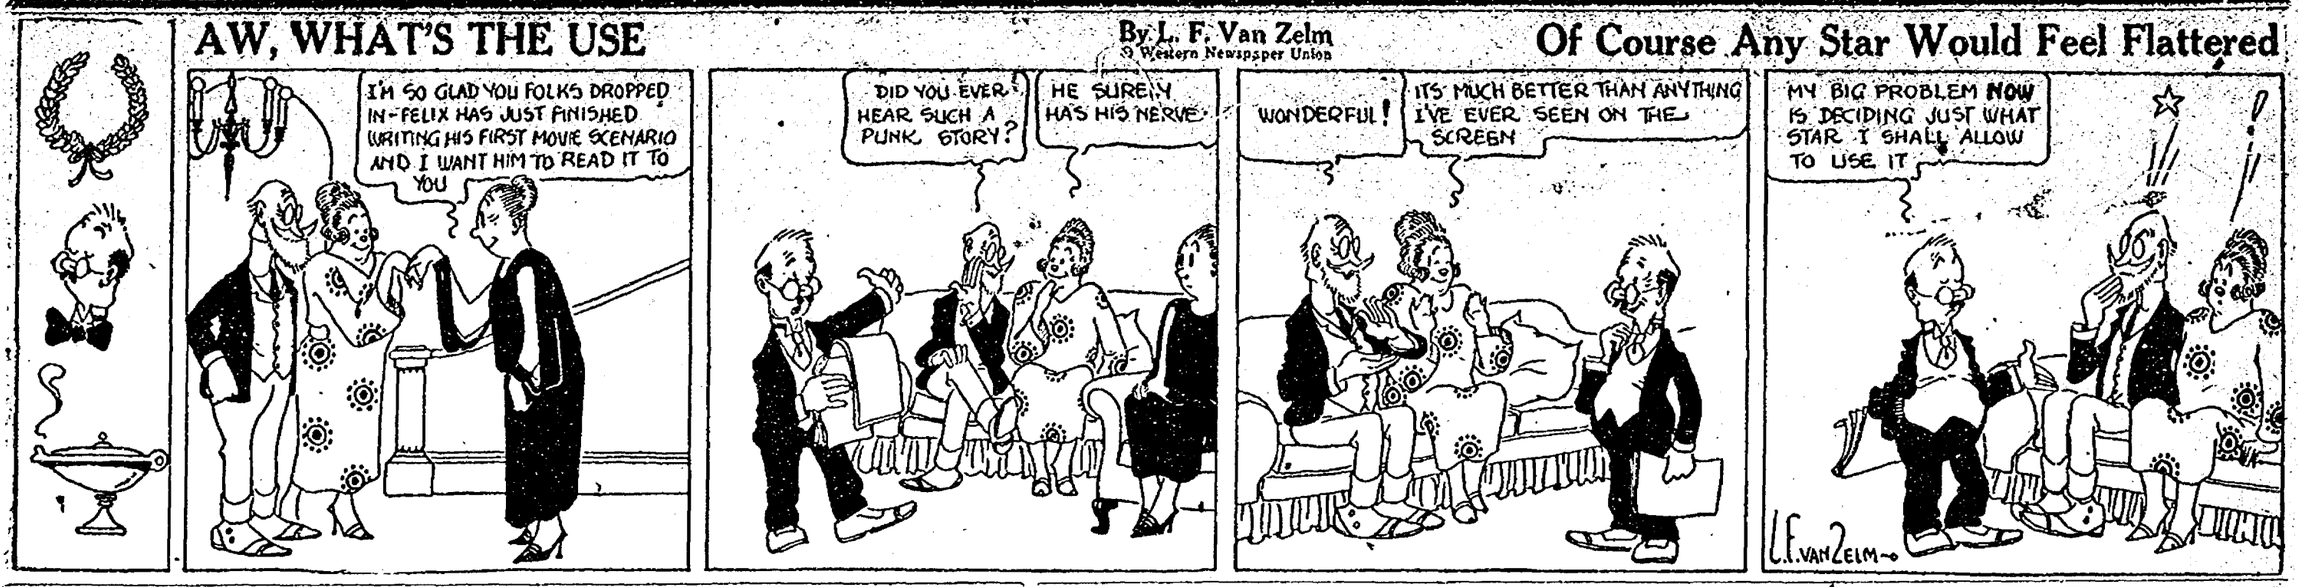
Belmond Phone 272 Earle E. Lateer
Goodell Phone 21 Earnest F. Lateer

Wednesday
August 15th
Is the day for your
CASH DISCOUNTS
At the
Cash Market

Bring in your Receipts for August 15th and get your money back.
Receipts must be in before September 15th

Always get and save your receipts. Some day's cash business in September will be given back to you Free. This applies on anything we sell---meats, groceries, fruits, vegetables, or supplies of any kind.

Cash Market
The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa
Phone 60 and We'll Deliver



ROWAN NEWS

Rowan M. E. Church Notes
Rev. Geo. A. Osborn, Pastor
Class Meeting at 9:30 a. m.
Sunday School at 10:00 a. m.
Classes for all ages.
Morning Worship at 11:00 a. m.
Epworth League at 7:00 p. m.
Evening Worship at 8:00 p. m.
Prayer Meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Osborn were business callers at Kanawha on Monday of last week. Lowell Abbot remained, visiting friends until Saturday.

Thursday will be a full day with the Methodists this week. The Ladies Aid is to serve supper. Dr. J. J. Bushnell, of Algona is to give a free illustrated lecture at 7:30 and the Fourth Quarterly Conference is to be held immediately at the close of the lecture.

The Farm Bureau met Tuesday evening at the Charles Richards home. Rev. G. A. Osborn was the speaker of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Carr and Frank Carr were Clarion callers on Monday.

The Methodist Women's Home Missionary Society met Wednesday of this week at the John Huey home. The barrel of empty fruit jars which the society are filling for the Schessler Deaconess home of Sioux City is at the Hannah Whitten home.

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Goss autoed down from St. Paul on Saturday and viited at the parental Henry Reitz home. Mrs. Bert Pelley accompanied them home for a visit and to take in the Minnesota state fair.

Mrs. Georgia Rowan is reported to be quite ill at this writing.

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

Mrs. John Richards returned from the hospital on Saturday. She is somewhat improved at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams and children arrived last week from Washington, D. C. for a visit with relatives.

Miss Esther Fowler accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Levi Johnson and children arrived Saturday from Sioux Falls, S. D. Mr. Johnson came later.

Mrs. Georgia Rowen was taken ill Saturday evening, but is somewhat improved at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Richards drove to Iowa Falls Sunday and brought home with them Mrs. John Richards, who had been at the hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten and family, Mrs. Kate Conn and son, Dallas attended a Conn family reunion picnic at the Josiah Conn home at Aredale, Sept. 2.

Dallas Conn went to Parkersburg to visit his uncle, Dan Conn Saturday. He planned to go on to Iowa City the first of this week.

Miss Florence Box arrived home last Wednesday from the West Side Hospital in Chicago to spend a two weeks' vacation and visit her parents and other relatives.

Mrs. J. H. Coburn was quite ill the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Carr and Frank Carr autoed to Clarion Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Koepple and son, Clyde and Roy Koepple, of St. Anthony, also Mr. and Mrs. George Koepple and son, of State Center visited at the M. E. parsonage last week.

Miss Frances Farran is assisting in the Theo. Hansen tore.

Mr. and Mr. William Steffens, Miss Dorothy and Miss Nora Shaffer departed last Wednesday for Polo and Millegeville, Illinois, to visit relatives for two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsay are caring for the farm.

Mr. Lou Hake was home from Helmwood part of last week, on a business trip.

Miss Lorine Liming returned Saturday from Ft. Atkinson, where she had been spending the past month with an aunt, Mrs. Chas. Kappis and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitten, of Clarion, were visitors at the Tom Whitten home, Monday.

Rev. Bushnell, of Algona, will give an illustrated lecture at the M. E. church Thursday evening. The fourth quarterly conference will be held immediately after the lecture.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Goss autoed down from St. Paul Saturday evening. Mrs. A. O. Pelley accompanied them home Monday for a visit and to attend the Minnesota fair.

Word received from Mrs. Jake Alinger states that she underwent an operation for the removal of fifty gall stones the first of last week. She is recovering rapidly.

Miss Wilda Whitten left Saturday morning for Galva, Iowa where she is to have charge of the sixth and seventh grade in the consolidated schools of that place.

Miss Estella Emerson has been working in the telephone office during the absence of Miss Angie Baines who has been taking a week's vacation.

Miss May Virden returned home from Lake Geneva, Wisconsin and Evanston, Illinois Saturday evening.

A. F. Cowley and J. E. Baines of Dows made a business trip to Minnesota the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Sheldon and family and Mrs. F. B. Sheldon returned Sunday evening from their western trip.

Miss Ruth Emerson began the fall term of school in the Hiatt district Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith are attending a family reunion at Sheffield Illinois.

The Congregational Ladies' Aid Society meet with Mrs. Lou Stevenson, Friday afternoon. A ten cent lunch will be served.

Clarence Townsan and family were up from Des Moines, Sunday, and spent the first of the week.

The Congregational Mission Club meets Thursday aftrnoon with Mrs. Clint Kerchival.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bryson, of Clarion, departed Saturday by auto for Homersville, Ohio, to visit relatives and attend the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Olson are visiting relatives at Wyanette, Illinois and attending the county fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson are visiting Mrs. Hanson's relatives near Estherville.

Ralph Whitten left the latter part of last week for Mingo, Iowa where he is instructor of mathematics in the public school.

Miss Ruth Dailey departed for her home in Idaho to attend school.

The Rowen school opened Monday with a good enrollment. The following is the faculty for the coming year:

T. K. Holliday ——Superintendent
Mrs. T. K. Holliday —— ——History
Miss Dorothy Hillyard
——Domestic Science
Miss Mary Boyd ——Mathematics
Miss Emma Nabholtz
——Music and 8th Grade
Franklin Nabholtz
——6th and 7th Grades
Miss Erma Barker
——4th and 5th Grades
Miss Dorothy Mendell
——2nd and 3rd Grades
Miss Josephine Towner -- 1st. Grade

Couldn't Be Literature

"You were not very complimentary in speaking of Scribson's new book."

"Didn't I say it would sell by the trainload?"

"That's just the point I'm making."

Women enjoy wearing tight clothes because it makes them feel so good when they take them off.

Not the man who knows the most, but the man who knows the best is wisest.

Every man has a grievance and he will tell you all about it on the least provocation.

To make the day pleasant, study what you say; and don't study what others say—too much.

Roads to happiness and to misery frequently run parallel.

Girls who make the greatest exertions to catch husbands are usually last in the race.

One must be imposed upon more or less but that sort of thing is reciprocal.

GOODELL NEWS

Mr. A. C. Carpenter and children came home last Tuesday, August 28. They visited places in Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Iowa.

Mr. William Schlichting was in Mason City on Tuesday of last week on business.

Prof. O. Nelson and wife were in Goodell last week on their way to Thompson where he will superintend the public school this coming year.

Prof and Mrs. Peters have moved into their home in the north west part of town.

Last Wednesday a large number of Goodell people attended the county fair at Britt.

John Rust and family returned from the state fair last Wednesday.

A. D. White returned from Colfax last week.

L. W. Wesenberg and family returned from the state fair on last Wednesday.

Friday, Dr. Snearly, as county coroner, was up near Hayfield looking up facts relative to the child that was killed by a truck at Britt on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Hill, high school principal, came Saturday afternoon.

Howard Ruka, who is working for the Wallace Farmer, was in town Saturay afternoon. He was on his way to Delaware county where he expected to work this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ritter, of Klemme visited Wm. Beier's on Sunday.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlichting and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hanson drove to Clear Lake.

Mrs. Hasselberg, of Lee Center, Illinois, is visiting her sister, Mrs. O. Sandberg.

France and Miss Mammie McNulty are visiting their parents a few days.

Sunday School Institute, to be held at Goodell, U. B. church on September 9

10:00 a. m.—Opening by district president.
10:15 a. m.—Special music by the Klemme choir.
10:20 a. m.—Address by County president S. C. Pollock.
10:40 a. m. Special music by Goodell choir.
10:50 a. m.—Address by state worker Mr. Hutton.
12:00 Noon—Community dinner in basement of the church.
2:00 p. m.—Devotions by Rev. Miller.
2:15 p. m.—Special music by Liberty church choir.
2:25 p. m.—Talk by Rev. Geddy.
2:40 p. m.—Report of Sunday school work by Mrs. Durant.
3:00 p. m.—Special music by Goodell choir.
3:10 p. m.—Talk by Mr. Hutton.

Every one bring their lunch. Coffee and cream will be served by the Goodell congregation.

The Woman's Missionary society will hold their monthly meeting on Friday, Sept. 7, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. L. Sherwood. This is the third quarterly business meeting and the first of the new year's program. A full attendance of members is urged. Visitors are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Place Your Order Now For a Ford

Father starts it—mother finds she can add a little—even the kiddies will contribute their pennies and in a surprisingly short time, the whole family is enjoying the pleasures of owning a Ford. Here is how you can do it through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

Bring the first $5 in to us. Enroll under the terms of the new, easy way to buy a Ford. Select the car you want. We will deposit your money in a local bank, at interest. Add a little each week. You will be surprised at the rate the money piles up when everyone is helping. Soon the payments, plus interest paid by the bank will make the car yours. Come in—let us give you full particulars.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond Auto Company

ALEXANDER NEWS

For Sale—Two Tractors, with plows. Priced right.—Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa. 35tfc

For Sale—1921 Ford Touring; 1923 4-door Ford Sedan; 1923 2-door Sedan. Several other cars at reasonable prices. —Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond, Iowa.

The Cemetery Society will meet on September 13th at the home of Mrs. C. R. Clark. Hostesses are Mrs. C. R. Clark, Mrs. Chas. Hansen and Mrs. Grant Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murphy and two sons, Raymond and Donald visited with relatives at Hampton last Sunday.

Arthur Winwood was a business caller at Hampton last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clark and sons Donald and Lyle are attending the Minnesota State Fair, this week. Bernard McCallum is caring for the drug store during Mr. Clark's absence.

Will Tyrrell, of Belmond was a business caller in town last week.

Virgie Hardy, of Hampton, spent the past week visiting with relatives at this place.

Will Foughty, Mrs. Pekarek and daughter Josephine were visitors at Hampton, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and two sons autoed to Webster City Sunday and visited with Mr. Hensel's people at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richards are the happy parents of a fine baby boy born on Wednesday, August 22nd.

Bert Kieslich was a caller at Hampton last Friday.

Ray Richards was a Belmond caller last Sunday.

School began Wednesday with the usual good attendance.

Fred Rodemeyer and family were visitors with relatives at Iowa Falls last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen and Mr. and Mrs. Claas symens were Hampton callers last Thursday.

Miss Wilma Foughty spent several days last week visiting with her aunt, Mrs. King, at Latimer.

Arthur Peters, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peters left last Sunday for Minnesota, where they will attend the state fair and spend a few days fishing at various places.

Several of our Alexander people were in attendance at the American Legion Celebration held in Belmond last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Vestweber of Minnesota were visitors of relatives in this vicinity the past week.

Mr. Otto Kieslich was a caller at Hampton last Friday.

Clarence Bohlen and family have moved over the Clarence Murphy hardware store.

Harry Hardy and family of Hampton spent last Sunday at the Fred Larsen home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Muhlenbruch and baby, of Iowa Falls spent the week end with relatives at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Butler and two sons, of Hampton, were over Sunday visitors at this place.

Mrs. F. D. Rodmeyer and children Lois and Cecil George visited with her parents at Iowa Falls several days last week.

Mrs. L. C. Peters and Miss Anna Beenen were Hampton callers last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Butler were business callers at Hampton, Monday.

The Methodist church has been cleaned and repapered, which gives the interior a much brighter look.

Mr. an Mrs. George Dunn and family were callers at Sheffield last Thursday.

Merle Hanson, Earnest and Will Kew are attending the State Fair at Minnesota this week.

Mrs. Lyle Hall was a caller at Belmond last Wednesday.

Little Tommy

"Then you like your geography?"

"Yes, it is the only book big enough to hide a detective story."

They Sometimes Do

"Hasn't my fiancee a delightful baby voice?"

"I dunno, Algy, I heard her talking bass to her mother just now."

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest, if you must, but don't you quit.
Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out;
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow—
You may succeed with another blow.
Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup.
And he learned too late, when the night slipped down.
How close he was to the golden crown.
Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt
And you can never tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.—Ex.

NEW RULES FOR HUNTERS LISTED

W. E. Albert, state game and fish warden, at Des Moines has supplied James P. Gibson, deputy game warden with a summary of the new laws enacted by the Fortieth general assembly. The laws went into effect July 4. The changes follow:

Skunks are included in the list of protected fur bearing animals and the closed season on them extends from February 1 to November 15. It is unlawful to molest, injure or destroy skunk dens. By the same act the closed season on raccoons was extended and now runs from February 1 to November 15.

The part of the law prohibiting the shooting game birds from artificial ambush was repealed so that artificial blinds are now permitted.

However, the use of sink boats, sneak boats, or the shooting from motor driven boats, or sail boats is still prohibited.

The taking of ruffed grouse or pheasant is prohibited until November 1, 1932.

The ownership and title of clams, mussels, or frogs were declared to be in the state, the same as fish, wild game, birds and animals.

The law requiring the removal of rough fish under permits and a more extensive law enacted, permitting contracts to remove the rough fish from all Iowa waters.

At the December session new amendments will be passed and the whole code revised, at which time new booklets containing the entire code and amendments will be printed and broadcasted.—Globe Gazette.

MICKIE SAYS—

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Club Members Win At Des Moines

Citizens of Wright county and particularly the mothers and fathers of the boys and girls who took active part in the club work will be pleased to know that our boys and girls made a good showing at Des Moines in the state wide exhibit at the state fair.

Considerable interest was centered about the carload of baby beeves which was exhibited at the state fair. In the showing of county groups of ten, our boys managed to come in for seventh place which seems very good considering the fact that this is our first year's attempt also that the Wright county calves were shown in competition with 23 other counties. In the Shorthorn division of the Baby Beef club, Arno Myers won fifth and sixth in the Senior Shorthorn class and Gerald Kennedy won 20th place in the Senior Angus division, Gilbert Hanson was 24th, Craig Nelson 31st and Everett McCutcheon 34th in the junior Angus class. In the Senior Hereford division Laurel Hill was 31st, Ardis Peterson 32nd, Ralph Harring 40th, Roy Axon 42nd, and John Axon 43rd in a showing of over one hundred head. In the Junior Hereford division, Kenneth Tillman was 31st, Clyde Knight 32nd and Robert Hanson 45th. In the Junior Chester White gilt division Elwood Gray won 4th place and Lila Gray came in for 5th in the same division.

5,000 Attend Picnic—Club Exhibit

According to an estimate by J. W. Coverdale, the speaker at the picnic who attends a great many picnics each year throughout the entire United States, there was an attendance of 5,000 or more people at the county wide picnic—club exhibit at Eagle Grove, August 22nd.

The weather and road conditions turned out very nicely and everything seemed to go smoothy so as to make a successful day. The program was carried out as planned except the special music which was to have been furnished by Eagle Grove, did not appear on account of some misunderstanding by the committee in charge. Greenwood Park at Eagle Grove was packed to overflowing with automobiles and by 5,000 farmers, their wives and children.

The main feature of this county-wide picnic was the very able address which was given by J. W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation of Chicago, who held his audience spellbound for an hour or more while giving his interesting address on the American Bureau Federation, its aims and purposes and its relation to our state and county organizations. According to Mr. Coverdale, Wright county is one unit of sixteen hundred counties scattered throughout the entire United States. He stated that agriculture is the basic industry and amounts to a seventy-eight billion dollar business annually, a business larger than the other four combined interests of our nation including the railroads, coal mines, manufacturing interests and the financial interests.

In speaking of agriculture conditions of our nation today, Mr. Coverdale stated that about three big problems are confronting our farmers at present, namely; Intelligent production, better financing conditions and a more even distribution of farm products including marketing conditions by standardizing their products and centralizing them at the great marketing centers. In speaking of our transportation system, he said that the American Farm Bureau federation does not favor a ship subsidy but that they do favor a merchant marine owned and controlled by American capital and manned by Americans. In closing, Mr. Coverdale urged the whole-hearted support of the mothers and fathers to the Boys' and Girls' club work.

The thing which attracted most attention and which gave inspiration to all who attended the picnic and especially the boys and girls was the exhibit of livestock, poultry and girls' fancy work by the boys and girls of our county. Everyone seems agreed that the first exhibit of boys and girls club work was a great success. This was Wright county's first attempt to bring together the exhibits which the boys and girls have spent so much time on during one year's period. For those who witnessed the splendid livestock, poultry and garment club exhibits there can be no doubt as to the greatness of the Boys' and Girls' club work and there is no doubt but what the club exhibit next year will be twice as large as was shown this year.

Soy Bean Demonstration

Prof. M. A. Hauser, of the farm crops section of the extension service at Ames, will spend one day, September 21st, in Wright county conducting two soy bean demonstrations, one to be held at the W. F. Mechem farm, two and one-half miles southeast of Clarion, and the other at the Louis Hauge farm, three miles northwest of Belmond.

Ten standard varieties of soy beans have been planted and grown on these two farms and the demonstrations have been planned for the purpose of demonstrating the value ofsoy beans as a general crop, also to demonstrate the varieties of soy beans best adapted to Wright county conditions. The forenoon meeting will be conducted at the Mechem farm at 10:00 and the afternoon meeting at the Hauge farm at 2:00. All farmers who are interested in knowing more about the production of soy beans are urged to be present at one of these meetings.

Prof. Hauser will discuss the use of soy bean for hogging down, silage, seed and hay purposes. Since there has been suen increasing interest in the growth of soy beans particularly during the last year, this demonstration will, no doubt, be of great interest to those who are interested in their growth. The soy bean has become a very popular and profitable crop in our county and this will be a great opportunity to learn more about its cultivation and growth.

Store Grain On Farms

The Iowa farm warehouse act, which was made into law at the last session of the legislature, is now in operation. Several counties have already organized for this purpose. In general the law provides that when requests for the privilege of storing grain on the farms come from a group of farmers in any county, the secretary of agriculture will appoint a board of directors for such a group. The board in turn meets and appoints a local man for the official sealer in that community. The sealer, upon the board's recommendation, will be officially designated by the secretary of agriculture, and will be given authority to seal grain in the bin on the farm. He is further required to inspect such grain in storage every thirty days. A receipt for this grain in storage is given the owner, who may then use it for collateral in borrowing money.

"This system," says Secretary Hunt of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation, "should benefit the farmer in two ways. In the first place, it will enable im to get a form of collateral which should get for him money at lower rates of interest than he is now paying. In the second place, it will permit a more orderly system of marketing than at the present time."

Anyone interested in this subject should write the state secretary of agriculture or information may also be secured at the local Farm Bureau office.

No Surplus of Wheat

Estimates of the huge over-production of wheat are not borne out by the facts. This conclusion was reached at the first meeting of the joint committee on wheat research of the Wheat Council of the United States and the United States Chamber of Commerce held in Chicago August 13th. President O. E. Bradfute of the American Farm Bureau federation is a member of the joint committee and attended all the sessions. The committee passed the following resolutions:

"A careful examination of the evidence submitted to the committee by its statisticians and brought to the initial meeting by the members, does not bear out the estimates of huge overproduction that have been frequently made. While the occasion for proceeding cautiously in the matter of seeding for future production is clear the committee is of the opinion that many reports of surplus quantities of wheat have been exaggerated. It is not unreasonable to assume that this has exerted an unduly depressing effect upon the market."

The committee authorized an immediate statement as to feeding, the exaggerations in the matter of surplusage; a later statement as to feeding the poorer grades of wheat to stock on the farm, and research immediately regarding the methods used in increasing acreage during the world war with the possibility of reversing these methods so a to help the wheat farmer adjust his acreage to domestic demands.

One In Every Seven Hogs Killed In 1922 Show Tuberculosis

Federal meat inspection records for the year 1922 shows that an average of one hog out of every seven slaughtered in establishments under federal inspection during the year showed lesions of tuberculosis. Altogether, 39,416,439 hogs were slaughtered under federal inspection in 1922 and 5,640 061 of them showed lesions of the disease.

Hogs are infected principally by following diseased cattle in the feed lot and by drinking milk from tubercular cattle. Lesions are usually localized; the head and glands of the neck are most often affected. It has been estimated that in 1922 more than $2,000,000 worth of pork was condemned as unfit for human food on account of tuberculosis. This is but a part of the total loss sustained by the nation on account of tuberculosis in hogs. Animals affected with the disease cannot make the best gains and the danger to human health is a factor always to be considered.

The vigorous campaign being conducted for the eradication of this disease has resulted up to March 1, 1923, in 24,132 accredited herds in the United States, in which more than half a million cattle have been pronounced free from tuberculosis. Every herd that is freed reduces the menace to the hog industry.

COMPLETE FIELD WEEK PLANS AT AMES

"Fit the soil to the legume," and, "Fit the legume to the soil," are the two slogans that will be featured at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Ames, September 10 to 15, during farm crops and soils inspection week which displaces the "field day" of former years.

The need for a more general use of legumes thruout the state is recognized by experiment station officials. However, so many legume seedings have failed to give a crop that many farmers have stopped seeding except on the better lands where legumes are not so necessary but where stands can be secured with much greater certainty.

Some of the most important soils problems have to do with soil treatments which will make it possible to get regular stands of clover with satisfactory yields on the soil types where the greatest difficulty has been experienced in the past. Visitors to Ames during field week will see splendid growths and stands of clover secured at trifling expense and by simple means while adjoining plots, seeded at the same time in the ordinary manner, failed entirely.

It is a well known fact, the crop investigators say, that some legumes do better on certain soils, than others. Some grow well on very acid soils where others would barely make a start. Certain red clovers are succeeding where others have failed. Soy beans are being grown by methods never thought possible before. Dalia is proving itself. Cherokee clover, Lespedeza, velvet beans and Kudzu, legumes that grow well on acid soils, are being grown with varying degrees of success under different conditions.

DATA ON POULTRY GROWTH

Interesting data on the rapidity of growth of poultry, the amount of feed consumed in the putting on of weight and the type of ration that produced the most economical gains have been secured in experiments conducted by the poultry husbandry department of Iowa State College.

Here are some of the outstanding points that the experiments bring to light:

1. The rate of gain is in direct proportion to the amount of feed consumed.

2. Gains are larger and are made more economically where the percentage of mash in the ration is high

3. In general, the males make larger gains than females.

4. The rate of gain decreases as the birds become older.

5. Gains are greatly influenced by weather conditions. For example, during a period of unusually high temperatures the gains are extremely low.

6. White Rocks and White Wyandottes made slightly larger gains than the other breeds used in the tess.

7. Rhode Island Reds made the most economical gains.

8. White Leghorns made the smallest gains of any breed.

9. There seems to be a little difference in the rate of growth of different sized birds of the same breed.

A Liability.

Griggs—Isn't Johnson's light-haired wife rather an expensive proposition?

Briggs—I should say so. He calls her his blonded indebtedness.

When we read of some noted criminal lawyers we always wonder to what extent they are.

NEBRASKA TO SUBMIT BONUS MEASURE

Omaha members of the American Legion plan to submit the bill providing a bonus to World War veterans to the people by invoking the initiative at the next general election.

Sponsors of the measure, which will be patterned after the Iowa state bonus say the bill will provide for the payment of 50 cents per day to every service man or woman who, at the time of enlistment, was a resident of Nebraska. There will be a maximum clause of $350. No distinction will be made between domestic and foreign service.

The state bonus measure has been before the Nebraska legislature three times. In 1919 the legislators dropped the bonus and passed an emergency relief bill for service men and their families. In 1923 the bill passed the lower house by an overwhelming majority, only to be held in committee in the senate without being reported out for a vote.

An Undergraduate

Mr. Groundling: Here's my apartment. Rather stiff climb—four flights up.

Mr. Winger, the Aviator: Call these flights? Guess you must still be in the ground school.

A Large Order

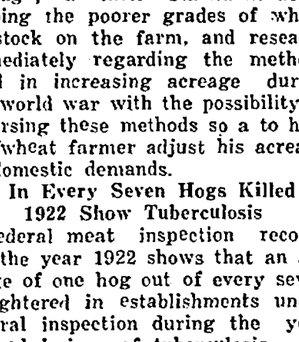
"I want a dress to put on around the house," said the lady in the department store.

"How large is your house, madam?" inquired the new clerk.

So Many of 'Em Are

"So you saw the film version of your story. What do you think of it?"

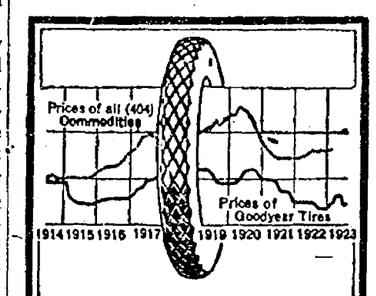
"It's no version; it's a perversion."



KURTZ DAIRY

Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.



THIS chart demonstrates that you get more quality for less money when you buy Goodyear Tires. Goodyears sell today for 37% less than in 1920; 30% less than in 1914. And their quality has been steadily improved; their superiority is beyond question. This is a good time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Kinseth's Store News

Well, the big day is over and everyone we talked with had a good time. So did we, and we are glad the big day went thru so nicely. A good many of you came in to see us, and we were glad to see you, just as we are any day.

—K—

Yes we have blankets today, and if you didn't win one the big day, why come in and get one here. We guarantee every one of them, and if they aren't up to snuff we'll be right here so you can bring them back. All wool, or cotton, or wool nap.

—K—

We have some dandy graham crackers at three pounds for 48c, a special offer. Get yours before they are all gone.

—K—

Matches 5c a box. Canned milk the same.

This week we have pears in bushel lots, just right for canning. They will make fine winter sauce. Do you want us to bring a basket to your house? Call 19.

—K—

Large canned peaches 19c a can.

—K—

All you have to do to make your dollars have more cents is to follow the crowd. You'll see it turning in at the Store on the Corner, the place where you learn to be a wise one and begin a savings account.

—K—

P. S.—We deliver any time anywhere.

—K—

P. S. No. 2—Yes, we have blankets.

A REAL ACROBAT

Some one has said that the politician is a real acrobat, because he can have his ears to the ground, his feet in his mouth, his eyes on his job, and his hands in the pork barrel—all at the same time.

Possibly true of some politicians, but not all. However, there is no politics at our bank. We are simply here for business, trying to meet the needs of this community for an up-to-date bank. One man's money looks as good as another's here, and we try to be courteous to all.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

WILLYS-KNIGHT MAKING RECORD WITH SEALED MOTOR

Miles City, Mont., 8-23-23.

Dear Harry:

Arrived here today after some driving. Horrid roads in South Dakota; good thru North Dakota; fine in Montana.

Monday	139
Tuesday	268
Wednesday	296
Today	248
	951

Average 20 miles to the gallon. Used no water yet. Take the big ones on high, others make it on second and low. They all stop to cool their motor, but its not necessary with "Sir William."

J.S.W.

COME IN AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT IT

Nordschow Motor Company

Belmond, Iowa

To most everybody 30 x 3½ means USCO

NATURALLY USCO'S could hardly have delivered such money's worth—tire after tire—without making a clean sweep.

It's been a pretty performance every time—no two opinions about that.

And no two opinions about what tire to get again after a man has once used USCO.

United States Tires are Good Tires

Where to buy U.S. Tires

Trade Mark

JONES HARNESS CO.

BELMOND, IOWA

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him.

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convinced her she has not the strength, Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI

The Whole Duty of Woman.

Joan waited for Holliwell and, waiting, began inevitably to regain her strength. One evening as Wen Ho was spreading the table, Prosper looked up from his writing to see a tall, gaunt girl clinging to the door-jamb. She was dressed in the heavy clothes, which hung loose upon her long bones, her throat was drawn up to support the sharpened and hollowed face in which her eyes had grown very large and wistful. She was a moving figure, piteous, lovely, rather like some graceful mountain beast, its spirit half-broken by wounds and imprisonment and human tending, but ready to leap into a savagery of flight or of attack. They were wild, those great eyes, as well as wistful. Prosper, looking suddenly up at them, caught his breath. He put down his book as quietly as though she had indeed been a wild, easily startled thing, and, suppressing the impulse to rise, stayed where he was, leaning a trifle forward, his hands on the arms of his chair.

Joan's eyes wandered curiously about the brilliant room and came to him at last. Prosper met them, relaxed, and smiled.

Joan's Eyes Wandered Curiously About the Brilliant Room.

"Come in and dine with me, Joan," he said. "Tell me how you like it."

She felt her way weakly to the second large chair and sat down facing him across the hearth.

"It's right beautiful," said Joan, "an' right strange to me. I never seen anything like it before. That"—her eyes followed Wen Ho's departure half-fearfully—"that man and all."

Prosper laughed delightedly, stretching up his arms in full enjoyment of her splendid ignorance. "The Chinaman? Does he look so strange to you?"

"Is that what he is? I—I didn't know." She smiled rather sadly and shamedly. "I'm awful ignorant, Mr. Gael. I just can read an' I've only read two books." She flushed and her pupils grew large.

Truly, thought Prosper, it was like talking to a grave, trustful, and most impressionable child, the way she sat there, rather on the edge of her chair, her hands folded, letting everything he said disturb and astonish the whole pool of her thought.

At dinner, Prosper, unlike Holliwell, made no attempt to draw Joan into talk, but sipped his wine and watched her, enjoying her composed silence and her slow, graceful movements. Afterward he made a couch for her on the floor before the fire, two skins and a golden cushion, a rug of dull blue which he threw over her, hiding the ugly skirt and boots. He took a violin from the wall and tuned it, Joan watching him with all her eyes.

"I don't like what you're playin' now," she told him, impersonally and gently.

"I'm tuning up."

"Well, sir, I'd be gettin' tired of that if I was you."

"I'm almost done," said Prosper humbly.

He stood up near her feet at the corner of the hearth, tucked the instrument under his chin and played. It was the "Aubade Provencale," and he played it creditably, with fair skill and with some of the wizardry that his nervous vitality gave to everything he did. At the first note Joan started, her pupils enlarged, she lay still. At the end he saw that she was quivering and in tears.

He knelt down beside her, drew the hands from her face. "Why, Joan, what's the matter? Don't you like music?"

Joan drew a shaken breath. "It's as if it shook me in here, something trembles in my heart," she said. "I never heered music before, jest whistlin'." And again she wept.

Prosper stayed there on his knee beside her, his chin in his hand. What an extraordinary being this was, what a magnificent wilderness. The thought of exploration, of discovery, of cultivation, filled him with excitement and delight. Such opportunities are rarely given to a man. Even that other most beautiful adventure—yes, he could think this already!—might have been tame beside this one. He looked long at Joan, long into the fire, and she lay still, with the brooding beauty of that first-heard melody upon her face.

It was the first music she had ever heard, "except whistlin'," but there had been a great deal of "whistlin'" about the cabin up Lone river; whistling of robins in spring—nothing sweeter—the chordlike whistlings of thrush and vireo after sunset, that bubbling "mar-guer-ite" with which the blackbirds woo, and the light diminuendo with which the bluebird caressed the air after an April flight. Perhaps Joan's musical faculty was less untrained than any other. After all, that "Aubade Provencale" was just the melodious story of the woods in spring. Every note linked itself to an emotional, subconscious memory. It filled Joan's heart with the freshness of childhood and pained her only because it struck a spear of delight into her pain. She was eighteen, she had grown like a tree, drinking in sunshine and storm, but rooted to a solitude where very little else but sense-experience could reach her mind. She had seen tragedies of animal life, lonely death-struggles, horrible flights and more horrible captures, she had seen joyous woolings, love-pinings, partings, and bereavements. She knew that the sun shone on the evil and on the good, but she knew also that frost fell upon the good as well as upon the evil, nor was the evil to be readily distinguished. Her father prated of only one offense, her mother's sin. Joan knew that it was a man's right to kill his woman for "dealin's with another man." This law was human; it evidently did not hold good with animals. There was no bitterness, though some ferocity, in the traffic of their loves.

While she pondered through the first sleepless nights in this strange shelter of hers, and while the blizzard Prosper had counted on drove bayoneted battalions of snow across the plains and forced them, screaming like madmen, along the narrow canyon, Joan came slowly and fully to a realization of the motive of Pierre's deed. He had been jealous. He had thought that she was having dealings with another man. She grew hot and shamed. It was her father's sin, that branding on her shoulder, or, perhaps, going back farther, her mother's sin. Carver had warned Pierre—of the hot and smothered heart—to beware of Joan's "lookin' an' lookin' at another man." Now, in piteous woman fashion, Joan went over and over her memories of Pierre's love, altering them to fit her terrible experience. She was still held by all the strong mesh of her short married life. She had simply not got as far as Prosper Gael. She accepted his hospitality vaguely, himself even more vaguely. When she would be done with her passionate grief, her laborious going-over of the past, her active and tormenting anger with the lover whom Prosper had told her was dead, then it would be time to study this other man. As for her future, she had no plans at all. Joan's life came to her as it comes to a child, unsullied by curiosity. At this time Prosper was infinitely the more curious, the more excited of the two.

CHAPTER XII

A Matter of Taste.

"What are you writin' so hard for, Mr. Gael?" Joan voiced the question wistfully on the height of a long breath. She drew it from a silence which seemed to her to have filled this strange, gay house for an eternity. For the first time full awareness of the present cut a rift in the troubled cloudiness of her introspection.

At once Prosper's hand laid down its pencil and he turned about in his chair and gave her a gleaming look and smile. Joan was fairly startled. It was as if she had touched some mysterious spring and turned on a dazzling, unexpected light. As a matter of fact, Prosper's heart had leapt at her wistful and beseeching voice.

He had been biding his time. He had absorbed himself in writing, content to leave in suspense the training of his enchanted leopardess. Half-absent glimpses of her desolate beauty as she moved about his winter-bound house, contemplation of her unself-consciousness as she companioned his meals, the pleasure he felt in her rapt listening to his music in the still, frost-held evenings by the fire—these he had made enough. They quieted his restlessness, soothed the ache of his heart, filled him with a warm and patient desire, different from any feeling he had yet experienced. He was amused by her lack of interest in him. She evidently accepted him as a superior being, a Providence; he was not a man at all, not of the same clay as Pierre and herself. Prosper had waited understandingly enough for her first move. When the personal question came, it made a sort of crash in the expectant silence of his heart.

Before answering, except by that smile, he lit himself a cigarette; then, strolling to the fire, he sat on the rug below her, drawing his knees up into his hands.

"I'd like to tell you about my writing, Joan. After all, it's the great interest of my life, and I've been fairly seething with it; only I didn't want to bother you, worry your poor, distracted head. There's more in life than you've dreamed of experiencing. There's music, for one thing, and there are books and beauty of a thousand kinds, and big, wonderful thoughts, and there's companionship and talk. What larks we could have, you and I, if you would care—I mean, if you would wake up and let me show you how. You do want to learn a woman's work, don't you, Joan?"

She shook her head slowly, smiling wistfully. "I'm so awful ignorant, you know so awful much. It scares me, plumb scares me, to think how much you know, more than Mr. Holliwell! Such books an' books an' books! An' writin', too. You see I'd be no help nor company fer you. I'd like to listen to you. I'd listen all day long, but I'd not be understandin'."

He laughed at her. Joan's pride was stung.

"You've no right to laugh at me," she said. "I'd not be carin' what you think." And she left him, moving like an angry stag, head high, light-stepping.

Before dinner he rapped at her door. "Joan, will you do me a favor?"

A pause, then in her sweet vibrant voice she answered. "I'd be doin' anything fer you, Mr. Gael."

"Then put on these things for dinner instead of your own clothes, will you?"

She opened the door and he piled into her arms a mass of shining silk, on top of it a pair of gorgeous Chinese slippers.

"Do it to please me, even if you think it makes you look queer, will you, Joan?"

"Of course," she smiled, looking up from the gleaming, sliding stuff into his face. "I'd like to, anyway. Dressing up—that's fun."

And she shut the door.

Continued next week.

Ears Probably Closed Also.

Mrs. Judd—Science tells us now that we hear much better with our eyes closed.

Mr. Judd—Yes. I noticed quite a number trying the experiment last Sunday evening in church.

Brainless Bertie.

Daughter—But papa, don't you think Bertie is old enough to know his own mind?

Father—He ought to get acquainted with what little he has in no time at all.

Your Opportunity

THIS is your opportunity to place a New 1923 Model Great Majestic Range in your kitchen at a real bargain.
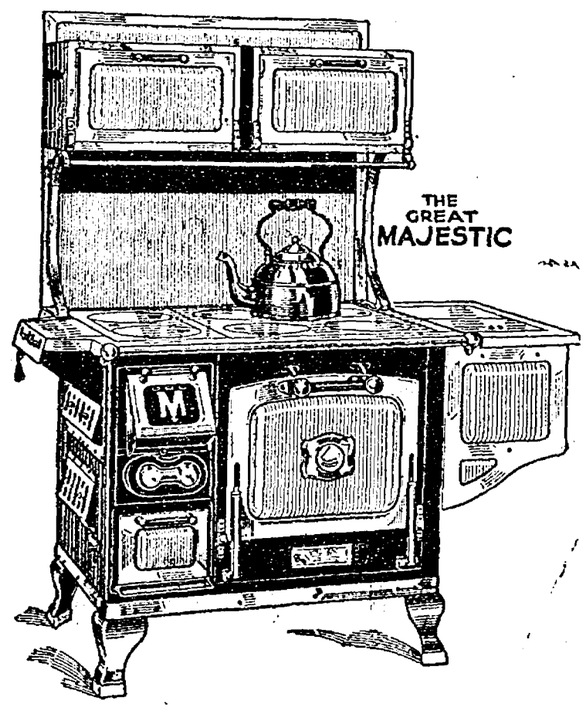
By all means don't fail to see the NEW MODEL MAJESTIC. It's the last word in modern range construction. Many, many improvements have been added to this already famous range and its graceful stream line beauty will please you immensely. Make it your business to drop in our store at least one day during our

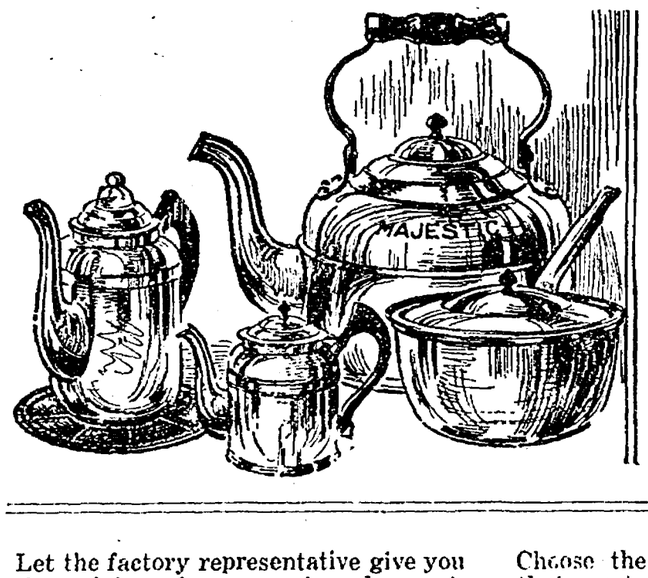


Special Exhibit and Sale of GREAT MAJESTIC RANGES

ONE WEEK ONLY!

September 10th to 15th

Ask your friends and neighbors to come with you—we are so delighted with the New Model MAJESTIC that we want everyone to see it. Come whether you buy or not. Let the factory representative, who will be with us all week, show you just how the MAJESTIC is made—inside and outside—show you the true reasons why this wonderful range performs, looks and lasts so much longer than other ranges.



FREE--During This Exhibit Only!

Look at this fine set of cooking utensils! This set may be yours absolutely without cost, just for deciding to buy your Great Majestic Range this week instead of later.

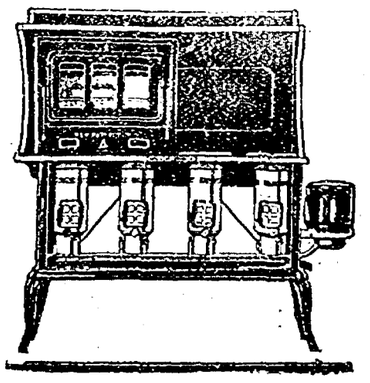
It is of pure heavy copper highly polished and of exquisite design. Every woman falls in love with it on sight—don't fail to drop in and see it.

As a further inducement to visit our store during Sale Week, we will give a 15 per cent Cash Discount on all New Perfection and Superbex Oil Ranges sold from Sept. 10th to 15th.

Let the factory representative give you the opinion of an experienced expert. He will show you the many features of the new MAJESTIC that have gained for it the proud position of being the most dependable and beautiful range in America.

Reputation in a range is something to be carefully considered before buying, for reputation is made up of tests successfully passed.

Choose the style of new MAJESTIC that meets your individual need and preference, the practical, durable economic and matchless cooking qualities that have always distinguished the MAJESTIC ranges are the same in every type. In addition to its superior working qualities, the new MAJESTIC by its handsome design and graceful artistic appearance, gives a touch of beauty to any kitchen. It is not only the best range to work with, it is the best to live with.



CATO C. GRIESY

Belmond, Iowa

MESERVEY SECTION

We have bought our coal. How many tons do you need? See Meservey Shipping Association. 42tfc

Ben Vierkant and children, accompanied by J. D. Bohman, attended the fair at Des Moines last week.

Choice of Two Evils.

Mr. Crabshaw—What is that horrible smell?

Mrs. Crabshaw—It's either the cook singeing the chicken or daughter smoking her favorite brand of cigarretts.

OUR MOTTO—"QUALITY FIRST"

Vacation Days Are Over

And...

School Days Are Here

We have everything to make up delicious school lunches.

Our New Fall Goods are arriving daily. Look our stock over before investing elsewhere.

Try a pound of our new H. M. C. brand of coffee. You will be pleased with the price as well as the blend.

Groceries always fresh and clean.

Bring us your Poultry and Eggs.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller. Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

TIRES

If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

Why You Need a Checking Account--

Because you have an absolutely secure place to keep your surplus cash

Because it is safer and more convenient for you to pay by check.

Because you have a receipt for every payment you make.

Because you always have the exact change necessary.

Come and talk it over with us.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

C.G.W. Agrees To Put In Crossing

The representatives of the C. G. W. railroad were in Meservey on Monday of this week, meeting with the town council. As a result of the meeting we are informed that Meservey is to have a crossing over the C. G. W. tracks on Third street.

This is a much needed improvement and will be of benefit to all. The council deserves credit for being instrumental in bringing this about. We understand that work will begin at once to remove the tool house and box car from Third street, and no doubt we will soon be able to cross there.

Fees in Prospect.

"Was your church bazaar asuccess dear?"

"Yes, indeed. The minister will have a cause to be grateful."

"What were the profits?"

"Oh, there were'nt any. In fact the expenses were greater than the receipts. But ten of us girls got engaged."

The Rod in Pickle.

"I am thankful to my dear friend, the policeman, for saving me from getting into further trouble," observed a man charged at Thames police court.

Magistrate—If your're married the real trouble will start when you get home.

Considering Health

"You insist on shaking hands with as many of your constituents as possible?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "Campaigning interrupts my golf and I need the physical exercise."—Washington Star.

Special for Saturday

PICNIC HAMS per lb. ..... 17c!

We have the best butter on hand.

We buy Cream

We Deliver Threshing Meat

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

NEW BIBLE TO BE PUBLISHED SOON

Chicago—A bible, translated into the colloquial tongue of the "average American," will soon be off the press.

The work has just been completed by Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, chairman of the University of Chicago.

British forms of expression, such as "husbandman" for "farmer" have been eliminated in the translation made from the original Greeks.

Grammatical researches and papyrus discoveries, Dr. Goodspeed said, have fully established that the New Testament was written in the common everyday language of the times of the Apostles.

"I have taken advantage of these advances," Dr. Goodspeed said, "and endeavored to produce a translation of the new testament which will have a little more of the ease, clearness and force than I have found in the current versions.

"I have undertaken to determine what each writer of the New Testament meant to say and then I have tried to express this in the simplest and most vigorous English of the same kind as the Greek of the original.

"I have tried to eliminate British forms of expression and to use only words intelligible to the American ear."

An example of the Goodspeed version, as it will probably be shown to biblical scholars, follows in the translation of the miracle of the fishes.

"The disciples said unto Him, "Where can we get bread enough in this solitude to feed such a crowd?"

Jesus said on to them, 'How many loaves have you?'

"They said, 'Seven and a few small fish.'

"Then he ordered the people to take their places on the ground, and He took the seven loaves and the fish and gave thanks and gave them to His disciples and the disciples gave them to the people. And they all ate and satisfied their hunger. And the pieces that were left that they picked up filled seven baskets. There were 4,000 men that were fed, besides women and children. And He dismissed the people and got into the boat and went to the district of Magadan."

Dr. Goodspeed devoted three and a half years to his translation of the New Testament which probably will be ready for circulation about December 1.

USELESS

"I had to be away from school yesterday," said Tommy.

"You must bring an excuse," said the teacher.

"Who from?"

"Your father."

"He ain't no good makin' excuses. Ma catches him every time."

Yesterday is dead—forget it; tomorrow doesn't exist—don't worry; today is here—use it!

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone—Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Owing to bad weather conditions last week our stores were not closed on Labor Day, as our merchants had planned.

Our school teachers were in Mason City, Monday and Tuesday, attending institute.

H. Proost and family returned on Monday from Des Moines, where they had been during the state fair. Mr. Proost was exhibiting the hog door patented by Henry H. Pals. Mr. Proost reports a number of sales on the grounds with prospects for future sales.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ostendorf and Mr. and Mrs. S. Hulsebus returned from a week's visit with friends and relatives at Aplington and Ackley last Monday.

Mrs. H. Heitland and daughter, Arlene, accompanied by Miss Alice Kuhlers, went to Mason City last Thursday where Arlene had her tonsils removed. Alice returned the same day, the others remaining until the day following.

The Misses Tillie and Ollie Pals were Mason City callers last Thursday.

Mrs. Jim Wilson and children of Rockford, and Mrs. Wm. Hartwig of Thornton visited at the Ralph Waddingham home several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barger returned from their Chicago motor trip on Saturday. They report heavy roads a good share of the way.

The Cemetery society will meet at the home of Mrs. Carl Quandt next Tuesday p. m., Sept. 11.

Geo. Sundlinger of Ft. Dodge came last Sunday to visit until Monday p. m. at the Unferferth home, when he returned, accompanied by his children and Mrs. Unferfeth who will visit them a few days.

Mrs. Joe Meci of Ft. Dodge came Sunday to remain until Monday at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Raecker. The family are moving to Cedar Rapids, she and her daughters going to that place from here on Monday p. m.

Walter Fischer and family of Mason City were visitors at the Simon Fischer home last Monday.

Mrs. Inez Kinney of Mason City was in town Monday in the interest of W. C. T. U. work. She spoke to a few members of the Union in the morning, on "Americanization and Citizenship," of which department she is the supt.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nissen and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hartfelder were Clear Lake callers Monday.

Mrs. Lambert Pals and daughter Miss Ollie left last Monday for a visit with friends and relatives at Little Rock.

Meservey is not dead yet, in fact things are moving fast. A. J. Nissen reports the sale of three houses last week. The Jone property was sold to Paul Henkey, the Burlingame place to H. Fischer, and Heiko Kuhlers invested in the Lauster property.

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

1st and 2nd Grades—Our last year butterflies have become "blue birds." They are Jane Shepherd, Jens Olson, Anita Herman, Ardell Nissen, Arlo Paul, Arthur Koenen, Ruth Enabnit, Kenneth Sprau, Marcele Waddingham, Gladys Mae Fischer, Avery Bier Gladys Strausburg, Ivan Langlitz, Ruth Prilipp, Florence Gruis, Glen Janssen, and Ruth Schlesselman.

The 16 "Butterflies" are Francia Alene Bier, Marvin Prilipp, George Fry, Iva Mae Pals, Theodore Dirks, Eleanore Leone Muller, Mae Elizabeth Strausburg, Ruth Pals, Elmer Messelheiser, Hiene Winters, Russel Wenzell, Harold Riekens, Myron Pals, Byron Blewett, Jacob Krass, and Grace Henriette Barkema.

Marvin Prelipp had a tooth that was quite painful Friday afternoon.

Florence helped sing at a mission feast Wednesday.

Thursday, Russel Wenzel helped celebrate at Belmond.

Elmer Messelheiser was the only one to be tardy this week.

4th and 5th Grades—We are 32 in number this fall, 15 in grade 5 and 17 in grade 6.

Naomi Schelesselman was not with us the first few days on account of her visit to Cedar Falls.

Leona Koenen, Naomi Schlesselman, Arne Winthers, Mildred Janssen, Wayne Waddingham, Emma Boelman, Edna Koenen and Grace Meints are our perfect spellers this week.

Fredona Lemke and Gwethalyn Wenzel left us to enjoy Thursday at Belmond.

Thora Sprau's eyes have made it necessary for her to stay at home on Friday.

The 6th grade is taking a peep into ancient history this week.

Jennie Riekens has been chosen to beat the triangle this year.

Fredona Lemke plays the march for us at recess time.

7th and 8th Grades—We have 23 now enrolled in the 7th and 8th, 12 of whom are in the 8th and the remainder—11—in the 7th.

Those in attendance here who have not been here before are Kathrine Krass and Walter Lauster in the 8th and Marie Krass in the 7th grade.

Already the school spirit has grown in the work in our grades. We are sure that thru the efforts put forth and co-operation that we will progress very nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sprau and family, and Mrs. Sprau's sister, of Farmer City, Ill., arrived last week for a visit at the F. C. Sprau home.

Mrs. Joe West and baby left on Tuesday for Madelia, Minn., to visit friends and relatives for a week or 10 days.

C. J. Wendell and wife and A. J. Nissen were Mason City business visitors last Tuesday p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Reif and Irv. Langlitz returned from the state fair last Thursday. They report a pleasant time in spite of the hard rains. We were beginning to wish for Heinie's return, for our men were wearing more face covering than was necessary for good looks.

For Sale—Spotted Poland Male pigs. Sired by Victor's Advancer No. 75027. If you want the heavy bone with plenty of length, we have them.—P. H. Pals & Sons. 41tf

For...

Quality Lumber

And All Kinds of

Building Material

See Us and Save Money

Try some of our Tennesee Block Coal

It Will Please You.

Better put in that Iowa Automatic Hog House Door now in your hog house. You will like it.

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

CARLOAD OF

Woven Wire

Barb Wire

- And -

Nails

IN SOON!

See us for prices before buying somewhere else.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1923 | NO. 43

Early Morning Fire Burns Four Garages

Garages At Lynch, Parsons, Norby And Martin Places Are Destroyed

DAMAGE PLACED AT $5,000

Fire originating in the garage at the Fred Lynch residence about 3:45 yesterday morning, destroyed four private garages.

The blaze was first noticed by H. G. Nordschow. He called Ned Packard, asking him to look and see for certain whether there was a fire. Mrs. Packard looked, and immediately saw the blaze and said so. Nordschow then called the central office to turn in the alarm.

It was some time before the siren could be sounded and the fire company brought to the scene. The fire was beyond controll, the flames shooting out and catching the L. R. Parsons garage, then the garage on the Ward Martin property across the alley, and then the garage on the Norby property. All four were destroyed. Dr. Parsons managed to get his car out, and Fred Lynch got out his Dodge car, but his Ford was destroyed. Dr. Parsons brother, who resides at Vincent, had his Reo coupe in the Lynch garage, and this was burned. The water pressure failed, just as it did in the big fire last spring, and the fire company could only play a weak stream on the blaze. Fortunately there was not a breath of wind and the sparks did not carry far. Had there been a heavy wind nothing could have saved the south part of town from total destruction.

The loss is estimated at $5,000. At this writing the amount of insurance carried on the buildings and cars is not known.

DRAFT THE NATION

Viewed in the retrospect we see more clearly than ever the sordid side of war. I have said before, and I choose to repeat it very deliberately now, that if war must come again—God grant that it shall not!—then we must draft all of the nation in carrying on. It is not enough to draft the young manhood. It is not enough to accept the voluntary service of both women and men whose patriotic devotion impels their enlistment. It will be righteous and just, it will be more effective in war and marked by less regret in the aftermath, if we draft all of the capital, all of industry, all of agriculture, all of commerce, all of talent and capacity and energy of every description to make the supreme and united and unselfish fight for the national triumph. When we do that there will be less of war. When we do that the contest will be aglow with unsullied patriotism, untouched by profiteering in any service.—Warren G. Harding.

BELMOND MEN PLEAD GUILTY IN CERRO GORDO COURT

The Mason City Globe Gazette had the following article Saturday, September 1, under a Clear Lake head:

A fine of $300 was given R. O. Coulson and T. H. Galagher of Belmond by D. H. Campbell, justice of the peace here, Friday afternoon when the men plead guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated but the local authorities were informed by County Attorney Butler that such a fine was not valid and the Belmond men were bound over to await action by the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $1,200 each and with Deputy Sheriff John Furst, the two went to Belmond this forenoon to try to raise the bond.

Arrest of the two was made on an information filed against them by the Rev. N. O. Peterson, pastor of the Zion English Lutheran church here after they had smashed into his car on the highway between Clear Lake and Mason City Thursday night about midnight, damaging to a great extent the preacher's Nash and demolishing their own Ford coupe. A jug of alcohol was found in the car which the owner of the car could not account for.

Mr. Peterson is holding the ruins of the Ford coupe until the damages to his car are paid for.

On Wednesday, Sept. 5, the Globe Gazette said:

T. H. Gallagher and R. V. Coulson pleaded guilty to being intoxicated while operating an automobile, before District Judge C. H. Kelley this morning, and were fined $300 each. Harry Curvo represented the defendants, while the County Attorney appeared for the state.

SOLDIERS MAY COME THRU BELMOND AGAIN SOON

The men of the Third U. S. Infantry, who marched thru Belmond this summer enroute from Ft. Snelling to Des Moines, may come thru here again in the near future on their way back to Ft. Snelling. Wm. Chase, who has been at Fort Des Des Moines, states that the officers are making up their route, and that the report there is they will return thru Belmond. "Bill" says the men are all anxious to come thru here, remembering the treatment they received before. They did not know Chase was from Belmond, and he heard them talking of their reception. The men of the Third say that they were treated the best in Belmond of any place on their march.

SHEFFIELD MAN GIVEN YEAR FOR DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Judge Clock, in court at Hampton last week, sentenced Roy Done, of Hampton, to one year in the state reformatory at Anamosa for driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. Done was arrested at Sheffield the night of the creamery day celebration there, for driving while drunk. He was arraigned before a justice of the peace, where he plead guilty in the preliminary hearing. Judge Clock then finished the case in the district court. The sentence is the limit.

CHILD KILLED AT BRITT FAIR

Marie Medlin, two years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Medlin, farmers near Hayfield, was run over by a truck loaded with watermelons at the Hancock county fair at Britt. The little girl died half an hour later in the office of a doctor. She, with some sisters, was watching the races and leaning against the truck when the driver backed up. He did not see her in time, and one wheel passed over her body, resulting in fatal internal injuries.

GRAVEL ROADS FIRST

Marshall county is now going to pave. Franklin county is going to have graveled roads all over the county first, then she may pave the Jefferson highway, if it proves to be the case that gravel does not stand up on a highway that is traveled extensively. Any county can gravel most of its roads and have them paid for within five years, while with paving only a small per cent of the roads could be paved and it will take fifteen years or more to pay for even that small per cent of paved roads.

Marshall county, like lots of other counties in the state, has been going in mud roads for years, while Franklin county got busy and began its gravel system, and now has an excellent system of graveled roads. All of the so-called main roads have been drained, graded and graveled, with a few exceptions where the finishing of the gravelling is now being completed, and by the middle of September no county in the state will surpass Franklin county in the matter of good roads, an few will equal it.—Hampton Chronicle.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Thursday evening the Dorcas society meets at the home of Mrs. Ralph Forrestal.

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the Class meets at the church.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Parents please send children and return all Sunday school books in possesion, as new pupils will use them.

Sunday morning Missionary Halvorson will preach a mission sermon at 11 o'clock. Remember this is our annual mission day. Let us cheerfully raise our part of the budget. We can do it. Let us do it and be alert in doing it.

Sunday evening service again. Announcement at the morning service.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Class meets Saturday at 2 o'clock at the church.

Sunday morning Missionary Tverberg will preach the mission sermon in the Norwegian language. Let us bear in mind that this is our annual mission day. Come and offer of those material gifts to the cause of God. We are requested to contribute our share to the Synodical budget. We have not failed and we are not going to fall short this year. Ask God's blessing upon the service so that hands and hearts may be open to the Lord. Possibly afternoon service. Announcement at the morning service.

"Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You know what you are doing, but nobody else does."

CLOUDS

by Grace E. Hall

Beneath the tree-boughs, interlaced and green,
I've lain in full abandonment to thought,
Watching the gray clouds drifting in between
The outstretched arms above; and deftly wrought
As on fine canvases, great pictures grew
There on the mammoth roof of curving skies,
And moved majestically across the blue,
A thrilling revelation and surprise.

One picture was so wonderful and fine
I shrink from marring it with faulty pen,
But since the art was so completely mine,
I long to share it: It was sunset then,
And in a bank of gray an altar stood,
A perfect thing with every line complete,
And kneeling there, as vestal virgins would,
Three angels bowed before the mercy-seat.

Far from the West the sun cast one last ray
Across the space, and sank to its repose;
And from that matchless altar done in gray
The three forms gently, reverently arose;
And then, their evening prayers so sweetly said,
The altar, broken, drifted slowly o'er,
The sunset turned the virgins' robes to red—
I looked—and lo! the angels were no more.

Copyright, Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc.

Soldiers To Be Here Next Wednesday

Troop "G" Of Cavalry To Be In Belmond—Ball Game And Drill Probable.

ENROUTE TO DES MOINES

Troop "G", 14th U. S. Cavalry, will be in Belmond next week Wednesday, Sept. 19. The troop consists of 63 men and three officers, with 64 horses, nine mules and three wagons. Mayor Sullivan was in receipt of the following letter Tuesday:

Fort Snelling, Minn., Sept. 5, 1923.
The Hon. Mayor,
Belmond, Iowa.
Dear Sir:

Troop "G", 14th Cavalry, returning to Fort Des Moines, Iowa, from Fort Snelling, Minnesota, will arrive in your city September 19th. The troop consists of 63 men, and 3 officers, and has 64 horses, 9 mules and three wagons.

Would request that you make arrangements for a suitable camp site that is accesible to water, firewood, and wheel transportation.

The troop has a good baseball team and would be glad to arrange a game with your local team. An officer of the troop will call on you before the arrival of the troop.

We will be very glad to have anyone interested inspect the troop during our stay in your city.

Very truly yours,
Orland S. Peabody,
Captain, 14th. Cavalry.

Mayor Sullivan has arranged for the troop to camp the same place the Third Infantry did this summer. A ball game has been arranged for Wednesday afternoon, and it is hoped that a mounted drill will be put on by the cavalry. An admission of ten cents will be charged to the ball game to cover expenses.

It is hoped that the cavalry will be given the same good reception that was awarded the infantry, and to do that, the call is issued for one dozen dressed spring chickens, and one dozen home-made pies. Will anyone who desires to donate a chicken or a pie, please call the Independent, and send their offering to the Independent office Wednesday forenoon before 10:30. The reception is a volunteer affair, and it is hoped that all citizens will co-operate.

Please list your help at the Independent office early.

BAILEY GETS CONTRACT

E. F. Bailey, of Belmond, was awarded the contract for graveling four miles of main highway entering Clarion, at a special meeting of the city council of that place last week. The contract price was $1155 per cubic yard. The work is to be completed by November 1st. The hauling part of the job was let to Clarion men.

Ku Klux Klan Burn Cross Here Tues. Eve.

Alleged Sign Of Ku Klux Viewed By Many Belmond People At Nine-Thirty.

CROSS AT GOODELL ALSO

A firey cross, supposed to have been placed by the Ku Klux Klan, was burned in Belmond at 9:30 on Tuesday evening.

The cross was burned in the Henry Groen pasture on the hill west of the river, and was plainly visible from town. Numerous Belmond citizens, attracted by the blaze, witnessed the burning from the fiver bridge.

Rumor Wednesday had it that a lodge of the Klan was organized in Belmond. It was stated that a five-foot cross, which this one was said to be, meant that there were fifty members in the town. Considerable excitement over the burning of the cross was in evidence.

Residents of Goodell were awakened last Tuesday night, about midnight, by a heavy explosion, and upon venturing out to ascertain the cause, were greeted by a firey cross, the sign of the Ku Klux Klan, blazing in the Ness pasture at the west edge of the town.

Whether the burning cross was the result of an initiation of Klan members, or merely a sign that the Klan holds forth in Goodell, is a matter of conjecture. Residents of the town have been talking of little else since. It is said that several members were taken into the Klan that night, from Goodell, and that they are known by many residents.

Business Places Painted Yellow

Wednesday night three business places of Goodell were given a coat of yellow paint, it is presumed by anti-Klan sympathizers. At the same time, an effigy was hung to a tree in the vacant lots on the north side of the main street, with anti-Klan warnings attached. A cross, made from two steel fence posts, and bearing more anti-Klan warnings, was erected beside the effigy.

Klan Active In Hancock County

The K. K. K. appears to be quite active in Hancock county. A page ad in a Britt newspaper recently created much comment, and it is claimed there are numerous members there and at Garner. Ex-Chaplain Tom Roberts, of Sheffield, was scheduled to give a free lecture on the principles of the Klan, at Kanawha, last week Friday evening. This lecture was advertised in a quarter-page ad in the Klemme Times, at which place more members are thot to reside.

Mrs. L. R. Parsons entertained the Kensington club last week Wednesday.

EAGLE GROVE POKER PLAYERS HELP GRAVEL CITY STREETS

Eight Eagle Grove men were busily engaged in raising the ante and endeavoring to fill a flush recently, when the limb of the law fell on them. His honor the mayor, who was short on his graveling fund, set in the deal, raised their ante, and after betting each one of the eight $13.50, called their hands, and the city now has $108.00 more to gravel with.

MURIEL LUCILLE HILL

Muriel Lucille Hill, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hill, was born Friday, Aug. 15, 1919, and died at the Lutheran hospital at Hampton, Friday, Sept. 7, 1923. Death was caused by ether pneumonia, following an operation for the removal of a pin from her stomach.

A day or two previous the little one swallowed a pin, which lodged in her throat. She was taken to the hospital, and an operation performed to remove it. The pin had fallen to the stomach, and pneumonia setting in caused her death.

She was beptized at the hospital the day of her death. Little Muriel had a most sweet and loveable disposition, which made her loved by all who knew her, and the whole neighborhood mourns with the grief stricken parents. Altho but four years old she dearly loved to go to Sunday school and rarely missed a Sunday. The parents and little brothers and sister have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends. Funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Wilkinson of the M. E. church having charge. The banks of beautiful flowers surrounding the little white casket gave mute testimony of the friends that loved her.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this manner to thank our friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness and sympathy and the beautiful floral offerings in the loss of our beloved little daughter. Such acts as these can never be forgotten.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hill and family.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE IS HELD AT GOODELL

Last Sunday was an ideal day for the Institute. Four schools were represented: Liberty, Klemme German M. E., Klemme English M. E., and the U. B. Goodell schools. S. C. Pollock, county Sunday school president, was the first speaker. He impressed on us that one of the good reasons for doing Sunday school work is the good the individual and the community gets out of the Sunday school. What kind of a moral atmosphere would a community have if there were no Sunday schools? Mr. Hutton, state worker, spoke in the morning on the conditions of the times. In the afternoon he took up some of the Sunday school problems. Inspiring music was furnished by the Liberty and Klemme German M. E. and the U. B. Goodell choirs. Many brought lunches and remained thruout the day. About 60 had dinner in the church dining room. The attendance was close to 200.—Goodell Corres.

THE LONGLEY TWINS

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Longley are the proud parents of bouncing twin boys which arrived last Friday. Mr. Cuppett of the firm of Cuppett & Longley, has a pair of twin girls, thinks they should change the name from the Cuppett & Longley Garage to "The Twin Garage—a very appropriate name. Instances of this kind are very rare.—Dows Advocate.

ROCK ISLAND TAKES OFF BOTH PASSENGER TRAINS

According to the "dope" as given in last week's Independent, the Rock Island officials removed the morning and evening passengers from the Dows-Estherville branch Monday of this week. The Klondike has been made over to a passenger, by the addition of a coach. Only a few minutes difference in time was made on the schedule. This move leaves us without any connections with the north and south mails except on the Great Western, that amounts to anything. Local opion defines the move as foolish, and worse. The loss in revenue will offset any saving which the removal of the trains may make. Doubtless the service will eventually be restored, but meanwhile Belmond people should remember the change and govern their mail accordingly.

RUDY QUANDT NIGHTWATCH

Mayor Sullivan last week appointed Rudy Quandt as nightwatch, and that gentleman has been on the service the past week. He takes the place of Pat Dillon, who resigned the first of last week.

Chamber Of Commerce Will Be Organized

Business Men Requested To Be At Library Tonight At Seven-Thirty O'Clock.

GARNER MAN TO SPEAK

A meeting of the business men and farmers of Belmond and vicinity will be held at the library basement tonight, Thursday, at 7:30, for the purpose of organizing a Chamber of Commerce.

C. R. Conway, president of the Garner Chamber of Commerce, will be here to address the audience on the organization, work and success of the Garner club. Mr. Conway is manager of the Farmers Co-operative Creamery at Garner and is one of the most successful business men of that city. His talk will be of interest to all.

All business men, and every farmer interested, is requested to attend the meeting and assist in establishing a live community organization in Belmond.

EMERGENCY DISASTER APPEAL FROM THE RED CROSS

Des Moines, Iowa, September 13, Special:

Iowa's formal call to come to the rescue in "one of the greatest catastrophies in all the world's history" was sent out this morning to every county in the state by Judge Hubert Utterback, chairman of the Iowa State Council of Red Cross chapters.

Iowa is asked to contribute $80,000 to the national fund of $5,000,000 for the Japanese disaster. The fund will be administered by the American Red Cross. Speed is the prime requisite, Judge Utterback points out, if the suffering of the hundreds of thousands affected by the terrible disaster is not to be multiplied many times over. Two to four times as many people lost their lives in a single day in the Japanese disaster as America suffered during the entire war, he says.

"The Red Cross, being on the ground in Japan, has thrown its entire resources into the tremendous rescue work to be done." Judge Utterback's statement declares. "Words cannot picture the terrible situation that exists in these islands. None of us really know all that is to be told. We can say, however, that the Red Cross is on the job as always, and that it needs the backing of every man and woman to carry out this colossal work."

Funds in each county are to be raised by the Red Cross chapters, the American Legion, the newspapers, churches, and special organizations.

AN "IOWA" WHEAT FIELD

From Odebolt, Sac county comes the report that 1,000 acres of wheat were grown this season on the Adams farm near that town. This farm consists of eleven sections of land, a total of 7,040 acres. The 1,000 acres of wheat averaged 35 bushels to the acre. Several thousand acres of oats are grown every season. Threshing outfits belong to the farm management. Corn is grown on a large scale, an entire section of land forming an unbroken field. Houses, for tenants present the appearance of a town. A large hospital is maintained on the premises. Motive power for farm operations is provided by tractors and mules.

CEDAR RAPIDS BOOSTERS VISIT US WEDNESDAY

The special train of Cedar Rapids boosters, consisting mostly of wholesalers in various lines, were in Belmond yesterday morning with their band and paid the local businessmen a good-will visit. The band rendered several selections on Main street, and Belmond is perfectly willing to admit that the booters had a good band. The visit of the Cedar Rapids men was much enjoyed. such affairs being creative of valuable good will.

MRS. ANNA THOMPSON DIES

Mrs. Anna Thompson, mother of Rich and Honus Thompson, died at the home of her son here Monday. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the house, Rev. Wilkinson in charge. An obituary will appear next week.

Many Belmonders were out with a smoked glass Tuesday to view the eclipse of the sun. About one-quarter of the sun was covered here.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

WHITE MULE VS. GASOLINE

Times change, and conditions with them. What might have been common 50 years ago may be criminal today. New conditions require new measures to meet. One of these is the recent state law making it a criminal offense to operate a motor-driven vehicle while in an intoxicated condition.

Fifty years ago if the driver of a horse became soused, old Dobbin was pretty apt to plod along home with him safely. The horse often had more sense than its driver. But today old Dobbin munches peacefully in the back pasture, and a firey steed, feeding on high-power gasoline, tears up the highway at a frightful speed, instead. The driver of the olden days did not need to be able to see the road; the modern driver, if he leans back to snooze, or should his eyesight become blurred, lands in the ditch, if he does not ram into and wreck, or possibly injure and kill, a fellow driver.

Of all the laws placed on the statue books of Iowa, the law against the drunken auto driver is one of the wisest and best. There are enough fools driving high-powered cars today without adding the menace of the soused chauffeur. The sober fool may see you and avoid you; the tank may see two or three of you, and in trying to avoid one of you, hit the other one of you.

Driving an automobile on the public highway nowadays calls for steady nerves and watchful eyes. The chance of safety is large. But in meeting an intoxicated driver, whether he be going slow or fast, you must take your life in your hands. He may miss you, or he may hit you. You can do nothing about it to help yourself. You do not know which way he is going. Neither does he.

Booze and gasoline will not mix. One or the other must go. And the times have decreed the going of John Barleycorn.

THE FREE PRESS

Henry Ford, in a recent issue of his Dearborn Independent, says the "editorial mind" of the public press is gone. The big corporations, he claims, find it increasingly easier to secure free publicity, "thanks to the disappearance of the editorial mind."

Ford, to a large extent, is right, but not altogether right. The editorial mind of the public press has disappeared to a large extent, but not entirely. There's a reason. In the ordinary small town newspaper office the editor usually must be printer, pressman, reporter, proof reader, editor and office boy. He has not the time to hold up the editorial end of the buiness as it should be.

Running a newspaper today is a business, first and last. It has to be. If it were not so conducted it would not last long. Money nowadays is what makes the wheels go 'round, and only by keeping the wheels going can a newspaper succeed. The most valuable asset of any community is its newspaper. By that, more than by any other thing, is a town judged. It is the modern way of spreading knowledge; it has taken the place of the old town crier. To the extent that a community supports its newspaper will the success and standing of that community be measured.

And because of this, has the editorial mind of many modern newspapers deteriorated. The average small town editor has his policies and his editorials—one might almost say his business—more or less controlled and dictated by his advertisers. This is not right nor just; it is neither fair to the advertiser nor the editor. The press should be free. And be it said to the credit of the fraternity that there are many who are not, and will not be, controlled.

If Henry Ford knew the thousands of tons of "free publicity" that goes in the waste baskets every week, he would not be so certain big business is in the saddle and riding the neck of the press. And all over the country every day it is becoming more and more difficult for the kind-hearted corporations to use the columns of the press without paying the honest space rates therefore. Some weak brethern, more or less lazy, or to save expense, have used the "free" stuff sent them, but they are learning that this free material is in the end the most expensive thing they can print.

The "editorial mind" has not entirely disappeared, and Ford will be considerably surprised at the fact if he ever makes the race for president. There are many left among the ranks who will run their business to suit themselves, and leave their stand to be judged by the supreme court of public opinion. The editor who does that is bound to win in the end, because above all else the American people believe in fair play. The editor who aims to make his paper a true servant of the people will endeavor to feel the public pulse, and to lead his community always toward the better things of life. He will not permit either himself or his paper to be controlled, but will endeavor faithfully to follow the dictates of his conscience. And in the end the right way will win.

Here and There

Rebuilding a home is not what it is cracked up to be. Sometimes it causes a man to leave home and this is what happened when our honorable mayor started the job. The Pritchards vacated their house two months ago, and carpenters began work on remodeling the large part of the old house after it had been moved to the lots on the west side of their block. The Pritchards first occupied a cottage at the lake for a month. Then they went to Belmond and lived on the A. E. Martin farm for another month. Now they are back at the lake in the cottage. The children are driving to school. Walt thought it was a good time for him to get away, and last week he spent with his son, Paul and family, at Tulsa, Oklahoma.—Signal.

A novel arrest was effected by our novel mayor when he mailed a novel letter to Charles City addressed to the Hart-Parr Co. apprising them of the fact that they were "pinched" for an infraction of the Britt ordinances, the offense being driving a tractor on asphalt pavement to demonstrate it. The Hart-Parr Co. pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10.00 and costs, which Mayor Armstrong assessed.—Britt News-Tribune.

Mrs. Ethel Papousek and little daughter came Monday for a visit at the Chris Jacobs home. This is the little one's first visit to the home of her grandparents and we'll bet she will be some spoiledbaby.—Signal.

Mrs. Ed Eilers visited Saturday at Belmond with her sister—Monitor.

Mrs. Louise Veeder and Miss Mildred, of Belmond, were Clarion visitors, Friday.—Monitor.

Mrs. Harry Brooks and son James and Mrs. Harvey Meachem were at Belmond visiting yesterday.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Del Luick and daughter, Cecilia, of Belmond, were shopping and visiting here, Monday.—Times.

The city officials, not being satisfied with the electric siren received some time ago, had another installed Saturday afternoon. This will be given a trial and if found satisfactory will no doubt be purchased.—Reporter.

Between the state and county fairs and the big Legion Day celebration at Belmond last week our people did not find it hard to amuse themselves. The ball game at Belmond between the Spencer and Bayside Cubs teams was a big drawing card and those who witnessed it were not disappointed. Spencer won by the close score of 3 to 1.—Reporter.

Mrs. C. A. Norby and children, of Belmond, visited several days last week at the W. A. Connor home.—Chronicle.

A Ku Klux Klan cross of large dimensions was burned on the school campus here Wednesday night of last week. The burning was witnessed by a large number of people. This is the second cross that has been burned here.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Saatoff were in Kanawha, Tuesday renewing acquaintances. Mr. Saatoff recently returned from Minneapolis where he went some time ago to learn the barber trade. He hasn't decided as yet where he will locate but expects to follow this line of work in the future.—Reporter.

The council decided at its meeting Tuesday night to pave the cemetery, accepting a bid from Will Fisher for $2.10 per yard.—Eagle Grove Eagle.

Quite a number from here went to Belmond last Thursday to take in the Legion celebration there. The celebration was quite a success.—Klemme Times.

HOTEL MARTINIQUE, BROADWAY, 32nd AND 33rd STS., NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 7, 1923.

Dear Harry:

Here it is Friday and almost two weeks gone since I arrived in New York buying merchandise for the Greater C. & C. of Fort Dodge by day and seeing the sights by night. You know, Harry, I had planned to stop at the Pennsylvania, but when I arrived, the cheapest single room I could get was $7.00 per night. That is too rich for yours truly. No wonder they have been and are building sky scrapers on almost every block.

I dabbled in marks, roubles, and kronens yesterday, bought between $2,000 and $3,000 worth, original values, at a cost of less than a 49 pound sack of Occident flour. There's a sucker born every minute, and I guess the fellow that sold me this paper money thought I was the easy "mark." However, I bought some to show with the many purchases I bought for our army department.

Do you know, Harry, the $1,000 I spent in silks last week is worth about $1,200 today. Silks have gone up 10 per cent to 25 per cent in the last few days. While Japan has my sympathy, these 4th Avenue and Broadway sharks certainly take advantage of the other fellow's misfortune. My silk purchase includes charmeuse, canton crepe, brocades, tinsels, novelties and the new and big selling flat crepes. Prices will range from $1.65 to $5. a yard. Harry, base selling prices on prices paid, not what the silks are worth. Tuesday I bought my silk dresses first, as prices are up. Mark according to what they cost, not new higher prices.

All told, Harry, I bought close to 200 women's silk and wool dresses in the most wonderful stunning styles. I'll promise any girl without a beau that will wear one of those fussy frilly kind or satin, will have her wish filled mighty soon. There's an age limit to this guarantee. Nevertheless, the C. & C. has never shown such a smart collection of dresses in its history. The prices are $9.98, $19.98, and $29.98.

My next big purchase was coats. Spent around $2,000 and bought the choice values in the market. Our New York office certainly gave me a real help in selecting only the cream. Fur trimmed bolivias are promised big. Secured some unusual ones to sell at $24.75. Also plaid coats to sell at $9.98 and $19.98. In the better coats bought only one of a kind to sell at $29.95, $39.50, and $49.50. By the way, picked up a remarkable lot of good values to sell at $13.98. Fur trimmed ones too. In children's coats bought 145 to sell at $2.98, $4.98, and $5.98.

I never bought so many skirts in all my life as I did on this trip. Pleated models promise to take the lead again for fall. Mighty good ones can be had at $3.98 and $4.98; while you will find some stunners in my purchases at the prices of $7.45, $9.98 and $10.98.

In trimmed hats, Harry, they all looked mighty good to me so to make sure I called in the ladies from the office, who specialize in millinery to assist in the selections. We got the big sellers; hats that can be retailed at $2.98, $3.98 and $4.98. Embroidered felts are going like a house a-fire. Bought plenty to sell at $3.98 and $4.98.

In blouses I bought plain tailored and novelties galore, to sell at $1.98, $3.98, and $5.98.

Was scared to do much in suits. Many manufacturers have quit making them because of the poor demand. Bought only the best selling tailored styles to sell around $24.75.

What else did I buy, Harry? Oh, just a few dray loads of gloves, Beacon blankets, novelty woolens, work clothing, yard goods, including non-crush dress crepes, embroidered Xmas merchandise, small rugs, fibre silk shirts, knee and hip boots for men, girls' dresses in serge, velvets, tweeds and ginghams, boys' suits, boys' overcoats, boys' trousers, felt slippers, army goods of every description, genuine army shirts, and a lot more things too numerous to mention.

By the way, I bought 100 per cent men's all wool suits to sell at $24.75 with two pair of pants at that. Also real gabardine and whip cord coats to sell at $19.75. Ever hear the like? Also bought men's stouts to sell at $24.75, One pair pants and men's two pant suits to sell as low as $19.95. They are values that will put the C. & C. clothing department on the map.

Of course I spent $3,000 to $4,000 more than I had planned, but that is getting to be a habit. Was glad to note, Harry, that last Saturday's business was the greatest in our history. C. & C. values did it.

Will close with best wishes to the C. & C. bunch. Expect to leave tonight for Columbus, Ohio, to see what's what in shoes.

So Long,

Herbert

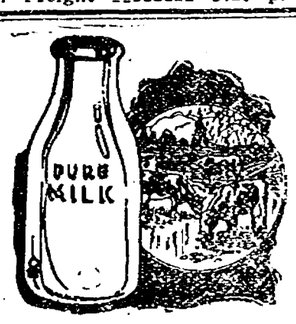
BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North
Freight, daily ..... 11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily, ... 2:10 p. m.
Going South
Freight, daily ..... 1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily ..... 11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.
Combination, daily ..... 8:30 a. m
Going East
Combination, daily ..... 3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North
Motor, daily ..... 10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S ..... 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S ..... 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight ..... 7:55 a. m.
Going South
No. 11, pass., D & S ..... 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S ..... 3:15 p. m.
Motor ..... 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight ..... 3:20 p. m.



KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205
T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, SEPT. 24

WHITE PRODUCE WEEKLY

We are glad to announce this week that cream has gone up, and we are now paying 42 cents. This is an increase of four cents a pound. Bring in your can of cream and we will give you the highest price.

Eggs are up too, the price we are now paying being 27 cents a dozen. This is an increae of three cent, and we will pay you the cash for all you bring us.

Heavy hens are selling at 17 cents this week, an increase of two cents a pound. Springs are steady at 18.

We can handle all you have and will be glad to have a part of your patronage.

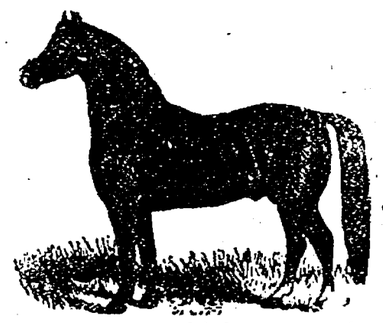
Old roosters are at seven cents. A fair market, but we do not believe one that is apt to go higher. Now is the time to sell old roosters; they are only eating and doing no good.

We will appreciate your patronage in eggs, cream and poultry, and pay you the highest cash prices always. If you have not tried us, all we ask is that you come in once. You'll be in again.

Belmond Phone 272 — Earle E. Lateer
Goodell Phone 21 — Earnest F. Lateer

HORSE SALE!

AT KANAWHA, IOWA
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15
Commencing At 1:00 P. M. Sharp
60 HEAD OF GOOD DRAFT HORSES AND COLTS



These horses come from a dried out part of northern Minnesota. They are thin in flesh, but good money makers. Will be sold regardless of price or condition of weather.

KINKNER BROS., Owners
Farmers State Bank of Kanawha, Clerk
Harm Brummond, Auctioneer

Used Cars--
Buy Them Now!

1922 Ford Coupe, like new $500
1917 Paige, in good shape 200
1918 Overland, in good condition 125
1918 Stephens 6 cyl., A-1 shape 150
1918 Chevrolet touring, in good shape 150

EASY TERMS
Pay for Them By the Month

These cars are in good mechanical shape. See them at once.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Phone 39 — Belmond, Iowa

FEDERAL FARM LOANS

Estimates of Benefits of Co-operation Based On Past Record

First: After 5 years, and with reasonable provisions before, the borrower can pay off his loan on interest dates as fast as he wishes.

Second: No matter how fast the borrower pays off his loan, the semi-annual payments always remain the same in size. The result of extra payments is to decrease the loan and shorten its life.

Third: So that the amatorization table will tell at a glance the balance due on a loan, it is necessary that extra payments made be always sufficient in amount to take up one or more of the installments of the principal as shown on the table. If at the end of the fifth year the borrower pays off principal payments No. 11, 12 and 13, or $6.56, $6.74, $6.92, his next payment is No. 14.

Fourth: A co-operative amortization loan saves money for the farmer in the same manner as the private money lender makes it.

Borrowers from the Federal Land Bank are required by law to take 5 per cent of their loan or $50 of each $1,000 in stock. No other stock can be sold and each borrower's stock must be retired at par when the loan is paid off. Thus the Bank is entirely co-operative. Bonds are sold at 4 1-2 per cent secured by farm loans at 5 1-2 per cent. From this spread the expense is paid and the profit distributed on the basis of the amount of stock owned by each borrower. The dividends materially reduce the net rate of interest, or if applied on the principal shortens the life of the loan. The stock remains constant at $50 per thousand and borrowed while the principal of the debt becomes less and the participation by the borrower in the profits becomes proprtionately greater.

Semi-Annual Dividends Paid Association To Date:

January 1, 1919— 4 1-2 per cent or 9 per cent per annum
July 1, 1919—4 1-2 per cent or 9 per cent per annum
January 1, 1920—6 1-2 per cent or 13 per cent per annum
July 1, 1920—4 1-2 per cent or 9 per cent per annum
January 1, 1921—4 1-2 per cent or 9 per cent per annum
July 1, 1921—4 1-2 per cent or 9 per cent per annum
January 1, 1922—5 1-2 per cent or 11 per cent per annum
July 1, 1922—6 1-2 per cent or 13 per cent per annum
January 1, 1923—6 1-2 per cent or 13 per cent per annum
July 1, 1923—5 per cent or 10 per cent per annum

Estimating a continued semi-annual dividend of 4 1-2 per cent net to the borrower, which seems probable, and applying accumulations of same to retirement of the principal at each opportunity would eliminate the 11h, 12th 13th, 17th, 22nd, 27th, 34th, 41st, 51st and 65th installments and by adding $5.10 and the surrender value of the stock to the fund retire the 68th and 69th payments. Thus a 5 1-2 per cent contract which is written by various Insurance Companies and Joint Stock Land Bank to require $22,424.20 in payments may be reduced by the Federal Land Bank's Co-operative Participating Plan to $18,576.00 effecting by the investment of $500 in stock on each $10,000 loan.

A Saving of $3,848.20

And Six Years Sooner Paid. IT PAYS TO CO-OPERATE!

THIS LOAN MAY BE SECURED IN THIS COMMUNITY THROUGH THE

State Bank of Belmond

BELMOND, IOWA

A. L. LUICK, President. OLE THOMPSON, Vice President. W. T. GFELLER, Cashier.
O. L. VARLAND, Assistant Cashier. C. M. MORSE, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

G. F. ELDER
T. A. DAVENPORT
HENRY GROEN
JOE PLETCH
W. C. TYRRELL, Jr.
O. L. VARLAND
R. H. KLEMME
A. L. LUICK
M. C. BARRY
OLE THOMPSON
SIMON SIMERSON
W. T. GFELLER
M. F. CHRISTIE
A. O. HAUGE

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

Mr. H. Grosz was at Mason City for medical treatments several days last week, returning Friday.

Mrs. H. K. Pals and daughters Grace and Anna were Mason City business callers last Wednesday.

Heiko Janssen took in the Algona Fair last week, exhibiting Hampshire hogs.

Mrs. Fred Schluter and Fred Lemke were Mason City callers last Saturday, going up to visit with their mother, who is in the Park Hospital.

Rev. and Mrs. H. Raecker and G. E. Raecker, wife and daughter visited with the former's daughter and husband at Arnold's Park, where they have a cottage, several days last week.

Milton Wirtz, of Des Moines, visited at the home of his uncle, H. Fischer over Sunday.

We have bought our coal. How many tons do you need? See Meservey Shipping Association. 42tfc

Mrs. Lemke was taken to Mason City last Friday, where she underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract, at the Park Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schluter and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zimmerman accompanied her.

Mrs. Ed Wirtz and son stopped off here for a day's visit with relatives, enroute to their home in Des Moines. They had been to Rochester where the latter is receiving medical treatments.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Foss and Miss Irene Guth motored to Ft. Dodge Saturday to visit until Sunday with relatives.

Mrs. E. A. Strasburg and daughter, May, were Mason City callers Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Dorenkamp was a Mason City business caller last Thursday, between trains.

Mrs. Anna Bonte and daughter visited with relatives in the vicinity of Ackley, the past week.

Frank Ostendorf and family motored to Mason City on Thursday of last week, spending the day shopping and sight-seeing.

The Misses Esther Merkle and Dorothy Marty and Henry Marty, of LuVerne visited at the home of Mrs. August Prelipp last Sunday afternoon.

During the thunder storm last Thursday afternoon a bolt of lightning struck the barn of Chas. Halfpap. Mr. Halfpap, who had gone inside the barn to seek shelter from the heavy rain, received a violent shock, rendering him unconscious. His wife found him directly following the hard crash, she calling their daughter for assistance and bringing him to the house, they called Dr. Agler, who attended him. At present he is feeling better, altho the effects are still causing him pain. A horse tied in the barn also was stunned. The barn did not burn, although light damage was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Burns, of Laurel, Nebraska, spent Thursday of last week at the C. F. Lemke home.

Mrs. V. A. Cook returned last Friday from her sojourn in California.

Mrs. Wm. Gealow visited relatives at Belmond over Sunday.

Miss Sylvia Blum, of Renwick, arrived last week for a visit at the Rev. Schlesselman home.

Mrs. Thomas Sloss and daughter, Martha of Ames, and son A. C. Sloss of Cedar Rapids, spent Wednesday of last week at the Frank Nissen home.

Bruno Bruns left the fore part of the week for German Valley, Ill., for a visit with friends before taking up the year's school work at Holland, Mich.

The Misses Grace and Anna Pals Peter Koenen, Herman Dirks and Herman Ostendorf departed on last Monday via Sheffield for Pella, where they will enter Central college.

E. G. Thomas and family spent Sunday at West Bend, the object of their visit being the veiwing of the grotto.

Miss Ollie Pals returned from her visit with relatives at Little Rock, last Monday. She was accompanied by her uncle, Mr. Beck, and his daughter Grace, of that place, the two latter leaving Tuesday for Cedar Falls where Miss Block will enter the state teachers college for another year.

Mrs. M. L. Fuller of Arkansas spent several days with Mrs. C. F. Lemke.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas accompanied their daughter Evelyn to Cedar Falls last Monday, where the latter will attend the I. S. T. C.

Harm Koenen and family from Superior, Wis., are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Chas. Kienenberger and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eimbrink and daughter of Goodell spent Sunday at the Geo. Langlitz home.

Miss Sadie Frohling of Belmond was calling on friends in town last Saturday.

C. F. W. Paul and wife and younger children and S. P. Fischer and family were Mason City visitors on Sunday. The Pauls' visited at the Fred Enabnit home, the latter at G. J. Fischers'. Mr. Paul remained to be on hand for jury duty the following day.

Mrs. J. A. Moore and son, Elmer, of St. Paul, were calling on friends here last Sunday. They were returning to their home, resuming their journey the same day.

Ben Gruis motored to West Bend last Tuesday to view the grotto.

Those who spent Sunday at the C. F. Lemke home are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Muhlenbruck of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Avery and daughter, Mrs, Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Avery.

Mrs. Unferferth returned from her visit to Ft. Dodge last Friday.

A. E. Muller and family and Mr. and Mrs. Hulsebus were calling on the Brogan family in Garner Sunday.

Death again entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gerdes when on Wednesday evening of last week their youngest daughter, Lena, answered the summons. The obituary was not available at this writing but will appear next week.

Dr. Woodward and family, of Mason City, motored to this place Wednesday evening for a combined professional and social call at the C. J. Wendell home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sprau accompanied their daughter Eva to Cedar Falls last Tuesday, where she will enter the teachers college.

Statement of Condition of

Farmers Savings Bank

organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Meservey, in the County of Cerro Gordo, at the close of business on the 4th day of September, A. D. 1923.

RESOURCES

Loans and discounts, bonds and s curities		$262,103.70
Banking House	$ 5,000.00
Furniture and Fixtures	4,030.00	9,030.00
Due from banks and banks, cash and cash items		27,575.39
Total Resources		298,709.09

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	20,000.00
Surplus Fund	5,000.00	25,000.00
Undivided profits (after deducting expenses)	4,652.13	4,652.13
Individual deposits subject to check	109,829.13
Demand deposits	668.95
Time certificates of deposit	153,199.25
Savings deposits	5,359.63	269,056.96
Total Liabilities		298,709.09

STATE OF IOWA,
CERRO GORDO COUNTY, ss.

We, A. J. Nissen, President; Conrad Bier, Vice President, and K. Clarence Ruigh, Cashier of the bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief.

A. J. NISSEN, President.
CONRAD BIER, Vice President.
K. CLARENCE RUIGH, Cashier.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence by A. J. Nissen, Conrad Bier and K. Clarence Ruigh this 10th day of September, 1923.

M. E. GEALOW,
Notary Public in and for Cerro Gordo County.

Attested by: Wm. Messelheiser, Jacob Nissen, and Frank Haferman, Directors.

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER
Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON
Licensed Embalmer
Calls Answered Day or Night
HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Phone--Residence 17: Office 20
Meservey, Iowa

TIRES

If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

New Fall Goods

Fall Goods are in, and we invite you to call and see what we have.

DRESS GOODS

We are showing a line of suitings in Scotch Tweeds and Velours in beautiful shades and patterns, both check and stripe.

A few new patterns in Lingerie Crepe, suitable for Underwear and Nightgowns. You can't resist these.

SWEATERS

A full line of Sweaters and Sweater Coats, in cotton and wool in up-to-date styles.

GROCERIES ALWAYS STRICTLY FRESH

Bring us your Eggs and Poultry
Highest Prices Paid

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor
Meservey, Iowa

The Man Who Spends--

all he earns will accumulate just as much on a $10.00 job as he will on a $10,000.00 one.

Did you ever look at it that way?

Think it over, decide how much you should save each month, the open a Savings Account and put away that amount regularly.

At this bank---

$1 OPENS A SAVINGS ACCOUNT $1

THE LARGEST BANK IN MESERVEY

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY
FARMERS SAVINGS BANK
MESERVEY, IOWA

For...

Quality Lumber

And All Kinds of

Building Material

See Us and Save Money

Try some of our Tennesee Block Coal
It Will Please You.

Better put in that Iowa Automatic Hog House Door now in your hog house.
You will like it.

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

Come In and See Our Demonstration On the

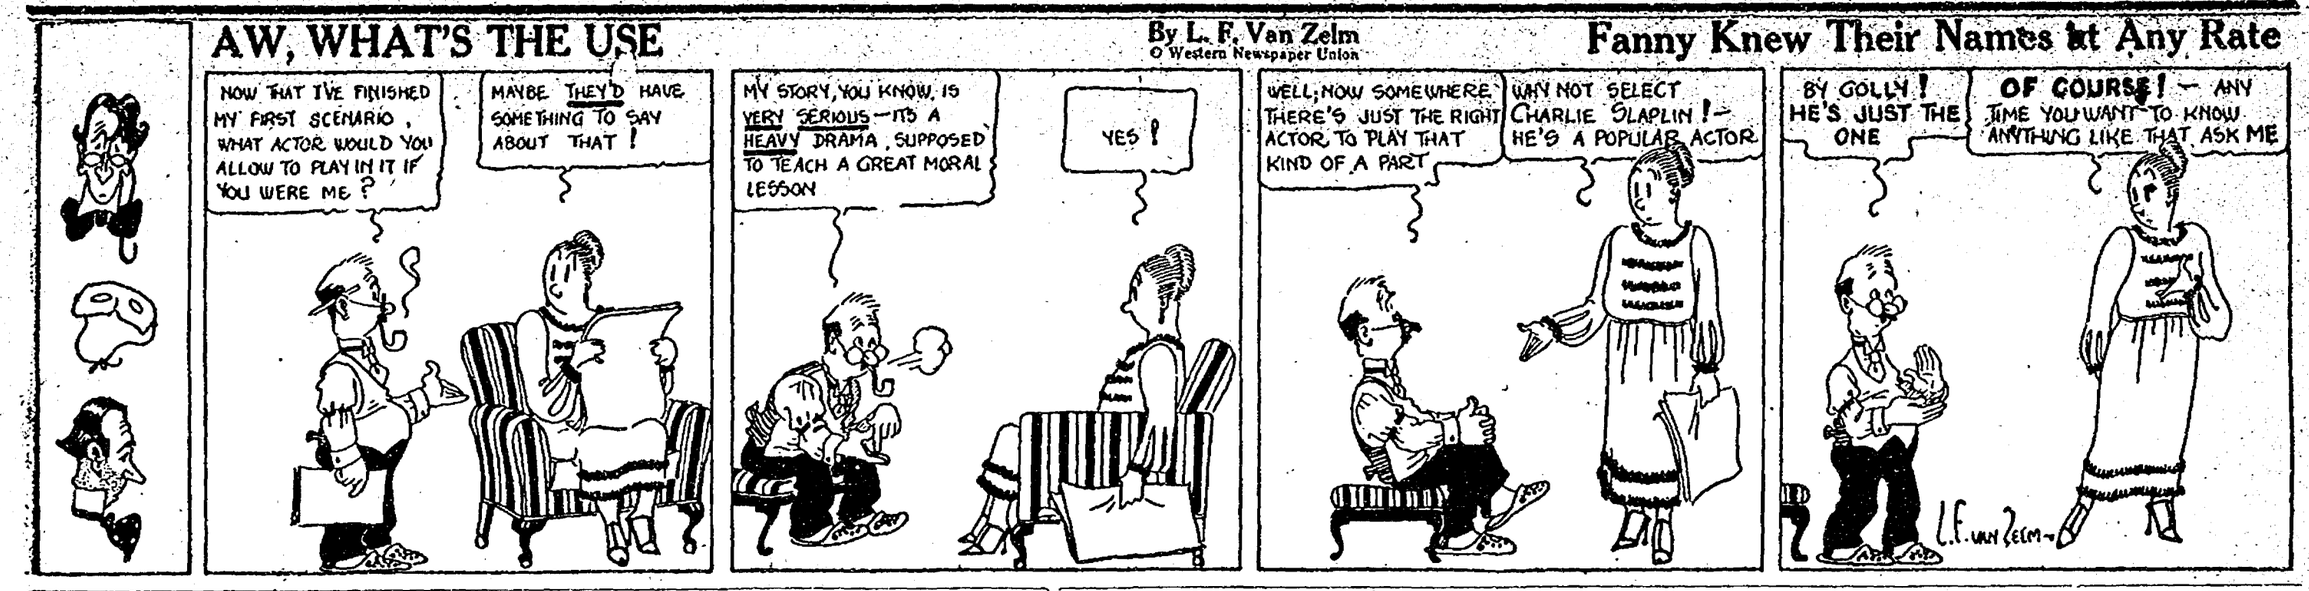
"IRON CAT"

The greatest Invention of the Age

All kinds of good Cook Stoves at a price that is right.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa



MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

High School: Three more students enrolled in high school last Wednesday. They are Harry Smith, Gerald Braga and Kenneth Herbster. Kenneth Herbster is a younger brother of Supt. Herbster.

The American Literature class are beginning to study the autobiography of Benjamin Franklin. Better than almost any other book, the autobiography gives to the student a knowledge of conditions when our country was very young and of the ideals the people of that time have handed down to us.

The teachers spent Monday and Tuesday at institute at Mason City.

Grammar Room—Both the 7th and 8th grades have been writing interesting papers on the "Life of Columbus."

Last Thursday the following students wrote special papers on Cortez, Ponce De Leon, De Soto and Balboa. The students were Dorothy Schlesselman Olive Olson, Grace Boelman and Walter Lauster. The other students of the class gave reports on the "Invincible Armada."

Alma Dorenkamp was a perfect speller in the seventh grade last week.

Last Thursday the eighth grade drew maps of Cerro Gordo county.

Last Friday afternoon the grammar room ciphered. Lucile Paul and Marie Krass chose. Lucile's side won, the score being 5 to 4.

Evelyn Thomas and Agnes Fischer were visitors in our room Friday afternoon.

3rd and 4th Grades: The 3rd and 4th grades were very much surprised on entering school last Wednesday morning to find their desks facing the north instead of west as before. We all agree this was a very fine move and every one seemed satisfied with their new location.

Ethel Bier was absent Wednesday and Thursday on account of sickness.

5th and 6th Grades: Many of the 5th grade students are still unable to get their new arithmetic books. We are planning on becoming acquainted with the Greek gods next week.

Edna and Leona Koenen and Arnold Groen were absent Friday.

Christopher Groen has been wearing brown glasses a few days.

1st and 2nd Grades—Illness kept Avery Bier from his duties in the second grade Wednesday.

Hienie Winters was absent on Wednesday and Thursday.

Alice Boelman again entered school Thursday.

Kenneth Sprau has not returned from his trip.

Elcanor Muller succeeded in pulling a tooth Friday afternoon.

Altho we do not have the sand for the sand table, we have pitched our tents on the fair grounds. First aid was given to the cut on Anita Herman's hand.

Our visitors were Mrs. Boelman, Mrs. Prilipp, Miss Boelman, Anna Pals, Evelyn Thomas and Agnes Fischer.

Fred Schluter, H. F. Reif, C. Brogan and A. E. Muller attended a special meeting of the Masonic order at Thornton last Monday evening.

The Helping Hand society will meet with Mrs. Cooper on Thursday p. m., Sept. 20th. All are requested to be present.

Hartley Blewitt, wife and son of Thornton visited at the J. F. Hartfelder home last Sunday.

G. Lauster and famly motored to Ft. Dodge last Sunday to spend the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nissen and son, Elmer, Mrs. Frank Nissen and Mrs. W. F. Hartfelder were Mason City callers last Tuesday.

Mrs. Paul Willer is reported on the sick list this week.

Ed. Books suffered with a severe attack in his back on Monday, causing him considerable pain.

Those who attended the Mission Feast of the Reformed church at Ackley last Tuesday were Rev. Pannkuk, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stattlander, Mrs Frohling, Frank Ostendorf and Harm Groen.

Frank Hafferman was a Mason City business caller last Tuesday.

ROWAN NEWS

Rowan Methodist Church Notes
Geo. A. Osborn, Pastor

Class Meeting at 9:30 a. m. Start the day with prayer and praise.

Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. Classes for all ages.

Divine worship at 11:00 a. m. Theme, the meaning of Holy Communion, followed by the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Epworth League at 7:00 p. m. Leader, Mrs. Oscar Isenberger.

Evening Worship at 8:00 p. m. Subject, Pitching Toward Sodom.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

If you are not an attendant elsewhere we invite you to worship with us.

Rev. J. B. Walker, pastor of the Methodist church at Clarion, and family were callers in our city Saturday evening.

A good audience enjoyed the lecture given by Dr. J. J. Bushnell in the Methodist church on Thursday evening.

The W. F. M. S. of the Methodist church met this week at the home of Mrs. Walter Whitten.

Rev. Geo. A. Osborn went to Clarion on Tuesday to attend the Coun-Ministerial Association meeting.

Howard Myers and family arrived from Minnesota last Thursday for a few days' visit with relatives.

E. R. Ballou and wife, who were here for a few days looking after the renting of their home, returned Wedneday to Des Moines to make their home this winter.

Clint Whitten is assisting at the Miller store in Clarion.

R. H. Virden was on the sick list the first of the week, unable to attend to his duties at the drug store.

Miss Pearl Whitten is staying with J. D. Brooks'.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Keith, Kenneth and Markaret returned Saturday from an auto trip to different points in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, going as far north as Fargo, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Whitten, Elfreida and W. A. Reitz went to St. Paul last Wednesday, returning on Sunday. Mesdames A. O. Pelley and W. A. Reitz, and Kathrine, who had been visiting there for several days returned with them.

Messrs. A. E. and A. H. Emerson departed the first of the week for an auto trip into Wisconsin. Our mail carrier, Arthur Emerson, has been in poor health for some time, and it is hoped that this trip will be a benefit to him.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Fletcher are the proud parents of a baby girl, born early Sunday morning Sept. 9th. The little miss has been named Mildred Marie.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosman Simpson of Corwith were entertained Sunday at the home of Mrs. Simpson's brother, Geo. Liming and family.

Wm. Brooks and family drove from Waverly last Saturday to visit his mother, Mrs. J. D. Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hackley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hackley, Alt Hackley from here, and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Kelcy of Sioux Falls, S. D., who have been visiting the Hackleys, autoed to Oskaloosa the last of the week to visit friends and attend the fair.

The Epworth League, assisted by the ladies of the church, held a get-acquainted reception in honor of Rev. Osborne and family and the members of the school faculty, Tuesday evening at the M. E. church. A program of music and speeches was given after which the reception committee introduced the honor guests to the company. Coffee and cake were served.

Miss Viola Charter and her music class are rendering a musical recital t the M. E. church Fridy evening, Sept. 4. Admission free. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mesdames Chet. Moellering, Edgar Mantle, James Burt a nd F. H. Brooks were the hostesses at a prenuptial shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Utz, held at the F. H. Brooks home Monday evening. The house was very tastefully decorated with red hearts and streamers. The evening was spent in playing games and it was much enjoyed by the 50 guests who were present. The couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Jap Riis of Latimer was a business caller in town Tuesday.

GOODELL NEWS

Mrs. Earl Tingley of Ann Arbor, Mich., is visiting with her friend, Ina Ahrnekeil.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinseth of Belmond spent Sunday at the Avery home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wagoner and daughter, Janice, of Algona, and Harvey Benson of Kanawha, called at the Sandberg home Sunday.

Louisa Ahrenkeil, Louise Mason, Dorothy Okrueg, Cloe Thomas and John Miller, of Goodell, left Monday morning for Coe college.

Mrs. S. S. Matson, Mrs. O. Sandberg, Mrs. Hasselberg of West Brooklyn, Ill., Mrs. Amos Hanson and Edith Sandberg spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Pete Benson of Kanawha.

Oscar Hasselberg of West Brooklyn, Ill., autoed to Little Falls, Minn., Monday and returned Sunday. He and his mother returned to West Brooklyn, Tuesday, after spending two weeks at the Sandberg home.

The John Dominy family were entertained at the Burgess home Sunday.

The Sandberg family, Earl Jenison family of Belmond, and Pete Benson family of Kanawha were at Lake Mills visiting relatives Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Christenson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conklin autoed to Independence, Saturday, and returned Sunday. They were visiting Mr. Conklin's brother.

The Elmer Schneider family drove to Estherville and spent Sunday with Sam Dominy.

Mr. Gerald Chase was in Goodell Monday afternoon.

Friends in Goodell are sorry to hear of Irene Wolf, of Ackley, having to undergo another operation.

Miss Adelia Hill spent the week end at her home in Clarion.

The Ladies Aid was entertained by Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Clark, at the church last Wednesday. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. O. Sandberg on Sept. 19.

Miss Bernice Butts spent the week end at Belmond.

Mark Smith left Monday noon to resume his college work at Cedar Falls.

Miss Clara Johnson went to Cedar Falls, Tuesday, to enter college. She will specialize in certain teaching course. Miss Mae Griggs accompanied her and will take a teaching course also.

Election of officers was held at the last meeting of the Aid society. For the coming year the following were chosen: Mrs. Edna McNutt, president; Mrs. Thada, vice pres; Mrs. Heitland, secretary; Mrs. Zellie, treasurer. The Aid is busy getting ready for their bazaar which is to be held sometime in November.

The Missionary society met at the Sherwood home, Friday.

The Avery and Twin Lake Farm Bureau held a meeting in the church basement Monday.

Mrs. Veeder and daughter of Belmond were callers at the John Savogue home Sunday evening.

James Schneider has been on the sick list suffering with hay fever and asthma.

The Earl Clark family of Garner spent Sunday in Goodell.

Miss Clara Johnson and Mrs. Amos Hanson visited school in the grades Friday p. m.

The Sandberg and Hanson families were guests to a six o'clock dinner Friday at the Matson home.

Mrs. Matson and daughter Alva, Mrs. Peters and Ina Ahrenkeil were shoppers in Mason City, Thursday.

Robert McNutt is enjoying his vacation at this time, from his duties as mail carrier. Mrs. McNutt is filling his place.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Houghton from Kanawha spent Sunday at the Houghton home.

Owen Conwell, Walter Mason and son Francis, drove to Minneapolis, Wednesday, to attend the fair and enjoy the fishing at different lakes.

Lud Johnson and family from near Olaf visited at the Lewis Johnson home Sunday.

Miss Marie Ludke of Belmond is teaching in the school three miles west in Twin Lake township. She is staying at the Will Heginger home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook and daughter, Delorus, and Maude Griggs were Belmond visitors Thursday. Little Delorus had to make a call at the dentist's office.

Mrs. T. O. Letch and Mrs. Lew Avery were callers at Belmond between trains Thursday.

Tom Burgess moved his house, formerly occupied by Warner Butts, to his farm northeast of Goodell, on Monday.

There is an enrollment of about 85 in the Goodell school at present.

The Ralph Jenison family of Belmond were guests at the Hubbard home Sunday.

The Harry and Arthur Ruka families returned home Saturday from their trip thru Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Boller, Clement Houghton and Arthur Lowenberg were at Clear Lake, Sunday.

The Heitland family and Ruth Ness autoed to Story City, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hood went to Staples, Minn., Tuesday, to take Mrs. Hood's sister, Edith Finn, to her home. She has spent the summer at the Hood home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evers of South Dakota spent a few days at the Matson home last week. Mr. Evers and Mrs. Matson are cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kutzner, of Mason City, called at the T. O. Letch home Sunday evening.

Miss Leona Sandry is assisting Mrs. Gus Okrueg with her household duties since Dorothy left for college.

Mrs. Eric Osman and three children of New Richland, Minn., returned to their home after spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Johnson.

Lewis Johnson is out at his farm improving his buildings.

STATE OWNS MUCH LAND

The people of Iowa will be interested to know how much land belongs to the various state institutions under the government of the state board of control. Here is the list: The Mens' Reformatory, Anamosa, 1404; Cherokee State Hospital, Cherokee, 998; Clarinda, 859; Iowa Soldiers Orphans' Home, Davenport, 294; Training School for Boys, Eldora, 868; State Penitentiary, Fort Madison, 10289; Institution for Feeble Minded Children, Glenwood, 1015; Independence State Hospital, Independence, 1349; Iowa Soldiers Home, Marshalltown, 156; Training School for Girls, Mitchelville, 175; Mt. Pleasant Hospital, Mt. Pleasant, 1065; State Sanitorium, Oakdale, 274; The Womans Reformatory, Rockwell City, 220; Juvenile Home, Toledo, 123; State Hospital and Colony for Epileptics, Woodward, 1152; Clive Farm, 781; total 11,761.—Leader.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Leonard Arends was a caller at Meservey last Thursday.

Mrs. Albert Larsen and daughter Mildred were business callers at Latimer last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith and baby were callers in Hampton last Thursday.

Arthur Winwood and Miss Nellie Bell were visitors at Eagle Grove on Sunday.

H. A. Peters was a business visitor at Dows, Saturday.

Miss Erma Wilkinson of Belmond was a yisitor at Alexander, Sunday.

Mrs. Younglin of Latimer visited with Miss Anna Beenen several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Butler were callers in Hampton, Saturday.

The Misses Alma and Ruth Johnson, of Latimer, were callers in town Thursday.

Miss Jessie Benard of Eagle Grove visited at the A. M. Butler home last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder and daughter, Virginia Ruth, of Hampton, spent Sunday at the Chas. Winwood home.

A. L. Johnson of Hampton was a business caller in town the fore part of the week.

The Misses Loraine and Elizabeth Aldinger of Hampton spent a few days last week visiting at the W. P. Aldinger home.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Larsen and Clarence Smith, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle, of Hampton, autoed to Algona, Wednesday, and attended the County Fair held at that place.

Mrs. A. B. Arends, John Arends, and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and sons Carrol and Donald Paul, visited at the Rev. Ed. Arends' home at LaSeur, Minn., several days the past week, making the trip by auto.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. W. P. Aldinger next Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Tinkey and children and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pals and children were Sunday visitors at Iowa Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Reed and two children and Walter Smith were callers at Eagle Grove last Sunday.

Will Foughty and daughters Wilma and Mrs. Anna Pekarek and daughter Josephine were callers at Rowan last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughters, Jessie and Nellie, were callers at Dows last Saturday.

A. L. Nelson and son Theodore were at Des Moines last week on a business mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Scott and children of Rowan visited at the John Modderman home last Sunday.

Frank Bohlen and son, Herbert, were business callers at Dows last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and children were callers at Meservey on Sunday.

Ben Arends has erected two new silos on his farm north of Alexander.

Some of the young people who expect to leave soon to attend different colleges are Theodore Nelson, Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill; Walter Smith, Iowa Medical college at Iowa City; Leonard and Bennie Arends, Elmhurst college, Elmhurst, Illinois; Alfred Ammerman and Jerry Blau, Medical college at Iowa City.

Mrs. A. L. Larson has been enjoying a visit from her parents, from Illinois.

Mrs. Grace Dirksen and daughter, Miss Grace, and Mrs. Mable Symens were business callers at Belmond on Monday.

Ray Isenberger and family of Latimer were visitors at our city Sunday.

A company of relatives were entertained on Sunday at the Carl Bohlen home in honor of Leonard and Bennie Arends, who leave this week for college.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield and son Frederick, and the Misses Bernice Morrison and Leora Fairbanks were visitors at Clear Lake on Sunday.

Chris Schulte is improving his residence by adding the second story and raising the house and putting in a basement.

Leonard and Bennie Arends were callers at Belmond.

Mrs. Rudolph Beenen is visiting with relatives at Hampton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens and family were visitors with friends at Geneva on Sunday.

Miss Evelyn Pekerak of Hampton visited at the Foughty home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Murphy from Hampton spent Sunday at the Clarence Murphy home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Rodemeyer and children visited with relatives near Hampton last Sunday.

Leonard Arends was a caller at Hampton last Monday.

The annual picnic of the Methodist church was held at the Otto Kieslich grove last Tuesday. The main attraction of the afternoon sports, was an auto race in which Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen won in the demonstration of the Ford car.

Fred Greenfield won in the home run with his Dode. W. P. Aldinger was able to change tires on the Overland in the shorest order, while Mrs. Clarence Murphy succeeded in landing the booby prize in the last race with the Buick.

After the auto races the quarterly conference meeting was held at the residence, after which the gentlemen all quietly slipped away to engage in barnyard golf while races were held for the young people.

As the day was perfect a large crowd was present and all report a jolly good time.

Who Is North Iowa's Most Popular GIRL?

Besides the beautiful $300 Diamond Ring which our Company will present to the young lady receiving the highest number of votes by November 1st, we will present a nice gift to the girl standing highest in her town, also $5.00 in cash to each girl for every 10,000 vote received.

ENTER YOUR NAME OR THE NAME OF A FRIEND, WE WILL GIVE 5,000 VOTES FREE TO EACH CONTESTANT.

BELMOND CONTESTANTS
Mrs. Katherine Rosecrans
Miss Hazel Hunbo

THE STERLING DRY GOODS COMPANY WILL GIVE 10 VOTES WITH EACH DOLLAR PURCHASE AND 10 VOTES WITH EACH DOLLAR PAID ON ACCOUNT DURING SEPTEMBER AND OCTOBER.

TO OUR HOST OF BELMOND PATRONS
We wish to say that our present showing of FALL READY TO WEAR—
FALL SILKS AND WOOLENS—
BLANKETS, ETC.
Excell in beauty and value any showing of previous seasons. We URGE you to make your selections early and support one of your local contestants in the popularity contest.

STERLING

Mason City, Iowa

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Boys and Girls Win Prizes

All baby beeves were sold at auction at the fair grounds on Friday morning, August 31st, and an average of 12¼ cents per pound was received for all Wright county calves. The highest price paid for baby beeves from Wright county was received by Ralph Harring, of Galt, who received 13½ cents per pound, for one weighing 1040 pounds.

The lowest price received for any of the Wright county calves was 11 cents per pound. The top price in the Chicago market on cattle on the date the calves were sold was $13.10 per hundred, so our boys feel that on a whole they received good prices for their calves.

Eagle Grove Entertains Successfully

The county Farm Bureau wishes to express its sincere appreciation of the support accorded the picnic club exhibit by the Eagle Grove business men on August 22nd. Every desire of the farm bureau was freely granted and in many cases anticipated. It is felt by all officers and directors of the farm bureau that the accommodations furnished by Eagle Grove and the splendid spirit of co-operation exhibited by the business men of that city are factors which are responsible for the success of the picnic.

The farm bureau wishes to especially thank Ed. Davis of Eagle Grove for the efficient preparations made for handling the livestock and poultry exhibits. The pens for the livestock were well constructed and roomy with plenty of accomodations for all. Special thanks are also due Mr. MCarty and the management of the Princess theater for the fine free exhibition of moving pictures given the members of the boys' and girls' clubs. Greenwood Park, at Eagle Grove, afforded ample accomodations for handling the picnic and exhibitiong the livestock and poultry products and the efficient manner in which the management was handled by the Eagle Grove people is greatly appreciated by all farmers who attended the picnic.

Considerable credit is due Guy E. Toyne, of Rowan, who was in charge of the livestock exhibit both at Eagle Grove and at Des Moines. It is due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Toyne that the boys and girls of our county were able to make the proper showing of their livestock and poultry exhibits. All boys and girls who exhibited at Des Moines, also the parents of these youngsters, as well as the county agent, are very grateful to Mr. Toyne for his assistance in preparing the exhibit.

L. E. Wilson, of Eagle Grove, is entitled to great credit for the efficient manner in which he handled the poultry division of the boys' and girls' club exhibits. The farm bureau officials feel that they were fortunate in securing Mr. Wilson on the poultry committee. Mrs. A. L. Middleton of Eagle Grove and Mrs. L. F. Dorr, of Clarion worked faithfully in planning and arranging the girls' club exhibit and the splendid showing which was made at Eagle Grove shows that their efforts were well spent. F. F. Soults, of Clarion should be congratulated for the splendid manner in which finances of the farm bureau picnic were handled. There was an endless amount of work connected with the paying of the premiums and keeping definite account of the winnings. J. E. Kirstein arranged an athletic program which was enjoyed by everyone. The Eagle Grove picnic was a great success in every sense of the word and everyone who took part in making plans for the picnic should be proud of the record which has been made by our boys and girls in their first exhibit. Harry Poundstone, Mrs. Harry Woodley and Will Tillman were the wheel horses in planning and organizing the picnic and their efforts were reflected in the success of the affair.

Iowa Social At Richards' Farm

The regular monthly meeting of the Iowa Township Farm Bureau was held at the Charles Richards home two and one-half miles east of Rowan last Tuesday evening, September 4th. This meeting was in the nature of a business meeting and social. A short business meeting was held, after which an interesting program was enjoyed by all.

L. E. Hall, director of the farm bureau, was in charge of the meeting and opened the program with a short talk followed by a recitation by Lenora Olson and a reading by Doris Gunderson. This was followed by a violin solo by Anna Reitz, of Rowan. Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, vice-director of the township farm bureau, gave a reading on "The Home." The county agent then gave a short talk, after which the speaker of the evening was introduced.

Rev. George A. Osborn, pastor of the Methodist church at Rowan, who gave the address of the evening, brought a message to the Iowa farmers which was interesting and inspiring. According to Mr. Osborn, the past two or three years have been a most depressing period for ministers of the gospel as well as farmers, business and professional men. Mr. Osborn says that farmers should organize because all other interests are organized and he thinks that the farmers' problems will be solved, not by organization alone, but by organization coupled with co-operation, coordination and an efficient and economical production.

Mr. Osborn's address was followed be a lively social in which all people of the community touched shoulders with one another and talked over problems of common interest. People of Iowa township feel that the social part of the programs is the important thing and the element which cements the people of the community closer together. Ice cream and cake were served by the good housewives of Iowa township, after which the party broke up at a late hour.

Lively Social At Sampson Home

The Joe Sampson home, two and one-half miles southeast of Belmond, was the scene of a lively social gathering last Wednesday when the regular monthly meeting of the township farm bureau was held at this place. The front yard was well lighted by an independent lighting system and seats were arranged to accomodate everyone.

Mrs. J. F. Henn, vice director of the Pleasant Township Farm Bureau, and Miss Grace Gartz, one of the local teachers, are responsible for the splendid program which was arranged. The first number on the program was .. selection by the mixed quartette from Belmond which was followed by several recitations and readings by school children under the direction of Miss Gartz. This was followed by a solo by Miss Lola Jenison. Special music was rendered by the local orchestra under the direction of Miss Barry. Everyone was well pleased with the music furnished by the orchestra, which is composed entirely of local young people.

A. L. Middleton, of Eagle Grove, who was to have given the address of the evening, was unable to be present and R. E. Lee Aldrich, of Iowa township, who happened to be present at the meeting, kindly consented to substitute for Mr. Middleton. Without any preparation or forethought Mr. Aldrich gave a short address which was very interesting to all who had the pleasure of hearing him. Mr. Aldrich is a student of farm problems and agricultural conditions in general and is always equal to the occasion when he is called upon to speak on any agricultural subject.

The remainder of the eening was spent in a real community social during which ice cream and cake were served by the ladies of the community. This part of the program is the part which is of most value to the members of the organization because it is during this time when the farmers of the community really get together and talk over one another's problems.

Joint Four Township Picnic Coming

Plans have been completed for holding a joint picnic between Vernon township of Wright county, Oakland township, of Franklin, Alden township of Hardin and Williams township of Hamilton. The picnic will be held on Wednesday, September 19th, in the Ed Evans grove in the southeast corner of Vernon township.

Soy Bean Demonstration Coming

Many livestock raisers are anxious to secure a home grown protein supplement to reduce the cost of production. Indications are that soy beans will be grown quite extensively to fill this need as soon as the methods of growing, harvesting and feeding the crop are thoroughly understood.

There is a great difference in the different varieties of soy beans and the success secured from the crop depends quite largely upon securing a variety suitable for the purpose intended. In order to determine in so far as possible varieties best adapted for local conditions, soy bean variety tests have been conducted on the W. F. Meachem form 2½ miles southeast of Clarion and the Louis Hauge farm. 2½ miles northwest of of Belmond, this year. Among the ten varieties in the tests are included early, medium and late maturing soy beans.

The county agent and Prof. M. A. Hauser, specialist from the extension service, will be at the test plats at the W. F. Mechem farm at 10:00 a. m., Friday, September 21st, and at the Louis Hauge farm at 2:00 p. m., on the same date, to secure the results and conduct a demonstration.

A group of five farmers of the Clarion territory including Harry Poundstone, Guy Holmes, Geo. Milled, N. H. Cooper and Lee Hill made a trip into southern Wisconsin near Blanchardville, Lafayette county, last week, where they purchased a carload of high grade and purebred Holstein dairy cattle.

Be Sure You Attend

September 24-30

WATERLOO IOWA

Bigger 'n Better Than Ever!

Warning!

It has come to our attention that certain persons are making rather strong satements trying to discredit the Willys-Knight motor. An instance or two that have been repeated are absolutely preposterous, and the next time you hear anybody telling something that sounds "fishy" ask him to put it in writing, signing his name and get the owner's name and address to verify his statement.

Unless statements are backed by facts they are worse than if nothing had been said, because the prospective buyer will no doubt want to KNOW. When I make any claim regarding the cars I sell or those sold by competitive dealers, I will repeat that claim to them if you like. Ask them to do the same.

When we say "buy by comparison" we mean just what we say—the cars are on the floor for your inspection and you can see for yourself why the Overland gives more for the money than any other car built. No other light car has such heavy axles, both front and rear, as heavy a frame, fender supports, spindles, bearings, radiator, body, brakes, steering knuckles, cross rods, motor supports and numerous other things that one has only to compare to "realize the difference."

No other light car has as heavy a differential, or axle shafts that can be removed from the car without disturbing the gear parts. These are facts and we can back them up by showing you the parts, taking new cars apart before your eyes to convince you if necessary.

Nordschow Motor Company

Belmond, Iowa

SHEFFIELD BANK CHANGES TO NATIONAL BANK

The First State Bank of Sheffield has been changed to a National Bank, to be known henceforth as the First National Bank of Sheffield. Capital stock of the new bank will be $40,000.00.

LOCALS

Miss Alice Munson went to Roland the first of the week to visit her sister, Mrs. Otis Twedt, a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hereim, Otis and Avis Hereim visited friends at Forest City, Sunday.

A. L. Nelson and son Theo. visited relatives at Des Moines, Sunday and Monday.

Leo Barry left Sunday evening for Dubuque, where he will attend Columbia college.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Martin and son, of Belmond, and "Bud" (Walter Jr.) Pritchard returned last week from a trip to Minnesota and Canada. They visited many points of interest and had a lovely trip. "Bud" was telling us of the trip and the thing that seemed to impress him most was the boat ride they had on Rainy Lake. They were gone about a month, and the Pritchard family managed things on the Martin farm at Belmond.—Signal.

Kinseth's Store News

Lots of excitement in the old town the past few days. Getting to be a regular city for having something doing.

—K—

There's always lots doing at the Store on the corner. One of the things doing this week is a special on dried plums at 9c a pound. Can you beat that? You can't! And we are offering apricots at 14th cents a pound too.

—K—

Then we have a Soap Deal, 20 bars of Grandma's Laundry Soap at 98 cents, with a ladies leather hand bag thrown in free. Now that's a real offer, folks, and we want you to take advantage of it. Come early, because 9those bags won't last very long.

Good graham crackers at 8 pounds for four dozen cents.

—K—

And the fresh fruit—peaches in boxes and bushels, fresh prunes in boxes, pears by the bushel, and the Bartlett pears in boxes—they are a combination of fruits that will be bound to tempt the taste of any one. Order yours early.

—K—

And so far we haven't found anything at the price that can beat our 38 cent coffee. Have you?

—K—

The Store on the Corner is where you start a savings account. The time to sart is NOW! All right, let's start.

Red Crown Is Fast "Gas"

WHEN you step on the accelerator you sense speed as you do in a spirited horse — "rarin' to go." The speed is there if you want it. The desirable feature of potential speed is that a car capable of doing seventy miles an hour can do thirty with ease for hours.

Also, potential speed goes hand in hand with flexibility. With Red Crown in the tank you

Have a Live Engine

Your engine starts instantly, summer or winter—it gets away quickly — accelerates smoothly, and develops an abundant flow of even, smooth, rhythmic power — all without effort; no sputtering; no lagging.

If you don't know Red Crown get acquainted now before cold weather is here. Red Crown turns winter driving from hardship to sheer pleasure.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

And the following Filling Stations and Garages:

J. E. Raecker, Meservey, Iowa
Olander Sandberg, Goodell
Motor Inn Company

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

8861

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him.

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convinced her she has not the strength, Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI.—When her full strength returns, Gael, intensely interested in his companion, begins her "education."

And, in the Meantime, Her Education Went On.

She spread the silk out on the bed and found it a loose robe of dull blue, embroidered in silver dragons and lined with brilliant rose. There was a skirt of this same rose-colored stuff. In one weighted pocket she found a belt of silver coins and a little vest of creamy lace. There were rose silk stockings stuffed into the shoes. Joan eagerly arrayed herself. She had trouble with the vest, it was so filmy, so vaguely made it seemed to her, and to wear it at all she had to divest herself altogether of the upper part of her coarse underwear. Then it seemed to her startlingly inadequate, even as an undergarment. However, the robe did go over it, and she drew that close and belted it in. It was provided with long sleeves and fell to her ankles. She thrilled at the delightful clinging softness of silk stockings and for the first time admired her long, round ankles and shapely feet. The Chinese slippers amused her, but they were beautiful, all embroidered with flowers and dragons.

She felt she must look very queer, indeed, and went to the mirror. What she saw there surprised her because it was so strange, so different. Pierre had not dealt in compliments. His woman was his woman and he loved her body. To praise this body, surrendered in love to him, would have been impossible to the reverence and reserve of his passion.

Now Joan brushed and coiled her hair. Then, starting toward the door at Wen Ho's announcement of "Dinner, lady," she was quite suddenly overwhelmed by shyness. From head to foot for the first time in all her life she was acutely conscious of herself.

On that evening Prosper began to talk. It was Joan's amazing beauty as she stumbled wretchedly into the circle of his firelight, her neck drawn up to its full length, her head crowned high with soft, black masses, her lids dropped under the weight of shyness, vivid fright in her distended pupils, scarlet in her cheeks—Joan's beauty of long, strong lines draped to advantage for the first time in soft and clinging fabrics—that touched the spring of Prosper's delighted egotism.

He told anecdotes, strange adventures; he drew his own inverted morals; he sketched his fantastic opinions; he was in truth fascinating, a speaking face, a lithe, brilliant presence, a voice of edged persuasion. She drew herself up straight in the big red-lacquered chair, sipped her coffee in dainty imitation of him, gave him the full, deep tribute of her gaze, asked for no explanations and let the astounding statements he made, the amazing pictures he drew, cut their way indelibly into her most sensitive and preserving memory.

Afterward, at night, for the first time, she did not weep for Pierre, the old lost Pierre who had so changed into a torturer, but, wakeful, her brain was on fire, she pondered over and over the things she had just heard, feeling after their meaning, laying aside for future enlightenment what was utterly incomprehensible, arguing with herself as to the truth of half-comprehended speeches—an ignorant child wrestling with a modern philosophy, tricked out in motley by a ready wit.

He gave her "pretty things," whole quantities of them, fine linen to be made up into underwear, soft white and colored silks and crepes, which Joan, remembering the few lessons in dressmaking she had had from Maud Upper, and with some advice from Prosper, made up not too awkwardly, accepting the mystery of them as one of Prosper's magic-makings. And, in the meantime, her education went on. Prosper read aloud to her, tutored her, scolded her so fiercely sometimes that Joan would mount scarlet cheeks and open angry eyes. One day she fairly flung her book from her and ran out of the room, stamping her feet and shedding tears. But back she came presently for more, thirsting for knowledge, eager to meet her trainer on more equal grounds, to be able to answer him to some purpose, to contradict him, to stagger ever so slightly the self-assurance of his superiority.

And Prosper enjoyed the training of his captive leopardess, though he sometimes all but melted over the pathos of her and had much ado to keep his hands from her unconscious young beauty.

* * * * * * *

It was a January night when Joan, her rough head almost in the ashes, had read "Isabella and the Pot of Basil" by the light of flames. It was in March, a gray, still afternoon, when, looking through Prosper's bookcase, she came upon the tale again.

Prosper was outdoors cutting a tunnel, freshly blocked with snow, and Joan, having finished the "Life of Cellini," a writer she loathed, but whose gorgeous fabrications her master had forced her to read, now hurried to the bookshelves in search of something more to her taste. She had the gay air of a holiday-seeker, returned "Cellini" with a smart push, and, kneeling, ran her finger along the volumes, pausing on a binding of bright blue-and-gold. It was the color that had pleased her and the fat, square shape, also the look of fair and well-spaced type. She took the book and squatted on the rug happy as a child with a new toy of his own choosing.

And then she opened her volume in its middle and her eye looked upon familiar lines—

"So the two brothers and their murdered man—"

Joan's heart fell like a leaden weight and the color dropped from her face. In an instant she was back in Pierre's room and the white night circled her in great silence and she was going over the story of her love and Pierre's—their love, their beautiful, grave, simple love that had so filled her life. And now where was she? In the house of the man who had killed her husband! She had been waiting for Holliwell, but for a long while now she had forgotten that. Why was she still here? A strange, guilty terror came with the question. She stared around the gorgeous little room, snug from the world, so secret in its winter canyon. She heard Wen Ho's incessant pattering in the kitchen, the crunch and thud of Prosper's shoveling outside. It was suddenly a horrible nightmare, or less a nightmare than a dream, pleasant in the dreaming, but hideous to an awakened mind. She was awake. That little homestead of Pierre's! Such a hunger opened in her soul that she bent her head and moaned. She could think of nothing now but those two familiar, bare, clean rooms—Pierre's gun, Pierre's rod, her own coat there by the door, the snowshoes. There was no place in her mind for the later tragedy. She had gone back of it. She would rather be alone in her own home, desolate though it was, than anywhere else in all the homeless world.

And what could prevent her from going? She laughed aloud—a short, defiant laugh—rippled to her feet, and, in her room, took off Prosper's "pretty things" and got into her own old clothes; the coarse underwear, the heavy stockings and boots, the rough skirt, the man's shirt. How loosely they all hung! How thin she was! Now into her coat, her woolen cap down over her ears, her gloves—she was ready, her heart laboring like an exhausted stag's, her knees trembling, her wrists mysteriously absent. She went into the hall, found her snowshoes, bent to tie them on, and, straightening up, met Prosper, who had come in out of the snow.

He was glowing from exercise, but at sight of her and her pale excitement, the glow left him and his face went bleak and grim. He put out his hand and caught her by the arm and she backed from him against the wall—this before either of them spoke.

"Where are you going, Joan?"

"I'm a-goin' home."

He let go of her arm. "You were going like this, without a word to me?"

"Mr. Gael," she panted, "I had a feelin' like you wouldn't 'a' let me go."

He turned, threw open the door, and stepped aside. She confronted his white anger.

"Mr. Gael, I left Pierre dead. I've been a-waitin' for Mr. Holliwell to come. I'm strong now. I must be a-goin' home." Suddenly she blazed out: "You killed my man. What hev I to do with you?"

He bowed. Her breast labored and all the distress of her soul, troubled by an instinctive, inarticulate consciousness of evil, wavered in her eyes. Her reason already accused her of ingratitude and treachery, but every fiber of her had suddenly revolted. She was all for liberty, she must have it.

He was wise, made no attempt to hold her, let her go; but, as she fled under the firs, her webs sinking deep into the heavy, uncrusted snow, he stood and watched her keenly. He had not failed to notice the trembling of her body, the quick lift and fall of her breast, the rapid flushing and paling of her face. He let her go.

And Joan ran, drawing recklessly on the depleted store of what had always been her inexhaustible strength. The snow was deep and soft, heavy with moisture, the March air was moist, too, not keen with frost, and the green firs were softly dark against an even, stone-colored sky of cloud. To Joan's eyes, so long imprisoned, it was all astonishingly beautiful, clean and grave, part of the old life back to which she was running. Down the canyon trail she floundered, her short skirt gathering a weight of snow, her webs lifting a mass of it at every tugging step. Her speed perforce slackened, but she plodded on, out of breath and in a sweat. She was surprised at the weakness; put it down to excitement. "I was afeered he'd make me stay," she said, and, "I've got to go. I've got to go." This went with her like a beating rhythm. She came to the opening in the firs, the foot of the steep trail, and out there stretched the valley, blank snow, blank sky, here and there a wooded ridge, then a range of lower hills, blue, snow-mottled; not a roof, not a thread of smoke, not a sound.

"I'm awful far away," Joan whispered to herself, and, for the first time in her life, she doubted her strength. "I don't rightly know where I am."

She looked back. There stood a high, familiar peak, but so were the outlines of these mountains jumbled and changed that she could not tell if Prosper's canyon lay north or south of Pierre's homestead. The former was high up on the foothills, and Pierre's was well down, above the river. From where she stood, there was no river-bed in sight. She tried to remember the journey, but nothing came to her except a confused impression of following, following, following. Had they gone toward the river first and then turned north or had they traveled close to the base of the giant range? The ranger's cabin where they had spent the night, surely that ought to be visible. If she went farther out, say beyond the wooded spur which shut the mountain country from her sight, perhaps she would find it.

Continued next week.

SEEING AND HEARING

Two students on a train were telling about abilities to see and hear. The one says; "Do you see that barn over there on the horizon?

"Yes."

"Can you see that fly walking around on the roof of that barn?"

"No, but I can hear the shingles crack when he steps on them."—Awgan.

Some people in this burg never become so scared their hair stands on end. Ain't got no hair.

Your Opportunity

THIS is your opportunity to place a New 1923 Model Great Majestic Range in your kitchen at a real bargain.
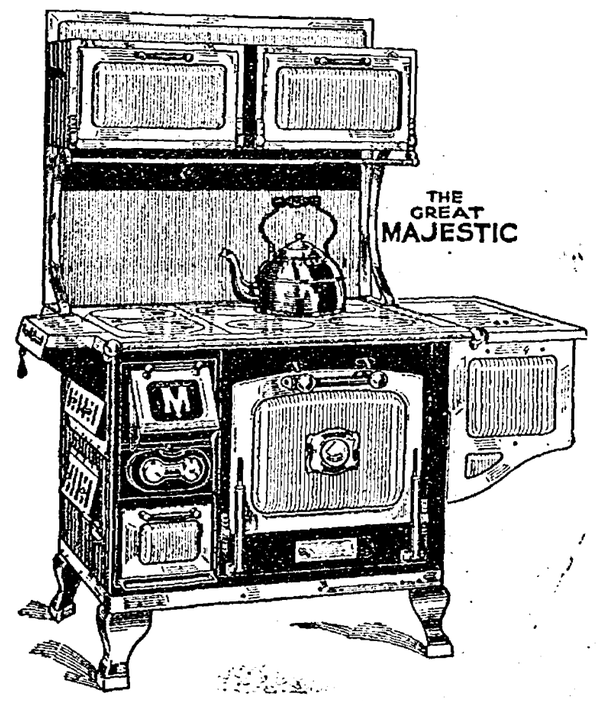
By all means don't fail to see the NEW MODEL MAJESTIC. It's the last word in modern range construction. Many, many improvements have been added to this already famous range and its graceful stream line beauty will please you immensely. Make it your business to drop in our store at least one day during our



Special Exhibit and Sale of GREAT MAJESTIC RANGES

ONE WEEK ONLY!

September 10th to 15th

Ask your friends and neighbors to come with you—we are so delighted with the New Model MAJESTIC that we want everyone to see it. Come whether you buy or not. Let the factory representative, who will be with us all week, show you just how the MAJESTIC is made—inside and outside—show you the true reasons why this wonderful range performs, looks and lasts so much longer than other ranges.

FREE--During This Exhibit Only!

Look at this fine set of cooking utensils! This set may be yours absolutely without cost, just for deciding to buy your Great Majestic Range this week instead of later.

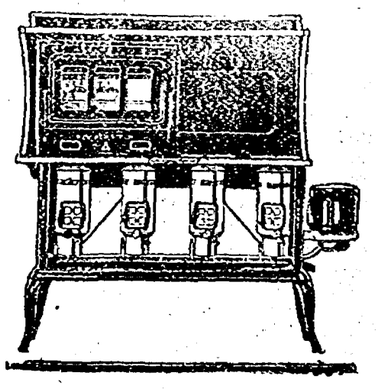
It is of pure heavy copper highly polished and of exquisite design. Every woman falls in love with it on sight—don't fail to drop in and see it.

As a further inducement to visit our store during Sale Week, we will give a 15 per cent Cash Discount on all New Perfection and Superfex Oil Ranges sold from Sept. 10th to 15th.

Let the factory representative give you the opinion of an experienced expert. He will show you the many features of the new MAJESTIC that have gained for it the proud position of being the most dependable and beautiful range in America.

Reputation in a range is something to be carefully considered before buying, for reputation is made up of tests successfully passed.

Choose the style of new MAJESTIC that meets your individual need and preference, the practical, durable economic and matchless cooking qualities that have always distinguished the MAJESTIC ranges are the same in every type. In addition to its superior working qualities, the new MAJESTIC by its handsome design and graceful artistic appearance, gives a touch of beauty to any kitchen. It is not only the best range to work with, it is the best to live with.



CATO C. GRIESY

Belmond, Iowa

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

The Frank Barry family entertained a number of young folks from Forest City, last week, in honor of Leo Barry, who left Sunday evening to attend school at Dubuque.

Mrs. Brand returned from Henry, South Dakota, Tuesday. She had been there this summer visiting her son, C. G. Glidden.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Meyer, of Titonka came Sunday for a visit at the home of Mrs. Ben Stadtlander.

E. A. Pierce is improving his residence by a coat of paint.

Louis Tokman is in Duluth, Minnesota, this week on a business mission.

Elmer Sheriff, John McCabe, Andrew Coppernagle and J. S. Kernan were visitors last week at the Minnesota State Fair.

E. Bock was a visitor last week at the Minnesota State Fair.

Celia Finn went to Dumont, Tuesday, to attend the wedding of Carl Nordschow and Irma Leese.

Miss Veronica McNamara left last week for Fort Dodge, where she will attend Tobin college this year.

Mrs. Tom Whelan had the misfortune to fall off the back step at her home last week, suffering a badly sprained and dislocated ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Woods, of Chicago, came Sunday for a few days' visit at the home of John Zook. Mrs. Woods is a sister of Mr. Zook. Tuesday the three of them left for Greenfield, Iowa, where they will visit another sister for a few days.

R. D. Box is the owner of a new Overland Red Bird.

The city of Clarion has opened a large amount of its new paving, and a vast improvement is evident. You can now travel all over the town without danger of getting stuck in the mud. As soon as the roads leading into town are graveled, Clarion will be in fine shape. The roads are graded up, ready for gravel, and until the gravel is spread the wise motorist will stay off in wet weather.

Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion, and Lewis Angel Firpo, the Argentine contender, will mix tomorrow night at the Polo grounds, New York City. Local fight fans are planning to get the returns via radio and save that ten dollars for a seat.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fetrow started Sunday for points in Minnesota on a vacation and fishing trip.

This warm weather is doing wonders for the corn crop. A large amount of corn is now beyond danger of frost, and a few more days of sunshine will bring it all over the danger line. The crop, from present prospects, will be a good one, altho not an exceptionally large yield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Nihoof returned last Saturday from Albert Lea, Minnesota, where they had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson. Mrs. Nelson is a niece of Mr. Nihoof.

C. J. Schmalle brought the Independent editor a sample of his 1923 muskmelon crop the other day. Said sample was as large as a watermelon, dripping with juices, and we wish to extend our thanks. Mr. Schmalle's "compliments" are certainly good ones.

Mr. Chas. Best, of Burchinal, Iowa, motored to Belmond last Wednesday to visit his son, Ray, and family.

A card from Mrs. Carrie Sheffield, who is enroute by auto with her daughter to California, where they will make their home, reports that they are having a nice trip. While near Lake City, Iowa, a road hog crowded their car to the side of the road, where they tipped in the ditch. Fortunately no one was injured and the party were soon on their way again. As Mrs. Sheffield expressed it, "Scared but whole." They are headed for Long Beach.

That the modern way to sell goods is to let the buyer know all about them, is well illustrated at the demonstration of the Majestic Range in the store of Cator C. Griesy, all this week. An expert from the factory is showing how the Majestic has won its reputation through its rugged construction, heat-tight seams, perfect damper and draft control, fine, permanent finish, and other characteristics. A fine set of cooking utensils is being given away free, with every range purchased during the week.

Mrs. Martin, of Superior, Wisconsin, returned to her home Thursday after a few days' visit at the Ray Best and Edwin Schmalle homes.

Chas. Thiltgen, of Belmond, and R. C. Morrison, of Fort Dodge, are looking forward with pleasure to a contemplated trip to Clear Lake for a battle with the reported school of young whales that have gotten into the lake. Bets are heavy on Charley.

Mrs. M. S. Harrison has returned from a trip to Omaha, Nebraska.

B. T. Benson, of Kanawha, was in town last week, enroute to Santa Rosa, California, where he will visit his folks, Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Shurson, and Mrs. R. Benson.

Thursday last a storm hovered over the town, which looked rather dangerous for a time, but which passed on east and southeast, where a very heavy rain fell, accompanied by a hard wind. A little damage from wind was done on some farms.

E. E. Boughton and family and guests spent Sunday at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hughes went to Montana last week, to look after their ranch. Oil has been discovered near their land.

Mrs. Berighter from Peru, Illinois is visiting friends here this week, and looking after her farming interests east of town.

Miss Grace Boughton went to Mason City, Sunday, to visit relatives, and to shop. She returned Monday evening.

Geo. Loupe and family from Newton spent the week end at the E. E. Boughton home.

D. E. Packard and son, Ned, drove to Wisconsin, Sunday, where they will spend a week fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Hero Frohling returned Sunday from Clear Lake where they had been visiting two of their daughters, who reside there.

Rev. and Mrs. Wipperman drove to Grimes, Iowa, Monday, for a few days' visit with relatives.

Jas. Kenefick, Bob Wilson and Pete Amblie returned last week from their Minnesota trip, where they spent a couple of weeks fishing and camping. Jim says they had a fine time, and that the fishing was great. Crops up there he reports as good as Iowa's in the southern part of the state, especially the corn. He was very much struck with the tourist camp at Brainard, and says it is worth the while of any motorist to go out of his way to camp there.

The Royal Neighbors met at the home of Mrs. E. M. Lathrop on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Butts was taken into the order as a member. Delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Dr. C. W. Wassam of Iowa City paid a flying visit to his sister, Mrs. W. J. Buchanan, last Saturday. He had just finished his lectures on a chautauqua course and was on his way home. He has taught in the State University for 20 years.

The Cemetery Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Ed. Bailey on Friday, September 14th. The hostesses are Mesdames Bailey, Webb, H. F. Luick and Miss Tracy.

E. E. Boughton has moved his second hand store from the building near the Community station to the building recently occupied by the Jones Harness Co.

A slight change has been made in the time of the Rock Island passenger train left for service. The only passenger left is the combination, which goes north now at 2:10 p. m. instead of 2:15, and south at 11:50 a. m. instead of 11:46.

Mrs. M. C. Barry and Mrs. Wm. Nelson entertained at an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Barry, Saturday afternoon. It was quite an elaborate affair. The color scheme was white and yellow, even the waitresses costumes being in those colors. A two-course luncheon was served.

H. G. Nordschow and family drove to Dumont this week Tuesday, to attend the wedding of his brother, Carl, to Miss Irma Leese.

If you have a stove to sell, now is the time, and an Independent Want Ad will sell it for you.

Miss Mary Brown, Miss Selma Hill and Miss Ferriel went to Mason City, Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. Anderson in their car and spent the day.

Mr. Hauge, from Des Moines, was a guest of his brother, E. G. Hauge, last week.

Twenty per cent discount on all Royal Society school dresses at the Hat Shoppe.

Mrs. Rosecrans drove to Des Moines, Tuesday to purchase some new goods for the Hat Shoppe.

SPECIAL FOR SATURDAY
We have placed on sale one lot of Ladies Fall and Winter Hats. Your choice for only $4.98.—Mrs. Emma Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. Major, of Mason City, attended the funeral, Sunday, of little Murieul Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Thayne Bailey autoed to Iowa City, Tuesday, Mrs. McBurney accompanying them as far as Cedar Rapids.

The F. O. Fitts and I. H. Benson families returned Monday from their Minnesota trip.

Mrs. Jas. Adams was hostess to the Priscilla club on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stebbleton of Britt were guests at the Wallace Ramsay home Sunday.

Mr. Anderson, of Iowa City, spent the week end with his wife, who is 8th grade teacher here.

Miss White spent the past week with Miss Miller. She left for school at Cedar Falls, Monday.

Word received by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fyler of the arrival of a fine baby girl at their home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Scott returned last week from their auto trip to points in Minnesota.

Wm. Chase was visiting friends in Belmond a few days last week. He has been at Fort Des Moines the past six months, in the Ninth Artillery of the U. S. Army. He went to Chicago the latter part of last week, where he took the examinations for entrance to the Coast Guard. He will go to New London, Connecticut, to government school for a three years' course in engineering. Upon graduation he will rank as Ensign. The coast guard service in peace times is a separate branch, but in time of war automatically becomes a part of the navy. "Bill" was appointed alternate to West Point, but the man receiving first chance took it so he was unable to go to the Point and is taking the coast guard service instead. Bill's host of friends in Belmond wish him every good thing in his work.

Mrs. J. R. Macdonald spent Friday at Belmond.—Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Crist Stadtlander and family, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Bekker an Miss Anna Sprenzel were guests at the Bert Stadtlander home Sunday.

Mrs. Lyman Steenblock, who received a broken limb while in the car in which she was riding a few weeks ago, was taken to the hospital at Iowa City last Saturday and will undergo an operation.—Dows Advocate.

The W. F. M. S. closed their business of the year at the last meeting of the Conference year, held at the parsonage Sept. 6th. No lesson was taken up as the time was filled with business, Mite box opening and mystery questions. Mrs. Ramsay was chosen president because she seems to be the right person in the right place. The members felt they could not do without her for another year at least. Mrs. H. F. Luick was elected vice president. Mrs. F. E. Snyder Recording Secretary, Mrs. E. F. Bailey Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. H. L. Gowdy Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Hedges Mite Box Treasurer, Mrs. Wilkinson, Supt. of Standard Bearers, Mrs. Trafford Supt. King's Heralds, Mrs. Crozier Supt. Little Light Bearers. A good year is anticipated judging by the enthusiasm shown. Mrs. Wilkinson served dainty refreshments.
***

Twenty-six million penny Christmas seals have just been received at the office of the Iowa Tuberculosis Association. They will be distributed throughout every county in the state and sold during the annual Christmas seal campaign, which opens formally December 1st.

The work of organization will begin early in September with the appointment of committees in every county by the local health organizations.

The proceeds of the seal sale are used by the local associations in various forms of child health work, nursing, health education, fresh air camps, clinics, etc., and a portion by the State Association in the prevention of tuberculosis both in humans and animals, and in general health work.

This is the fifteenth annual Christmas seal sale. During the fifteen years in which the money thus raised has been used in preventing disease and promoting health the tuberculosis death rate has been reduced fifty cent, infant mortality twenty per cent and the general death rate ten per cent.

The design of this year's seal, possibly in response to the suggestions coming from Iowa local chairmen, contains Santa Claus and the colors are the conventional Christmas green and red.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—One new Ford touring car and one new Chevrolet touring car.—Nordschow Motor Co.

For Sale—Wagon, disc, scoop board, a barrel, 75 feet of inch and one-four rope, bath tub, and a number of other articles. Call at the house.—D. H. Hake. 43tfc.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—New Chevrolet Coupe. Call or phone 206. 422c

For Sale—Brass bed, spring and mattress. Inquire at Independent. 1*

Wanted—A high school girl to work for board and room. Inquire at Independent.

Found—License plate and tail light. Owner can have same by calling at Independent and paying cost of advertising. 423c

Lost—Sterling Silver Bar Pin, between telephone office and John Dempsey's. Return to telephone office. 1c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	17c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	18c
Leghorns	08c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	27c
Cream	42c
Creamery Butter	45c
Oats	31c
Corn	75c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

GOODYEAR Service Station

THE best footing your car can get on rain-swept streets and slippery hills is the gripping All-Weather Tread of a Goodyear Tire. The high, thick, sharp-edged blocks of that famous tread take a slipless hold and hang on with a wedgelike action that prevents side-slip or skidding.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

THEY GET OVER IT

Old Si Chestnut says: "All men may be born equal, but they get over it before they die."

Indeed they do. Some succeed. Many fail. In which class will YOU be found? Two things are necessary to attain financial success—the opportunity to make money and the ability to SAVE it. In the matter of saving, a good Bank like ours can help you. We invite you to bank with us.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

Greater Values---

REMEMBER—Every Overcoat ordered here is made from genuine ALL WOOL FABRICS and strictly made to your own individual measurements.
PRICES FROM $30 TO $60
ALL KINDS OF FABRICS ALL STYLES

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

PATTON BROS. COMPANY

WHERE A DOLLAR DOES ITS DUTY

Mason City and Manly, Iowa

31 years of straight forward merchandising with none of the quack methods.

When we buy we consider wear, style, size and all-round goodness.

When we sell you, you get this same all round goodness---there is no gamble.

Our stocks for Fall and Winter are ready.

Lots of style
Fine quality
Wide variety
at the lowest prices that this satisfying clothing can be sold.

PUMPKIN CONTEST
Boys, bring in your pumpkins week of October 1st

Quality Food

FRESH MEATS
FRUITS
GROCERIES

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa
Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1923 | NO. 45

Belmond People In Auto Wreck Friday

Supt. Guthrie And Three High School Boys Crashed Into By Aged Speeder.

NOT HURT SERIOUSLY, THO

Supt. W. J. Guthrie, Sam Leinbach, Claude Johnson, and Ira Studebaker were victims of a speed demon last Friday night when the car they were riding in was struck head-on by a Buick, driven by Henry Dickman, of Sumner, Bremer county. All four were more or less bruised and shaken up, but fortunately none of them seriously.

The four were returning from Clear Lake, where the school foot ball team had played that afternoon. Supt. Guthrie was driving his own car, a Chevrolet touring, with Leinbach in the front seat beside him, and Johnson and Studebaker in the back seat. The accident occured on the paving between Garner and Clear Lake, about two miles east of Garner. Dickman, a man of close to 75 years of age, and his wife were coming from the west at a rate of speed said to have been 35 miles an hour. Dickman, not knowing the road, did not see the turn going north in time to slow up, and attempted to make it on the wrong side of the road. Guthrie was going about 10 to 12 miles an hour, preparatory to making the turn. The big Buick swung around the corner on the wrong side of the paving and smashed squarely head-on into the Chevrolet. Guthrie was thrown forward against the wheel, while Leinbach and Studebaker shot out sideways with such force that they took practically the whole side of the car with them. Leinbach struck on his head, suffering a concussion which left him dazed for some time. Studebaker was cut and bruised, as was Johnson. Guthrie suffered several bad cuts and bruises and a sprained knee. All of them, however, are coming fine and were not seriously injured.

Mrs. Dickman was quite badly injured, being thrown forward against the instrument board and suffered very badly injured knees. The injured were all taken to Garner for treatment, and Saturday Mrs. Dickman was reported doing nicely.

Guthrie's car was a total wreck, and Saturday Dickman gave him a check for the whole thing and took it off his hands. Crowds of Garner people were out to view the scene and the wrecks of the two cars, the universal opinion being that Dickman was old enough to know better than drive so fast on a strange road, a narrow pavement, after dark. As it turned out, it was a lucky accident for all concerned but it might very easily have been a fatal one. The Belmond folks do not understand yet why it wasn't.

BELMOND FIREMEN GIVEN HIGH PRAISE BY KLEMME

The Klemme Times last week pays high tribute to the valor and efficiency of the Belmond Fire Department, which assisted in fighting the recent blaze at the neighboring town. The Times said in part:

"A call was put in for the Belmond Fire Company to bring their chemical truck. They made a record run and arrived in 25 minutes. They got their engine in operation and turned chemicals into the pool hall and checked the fire which was then raging high and was very threatening. The Belmond fire boys are to be complimented on their quick trip and ability as fire fighters, and it was demonstrated that a chemical truck should be installed in Klemme. The fire had too great a start to really show the best work of chemicals, but those who stood in the alley and had a full view of the entire building declare the flames seemed to sink away as the chemical was applied.

AUTO CRASH HERE SATURDAY

Ellis Burke, driving his big taxi car, ran into Mrs. Curtis Luick, driving a Ford touring car, Saturday afternoon at the Independent corner on Main street. Mrs. Luick was just about to turn the corner, and had thrown out her hand signalling her intention. Burke was so close behind her that he could not stop in time, and crashed into the rear end of the Ford. The left rear wheel was broken off. The wrecked car was hauled to the Belmond Auto Co. garage, where Mr. Burke stood the repair bill. No one was injured.

DISTRICT COURT ITEMS

The next term of the Wright county district court which convenes at Clarion October 1st, will be the largest in point of the number of cases in the history of the county. The total number of cases docketed is 365, classified as follows: Old cases carried forward from previous terms, 173; new cases 97; probate 77; criminal 16; juvenile 1; widow pensions 1. To complicate matters there is some talk of bringing the Sheffield bank failure case from Franklin county to this court on a change of venue. The bank case would probably take at least two weeks of the four alloted to the October term and that would be equivalent to throwing a monkey wrench into the "wheels of justice" as the local bar has spent much time, in preparing their own cases for trial. It is doubtful if officers of a defunct bank would find any more sympathy in this county than at home.

Thursday, September 20th. was the last day for filing cases for the October term of court. There is an unusually large docket this term.

R. N. Cowin, Ralph Storm and Nicholas Webber pray the insurance of a temporary writ of injunction restraining Frank Patton, John Hammill. Walter C. Ramsay, Glenn Hayness and W. J. Burbank from interferring with the possession of the plaintiffs in certain real estate lying adjacent to the easterly shore of Wall Lake in Wright county, Iowa from building roads upon said premises or in any manner taking property of plaintiffs: that upon final hearing said injunction be made permanent and that plaintiffs have judgment for costs. A temporary injunction was issued last week by Judge Clock of Hampton.

W. K. Roosevelt of Clarion demands judgment against Clair Meacham and Mrs. Clair Meacham for $143.87 on an unpaid note.

Della E. Lamb of Belmond asks that she be granted a divorce from A. L. Lamb on the grounds of cruelty. She also desires $500 temporary alimony and such permanent alimony as the court may deem fair. They were married November 1907, at Taylorville, Ill., and lived togetner until September 18th of this year.

Unique Fibre Products Co., vs. R. Thompson is an appeal on a decision rendered in the justice court of Pleasant township. The plaintiff sought payment of $49.50 from defendant for merchandise. Jury in above court decided in favor of defendant, hence the appeal.

Board of supervisors of Wright county, acting for drainage district No. 177 vs. Belmond Construction Co., E. F. Bailey manager, is a controversy arising over said drainage ditch. Plaintiff states that due to negligence on the part of defendant in constructing the drain large quantities of dirt entered same; that said defendant has received the full contract price of $9,750. Thereafter said board caused drain to be cleaned at the expense of $1051.63. Defendant has paid on said damage the sum of $500.00, but there still remains unpaid $551.63, in which amount plaintiff asks judgment.

W. A. Parsons of Belmond is defendant in a suit brought by Wyman Partridge & Co. for $355.94, the balance due on a merchandise account. John U. Farwell Co. also brings suit against same defendant for $117.07.

Henrietta Frohling of Belmond appeals to the district court from decision of commissioners of insanity, who held a hearing in Belmond April, 1923 and found her insane and ordered her committed to the state hospital. —Monitor

THIRD INFANTRY NOT TO RETURN THRU BELMOND

The Third Infantry, which camped at Belmond last June enroute from Fort Snelling to Fort Des Moines, and who have been at the latter place all summer, will not return thru Belmond as had been hoped. They began the march back to Fort Snelling last week, taking the Jefferson Highway. They will be at Hampton today. Enroute home they have a few less men, but have more equipment, including 16 machine guns and a tank.

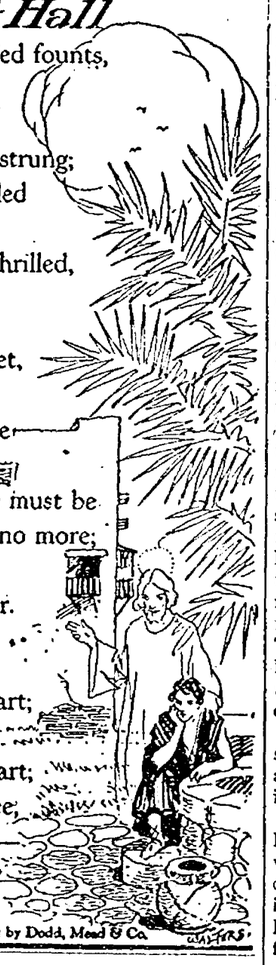
ALL WANT CHEMICAL TRUCKS

Since the recent fire at Klemme, and the practical demonstration given by the Belmond boys with our chemical truck, Klemme and Garner are starting agitation to secure similar protection. Papers in both towns are strong for such a fire truck, and sentiment seems to be favorable.

Dr. G. F. McBurney is the owner of a new Chevrolet coupe purchased of the Belmond Motor Sales Co.

A PRAYER

By Grace E. Hall



Lord, I have drunk from strange and varied founts,
And still a thirst is dry upon my tongue;
I am not satisfied; the fever mounts
Within my veins; my nerves are harshly strung;
No substance have I garnered that has filled
The emptiness of soul that still is mine,
Though mortal joy for fleeting hour has thrilled,
It palled at last, like vapid, tasteless wine.

Lay Thou upon my lips some potion sweet,
For I have tasted aloes—aye, and gall!
'Tis but in fairness I should have complete
In final years, exemption from it all;
Assuage this thirst! Some fountain there must be
Where others have been blessed, to long no more;
Give one full draught of happiness to me,
That Life, long loitering, has failed to pour.

There is a sedative within Thy grace—
I've seen its power transform a human heart;
It leaves a nameless calm upon the face,
Gives strength to live and play a nobler part;
The founts of life are bubbling full and free,
But sediment encrusts each brimming cup—
Hold Thou against my lips eternally
Thy living truth—and let me humbly sup.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co.

NOTHING BUT PRAISE FOR TREATMENT HERE

The men and officers of Troop "G", 14th U. S. Cavalry, who camped here last Wednesday and Thursday, had nothing but the highest praise for the treatment accorded them during their stay in Belmond. Captain Orland S. Peabody, commanding, desired the Independent to express the most sincere thanks of he and his men to the citizens of Belmond, of the Legion Auxiliary, and the American Legion for the treatment given them. Of all the places they camped, going or coming, the Captain said Belmond was by far the best, and the men hated to leave.

The Troop arrived at 12:45 p. m. Wednesday, camping on the grounds just south of the Pat Dillon residence. A ball game and drill had been scheduled, but owing to the rain was cancelled. Some of the horses were in bad shape, and the Captain decided to lay over a day, give the horses a rest and stage the drill and game Thursday. The rain again made this impossible, much to the disappointment of both citizens and troops.

Spring chickens and home-made pies were sent the men Wednesday, with two boxes of apples. Thursday the Auxiliary ladies sent a batch of pies. The Legion turned their hall over to the men, and furnished them 15 pounds of candy. R. H. Klemme gave them the use of an empty house to bunk in, and the men greatly appreciated this act, their "pup tents" being a poor place in the rain. Bill Dempsey gave them a big feed of fresh pop corn, and the men certainly cleaned it up. They left Friday morning firmly convinced that Belmond is "some town!"

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Ladies Missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. C. P. Luick on Thursday afternoon. A full attendance will be appreciated.

Next Sunday we will have with us Rev. Henry Tuttle of Raymond, Illinois, who will preach both morning and night.

Our regular quarterly businesss meeting will be held next Tuesday, October 2. Let us have a full attendance.

COUNTY ATTORNEY GETS ANOTHER HOOCH STILL

County Attorney Jensen gathered in another still last Saturday, when one was found among the effects of one Fred Burback, a Russian residing on the hill west of town, which were being sold at auction to satisfy a judgment for debts. The still was concealed in a box containing some clothing, and consisted of the usual coils and a milk can. It was taken to Clarion, where an indictment will doubtless be returned against the owner. Burback has left the country, going, it is said, to Green Bay, Wisconsin.

SAM LIEUWEN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Relatives here of Sam Lieuwen receive word last week of his serious injury in an auto mishap at Green Bay, Wisconsin. According to present knowledge, Sam was either struck by another car, or else ran into a culvert, last week Monday. Two men in a car brought him to a doctor, and then went after Mrs. Lieuwen. They told her that Sam had run into a culvert, but when Sam regained consciousness he denied this, declaring he was smashed into head-on by a big car. He was badly cut up, being thrown thru the windshield of his own car. His scalp was cut to pieces, both legs badly gashed in places to the bone, and his nose cut off so that it hung down over his mouth. Reports from Mrs. Lieuwen state, however, that he is coming along very nicely and making a rapid recovery. His car was more or less wrecked, both front wheels being broken, fenders smashed, windshield and top broken, and the engine driven back into the front seat of the car. At this writing, no clew has been found as to the identity of the parties in the other car.

GET STRAIGHT ON GAME LAWS

Once in a while the deputy game wardens get things slightly twisted and lay down the law from their own interpretation of it. Exceptions were taken to such an article published in this and other papers which came from the Clear Lake officer. In order to settle the matter local sportsmen took the same up and Dr. Roosevelt wrote to headquarters for information. Following is the letter in full as it will be of interest to sportsmen throughout the county:

State of Iowa
Fish and Game Department
Des Moines
September 13, 1923

Dr. T. T. Roosevelt,
Clarion, Iowa.
Dear Sir:

This law regarding shooting before sunrise on the waters of the state reads, "no person shall at any time hunt or shoot from any boat, canoe, contrivance or device whatever on any of the waters of this state between sunset or sunrise." The federal law prohibits shooting ducks on land between sunset and one-half hour before sunrise.

Since the law reads that no shooting shall be done on the waters of the state before sunrise from any boat, canoe, or other water conveyance, one would be within the law in wading out and standing in the water and shooting providing it was not before one-half hour before sunrise. Any birds shot from land during the period between one-half hour before sunrise and sunset could be picked up by the hunter if he waded out and got them.

If shooting from a boat, one can go out and get set for the shoot and set decoys at any time but no shooting shall be done before sunrise.

Very truly yours,
I. G. Rhoads,
Secretary
—Monitor

BELMOND SCHOOL NOTES

The Wright County Teachers Institute will be held in Clarion, Thursday and Friday of this week. The Belmond teachers are required to attend. Consequently school will be closed on those days.

Advantage will be taken of the vacation at the end of this week to make certain changes in the school building. The manual training department will be moved to the lunch room south of the gymnasium. The lunch pupils will be accomodated on the balcony of the gymnasium for the present. The manual training room is to be fitted up as a school room and will be occupied by the eighth grade. The partition separating the present eighth grade room from the home economics department will be taken out and moved to the opening from the manual training room into the staining room. Thus the room originally intended as a sewing room will be restored to the home economics department. This room, altho very small has been used as a school room for the past two years. The staining room will be turned into a store room opening off the outer office. This room is badly needed, as there has been no place to keep school supplies, supplementary reading, etc.

Additional pupils entered this week so that our total enrollment is now about 565. Every nook and cranny in the building is in use.

The first fire drill of the year was held Tuesday morning. No attempt was made to establish a speed record. Pupils passed out quietly and in order. There was no confusion. Later on, as plans are perfected, the fire drill can be conducted a little quicker and smoother.

Mr. Varland, of the State Bank, and a Mr. Cobble, from Lincoln, Nebraska, spent Tuesday morning visiting each room in order to talk on the subject of thrift and saving. A well worked out plan for encourageing boys and girls to save their pennies and nickles was presented. This plan contemplates the establishment of a savings account and should be encouraged by every parent. One cannot start too early to inculcate habits of saving and economy in children.

Our football team played Clear Lake, Friday. During the first half our boys held the score 0 to 0. In the second half Clear Lake made two touchdowns. We consider that our boys played very well considering their inexperience.

Next Friday we play Garner at Garner. The boys are having some strenuous practice this week and will be able to play a better game than they did last Friday.

The first Literary program will be given by Division I next week, Friday, Oct. 5.

Harvey Chapman and Caryl McIntyde visited high school Friday. They left Monday for Ames where they will attend scool.

Alvin Hauge of the Sophomore class was operated upon for appendicitis. He is improving, but it will be some time before he can be back at school.

Imogene Goerts from Mason City, a friend of Miriam Gibbs, visited in high school Monday.

The Senior Normal Training students are planning to attend the county institute at Claron.

GOODELL PUPILS STRIKE AGAINST K. K. K.

The pupils of the Goodell school staged a spectacular strike Monday afternoon of this week. The substance of the affair seems to be as follows:

One of the high school teachers was called away by the death and funeral of a relative, and a teacher from Goodell substituted for her. It is claimed that this substitute teacher's immediate male relatives are Klan members, and the pupils refused to go to school under her for that reason, altho, as we understand it, it was not claimed the teacher herself was a member.

The pupils all struck with the exception, it is said, of eight, and after staging a parade down the main street of the town singing the Star Spangled Banner and carrying placards declaring "We Won't Work For The K. K. K." they had a big picnic and weiner roast down by the river.

It is not known at this time what action, if any, will be taken by the school authorities.

Later: It is reported that all who participated in the strike, excepting one or two, have signed an apology and the storm is over.

Wednesday afternoon and evening and all that night, brought about the hardest rain this vicinity has experienced this year. It poured for hours straight Wednesday evening, and did not let up until Thursday forenoon. Roads were a mass of mud, and travel on the dirt almost impossible for a day or two.

Belmond Loses First Game of the Season

Hold Clear Lake Team To A Draw In First Half But Go Down In Second.

BOYS PLAY GREAT GAME

Belmond High went down to defeat before Clear Lake in the first foot ball game of the season, played at Clear Lake last Friday before a mob of wild-eyed fans, 14 to 0.

Clear Lake won, but they can consider that had the god of luck not played a prominent part on their behalf, the result would have been different, far different. The two teams were about as evenly matched as could be, and a terrific struggle for the first half was carried on in the center of the field, with Belmond having a slight edge. The boys fought superbly, and held their heavier opponents to a standstill.

A series of forward passes on the part of Belmond pushed the ball nearly to the Clear Lake line. Three beautiful passes, perfectly executed, netted Belmond over half the field. Line smashes and end runs carried them to within a few feet of a touchdown, where the Lakites made a desperate, last-ditch stand—and held them!

This was the second time Belmond had nearly scored. In the second half, with the ball about a yard from the line, and in Belmond's hands, first down, the whistle blew for the half. Another minute and it would have been over.

In the last quarter, two lucky breaks, combined with some very good work in interference by Clear Lake, gave them their first touchdown. A delayed kick fell into Clear Lake hands, and was returned about 30 yards. An end run, with almost perfect interference, netted six points, and the extra on the kick for goal.

Clear Lake then used a series of end runs with a punt, and placed the ball next to Belmond's line, where two line smashes carried it over, with a point for goal.

Clear Lake outclassed the boys in end runs and interference, which, with their additional weight, counted. But Belmond had them dizzy on forward passes, and worked the fake pass to tatters for big gains. They held the line equally as good, and were faster on their feet. Their interference was poor, however, and the Lakites took every advantage of this fact. The break of luck gave the game to Clear Lake; with the two teams so evenly matched nothing, really but luck could decide it. The Clear Lake boys are a mighty good outfit, heady and willing and full of pep, and are going to make a good team. Belmond does not feel at all bad over losing, and in truth are as proud as peacocks over the showing of the boys. We are going to have an honest-to-goodness foot ball team here before very long, and it deserves the strongest support of the town. The first home game, with Kanawha on October 5, should see Belmond on hand in full war paint.

The next game on the schedule is with Garner, at Garner, tomorrow, Friday afternoon.

TILTON-COATES

Mrs. Mary Tilton and Mr. Wm. M. Coates were united in marriage at the Congregational church, Monday afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. S. U. Leinbach officiating. They will reside in Belmond.

Mrs. Coates has been making her home for some time with Mrs. Pernell. Mr. Coates is a mill worker, and comes from Fort Dodge.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP SOCIAL

The regular monthly meeting and social time of the Pleasant Township Farm Bureau will be held at the J. F. Henn home next Wednesday evening, October 3rd. Miss Hazel Thomas, of the Belmond High School, will give an address. The usual good program has been arranged, and everybody is invited.

KLEMME FIRE LOSS $20,000

The Klemme Times, summing up their fire, says, Aaron Grieman, proprietor of the Ford Garage, estimates his loss at $12,000, with no insurance. He lost the building, 12 cars, five of them being new, one tractor, $2,400 in tires, and $5,000 in repairs, accessories, oils, greases, etc. Two car owners who had their autos in the garage also lost them, and these, with the pool hall building, run the total loss to about $20,000.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

CO-OPERATION

In this day and age no one gets much of anyplace unless he will co-operate. Co-operation is the keynote of success in any business, and in all organizations. The farmer will never get anywhere with his organizations unless he co-operates with his fellow farmers. The business man must co-operate with his fellows to a large extent or he does not progres. The town must have the co-operation of its citizens or it stands still if it does not go back.

Co-operation is simply working together for a common good. Just as two heads are better than one,, so are two citizens of a town working together better than one.

Belmond needs some co-operation. It needs its citizens working together for the common good, instead of hanging back or knocking. All together we can get somewhere; separtely we won't even get started.

THE NEW WORLD

Capper's Weekly has an article in a recent edition that ought to interest everybody. It tells what kind of a mess we are going to be in, in ten years. This prediction is by a Southern gentleman who hails from the land of the once-famous mint julip. And the present famous moonshine, some of which we think he imbibed before he wrote the spiel.

Says he, the world is a gonna go into convulsions. It's going to get all messed up, and Europe is going to disappear under the water and become a big pond, and the United States is going to stay right here and have a lot of more ground added to it, so that New York will be an inland city, just like San Francisco is going to be. This will certainly annoy the folks in those two villages something awful . The center of the United States will become the equator, with the earth turning on its axis until the north pole is lost among the Bolshevik whiskers in Siberia and the south pole melts in the Pacific ocean. And a lot of other moonshine notions that makes one shudder to see the things some folks will do to get a little publicity.

Well, anyway it won't be so expensive for clothes and the coal bills will be light.

DOES FARMER NEED COLLEGE?

Shall I go to agricultural college or shall I stay on the farm during the coming winter?"

That's the question that a great many Iowa boys who have finished high school and who intend to be farmers are asking themselves.

Will it pay we wonder to spend four years at college. The question will be threshed out one way or the other in a good many homes within the next two weeks. This was a live question also a year ago. Statistics seem to show that in Iowa it was answered in the affirmative in the majority of cases for the attendance in agricultural courses at Ames held up better last year than was the case in most of the other agricultural institutions of the country . President R. A. Pearson of the college at Ames has dealt with the question briefly in a statement just issued.

Such times as these thru which we are passing," says President Pearson, "emphasize more than ever the importance of agricultural education. Not less special training for his work, but more; not less knowledge of the science of agriculture and of the principles of management, but more, are needed by the individual farmer to make the best success of his farming operations. One of the great problems of the day for agriculture is to reduce the cost of production and education, which will help the farmer to do what is of inestimable value to him."

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. H. Saatoff of Belmond were Kanawha callers for a few hours, Sunday.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. LuVerne Smith and Albert Luick were at Belmond Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Smith's parents.—Times.

Mrs. Tom Hake was at Belmond Monday between trains visiting with relatives.—Times.

Arthur Wellemeyer was a business caller at Belmond between trains, Monday.—Times.

The Belmond Sugar Beet Company is putting up a big beet dump at the Rock Island tracks near the Standard Oil Co. tanks. It will be a permanent affair. An office is also being put up near the dump—Times.

Mrs. J. P. Larsen came up from Belmond Saturday for an over Sunday visit with relatives—Times.

The Rock Island Superintendent from Estherville was in Garner last Thursday. He came down by way of Emmetsburg and the Milwaukee. The train service from Estherville this way is so poor that even the Rock Island Superintendent doesn't use it. If he gets in a hurry to go any place he better use a jitney.—Signal.

Our neighbor Ed Wellemeyer told us about seeing a white robin a while ago. Then another of our neighbors, Ed Haskins, also told us about it. We were rather skeptical until Neighbor Haskins called us over the other morning to see it. And sure enough, out in his garden was the white robin. Its head and tail were sort of a grayish color, and its breast was of a brownish tinge, but otherwise it was almost pure white.—Signal.

CELEBRATE 20TH ANNIVERSARY

The 20th anniversary of the founding of Waldorf college at Forest City will be celebrated October 11. Five presidents of the college, students, teachers, alumni and citzens will participate in a big observation of the event.

DO "TOURISTS" COME FIRST?

Hampton Chronicle—The Belmond Press in a recent issue gently criticizes the board of supervisors for building Primary road No. 10 thru Wright county instead of first building a road down thru the swamps in the southwest part of that county which starts nowhere and ends nowhere as far as the people of Wright county or its neighbors are concerned. The Press admits that the action of the board was probably in the interests of the people of Wright county, but it wants to know, "how about the rest of the world."

The Press wants a road built north and south, straight from Des Moines, so the aforesaid tourists can save a few miles going north when they hit it for a fishing trip to Minnesota. Yes, the people of Wright county ought to be penalized 365 days in the year just to make it more convenient for some tourists who happen along once or twice a year. It might be said that we are all tourists but there are few of us who want to inconvenience the residents and tax payers of a county every day in the year just to help us save five or ten miles in a day's travel. The people of Wright county paid for the roads built in that county, so why not allow them a little consideration instead of giving it all to an occasional tourist,

The tourist is not kicking, either. He is willing to travel a few miles farther. All he wants is a road. He wants the roads of his own county built for the benefit and convenience of the people of his own county, and to be consistent he must favor the same policy for other counties.

Wright county will receive a far greater benefit by the outside travel on Primary road No. 10, that it would by any road built along the north and south route proposed by the Belmond paper, because No. 10 hits Rowan, Clarion, Holmes and Goldfield, and there is also a fine gravel road connecting Belmond with No. 10, so that the residents of that town can travel to the county seat of Wrigh county in any kind of weather. The proposed north and south road would help Belmond, but not another town in Wright county.

The greaest apposition to the state highway commission at this time, and it is a growing opposition instead of a waning opposition, is that the highway commission wants to build air lines for the tourists and let the people of the respective counties of the state wallow in the mud. Most of the county boards of supervisors in the state are taking the same view of the road building proposition as the Wright county board—they are insisting on building roads for the benefit of the people of their own county first.

Teacher: "Bobby, how many times have you whispered today?"
Bobby: "Onct."
Teacher: "Willie, what should he have said?"
Willie: "Twict."

RECENT DELIVERIES OF FORD CARS, TRUCKS AND TRACTORS

The Belmond Auto Co. report the following sales and deliveries:

E. Poulson, Clarion, touring.
W. W. Weld, Galt, runabout.
Albert Rust, Goodell, runabout.
J. W. Scott, Belmond, touring.
Mrs. Harry Mitchell, Mason City, runabout.
Wm. Retliff, Belmond, touring.
R. E. Lee Aldrich, Belmond, runabout
Ed. Didio, Belmond, touring.
Geo. Dirks, Belmond, touring.
Claude Thayer, Belmond, touring.
Harry C. Hanson, Alexander, runabout.
Peter Dorenkamp, Belmond, touring.
Pearlie LaGue, Rowan, touring.
C. C. Parks, Belmond, touring.
Geo. Gelder, Belmond, touring.
Clarence S. Johnson, Belmond, coupe
Clarence Gordon, Rowan, touring.
Lester Gobeli, Meservey, touring.
J. R. Christie, Belmond, touring.
Percy A. Swenson, Belmond, touring.
Mason City Oil Grease Co., coupe.
Adeline Sharon, Belmond, coupe.
R. C. Coulson,, Belmond, coupe.
C. C. Johnson, Alexander, truck.
Albert Smit, Belmond, touring.
Melvin N. Smith, Meservey, touring.
J. B. Tiara, Belmond, 4-door sedan.
Pete Evanovitch, Mason City, touring
Dewey Simmons, Clarion, touring.
Wm. Coburn, Rowan, runabout.
Jewell Tea Co., Chicago, model T chassis.
Jess Hartwig, Thornton, touring.
Arthur Enabinet, Swaledale, touring
F. J. Weeks, Belmond touring.
Wm. Collins, Belmond, truck.
E. C. Schalinske, Britt, touring.
P. J. Kiley, Kanawha, 4-door sedan.
Marie Johnson, Belmond, coupe.
Belmond Furniture Co., runabout.
Harm Pals, Belmond, touring.
Ben Vierkant, Meservey, tractor.
Adolph Minne, Belmond, tractor.
Clarence Scott, Belmond, tractor.
R. E. Butterbaugh Alexander, tractor.
Elmer Lineweaver, Rowan, tractor.
Nyscoe Boelman, Belmond, tractor.
Harvey Bjelland, Clarion, tractor.
Hio Goeman, Belmond tractor.
Bernard Rasmussen, Alexander, tractor.
R. A. Walters, Belmond, tractor.

Los Angeles is immensely progressive, yet at the same time antiquated It pulls its city dierectory as evidence that it has more population than the census bureau gives it.

Some people are so witty they are foolish—but not quite fools.

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER

Farm and General Sales

A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.

For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

FORD CLOSES SUMMER SEASON

August closed the summer season for the Ford Motor Company with sales of 161,567 cars and trucks, 39,608 more than were delivered at retail during the same month last year, it is just announced.

The remarkable increases which have characterized Ford sales so far this year, bringing them to a total of 1,212,553 for the eight months up to Sept. 1, promise to maintain the same proportions during the fall season.

At least, this is indicated by the number of orders on hand at the first of the present month. The new type cars, now in the hands of practically all dealers in the country, are attracting widespread attention.

The tendency toward closed car buying is growing more noticeable and in this connection the four-door sedan is gaining in popularity as the family car. This sedan has enjoyed a lively demand ever since its introduction and now, with improvements which have come as a result of the higher radiator, it is more attractive in appearance than ever before. The coupe, which is new in design and with many refinements, is enjoying unusual popularity.

Another though! If gasoline stays down in price we can all afford to have our clothes dry cleaned.

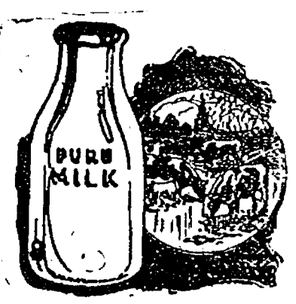
BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North
Freight, daily ..... 11:46 a m.
Passenger, daily, ... 2:10 p. m.
Going South
Freight, daily ..... 1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily ..... 11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.
Combination, daily .... 8:30 a. m
Going East
Combination, daily ..... 3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North
Motor, daily ..... 10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S .... 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S .... 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight ..... 7:55 a. m.
Going South
No. 11, pass., D & S .... 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S .... 3:15 p. m.
Motor ..... 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight ..... 3:20 p. m.



KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Your clothes satisfaction depends on quality

The only way you can be completely happy with the clothes you buy is to get fine quality. We know it. That's why we have such large stocks of

Hart Schaffner & Marx suits and overcoats

Come in and see them

Get To Know

GILDNER BROS.

MASON CITY, IOWA

WHITE PRODUCE WEEKLY

Springs are 16 cents, and not very apt to go much if any, higher. We advise you to sell now. And we will pay you the spot cash and the highest price.

Old hens, heavy ones, are worth 16 cents, light ones 12 cents. The market is steady, with prices the same. A good time to sell is right now. We can always handle them, and will give you the highest market price. Bring a coop in.

Eggs this week are 30 cents, the same as last week. The market is steady. We will be glad to have a case from you and offer you cash on the spot.

Cream is down to 42 cents this week. It went up to 45, but took a three-cent drop. Rather an unsteady market, inclined to be weaker. At all times we pay the highest prices for cream, and our service will please you.

May we have a share of your patronage?

Belmond Phone 272 — Earle E. Lateer
Goodell Phone 21 — Earnest F. Lateer

Use Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

This Winter

ENJOY a snappy response from your motor — instant starting — a quick, peppy get-away — eager, smooth acceleration — power to do — and racing speed for that emergency you cannot anticipate.

No need to dwarf your motor with inferior gasoline and struggle through the cold weather with a sluggish motor —hard to start—no life in the get-away — feeble in power — laboring in speed.

Red Crown contributes more pleasure and satisfaction to cold weather motoring than any other single factor.

Now is the time to join the host of constant users — numbering into the millions.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

And the following Filling Stations and Garages:

J. E. Raecker, Meservey, Iowa
Olander Sandberg, Goodell
Motor Inn Company

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) — Belmond, Iowa

8500

"STRICTLY A FARMERS CO-OPERATIVE INSTITUTION"

GOVERNMENT FARM LOANS

$25,000.00

The limit that can be loaned to the individual borrowers has been increased by the United States Congress to $25,000.00. This increase makes available for every farmer the benefits of the Federal Farm Loan Act.

The Dividend Rate for 1922 and the first half of 1923 was 13 per cent. These Dividends Reduce the Rate on 5 1-2 per cent loans to nearly 5 per cent. It is the cheapest loan for the Farmer. Why pay more?

The Loan That Never Comes Due

These loans are made for 34 1-2 years with favorable prepayment privileges.

Present borrowers may increase their loans now if security is sufficient.

Prompt Service Plenty of Funds On Hand No Red Tape

It is by far the best and cheapest loan for the farmer borrower.

For further information call on or write:

State Bank of Belmond

BELMOND, IOWA

A. L. LUICK, President. OLE THOMPSON, Vice President. W. T. GFELLER, Cashier.
O. L. VARLAND, Assistant Cashier. C. M. MORSE, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

G. F. ELDER	JOE PLETCH	A. L. LUICK	W. T. GFELLER
T. A. DAVENPORT	W. C. TYRRELL, Jr.	M. C. BARRY	M. F. CHRISTIE
HENRY GROEN	O. L. VARLAND	OLE THOMPSON	A. O. HAUGE
	R. H. KLEMME	SIMON SIMERSON

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

HATS!—HATS!—HATS!
Hats for the ladies,
Hats for the girlies,
Hats for the babies,
At the Belmond Hat Shoppe. Come in and look them over.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer and baby were Mason City callers on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Henrietta Wilkinson and daughters of near Klemme were callers in town last Friday. Mrs. Meinderts returned with them having visited with her daughters for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nissen and daughter were in Mason City last Wednesday on business.

Frank Haferman and wife accompanied by C. Bier and wife, motored to Mason City last Wednesday, the men going on a business errand, and the ladies calling on Mrs. G. J. Fischer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kolb were county seat callers last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer and two younger children departed last Friday for Hampton, Minnesota, in response to a telegram received telling of the death of the former's father, known among our citzens as "Grandpa" Fischer. We are expecting to be in receipt of a copy of the obituary in time for this issue, otherwise it will appear later.

Louie Meyers departed last week Wednesday for his old home in Bloomington, Wis., where he will visit his brother and other relatives and friends.

A. Schlichting and family moved from their home near Klemme to their new place southwest of town the forepart of last week.

John Watermiller and son Jake were Mason City business callers on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas and Lois and Esther Smith motored to Dows, Saturday p. m. to meet Miss Alma Ralston, who visited with home folks until Sunday p m. when she returned to her school work at Wellsburg.

The Misses Tillie and Ollie Pals, Mildred Gealow and Jennie Meinderts motored to Mason City last Monday to spend the day.

A. E Muller and family were calling on Belmond friends Sunday p. m.

E. G. Thomas and family visited at the J. B. Thomas home near Hampton last Sunday.

Frank Knoll and family of near Dumont were visitors at the W. F. Butz home, also at the former's sister's home, Mrs. Mary Butz on last Sunday.

Mrs. F. Lemke returned home from Mason City Sunday, after having been confined in the Park hospital for two weeks following an operation for the removal of a cataract. Her many friends will be pleased to learn that the operation proved successful and that she is getting along nicely.

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

Anita Herman, Alice Boelman and Arlo Paul have been absent the entire week.

Ruth Pals, George Frey and Hiene Winters were each absent one day this week.

We collected nearly four dollars for the Japanese relief fund last week.

We have had three callers these last two weeks. They were Mrs. I. F. Bier, Mrs. H. Blewett and Mrs Hartfelder.

Hiene Winters and Marvin Prilipp had their teeth treated this week at school.

The 5th and 6th grade rooms were honored by a visit from Mrs. H. Blewett and Mrs. Hartfelder.

The 5th grade were quite skillful in their dramatization of Harmosan.

Thursday the 6th grade had a perfect spelling lesson.

Drop in and see our whisperers—next recess.

Chas. Zieman and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. Mayers visited at the Robert Enabnit home near Clear Lake last Sunday.

Olliver Yelland and family from Sheffield were visitors at the C. J. Wendel home last Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Schlesselman were making pastoral calls last Monday, southeast of town.

Albert Wendel and wife were week end visitors with the latter's relatives at Waseca, Minn.

Wm. Messelheiser and family and the former's mother from Chicago, who has been a guest at their home for the past month, visited with relatives at Hampton Sunday.

The program giveny b the school last Monday evening on the grounds was largely attended and a splendid program rendered. Much credit should be given the teachers and pupils or the amount of work put on these entertainments.

Mr. and Mrs. Typer of Hampton visited at the home of their daughter Mrs. H. C. Barger and family.

Mrs. Laura Strosnider of Hampton is a guest at the Wm. Messelheiser home this week.

K. C. Ruigh and wife were Mason City callers Tuesday.

Mrs. A. E. Muller was a Mason City caller Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stadtlander, Miss Minna Freese, Miss Tillie Kilman and Miss Lydia Pannkuk drove to Chapin Sunday, to visit Harm Meints.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stadtlander autoed to Mason City Monday.

Heinie had a little birthday party Sunday. One year older, that's all.

Work on Theo. Wendell's house, which he is having rebuilt, is progressing rapidly and the carpenter crew of six will soon have the outside finished.

For Sale—Spotted Poland Male pigs. Sired by Victor's Advancer No. 75027. If you want the heavy bone with plenty of length, we have them.—P. H. Pals & Sons. 44tfc

EVANGELICAL CHURCH

From Sept. 26 to Oct. 14 services every night except Monday. Prof. Wieand and Prof. Dingman will have charge of the special meetings and music. Come and enjoy the meetings.

A. W. Schlesselman, Pastor.

IOWA BEING WATCHED ON PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

The world still watches Iowa for evidence of the success or failure of prohibition, says S. P. McNaught, supt. of the Iowa Anti-Saloon League, who has recently received requests for aid from Scotland and Germany.

Thru the Iowa Anti-Saloon League the Scottish Commission of Churchman is this week making a survey of the results of prohibition in Iowa, preparatory to a campaign for a dry Scotland.

Secretary Rodeick Manson, heading the commission is ciculating questionaires reaching several lines of professional and business endeavor.

Prominent agriculturists are being interviewed on the effect of prohibition upon grain profit, the extent of the abandonment of crops formerly raised for brewing and distilling purposes. where these grains are now being shipped or disposed of, and how the entire institution of prohibition is affecting standards of living.

IOWA GOES OVER, AS USUAL

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 27—Special: Iowa subscribed $27,035.52 more than was asked of her for the Red Cross Japanese relief, according to semi-final reports from the state given out today by Judge Hubert Utterback, State Chairman.

In cash and pledges the figures now stand at $107,035.52, with 106 Iowa chapters reported. The quota for the state was $80,000. Several chapters have not reported as yet.

Judge Utterback also announced great progress in the work of giving immediate relief to the Japanese. In the national drive the figure swept well past the $5,000,000 mark. The purchasing division of the Red Cross has already sent out practically $4 000,000 worth of supplies for Japan. The expenditures include rice, hospital supplies, milk, canned fish, flour, underwear, stockings, lumber and blankets. Large cash donations have been made to the Japanese Imperial Emergency Bureau, and to the State Department for assistance of Americans in Japan. The fact that the Red Cross was on the ground in Japan from the moment of the disaster has helped to save thousands of lives.

In a small town righteousness prevails, largely because the neighbors' eagle eye prevails.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A jolly company of ladies gave the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin N. Smith, a miscellaneous shower at their home one mile west of Meservey on last Thursday night, Sept. 20. Many beautiful and useful gifts were left for the bride and groom, which will add greatly to their already cozily furnished little home. Well filled baskets in the line of eats were taken along by the visitors, and a social evening was pleasantly spent until a late hour. Those present were the Mesdames Louis Foss, W. J. Hartfelder, Nels Faaborg, H. B. Frey, H. F. Reif, Albert Wendel, A D. Brogan, Frank Nissen, G. Raecker and J. H. Sprau and the Misses Jennie Meinderts, Fannie Bruns, Mildred Gealow, Ollie Pals and Tillie Pals.

Did you mail those two letters I gave you, Norah,

Yes'm, at the post office, but I noticed you had a two-cent stamp on the foreign letter and the five-cent stamp on the city one.

Oh dear, what a blunder

But I fixed it all right, m'am. I just changed the addresses on the envelopes.

Even the biggest liar unhung is a paragon of virtue in his own estimation.

The world never agrees with the man who can not make up his own mind.

Why worry over your lost complexion. You can always buy another.

Many a woman marries for money only to have it doled out to her in proportion to her deserts. Men, too, girls—so don't kick.

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER
Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Undertaking & Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Phone--Residence 17: Office 20
Meservey, Iowa

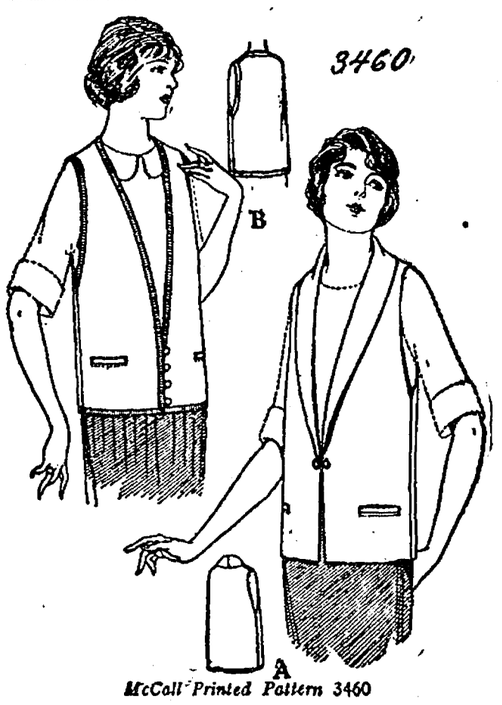
TIRES

If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

OUR MOTTO—"QUALITY FIRST"



McCall Printed Pattern 3460

Fall and Winter GOODS Arriving Daily

BRING YOUR PRODUCE AND POULTRY
Good Prices and Weights Given
Yours for business,

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor
Meservey, Iowa

The Man Who Spends--

all he earns will accumulate just as much on a $10.00 job as he will on a $10,000.00 one.

Did you ever look at it that way?

Think it over, decide how much you should save each month, the open a Savings Account and put away that amount regularly.

At this bank---

$1 OPENS A SAVINGS ACCOUNT $1

THE LARGEST BANK IN MESERVEY

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

For...

Quality Lumber

And All Kinds of

Building Material

See Us and Save Money

Try some of our Tennesee Block Coal
It Will Please You.

Better put in that Iowa Automatic Hog House Door now in your hog house.
You will like it.

H. J. Klemme Lumber Company

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Office Phone 20 Residence Phone 17

Dress up your house in new clothes

ACME QUALITY
HOUSE PAINT

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

Save the surface and you save all

ROWAN NEWS

Messrs. A. H. and A. E. Emerson arrived home Sunday from their trip to Comal, Ark., where they visited a brother, William, whom they had not seen for years

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Boyington and two children departed Monday for Gilmore City.

Otho Ballou of Cedar Rapids called on friends and relatives here last week.

R. H. Keith and Floyd Whitten were business callers at Dumont on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Heath were Sunday callers at the Cyrus Church home in Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baines and son Darrell of Dows were Sunday visitors at the Mrs. Hannah Whitten home.

Mrs. Tom Whitten is visiting at the home of her daughter Mrs. Andrew Sorenson at Duncombe for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jurden Brinkman and two children from Mankato arrived last week for a visit at the J. A. Whitten home and with other relatives.

Miss Pearl Whitten is working at the telephone office in Dows.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris and son of Thornton spent Sunday at the L. W. Stevenson home.

Mr. and Mrs Elmer Boyington of Dows have purchased the M. E. parsonage for the consideration of $1500. They expect to take possession immediately.

Rev. Osborn and family have moved into the Nagle house which was recently vacated by W. R. McCallum. They will occupy this home until a new parsonage is built.

Mrs. Albert Erickson and son Ivan of Reddick, Ill., arrived to make an indifinite visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Whitten, and with other relatives.

While assisting with silo filling at the Frank Drury farm Earl Sellers met with what might have proved to be a very serious accident. One of the boards of the hay rack broke letting Mr. Sellers fall between the horses and wagon scaring the horses so they ran. Mr. Sellers escaped with only a badly sprained foot.

Mrs. E. W. McKinley drove to Hampton, Saturday, to bring home his wife, who underwent an operation there several weeks ago.

Carl Steffens was a Ft Dodge visitor Wednesday.

Mesdames F. H. Brooks F. M. Myers, C. W. Fowler, R. E. Hadley and G. S. Liming were Fort Dodge shoppers last Thursday.

Mrs. Harm Brinkman and children of Latimer were in Rowan Tuesday on their way to the Baines funeral at Dows

Mrs. Hannah Whitten, Laurel and Harold Miss Angie Baines, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten, Mr. and Mrs G. W Whitten, Mrs. H. J. Whitten and Mrs. A. O. Polley attended the funeral service of H. W Baines Mrs Hannah Whitten's brother, at Dows last Saturday.

Mrs Mary Braden has sold her property just east of the Congregational church to H. J. C. Box, the consideration being $1650. Possession will be given Oct. 1.

Miss Lillian Shreck of Sheffield, spent the week end with her friend, Miss Frances Farran.

Coach Nabholtz and some of the high school boys went to Dows to attend football game Friday.

Ray Williams has been suffering severely with an infection in his head.

Kenneth Keith attended the foot ball game at Hampton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKinstry were up from Cedar Falls the first of this week, calling on old friends and relatives.

A goodly number of the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Arthur Emerson assisted her at a carpet rag bee on Friday. Dinner was served. About 50 pounds of rags were sewed, and the day was immensely enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Keith were at Goldfield, Sunday.

Mr. Chas. Hill, father of George Hill, at Clarion, passed away Sunday morning. Several families from Rowan attended the funeral which was held at Clarion, Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Burial was in Graceland cemetery, Rowan.

Mrs. Henry Proctor and son Frank and family of Hampton were Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. J. D. Brooks.

Mrs. O. E. Ballou, LaVonne and Mrs. Kate Conn attended Eastern Star meeting at Dows, Friday eve.

There will be no school Thursday and Friday of this week, on account of the teachers institute at Clarion.

The Epworth League had their regular business meeting and social on Tuesday evening at the church basement. The evening was enjoyably spent playing games. Refreshments were served.

Rev. Osborn departed Tuesday to attend the Northwest Iowa Conference at Sioux City this week. Prof. T. K. Holliday was elected lay delegate from the M. E. church and expects to be in Sioux City, Saturday to be present at the lay delegates conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Hake and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lineweaver were up from Elma to spend the week end here, returning Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hohn and two sons from Clarion spent Sunday at the D. K. Stout and Harry Harson homes.

Mrs. J. D Stevenson and Mrs. Frank Fritz of Blakesburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevenson of Goldfield visited Saturday at the L. W. Stevenson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Whitten were guests Sunday at the Scott Myers home in Dows.

The Epworth League are starting a Bible study class to be held on Wednesday evening in connection with prayer meetings. Rev. Osborn will have charge of the class and will take up the study of the Gospel of St. John. The class will begin their work after Rev. Osborn returns from conference at Sioux City. All young folks and older ones as well are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Whitten, Mr and Mrs D. W Whitten, Mrs. Chas Burger and Mrs. Floyd Whitten were Clarion visitors Monday afternoon.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Dick Stoffer was a caller at Rowan last Sunday.

Peter Bohlen was a Dows caller last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and baby, and Miss Jessie Bell visited at the Geo. Rusch home, near Dumont, Sunday.

Herman Depping and family of Chapin visited at the Hilko Pals home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Modderman and sons visited at the Charlie Scott home in Rowan last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arends and children, Jessie, Sylvia and Robert, were Belmond callers Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bohlen and sons were callers at Goodell on last Sunday.

Mrs. Mabel Symens and son Lewis Schulte were callers at Belmond on Saturday.

Mrs. Annabel Overman and Emmet Scales of Hampton spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Mary Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arends and children, and Susie Schulte, visited with relatives in Dumont last Sunday.

Alvin Greenfield of Williamsburg was visiting relatives in this vicinity the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and two sons autoed to Webter City on Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Larsen and two sons, Elmer and Wilbur, visited relatives at Dumont last Sunday.

Mrs. John Murphy and two children of Aredale visited with relatives at Alexander the past week.

Rev. W. A. Wilkinson of Belmond was a caller at this place on Thursday and Friday.

Henry Kliffel of Ogden was transacting business here several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and two daughters, Nellie and Jessie, were callers at Belmond Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder and daughter Virginia Ruth, of Hampton, were callers at this place last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen spent the last of the week with relatives at Dumont.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hansen from Rowan were Sunday visitors at the Dick Stoffer home.

Next Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 3, the Dorcas society will meet at the home of Mrs. F. D. Rodemeyer, the annual business meeting and the election of officers to be held at this time. It is requested that all members be present.

A. L. Nelson and daughter Bertha were Belmond callers Monday.

Miss Edith Beenen was having dental work done at Belmond last Saturday.

Ben Arends was transacting business in Hampton on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Kinseth from Belmond were visitors at the Clarence Bohlen home Sunday.

There will be no services held at the Methodist church next Sunday as this is conference Sunday.

St. John's Evang. Church.

Sunday school at 2 o'clock.

Preaching service at 3 o'clock.

All services in the English language. Come and bring a friend with you.

C. J. Barth, Pastor.

The cemetery society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 4. The hostesses are Mesdames Lyle Hall, Lloyd Green, A. C. Lieuwen and Mrs Mary Hall.

Yes, American Beauty roses are quite attractive—when our women are not around.

Never ask a pretty woman her age. She might destroy the delusion by telling you.

Changing your mind is commendable, provided each change records an improvement.

There's one consolation in not being a governor or a president. We don't have to settle coal controversies.

GOODELL NEWS

Grandma McNutt left Friday for Garner to pay her granddaughter, Mrs. Eal Clark, and family, an extended visit.

Mrs. John Ahrenkeil and Mrs. Savogue spent a few days in the country visiting at the George and Leo Ahrenkeil homes.

Word has been received in Goodell of the marriage of Ellen McCormick to Mr. Martin.

The Markle house vacated by Mellums is being fixed up and will be occupied by the Harry Buss family.

A. D. White has been on the sick list, suffering with rheumatism.

The Ladies Aid met at the Sandberg home. About 50 people were present, and three new members were taken in.

Mrs. O. A. Nelson and daughter Helen, of Thompson, came Wednesday for a visit at Sandbergs.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Houghton of Kanawha visited relatives Friday.

Edith Sandberg, Mrs. Nelson and Helen were entertained at the Graeber home for supper Friday.

Mrs. Homer Ness is enjoying a visit from her sister.

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth of Belmond spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Avery.

Mrs. Avery and daughter, Mrs. Kinseth, were guests for dinner on Tuesday at the T. O. Letch home.

The third division of the Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Robert McNutt, Friday.

Ladies Aid will be held in the church basement Oct. 3. The hostesses will be Mesdames Hubbard and Burgess.

Mrs. Owen Conwell and son, Junior, returned from their visit.

The Rosary society met in the Catholic church basement Saturday. A large crowd enjoyed the supper which was served by the Mesdames Hemmingway, Kearney, Finn and Wilkins.

Mrs. L. W. Wesenberg left Thursday a. m. for Des Moines to attend the church conference and visit her brother, Glenn Emerson.

Miss Bernice Butts was on the sick list Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Clara Butts is assisting in caring for the Wesenberg children while their mother is away.

Mrs. Fred Wilkins and daughter of Belmond visited here Saturday.

Several of the Belmond ladies attended the Rosary Saturday.

O. Sandberg was called to Meservey Saturday, to do some plow repairing for the Meservey blacksmith.

The Sherwood family and Maude Griggs drove to Iowa Falls, Sunday, to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Graeber and Dorothy Allaben drove to Thompson to spend the day with the Nelsons. Mrs. Nelson and Helen accompanied them home after spending several days at Goodell.

Miss Udelia Hill spent Saturday with her sister near Belmond.

Miss Veronica Finn, who is teaching in Ventura, spent the week end with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newberger of Ventura visited with relatives in Goodell, Sunday.

The Will Ritter family of Waterloo spent a few days at the Beier home.

The free movies were shown to a packed house Saturday night. They are now being shown in the Star treatre owing to the chilly weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Thorson from Burt are enjoying a week's vacation. They are spending part of it with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wilson

Election of officers was held in the Sunday school, Sunday. Mr. Peters was elected Supt., Donell Myers, secretary, and Archie Conklin, librarian.

Promotion exercises will be held next Sunday. Let all those who are interested attend.

Miss Adelia Hill was called to her home Sunday morning due to the serious illness of her aged grand father.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Kinseth spent Sunday at the Avery home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hughes from Belmond Sundayed at the White home.

Peter Peterson, a farm bureau man of Cedar Rapids, gave a splendid talk to a large crowd after the movies Saturday night.

Mrs. Harm Rust is suffering with a severe case of rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. Beier visited relatives at Garner, Sunday.

The Madison family of Thompson spent Sunday at the home of her brother, Mr. Enderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Carpenter Sundayed with A. C. Capenter.

The Thomas McNulty family of Belmond visited in Goodell, Sunday.

The Ed. Shoenwetter family near Klemme were Sunday visitors at the Jack Zeilie home.

Lud Johnson and family visited with Lewis Johnson's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willus Kinsley of Belmond called at the McNutt home Sunday.

Roy Buchanan is now loading a carload of wood to ship to LeMars.

Steve Hamilton and family from Clarion visited with the Tom Hamilton family Sunday.

Matt Smith and Warner Butts were fishing at Clear Lake, Sunday.

Beulah Smith of Belmond spent Sunday at Bachman's.

Amos Hanson, Donell Meyers, and Harold Savogue autoed to Ames Monday, taking Carl Sandberg there to attend college.

Mrs. Amos Hanson substituted for Principal Hill, Monday.

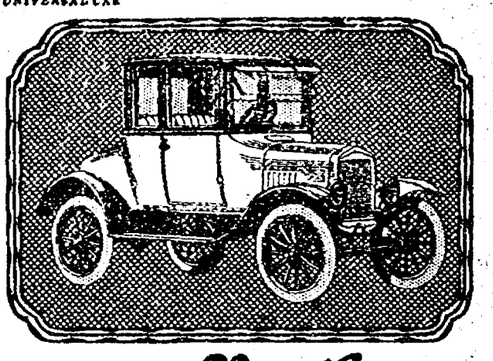
BANCROFT PRINTING PLANT ADVERTISED FOR SALE

The Livermore Gazette states that the Bancroft printing plant that has been making unheard-of prices on printing through this section, is advertised for sale. Many times during the past few years this office has been up against printing bids from this firm that were away below what is known to be actual cost. Each time our representative had to lose the job, and he was oftimes branded as a highway robber because of the prices he asked. This is in the face of the fact that he had quoted the proper price. There are printers in every locality who are so hungry for orders that they are bidding the pices down away below cost, but time will put them out of business.—Republican.

NEEDED SOME ASSISTANCE

An editor wanted a vacation, so he got one of the ministers of the village to run the office for him during his absence, relates the Centralia, Mo., Fireside Guard. The second week of the minister's duties was going along nicely until he opened the mail. One letter said: "I got a dun from you for $2.00—now I paid for my paper and if you say I didn't I will come in and knock hell out of you." The minister wrote the man and said: "I see by the books that you did not pay for your paper this year. Your subscription was in arrears and you paid for last year only. Now, if you come in and knock hell out of me, I will employ you to do the same for about 50 more in my congregation and 50 more in the town at large, for I have tried for three years and I cannot do it."

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR



New Coupe

An entirely new body design lends distinction in appearance, adds measurably to individual comfort, and provides greater convenience in the new Ford Coupe.

Streamline body, windshield visor, and nickeled fittings make this new Coupe highly attractive. Deeply cushioned seats, improved interior arrangement, and cowl ventilator provide increased comfort.

Wide doors that open forward, revolving type window lifters, enlarged rear compartment and a recess shelf for parcels, back of the seat make for greater convenience.

See the new Ford Coupe and other body types at your Nearest Ford Dealer's showroom.

Ford
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa
L. Tokman Geo. Heginger

Buy the Overland By Comparison

THE MOST AUTOMOBILE FOR THE MONEY---IN THE WORLD!

OVERLAND has a heavier frame than any light car built, heavier spindles and bushings, cross rods and connecting yokes, genuine Timkem roller bearings in front wheels, front axle has an elastic limit of 75,000 pounds, and is heat treated.

The Overland motor is completely inclosed from dirt, dust and water. It has no exposed parts to wear from lack of attention or from the dust accumulation that takes place in driving The starting motor is easy to get at, inclosed in the flywheel housing Engine mounted in frame with four point suspension with extra large bolts, making very rigid construction. Transmission bolted on engine in unit construction recognized as the best by leading engineers. Disc clutch that is always smooth in action and easily adjusted, away from dust and dirt. An ignition, starting and lighting system second to none. Carbureter bolted to side of cylinder block where you can get at it and has double adjustment for all driving conditions. Radiator same as used on Willys-Knight, Buick and other large cars.

The Overland has a 1 3-8 drive shaft, 1 1-2 inch axle shafts, Timkem roller bearings in differential, one piece differential casting (no danger of splitting), also making larger gears possible, axle shafts removable without removing gears, heavy rear axle housing without any truss, larger brakes than any light car, with three adjustments. The engine has a double crank case for additional strength and the proper distribution of oil, larger timing gears, lighter pistons and connecting rods that can be removed from the motor without taking off the cylinder head, an oil pump that will never wear out and always pump oil under all conditions.

Competitive Car for Same Money has lighter frame, lighter spindles and bushings, smaller cross rods and yokes, BALL BEARINGS in front wheels, a tested axle showed only 40,000 lbs. elastic limit.

Competitive car does not have inclosed motor which is subject to dirt and dust from the road getting into the small working parts, wearing them out. Starting motor exposed and oftentimes will not work because of dirt collected on shaft. Engine mounted in frame with smaller bolts and not as rigid. Transmission rests on back end of rear engine support making it hard to keep in alignment and strains clutch and crank shaft. Clutch is steel stamping with leather face which is obsolete, no adjustment for tightening clutch tension spring and all parts exposed to dirt. Must be oiled by hand. Overland automatically lubricated. Their car has good units for starting, lighting and ignition. Carbureter connected to long manifold that extends almost to mud pan with only one adjusment for low speed. Much lower priced radiator used with water pump in circuit. Pump must be used because their type motor CANNOT be cooled any other way. Many objections to pump such as packing, leaking, wearing out and getting damaged in freezing weather. Overland uss no pump and you CANNOT MAKE IT BOIL.

Competitive car uses smaller drive shaft, 11-16 inch axle shafts that cannot be removed from the car except by dismantling the rear axle and all gears from the rear axle.

No Timkem roller bearings and all driving strain is carried on axle shafts next to differential, not on differential housing as the Overland does. The best way to understand this is to see it. Come in and prove it to yourself. Only two cars made use this type construction. Competitive car uses two-piece differential and smaller gears thruout. Also uses smaller axle housing and the truss rod used is an admission of weakness. Smaller brakes with only one adjustment worked with cable which does not permit brake to release properly. Engine has single crank case and when you want to get to the working parts of the engine underneath the steering gear must be disconnected to get the mud pan off. Did you ever try taking the pistons out thru the lower opening in motor or reset the main bearings without loosening engine in the frame? Does the oil pump ever fail? Turn to the second paragraph of their instruction book on page 42 if you have one, and read what it says. Ten connections to keep tight, count 'em.

Needless to say we cannot sell every man a car, but you have the opportunity to make these comparisons and see for yourself just where the difference lies. "The competing sales force" mentioned last week showed one man the difference and traded him out of a new car he had not owned more than ten minutes and he drove home in a new Overland. Two others did the same after making comparisons and a host of others went away convinced that their next purchase would be a new Overland.

NORDSCHOW MOTOR CO.

BELMOND, IOWA

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Joint Picnic At Evan's Grove

The joint picnic between Oakland Alden, Williams and Vernon of Franklin, Hardin, Hamilton and Wright counties, respectively, which was held at the Ed. Evans' grove in the southeast corner of Wright county last Wednesday, September 19th, proved to be a success in spite of the rainy weather and muddy roads. About 300 farmers and their families from the corner townships of the four counties who had assembled to hear the addresses of the day were not to be outdone by the weather and grouped themselves under cover of the specious machine shed on the Evans' farm to hear the two unusual addresses given by Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Pella and C. W. Huntley, vice president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation.

The Meeker orchestra, which furnished the music for the occasion, added considerable life and enthusiasm to the picnic.

A Ford truck driven into the center of the machine shed served as a stand for the speakers and the orchestra and with the improvised seats made by laying planks upon nail kegs furnised reasonably comfortable place in which to enjoy the addresses which were given by those speakers from the state federation office. A horseshoe pitching contest with representatives from each of the townships was held between showers, while the baseball game was played under difficulties and was witnessed only by the fans who were determined to have the game played in spite of the rain. A sumptuous picnic dinner was enjoyed by everyone who attended the picnic, and while the elements seemed to be somewhat against the committee in making arrangements for this community affair, everyone seemed to enjoy the big feed which was prepared.

That the farmers of this section of our state are anxious to get first hand information relative to the activities of the state and national farm bureau is evidenced by the fact that altho it began raining about 2:30 the time at which the speakers began, not a single person left the picnic grounds, but remained and made themselves as comfortable as possible under the conditions so as to have opportunity to hear these two splendid messages from the state farm bureau federation office. In speaking of the accomplishments of the organization, the fact was brought out by the speakers that over 300 different projects have been planned and completed, any one of which has more than paid the annual dues to any member in the organization.

Action was taken at the picnic to make this joint four township social gathering an annual affair. A permanent committee consisting of a chairman and one representative of each of the counties represented was elected and will be authorized to plan and organize another picnic for next year to be held at the same place, although it was suggested that the picnic should be held earlier in the season, probably sometime during the month of June. While the attendance was reduced materially by the rainy and muddy reads, everyone who attended the picnic seemed to agree that it was a great success and that this co-operative four township picnic should be continued permanently.

Lime Applied On Simon Farm

J. C. Simon, one mile east of Rowan, has just completed the application of lime to his soil with a view of freeing the land from acid in order that it may produce clover and alfalfa more effectively. Mr. Simon has distributed a 40-ton car of limestone which was shipped from the quarries at Alden. According to Mr. Simon, the lime application has cost him about $1.25 per ton including freight and hauling charges.

Favorable farm conditions, good roads and nearby quarries with an abundant supply of limestone on hand makes the best time to apply the most important fertilizer and consituent of Iowa field crops. By getting the lime onto the soil a few months in advance to the time it is needed usually gives best results.,,

Replies from 400 queries sent to Iowa farmers who had previously used lime show that it returned a profit of eighty per cent of the farms where it was used. Figures compiled by the extension department show that the average yield of clover per limed soil is two tons per acre as compared to the state yield of one and one-third tons per acre while alfalfa on limed soils yields an average of four tons per acre to the comparison of the state average of three tons per acre.

Wright county farmers who wish to increase the net profits from their land and at the same time increase the fertility of the soil, will do well to investigate the good qualities of lime and the possibility of securing enough to make a trial on a small scale.

Needs Closer Co-operation

It goes without saying that these are strenuous times for our farmers and through it all each and everyone are compelled, through financial stress, to exert ourselves to the utmost for personal and individual gain. In this time of keen competition and general dissatisfaction, there may be a tendency on the part of some to forget that the welfare of all depends upon united action, and team work—upon co-operation.

No one denies that hardships have surrounded us but in order to break down this barrier to prosperity and happiness, we must not strike aimlessly about, hitting whoever and whatever may come within our reach because such action can only result in further hardship to our fellow farmers. Our only solution in this problem lies in the hands of the farmers themselves by getting together oftener and co-operating with one another effectively.

The greatest gain in agriculture can be attained only by the united action of the representatives of this great industry. For too long farmers have ignored their problems, sidestepped them and let them grow bigger and more serious from one generation to another until today they have reached a point where a solution must be found or a collapse of the whole prosperity of the great agricultural industry is inevitable. Orgonization, co-operation and loyalty of farmers to their organization are factors which will carry our farmers thru the present strenuous period.

Soy Beans

The soy bean demonstrations which were conducted Friday brought out some interesting facts in connection with the growth of soy beans in our county. The forenoon demonstration was held at the W. F. Mechem farm near Clarion and the afternoon meeting near the Lewis Hauge home northwest of Belmond. The results brought out by these two demonstrations are practically the same as have been shown in all other counties in the state where the same experiment plots on soy beans have been conducted.

It will be remembered that ten varieties of soy beans were grown on each of these farms during the past season. The ten varieties grown include the Ito San, Manchu, Black Eyebrow, Medium Green, Midwest, Morse, Peking, Columbia, Wilson and Virginia, which are advertised and sold by the leading seed companies of the state. The results of these demonstrations have shown beyond a doubt that the Manchu soy bean is the best for hogging down purposes, while the Ito San would be second best for the same purpose and the Black Eyebrow just fair. The demonstration also showed the Midwest bean to be the best for silage purposes and the Medium Green next best. It was brought out also that the Peking is the best bean for hay purposes. The other varieties of beans in the list did not prove to be of any value in our county conditions and it might be said that a number of varieties were included in the list so as to show, in a comparative way, which ones are best adapted to local conditions.

In many cases there has been dissatisfaction on the part of our farmers in the results they have obtained from the growth of this crop, and many times this has been due to the fact that they have tried to grow varieties which were not adapted to this community. The experiment plots, which have just been completed, have shown very definitely which varieties of soy beans are best adapted to local condition and at the same time has showed the varieties which should not be planted. The growth of soy beans in Wright county has increased at the rate of about 200 per cent during the past year and it would seem that with this increasing interest care should be exercised in the varieties which are planted next year.

Soys Stand Frost

Northern Iowa farmers need not be worried about their soy beans for seed if growth has been stopped by frost before the pods were ripe or before the leaves have dropped off, according to the farm crops section of the Iowa agricultural experiment station. If the beans have made their full growth and the pods are full, seed of average germination can be expected, in the opinion of F. S. Wilkins, chief in forage crops at the station.

It is good plan to let the beans stand a week or two after they have been killed by frost after which they may be cut with the binder. They may then be left to cure on the ground in the bundle for a day or so. After that they should be shocked in two-row shocks with six or eight bundles to a shock. Curing in the shock should progress until the beans are "bone dry." They can then be threshed easily and will make good seed.

Not To Normalcy Yet

In no case in July, 1923, did the purchasing power of either corn beef cattle or hogs, taking the 1913 price as 100, equal the 1913 purchasing power of the same products, when applied to the purchase of either food, clothing, fuel, building material, or all commodities, according to the extension service of Iowa State College.

The nearest approach to the 1913 purchasing power of 100 was made by corn during the month of July when purchasing power of corn was 94 per cent of the 1913 purchasing power. When applied in buying clothing and building material, the purchasing power of hogs was only 43 per cent of the 1913 purchasing power of hogs, according to the extension service.

The exchange value of corn and hogs increased during July as compared with the level the month before, while the exchange value of beef cattle remained about the same.

Some people believe in asking the Lord to provide their daily bread because it is less trouble than working for it.

There is a vast jocosity in public prints about the shooting of husbands, but that sort of pleasantry is building up a propaganda of its own. What will be the outcome?

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.

Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted.

Schultz Jewelry Store

Belmond, Iowa

MONDAY, OCT. 8

VALUE FIRST

Fall Clothes

$35 - $40 - $45

Whether it's a suit or overcoat you wish to get for Fall you'll find the "right one" here. Our large stocks make choosing a pleasure.

For 31 years this store has given its customers the newest styles and best values in clothing.

The new Fall suits and overcoatsare well worth seeing.

PATTON BROS. COMPANY

WHERE A DOLLAR DOES ITS DUTY

Mason City and Manly, Iowa

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND, IOWA, SEPTEMBER 27, 1923. No. 28.

Fall Days Are Approaching

and winter is just around the corner. It may seem early to you to be thinking about Heaters, but the wise householder will be looking after that now.

We have a complete line of Heaters, all sizes for all size homes. We will be glad to have you call and look over our line. Pick out what you are going to need. We will deliver whenever you say.

GRIESY'S

The Friendly Place

WE USED T'—BUT NOW!

The way we're spendin' money t'day is enuf to make the ole-time banker and leading citizen that washed his own buggy an' milked a cow squirm in his grave, but t'day it's all we kin do t' find parking space in a Greek shinin' parlor.

T'day we don't think no more o' gittin' our car smashed up than we'd used t' think o' breakin' th' crystal of a watch.

Women used t' be satisfied with ther own faces, but nowerdays they won't even let a meter reader see-em before ten o'clock.

We used to doll up a little on Saturday night, but t'day we're slicked up all th' time.

We used t' drop a pustal card occasionally, but now we use th' long distance or wire.

We used t' keep butter in th' cistern, but t'day we have ice making machines.

We used t' steal off t' Niagary Falls ever' summer or so, but these days goin' t' bed is a bigger event than goin t' Europe.

Doctors used t' whittle up great people only as a last resort t' save ther lives; bu t'day ever-body we meet is jest out o' ether or about t' go under it.

We used t' run three blocks t' see a dude, an' t'day we're all dudes.

T'day we kin buy a pair o' fairly good socks fer what it costs t' have our nails plowed an' polished.

Calico is no longer worn, except in reformatories.

We could keep a cow fer what it costs t' keep our hair washed.

We used to spend a little money, ever' Christmas, but t'day we go th' limit for a dozen anniversaries.

We used t' go t' th' theatre in th' winter, bu' now we go all th' time.

Gasoline stations are three times as thick as saloons used to be, an they don't give away no bologna.

A husband now squanders three times as much on his wife's feet as he used t' spend on her back.

We used t' study a long time before we broke a dollar, but t'day we don't even choke up when we lose ever-thing we got.

But what's t' be done? The only way t' combat th' present system is t' die or cut out th' necessities o' life.

Some fellers even wear a belt an' suspenders too.—Abe Martin.

"AUNT JEMIMA" OF PAN-CAKE FAME MEETS DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Nancy Green, eighty-nine years old, known to thousands as "Aunt Jemima" of pancake fame, is dead, the victim of an automobile accident.

The aged negress first became famous for her skill with a flapjack turner at the Chicago world's fair in 1896. A milling concern obtained her recipe and since then her picture has appeared on the pancake flour bearing her name.

She was killed when a car driven by Dr. H. S. Seymour collided with a truck and hurtled onto the sidewalk where she was then standing.

A judge is to be envied. He can always enforce silence—inside his court room, anyway.

Buy Your Tires from a Firestone DEALER

At the Latest Prices—The Lowest in History

You will find the Firestone Dealer one of the stable business men of your community. He offers a clean, fresh stock, backed by a well organized service. He wants you as a permanent customer.

That is the reason he sells Firestone tires. He knows and has plenty of proof that they are the best tires on the market. He can give you the greatest value and thereby retain your trade for years.

Every day you find new proof of this unequalled value. On the 15th of this month, Firestone Tires set two new dirt track records at Syracuse when Tommy Milton slid around four turns at every mile and covered the 100 miles in 75 minutes, 33 hundredths seconds. He also established a new world's record for one mile by covering it in 42 and 28 hundredths seconds. The next four cars to finish were also equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Each one of them went the entire race without a stop. This and every other important race this year was won on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords and Steam-Welded Tubes. Such performance gives you conclusive proof of their strength and durability.

Not only do race drivers use Firestone Tires as protection to their lives and the surest way to victory, but the largest tire buyers in the world insist on and buy Firestone Tires for economy and service. These buyers include the leading car manufacturers, the biggest commercial car operators and the taxicab and motorbus operators. 57,639,714 tire miles were sold to taxicab and motorbus operators in the month of August.

Think this over. You cannot afford to accept anything less than Firestone service and economy. You can buy this service and economy from any of the dealers listed below.

Belmond Auto Company

Belmond, Iowa

America Should Produce Its Own Rubber—

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him.

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convincing her she has not the strength, Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI.—When her full strength returns, Gael, intensely interested in his companion, begins her "education."

CHAPTER XII.—Gael begins to realize the beauty of his "captive leopardess."

CHAPTER XIII.—Gael induces Joan to put on a woman's suit he gives her. The girl laughs at its smallness, remarking that it must have been made for a "tall child." In his absence, Joan starts for home, but, helpless, is compelled to return. Prosper's delight awakens the girl's heart.

She Was Truly Sorry That She Had Hurt Him by Running Away.

"Yes, yes; all the while I'm thinking of you. I wisht I could do more for you. Why do I make you so angry? I know I'm awful—awfully stupid and ignorant. I—I must drive you most crazy, but truly"—here she turned quickly in his arm and put her hands about his neck and laid her cheek against his shoulder—"truly, Mr. Gael, I'm awful fond of you." Then she drew quickly away, quivered back into the other corner of her great chair, put her face to her hands. "Only—I can't help seein'—Pierre."

Just her tone showed him that still and ghastly youth, and again he saw the brown hand that moved. He had stood between her and that sight. The man ought to have died. He did not deserve his life nor this love of hers. Even though he had failed to kill the man, he would not fail to kill her love for him, sooner or later, thought Prosper. If only the baleful spring would give him time. He must move her from her memory. She had put her hands about his neck, she had laid her head against his shoulder, and, if it had been the action of a child, then she would not have started from him with that sharp memory of Pierre.

Joan had made her plans. She would wait till spring, partly to get back her full strength, partly to make further progress in her studies, but mostly in order not to hurt this hospitable Prosper Gael. The naivete of her gratitude, of her delicate consideration for his feelings, which continually triumphed over an instinctive fear, would have filled him with amusement, perhaps with compunction, had he been capable of understanding them. She was truly sorry that she had hurt him by running away. She told herself she would not do that again. In the spring she would make him a speech of thankfulness and of farewell, and then she would tramp back to Pierre's homestead and win and hold Pierre's land. As yet, you see, Prosper entered very little into her conscious life. Somewhere, far down in her, there was a disturbance, a growing doubt, a something vague and troubling. . . . Joan had not learnt to probe her own heart. A sensation was not, or it was. She was puzzled by the feeling Prosper was beginning to cause her, a feeling of miserable complexity; but she was not yet mentally equipped for the confronting of complexity. It was necessary for an emotion to rush at Joan and throw down, as it were, her heart before she recognized it; even then she might not give it a name. She would act, however, and with violence.

So now she planned and worked and grew beautiful with work and planning, while Prosper worked, too, and his instruments were delicate and deadly and his plans made no account of hers. He worked on her subconsciousness, undermining her path, and at nights and in her sleep she grew aware of him.

But even now, in his cool and passionate heart there were moments of reaction, one at last that came near to wrecking his purpose.

"Your clothes are about done for, Joan," Prosper laughed one morning, watching her belt in her tattered shirt; you'll soon look like Cophetua's beggar maid."

"I'm not quite barefoot yet." She held up a cracked boot.

"I was going to tell you that there are a skirt and a sort of coat in—in a closet in the hall. Do you want to use them?"

She went out to look. In five minutes he heard her laugh, and, still laughing, she opened the door again.

"Oh, Mr. Gael, were you really thinking that I could wear these? Look."

He turned and looked at her. She had crowded her strong, lithe frame into a brown tweed suit, a world too narrow for her, and she was laughing to show him the misfit.

"These things, Mr. Gael," she said—"they must have been made for a tall child."

Prosper had too far tempted his pain, and in her vivid phrase it came to life before him. She had painted a startling picture and he had seen that suit, so small and trim, before.

Joan saw his face grow white, his eyes stared through her. He drew a quick breath and winced away from her, hiding his face in his hands. A moment later he was weeping convulsively, with violence, his head down between his hands. Joan started toward him, but he made a wicked and repellent gesture. She fled into her room and sat, bewildered, on her bed.

All at once the question came to her: for whom had the delicate fabrics been bought, for whom had this suit been made? "It was his wife and she is dead," thought Joan, and very pitifully she took off the suit, laid it and the other things away, and sitting by her window rested her chin in her hands and stared out through the blue pines. Tears ran down her face because she was so sorry for Prosper's pain. And again, thought Joan, she had caused it, she who owed him everything. Yes, she was deeply sorry for Prosper, deeply; her whole heart was stirred. For the first time she had a longing to comfort him with her hands.

* * * * * * *

For all that day Prosper fled the house and went across the country, now fording a flood of melted snow, now floundering through a drift, now walking on springy sod, unaware of the soft spring, conscious only of a sort of fire in his breast. He suffered and he resented his suffering, and he would have killed his heart if, by so doing, he could have given it peace. And all day he did not once think of Joan, but only of the "tall child" for whom the gay canyon refuge had been built, but who had never set her slim foot upon the threshold. Sunset found him miles away in the foothills of a low, many-folded range across the plain. He was dog tired, so that for very exhaustion his brain had stopped its tormenting work. He lit a fire and sat by it, huddled in his coat, smoking, dozing, not able really to sleep for cold and hunger. Prosper hated the night and its beautiful desolation, he hated the God that had made this land. He cursed the dawn when it came delicately, spreading a green arc of radiance across the east. And then, as he arose stiffly, stamped out his fire and started slowly on his way back, he was conscious of a passionate homesickness, not for the old life he had lost, but for his cabin, his bright hearth, his shut-in solitude, his Joan. Very dear and real and human she was, and her laughter had been sweet. And she must be anxious about him. She would have sat up by the fire all night. . . . His eagerness for her slighted comfort gave his lagging steps a certain vigor, the long walk back seemed very long indeed. Noon was hot, but he found water, and by sundown he came to the canyon trail. He wanted Joan as badly now as a hurt child wants its mother. He came, haggard and breathless, to the door, called "Joan," came into the warm little room and found it empty. Wen Ho, to be sure, pattered to meet him.

"Mister Gael been gone a long time, velly, long, all night. Wen Ho, he fix bed, fix breakfast—oh, the lady? She gone out yestiddy, not come back. She leave a letter for him, there on the table."

Prosper took it, waved Wen Ho out, and, dropping into the big chair, opened the paper. There was Joan's big handwriting, that he himself had taught her. Before, she could only sign her name.

"Mister Gael, dere frend:

"You have ben too good to me an it has ben too hard for you to keep me when you were all the wile amissin her an it hurts me to think of how it must have ben terrible hard for you all this winter to see me where you had ben ust to seein her an me wearin her pretty things all the wile. Now dere frend this must not be no more. I will not stay to trouble you. You have ben awful free-hearted. When you come back from your wanderin an tryin to get over your hein so unhappy you will find your house quiet an peaceful an you will not be hurt by me no more. I am not able to say all I am feelin about your goodness an I hev not always ben as kind to you in my thoughts an axions but that has ben my own fault not yours. I want you to beleave this, Mister Gael. I am goin back to Pierre's ranch to work on his land an some day I will be hopin to see you come ridin in an I will keep on learnin as well as I can an mebbe you will not be ashamed of me. I feel awful bad to go but I would feel more bad to stay when it must hurt you so. Respectably

"JOAN."

There were blistered spots above that pathetic, mistaken signature. The poor girl had meant to sign herself "Respectfully," and somehow that half broke his heart.

He drank the strong coffee Wen Ho brought for him, two great cups of it, and he ate a piece of broiled elk meat then he went out again and walked rapidly down the trail. It was not yet dark; the world was in a soft glow of rose and violet, opalescent lights. The birds were singing in a hundred chantries. And there, through the firs, a sight to stop his heart, Joan came walking toward him, graceful, free, a swinging figure, bareheaded, her rags girded beautifully about her. And up and up to him she came soundlessly over the pine needles and through the wet snow-patches, looking at him steadfastly and tenderly, without a smile. She came and stood before him, still without dropping her sad, grave look.

"Mr. Gael," she said, "I hev come back. I got out yonder an'"—her breast heaved and a sort of terror came into her eyes—"an' the world was awful lonely. There ain't a creature out yonder to care fer me, fer me to care fer. It seemed like as it was all dead. I couldn't bear it."

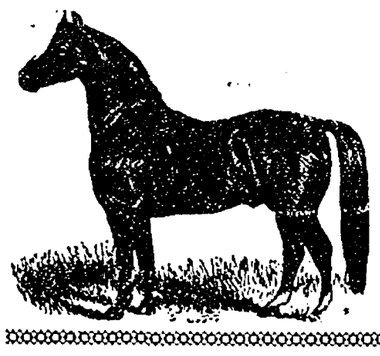
PUBLIC SALE

As we are dissolving partnership we will sell at public auction at our place, known as the J. H. Scales farm, 2 1-2 miles west of Alexander, 3 miles south and 4 1-2 miles east of Belmond, 1 1-2 miles east and 4 miles north of Rowan, on

Wednesday, October 3

Commencing at 10:00 O'clock A. M., the following described property:

10 - Head of Horses and Mules - 10



2 MULES, 1 YR. OLD AUG. 6TH.
1 SPAN GRAY MARES COMING 8, WT. 2900
1 SPAN BLACK MARES, 11 YRS. OLD, WT. 2700
1 SPAN BLACK MARES, 6 YRS. OLD, WT. 2900
1 TEAM BLACK AND BAY MARES, 4 AND 5 YRS. OLD, WT. 2800

57 Head of Cattle

14 MILK COWS, GUERNSEYS AND HOLSTEINS, SOME FRESH NOW, BALANCE FRESH SOON. THESE COWS ARE TIP-TOP MILKERS, IN GOOD CONDITION, AND ALL YOUNG BUT ONE. TEST OF EACH ONE WILL BE GIVEN DAY OF SALE.

3 SUCKING CALVES
23 HEAD OF 2-YEAR-OLD STEERS
4 GUERNSEY HEIFERS 8 MONTHS OLD
10 HEAD OF 1-YEAR-OLD STEERS
2 HEIFERS 1 YEAR OLD
1 PEDIGREED SHORTHORN BULL, 4 YEARS OLD, PAPERS FURNISHED

70 - Head of Hogs - 70

CONSISTING OF SOME GRADES AND SOME PURE BRED SPOTTED POLAND CHINAS, ELIGIBLE TO REGISTRY

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 hog oiler
1 new spade
1 wagon jack
1 beet scoop
1 pump jack
2 self feeders
1 grind stone
1 cooling tank
1 hog waterer
2 driving belts
1 wire stretcher
4 wooden barrels
1 post hole digger
1 hand corn sheller
1 large tackle block
1 Chatham fanning mill
2 hay rakes, 8 and 11 ft.
3 sets double work harness
1 McCormick mower, 5-ft. cut
2 wagon boxes
1 potatoe scoop
1 single harness
1 heavy log chain
1 16-ft. feed bunk
1 14-ft. hay rack
1 Dain hay loader
1 End gate seeder
1 10-ft. iron drag
2 P & O cultivators
1 8-16 Keystone disc
1 Independent cultivator
1 garage, frame, 10 x 16
1 60-gallon storage tank
1 20-ft. wooden drag, new
1 16-in. Emerson sulky plow
1 Moline 3½ in. tired wagon
1 New Idea manure spreader
1 kerosene barrel with pump
1 P & O 8-16 disc, nearly new
2 high wheeled narrow tired wagons
1 International 2½ h. p. gasoline engine, nearly new
1 14-in. Moline walking plow, nearly new
1 14-in. J. I. Case gang plow, in good condition
1 40-ft. Meadows grain elevator, in excellent condition
1 Deere Mansur corn planter with 80 rods of wire
1 Deering Ideal 6-ft.-cut grain binder.
5 tons tame hay in stack
4 straw stacks
About 20 tons good clover hay in barn.

Free Lunch At Noon

TERMS OF SALE: All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over that amount 12 months' time will be given on approved security at 8 per cent interest. No property removed until settled for.

HALL BROS., Owners

POTTER & SANDERS, Auctioneers GEO. DUNN, Clerk

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Positions at $15.00 per week to $1,500.00 per year are going begging. Fit yourself for one of them at The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hetland and sons, Raymond and Eldon, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Frohling and daughter, Frances and son Jake were Sunday visitors at the George Bohning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berwick of Roland are visiting at the T. A. Hereim home.

Miss Alice Ersland visited with her friend, Grace Bohning, Sunday.

Mrs. Lydia Luick Shaver of Lincoln, Nebraska, has been visiting at the home of relatives here the past week. Mrs. Shaver is a daughter of S. D. Luick.

Miss Mary Forristall and Mrs. Harvey Boller were shopping at Mason City, Friday.

Miss Elsie Davis of St. Paul spent Friday with her folks in Belmond.

Rev. B. K. Barstad, who has conducted evangelistic meetings in St. Olaf and Trinity churches the past week, left early Monday morning for his home at Minneapolis.

For better bread ask for Hava-Slice Bread. Made clean, sold clean. Made with milk.—Belmond Bakery.

One year from now you can be holding a good position if you attend The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

HATS!—HATS!—HATS!
Hats for the ladies,
Hats for the girlies,
Hats for the babies,
At the Belmond Hat Shoppe. Come in and look them over.

Mrs. Geo. Dunn of Alexander was a shopper in this city on Saturday last.

Mrs. Clare Clark of Denver, Colorado, is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Zook, and with other relatives.

There will be no Community club meeting this month.

The editor of the Independent is indebted to D. E. Packard for two fine pike, part of the haul that Dite made on his fishing trip last week. They were "some fish" all right, and we certainly enjoyed them. Whenever Dite gets out his hook and line some fish is a gonner.

We have a dandy line of cake and pastry on hand at all times.—Belmond Bakery.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Braun and family from LaSalle, Illinois, arrived Saturday for a visit with his brother, George, and with other relatives here.

Look forward one year. Will you be any better off than you are now? A business training will do wonders for you. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

The Independent can give you the best of service on your farm sale advertising. Let us figure with you. Eighty per cent of the farm sales are advertised in the Independent.

Elmer Larsen came home last Thursday, Harry Nordschow driving him up from Story City, where he has been in the hospital. Aside from a few scratces and cracked ribs, Elmer is coming nicely since his recent automobile accident.

Local hunters have been touring the adjacent lakes and swamps the past week, seeking the wild duck, but to date we have heard of no record bags. Every year it seems like game becomes more and more scarce.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

Hand Picked Wealthies and Greenings, from sprayed orchard. Phone No. 8. 442c

If you have a stove to sell, now is the time, and an Independent Want Ad will sell it for you.

Electrical fixtures; wiring; service at all hours. C. H. Wallace. Phone 366. 44tf

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White returned Saturday night from their western trip, where they have been touring the country as far as Portland, Oregon. Joe says they had a wonderful trip and enjoyed it, but that Iowa is the best place he has seen yet. They average 22 miles a gallon on gasoline, for which they paid from 16 to 36 cents.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

Frank Jacobmeyer and family of Frazer, Minnesota, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Jacobmeyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Meacham. They made the trip in their car

Louis Storck visited at the F. T. and Burt Mecham homes Sunday. He is from Ft. Dodge.

F. T. Meacham's held a family reunion at their home in east Belmond Sunday, Sept. 23rd. The Frank Jacobmeyer family of Frazer, Minnesota, Louis Storck family of Ft. Dodge and Burt Meacham family of Belmond were present

Mrs. John Martin of Council Bluffs is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Richard Ziska, this week.

For electrical wiring and fixtures see C. H. Wallace. Phone 366. 44tf

Wm. Stadtlander, son of E. Stadtlander, returned to school Monday after an absence of two weeks on account of an infected leg, which had to be lanced twice.

Tuesday afternoon the Progress club held their first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. A. W. Martin. New officers were installed. Mrs. A. W. Martin, pres; Mrs. C. P. Luick, vice pres; Mrs Williams, corres. sec; Mrs. J. E. Wallace, rec. sec. The club will study the New Testament this year. Last year's calander committee served refreshments

The Congregational Missionary society meets at the home of Mrs. C. P. Luick this afternoon. Mrs. Thiltgen is the leader. The hostesses are Mrs. Val Griesy, Mrs. Goelz, and Mrs. C. P. Luick.

Steenblock & Loats have improved their store building with a coat of paint

Miss Jennie Shaw went to Clarion the first of the week to visit her sister, Mrs. E. R. Boggs.

Rev. W. A Wilkinson received word Monday that his mother had passed away at her home in Arkansas. He left that afternoon to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Shrauger from Atlanta, Iowa is visiting at the home of her friend, Mrs. Herman Schultz.

The ladies of the Clarmiond Country club held a bridge luncheon at the club house on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Daisy Pierce of Britt is visiting friends and relatives here.

Miss Mary Barry entertained the girls' bridge club on Monday evening.

Mrs. Curtis of Webster City spent a few days last week visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Riley and daughter of Rowan spent Sunday at the Fuller Bailey home.

Mrs. Herman Schultz entertained a number of friends at a bridge luncheon Wednesday afternoon, in honor of her friend, Mrs. Shrauger.

The annual Methodist Bazaar will be held on November 24.

Miss Esther Amblie and Miss Mildred Hauge spent the week end with friends at Clarion.

Our candy stock is fresh and the best that can be bought.—Belmond Bakery.

Mrs. Richards of Rowan was a shopper in Belmond on Saturday afternoon.

We are giving away a dandy basket of candy worth $2.00. Buy a dime's worth of any candy in our store and get a guess at the number of pieces of candy in the jar. The person guessing the closest will get this dandy basket of candy.—Belmond Bakery.

Minnesota Red River Valley Early Ohio potatoes on Rock Island tracks at Belmond last of this week. Delivered, or come and get them.—Emmet Hood.

Special for Saturday: Rolls of all kinds.—Belmond Bakery.

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Wm. Moellering, 1-2 mile north of Rowan. Shorthorn sale, Thursday, September 27.

Hall Brothers, general farm sale, 2½ miles west of Alexander, on October 3rd.

The Motor Inn has been greatly improved by a coat of paint on the outside.

REV. LEINBACH RESIGNS

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, pastor of the Sands Memorial Congregational church, has tendered his resignation to his congregation, to take effect as soon as a new minister can be secured. We understand Mr. Leinbach will devote his time to his large farming interests on his land east of Belmond. His successor has not been chosen as yet.

EAGLE BOOTLEGGER GETS $100

The Eagle Grove mayor added one hundred dollars to the city's funds last week, when one Ole Nelson was arrested with a mess of moonshine in his possession. The Eagle mayor seems to be cleaning up the town in pretty good hape, eight poker players getting theirs the week before.

LET CONTRACT TO GRAVEL 10

Last week the board of supervisors let the graveling contract for the final two miles on primary No. 10. The Belmond Construction Co. is to furnish the gravel, their price being $1.20 per cubic yard f. o. b. Clarion. The hauling was awarded to Pewick Bros. of Des Moines at 47 cents per yard for the first mile and 9 9-10 cents for each additional half mile. The total yardage is 3124 cubic yards of gravel for the two miles of highway and the total cost to the county is $1.81 per cubic yard, including labor. The total of the next lowest bid came to $2.22. The price to the county is 21 cents lower than that received by the city, which is due to the fact that the Pewick Bros. have a steam clam shell and unload their own gravel from the cars, whereas the city had to pay for this service. The work is to begin October 1st, and be completed by November 1st, weather permitting.

Other Court House Notes

A week or so ago a Clarion man visited the "sugar factory town" on the north and among other things got his hootch and gasoline mixed to such an extent that he made a pretty bad mess of matters. It's a long story with a woman in the case and may come to light later on. Suffice to say for the present that when Sheriff Lang was about to make an official call the man wanted saw him coming and took to the corn field. At last reports he was still going and has probably reached Canada by this time.

Lyman Moats of Eagle Grove was committed to the state institution at Cherokee on Wednesday last. At one time he was clerk of the district court and one of the most prominent attorneys in the county.—Monitor.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Wagon, disc, scoop board, a barrel, 75 feet of inch and one-four rope, bath tub, and a number of other articles. Call at the house.—D. H. Hake. 43tfc.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—One new Ford touring car and one new Chevrolet touring car.—Nordschow Motor Co.

For Sale—New range and two second hand cook stoves. Inquire at Independent. 45tf

For Sale—John Deere outside elevator, in good condition.—Ole Hanson. 442*

For Sale—Kimball organ, good as new. Ideal for school. Price $10. Inquire at this office. 452*

For Sale—My Short Horn herd bull. Breeding papers furnished. Also a few heifers. Inquire of M. Halfwassen. 452*

For Rent—Rooms. Board if desired. Also home baking by order. Phone 275. 451*

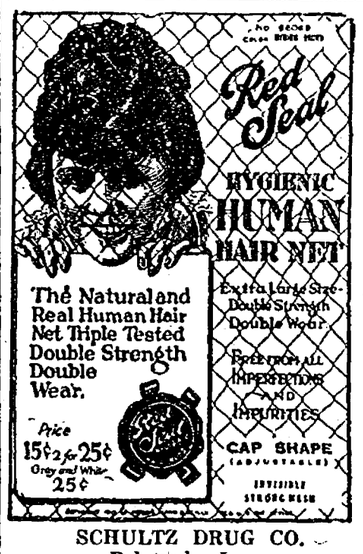
For Rent—Seven-room house, one lot, in Barry addition. Phone 2109. —Howard Forristal. 1c

Lost—Black plush robe, between my place and Johnson & Wright's store. Reward. —Theo. Bonte. 1c

Found—Young black boar; came to my place Sept. 21, 1923. Owner is requested to prove property, pay cost of feeding and advertising, and remove property.—C. F. Hedges, Belmond, Iowa. 453c

EAGLE STARTS PAVING JOB

Work began last week on the resurfacing of the main street in Eagle Grove. The contract with the paving company calls for a completed job within three weeks, and after October 15 a $25 a day forfeit if not completed.



SCHULTZ DRUG CO.
Belmond, Iowa.

When Winter Comes--

You will want those auto tops tight and warm.

We repair the old and make new ones too.

TOPS AND SIDE CURTAINS

New Belmond Tailor Shop

F. J. TUFFREE

South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Kinseth's Store News

Winter is just around the corner and time to be thinking about our potatoes for winter. We will have a carload of potatoes on the Rock Island tracks next week Monday and Tuesday October 1 and 2. These potatoes are good ones, mealy and firm and good keepers. We have already book orders for a good many bushel of them, and advise that you call us at once and place your order. If you don't like them when you see them, you don't have to take them.

—K—

Special this week is on fresh Italian Prunes, juicy and sweet. Better have some sent up, they are dandy eating.

—K—

Got some good sweet potatoes in now. The real thing.

And that coffee at 38c is still on hand, but we're selling a heap of it. If others have found the bargain of bargains in coffee you can too.

—K—

Blankets, warm ones, with a good appearance. Just the thing for the cool fall days.

—K—

Shoes for men and boys. All sizes for all people.

—K—

And dress goods! Pretty goods for ladies dresses. Look our stock over.

—K—

And follow the crowds to the Store on the Corner. Don't let your neighbor be the only wise one. Every day in every way they keep coming more and more. We'll say that business is good!

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP NEWS

Rev. Landsiedel of Wellsburg, Ia., will occupy the pulpit of the Immanuel church next Sunday morning and evening.

The next farm bureau social will be held at the Jake Henn home on next Wednesday evening, Oct. 3. A cordial welcome is extended.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dorenkamp and son, Elmer, were Sunday visitors at the parental Jake Dorenkamp, Sr., home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Mennenga spent Sunday evening at the Wm Boelman home.

Schoolmates of little Howard Finn are glad that he has fully recovered from his operation for appendicitis and is now able to resume his school duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Hio Goeman are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl, Sept. 22.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 89½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	17c
Hens, light	14c
Roosters	07c
Springs	16c
Leghorns	12c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	28c
Cream	42c
Creamery Butter	45c
Oats	33c
Corn	75c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 89½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

THE sure-footed, long-wearing, All-Weather Tread of a Goodyear Cord is the best tire insurance you can have. The high, thick, sharp-edged blocks of that famous tread dig wedge-like through mud or snow to slipless footing, carrying on steadily or coming to a sure, safe stop.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

COME RIGHT IN

Do you live out of town, If so, we invite you to make our Bank your headquarters when here.

Come right in. You are as welcome as the people here, and they are all welcome. Come in and get acquainted with our officers and our customers. Use the facilities at our Bank freely. It is the service we have to offer that makes us proud of our Bank. You don't need to be a customer. Come in, anyway. You are welcome.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

FRESH MEATS!

TENDER AND TASTY!

THE choicest cuts obtainable. They are sweet, tender, and juicy. Our chilling refrigerator keeps them in a sanitary condition. Meats of real quality. Come here for your meat orders.

Cash Market

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1923 — NO. 47

Belmond Wins Over Kanawha Friday 14-12

Kanawha Scores First And In First Half Holds The Advantage Clearly.

BELMOND COMES UP FINE

The Belmond foot ball team won the first game of the season on the home grounds when they defeated Kanawha 14 to 12 last Friday.

Kanawha scored first, in the first quarter, with a touchdown, but could not make the extra point. They held the lead for the first half, and for a time it looked rather serious for the boys. The Belmond team was playing a very poor game, fumbling excessively, failing on forward passes, and failing to use a variety of plays. Th Kanawha outfit were holding them solidly and the chances looked gloomy.

In the second half, however, the boys waded into it, and using a variety of plays and the aerial attack, which they got to working, scored two touchdowns, and made the extra points. The extra points added were beautifully executed, and both times completely fooled the Kanawha team to a frazzle. Kanawha, however, was not idle and managed to put over another touchdown of their own, but failed again on the extra point. The ability of the Belmond boys to make that point gave them the game, for with the playing they exhibited only the two points saved them. They were away off form, and playing as they did against Clear Lake and at Garner, should have had four touchdowns at least. The two teams were pretty evenly matched, and gave the spectators, of whom a fair-sized crowd was present, the worth of their money. The game ended with Belmond having the ball only a few yards from the Kanawha line.

The boys are delivering winning foot ball, and deserve the full support of the Belmond people. Attendance at their home games shows your interest better than any other way, so be on hand at their next game and give them a real boost.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The Uniform County Teachers' Examination will be held in Clarion. October 24, 25, 26. Applicants must have had twelve weeks of normal training, or have taught six months on a regular certificate. A year of college work will be accepted in lieu of the twelve weeks of normal training. Candidates writing for the first time should bring their certificates of normal training attendance; if a college student, a certified statement of at least one year's work.

Blanche Bock, Co. Supt.

DENIED CITIZENSHIP BECAUSE WITNESS IS NOT CITIZEN.

Six Wright county residents were granted citizenship papers by Judge McCall, Wednesday morning, out of seven applications. Those who renounced their allegiance to their mother country and became citizens of the United States were: Dick Wessels of Belmond, formerly a German subject; Fredrik Vaksdal of Eagle Grove, formerly a citizen of Kanawha, formerly a subject of Norway; Mikkel Olai Olsen Mortvet of Eagle Grove, formerly a citizen of Norway; Harold Christensen of Eagle Grove, from Denmark; Chris M. Christensen, Eagle Grove, of Denmark, father of Harold Christensen.

The application of Lars Moe of Belmond was dismissed because one of Moe's witnesses, Ole Thompson, is not a citizen of the United States. Nearly everyone around Belmond supposed that Mr. Thompson was a citizen of this country, and it was quite a surprise when it was learned that he had never been naturalized. However, Mr. Moe has made application for citizenship for the April, 1924, term and has different witnesses.—News.

The Community club will hold another food sale Saturday, October 13, beginning at 10:30, in the building vacated by J. E. Pfaltzgraff. Lunch will be served at noon, and during the afternoon. Please call for returned dishes at the sale, or later at Mrs. Gowdy's.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES

C. J. LeValley and C. C. Storck of Sheffield appeared in district court at Hampton, Monday, and entered pleas of guilty of fradulent banking and were sentenced to ten years' of imprisonmnet by Judge G. D. Thompson. They were started on their way to Fort Madison a few hours after sentence had been passed.

LeValley was cashier and Storck was assistant cashier of the defunct Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Sheffield. LeValley was a former representative in the lower house of the Iowa legislature. Storck is the former mayor of Sheffied. Both were indicted in connection with the failure of the bank, is which depositors were said to have lost a large sum. Several business houses also closed their doors as a result of the bank crash and the loss has been estimated as high as $300,000.

The pleas of guilty came as a surprise even to the county attorney who had prepared for an extended trial.

John Mathews of Woolstock township, who is again confined in the county jail on the charge of bootlegging, will be given a hearing on October 22, at which time Judge McCall will consider the revocation of his parole.

The grand jury has returned four indictment and is still at work. Ed. Delaney drew a double charge for his part in a check deal a few weeks ago, when he cashed a small check at the Robbins barber shop in Clarion. Forgery and issuing a check without funds were returned against him.

The case against J. S. Gray of Webster City, who was apprehended at Eagle Grove a few months ago with a quantity of liquor, was dismissed Tuesday by the county attorney for lack of evidence.

Joe Thurman, who was released from the county jail only a few days ago, having completed a bootleggers sentence, was again indicted by the present grand jury on the same charge.

The fellows who pulled off the holdup stunt at the Goldfield oil station last spring also received an invitation by the grand jury to stand trial. They are Clarence Lang, alias Lowery, and Albert Olson, alias Palmer. The charge is assault with intent to commit murder.

The April grand jury returned an indictment against Thurman Mosher of Eagle Grove on a bootlegging charge. About that time Mosher had urgent business in another part of the state. He dropped into Eagle Saturday and the officers placed him under arrest and he was brought to the county seat for safe keeping.

W. D. Bredehoft asks judgment against Frank McDaniels of Woolstock for $3,782.50, being the amount due on a note.

W. H. Paskin desires to be appointed guardian of the person and property of his brother, Benjamin Paskin, whom the former says is of unsound mind and physically incapacitated.

Walter E. Stevens asks that Emma Stevens of Belmond be appointed guardian of Nellie Marie Stevens, a minor, and of her property.

John R. King demands judgment against E. F. McComb et al for $21,184.40 being the amount alleged unpaid on a note. The parties are residents of Hamilton county.

Frank Leslie states that he is owner of one-half interest in certain lots in Dows, Iowa, and that the First National Bank of Buffalo, Minn is also owner of one-half interest. That parties cannot agree as to partition of property. Wherefore the first named party prays for a decree of equity.

A Clarion young man was called before the grand jury last week to explain where he got the stuff which caused him to make such a spectacle of himself a few days previouse.—Monitor.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the home of Henry Anderson at 7:30 o'clock.

Class meets at 9:00 o'clock Sunday morning at the church.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 190 o'clock. English service at 11 and Norwegian service at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Pat Dillon visited relatives at Clarion on Saturday of last week.

JUSTICE

by GRACE E. HALL

A keen blade makes an open wound,
And crimson stains are bright,
And laws are made for blade and blood,
To keep man's conduct right;
But what of those who stab and slay
A human heart—and go away?

An open wound is red and raw,
And everyone may see,
And those who use a knife, the law
Will punish lawfully;
But those who only stab the heart
May strike in safety and depart.

A keen blade makes an open wound,
A cruel wound and red,
And every man will cry that law
Upon its course be sped;
But souls are murdered everywhere,
And men but smile and call it fair.

A keen blade strikes—and is done,
And all the world may know,
But through the years a poison gnaws
With deadly pain and slow;
But laws and men heed but the blade,
Or ragged holes by bullets made.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co. Inc.

FATHER DOBBERSTEIN GOES AFTER GROTTO MATERIAL

Father Dobberstein of West Bend, who is constructing the famous grotto at that place, is leaving soon on a tour of the west and southwest in search of material—rocks, stones and minerals—for use in the grotto. He recently received 2,600 pounds of crystals from the crystal cave in the Black Hills, and on his trip will visit mines in New Mexico, Arizona, California and Wyoming, after more material. He expects to be gone a month or so.

HUMBOLDT'S COURT HOUSE SNOWED UNDER 4 TO 1

The big fight at Humboldt over a new court house has come and gone, and the result was a decisive victory for the no-court-house side. The result of the vote was about four to one against building the new court house now, almost every precinct in the county going against. About one-fourth of the vote was out.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Class meets Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

Sunday school Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. All present.

Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 17, the North Ladies Aid meets at the home of Garfield Holverson.

Thursday, Oct. 18, the South Ladies Aid meets at the home of Henry Nelson.

WORLD SERIES OVER RADIO

Base ball fans in Belmond are invited to come to the Independent office each afternoon during the world series games between the New York Giants and Yankees, and learn the results as the game progresses. The games will be received over the radio. No reserved seats; first come, first served. Phone calls cheerfully answered.

GIANTS WIN

The New York Giants won the first game of the world series from the New York Yankees yesterday by a score of 5 to 4 in a bitterly contested battle. The game was received over the radio by the Independent play by play. The games each day will be received, and you are invited to come in and hear how they come out. The summary of the first game:

	R	H	E
Giants	5	8	0
Yankees	4	12	1

KLEMME GIRL MARRIES BELMOND MAN.

Klemme Times: Miss Mabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Waterman of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Chester Cullinan, of Belmond. The ceremony took place at the Little Brown Church near Nashua, last week Wednesday.

The bride graduated from the local high school and finishing the work in the Garner school, later going to Iowa City where she studied at the University for two years, after which she successfully taught in the Belmond school for one year.

Mr. Cullinan is a graduate of the State College at Ames and specialized in agriculture. In the spring Mr. and Mrs. Cullinan will move to his father's farm three miles south of Belmond, where they will make their home.

GET ANOTHER AT CLEAR LAKE

A Clear Lake citizen rented one of is garages to a stranger a week or so ago, and shortly after became suspicious as to what was taking place. He notified the authorities and a raid uncovered 38 gallons of what is thought to be genuine alcohol. The owner of the wet goods was not caught.

HOLD OLD SETTLERS' PICNIC

An old settlers picnic for the settlers of Franklin county was held at Hampton last Friday afternoon, under the auspices of the D. A. R. The picnic was held on the spot where the first settlers camped 70 years ago. A large crowd attended.

TWO GARNER CHURCHES AGREE TO CONSOLIDATE

Rev C. H. Van Metre, the new pastor of the Methodist church at Garner, will have a consolidation of the two Methodist churches at that place as a congregation. The First M. E. church and the Grace M. E. church of Garner have united, making one big church and congregation. The First M. E. church will be used for services, and the Grace M. E. parsonage will be used. The agreement was made recently.

KLEMME TO HAVE ROUTE.

After several years of endeavoring to put a rural mail delivery route thru, the farmers adjacent to Klemme are about to have their mail brought to them. The postmistress of that place recently received a notice from the government that a route had been authorized, to become effective November 16.

BELMOND SCHOOL NOTES

Belmond high school won the foot ball game from Kanawha, Friday, 14-12. There is no game this week.

Alex Smith of the Junior class won the typewriting medal for this week. He handed in eight perfect lessons in the week.

Division I of the Literary gave their first program last Friday. It was a very good program. The farce by Miss Sharon was especially good. Many visitors were present.

Mr. Varland and Mr. Cobel from Lincoln, Nebraska, talked to the high school on thrift Tuesday morning.

Monday evening the Sophomore class had a picnic in Tyrrell park as a courtesy to Elma Wilkinson who is moving to Dayton, Iowa.

The new high school music books are here and regular assembly singing starts Thursday morning.

In the contest between classes for the sale of season foot ball tickets, the Seniors won by selling tickets amounting to $48.75.

The Freshman class had a picnic at Morse Lake last Wednesday.

Henry Robinson was unfortunate enought to break his arm for the second time.

Alvin Hauge of the Sophomore class has had a relapse and at present is very ill.

SALVATION ARMY WARNS OF FAKE SOLICITORS.

A general warning to the public to beware of fake solicitors seeking money for alleged Salvation Army work has been issued by Brigadier William Andrews, Iowa-Nebraska divisional commander.

Reports from various cities and towns of the state to the Des Moines divisional headquarters have brought out the fact that spurious solicitors, sometimes garbed similar to Salvation Army workers, are seeking money, claiming to represent this organization and stating that the funds secured are to be used for Salvation Army work.

Brigadier Andrews states that the only money rightfully solicited in the name of the Salvation Army is that obtained in the home service appeals conducted in the various counties by local committees, working under the direction of a County Advisory Board, and that the public should beware of fake solicitors using the name and garb of the Salvation Army to obtain contributions fraudulently.

HALF OF IOWA SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE DEFECTIVE

Out of 173,000 boys and girls in the public schools of the state who were examined and treated by Red Cross nurses during last year, 90,000 or more than half were found to have physical defects which needed correction, according to the official school health report of the Iowa Red Cross given out.

More than 46,000 of these same school children were found to be seven per cent or more underweight, either due to improper food or to some ailment that was sapping their strength. The physical defects discovered in the children included teeth, tonsils, vision, glands, heating, bones lungs and speech. Corrections were made totalling 37,969.

After examination by the Red Cross nurses, the children are referred to the family physician, or dentist, or optician as the case may be. He then corrects the child. This is carried on thru the full co-operation of the parents of the children in the majority of cases.

The revelation of the vast amount of health work needed among school children has led the Red Cross to make plans for still further extension of its health activities in Iowa for the coming year.

Iowa leads all states in the Central Division in the number of public health nurses maintained by the Red Cross. A total of fifty full-time Red Cross nurses are now working thruout the state, with several more counties organized for service and waiting the appointment of nurses.

In addition to nursing activities, the Red Cross held 699 health clinics thruout the state during the year and made 45,000 visits to homes for the care of the sick. The health work is only one of a score of services now being carried on by he Red Cross. The annual Red Cross Roll call for the up-keep of this work is scheduled to start Nov. 11.

Sugar Campaign Now In Full Swing

Sugar Making Campaign Began At Seven O'clock This (Thursday) Morning.

GOOD SEASON IN PROSPECT

The sugar factory whistle boomed at the opening of the 1923 campaign at seven o'clock this morning, when a full crew began the work of turning four thousand acres of sugar beets into fine granulated sugar.

Everything was in readiness, and has been since the first of the month. Supt. Adams and his crew of workmen have put the plant in absolutely tip-top shape, the best that it has ever been it is claimed, with everything "rarin' to go." More than three dozen more applications to work than could be used are on file, and applicants now will have to take their turn. A great many of the employees who worked last year and in the 1920 campaign are back on the job, giving experienced help.

The prospects are indeed rosy for a successful campaign. The acreage is somewhat larger, the beets are of better quality and a better stand, the sugar content is belived to be much better than last year.

Interest in the sugar factory locally may be described as at a fever heat, and Pres. Tyrrell stated to the Independent that it is postively assured that the plant will be operated next year. This is good news indeed, and everyone is taking a most cheerful view of affairs generally. Operation of the plant means many tens of thousands of dollars difference in a business way, not only to Belmond but to the adjacent territory as well. Fullest confidence in the men at the head of the campaign and the plant is held, and Belmond anticipates a successful season all the way thru, while the farmer who has beets is smiling with a reason.

RUSSIAN GIRL WANTS TO COME BACK TO AMERICA

Eagle: Katharine Hoffner, formerly of Eagle Grove, writes friends here from Russia that she is determined to return to the United States. She formerly lived with her parents and attended the Garfield school. Her father accumulated a little money here and owned land in Russia. When he returned, the Soviets demanded that he turn over his money and property to them. On his refusal he was shot. Katharine's brother was also shot, after being compelled to dig his own grave. Her mother died from exposure. She wants to return to the United States and wrote to Rev. Stephen of Fort Dodge regarding her circumstances.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

J. B. O'Conner, Pastor.

We were well pleased with the Sunday Services. It is always a delight to speak to a large congregation. Many a church today has large morning congregations and scarcely no one in the evening. We were delighted Sunday evening to greet the large congregation that was present. We have every hope of even larger congregations this Sunday than we had last.

All together: Lets Go, for a greater Methodist church in Belmond.

Sunday School 10:30 a. m.

Morning Worship 11:00 a. m.

Epworth League 6:30 p. m.

Evening Worship 7:30 p. m.

Prayer metting Thursday 7:30 p. m.

Sunday morning Subject "Releasing Spiritual Forces."

Sunday Evening Subject "Onward March."

We plan on having special music at both services, come on time Sunday evening as we will have a good sing together. Every member plan on being present Sunday. A very cordial welcome is extended to all. Come and worship with us.

KLEMME GARAGE MAN BURNED OUT BUYS ANOTHER GARAGE

Aaron Greimann of Klemme, who suffered the loss of his Ford garage in the recent fire there, has purchased outright the other garage in the same block from Henry Beier and is now doing business in the new location.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

THE DIRTIEST TOWN

That is what was said of Belmond, Tuesday, by a visitor. He said:

"I haven't seen as dirty a town as Belmond for years."

The gentleman was an assistant state fire marshall, and he was here inspecting the city. No, to be absolutely correct, he was SENT here by the State Fire Marshall, Tracy, to investigate a report turned in to to him—the State Fire Marshal—by inspectors of fire insurance companies.

Inspectors for insurance companies after looking over the town, found conditions so bad that they filed a complaint with the state.. The state sent this gentleman here to investigate.

And not only did the assistant marshal make the remark about Belmond's being dirty, but he also said that he would not be at all surprised if insurance rates in Belmond jumped sky high, or even that some contracts—he said half—now in force in Belmond would be cancelled. He utterly condemned the conditions of the alleys in Belmond, as a fire trap and dangerous to a degree.

It would seem that the business men and citizens of Belmond could spend some time profitably, in cold dollars and cents if nothing else, in cleaning up. The fact that insurance rates in Belmond are already outrageously high and may go still further up, should cut some sort of a figure with everyone who pays insurance. Judging from the report of the state inspector, there is very small chance of the rates going down.

In fact, the Independent is inclined to believe that if the town is not cleaned up of its inflamable material lying loose in the alleys and back of buildings, that the state will either clean it up for us, or fine us a heavy enough amount to make us interested. At any rate, it is not a pretty compliment to be called "the dirtiest town"

THE IOWA ROAD HOG

The editor of the Fenomore, Wis. Times, evidently believes that Iowa is the home of hogs, all kinds, and in the following article mentions one kind which he seems to think grow profusely in this state. Says he:

"Road hogs, that is what the Iowa cars are, nearly all of them. They act as if they owned our roads and want the whole road when you meet them. We have come to just detest the sight of those yellow Iowa plates. The yellow in the plates is not the only streak of yellow the Iowa cars have. The other yellow streak is in their owners"

We do not deny that there are road hogs in Iowa; there are many of them. But they are being killed off at a pretty fair rate, and if the coming generation can be educated the species will become extinct. But we do deny that nearly all Iowa drivers are road hogs, or that Iowa is the only hog pen in the United States. The Wisconsin editor probably meets more Iowa cars than we do Wisconsin cars, because Iowa can afford to buy cars when the cheese state depends on the old one-horse-shay. But we'll gamble that proportionately the Wisconsin drivers are just as big hogs as any one else, and maybe more so. Pork is pork, regardless of where it grows.

The yellow streak our contemorary speaks of is not exclusive to Iowa either; he displays a fair-sized sample when he condemns the whole by the individual, and poor judgment as well. Perhaps, at the bottom of the Wisconsin man's ire was the thought that he has to eat the dust of folks who can afford a car that he can't. It often makes a terrific difference in viewpoint after you get a car of your own.

THREE CHEERS!

We read the other day where one Henry Ford, well known to a number of people, has acquired an old historical Inn in New England somewhere. Henry will repair the Inn and maintain its historical character for future generations. He says he will leave it just as it is, including a sign that charges visitors twenty-five cents to go thru the building, because, he says, if its worth seeing people will be glad to pay it, and he says "nothing free is worth having."

This statement will be good news to a lot of newspapers. If nothing free is worth having, Henry will probably cut out the "free" and "interesting news items" that he has been trying to force into the weekly papers of the country thru his local dealers. A legitimate news item is something every editor has his nose trained to discover, but Oh, how infernally tired he does become of the "free" copy that floods his desk. And Ford has been one of the chief offenders. He has endeavored to his stuff into the papers as news copy when it has been the frankest kind of free advertising for Ford and his products.

Henry is not alone in this steal; every newspaper's desk is flooded to a fare-you-well with it. And many a chilly day is the office warmed by this fuel so kindly donated. Instead of paying for what they want, as a good business man should do, they have been trying to work the easy marks, and many have been worked. But it is becoming harder and harder every day to get something for nothing. The brethern are learning. And as Ford has been converted (?) there will be one less to dump in the waste basket. Three cheers! May the good work go on!

Here and There

Lifting of the sugar beet crop will begin this week, weather permitting and the factory at Belmond will start the manufacturing of sugar just as soon as the crop begins to arrive in sufficient quantities. Fields in this vicinity vary as to quantity but on an average the crop is a good one. —Reporter.

Miss Laura Brooks and mother, Mrs. J. W. Brooks, are moving to Belmond to live this winter. They have a home at Belmond.—Times.

Miss Mildred Smith and Miss Mabel Starnes have accepted positions with the Belmond Sugar Co. and will leave tomorrow for Belmond to begin work in the sugar plant.—Klemme Times.

Mrs. M. R. Pierce and son Clair, of Belmond, were Clarion business callers, Tuesday.—News.

Society

Picnic—
The Sophomore class enjoyed a picnic in Tyrrell Park on Monday of this week.

* * *

Priscilla—
Mrs. Marvin Christie entertained the ladies of the Priscilla club on Wednesday.

* * *

Community Sale—
The Community club food sale last Saturday was very successful. The club cleared about $80. Another sale is planned for Saturday of this week.

* * *

Progress—
Mrs. Glenn Klemme was hostess to the Progress club on Tuesday afternoon. The lesson on the Gospel of St. Mark was led by Mrs. M. F. Christie.

* * *

Bridge—
Miss Mary Wallace entertained the girls' bridge club Monday evening. Light refreshments were served by the hostess.

* * *

Party—
The girls of Mrs. Wilkinson's Sunday school class gave a farewell party for their teacher and Elma, in the church basement room on Monday evening. A pleasant evening was spent in playing games, after which dainty refreshments were served and Mrs. Wilkinson presented with a beautiful salt and pepper set, and Elma a manicure set of a late design.

* * *

Entertains—
Miss Daisy Cameron entertained the Bridge club last week Thursday evening. Mrs. C. I. Williams won high score.

Bazaar—
Trinity Lutheran Ladies Aid Bazaar will be held November 17.

* * *

Dorcas—
Mrs. J. M. (Rev.) Jensen was hostess to the Dorcas society on Tuesday evening.

* * *

First Meeting—
The first meeting of the conference year at the home of Mrs. Herman Schultz, Oct. 4, was well attended. Mrs. Ramsay, as leader, gave us an outline of our year's work and some of its aims. Mrs. McBurney had a beautiful boquet of snapdragons which presented the mystery questions. As this was the last meeting Mrs. Wilkinson would be with us, she was presented with a gift and with words of appreciation of her work with us, and regret that she must leave us. Dainty refreshments served by the hostess were enjoyed. Ladies of the church who do not attend every meeting miss a great deal. Plan to come Nov. 2nd.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North
Freight, daily ..... 11:46 a m.
Passenger, daily, ... 2:10 p. m.
Going South
Freight, daily ..... 1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily ..... 11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.
Combination, daily .... 8:30 a. m
Going East
Combination, daily ..... 3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North
Motor, daily ..... 10:03, a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S .... 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S .... 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight ..... 7:55 a. m.
Going South
No. 11, pass., D & S .... 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S .... 3:15 p. m.
Motor ..... 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight ..... 3:20 p. m.

NOTICE!

The local Sugar Factory will start slicing the morning of Thursday, Oct. 11th

Anyone who has filed an application for employment and has not received an employment card, should report at the factory before Thursday.

Iowa Valley Operating Co.

Belmond, Iowa

Lowest Price In History

Reduced price! Larger engine! More power! Easier riding Triplex springs (Patented)! Strongest rear axle! 20 miles and more to the gallon! Very low upkeep! Real comfort all year! Greatest closed car value we know of at or near the price! Ask us for a demonstration.

Overland Sedan $795
F.O.B. Toledo

Touring $495, Roadster $495, Red Bird $695, Coupe $750; all prices f. o. b. Toledo. We reserve the right to change prices and specifications without notice.

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa
Phone 97

Kinseth's Store News

Right now is a good time to lay in your winter supply of potatoes. And this is a good place to get them because we have some mighty good ones. We are selling dandy potatoes this week at 90 cents a bushel. Come in before they are all gone, because they are going fast.

—K—

We have peaches by the bushel as well as pears. Fine eating, dandy for auce, and good for canning. We have a few baskets left so come in before they are gone.

—K—

They are being sold at a reasonable price too, worth your investigation.

—K—

Men's wool shirts.

A full line of blankets on hand for winter. Nothing nicer these cool fall evenings, and they will come in mighty handy when real cold and severe weather comes. Good looking and of lasting material, at a price you can afford to pay. Look them over.

—K—

And of course that 88 cent coffee. Have you tried it yet? If not better get a package, it makes a breakfast drink that can't be beaten.

—K—

The Store on the Corner is the only place you can get bargains all the time. Just follow the crowd if you can't find us.

—K—

Phone 19 and we'll deliver. Open every evening.

"When" Winter Comes

YOU want the same satisfactory performance from your car that you have enjoyed all summer.

You want the same instant starting—the same quick get-away—the same smooth acceleration—the same sustained pulling power—and racing speed when you need it.

You will get them if you

Use Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

Red Crown gasoline is designed to sustain and justify all the claims of service made by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). It is a dependable agent, rendering such a satisfactory service year in and year out as to have become essential to the domestic and commercial life of millions of people in the Middle West.

You can depend on your car—summer or winter—if you have Red Crown in the tank—and you can get Red Crown everywhere.

It will contribute more pleasure to your winter motoring than any other single factor.

Buy Red Crown

At the following Standard Oil Service Station:

River and Spruce

And the following Filling Stations and Garages:

J. E. Raecker, Meservey, Iowa
Olander Sandberg, Goodell
Motor Inn Company

RED CROWN GASOLINE

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) Belmond, Iowa

3403

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Seed Corn Badly Damaged.

The early frost which came in September this year has damaged to some extend the seed corn and unless extreme care is exercised by our farmers in selecting their seed for the 1924 crop, the seed corn situation will be serious next spring. All farmers should be doubly careful in selecting their seed corn this fall, making sure that it is picked as early as possible and above all that it is stored in a place which is dry and has plenty of ventilation.

While it is not believed that the situation experienced in the spring of 1918 will be repeated this next spring, corn for seeding has not since 1917 been in as bad condition for seeding as it is this year, in the opinion of H. D. Hughes, head of the farm crops section at Iowa State College. In 1918 it was only by the most heroic methods that sufficient seed corn was secured to put in the crop. At that time seed corn of unknown quality sold at public auction in many Iowa counties at from $10 to $20 per bushel. Farmers were desperate.

"Much of the corn is still immature," says Professor Hughes, "and that which has approached maturity still contains an excessive amount of moisture. Even in many of the best fields, ears are molding on the stalk. Ears picked for seed are, in many cases molding and rotting after harvest where the ears have not been given the best attention."

According to Professor Hughes even with normal fall conditions good seed corn will not be plentiful next spring and an early cold snap will ruin the prospects for good seed on many farms.

"More than the usual amount of seed should be saved and this should be given very special attention while it is drying and curing" Professor Hughes says.

Business Meeting Progressing

The township farm bureau business meeting for the election of officers and the arranging of the programs of work for the year started last Tuesday evening, October 2nd., when the Iowa Township Farm Bureau meeting was held at the C. M. Myers' home. A short program consisting of a few musical numbers, two readings and an interesting address by R. E. Lee Aldrich was given at the Myers' home. This was followed by the election of L. E. Hall as director, Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, vice director, and Mrs. H. J. Whitten, secretary-treasurer. Plans were made at this meeting for holding a Hallowe'en party at the L. E. Hall home on the evening of Friday, November 2.

Belmond township came second in this series of township business meetings when the farmers of that township met at the Center school last Thursday evening where an interesting program consisting of a few numbers by local talent and a splendid address by Rev S. U. Leinbach of Belmond was given. Some time was spent in going over the list of projects which are to be included in the schedule of work for next year. A vote was taken on the lines of work which are to be followed. This was followed by the election of officers which gave the following results: A. C. Hinman, director, Mrs Geo. C. Johnson vice director and A. E. Martin, secretary-treasurer.

In the election of officers L. W. Collins was re-elected director, of the township farm bureau, Miss Lydia Richards, vice director and Ross Meacham, secretary-treasurer.

Lincoln Township Holds Social

Farmers of Lincoln township Farm Bureau held their business and social meeting at the Lincoln church Friday evening when an interesting program filled with recitations, readings, a number of special musical numbers and orchestra music by people of this community.

Sheppard-Towner Clinics Coming

All mothers of children under school age are to be given opportunity to take advantage of the Sheppard-Towner law, which was passed by the 67th Congress of the United State, an act which provides for the promotion of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy. The 40th General Assembly of the state of Iowa passed an act in which it accepted the conditions which were contained in the federal law and appropriated a sum of money to meet the conditions of the federal act. This act of the assembly was approved April 2, 1923, and became effective immediately upon its publication on April 4, 1923, thus making it possible for the mothers of Iowa to avail themselves of this exceptional service.

A letter was received recently by the county agent from the extension division of the University of Iowa urging us as a county farm bureau organization to take charge of the work in this territory and arrange for a series of clinics for the work which will be put on by the division of the maternity and infant hygiene, a branch of the extension service of the state university. Arrangements are being made with the department at Iowa City for holding a series of clinics in Wright county and an attempt will be made to place one clinic in each township or at least one in each town of the county.

As soon as information is received from the state university as to the time which can be alloted Wright county for conducting this work, a schedule will be made up and all mothers who are interested in having a thorough physical examination made of their children will be given opportunity to attend one of these clinics. All mothers who are interested in this project may get further information on the subject by writing either to the county agent, Clarion, Iowa, or to the division of maternity and infant hygiene Iowa City, Iowa.

Who Is The Best Corn Husker?

Before Christmas, some corn husking Iowan is going to be able to tell a remarkable story about himself to his grandchildren. That man will have won the state corn husking contest and, aside from having won $100, will have been proclaimed the best corn husker in Iowa.

Wallace's Farmer, assisted by the extension service of Iowa State college and the local farm bureaus, is putting on the contest. A total of $200 in prize is being offered by Wallace's Farmer for the winner of the final contest which will be held near Des Moines late in November. The extension service at Iowa state college has just mailed out complete information about the contest to township farm bureau presidents and to county agents. A number of townships and counties intend to hold local husking contests in the form of farm bureau picnics on Saturday afternoons during the last two weeks of October and the first week of November.

Contestants making unusually good records in the local contests together with huskers who, working independently, have made high records on a nine hour basis, and have signed statements to that effect, are eligible to the final contest. In this meet each husker will be required to husk for one hour and twenty minutes. Officials will see to it that all ears and even the nubbins are husked and that nothing except ears unsuitable for feed are left in the field.

Soy Bean Seed Scarce.

The demand for soybeans has exceeded the supply of the better varieties in Iowa, according to a member of the farm crops section of Iowa state college. This condition obtains in spite of the fact that the acreage of soybeans has been doubling annually while in many counties the acreage is estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000 acres.

While most of this acreage is planted with corn for hogging down, a good many fields are to be found where the bean are planted alone for the production of seed.

"The crop is best threshed in an ordinary separator, from which the concaves have been removed and the speed of which has been reduced to one-half the normal rate," says Prof. H. D. Hughes, of the farm crops section. "Where large acreages are to be threshed, special pulleys should be secured which will make it possible to slow down the cylinder and run the rest of the machine at normal speed"

Club Winners To Chicago.

A boys' and girls' club committee consisting of J. E. Kirstein, president of the county farm bureau, O. P. Morton, and Mrs. E. E. Evans, has been appointed to select the winners is the various departments of the club work in the county, who will be awarded the trip to the International Livestock Show at Chicago which trips are being given by the different railroad companies having lines running thru Wright county.

Word has just been received by the county agent that the Chicago Great Western Railroad company of offering a special prize consisting of a round trip to the Chicago International Livestock Sow to the boy or girl making the best record in boys' and girls' club work. It will be remembered that the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific, also the Chicago and Northwestern railroads, have offered prizes thus making a total of three special prizes which will be awarded Wright county boys and girls who have done the best work along club lines.

That the boys' and girls' club work is becoming more popular and that this line of activity is bringing results can not be denied and the fact that such corporations as the railroad companies have recognized the importance of the junior club work is evidence to the clear thinking person that the boys' and girls' club work is a line of work which should be developed not only in Wright county but in every other county of Iowa as well as in other states of the middle west

Griesy's Store News

Vol. 2 BELMOND IOWA, OCTOBER 11, 1923. No. 30.

Fall Days Are Approaching

and winter is just around the corner. It may seem early to you to be thinking about Heaters, but the wise householder will be looking after that now.

We have a complete line of Heaters, all sizes for all size homes. We will be glad to have you call and look over our line. Pick out what you are going to need. We will deliver whenever you say.

GRIESY'S

The Friendly Place

If you are planning a sale, use the form on page six of the Independent to make out your list. You can have these forms free by calling at the Independent.

She: You had no business to kiss me!

He: But, hang it all, it wasn't business, it was pleasure!

Bud Hicks, he was a simple lad,
Who never done no harm.
He milked a cow from the left-hand side,
And now he's left the farm!
—Country Gentleman.

Announcement!

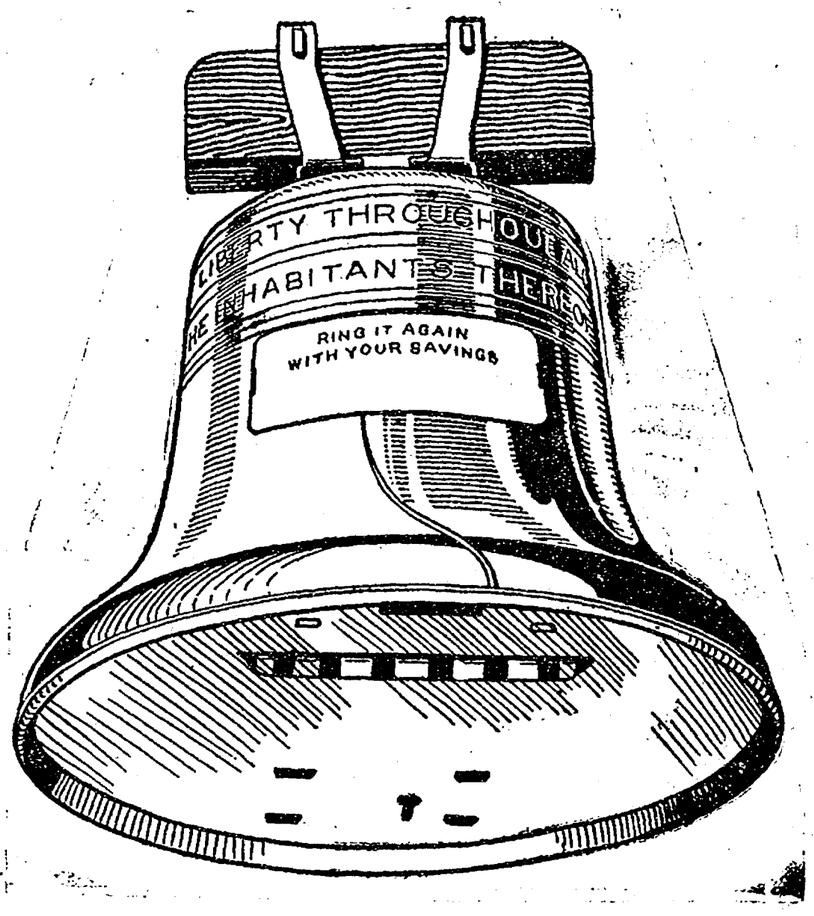
The Belmond Motor Sales Company wishes to announce to the public that they have placed Harold Aigley foreman of their repair department. If you have car trouble and want competent work done see Mr. Aigley. He will see that it will be done and done right and as cheap as a good job can be done. Also make all complaints in regard to repair work to him and he will adjust it the best way possible. Mr Aigley is fully competent and is well known the county over. It will pay you to see him when you need work done.

BELMOND MOTOR SALES CO.

Buick and Chevrolet Sales and Service

FOR ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION SEE CHEVROLET

When Better Automobiles Are Built
Buick Will Build Them



Ring the Bell!

$1.00 RINGS IT!

How?

By placing $1.00 or more in the SAVINGS DEPARTMENT of the State Bank of Belmond, Belmond, Iowa.

We pay 5 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, furnished with a SAVINGS PASS BOOK, and a NICKEL PLATED LIBERTY BELL SAVINGS BANK.

A SAVINGS BANK you will be proud of. A replica of the old LIBERTY BELL that rang out our independence on July 4th, 1776, and, like the AMERICAN FLAG, is dear to every AMERICAN citizen.

Come in and start a SAVINGS ACCOUNT NOW. A saving habit once formed is seldom forgotten. We welcome you as a customer in this NEW DEPARTMENT of our bank.

The State Bank of Belmond

Belmond, Iowa

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

1 & 2 Grades: Jane Shepherd and Cathrine Laube were dropped from our school roll last week,

Arlo Pals and Anita Herman reentered school this week after several days' absence.

Heinie Winthers was absent last Friday. Jane Shepherd was absent Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Prelipp visited the Primary room one afternoon.

First aid was given Viola Suntkens tooth.

The 2nd grade made booklets illustrating the poem "The Swing."

3rd & 4th Grades: Those absent were Tena Boelman, Henry Boelman, Lorenzo Quandt, and Frederick Suntken.

Mrs. W. R. Prelipp visited our room last week Tuesday.

5th and 6th Grades: One 6th of our school year has come to a close. Let us hope that one sixth of our work has been accomplished. Report cards with all the E's, G's and F's will be out Wednesday.

A. Nissen stepped into our room Monday after our day's work was over. Call again, Mr. Nissen.

We children are glad that our exhibition boards have come back from the fair. We like to keep the nice things we have made.

Grade 6 is doing illustrative drawing on "October's Bright Blue Weather."

Iva Bier, Benjamin Suntken, Clarence Quandt and Gwethalyn Wenzell have been absent once the past week.

MESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

Jacob Nissen and John Langlitz were business callers at Clarion on Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wendel motored to Mason City last Thursday returning the following day.

Have you noticed the new school zone signs? Now it is up to you drivers to be careful, in order to avoid accidents. 'Tis a warning, so please govern yourselves accordingly.

Try a sack of "Mother's Flour", for sale at Hulsebus-Mullers.' Every sack guaranteed.

Our duck hunters returned home last Monday from their Dakota trip. They arrived here bright and early in plenty of time for breakfast. Someone said it was before "sunrise."

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Pals, and children Marie and Andrew, accompanied by Miss Minnie Freese, motored to Dumont Friday to visit at the home of the latter's uncle, C. Freese, who is very ill. Miss Freese recently arrived from Germany, departed Monday for an indefinite stay to help care for him.

The Helping Hand society will meet with Mrs. Cooper on Thursday, Oct. 18 for their regular meeting. All are invited to come.

Watch the Bulletin Board at the Evang. church for announcements of the week.

The S. O. S. Boys' S. S. class of the Evang. church, Frank Guth, the teacher, met at the Fred Schluter home Monday evening for their regular monthly business meeting and social time. Mr. Dingman was honor guest and the boys report a most delightful evening.

Those who raised sugar beets this year are busily engaged in bringing them to market. Mrs. Nels Faaborg is attending to the weighing.

Ray Klemme of Belmond was a business caller in town last Saturday.

Mrs. Chas. Nelson and baby returned to their home at Clarion on Sunday after making a short visit at the home of her parents, and with her sister.

The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. A. J. Nissen Wednesday p. m. of last week to hold their yearly meeting and election of officers. Following are officers for the coming year:

Pres. Mrs. A. E. Muller; vice pres. Mrs. H. Brater; Sec. Mrs. Ed. Rooks; Treas. Mrs. A J. Nissen. The Union hold their meeting on the first Wednesday of each month and a cordial invitation is extended to all who may wish to attend.

G. E. Raecker and wife and daughter motored to Abbot last Sunday to spend the day with his brother and family.

Rev. Schlesselman and Prof. Wieand were Mason City callers last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Heiko Janssen and younger son returned from a motor trip to Peoria, Ill., last Sunday, having spent about a week there.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Himmel and daughter of Iowa Falls were guests at the Rev. Raecker home and H. Fischer home Sunday.

Buy HavaSlice Bread at Hulsebus-Muller & Co. Also order your buns, roles and pastries thru them.

Rev. and Mrs. Pannkuk and daughter Lydia and Mrs. Emma Stadtlander were Mason City business callers on Saturday.

The revival meetings have been quite well attended and will be continued until Sunday evening. All are invited to attend.

The Misses Elma Hale and Edna Kloster of Clarion were week end visitors with their friend, Miss Viola Thomas. The two former teach in the Clarion schools.

Frank Guth and wife were Mason City callers last Friday.

Quarterly conference was held at Evang. church on Friday evening of last week. And on Sunday the communion services were conducted. Presiding Elder Faust of Cedar Falls was present.

Mrs. Anna Dobbert returned to her home in Chicago last Friday, after visiting at the home of her son, Wm. Messelheiser, for about six weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Messelheiser accompanied them to Clarion.

Ben Boelman and family motored to Bradford Friday to spend the day at the R. Karsjens home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown and children of Hampton were Sunday visitors at the Wm. Messelheiser home.

For Sale—A 3-year-old heifer, 15-16 Guernsey. Fresh this month.—Fred W. Pals. 472c

Spotted Poland China hogs, breeding stock of all ages. Fall boars all sold. Satisfaction guaranteed.—Roy Jenison, Belmond. 462*

For Sale—Spotted Poland Male pigs. Sired by Victor's Advancer No. 75027. If you want the heavy bone with plenty of length, we have them.—P. H. Pals & Sons. 44tfc

Mrs. I. Nissen and Mrs. J. Kolb accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kolb to Mason City last Wednesday.

Mrs. S. Crabtree and children of near Clarion were visitors at the Hulsebus home and with other old friends from Friday until Sunday.

L. B. Hulsebus and wife visited in town several days the latter part of last week. Before returning to Clear Lake they motored to Dows and Webster City on business.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sprau and baby motored to Cedar Falls last Friday to spend the day, their daughter Eva and Evelyn Thomas and Ilene Strösg returning with them to spend the week end, the latter visiting at the H. Fischer home. They returned on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and Lois driving over in their car.

What do the mosquitoes do for food after the summer resorts close?

Variety is the spice of life, but man cannot live by spice alone.

Success comes to the person who earns it, grabs it, and holds onto it.

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER
Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

TIRES

If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

HENRY H. PALS
Iowa Automatic Hog Door

Self-closing, easily opened by smallest pig, keeps hog house warm and comfortable; free from drafts; keeps the chickens out; saves on feed bill. Worth $100 to any hog raiser. Strong and substantial. Will last indefinately.

REGULAR PRICE $13.50

Special price for 30 Days

$10.00

To introduce this wonderful door to all farmers

May be seen at Klemme Lumber Co. Belmond

Write for descriptive literature to

Henry H. Pals
Meservey, Iowa

New hardwood finish for your old pine floors

Winter weather brings mud and slush that are hard on floors. Now is the best time to beautify and protect them with Acme Quality Varno-Lac. It stains and varnishes in one easy operation. Makes any pine floor look like fine oak, cherry, mahogany, etc.

ACME QUALITY
VARNO-LAC

is also recommended for refinishing furniture and woodwork. Produces beautiful reproductions of expensive woods at surprisingly low cost. Come in and see color cards of this finish.

C. J. Wendel
Meservey, Iowa

Save the surface and you save all

"A Perfect Alibi"

When paying bills in cash, errors are always liable to creep in---maybe you don't wait for a receipt or maybe the receipt becomes lost, stolen or destroyed.

But, when you pay your bills by check, each cancelled check serves as a "perfect alibi"--- it is positive proof of payment.

This bank cordially invites you to---

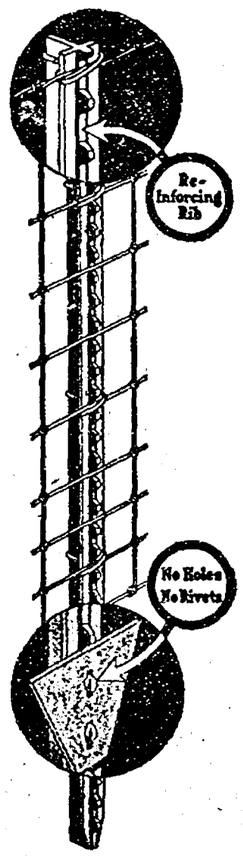
Open A Checking Account

THE LARGEST BANK IN MESERVEY

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA



QUALITY LUMBER-MILLWORK
SASH AND DOORS, ROOFING
WINDOWS
CEMENT, LIME, DRAIN TILE
BUILDING BLOCKS
FLOOR BLOCKS for Hog Houses, etc
STEEL AND CEDAR POSTS
TENN., ILL., KENTUCKY SPLINT COAL
TRY OUR BRIQETS
WOVEN WIRE, STEEL BRACES
BUILD YOUR HOG HOUSE NOW
ALL KINDS OF ROOFING the best we can buy
STORM WINDOWS AND DOORS
COMBINATION SCREEN AND STORM DOORS

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.
Office Phone 20 Res. Peone 17

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

We have a full line of

Hucking Mittens

The Yankee Doodle No. 6. The same kind you bought before.

Also a good line of

Winter Mitts

In Jersey and Canton Flannel

Come in and look them over. We can supply your demands.

Bring in your Poultry and Eggs
Highest market prices paid.

Yours for a square deal,

Hulsebus-Muller Company
A. E. Muller, Proprietor
Meservey, Iowa

ROWAN NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs of Goodell, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantle, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates, Mr. and Mrs. John Keleher and family, and Mrs. Ina Stumph, Garnette and Bernard were guests Sunday at the Ed. Miller home in Clarion.

L. A. McCallum and G. S. Liming were called as witnesses before the grand jury Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Dr. A. C. Rhine Is Dead.

Word was received here that Dr. Rhine, who several years ago had been a practicing physician here and also at Hampton, had committed suicide at his home in Manila, Phillipine Islands, by shooting himself while suffering from despondency. During the world war he was a captain and was stationed at one of the war camps in America. At the time of his death he was in active service in Manilla. He is survived by his wife and two sons, who were residing with him. During his residence here and at Hampton he was well respected by all who knew him.

Friends here have received the news that Rev. Wm. Nye has accepted a call to the Congregational church at Pringhar and is now at work at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten and Gladys spent Sunday with Mrs. Whitten's brother, Ben Fletcher and family at Dike.

Little Dean Agnew underwent a slight operation at the Sams hospital in Clarion last Thursday. The little fellow had suffered a fall several days before, causing an infection. He was brought back home Friday and is improving slowly.

The many friends of Rev. Tomkinson and family at Clarion were much surprised to learn that he had been appointed as pastor of the M. E. church at Forest City.

Frank Snyder, who has been working with a road construction gang at Sheffield Ill., for the past summer has returned to Rowan to visit his sister Mr F. H. Brooks, and Mrs. Fred Smith at Clarion.

James Burt has been suffering severely with several carbuncles the past few weeks.

The electric light laborers, while digging on the corner by Henry Azeltine's had the misfortune to cut the telephone cable, thereby cutting off from service a goodly number of the telephone lines for some time.

John Brinkman, who had been here for several days attending to business matters returned to his home at St. Peter, Minn. Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith of Carthage, S. D. visited friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Schroeder and daughter from Clarion spent Thursday at the Guy Sheldon home.

The Elmer Bailey family were on the sick list last week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten, Mrs. Geo. Liming and Miss Angie Baines were Clarion callers Friday.

L. A. McCallum took the cream testing examination under the new state law last week. He received a grade of 99 plus.

Wm. Duffy and family autoed to Cedar Falls, Sunday, to visit Miss Susan who is attending school there.

Rosman Simpson came down from Corwith, Friday, remaining until Sunday at the Geo. Liming home.

The Geo. Liming family spent Sunday with relatives at Corwith.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval and Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval spent Sunday at Cedar Falls with James Kercheval, who is attending State Normal.

The D. W. Whittens' and Mrs. Hannah Whitten families ate Sunday dinner at the Harm Brinkman home at Latimer.

Miss Maude Cowley of Lake Park spent the week end with her parents and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris and son Leland, and Mr. and Mrs. George Assink of Thornton spent Sunday at the L. W. Stevenson home.

Mrs. Floyd Whitten is spending the week in Dows with her sister, Mrs. Scott Myers, while Floyd is at Tama.

Howard, the eight year old son of Raymond Hanson, fell from a load of hay Saturday afternoon, breaking his arm above the wrist. Dr. Schung took care of the injured arm.

Clifford Ballou of Parkersburg spent the first of the week at the O E. Ballou home.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones, south of town, a baby boy, Thursday, Oct. 4.

Clinton Whitten drove to Duncombe Saturday to visit his sister, Mrs Andy Sorenson. He returned home Saturday, bringing with him his mother, who has been caring for her new grandchild.

A. D. Connor of Hampton, driving a Studebaker, and H. Eimbrink north of Rowan with a Buick Six, had a collision at the Joe Simons corner Sunday evening. The cars were both pretty badly demolished, but the occupants were bruised quite severely altho not seriously.

The R. H. Keith family were entertained at the D. H. Keith home in Goldfield, Sunday, in honor of Mrs. Will Grant who arrived from Scotland last week. She is a niece of R. H. and D. H. Keiths.

F M. Myers and Fred Hackley were Ft. Dodge callers Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsay are the proud parents of a baby boy, born Wednesday, Oct. 3, named Garth Wilbur.

Dee Halbrook as been quite ill the past two weeks, threatened with typhoid fever but at this writing he is well on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Harris and Mrs. D. K. Stout were Ft. Dodge shoppers last Tuesday.

Miss Katy Peddle had the misfortune to run a sewing machine needle thru her thumb at school Monday. She was taken to Dows where the doctors removed the piece of needle which was broken off in the thumb.

The Congregational Ladies Aid society are serving a 25 cent supper at the Tom Ross home Thursday of this week.

Levi Johnson of Sioux Falls, S D., was here the first of the week, visiting his wife and children at the F H. Fowler home.

The Woman's Home Missionary society were very pleasantly entertained last Wednesday at the John Huey home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brooks went to Mason City Monday.

O. E. Ballou, LaVonne an d Mrs. C. T. Halbert were Clarion callers Monday afternoon.

J. E. Baines of Dows was in town Monday.

Rev. G. A. Osborn returned Wednesday from Sioux City, where he was attending the annual conference of the Methodist church.

Elmer Boyington is helping Mr. Osborn finish his moving from the old home to the new parsonage.

The annual dinner given by the Methodist Aid society last Thursday was well attended and heartily enjoyed by all.

The Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary society met at the parsonage Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bingham and Faye left Thursday by auto for Florida where they will spend the winter.

Rev. J. B. O'Connor of Belmond was a brief caller on Rev. Osborn, on Sunday.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes
Geo. A. Osborn, Pastor.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Classes for all ages. Let us fill them up.

Morning worship at 11. Epworth League at 6:30 p. m. Evening service at 7:30.

Boy Scouts in the Study on Monday evening from 7 to 8. On Wednesday evening in connection with the regular prayer meeting there will be Bible study of the book of John. Come and give the class a trial.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Buy Hava-Slice Bread at W P. Aldinger's. Also order your buns, roles and pastry thru them.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen autoed to Eldora Sunday, and spent the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Okko Vken and three children of Kanawha spent the latof the week with friends and relatives at Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and children visited with relatives at Iowa Falls last Sunday.

John Arends and son Jesse were business callers at Belmond Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Yaw of Iowa Falls were visitors at this place on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield were Hampton callers on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Surballe from Garner were Sunday visitors at the John Bell home.

Mrs Younglin of Latimer came last week for a visit at the Beenen home.

Misses Oralee Brooks, Mary Kernen and Marjorie Flynn spent the week end at their respective homes at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Stadtlander and Harley Dale autoed to Council Bluffs last week to visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen and Mrs. Minnie Tucker were callers at Dows last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kieslick and Bert Kieslich visited with relatives at Geneva last Tuesday.

Mr. Bailey of Belmond was a caller at this place Sunday.

J. F. Douglas of Hampton visited his daughter, Mrs. Otto Kieslich, several days the past week

Rev. Sherman Arends and family of Hayfield, Minn., visited at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Arends, last week.

Henry Stoffer, a farmer living half a mile east of town, was surprised last Saturday by finding triplet calves. All three calves are black, lively and of average size.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen and Mrs. Minnie Tucker visited with relatives at Dumont last Sunday.

Mr and Mrs. John Muhlenbruck and baby of Iowa Falls spent the first of the week at the Chris Stadtlander home.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and children visited with the former's parents at Webster City on Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and children were callers at Belmond last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Aldinger were business callers at Hampton, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas and sons of Clarion were Sunday visitors at the Otto Kieslich home.

Mrs. Wm. Were had the misfortune of falling down the cellar steps last Saturday evening and breaking her collar bone and bruising her severely about the head. She suffers severe pain but is getting along as well as could be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Waddington of Geneva spent the last of the week at the Otto Kieslich home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle and daughter Leona of Hampton were Sunday visitors at the Nels Larsen home.

Mrs. Alto Barker visited at the Chas. Winwood home last Sunday.

The Congregational and the Reform churches have been brightened up by a new coat of paint.

GOODELL NEWS

Sumner Eldred of Clear Lake was a business caller here Wednesday.

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth spent a few days with her parents.

Ladies Aid will be entertained Oct 17 in the church basement by Mesdames Reed and Estelle.

Friends in Goodell have received announcements of the marriage of Miss Faye Thomas, formerly of this place, to a Mr. Harry Frederick of Hollywood, Cal.

Mrs. Chase and son Dale visited Mrs. Gus Wenzel at Belmond last Wednesday.

Mrs. James Christie is having her house improved by raising and digging a basement.

O. Sandberg installed a furnace at the James Schneider home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Cunningham and son Clyde visited relatives at Boone last week.

Miss Celia Finn of Belmond visited with her aunt Eliza Cashman on Wednesday.

Will Wesenberg left Tuesday for home in Long Beach, Cal, after having spent the summer with his son, Lew Wesenberg.

A baby girl was born at the Shultz home on Saturday

Mr. Wigfield of Thornton visited a few days with his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Christianson, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Boller, Arthur Lowenberg, Ruth Ness and Clement Houghton returned Monday from their visit with Ivan Lowesbergs' at Clare.

Alphonse Hood left Thursday to visit his sister, Marie, who is receiving treatment in a hospital.

Mrs. Alphonse Hood and children went to Belmond, Friday, to visit relatives.

Several from Goodell attended the movie, "Daddy," at Belmond, Thursday.

Mrs. Christianson, Misses Hill and Orr were guests at a six o'clock dinner Thursday at the John Ahrenkeil home

Misses Hill and Orr autoed to Cedar Falls, Friday p. m. to spend the week end. Miss Orr went to visit her home people and Miss Hill to be with her brother and family.

Mrs. Elmer Schneider left from Clarion Saturday, to attend the Mississippi Valley conference on tuberculosis which is to be held at Evansville, Ind. She was commissioned by acting Gov. Hammill to represent Hancock county.

Mr. and Mrs. Framer Cordes, Alfred Carpenter, Thora Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Luick, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schneider and Mrs. Brass were at Britt, Wednesday, to attend the annual election of the county officers of the farm bureau.

Mrs. Ed. Hughes of Belmond visited her parents, Friday.

Mrs. Fred Wilkins and daughter of Belmond were Goodell callers on Friday.

Mrs. John Rust held a farm bureau meeting at her home Friday, on nutrition, for the ladies in her district.

Meservey high school came over to play baseball with Goodell high Friday. The game resulted in a score of 12 to 6 for Meservey.

Mr. and Mr. S. S. Matson and daughter Alva drove to Gowrie, Saturday, to visit over Sunday with relatives of Mrs. Matson.

The John Hogan family of New Richland, Minn., spent a few days last week with Mrs. Hogan's parents Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Johnson.

Mrs. Henry Christianson and daughter drove to Lake Mills, Saturday, for an over Sunday visit with Mrs. Clifford Tracy and family. Mrs. C. Christiansan accompanied them as far as Garner to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. John Hughes.

Veronica Finn spent the week end with her folks.

Misses Clara Johnson and Mae Griggs came home from Cedar Falls to spend the week end with their home folks.

Carl Sandberg came up from Ames to spend Sunday at home. He rode home with some Belmond boys who are attending college there.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilpin of Sioux Falls S. D. are visiting friends and relatives in and around Goodell this week.

Miss Myrtle Shoenwetter visited over Sunday with relatives near Klemme.

Miss Bernice Butts went to her home Friday evening to spend the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter visited Sunday at the Albert Schlichting home near Olaf.

Mrs. Sven Oleson of Cedar Falls is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Hans Nelson.

Saturday night was the last number of the free movies. A small admission of five and ten cents will now be charged to help defray expenses.

The Layton and Anson Avery families autoed to Williams, Sunday, to spend the day.

Howard Africa and family visited

A party and dance wa held at the Chelsvig home Friday night.

The Taylor family of Mason City were guests at the Thada home on Africas and Savogues Sunday. Sunday.

Mrs. Earl Clark and children of Garner were Sunday guests at McNutt's.

Warner Butts went to his home at Belmond over Sunday.

Church Notes

Last Sunday Rev. Thompson gave inspiring sermons to large congregations. He extends a warm and hearty welcome to everyone. Let everyone attend and enjoy these helpful sermons.

Sunday school at 9:45; morning worship at 11. Evening worship at 7:30. Prayer meeting 7:30 Thursday evening.

The Hancock Sunday school convention will be held at Garner, Friday, Oct. 12. A kind invitation is extended to all.

It may seem early, but the best time to choose your Christmas greeting cards is right now, while you can have your choice. The Independent has a wide selection for you to choose from.

This is clothcraft week

Stitch by stitch

PERMANENCY of SHAPE

and GOOD LOOKS

is built into

CLOTHCRAFT NO. 5130

SERGE SUITS

$29.50

Blue serge Brown serge Gray serge

A size for everybody

Get To Know

GILDNER BROS.

MASON CITY, IOWA

Exide

BATTERIES

Let's have a look

Many a battery is discarded before its time, simply for the lack of a little attention.

If your battery is in good condition, we tell you so. If it needs repairs—and this goes for any make of battery—we will do the work right and at fair prices.

Let us have a look at your battery.

THE MOTOR INN COMPANY

Belmond, Iowa.

We handle only genuine Exide parts

Lots of Laughs! Next Sunday There Will Be

2 COMIC SECTIONS 2

In The Des Moines Sunday Register

Hereafter The Sunday Register will have eight (8) full pages of comics in colors

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Public notice is hereby given that bids will be received by the Town Council of the Incorporated Town of Belmond, Iowa, on the 22nd day of October 1923, at 7:30 p. m., for the construction of certain water improvements and mains in said town, consisting of about 3118 feet of four-inch water mains, and 4 hydrants and 2 gate valves, and 3 T's, all of which work is set forth in certain plans and specifications for the same now on file in the office of the town clerk of said town, and shall include all excavations and back filling, all of which work shall be completed by November 30, 1923.

Payment will be made for said work and labor by warrants drawn in part on funds on hand and in part upon anticipated levies.

Certified check for the sum of Two Hundred dollars must accompany each proposal in a separate envelope for the said work, the said council reserves the right to refuse any and all bids

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract for the construction of said work in accordance with plans and specifications and give a bond to provide for the carrying out of the contract to be so entered into, and said bond to further provide to keep the said mains in good repair for not exceeding one year after acceptance of same by said town.

GUY BYERS,
462 Town Clerk.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Public notice is hereby given that bids will be received by the Town Council of the Incorporated Town of Belmond, Iowa, on the 22nd day of October, 1923, at 7:30 p. m., for the construction of certain sewers in said town, consisting of about 3118 feet of eight-inch vitrified sewer pipe, six manholes, three flush tanks, all of which work is set forth in certain plans and specifications for the same, now on file in the office of the Town Clerk of said town, and shall include all excavation, back filling, "Y" branches with detachable covers, and all of which work shall be completed by November 30th, 1923.

Payment will be made for said work and labor by certificates bearing six per cent interest evidencing special assessments made upon abutting and adjacent property as provided in the Ordinance, and by the regulations of said town and by the Laws of the State of Iowa.

Certified check for the sum of Two Hundred dollars must accompany each proposal in a separate envelope for the said sewer work. The said Council reserves the right to refuse any and all bids. The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract for the construction of said work in accordance with plans and specifications and to give a bond to provide for the carrying out of the contract to be so entered into, and said bond to further provide to keep the sewer in good repair for not to exceed one year after acceptance of same by said town.

GUY BYERS.
462 Town Clerk.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

An examination for the position of clerk, male and female, and for village carrier in the post office at Belmond, Iowa, will be held on Saturday, October 20, 1923, commencing at 9 o'clock a m.

Applications for this examination must be made on the prescribed form which, with necessary instructions, may be obtained from the Commission's local representative, Mr. Willard Morse acting secretary Civil Service board at the Belmond post office, or from the undersigned.

All persons wishing to take this examination should secure blanks and file their applications with the undersigned at once in order to allow time for any necessary corrections and to arrange for the examination.

All applicants will be required to submit to the examiner on the day of examination a photograph of himself taken within two years.

J. M. Shoemaker, Secretary Civil Service Board, St. Paul, Minnesota.

UNCLE SAM TO MAKE NEW PAPER MONEY

Secretary Mellon's approval of the new designs for paper money under consideration for more than a year, has been announced at the treasury department and many brand new bills of distinctive type and marking soon will be in circulation.

The new designs at first will affect only United States notes, silver certificates and federal reserve notes in denominations up to $100, with the exception of the "unpopular" two dollar note, but it is hoped later to extend the sew deigns—amounting almost to a program of standardization—to national bank notes and ultimately to the rare gold certifiicates.

Working to make the job of counterfeiting less remunerative treasury experts chose the method of standardizing designs, giving one denomination of all kinds of currency one distinctive design for face and back; so that those persons into whose possession the money comes may recognize instantly if alteration has been attempted.

The faces of the new bills will carry portraits of well known figures in American history mostly presidents, and the best known faces have been chosen for the bills most used. The one dollar bill for instance will have Washington's portrait;the five, Lincoln, and the ten, Jackson. Cleveland's likeness will appear on the twenty-dollar bills while for the fifties and one hundreds, the portraits of General Grant and Benjamin Franklin, respectively, have been selected.

The backs of the new bill will be of the same general character as the present gold notes, consisting of the conventional scroll work panel with lathe work border and not pictures and thus the design of any one denomination will become well known, whether it be a United States note, silver certificate or federal reserve note.

The whole design will be uniform, and the difficulty of "raising" bills to higher denominations, Chief Moran of the secret service believes, will be greatly increased.

As for the unpopular two-dollar bill, a new design for it was not included since its discontinuation is being considered. If it finaly is decided to continue the bill a portrait of Thomas Jefferson will be used.—Ex.

AN ADVERTISER'S IDEA.

Following is one advertiser's idea of a news story:

"Robert Steel, eight years old, was fatally shot while playing with a Swiss & Wessen revolver yesterday afternoon in front of Scheidtmiere,s Sanitary Apothecary. The bullet entering his left side, puncturing a suit purchased at Heppelwhite's Department Store sale now in progress (see 1 inch 2 column advertisement on back page of this paper.) The boy was attempting to open a sanitary sealed package of Jim Dandy's animal crackers with the barrel of the revolver when the exclusively designed trigger, just patented, fell. The cartridge was of the Powderless Brand, recently introduced to the trade. When the youngster fell to the pavement a Never-Squirt fountain pen in one of his coat pockets was badly crushed, but is still fit for use it being saved by a triple-plate composition rubber case, furnished to each purchaser without extra charge The funeral will be held from the Gen teel parlors on tenth street, just opposite the newly erected plant of Hermanstein's Soy-Bean Canning Co. An "Imperishable Metalic" casket made only in this city will be used. Flowers will be furnished by the Dani-Lione Floral Co., who catered to the funeral of Mrs. S.H.C.Buffington-Blubb, the noted society leader when she died later of acute indigestion recently."—Ex.

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER
Farm and General Sales
A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.
For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

"My wife saved ten dollars at a bargain sale yesterday."

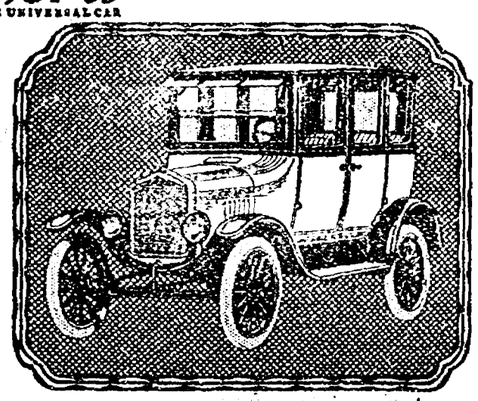
"She did? And did she give you the ten dollars?"

"No. She demanded ten more to buy a hat. Her old one was trampled on in the rush."

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, OCT. 22

The best way to sell that stove is to use an Independent Want Ad.

WRIGLEY'S
After Every Meal
Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.
Aids digestion.
Allays thirst.
Soothes the throat.
For Quality, Flavor and the Sealed Package, get

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR


New Sedan
Changes featured in the new Ford Sedan make it a better looking, roomier car.
A higher radiator with a trim apron at its base lends dignity befitting a closed car. The higher hood and enlarged cowl curving gracefully to the dash give a stylish sweep to its body lines, and afford additional leg room for occupants of the front seat.
All body fittings—window regulators, door grips, door latch levers, door lock, dome light—are finished in nickel. The upholstery carries a fine dark line on a soft brown background that does not easily show dust or dirt. Silk window curtains to harmonize for the three rear windows enhance the style of the car and add to the comfort of its passengers. See the new Sedan and other new Ford body styles at our showroom.
These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.
Ford
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS
Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa

Wright and Franklin County Breeders' Association Sale of PURE BRED PIGS
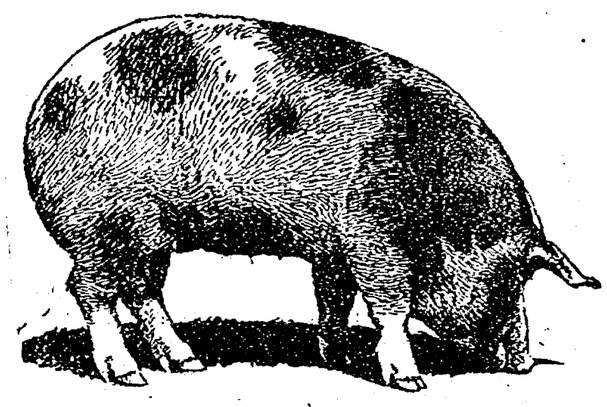
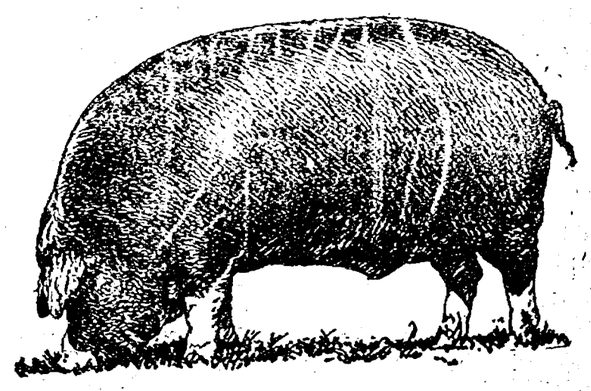
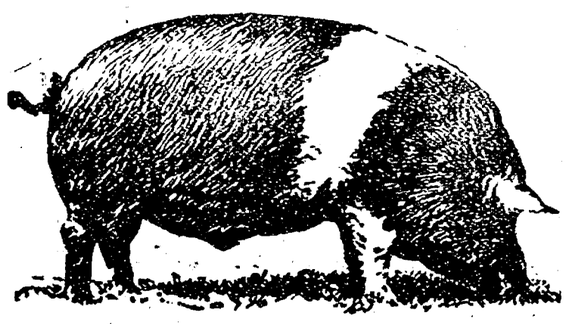
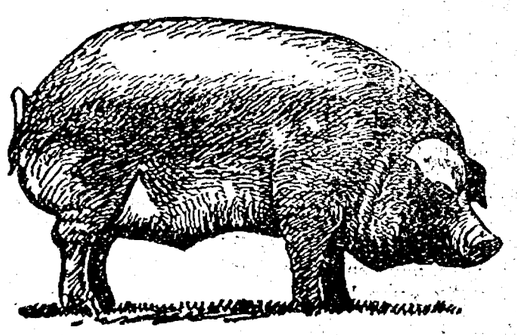
- At -
ROWAN, IOWA




Saturday, October 13
Sale At Sale Pavilion At 1:00 O'clock P. M.
Consisting of Poland China, Spotted Poland, Duroc Jersey and Hampshire boars and gilts.




These pigs came from the leading pure bred herds of each breed. Spring boars, fall boars and yearling boars are listed. It will be the opportune time to secure a boar.
TERMS CASH
COWLEY & MUNNIS
Auctioneers
TOM ROSS
Sale Manager

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him.

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convinging her she has not the strength, Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI.—When her full strength returns, Gael, intensely interested in his companion, begins her "education."

CHAPTER XII.—Gael begins to realize the beauty of his "captive leopardess."

CHAPTER XIII.—Gael induces Joan to put on a woman's suit he gives her. The girl laughs at its smallness, remarking that it must have been made for a "tall child." In his absence, Joan starts for home, but, helpless, is compelled to return. Prosper's delight awakens the girl's heart.

CHAPTER XIV.—Joan hints of marriage, but Prosper puts her off. A letter in his mail, in a "small gray envelope," agitates him, and that night he says goodby to Joan. Next day she sees Pierre riding with Frank Holliwell, and realizes Gael's deception. She dare not meet Pierre.

Book Two.

CHAPTER I.—At the Lazy-Y ranch Jane, the cook, attracts the attention of Jasper Morena, Jew theatrical manager, there with his highborn Gentile wife Betty. Morena wants Jane for a new play he is to produce. Betty had had an "affair" with Prosper Gael, and believing her husband dying, had written she would marry him.

This young woman by the fireplace had just that panther-air of perilous quietness. She was very haggard, very thin; she wore her massive black hair drawn away hideously from brow and temple, and out of this lean, unshaded face a pair of deep eyes looked drowsily, dangerously. Her mouth was straightened into an expression of proud bitterness, her round chin thrust forward; there was a deep, scowling line that rose from the bridge of her straight, short nose almost to the roots of her hair. It cut across a splendidly modeled brow. She was very graceful, if such a bundle of bones might be said to have any grace. Her pose was arresting. There was a tragic force and attraction about her.

The man by the door appraised her carefully between his narrowed lids. He kept in mind the remembered melody of her voice, and, after a few moments, he strolled across the floor and came up to her.

"Will you dance?" he said.

He had a very charming and subtle smile, a very charming and sympathetic look. The woman was startled, color rose into her face. She stared at him.

"I'm not dancing, Mr. Morena," she answered.

"You know my name," smiled Morena; "and I don't know yours. I've been on Mr. Yarnall's ranch for a month. Why haven't I seen you?"

"Fer not lookin', I suppose." She had given him that one startled glance, and now she had turned her eyes back to the dancers and wore a grim, contemptuous air. Her speeches, though they were cut into short, crisp words, were full of music of a sharp, metallic quality different from the tone of her other speech, but quite as beautifully expressive.

"May I smoke?" asked Morena. He was still smiling his charming smile and watching her out of the corners of his eyes.

"I'm not hinderin' you any," said she.

Morena smiled deeper. He took some time making and lighting his cigarette.

"You don't smoke yourself?" he asked.

"No."

"Nor dance?"

"No."

"Nor behave prettily to polite young men?"

Again the woman looked at him. "You ain't so awful young, are you?"

He laughed aloud.

"I amuse you, don't I? Well, I'm not always so all-fired funny," drawled the creature, lowering her head a little.

"No. I've heard that you're not. You rather run things here, I gather; got the boys 'plumb scared'?"

"Did Mr. Yarnall tell you that?"

"Yes. I've just in the last few minutes remembered who you are. You're Jane. You cook for the 'outfit,' and Yarnall was telling us the other night how he sent one of the boys out for a cook, the last one, a man, having been beaten up, and how the boy had brought you back behind him on his saddle. He said you'd kept order for him ever since, were better than a foreman. Who was the man you threw out tonight?"

"Perhaps," drawled Jane, "he was just a feller who asked too many questions?"

Again Morena's smile deepened into his cheeks. "You must pardon me, Miss Jane," he said in his murmuring, cultivated voice. "You see, I've had a great misfortune. I've never been in your West. I've lived in New York, where good manners haven't time or space to flourish. I hadn't the least intention of being impertinent. Do you want me to go?"

He moved as if to leave her, and she did not lift a finger to detain him.

"I'm not carin'. Do as you please," she said with entire indifference.

"Oh," said Morena, looking back at her, "I don't stay where people are 'not carin'.'"

She gave him an extraordinarily intelligent look. "I should say that's the only place you'd be wantin' to stay in at all—where you're not exactly urged to come," she said.

Morena flushed and his lids flickered. He was for an instant absurdly inclined to anger and made two or three steps away. But he came back.

He bowed and spoke as he would have spoken to a great lady, suavely, deferentially.

"Goodnight. I wish I could think that you have enjoyed our talk as greatly as I have, Miss Jane. I should very much like to be allowed to repeat it. May I be stupidly personal and tell you that you are very beautiful?" He bowed, gave her an upward look and went out, finding his way cleverly among the dancers.

Outside, in the moonlit court, he stood, threw back his head and laughed, not loudly but consumedly. He was remembering her white face of mute astonishment. She looked almost as if his compliment had given her sharp pain.

Morena went laughing to his room in the opposite wing. He wanted to describe the interview to his wife.

Betty Morena was sitting in a rustic chair before an open fire, smoking a cigarette. She was a short woman, so slenderly, even narrowly built, as to appear overgrown, and she was a mature woman so immaturely shaped and featured as to appear hardly more than a child. Her curly russet hair was parted at the side, her wide, long-lashed eyes were set far apart, her nose was really a finely modeled snub—more, a boy's nose even to a light sprinkling of freckles—and her mouth was provokingly the soft, red mouth of a sorrowful child. She lounged far down in her chair, her slight legs, clad in riding-breeches of perfect cut, stretched out straight, her limber arms along the arms of the chair, her chin sunk on her flat chest, and her big, clear eyes staring into the fire. It was an odd figure of a wife for Jasper Morena, a Jew of thirty-eight, producer and manager of plays.

When Betty Kane had run away with him there had been lamentation and rage in the houses of Kane and Morena. To the pride of an old Hebrew family, the marriage even of this wandering son with a Gentile was fully as degrading as to the pride of the old Tory family was the marriage with a Jew. Her perverse Gaelic blood, on fire with the insults heaped upon her lover, Betty, seventeen years old, romantic, clever, would have walked over flint to give her hand to him. That was ten years ago. Now, when Jasper came into her room, she drew her quick brows together, puffed at her cigarette, and blinked as though she was looking at something distasteful and at the same time rather alarming.

"Have they stopped dancing, Jasper?" she asked in a voice that was at once brusque and soft.

Jasper rubbed his hands delightedly. He was still merry, and came to stand near the fire, looking down at her with eyes entirely kind and admiring.

"Have you ever noticed Jane, who cooks for the outfit, Betty?"

"Yes. She's horrible."

"She's extraordinary, and I mean to get hold of her for Luck's play. Did you read it?"

"Yes."

"The play is absolutely dependent on the leading part and I have found it simply impossible to fill. Now here's a woman of extraordinary grace and beauty—"

Betty lifted skeptical eyebrows twisted her limber mouth, but forbore to contradict.

"And with a magical voice—a woman who not only looks the part, but is it. You remember Luck's heroine?"

Betty flicked off the ash of her cigarette and looked away. "A savage isn't she? The man has her tamed takes her back to London, and there gives her cause for jealousy and she springs on him—yes, I remember This woman, Jane, is absolutely without education and hasn't a notion of acting, I suppose."

Jasper rubbed his hands with increased delight. "Not a notion and she murders the king's English. But she is Luck's savage and—in spite of your eyebrows, Betty—she is beautiful. I can school her. It will take money, no end of patience, but I can do it. It's one of the things I can do. But, of course, there's the initial difficulty of persuading her to try it."

"That oughtn't to be any difficulty at all. Of course she'll jump at the chance."

"I'm not so sure. She was ready to throw me out of the kitchen tonight She is really a virago. Do you know what one of the men said about her?" Jasper laughed and imitated the gentle western drawl. "Jane's plumb movin' to me. She's about halfway between 'You go to h—l' and 'You take me in your arms to rest.'"

"Have You Ever Noticed Jane, Who Cooks for the Outfit, Betty?"

Betty smiled. Her smile was vastly more mature than her appearance. It was clever and cynical and cold. The Oriental, looking down at her, lost his merriment.

"Do you feel better, dear?" he asked timidly. "Do you think you will be able to go back next week?"

She stood up as he came nearer and walked over to the little table that played the part of dressing table under a wavy mirror. "Oh, yes. I am quite well. I don't think the doctors have much sense. I'm sure I hadn't anything like a nervous breakdown. I was just tired out."

Jasper drew back the hand whose touch she had eluded, and nervously, his long supple fingers a little unsteady, lighted a cigarette. At that moment he did not look like a spider, but like a lover who has been hurt. Betty could see in the mirror a distorted image of his dejected gracefulness, but, entirely unmoved, she put up her thin, brown hands and began to take the pins out of her hair.

"I like your Jane experiment," she said. "Let me know how you get on with it and whether I can help. I shall have to turn in now. I'm dead beat. Yarnall took me halfway up the mountain and back. Goodnight."

Jasper looked at her, then pressed his lips into a straight line and went to the door which led from her bedroom to his. He said "Goodnight" in a low tone, glanced at her over his shoulder, and went out.

Betty waited an instant, then slowly unlaced her heavy, knee-high boots, took them off, and began to walk to and fro on stocking feet, hands clasped behind her back. With her curly hair all about her face and shoulders, she looked like a wild, extravagantly naughty schoolgirl, a girl in a wicked temper, a rebel against authority. In fact, she was rejoicing that this horrible enforced visit to the West was all but over. One week more! She was almost at an end of her endurance. How she hated the beautiful white night outside, those mountain peaks, the sound of that rapid river, the stillness of sagebrush, the voice of the big pines! What a malevolent trick of fate that Jasper should have brought her to Wyoming, that the doctor had insisted upon at least a month of just this life. "Take her west," he had said, and Betty, lying limp and white in her bed, her small head sunk into the pillow, had jerked from head to foot. "Take her west. I know a ranch in Wyoming—Yarnall's. She'll get outdoor exercise, tonic air, sound sleep, release from all these pestiferous details, like a cloud of flies, that sting women's nerves to death. Don't pay any attention to whether she likes it or not. Let her behave like a naughty child, let her kick and scream and cry. Pick her up, Morena, and carry her off. Do you hear? Don't let her make you change your plans." The doctor had seen his patient's convulsive jerk. "Pack her up. Make your reservations and go straight to 'Buck' Yarnall's ranch, Lazy-Y—that's his brand, I believe—Middle Fork, Wyoming. I'll send him a wire. He knows me. She needs all outdoors to run about in. She needs joggin' around all day through the sagebrush on a cow-pony in that sun; she needs the smell of a camp-fire—Gad! wish I could get back to it myself."

Betty, having heard this out, began to laugh. She laughed till they gave her something to keep her quiet. But, except for that laughter, she had made no protest whatever; she did not "kick and scream and cry." In fact, though she looked like a child, she was not at all inclined to such exhibitions. This doctor had not seen her through her recent ordeal. Two years before her breakdown, Jasper had been terribly hurt in an automobile accident, and Betty had come to him at the hospital, had waited, as white as a snow-image, for the result of the examination. They had told her emphatically that there was no hope. Jasper Morena could not live for more than a few days. She must not allow herself to hope. He might or might not regain consciousness.

Betty had listened with her white, rigid, child face, had thanked them, had gone home. There in her exquisite, little sitting room above Central park, she had sat at her desk and written a few lines on gray note paper.

"Jasper is dying," she had written. "By the time you get this, he will be dead. If you can forgive me for having failed in courage last year, come back. What I have been to you before I will be again, only, this time we can love openly. Come back."

Then she had dropped her head on the desk and cried. Afterward she had addressed her letter to a certain Prosper Gael. The letter went to Wyoming.

Three days later Jasper regained consciousness and began slowly to return to health. He had the tenacious vitality of his race, and, in his own spirit, an iron will to live. He kept Betty beside his bed for hours, and held her cold hand in his long sensitive one, and he stared at her under his lashes till she thought she must go mad. But she did not. She nursed him through an interminable convalescence. She received Prosper, very early in this convalescence, by her husband's bed, and Jasper had murmured gratitude for the emotion that threatened to overwhelm his friend. It was not till some time—an extraordinarily long time—after Morena's complete recovery that she had snapped like a broken icicle. And then, forsooth, they had sent her to Wyoming to get back her health!

Having paced away some of her restlessness, Betty, stopped by the cabin window and pushed aside one of the short, calico curtains. She looked out on the court. A tall woman had just pulled up a bucket of water from the well and had emptied it into a pitcher. She finished, let the bucket drop with a whirr and a clash, and raised her head. For a second she and Jasper Morena's wife looked at each other. Betty nodded, smiled, and drew the curtain close.

CHAPTER II

Jane.

After that night, there began a sort of persecution, skillfully conducted by Jasper and Betty, against the ferocity of Jane. It was a persecution impossible to imagine in any other setting, even the social simplicity of Lazy-Y found itself a trifle amused. For Jasper, the stately Jewish figure, would carry pails of water for Jane from the well to the kitchen, would help her in the vegetable garden, and to straighten out her recalcitrant stove-pipe; Betty would put on an apron a mile too large, to wash dishes and shell peas. She would sit on the kitchen table swinging her long, childlike legs and chatter amiably. Jasper talked, too, to the virago, talked delightfully, about horses and dogs—he had a charming gift of humorous observation—talked about hunting and big-game shooting, about trapping, about travel, and, at last, about plays. Undoubtedly Jane listened. Sometimes she laughed. Once in a while she ejaculated, musically, "Well!" Occasionally she swore.

One afternoon he met her riding home from an errand to a neighboring ranch, and, turning his horse, rode with her. In worn corduroy skirt, flannel shirt, and gray sombrero, she looked like a handsome, haggard boy, and, that afternoon, there was a certain unusual wistfulness in her eyes, and her mouth had relaxed a little from its bitterness. Perhaps it was the beauty of a clear, keen summer day; without doubt, also, she was touched by the courteous pleasure of his greeting and by his giving up his ride in order to accompany her. She even unbent from her silence and, for the first time, really talked to him. And she spoke, too, in a new manner, using her beautiful voice with beautiful carefulness. It was like a master-musician who, after a long illness, takes up his beloved instrument and tentatively tests his shaken powers. Jasper had much ado to keep his surprise to himself, for the rough ranch girl could speak pure enough English if she would.

"You and your wife are leaving soon?" she asked him, and, when he nodded, she gave a sigh. "I'll be missing you," she said, throwing away her brusquerie like a rag with which she was done. "You've been company for me. You've made use of lots of patience and courage, but I have really liked it. I've not got the ways of being sociable and I don't know that I want ever to get them. I am not seeking for friends. There isn't another person on the ranch that would dare talk to me as you and Mrs. Morena have talked. They don't know anything about me here and I don't mean that they should know." She paused, then gave way to an impulse of confidence. "One of the boys asked me to marry him. He came and shouted it through the window and I caught him with a pan of water." She sighed. "I don't know rightly if he meant it for a joke or not, but the laugh wasn't on me."

Jasper controlled his laughter, then saw the dry humor of her eyes and lips and let out his mirth.

"Why, sir," said Jane, "you'd be surprised at the foolishness of men Sometimes it seems that, just for pure contrariness, they want to marry her that least wants them about. The day I came tramping into this valley, I stopped for food at the ranch of an old bachelor down yonder at the ford And he invited me to be his wife while I was drinking a glass of water from his well. He told me how much money he had and said he'd start my stove for me winter mornings. There's a good husband! And he was sure kind to me even when I told him 'no.' 'Twas that same evening that the boy from Lazy-Y rode in and claimed me for a cook. Mr. Yarnall is a trusting man. He took me and didn't ask any questions. I told him I was 'Jane,' and that I wasn't planning to let him know more. He hasn't asked me another question since. He's a gentleman, I figure it, and he's kind of quiet himself about what he was before he came to this country. He's a man of fifty and he has lots back of him, only he's taken a fresh start." She sighed, "Folks like you and Betty seem awfully open-hearted. It's living in cities, I suppose, where every one knows every one else so well."

This astonishing picture of the candid simplicity of New York's social life absorbed Jasper's attention for some time.

"Wouldn't you like to live in a city, Jane?"

She laughed her short, boyish "Hoo!" "It isn't what I would like, Mr. Morena," she said. "Why, I'd like to see the world. I would like to be that fellow who was condemned to wander all over the earth and never to die. He was a Jew, too, wasn't he?"

Jasper flushed. People were not in the habit of making direct reference to his nationality, and, being an Israelite who had early cut himself off with dislike from his own people and cultivated the society of Gentiles, "a man without a country," he was acutely sensitive.

"The Wandering Jew? Yes. Where did you ever hear of him?"

"I read his story," she answered absently; "an awful long one, but interesting, about lots of people, by Eugene Sue."

Jasper's lips fell apart and he stared. She had spoken unwittingly and he could see that she was not thinking of him, that she was far away, staring beyond her horse's head into the broad, sunset-brightened west.

"Where were you schooled?" he asked her.

He had brought her back and her face stiffened. She gave him a startled, almost angry look, dug her heels into her horse and broke into a gallop; nor could he win from her another word.

A few days before he left, he took Yarnall into his confidence. At first the rancher would do nothing but laugh. "Jane on the boards! That's a notion!" followed by explosion after explosion of mirth. The Jew waited, patient, pliant, smiling, and then enumerated his reasons. He talked to Yarnall for an hour, at the end of which time, Yarnall, his eyes still twinkling, sent for Jane.

The two men sat in a log-walled room, known as the office. Yarnall's big desk crowded a stove. There was no other furniture except shelves and a box seat beneath a window. Jasper sat on the end of the desk, swinging his slim, well-booted leg; Yarnall, stocky, gray, shabby, weather-beaten, leaned back in his wicker chair. The door which Jasper faced was directly behind Yarnall. When Jane opened it, he turned.

The girl looked grim and a little pale. She was evidently frightened. This summons from Yarnall suggested dismissal or reproof. She came around to face him and stood there, looking fierce and graceful, her head lowered, staring gloomily at him from under her brows. To Jasper she gave not so much as a glance.

"Well, Jane, I fancy I shall have to let you go," said Yarnall. He was not above tormenting the wildcat. Female ferocity always excites the teasing boy in a man. "You're getting too ambitious for us. You see, once these rich New Yorkers take you up, you're no more use to a plain ranchman like me."

"What are you drivin' at?" asked Jane.

"Do let me explain it to her, Yarnall!" Jasper snapped his elastic fingers, color had risen to his face, and he looked annoyed. "Miss Jane, won't you sit down?"

Jane turned her deep, indignant eyes upon him. "Are you and your wife the rich New Yorkers he says are takin' me up?"

"No, no. He's joking. This is a serious business. It's of vital importance to me and it ought to be of vital importance to you. Please do sit down!"

Jane took a long step back and sat down on the settle under the long, horizontal window. She folded her hands on her knee and looked up at Morena. She had transferred her attention completely to him. Yarnall watched them. He was an Englishman of much experience and this picture of the skillful, cultivated, handsome Jew angling deftly for the gaunt, young savage diverted him hugely. He screwed up his eyes to get a picture of it.

The Girl Looked Grim and a Little Pale.

"I am a producer and manager of plays," said Jasper, "which means that I take a play written by a more gifted man and arrange it for the stage. Have you ever seen a play?"

"No, sir."

"But you have some idea what they are?"

"Yes. I have read them. Shakespeare wrote quite a lot of that kind of talking pieces, didn't he?"

Jasper was less surprised than Yarnall. "At present I have a play on my hands which is a very brilliant and promising piece of work, but which I have been unable to produce for lack of a heroine. There isn't an actress on my list that can take the part and do it justice. Now, Miss Jane, I believe that with some training you could take it to perfection. My wife and I would like to take you to New York, paying all your expenses, of course, and put you into training at once. It would take a year's hard work to get you fitted for the part. Then next fall we could bring out the play and I think I can promise you success and fame and wealth in no small measure. I don't know you very well; I don't know whether or not you are ambitious; but I do know that every woman must love beauty and ease and knowledge and experience. For what else," he smiled, "did Eve eat the apple? All these you can have if you will let us take you East. Of course, if I find you cannot take this part, I will hold myself accountable for you. I will not let you be a loser in any way by the experiment. With your beauty"—Yarnall fell back in his chair and gaped from the excited speaker to the silent listener—"and your extraordinary voice, and your magnetism, you must be especially fitted for a career of some kind. I promise to find you your career."

Every drop of blood had fallen from Jane's face and the rough hands on her knee were locked together.

"What part," she asked in a quick, low voice, "is this that you think I could learn to do?"

Jasper changed his position. He came nearer and spoke more rapidly. "It is the story of a girl, a savage girl, whom a man takes up and trains. He trains her as a professional might train a lioness. It is a passion with him to break spirits and shape them to his will. He trains her with coaxing and lashing—not actual lashing, though I believe in one place he does come near to beating her—and he gets her broken so that she lies at his feet and eats out of his hand. All this, you understand, while he's an exile from his own world. Then, in the second act—that is the second part of the play—he takes his tamed lioness back to civilization. They go to London and there the woman does his training infinite credit. She is extraordinarily beautiful; she is civilized, successful, courted. Her eccentricities only add to her charm. So it goes on very prettily for a while. Then he makes a mistake. He blunders very badly. He gives his lioness cause for jealousy and—to come to the point—she flies at his throat. You see, he hadn't really tamed her. She was under the skin, a lioness, a beast, at heart."

Jasper had been absorbed in the plot and had not noticed Jane, but Yarnall for several minutes had been leaning forward, his hands tightened on the arms of his chair. The instant Jasper stopped he held up his hand.

"Quiet, Jane," he said softly as a man might speak to a plunging horse. "Steady!"

Jane got to her feet. She was very white. She put up her hand and pressed the back of it against her forehead and from under this hand she looked at the two men with eyes of such astonished pain and beauty as they could never forget.

"Yes," she said presently; "that's something I could do."

At once Jasper hastened to retrieve his error. "Oh, I'm so sorry. I've been clumsy. Do forgive me. Do let me explain. I didn't mean that you were a wild—"

Continued next week.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Mrs Ina Allen of Hampton spent part of last week at the home of Mrs Pat Dillon.

Louie Tokman left Monday for Des Moines to attend a Ford dealers meeting at the Savery hotel.

Monday, October 15, there will be new classes organized. That is the time for you to get started. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

It's fine! Danish Pastry, Saturday at Barban's Bakery.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elder from Washington state are visiting friends and relatives here. Mr. Elder was a resident of Belmond many years ago, and editor of the old Clarion Democrat in years gone by.

Fred Pletch and family and Chris Friesleben drove to Manson, Sunday, to visit Rev. Meler and family. They returned home Monday.

Mrs. S. C. Boughton and Mrs. E. E. Boughton spent Friday at the E. G. Reed home near Cornelia.

Agnes Dillon and Mildred Parsons of Corwith spent the week end at the home of Agnes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Dillon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Morse left on Tuesday evening for Kansas City, to enjoy a vacation for the rest of the week.

Try our coffee cakes and butter rolls made of Danish pastry. Saturday at Barban's Bakery.

Electrical fixtures; wiring; service at all hours. C. H. Wallace. Phone 366. 44tf

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stanley from Hopkins Minnesota, spent last week visiting relatives and friends in Belmond.

Rev. Leinbach, T. A. Davenport and Stephen Hartwick attended the Congregational church association at Manson, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. Dan Brooks and son, John, spent Sunday with relatives at Hayfield.

We are open from 5 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. every day.—Barban's Bakery.

Harry Harberts came down from his home at Canton, South Dakota, and is visiting relatives and friends this week. He is a former resident of this place.

Mrs. James Thayer and Mrs. Herman Wenzel were Mason City callers Tuesday.

Chas. Peterson and family from Hampton drove over Sunday to spend the day with relatives here.

Cream Puffs for sale every Saturday at Barban's Bakery.

Mrs. Annie Case went to Fort Dodge, Tuesday, to attend a meeting of librarians. She will return today. Miss Helen Hildebrand is acting as librarian after school hours.

Miss Mary Barry was a caller at Mason City on Tuesday.

M. C. Barry and Father Eardley accompanied by Father Torpey of Clarion drove to Webster City, Tuesday, and spent the day with Father Barry.

Miss Bernice Butts has resigned her position in the Goodell school on account of ill health, and expects to go to Rochester for examination and treatment.

The Cash Market is going to sell 2,000 pounds of Hams and Bacon in three days at wholesale prices. Be sure you get in on it. See the ad on page eight.

For electrical wiring and fixtures see C. H. Wallace. Phone 366. 44tf

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	14c
Leghorns	12c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	30c
Cream	45c
Creamery Butter	45c
Oats	35c
Corn	88c

A joint meeting of the Belmond Cemetary Association and Cemetary Aid Society will be held at the savings bank Friday evening at 7.30.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

A number of local citizens went to Fort Dodge last Friday to attend the auto races.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Thompson and family drove to Fort Dodge, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hauge and family visited relatives at Galt on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scofield and Mr. and Mrs. Fellows of Janseville, Wis., were visitors at the Frank Case home over the week end. Mrs. Scofield is a sister of Mrs. Case.

H. Bailey, an uncle of Ed. Bailey, who has been visiting here several weeks, returned Friday to his home in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Kragh were Mason City visitors last Saturday.

Mrs. F. E. Snyder was a business caller at Clarion on Tuesday of this week.

Alvin Hauge underwent another operation at the hospital here the first of the week. He is improving.

Mrs. M. C. Barry is doing jury duty at district court this week.

Rev. Wilkinson and family are moving this week to their new home at Dayton, Iowa. Their friends here wish them every success in their new field.

Dr. Steele and Mrs. Hamiliton autoed to Minnesota on professional business Sunday.

Rev. J. B. O'Connor, the new pastor of the Methodist church, filled the pulpit here both morning and afternoon Sunday. He made a very favorable impression upon the large congregation. He is moving his household goods here from Garner this week.

Make Barban's Bakery your headquarters for bread and pastries.

See those Folding Clothes Racks. A novelty made in Belmond.—R. D. Kenefick. 472c

It will pay you in dollars and cents to look over the Wholesale Meat ad you will find in this issue.

Geo. Stanley and wife of Minneapolis drove down recently to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Murphy. Mr. Stanley is a brother of Mrs. Murphy, and a former resident of Belmond. Old settlers who knew him will be glad to learn that he is doing fine, connected with the M & St. L. railroad company.

Buy Hava-Slice Bread at Barban's Bakery, Bohning & Co., C. G. Johnson, Kinseth & Son, Elite Cafe, Cash Market, or Steenblock & Loats.

Dick Kenefick, who has his shop on the Belmond Lumber Co. grounds on Main street, is making a unique and practical rack for hanging up clothes. The rack is a folding arrangement, standing, when open, about five feet high, and with rods, which give approximately 40 feet of space to hang garments. It is about two and a half feet long. Closed, it is so constructed that the whole thing folds up into a bundle that will not occupy any more space than a suitcase. Where a closet is not available this rack is a handy article of furniture. Mr. Kenefick has orders ahead for a number of the racks for Belmond people.

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Wright & Franklin Co. Breeders' Association, sale of pure bred hogs at Rowan Sale pavilion, Saturday, Oct. 13. See ad page six this issue.

M. G. Luick, dairy cow sale, Tuesday, Oct. 23. Watch for ad next week.

You cannot afford to pass that wholesale meat sale that is on at the Cash Market, as it is your opportunity of really getting your fall supply of smoked meats at a price that is right.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

GAS AT HUMBOLDT NOW 14½

Standard gasolene at Humboldt is now retailing at 14½ cents a gallon, according to the Republican, which says the price went down there last week. So far as this paper knows, Humboldt is the only town in this vicinity where the price has dropped to what they are paying in Des Moines.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—On account of moving away, I will sell my furniture at private sale. All in good condition, and consisting of 1 davenport, one 9x12 Axminister rug, dining room set, two bed room sets, New Century heater, nearly new, and other articles too numerous to mention. Will sell at a sacrifice if taken at once. At the old Case house.—Mrs. H. T. Wolder.

For Sale—White Rock Pullets, from prize winning stock. $1 each. —Mrs. Wm. Leonard, Swaledale, Ia.

For Sale—Check protector, good as new. Inquire at Independent. tf

For Sale—One new Ford touring car and one new Chevrolet touring car.—Nordschow Motor Co.

For Sale—New range and two second hand cook stoves. Inquire at Independent. 45tf

For Sale—Chicken house, Iris bulbs and Hardy Phlox plants.—Phone 206. 47tfc

For Sale—New overcoat and boy's suit at the Belmond Tailor Shop.

For Sale—My Short Horn herd bull. Breeding papers furnished. Also a few heifers. Inquire of M. Halfwassen. 452*

For Sale—Fumed oak dining room set, library table, mahogany bed room set, White Frost refrigerator, Detroit Vapor stove, large Wilton rugs.—Mrs. E. L. Madsen. 461

For Sale—Winter apples, Greenings and Yakoma pear hand picked and sprayed orchard. Inquire M. Halfwassen.

For Sale—1920 model Ford touring car, in good condition. Equipped with starter. Inquire at Independent office. 1*

Found—Child's black plush hat. Owner can have same by calling at Independent and paying cost of advertising.

Found—Young black boar; came to my place Sept. 21, 1923. Owner is requested to prove property, pay cost of feeding and advertising, and remove property.—C. F. Hedges, Belmond, Iowa. 453c

Lost—Between Meservey and Belmond last Thursday, man's sheepskin coat. Small tear on front. Notify Will Gealow, Meservey, or Independent.

Wanted—Married man and wife to work on farm. Good wages to right party. Inquire at Independent. 472*

Wanted—A bushel of good onions. Call at Independent.

For Sale—Spotted Poland male pigs, March farrow. New blood for old customers. — Roy Jenison. 472c

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

LOOK ahead to Winter, with its wet, snowy or icy streets and roads, and when you buy a tire now, get the Goodyear Cord with the All-Weather Tread. That tread is famous the world over for slipless, gripping traction and for long, economical wear.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

A BANKER'S DUTY

The banker loans money, often the money of depositors, intrusted to him for safe-keeping. Therefore he must be careful about his loans.

Corrsspondingly, the borrower should be careful to ask for no more than he feels he can repay. We try to accomodate those who want loans, but there is a limit beyond which we cannot go. We take no risks with fusds intrusted to us. No speculation, no excess loans, no "frozen securities for this bank!

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

$25,000 REWARD

TO anyone proving that International Clothes are not Tailored strictly to measure.

ALL the latest models in Overcoats, including the beautiful plaid backs.

SUPERFINE SUITS

New Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel Phone 28

Smoked Meat SALE!

- At -

Wholesale Prices

We have bought ONE TON

of SMOKED MEATS, which we will sell on Thursday, Friday and Saturday

October 11 - 12 - 13

LOOK AT THIS:

Picnic Hams
(Sugar Cured)
13c

Bacon Nuggets
(Really fine bacon, 2 to 3 lbs. each)
17c

Armour's Star Hams
(The Ham What Am. Whole ham.)
28c

Skinned Hams
(25 to 30 lbs. average. Whole or half piece)
20c

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO LAY IN YOUR FALL MEATS AT A PRICE THAT IS PRACTICALLY WHOLESALE.

Standard Bacon
(Lean and sugar cured, 6 to 10 pounds each.)
23c

Skinned Hams
SHIELD BRAND
(8 to 14 lbs. average.)
23c

Armour's Star Bacon
(The best there is, 6 to 8 lbs. average)
33c

We have ONE TON to sell, and we are going to sell it in three days---

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 11-12-13

CASH MARKET

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER, 25 1923 — NO. 49

Factory Cutting Over Capacity Every Day

Average Per Day Since Campaign Started Is 625 Tons; Sugar Content Good.

SHIPPED 15 CARS SUGAR

Operation of the sugar factory is exceeding the best hopes of Belmond citizens, and every day sees the plant cutting over capacity. Since the opening day, the average cutting has been 625 tons of beets. When one stops to think that 600 tons is capacity, the excellence of the operating is plainly seen.

Sunday 735 tons were sliced. Most of the time the plant cuts over capacity. Beets are of good quality, but not quite as good in tonnage as was hoped. The average seems to be about ten tons. The hauling has been going on rapidly, and beets are piling up at stations for lack of sufficient cars.

To date, the Belmond factory has shipped 15 carloads of sugar, 13 carloads of pulp, and two carloads of molasses. Over a hundred thousand pounds of high grade granulated sugar is turned out every day.

The smoothness of the campaign is a high testimony to the ability and work of the officials in charge. The plant is running more smoothly this season than ever before, and every hope is held for a successful campaign for all concerned.

ARRESTED FOR WIFE DESERTION, GOES TO JAIL

Upon complaint of his wife, Norman Nelson was arrested the first of the week charged with wife desertion. Preliminary hearing was held in Justice Purdy's court Tuesday, and Nelson was bound over to the grand jury to await action. In lieu of $500 bonds, he is now in the county jail. Among other evidence brought into the preliminary hearing, Mrs. Nelson charged that her husband kept her covered with a gun all one night, telling her that if she moved he would fire.

CHICKEN THIEVES STARTING

The first chicken thief haul of the season is reported from Story City, where H. G. Chafant, a farmer, recently lost close to 400 of his biggest and fattest hens. Barking of a dog awakened members of the household early one morning, but before anyone could get down to see what was wrong, the thieves had cleaned up and left. They were seen in the darkness but could not be identified. A double-barreled shotgun, applied in the right place, is the best remedy for chicken thieving.

HAMPTON MEN GET SOAKED

Elmer Ramsay and Fred Holmes of Hampton got it in the neck last week when they were each fined $100 for intoxication. Charges of resisting an officer and driving a car while drunk may be filed against them also. Holmes had another $100 tacked on him for selling cigarettes to minors. Two state detectives had been in Hampton for two weeks securing evidence on the two men. The town of Hampton is determined to clean up the rough neck element and are doing a good job of it.

COMMUNITY HEALTH AND MENTAL HYGIENE

Dr. Ruel Silvester will give a lecture on Community Health and Mental Hygiene at the Community Welfare Club meeting Friday afternoon October 26, at the library.

Dr. Silvester is considered an authority on these subjects. He at present is instructor of Psychology at Drake University. A few years ago he was at the head of the health center at Des Moines.

Everyone is invited to attend this lecture. The men as well as the ladies will want to hear Dr. Silvester and are welcome to come.

There will be no charge, so everybody should be able to be there. This subject should be of interest to everyone.

DISTRICT COURT NEWS

Gladys Clarke of Clarion was granted a divorce from Edgar Tarlton Clark on the grounds of desertion. The court also granted her maiden name of Gladys Scholte.

Mrs. Sarah Stokke of Eagle Grove was given a divorce from R. L. Stokke and the custody of their one child, her complaint also being desertion. The property question was settled out of court.

Another divorce case to come before the judge was that of Clarice Henderson vs. Robert Henderson of Eagle Grove, the decree being granted. Henderson is now serving a term at Anamosa.

The only divorce case out of the seven granted Monday wherein the husband was given a decree was that of Burdette Coddington vs. Mattie Coddington of Eagle Grove.

Myrtle Whipple of Clarion was given a divorce from her husband, John Whipple, the charge being cruel and inhuman treatment.

A third divorce case from Clarion is that of Gertrude Henedson vs. George Henderson. The wife was granted a decree on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Joe Thurman who was found guilty of selling liquor to minors, received his sentence Monday afternoon, which was accompanied by a few timely remarks on the booze question by Judge McCall. This was Thurman's second offense, he having served a term in the county jail some time previous. The judge said that the persistant violator could expect no consideration from the court, and that to him the bootlegger occupied a different position from any other criminal. The sentence was seven months in the county jail and a fine of $500, in lieu of the latter the offender will serve one day for each $3.33 of the amount as he has no money. The above fine will extend his time to just an even year.

Eva Nelson of Goldfield was successful in her suit against the Geo. C. Nelson estate, valued at $15,000. She is to receive half and her daughter the other half. Mrs. Nelson had made a home for her father-in-law for several years and according to an oral agreement she was to be provided for after his death.

The Henrietta Frohling case from Belmond is set for Thursday. Plaintiff has appealed from the findings of the commissioners of insanity who declared her of unsound mind. It is said a large number of witnesses will be summoned for this trial and that the case will be an interesting one. An appeal from the findings of this commission is seldom taken.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pohlman of Eagle was raided the other night by Marshal Reynolds and Deputy Johnson. Eight pints of hootch was found and both entered a plea of guilty to bootlegging, before Mayor Baker, who fined the husband $100 and the wife $50, which were paid.

Mrs. W. H. Milnes of Clarion brings suit against the Rock Island Railroad Co. in the sum of $25,000, for the death of her husband W. H. Milnes on the 18th day of February, 1923. It will be remembered that Mr. Milnes died following serious injuries received when the company's employees, while engaged in switching, ran him down on a side track at their stock yards. It is alleged the company was negligent in failing to maintain a lookout or watchman on cars being moved, that defendant was negligent in operating its engine and cars at a high rate of speed without taking due precautions or ascertaining whether any person was passing along the path by the side of the track in question; that defendant was negligent in failing to give warnings by ringing of bell or blowing the whistle. Birdsall, McGrath & Archerd of Clarion and Kelleher & Mitchell of Fort Dodge are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Hazel Frank, formerly of Boone township, now living in Minneapolis was granted a divorce from her husband, R. W. Frank, Monday afternoon. Cruel and inhuman treatment were charged and the husband allowed the decree to be granted without opposition. Plaintiff was awarded $50 per month alimony and the custody of their only child, Henry Bacon Frank. The parties to this action are prominent Wright county people, Mrs. Frank being active in woman's club affairs and Mr. Frank a well known cattle breeder.—Monitor.

To a Grouch

by Grace E. Hall

Oh! little boy blue, you're a wonderful boy,
If only you'd learn how to play,
If you would be pleasant and kindly and true,
Forgetting yourself for a day,
And if when the game is against you, you'd smile,
And not take your toys and run home, the while—
Why, little boy blue, you could win over Fate,
If you'd learn how to smile—while you wait!

You snatch at the prize ere the race is begun,
You haven't the patience to see
That no man can have what he never has won,
Whatever his merits may be;
There isn't a thing that is worthy of him,
That a real man can't get, if he tries with a vim;
Lay your grievance aside—other boys aren't to blame—
Grow a smile—and get into the game!

Copyright Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc.

Charge Yoeman Officials Are Going To Ruin Company By Tactics

Belmond members of the Yeomen lodge will no doubt be interested in the following article, taken from the Eagle Grove "Eagle," relative to the fight now being waged in this organization to turn it into old line insurance. The Eagle has been doing some investigating, and its findings will interest every local Yeoman.

Eagle Grove Eagle—A few weeks ago the Eagle stated that the Yeomen were having difficulty changing from the old fraternal rates, or Class A policy, to an old-line basis. That statement was true. The order has lost over 100,000 members since it tried to enforce its new rates.

The Eagle further stated that some of its members wanted a complete investigation of the affairs of the company, and that the officials did not welcome such an investigation. The members have gone so far as to organize what is termed "The Loyal Yeomen" and raised a fund to employ legal talent to fight the rate raise and investigate fully the affairs of the company.

The Eagle might further state that young Frink, son of the Grand Foreman, grabbed himself off a job that pays $10,000 per year, W. R. Shirley, director, charges $28.65 per day for his time. H. W. Pitkin charges $20.78 and in the past two years has put in 398 days' time.

W. R. Shirley, who gets in all $4,500 per year from the Yeomen, also draws $500 per month as president of an oil company. As Jim Jam Jems says, "the Yeomen is not organized for profit, but Shirley is."

The Eagle might also have further stated that the Yeomen Home at Des Moines has been mortgaged for $80,000 in favor of the reserve fund to square a deficit in the general fund.

The following from the Boone News Republican, copied from the Monroe County News, will interest local Yeomen members, in which the following accusations are alleged:

"Do you know the officers of our society are deliberately and unlawfully trying to change our fraternal association into an old line life insurance company?

"Do you know that they have driven out of the Yeomen more than 100,000 members, and that they are now trying to drive every Class A member out who will not join their old line life insurance company?

"Do you know that the members who joined the old line life insurance company, called the Yeomen, are now in an insolvent company, and in April of this year the board of directors ordered Mr. Davy to take $134,000 out of the general fund which belongs to Class A members and put it in with the insurance department as reserve for Class C members?

"Do you know the Yeomen officers have paid the International Service Company of Chicago over three million dollars for transferring from Class A to Class C, and there has never been a mention of it in the official paper, The Shield, of the amount paid it, or the terms of the contract? A three million dollar deal ought to be of sufficient importance to get a mention in The Shield.

"Do you know that the Yeomen officials kept a paid lobby before the Legislature to pass a bill requiring the Yeomen to raise its rates to the Class C basis and the legislature voted their bill down?

"Do you know the statement Yeomen officers have made everywhere that the law compelled them to raise rates is false and that the Modern Woodmen are doing business in Iowa and every other state in the union on the old fraternal plan at a low rate and no law is interfering with them?

"Do you know that as soon as the board of directors dare to do it, they will publish a thirty-day notice of the change in the rate of Class A members, rting them according to the table published in the May Shield? If you are now 55 years old your rate will be $4.66 per month for a $1,000 certificate or $9.32 for a $2,000 certificate per month.

"Do you want to save the Yeomen and 100,000 members who cannot afford to carry insurance at old line rates? Then help us in bringing an action in the courts to enjoin the officers from putting in force the impossible rates, and in an action to account for the money that belongs to Class A members. It can and will be done. There is a state-wide organization known as the Loyal Yeomen. It has appointed a committee to take charge of the litigation.

"It will require a large sum to pay for expert accountancy, and to obtain the evidence needed in the case. We need your help. It is the only way you can protect your membership and your policy in the Yeomen. Mrs. Connor, of 3701 Cottage Grove, Des Moines, Iowa, is secretary and treasurer of that committee. Please send to her at once all the funds you and your Class A members can spare.

"Class C members are also interested, for they have been deceived and defrauded in changing from your old form of policy to your Class C policy and you can be reinstated on your old form policy. Many have been reinstated when they confronted the Home Office with the fraud perpetrated.

"Yours fraternally,
"THE LOYAL YEOMEN."

(Exerpt from Monroe County News.)

MRS. ANNA JACOBSON

Mrs. Anna Jacobson was born at Ringaker, Hedemarken, Norway, November 20, 1845. Together with her parents she came to America in 1867, and located at LaCrosse, Wis. She was united in marrage to Hans Jacobson in 1870. To this union were born four children, Julia, Oscar, Alma and Hildore. Alma died in 1896.

In 1872 they moved to Wright county, Iowa, and lived on their farm northwest of Belmond until 1892, when they moved to town. Mr. Jacobson died in 1908, and since that time she and her daughter, Julia, have lived together at the Jacobson home.

Mrs. Jacobson had been failing for some time, but in a more marked degree the past two years, until this fall when she went down rapidly. She passed away Saturday morning, Oct. 13, being nearly seventy-eight years of age.

Grandma Jacobson was a very patient and unassuming woman, highly respected and much loved by all who knew her. She was a very kind and devoted wife and mother, and above all an humble and earnest christian. She suffered patiently and never complained, ever thoughtful of those around her.

Mrs. Jacobson was a faithful member of Trinity Lutheran church. Her greatest pleasure was to be present in the House of God, there to drink of the fountain of Eternal Truth. She was a diligent worker in the Ladies Aid and enjoyed to contribute to the various benevolent causes of the church. She was vitally interested in all religious activities and a diligent reader of the church papers. Especially did she enjoy reading the Word of God, which was nourishing food for her soul. Her noble life was an example to her own family as well as to the community. Her life was not in vain. Now her work is finished and she is enjoying that rest which is in store for the people of God.

As her life so was her death, peaceful. Resigned into her Heavenly Father's hands, she slept away. To be with Jesus, whom she loved, and to meet the loved ones who have preceeded her.

She is survived by her three children, Julia and Oscar of Belmond, Mrs. Hildore Shefveland, of Kenyon, Minnesota, and three grandchildren, besides four sisters and one brother, Mrs. N. E. Saugstad of Misot, North Dakota; Mrs. James Johnson of Coulee, North Dakota; Mrs. C. B. Johnson, Mrs. Newgard, and Ole Thompson of Belmond. She will be greatly missed among her circle of friends, but most of all by her own children. What is our loss is her gain. May we all meet her in the celestial mansions.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many neighbors and friends for their kindness shown us during our sorrow in the illness and death of our dear mother.

Julia Jacobson.
Mr. and Mrs. A. Shefveland.
Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Jacobson.

NEEDLE IN DOWS WOMAN'S WRIST FOR FOUR YEARS

Mrs. E. L. Clay, a Dows woman, had a half-inch of sewing needle removed from her wrist last week by a Dows physician. About four years ago, while cleaning house, a needle penetrated her wrist. She thought the steel all came out until last week, when the arm began to hurt. An X-ray showed half an inch of the needle still in the wrist, where it had laid for four years without bothering her.

PAVING FINISHED AND ACCEPTED

The Western Asphalt Paving Co. finished the Clarion paving program Monday afternoon and on Tuesday the city council met in special session and accepted the same. As stated last week everybody feels that the city has secured a good job. The mayor, the several members of the council, city attorney, clerk and Engineer Adams, all deserve due credit for the capable painstaking manner in which they have looked after the interests of the taxpayers during the entire progress of the work. This improvement lifts Clarion out of the mud and places her on an equal footing with other cities of the same class.—Monitor.

Belmond Trims Britt In Thrilling Finish

Stapley Carries Ball 75 Yards For Touchdown With Only Thirty-Five Seconds Left.

FINAL SCORE IS 7 TO 0

In a thrilling, cheering, sensational run thru the entire field, Belmond won from Britt, Friday, 7 to 0.

Raymond Stapley, half back for Belmond, tore loose in an end run in the last 35 seconds of play, and went thru the Britt field for a touch down. The extra point was prettily added when a forward pass, where Britt was expecting a drop kick, put the ball over the line.

It was a thrilling battle. Both teams were about as evenly matched as two teams could be. They battled desperately, most of the time in mid-field, see-sawing back and forth without scoring. At one point, Britt took the ball to Belmond's 5-yard line, where Belmond held them for downs in four desperately hard-fought smashes. Belmond in turn, carried the ball almost to Britt's line, where Britt held.

Three quarters were scoreless, and the crowd was expecting a scoreless game. Britt, in the last quarter, brought the ball to Belmond's 20-yard line on a pass. Belmond was penalized 15 yards for interference on the play, but after protest and looking up the rules, the penalty was revoked and the ball placed on Belmond's 20-yard line again. Here Belmond got the ball. The first play gained a couple yards.

With exactly 35 seconds left to play, Belmond started an end run, Stapley carrying the ball. With perfect interference, particularly some good work by Jenison, Stapley went 75 yards for a touchdown. The play, coming so unexpectedly, set the crowd in a frenzy, and they followed Stapley down the field, cheering wildly. The forward pass made the score 7 to 0 as the final whistle blew.

It was a magnificent game, very well played on both sides. Both teams excelled in some branches, Britt more especially on end runs, Belmond on kicking. Passing was about even. Britt was good on holding, Belmond excelled in tackling, some pretty work being done there. No one who saw the game failed to get full value for his money, and no one doubts that Coach Pals has developed a real team. Britt won from Clear Lake, and Belmond's win Friday over Britt is therefore doubly pleasing to Belmond fans. The Britt lads, under Coach Gruetzmacher, are a fine bunch of boys, and played a clean, hard game.

Belmond's next game is with Forest City this Friday at Forest City.

EIMBRINK CLAIMS CONNOR TO BLAME IN CRASH

Henry Eimbrink claims that in the auto collision between his car and that of Wm. Connor, of Hampton, on Primary No. 10 recently, Connor was to blame for the crash. In an interview with the Independent, Saturday, Mr. Eimbrink gave his side of the story.

Mr. Eimbrink says that he and his family, with his son, Carl, driving, were coming west, and were right at the corner of the road going north to his farm, about a mile east of Rowan. Connor was coming from the west enroute from Belmond to Hampton. Eimbrink says his party were just at the corner preparing to turn north, that they were going slowly to make the turn, a rather short one, and that Connor was coming at a fast clip and on the left—the wrong—side of the road.

Carl Eimbrink, seeing the danger of collision, released his engine and put on the brakes. Connor, claims Mr. Eimbrink attempted to turn over to the right side of the road where he belonged, but was either going too fast or could not make the turn quick enough, and crashed into the Eimbrink car, instead of the Eimbrink car colliding head-on with Connor, as stated in the Hampton Chronicle item last week.

Mr. Eimbrink expressed regret over the accident, but feels that Mr. Connor was entirely to blame, and that his, Eimbrink's friends should be given the facts of the affair.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

THE BIG FIGHT STARTS

With President's Coolidge's forceful address to the governors of the various states, last week, the final fight on the booze question begins. Every reader of the daily press has realized for the past year, that the prohibition amendment and its enforcement was gradually shaping to a finish fight. Liquor interests have been gradually building up so far as possible a sentiment for light wines and beer, with the idea of forcing either a recall or a modification of the 18th amendment. The point has been reached where they are ready to fight it out, and with the President's address the gage is flung.

Light wines and beer is but a camouflage. Any intelligent person knows that Americans do not, and in fact cannot, do things by halves. It is not our temperament. We are either flatly for or flatly against; one side of the fence or the other. With us it is "whole hog or none." The liquor interests' light wines and beer argument is a fog to obscure the real issue with them—the bringing back of hard liquors. They know, just as any istelligent person knows, that to bring back whiskey a breach must first be effected in the prohibition walls. And they know that America will either enforce prohibition to the letter, or repeal it. The President's message, with that of the governors, means a show down on the booze question. And unless the signs of the times are badly misleading, prohibition will come out on the top of the heap. There is no place in modern life and business for hard liquors. The day of the jagg is past.

AIR FLIVVERS

Recent dispatches in the daily press quoted, more or less jokingly, Henry Ford on building "air flivvers," small airplanes which would carry one or two persons, with a small wing spread, a speed of forty to fifty miles an hour, and selling at $1,000.

The dream is not so foolish as it may sound. Twenty-five years ago the automobile was jeered as a crazy experiment. The idea that gasoline propelled vehicles would ever replace the horse and buggy was simply the ravings of a deluded simp, to form the jest of conversation on street corners and over the bars. Yet today, for every horse and buggy you see on the highways, you see a hundred automobiles. Tomorrow, who shall deny we may see the air filled with flying machines just as today the roads are filled with automobiles. Perfected engines, safety devices for controlling and landing, will make the heavier than air machine, in time, just as practical, just as safe, and just as common as automobiles today. The time is not far distant when the air flivver will be a reality, when airplanes will be sold and repaired by the same firms who are now selling and repairing cars.

Air travel should be safer in many respects than automobile travel; there is vastly more room, the path of travel unlimited, the height as far as a ship can go. Definite lanes of travel will be laid out, just as are our main highways; time schedules will be figured for passenger "busses" and regular freight hauls made. And the joy rider who tears thru the atmosphere will never bother but once.

OUR RESIGNATION

The writer wishes to announce to the citizens of Belmond that he hereby resigns his "commission" to form a Chamber of Commerce in Belmond. After two months of effort, time and expense, we find the patient so blamed dead that Gabriel's horn won't even turn it over. We have tried earnestly and faithfully to get things started, but meeting with little or no interest, and with very little help, are forced to acknowledge ourself unable to carry thru the duties entrusted to us. We are sorry, for we believe Belmond needs, and needs badly, a commercial organization, and we were willing to do everything possible to secure one. But it is no one-man proposition, and we therefore tender our resignation, with our thanks for the confidence reposed in us by you.

Society

* * *

Bridge—

Miss Henrietta Pals was hostess to the Bridge Club last Thursday. Miss Daisy Cameron was winner with score.

* * *

Entertain—

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn entertained about thirty friends and relatives last Sunday. Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Powers and family, Henry Mauch and family, Miss Hinkens and a gentleman friend, Grandma Hinken and Mrs. Mary Mauch, all of Hampton; Mr. and Mrs Albert Hinken and family from Sheffield, Wm. Hinken and family and Wm. Schmidt and family from Grand Valley, South Dakota, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Reed and family from Alexander. Mrs. M. H. Lord, being out of town, was unable to be present. A very delightful afternoon was enjoyed.

* * *

Community Club—

Dr. Ruel Silvester, of Drake University, Des Moines, speaks on Community Health and Mental Hygiene, at the Community Welfare club meeting this week Friday. Dr. Silvester is teaching psychology at the Drake University, and is an authority on the subjects he will discuss. The men of the community are invited to come to this meeting.

* * *

Kensington—

Wednesday evening the Kensington club members entertained their husbands at their annual banquet, at the home of Mrs. A. L. Luick.

* * *

Entertains—

Mrs. M. C. Barry entertained the girls' bridge club on Monday evening.

* * *

Progress—

Tuesday afternoon the Progress club met at the beautiful home of Mrs. E. W. Luick. It being guest day, each member brought a friend, making a total of about fifty ladies present. A short program of music and singing had been arranged, and a delicious two-course luncheon was served by Mrs. E. W. Luick, Mrs. Sharon, Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell, Mrs. Gowdy, and Mrs. E. F. Bailey. A very delightful afternoon was enjoyed.

* * *

Birthday Party—

Herman Louis Schultz entertained about fifteen of his little friends, Saturday afternoon, in honor of his birthday. He was seven years old on that day.

HALLOWE'EN CELEBRATION

Hampton promises to be the scene of one of the biggest carnival nights in northern Iowa on Tuesday, October 30th, when the Commercial Club will stage another Hallowe'en parade. Secretary Lynn L. James started them last year and everyone had a wonderful time, but this year promises to far outshine the 1922 demonstration.

Five bands have been invited and some have sent word they were coming and the town folks with them, all in costume. Prizes have been donated by merchants for the best costumes and these will be on display in a few days in Baldwin's drug store window. A big block dance is planned; there will be music galore; while horn, confetti and serpentine will be the order of the evening. Main street will be roped off and special lights arranged.

The whole country, old as well as young are invited to join in a night of hilarity and good clean fun. Plan your costume now, and get your "phunny phaces" before they are all gone. Bring the family and turn them all loose. It sure is going to be "some night."—Recorder.

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

We are glad to note the gradual increase in Sunday school attendance. Let's keep it up for we have not near reached our limit.

Both church services were well attended Sunday and every one seems interested in the services.

Two splendid anthems were rendered by the choirs and appreciated by the large audiences which heard them. Good music is half the life of a church.

Everybody boost and everybody present at both services and watch our church grow.

Sunday school at 10 a. m.
Morning worship at 11.
Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Evening worship at 7:30 p. m.
Prayer meeting Wednesdays at seven-thirty p. m.

On account of a little indisposition I was not permitted to preach the sermons announced last Sunday, which I hope to do this Sunday. The morning subject: "The Building of a Life"; evening: "Twentieth Century Religion."

Special music at both services.

Don't forget you are invited to join the crowd at church next Sunday. A welcoming hand awaits you at both services.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the home of Austin Nelson.

Sunday morning Sunday School at 10:00 o'clock.

Service in the Norwegian language at 11:00 with communion.

English service at :30. Come and take some one with you.

Here and There

Ruth Hill of Belmond was a week end guest of her friend, Leila Taber. —Monitor.

Miss Mildred Schultz of Belmond spent the week end with Mrs. H. Goslin. —News.

W. S. Pritchard was at Belmond Monday and shipped two cars of fat cattle to the Chicago market. —Signal.

Mrs. W. R. Ramsay and daughter Ruth of Belmond were over-night visitors at the J. H. Ramsay home Friday. —Monitor.

Mrs. Fred Stockwell enjoyed a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nihoof, of Belmond, who were here last week. —Times.

Mrs. J. W. Brooks and daughter Laura, moved to Belmond Monday They have resided here for several years now and have a host of friends who will miss them. —Times.

The local sugar beet crop is being harvested and hauled to the Klemme beet dump. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hake are in charge of the weighing, grading and dumping here for the Belmond Sugar Co. —Times.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP ITEMS

Rev. Brandon of Dumont will occupy the pulpit in the Immanuel church Sunday morning and evening.

Schools in this township will close the fall term of school tomorrow, some to have several week's vacation others to continue work for the following term.

Mrs. Ed. Jenison went to Forest City the first of the week to get acquainted with her new granddaughter at the Joseph Graham home.

The following people from this township were either visitors or welcomed guests at their home Sunday: Fred Loats at the D. D. Pals home; Hio Goeman at the H. H. Mennenga home; J. McClernons at the Rob. Walters home; Fred Halfpops at the Roy Halfpop home; Jake Smidts at the W. G. Gartz home; Wm. Boelmans at the Fred Frohling home; and John Smidts at the John Halfpop home.

Community harmony is wonderful. Its absence is lamentable. With harmony there is much that a community can accomplish. Without it there is little that can be done. One group of citizens can hardly secure needed improvements if other groups are knifing the project in the back. —Hampton Recorder.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The Ladies Missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. J. E. Wallace on Thursday afternoon. A full attendance of all members and the friends is desired.

The steriopticon lecture Sunday night was very much appreciated by the large congregation. It was certainly full of inspiration and gave us a bird's eye view of the great work the Church is carrying on. We hope to have more of these lectures during the coming fall.

Sabbath school at 10 a. m. The morning worship at 11. Evening services at 7:30. We will continue our studies in the book of Romans at the evening services. Bring your Bibles and come for we are sure that you will be benefited by this study.

The Ladies Aid society are working hard getting ready for their bazaar and supper, which will be given early in November.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Next Sunday morning Sunday school at 10:30. You should be there.

Prayer meetings are conducted Sunday evenings now for a short time instead of Wednesday evening, on account of the busy season.

St. Olaf church was taxed to its utmost at the Confirmation service last Sunday. A class of ten was confirmed.

A Want Ad brings the results. Ask those who have tried one. Sell that stove, rent, trade or buy what you want thru an Independent Want Ad.

Fifty-Fifty.

Diner: "This is not chicken."

Waiter: "No; oh, no, sir. We call that half and half. It is beef and chicken. Yes, sir; one cow—and one chicken."

Stenography Banking
Salesmanship ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES
Telegraphy
Educate for Success. Position for each graduate. Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Write for free catalog.
Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

Patton's A Great Boy's Store

When you fit out your boys why not come to a store that features boy's wear? Where quality and correct styles are featured and where there is a wide and pleasing variety from which to choose?

Two-pant suits at $8.50, $10, $12 to $20.

Overcoats---sizes 2 1-2 to 9---$8.50 to $15.

Overcoats---sizes 10 to 18---$12 to $25.

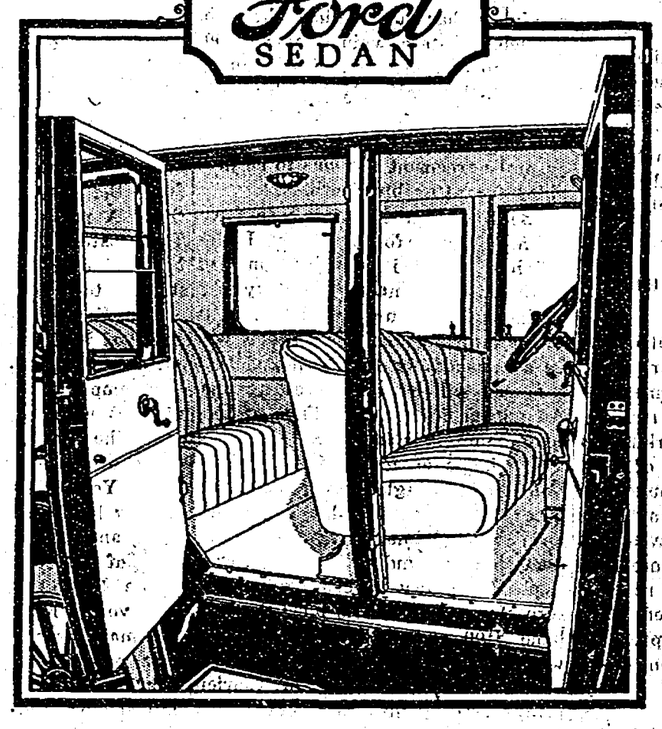
Warm, serviceable Mackinaws, Sweaters, Flannel Blouses and Shirts.

The best in Underwear, Night Robes and Pajamas.

Come and judge---you'll find values. We will be glad to show you.

PATTON BROTHERS COMPANY
Where A Dollar Does Its Duty
MASON CITY AND MANLY, IOWA

THE NEW Ford SEDAN



THE motoring public has been emphatic in its approval of the new Ford Four-Door Sedan. In all parts of the country its stylish appearance and inviting interior have brought the car instantly into great demand.

Now, at its reduced price, it presents a more compelling value than ever. Although better looking, roomier, easier riding, it is listed at forty dollars less.

$685.00 f. o. b. Detroit

This good-looking, comfortable, and dependable Ford selling at this low price offers an agreeable solution to your closed car problems.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa

Ford
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

ARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Ames Conference Helpful

The four day annual Extension Conference which was held at Ames last week proved to be very interesting and helpful for all those who had opportunity to attend. All county agents and extension workers as well as the officers and directors of the various county Farm Bureaus came home filled with enthusiasm and with a broader vision of the great work which is being accomplished by the county agents' system.

Wright county is credited with having the largest representation at this conference which speaks well for the support which is being given our local county agent in his efforts to carry on this important work. It was no small sacrifice on the part of our representatives to spend three days at the conference when they were needed on their farms at home. Wright county was represented at the conference by Secretary M. L. Clark, County Agent Edwards, Mrs. M. L. Clark, Mrs. Bert Lewellyn, Mrs. Emery Mechem, Mrs. Will Tillman and Mr. and Mrs. Harding Thomas.

Corn Husking Progressing

The husking of Wright county's corn crop is on in full swing this week and while the early frost caused considerable soft corn most of our farmers are beginning to crib their corn, precaution being taken to keep the corn spread out in order that it will not mold.

Many farmers seem to feel that the yield of corn will be reduced by 20 to 25 per cent on account of the late summer drouth and the early frost but with the increased price of corn and the probable shortage which this reduced yield will bring about, everyone seems hopeful that our farmers will receive normal rates for their corn crop.

Club Members Select Calves

Our boys and girls are beginning to buy their calves for the Baby Beef feeding contest for next year. It is interesting to note that the youngsters who have had experience is feeding calves are the most particular about the choice of individuals for this year.

Boys who have had experience during the past year realize that the member who has the handicap of a poor individual at the outset has a very poor chance of winning in the end. Our best feeders will agree that there is a great deal in learning what to look for in buying feeder cattle and our club boys expect to learn this game before becoming old enough to buy cattle for themselves.

Many of our boys have already selected their calves and are now getting them on feed ready to begin the feeding record on December 1st, the time which has been set for the beginning of keeping accurate records on the feeding contest. The county agent is being swamped with applications from boys and girls from all over the county who have indicated their desire to get into this Baby Beef feeding contest. All applications should be into the county agent's office not later than November 15th.

Ladies Will Organize Monday

On next Monday, October 29th, all ladies of Wright county who are interested in the Women's Department of the county Farm Bureau will meet with Miss Avis Talcott, assistant Home Demonstration Agent from Ames, at the county agent's office where steps will be taken to re-organize the ladies department of the Farm Bureau work.

Special invitations have been sent to the lady vice directors of the various township organizations of the county urging them especially to attend this meeting and bring all ladies who are interested in the work. Miss Talcott will explain in detail to the ladies of our county what can be had through the Extension Department and how the work can be carried on in the absence of a Home Demonstration Agent. Steps will be taken also at this time to elect a county chairman of ladies' work in the Farm Bureau. All ladies who are interested in the Women's work of the Farm Bureau are urged to be present at this meeting.

State Wide Debate

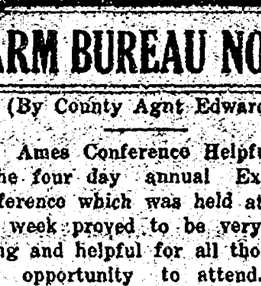
Farm orators and debate aspirants all over the state are sharpening their pencils and scratching their heads digging out the ups and downs of the tax question.

Never in the history of this state has this question received such a going over as it will this year. The people are a little skeptical of the plan recommended by the Tax Revision committee to the last legislation. The debates this winter will give everyone a chance to become familiar with the good and bad points of this system, as compared with the old system, and it will give the state senators and representatives a chance to find out where their people stand. Then they can act accordingly at the next session of the legislature.

The upsetting of a system that has been working for sixty years or better and substituting in its place an entirely new machine should not be done hastily or without careful consideration. These farm debates which will be held in every county in the state will bring the subject under careful study for everyone. No one will say that our legislative body has acted hastily.

Many men in this county have already signified their intentions of entering this fight and they will begin to receive reference material on the subject within a few days. Others are thinking about it but haven't handed in their names as yet. We should have at least four teams on the field. Let's get busy and put that many there.

If not taking part in the debate yourself be sure and attend one or more of the contests which will start in December.



NO other tire has the slipless grip of the famou Goodyear All-Weather Tread. Its high, thick, sharp-edged blocks grip hard, hold fast, and hang on. The result is a steady, sure, safe pace in any traffic or in any going, with a car and tire performance perfectly matched for economical efficiency.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

HOG SURPLUS, FIGURES SHOW, HAS APPARENTLY BEEN SHIPPED

Either a comparatively steady hog market during the usual months of lower prices or an extreme selling down of the supply of hogs on farms is indicated by the present hog market situation.

An almost unprecedented consumption of pork in this country during the present year and increased pork exports have resulted in greater marketing of hogs and also in the removal of nearly 200,000,000 pounds of pork from storage since last May.

The hogs which have been marketed this year have averaged lower in weight than ordinarily, reflecting the higher price of corn these last few months than during the corresponding period last year. This is especially true during the past month or so.

Statistics show that 7,772,000 more hogs had been marketed by September 1, 1923, than in the same period in 1922, whereas statistics indicate there was an increase in supply of only some 6,000,000. Receipts at the principal markets since January 1 have been (up to September 1) 35,670,000 head as compared to 27,898,000 head for the same period last year. Exports of pork products during the first eight months of this year were 321,943,000 pounds greater than for the same period last year. This is roughly the equivalent of 1,600,000 hogs of average weight. Pork in storage at the present time is slightly above the five year average, while lard in storage is somewhat below the five year average.

Judging from the figures available, there were approximately 2,180,000 fewer hogs in the United States on September 1, 1923, than at the same date in 1922. Meanwhile record breaking receipts of comparatively light hogs continue practically unabated.

The conclusion may be drawn that the hog surplus, which was estimated to be still on the farms at the beginning of the present year, has apparently been shipped.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Freight, daily	11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily	2:10 p. m.

Going South

Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily	11:50 a. m.

M. & ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:10 p. m.
Local Freight	8:20 p. m.

Save One-Third of the Coal!

That is exactly what the new style Cole's Wood-Coal heaters will do, because they have---

---oval cast fire pots with duplex grates.

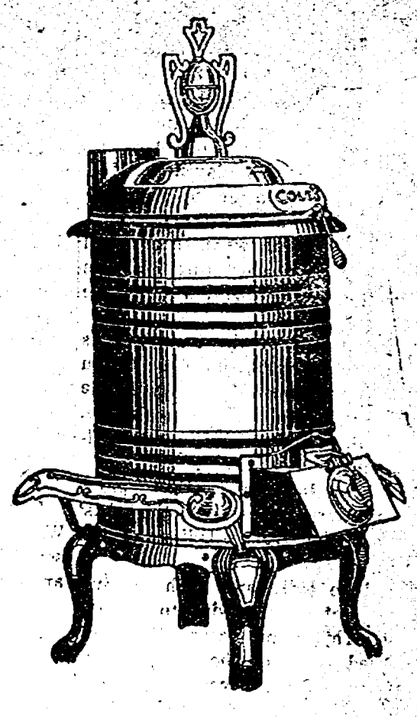
---all doors milled to an air tight point and accurately fitted by hand.

---heavy guage polished bodies.

---double seamed air-tight bottoms.

---heavy steel linings from top of fire pot to top of stove.

---and to be more convenient, a large removable ash pan.



All Sizes At

GRIESY'S

Phone 10

Belmond, - Iowa

Our Big Family Offer!

By special arrangements with the various publishers, the Belmond Independent is able to offer its readers this exceptional opportunity to save money on their reading matter for the coming year. Each publication is a leader in its class and the entire combination fits the needs of the average family at a price you can afford to pay. Remember, even though your subscription to this newspaper hasn't expired, it's economy to RENEW NOW as all renewal subscriptions will be extended from date of present expiration. Don't pass up this opportunity---send your order TODAY.

Farm & Fireside--

the great national farm journal, is known the nation over for its practical, sensible ideas and articles on farm problems. It is crammed with money-making and money-saving ideas for the man who tills the soil. Every issue contains numerous articles by the foremost agriculturalists of the country, dealing with farm problems, crops, stock, poultry, dairying, household hints, gardening, and scores of other branches of farm life. Any one issue is worth more than the subscription price. It is as interesting to the town dweller as the farmer with its all-round, practical departments, articles, and good fiction.

PEOPLE'S POPULAR MONTHLY

has long been known and recognized as the magazine of home and community service. Serial and short stories with beautiful colored illustrations are a decided feature of this magazine. Receipes form an important feature. Each month, house plans, community entertainments, needle-work, patterns, gardening, all profusely illustrated, make it possible to render a service to those living in the rural districts and small towns, through the columns of this great publication. You can have this service free as a subscriber to this great magazine of the Middle West.

TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE

is a journal for the lady of the home. It is among the best known women's magazines published in America, filled with hints for the housewife. Sewing, fancy work, cooking, canning, styles, the best class of fiction, authoritative articles dealing with problems of the home, this magazine will be one of your favorites after you receive it. A magazine of real human interest and a good periodical to have around the home for the young folks.

This Big Family Offer Is Limited To December 1, 1923. After that date we will be forced to withdraw it. Send the coupon NOW!

Remember---All for Only $2.45

THESE Three High Class Magazines Without the Belmond Independent may be had for $1.85. With the Belmond Independent, either new or renewal subscription, you get them for Only 45 Cents.

Belmond Independent's Big Family Offer!

Farm & Fireside
Today's Housewife
People's Popular Monthly
BELMOND INDEPENDENT
(Either new or renewal)

All Four for Only $2.45 Regular Price $3.85

You Get All FOUR Publications one year by returning this Coupon and $2.45. Order NOW and make this Big Saving!

Belmond Independent,
Belmond, Iowa.

Gentlemen: I am returning this coupon with $2.45 for which I am to receive the Big Family Offer as listed above.

My Name Is _____ Town _____

Street or R. F. D. _____ State _____

Husking Mitts

THAT WILL HOLD YOU

The best known husking mitt in the state of Iowa, made in Iowa from our own specifications, of genuine twelve-ounce canton flannel, well sewed, with blue knit tops. It has been voted by hundreds of Iowa farmers as the best husking mitt to be had. Try this mitten out this fall, you'll decide it is the best ever. If mail ordering call for lot 132-K.

Per dozen $1.75

Other Gloves and Mitts Carried

Lot 2K, 12 oz. dbl. sewed, per dozen $2.00

Lot 5K, 12 oz. dbl. sewed, two thumb, per doz... 2.50

Lot 163K, 10 oz., two thumb per dozen 1.75

Lot 401, nap out glove, per dozen 1.75

Lot 4432, nap out, two thumb glove, 10 oz., per dozen 2.25

WE'LL PREPAY MAIL ORDERS.

Get To Know

GILDNER BROS.

MASON CITY, IOWA

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

The corn husking vacation begins next week and runs for two weeks from Oct. 26 to Nov. 12.

The girls' basket ball team won their second straight game from Thornton by the score of 14 to 12. The first game was played at Meservey and Thornton lost by the score of 12 to 10. In the game Friday, the Thornton girls were ahead until the last quarter when three baskets were made by Meservey, winning the game.

The members of the team are as follows: Forwards, Rozelle Sprau and Grace Groen; Centers, Mollie Zieman and Ruby Quandt; Guards, Lena Pals, Mable Prilipp and Thelma Thomas.

We hope to have another game Friday afternoon between the girls' team and the young ladies of the town.

The base ball game with Ventura did not materialize owing to the bad roads. This game was the last scheduled game of the season. Five games have been played this fall, of which we have won four. If possible we will have a game between the business men and the high school.

STUDENTS' RECITAL

On last Monday evening at the Rev. Schlesselman home, Miss Bertha Thorman's music class of this place gave a piano recital. The parents and a few friends of the students were invited and there were quite a number present who enjoyed the numbers rendered. The parents especially were pleased with the progress their children have been making. Following is the program given:

The Big Clock, Bernice Blewitt.
Sing Tra La, Gwethlyn Wenzel.
Sea Gulls. Bernice Blewitt.
Country Band, Gwethlyn Wenzel.
On A Visit, Naomi Schlesselman.
Country Dance, Dorothy Schlesselman.
Kewpies Lullaby, Naomi Schlesselman.
In A Toy Shop, Grace Groen.
Morning Song, Anna Ostendorf.
The Merry Trumpeter, Dorothy and Orvis.
Campfire March, Anna Ostendorf.
Dancing For Joy, Naomi Schlesselman.
Spinning Song, Orvis Schlesselman.
After Sunset, Bonita Muller.
Sacred Melody, Lydia Pannkuk.
Tarentella, Grace Groen.
I'll Meet My Mother There, (cornet and piano) Orvis and Dorothy.
Beneath Love's Window, Lydia Pannkuk.
The Robin's Return, Orvis Schlesselman.
Fire Fly, Bonita Muller.
Con A More, Dorothy Schlesselman.
First Waltzes, Grace Groen.

(Editor's Note: No. 20 on the program was too dim to read, and we are therefore unable to print it.)

EVANGELICAL CHURCH

Sabbath school at 9:30 a. m.
Morning worship at 10:30 a. m.
Prayer meeting (German) Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.
Preaching services (English) Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
W. M. S. meeting, with Mrs. W. F. Butz Thursday (today) at 2:00 p. m.

There were 13 accessions to the church last Sunday morning when an opportunity was given to receive members.

The Sunday evening services will begin with C. E. meeting at 7:30, preaching services following.

A. W. Schlesselman, Pastor.

MESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

Word was received here Tuesday a. m. by Robert Smith and Mrs. Geo. Lewis that their father, who resides in Minnesota, is in a very critical condition, summoning them to his bedside at once.

Mrs. Albert Wendel motored to Waseca, Minn., last Tuesday to spend several weeks there with her parents and other relatives.

Mrs. E. A. Strasburg, who fell and injured her left foot some time ago, is again able to be about her household duties.

Mrs. K. C. Ruigh is numbered among the sick again this week, altho somewhat improved at this writing.

Mrs. Ed Wirtz, of Des Moines spent a day here with relatives last week, returning Friday, accompanied by her mother, Grandma Wickersheim, who will spend the winter at her home.

Ed Rooks and family were Mason City shoppers on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Typer, of Hampton, visited at the H. C. Barger home several days last week.

Ralph Stanberry, of Mason City, was in town last Thursday attending to legal business matters.

Mrs. Schlesselman was a Thornton caller several days last week having dental work done.

Mrs. E. Thomas and daughters were Mason City business callers on Saturday last.

Mrs. Meinderts visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Bachman and family near Garner, last week, returning Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gruis motored to Buffalo Center on Monday of last week to spend the day visiting with relatives.

Fred Menzel and Rev. H. Raecker motored to Waverly last Saturday p. m. and visited until Sunday afternoon with relatives and friends.

Our teachers, whose homes are out of town, spent the week end with home folks and with other relatives.

A. J. Nissen and family were Sunday visitors at the L. B. Hulsebus home at Clear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Cooper enjoyed a visit from the latter's mother, of Kanawha, over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Herbster and Kenneth visited at the Hawthorne home at Renwick last Sunday. They were accompanied by Miss Sylvia Blum who visited home folks. Mrs. Hawthorne returned with them for a week's visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fulton and daughter of Belmond were Sunday visitors at the Brater home.

Walter Witt and Merl Brogan both finished their fall term of teaching Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nissen motored to Mason City last Tuesday where Mrs. Nissen had her teeth extracted at the Park hospital.

Undertaking
& Funeral Director
F. D. FULTON
Licensed Embalmer
Calls Answered Day or Night
HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Phone--Residence 17: Office 16
Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop
H. F. REIF, Prop.
Laundry Dry Cleaning

Ask for Our
Hams and Bacon
Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.
FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.
BEST CREAMERY BUTTER Always On Hand.
We buy Hides and Cream.
City Meat Market
Waage & Ruiter, Props.
Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

TIRES
If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.
Meservey Garage
Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

FOR SALE--A few choice BIG TYPE CHESTER WHITE BOARS
Sired by some of the prize winning boars of the breed. These boars are from extra good sows and from big litters. They are eligible to registry and will be sold as guaranteed breeders if notified by January 1st. Priced reasonable. Phone 414, Meservey. 1 1-2 miles north and 1 mile west of Meservey, Iowa.
E. S. BARKER, Meservey, Iowa

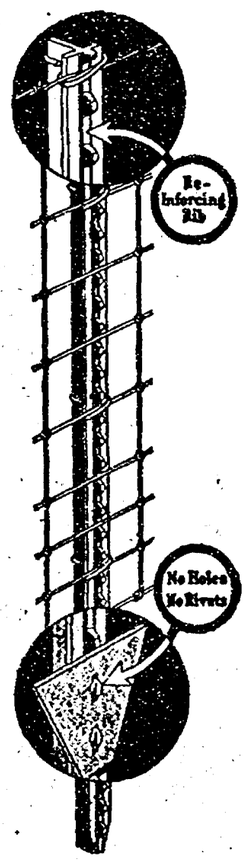
HENRY H. PALS
Iowa Automatic Hog Door

Self-closing, easily opened by smallest pig, keeps hog house warm and comfortable; free from drafts; keeps the chickens out; saves on feed bill. Worth $100 to any hog raiser. Strong and substantial. Will last indefinately.
REGULAR PRICE $13.50
Special price for 30 Days
$10.00
To introduce this wonderful door to all farmers
May be seen at Klemme Lumber Co. Belmond
Write for descriptive literature to
Henry H. Pals
Meservey, Iowa

New hardwood finish for your old pine floors
Winter weather brings mud and slush that are hard on floors. Now is the best time to beautify and protect them with Acme Quality Varno-Lac. It stains and varnishes in one easy operation. Makes any pine floor look like fine oak, cherry, mahogany, etc.

ACME QUALITY
VARNO-LAC
is also recommended for refinishing furniture and woodwork. Produces beautiful reproductions of expensive woods at surprisingly low cost. Come in and see color cards of this finish.
C. J. Wendel
Meservey, Iowa
"Save the surface and you save all"

"A Perfect Alibi"
When paying bills in cash, errors are always liable to creep in---maybe you don't wait for a receipt or maybe the receipt becomes lost, stolen or destroyed.
But, when you pay your bills by check, each cancelled check serves as a "perfect alibi"---it is positive proof of payment.
This bank cordially invites you to---
Open A Checking Account
THE LARGEST BANK IN MESERVEY
A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY
FARMERS SAVINGS BANK
MESERVEY, IOWA



QUALITY LUMBER-MILLWORK
SASH AND DOORS, ROOFING
WINDOWS
CEMENT, LIME, DRAIN TILE
BUILDING BLOCKS
FLOOR BLOCKS for Hog Houses, etc
STEEL AND CEDAR POSTS
TENN., ILL., KENTUCKY SPLINT COAL
TRY OUR BRIQETS
WOVEN WIRE, STEEL BRACES
BUILD YOUR HOG HOUSE NOW
ALL KINDS OF ROOFING the best we can buy
STORM WINDOWS AND DOORS
COMBINATION SCREEN AND STORM DOORS
H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.
HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.
Office Phone 20 Res. Peone 17

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

"Guarantee"
Sometimes means something—Many times nothing. Here is a guarantee that means everything.
When applied to "Mother's Flour" our guarantee means that you may purchase a sack, make as many bakings as you wish in order to give it a fair trial, and, if not satisfied, your money will be returned without question or argument. We are having splendid success with this Flour. Take a sack home on this guarantee.
Hulsebus-Muller Company
A. E. Muller, Proprietor
Meservey, Iowa

ESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

The Misses Tillie and Ollie Pals were Mason City callers last Friday.

The Kings Daughters and Friends Sunday School classes of the Evangelical church were entertained at the F. C. Sprau home on Tuesday evening of last week. Those present report a pleasant evening.

Joe White, of Belmond was a caller in town a short time on Monday afternoon of last week.

Wm. Kotenbrink and family and Mrs. Louise Fischer of Ackley were guests at the H. Fischer home last Sunday.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

ROWAN NEWS

Rowan Methodist Church Notes.

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m. Sunday school at 10. More present last Sunday than for a long time. Let us make next Sunday still larger.

Divine worship at 11. Theme: Neighbors. Epworth League at 6:30. Everyone enjoyed the playlet last meeting. Evening service 7:30. Theme: The Voice Behind.

Prayer meeting and Bible study of the second chapter of John, Wednesday evening at 7:30.

A cordial invitation is extended to attend our services.

Mrs. S. B. Stout and Mrs. D. K. Stout and baby were Hampton callers Thursday.

Mrs. Ellen McCallum of Belmond called on friends here Thursday.

Mr and Mrs. Edgar Mantle, Mrs. Earl Jacobs and Mrs. Blanche Jennings left last Thursday for Lanark, Ill., to attend the funeral of a cousin. While there, they expect to visit relatives at Polo.

G. W. Whitten was a Dows caller Friday.

Mrs. Etta Carr returned to her home last Tuesday from Marengo, Ill. She has been spending the past two months with her brother and family.

Messrs. Ben Hadley, D. W. Whitten, S. B. Heath and Geo. Pritchett went to Clear Lake, Minn., Thursday on a fishing trip. They returned on Friday.

Mrs. Chas. Burger had a pleasant surprise on her birthday last Wednesday, when the Wm. Duffy and H. J. Whitten families walked in, bringing luncheon with them.

The ladies division of the Iowa township Farm Bureau met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Tice Streveler. The special feature of the afternoon was the demonstration on flower making by Mrs. Fred Brooks. There was also a general discussion on canning. Solos were given by LaVonne Ballou and Mrs. Lyle Hall.

Friends here have received word that Gladys Toyne has resigned her position as teacher in the Eau Claire Wis. schools and has gone to Pasadena, Cal,. to be with her sister, Mrs W. R. McCallum.

Mrs. John Fairan was quite ill last week She is much better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Myers departed Friday for an extended visit with relatives and friends at Ames, Indianola, Lacona, and Des Moines. Mrs. Myers expects to attend the state meeting of the Foreign Missionary at Des Moines while there.

Mrs. Georgia Rowen returned on Thursday from Belmond. Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard brought her by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldinger who have recently moved into their new home were pleasantly surprised last Tuesday evening when about 20 of their friends walked in on them. They took refreshments with them, and a very pleasant evening was spent. The company presented Mr. and Mrs. Aldinger with a beautiful rug.

Many of our sportsmen have been greatly enjoying listening in on the radio at Guy Sheldon's, getting the reports from the national ball games which were broadcast recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Klemensen and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Harm Brinkman and four children from Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Whitten and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Milt Ramsay and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lineaweaver and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten and Gladys and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten and children were the guests at a family reunion supper Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Daniel Whitten, Sr. The evening was very enjoyably spent.

Elias Fuller from London, Canada arrived Saturday for a visit with his sister, Mrs. W. W. Bailey, whom he had not seen for 36 years. He was a resident of this vicinity in his younger days, moving away from here in 1887.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hadley, Loran and Celeste from Belmond, came Saturday and spent the day at the Ben Hadley home.

Herb. Aldrich arrived last week from Cedar Rapids where he has been making his home with his son Herb., Jr. He expects to stay here some time with his brother Friend, and other relatives.

I. J. Knuths received the sad news of the death of his mother, last Wednesday, at her home in Salem, Ore. She has been living for several years with her daughter, Miss Dora. She was 82 years of age. Her first husband, Frederick Knuths, died in 1882 and she was married later to Mark Scott. After his death, she and her daughter lived at Cylinder, Ia., and 11 years ago they moved to Oregon.

T. S. Streveler and family autoed to Ft. Dodge, Saturday. Mrs. Streveler underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils, also a nasal operation. They returned Sunday.

Mesdames R. H. Keith, V. E. Munson and S. F. Stout were Hampton visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Whitten drove to Mingo, Sunday, to visit their son, Ralph.

Miss Elsie Keith, who has been visiting here and at Goldfield for some time, departed Thursday for her home at Montreal, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldinger spent the week end with relatives at Ackley.

Charles Keith and Laura Aldinger were Goldfield callers Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Will Grant returned with them to spend a week at the R. H. Keith home.

Mrs. Clifford Snow of Goldfield spent the week end at the G. W. Whitten home. Mr. Snow took a load of household goods to Reinbeck where they expect to make their future home.

W. Z. Stout has purchased a new corn husker.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Peddle and family visited Sunday at the Bethel home near Clarion.

Dr. Chassel left Friday for Des Moines, where he will visit until Tuesday with his mother. Mrs. Chassel and children plan to meet him on Wednesday at Omaha, from where they expect to return to their home at Belle Fourche, S. D.

Several of the ladies met with Mrs. R. H. Keith last Wednesday at a dress form party. Refreshments were served, this also being a farewell in honor of Miss Elsie Keith

The Harvest Day services at the Congregational church last Sunday were well attended. The church was very prettily decorated and the sermon and songs were in keeping with the occasion. The choir had the honor of using their new anthem books.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Conn and son and daughter, from Aredale, were Sunday guests at the D. W. Whitten home. Mrs. Kate Conn came with them, expecting to remain for some time in Rowan.

Mrs. J. H. Coburn suffered a bad attack of tonsilitis last week, and is still quite ill with other complications.

The school orchestra held their weekly practice at the A. E. Emerson home Monday evening.

Master Ralph Patton, who was operated on for appendicitis two weeks ago, was brought home the first of this week. He is convalescing rapidly.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. very pleasantly entertained their husbands at the F. H. Brooks home last Thursday evening. There were 50 in attendance. Mrs. Oscar Isenberger and Mrs. Fred Aldinger had charge of the entertainment. Mesdames W. G. Bingham, Elmer Burt and G. W. Whitten had charge of the refreshments.

Friends here were quite surprised to hear of the marriage of Miss Helen Brinkman, formerly a Rowan girl but now of Long Beach, Cal. Her husband is a Mr. Steele, and is on the police force of Long Beach. They are now at home in apartments on Magnolia avenue.

Quite a delegation of ladies from the local Foreign Missionary society expect to attend the state meeting at Des Moines, commencing Thursday, Oct. 25.

Several of the members of the W. H. M. S. of the M. E. church met last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. D. A. French, and tied a comfort to be put in the box for the Shesler home in Sioux City. Several rugs have been donated. Anyone wishing to contribute please bring your donation to the home of Mrs. Henry Rietz.

Miss Ethel Nabholtz entertained a friend from Vinton, Sunday.

Friend Aldrich and family were at Hampton, Saturday evening.

At the home of Miss LaVonne Ballou on Wednesday evening, 22 young ladies met to enjoy a social study on "The Woman and the Leaven In Japan." Mrs. C. T. Halbert was the leader of the study. Missionary songs were enjoyed, also a solo by Lavonne Ballou and piano and violin selection by Ruth and Esther Emerson. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fred Kercheval, Frances Virden and LaVonne Ballou.

GOODELL NEWS

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth spent a few days last week with her parents east of town.

Adelia Hill went to Clarion Friday eve to spend the week-end at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Laimer, Mrs. Dennis and Mrs. John Ahrenkiel were entertained to a six o'clock dinner Friday at the Lew Avery home.

Mr. and Mrs. Donahue came Friday evening for a short visit at the home of Mrs. Donahue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Finn.

Tuesday evening, the teachers, Avla Matson and Ina Ahrenkiel composed a surprise party is honor of Miss Hill's birthday at the home of Mrs. Christenson.

Miss Avis Wilson returned from work at Burt to spend her vacation at home. Her chum, Catherine Manus accompanied her for a week's visit.

Miss Alva Matson entertained the teachers at her home Thursday evening. A most enjoyable evening was spent. Delicious refreshments were served.

The choir of the U. B. church held their practice at the Carpenter home Friday evening. A tasty supper marked the close of the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. Earl Clark, of Garner, came Friday to stay a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNutt.

Fred Wilkins' family spent Saturday in Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ahrenkiel were entertained at Anton Ahrenkiel's, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Heginger were Hampton callers, Wednesday.

Mrs. Doctor Snearly was a business visitor in Garner several days last week.

A. C. Carpenter family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlichting and Will Thiel were entertained to dinner Sunday at the Will Johnson home near Klemme.

Matt Smith Sundayed at the John Griggs home.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Alva Matson and Miss Orr autoed to Iowa Falls Saturday to take in the football game between Iowa Falls and Des Moines.

Miss Lang returned to her nome at Cedar Falls Saturday after supplying two weeks as teacher in the primary room.

Misses Adelia Hill, Dorothy Allaben, Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Peters motored to Thompson Sunday to spend the day with Supt. Nelson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hughes Sundayed at the White home.

Rev. Thompson was entertained to dinner Sunday at Letchs.

The Igo Club met at Lewis Wesenbergs Saturday. Miss Mildred Fuller has been appointed leader of this organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Irv. Beier and son, Avery were guests to dinner at Earl Jenison's.

The Jay Buchanan family attended a family reunion Sunday at the Will Buchanan home at Belmond.

Mr. Titzel is having his farm improved by erecting a barn and corncrib, the work being done by Ben Hogenson and force.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandberg and Edith spent Sunday with Pete Benson's, of Kanawha.

Mary Nolan visited with Mr. and Mrs. Tony Boller on Sunday.

Mrs. Chris Deiger was taken to the Hampton hospital Saturday night to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Stockwell and Mrs. McEfree, of Sheldon, are visiting at the Savogue and, Africa homes, also relatives at Kanawha.

The Matson family, Mesdames Beier and Graeber were shoppers in Mason City, Monday.

Miss Shoenwitter spent the week-end with her relatives in the country.

Wesenberg's spent Sunday with the Gus Okreug family.

Church Notes

A chicken supper will be served by the First Division of the Ladies Aid in the U. B. church basement, Thursday, October 25, at 6:00 p. m.

The Women's Missionary Society will hold their annual program Sunday, November 4, at 11:00 o'clock a. m. The offering contributed will be sent to help our missionaries in New Mexico and Japan.

The Third Division of the Ladies Aid will give a Hallowe'en party on Tuesday, October 30. Young and old are cordially invited.

The annual bazaar will be held in the church basement, Saturday, November 17th.

ALEXANDER NEWS

St. John's Evang. Luth. Church

Sunday school at 2 o'clock.

Preaching sermon on the Reformation at 3 o'clock.

All services in the English language. The public is cordially invited.

C. J. Barth Pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Raisch of Dumont were over Sunday guests at the Peter Bohlen home.

Mrs. Clay Klinefelter and son and Mrs. John Herman were callers in Dows, last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elas Klinefelter are the happy parents of a fine baby girl born last Saturday, Oct. 20.

G. M. Brann of Des Moines is a business caller in this vicinity this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Beenen visited with relatives at Hampton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Misses Jessie and Nellie Bell and Mrs. Joe Herman were Sunday guests at the John Surballe home in Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodemeyer and children autoed to Iowa Falls, Sunday, and spent the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen and daughter, Francis, and Mrs. Fred Murphy were Mason City callers one day last week.

Arthur Winwood was a business caller in Hampton last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bohlman are the proud parents of a fine baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer of Belmond visited with friends in Alexander last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Penning of Ackley spent the first of the week with relatives here.

Earl Hall was a business caller at Hampton one day last week.

School closed last Friday for a two weeks' corn husking vacation, and all the teachers have left for their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Bonte from Belmond were visiting relatives at this place last Sunday.

James Green of Hampton was a visitor at this place on Monday.

Hilko Pals was a business caller at Meservey last Monday.

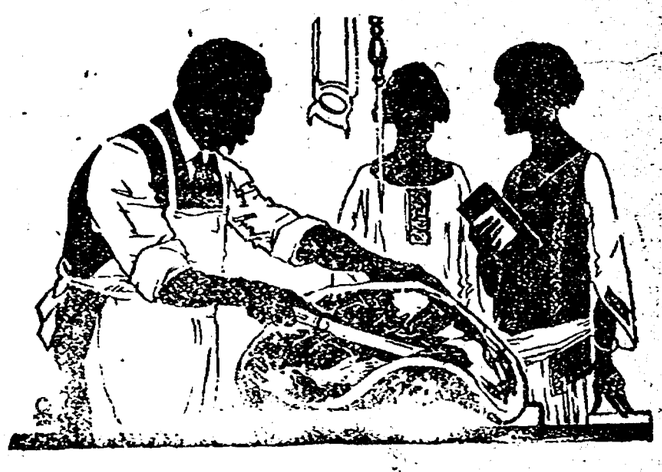
Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen were callers at Hampton, Monday evening.

EVERY IOWAN CAN RIDE

A total of 520,351 licenses for passenger motor cars had been issued up to October 1st, according to figure compiled by W. M. Calladay, superintendent of the state motor vehicle department. This is 52,000 more than for all of 1922. Truck licenses so far this year total 35,138. Revenue from fees up to September 1st amounted to $8,513,794.74.

The best way to sell that stove is to use an Independent Want Ad.

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY



You Get
4 PER CENT DISCOUNT
On All Cash Sales Here
We get a Cash Discount!
---Why Not You?
CASH MARKET
The Place of Everything To Eat
J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa
Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

The Iowa Store
Located At
27 SO. FED. AVE. MASON CITY, IOWA
(Two Doors North of the City-Com'l. Savings Bank.)
NOW GOING ON Gigantic October Sale!
WE WANT YOU TO GET BETTER ACQUAINTED WITH THE BIG IOWA STORE WHERE YOUR DOLLARS HAVE GREATER PURCHASING POWER. DURING THIS BIG SALE WE ARE OFFERING YOU HIGH GRADE
MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING, FURNISHINGS AND SHOES FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY
THE IOWA STORE does not offer you any soiled samples, auction, bankrupt or brokerage stock of any kind—nothing but high grade new merchandise, at the lowest possible price consistent with quality. Should you at any time make a purchase here, that is not entirely satisfactory, we cheerfully refund your money.
HIGH GRADE STANDARD BRANDS.
Suits and Overcoats Ranging
$15, $17.50, $20, $22.50 and $27.00
THE IOWA STORE is a good place to trade in—Just as Iowa Is A Good State To Live In.
We pay for your Gasoline on Purchases Of $20 And Up.
THE IOWA STORE
27 So. Federal, Mason City, Ia.
Shoes For The Entire Family At Money-Saving Prices.

FOREST CITY INFERS THUGS FROM GARNER

About two weeks ago the City Hall at Forest City was broken into and a number of the record books were taken. The thieves left a note that if $1,000 was left at a certain place the books would be returned. The $1,000 was not left as requested, neither were the records returned. The next evening after the robbery two of the books were found in Garner. They were picked up near the Whitehead store corner by Miles, Waller and Billy Clark. The boys turned the books over to H. V. Reed who notified the Forest City officials and returned the books. The city council rewarded the boys by sending them a warrant for $5.

The last Forest City Summit now says that it is evident that the thieves were from Garner as some of the books were found here. Because some Forest City outlaw left his loot in Garner is no reason that we are a bunch of thieves. They say that one man from Garner was so peeved at the ordinances passed by the Forest City Council, that he broke into print. If they refer to the story that appeared in the Garner Signal some time ago, we beg to inform the editor of the Forest City Summit, that the farmer who was grieved at the treatment he got in Forest City is just as honorable a genleman as the Forest City editor, or anyone else in that town, and because that farmer was sore because the Forest City police did not treat him decently is no reason for inferring that he stole their records. The Summit's story follows

"Mystery still attaches to the theft of the city books a week ago, and more mystery is added in the finding of part of them in the main streets of Garner. As the books recovered were found next morning after the robbery in the streets of Garner, it seems that they must have been carried there during the night, and that the thief or thieves were not people at Forest City. Since mention was made of the "twenty minute" parking ordinance in the note left on the door of the council rooms, it surely follows that there was spite against the ordinance by someone living from here.

About the biggest kick that has been put up about the ordinance has come from someone at Garner. Some fellow felt so offended and grieved at the ordinance that he broke into print about it sometime ago. He did not sign his name but the inference was that he lived in the vicinity of Garner.

The ordinance book and a part of the receipt books have been recovered. There is still missing the water commissioner's individual ledger and a part of the receipt books. The city officials do not feel warranted in paying the price asked originally by the thieves, since part of the records have been returned, but a suitable reward will be paid for the return of the remainder, by any one who finds them. The thieves asked for a $1,000 reward, and on that basis it will be worth the effort of someone to try and find the balance of them.—Signal.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY

The American people are watching a tragedy that is being enacted in Chicago. The mayor of that city—Mr. Denver—is enforcing the anti-booze law without fear or favor, and the three millions of citizens are gasping with amazement over the manner in which he is carrying out his announced determination to make the city "bone dry."

The advocates of clean city government are overjoyed. Reputable citizens who like an occasional "swig" are maintaining a "pained and parched" silence. Bootleggers and the underworld generally are raging like caged lions. The licenses of a thousand saloons, soft drink parlors and drug stores have been revoked for selling booze.

Chicago, which a few weeks ago was as wet as the Atlantic ocean, is rapidly becoming as dry as the desert of Sahara. One lone man — the mayr—is doing what all of the federal prohibition and law enforcement officals combined have dismally failed to do. He is making the city dry.

The real tragedy, however, is yet to come. A man engaged in such a laudable undertaking for the benifit of an entire city should recieve the united support of all law abiding people. An outsider would naturally expect to see popular demonstrations of approval held in all parts of the city in order to extend to the mayor the moral support to which he is entitled, irrespective of political considerations.

But the majority of Chicago's "better class of citizens" do not carry their convictions that far. They are delighted at the turn of affairs. Being delighted costs nothing—not even an effort. Getting behind the mayor in his "mopping up" campaign, however, is another thing. It requires an effort, and it necessitates the taking of a definite public stand for law enforcement and common decency. Many of them think that is not "good business." They have customers on both sides. Others view the mopping up process with a complacent approval that begins and ends with complacent approval.

The mayor will probably win out for a time, but in the end he will be crucified by the underworld and the booze runners and the unscrupulous politicians for thes ole reason that Chicago's "better class of citizens" will be too indifferent or too timid to interfere. And what is true of nearly every city in the United States—and of many smaller cities. It is the tragedy of attempting to do right—a lesson which every law abiding citizen the country over should take to himself.—Hampton Recorder.

SHOULD EAT MORE CEREALS

One of the problems that always confront home makers who have children is how to get the family to eat the natural cereals, says home economics members of the extension service of Iowa State College. Now the home specialists believe they have a method of increasing the amount of natural cereals used.

Give the family, they say, more natural cooked cereals, including flakes or steel cut oats, cracked wheat, barley or rye, home ground corn meal (hull removed but the germ left in), more dark or coarse breads, home made hominy and cookies and puddings made of natural grain products.

The following recipe furnished by the extension home economists, will be relished by all members of the family: Use one egg, one cup milk, one tablespoonful melted butter, one to one and one-fourth cups graham flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar or sorghum and one and one-half teaspoonful of baking powder. Combine the liquids; combine the dry materials; mix the liquid and dry ingredients except the baking powder. Sift the baking powder in with the last few spoons of dry ingredients. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. If sour milk is used, one-half teaspoon of soda and one teaspoon of baking powder may be used.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa,
7:30 O'clock p. m., Oct. 22, '23.

Special meeting of town council held in town hall for the purpose of receiving bids on the proposed Sewer and Water extension, as per Resolution of Necessity, Mayor Sullivan presiding.

Members present: Simerson, Dorenkamp, Russell, Papousek.

Members absent: None.

Moved and carried bids be opened and read. Clerk proceeded to read bids.

Moved by Russell, seconded by Papousek, that we award the contract for Sewer and Water extension to Gjellefald-Chapman Construction Co. of Forest City, Iowa, their's being the lowest bid.

Motion carried.

Moved and carried Mayor and Clerk be hereby authorized to enter into contract with Gjellefald-Chapman Construction Co. of Forest City, Iowa, for the sewer and water extension.

Moved and carried Clerk be hereby instructed to return checks of the unsuccessful bidders.

Moved and carried that the Iowa Hydrant and Gate Valve be used on this water extension.

Os motion and second council adjourned.

GUY BYERS,
Clerk.

The Independent can give you the best of service on your farm sale advertising. Let us figure with you. Eighty per cent of the farm sales are advertised in the Independent.

"He called his mother-in-law an old cat."

"That took some courage."

"Oh, he didn't do it in words; he sent her a package of catnip."

HOUSECLEANING TIME

Do you remember those weeks mother spent each fall "cleaning house?" Why did it take her so long? Simply because she did not have anything to do with except an old style broom, a supply of rags, and perhaps a feather duster.

Think how simple housecleaning is now with a great variety of brushes each designed for specific tasks! There are wall brushes, dust mops, wet mops, refill brooms, besides brushes for windows, bathtubs, radiators, toilet bowls, lace curtains, stairs and all kinds of furniture.

No longer is there need of shuffling the furniture about a room in order to reach hard-to-get-at-places. Not only can mother do the cleaning in far less time but she also does it much more thoroughly. No more scattering dust from one article on to another. Think of the energy saved, also the peace of mind! Mother can now clean house in her leisure moments and as a result has more time which she may use for her own pleasure.

She does not have to leave her home to purchase any of these brushes either, as they are brought to her door by the Fuller Man. He will demonstrate their use and give valuable suggestions on their care. These Fuller Brushes are all guaranteed against defective workmanship and material. The Fuller Man is now in your town and will call on you soon.

Write or Phone
E. R. LOCKWOOD
Clarion, Iowa
For Free Demonstration.

REMEMBER TO CALL
No. 272 when you have

POULTRY

To sell. We pick it up free---weigh it at your place---and give you your check there.

Remember us also for

Eggs and Cream

White Produce Co.

BELMOND Phone 272 GOODELL Phone 21

The Facts About Your Spending

—ARE AT YOUR FINGER TIPS WHEN YOU CARRY A CHECKING ACCOUNT AT THIS STRONG BANK.

A GLANCE AT THE STUBS IN YOUR CHECK BOOK WILL TELL YOU INSTANTLY WHEN, TO WHOM AND FOR WHAT EACH DOLLAR HAS BEEN SPENT.

OPEN A CHECKING ACCOUNT HERE AND HAVE A SIMPLE, ACCURATE RECORD OF YOUR SPENDING!

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA

COMING BACK HOME!
MUTT AND JEFF

America's most popular comic characters will be back in The Des Moines Sunday Register

Next Sunday

Look for them, in colors, in The Des Moines Sunday Register's 2 great Comic Sections.

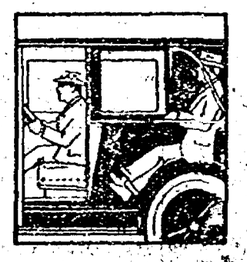
ALSO

8 Page Photogravure Picture Section.
8 Page Children's Section.
8 Page Illustrated Magazine.

NEW Overland CHAMPION

$695
F.O.B. Toledo

America's Only Versatile Car



Front and rear seats adjustable forward and back for tall and short people.

50 cu. ft. for farm truck, luggage, etc., by removing rear seat and upholstery.

Both seats and upholstery make into a full sized bed in the car for camping.

The new Overland Champion is the first all-purpose car! Doors front and rear! Washable upholstery! Steel body! Bigger new engine! Overland quality, reliability and economy! Come in—get complete details!

NORDSCHOW MOTOR COMPANY
Belmond, Iowa

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convincing her she has not the strength, Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI.—When her full strength returns, Gael, intensely interested in his companion, begins her "education."

CHAPTER XII.—Gael begins to realize the beauty of his "captive leopardess."

CHAPTER XIII.—Gael induces Joan to put on a woman's suit he gives her. The girl laughs at its smallness, remarking that it must have been made for a "tall child." In his absence, Joan starts for home, but, helpless, is compelled to return. Prosper's delight awakens the girl's heart.

CHAPTER XIV.—Joan hints of marriage, but Prosper puts her off. A letter in his mail, in a "small gray envelope," agitates him, and that night he says goodby to Joan. Next day she sees Pierre riding with Frank Holliwell, and realizes Gael's deception. She dare not meet Pierre.

Book Two.

CHAPTER I.—At the Lazy-I ranch Jane, the cook, attracts the attention of Jasper Morena, Jew theatrical manager, there with his highborn Gentile wife Betty. Morena wants Jane for a new play he is to produce. Betty had had an "affair" with Prosper Gael, and believing her husband dying, had written she would marry him.

CHAPTER II.—Morena explains to Jane that in the play "The Leopardess," she would portray a "wild girl," partly tamed, almost her own experience.

CHAPTER III.—Jane is that Joan who fled from the sight of her husband at Gael's home. She had striven to forget her past life. Now, with Morena and his wife she goes back to part of it. A stranger comes to the ranch, seeking Joan, his wife. The rancher gives him Morena's address.

CHAPTER IV.—Gael returns from France to enjoy the success of his play, "The Leopardess," known as "Luck's" play. Betty tells him Jasper is compromised with his "star," and she can divorce him. To his horror Gael recognizes Joan, known on the stage as "Miss West," in his play.

"Oh, whenever you like, as soon as I've had my fun."

"Of course—" Morena was thoughtful for an instant. "How would it do for me to leave it with Melton, the business manager? Eh? Suppose I phone him and talk it over a little. He'll want to wait till toward the end of the run. He's keen; has just the commercial sense of the born advertiser. Let him choose the moment. Then we can feel sure of getting the right one. Will you, Luck?"

"If you advise it. You ought to know."

"You see, I'm so confoundedly busy, so many irons in the fire, I might just miss the psychic moment. I think Melton's the man—I'll call him up tonight before we leave. Then I won't forget it and I'll be sure to catch him, too."

Again Prosper vaguely agreed and promptly forgot that he had given his permission. Later, there came an agonizing moment when he would have given the world to recall his absent, careless words.

With an effort Prosper kept his poise, with an effort, always increasing, he talked to Jasper while Betty dressed, and kept up his end at dinner. The muscles round his mouth felt tight and drawn, his throat was dry. He was glad when they got into the limousine and started theaterward. It had been a long time since he had been put through this particular ordeal and he was out of practice.

They reached the house just as the lights went out. Prosper was amused at his own intense excitement. "I didn't know I was still such a kid," he said, flashing a smile, the first spontaneous one he had given her, upon Betty who sat beside him in the proscenium box.

The success of his novel had had no such effect upon him as this. It was entrancing to think that in a few moments the words he had written would come to him clothed in various voices, the people his brain had pictured would move before him in flesh and blood, doing what he had ordained that they should do. When the curtain rose, he had forgotten his personal problem, had forgotten Betty. He leaned forward, his elbows on his knees, his chin in his hand.

The scene was of a tropical island, palms, a strip of turquoise sea. A girl pushed aside the great fronds of ferns and stepped down to the beach. At her appearance the audience broke into applause. She was a tall girl, her stained legs and arms bare below her ragged dress, her black hair hung wild and free about her face and neck. As the daughter of a native mother and an English father, her beauty had been made to seem both Saxon and savage. Stained and painted, darkened below the great gray eyes, Joan with her brows and her classic chin and throat, Joan with her secret, dangerous eyes and lithe, long body, made an arresting picture enough against the setting of vivid green and blue. She moved slowly, deliberately, naturally, and stood, hands on hips, to watch a ship sail into the turquoise harbor. It was not like acting, she seemed really to look. She threw back her head and gave a call. It was the name of her stage brother, but it came from her deep chest and through her long column of a throat like music. Prosper brought down his hands on the railing before him, half pushed himself up, turned a blind look upon Betty, who laid a restraining hand upon his arm.

He whispered a name, which Betty could not make out, then he sat down, moistened his lips with his tongue, and sat through the entire first act and neither moved nor spoke. As the curtain went down he stood up.

"I must go out," he said, and hesitated in the back of the box till Jasper came over to him with an anxious question. Then he began to stammer nervously. "Don't tell her, Jasper, don't tell her."

"Tell her what, man? Tell whom?" Jasper gave him a shake. "Don't you like Jane? Isn't she wonderful?"

"Yes, yes, extraordinary!"

"Made for the part?"

"No." Prosper's face twisted into a smile. "No, The part came second, she was there first, Morena, promise me you won't tell her who wrote the play."

"Look here, Prosper, suppose you tell me what's wrong. Have you seen a ghost?"

Prosper laughed; then, seeing Betty, her face a rigid question, he struggled to lay hands upon his self-control.

"Something very astonishing has happened, Morena—one of those 'things not dreamt of in a man's philosophy.' I can't tell you. Have you arranged for me to meet Jane West?"

"After the show, yes, at supper."

"But not as the author?"

"No. I was waiting f you to tell her that."

"She mustn't know. And—and I can't meet her that way, at supper." Again he made visible efforts at self-control. "Don't tell Betty what a fool I am. I'll go out a minute. I'll be all right."

Betty was coming toward them. He gave a painful smile and fled.

CHAPTER V

Joan and Prosper.

The situation was no doubt an extraordinary, an unimaginable one, but it had to be met. When he returned to the box, Prosper had himself in hand, and, sitting a little farther back than before, he watched the second act with a sufficiency of outward calm.

This part was the most severe test of his composure, for he had fashioned it almost in detail upon that idyll in a canyon. There were even speeches of Joan's that he had used. To sit here and watch Joan herself go through it, while he looked on, was an exciting form of torment. The setting was different, tropical instead of Northern, and the half-native heroine was more passionate, more emotional, more animal than Joan. Nevertheless, the drama was a repetition. As Prosper had laid his trap for Joan, silently, subtly undermining her whole mental structure, using her loneliness, playing upon the artist soul of her, so did this Englishman lay his trap for Zona. He was more cruel than Prosper, rougher, necessarily more dramatic, but there was all the essence of the original drama, the ensnarement of a simple, direct mind by a complex and skillful one. Joan's surrender, Prosper's victory, were there. He wondered how Joan could act it, play the part in cold blood. Now he was condemned to live in his own imagination through Joan's tragedy. There was that first pitifulness of a tamed and broken spirit; then later, in London, the agony of loneliness, of separation, of gradual awakening to the change in her master's heart. Prosper had written the words, but it was Joan who, with her voice, the music of memory-shaken heartstrings, made the words alive and meaningful. Others in the audience might wonder over the girl's ability to interpret this unusual experience, to make it natural, human, inevitable. But Prosper did not wonder. He knew that simply she forced herself to relive this most painful part of her own life and to relive it articulately. What, in God's name, had induced her to do it? Necessity? Poverty? Morena? All at once he remembered Betty's belief, that Joan was the manager's mistress—his wild, beautiful Joan,

Joan, the creation of his own wizardry. This thought gave him such pain that he whitened.

"Prosper," murmured Betty, "you must tell me what is wrong. Evidently your nerves are in bad shape. Is the excitement too much for you?"

"I believe it is," he said, avoiding her eyes and moving stiff, white lips: "I've never seen such acting. I—I—Morena says he'll let me see her in her dressing-room afterward. You see, Betty, I'm badly shaken up."

"Ye-es," drawled Betty, and looked at him through narrowed lids, and she sat with this look on her face and with her fingers locked, when Prosper, not giving her further notice, followed Morena out.

"Jasper"—Prosper held his friend back in the middle of a passage that led to the dressing-rooms—"I want very particularly to see Miss West alone. I am very much moved by her performance and I want to tell her so. Also, I want her to express herself naturally with no idea of my being the author of the play and without the presence of her manager. Will you just ask if she will see a friend of yours—alone?"

Jasper smiled his subtle smile. "Of course, Prosper. It's all as clear as daylight."

Prosper did not notice the Jew's intelligent expression. He was too much absorbed in his own excitement. In a moment he would be with Joan—Joan, his love of winter nights!

Morena tapped upon a door. A maid half-opened it.

"Ask Miss West, please, if she will see a friend of Mr. Morena's. Tell her I particularly wish her to give him a private interview." He scribbled a line on a card and the maid took it in.

In five minutes, during which the two men waited silently, she came back.

"Miss West will see your friend, sir."

"Ah! Then I'll take myself off. Prosper, will you join Betty and me at supper?"

"No, thanks. I'll have my brief interview with Miss West and then go home, if you'll forgive me. I'm about all in. New York's too much for a man just home from the front."

Jasper laid his hand for a moment on Prosper's shoulder, smiled, shrugged, and turned away. Prosper waited till his friend was out of sight and hearing, then knocked and was admitted to the dressing-room of Miss Jane West.

She had not changed from the evening dress she had worn in the last scene nor had she yet got rid of her make-up. She was sitting in a narrow-backed chair that had been turned away from the dressing-table. The maid was putting away some costumes.

Prosper walked half across the room and stopped.

"Miss West," he said quietly.

She stood up. The natural color left her face ghastly with patches of paint and daubs of black. She threw back her head and said, "Prosper!" just above her breath.

"Go out, Henrietta." This was spoken to the maid in the voice of Jane the virago, and Henrietta fled.

At sight of Joan, Prosper had won back instantly his old poise, his old feeling of ascendancy.

At Sight of Joan Prosper Had Won Back Instantly His Old Poise.

"Joan, Joan," he said gently; "was ever anything so strange? Why didn't you let me know? Why didn't you answer my letters? Why didn't you take my money? I have suffered greatly on your account."

Joan laughed. Four years ago she would not have been capable of this laugh, and Prosper started.

"I wrote again and again," he said passionately. "Wen Ho told me that you had gone, that he didn't know anything about your plans. I went out to Wyoming, to our house. I scoured the country for you. Did you know that?"

"No," said Joan slowly, "I didn't know that. But it makes no difference to me."

They were still standing a few paces apart, too intent upon their inner tumult to heed any outward situation. She lowered her head in that dangerous way of hers, looking up at him from under her brows. Her color had returned and the make-up had a more natural look.

"Maybe you did write, maybe you did send money, maybe you did come back—I don't care anything for all that." She made a gesture as if to sweep something away. "The day after you left me in that house, Pierre, my husband, came up the trail. He was taking after me. He meant to fetch me home. You told me"—she began to tremble so violently that the jewels on her neck clicked softly—"you told me he was dead."

Prosper came closer, she moving back, till, striking the chair, she sat down on it and looked up at him with her changed and embittered eyes.

"Would you have gone back to him, Joan Landis, after he had tied you up and branded your shoulder with his cattlebrand?"

"What has that got to do with it?" she asked, her voice lifting on a wave of anger. "That was between my man and me. That was not for you to judge. He loved me. It was through loving me too much, too ignorantly, that he hurt me so." She choked. "But you—"

"Joan," said Prosper, and he laid his hand on her cold and rigid fingers, "I loved you, too."

She was still and stiff. After a long silence she seemed to select one question from a tide of them.

"Why did you leave me?"

"I wrote you a full explanation. The letter came back to me unread."

Again Joan gave the laugh and the gesture of disdain.

"That doesn't matter . . . your loving or not loving. You made use of me for your own ends, and when you saw fit, you left me. But that's not my complaint. I don't say I didn't deserve that. I was easy to use. But it was all based on what wasn't true. I was married, my man was living, and I had dealings with you. That was sin. That was horrible. That was what my mother did. She was a—" Joan used the coarse and ugly word her father had taught her, and Prosper laid a hand over her mouth.

"Joan! No! Never say it, never think it. You are clean."

Joan twisted herself free, stood up, and walked away. "I am that!" she said grimly; "and it was you that made me. You took lots of trouble to make me see things in a way where nothing a person wants is either right or wrong. You made me thirsty with your talk and your books and your music, and when I was tormented with thirst, you came and offered me a drink of water. That was it. I don't care about your not marrying me. I still don't see that that has much to do with it except, perhaps, that a man would be caring to give any woman he rightly loves whatever help or cherishing or gifts the world has decided to give her. But, you see, Prosper, we didn't start fair. You knew that Pierre was alive. Oh, he was ignorant, a savage, I guess, like I was. But he did rightly love me. He was not trying to break my spirit nor to tame me, nor to amuse himself with me, nor to give me a longing for beauty and easiness and then leave me to fight through my own rough life without any of those things. Did you really think, Prosper Gael, that I would stay in your house and live on your money till you should be caring to come back to me—if ever you would care? Did you honestly think that you would be coming back—as—as my lover? No. Whatever it was that took you away, it was likely to keep you from me for always, wasn't it?"

"Yes," said Prosper in a muffled voice, "it was likely to. But, Joan, Fate was on your side. Since I have been yours, I haven't belonged to anyone but you. You've put your brand on me."

"I don't want to hear about you," Joan broke in. "I am done with you. Have you seen this play?"

"Yes." He found that in telling her so he could not meet her eyes.

"Well, the man who wrote that knew what you are, and, if he didn't, every one that has seen me act in it, knows what you are." She paused, breathing fast and trembling. "Goodby," she said.

He went vaguely toward the door, then threw up his head defiantly. "No," he said, "it's not going to be goodby. I've found you. You must let me tell you the truth about myself. Come, Joan, you're as just as Heaven. You never read my explanations. You've never heard my side of it. You'll let me come to see you and you'll hear me out. Don't do me an injustice. I'll leave the whole thing in your hands after that. But you must give me that one chance."

"Chance?" repeated Joan. "Chance for what?"

"Oh,"—Prosper flung up his lithe, long hands—"oh, for nothing but a cleansing in your sight. I want what forgiveness I can wring from you. I want what understanding I can force from you. That's all."

She thought, standing there, still and tall, her arms hanging, her eyes wide and secret, as he had remembered them in her thin, changed, so much more expressive face.

"Very well," she said, "you may come. I'll hear you out." She gave him the address and named an afternoon hour. "Goodnight."

It was a graceful and dignified dismissal. Prosper bit his lip, bowed and left her.

As the door closed upon her, he knew that it had closed upon the only real and vivid presence in his life. War had burnt away his glittering, clever frivolity. Betty was the adventure, Betty was the tinsel; Joan was the grave, predestined woman of this man. For the first time in his life he found himself face to face with the cleanness of despair.

CHAPTER VI

Aftermath.

Joan waited for Prosper on the appointed afternoon. There was a fire on her hearth and a March snowsquall tapped against the window panes. The crackle of the logs inside and that eerie, light sound outside were so associated with Prosper that, even before he came, Joan, sitting on one side of the hearth, closed her eyes and felt that he must be opposite to her in his red-lacquered chair, his long legs stuck out in front, his amused and greedy eyes veiled by a cloud of cigarette smoke.

Since she had seen him at the theater, she had been suffering from sleeplessness. At night she would go over and over the details of their intercourse, seeing them, feeling them living them in the light of later knowledge, till the torment was hardly to be borne. Three days and nights of this inner activity had brought back that sharp line between her brows and the bitter tightening of her lips.

This afternoon she was white with suspense. Her dread of the impending interview was like a physical illness. She sat in a high-backed chair, hands along the arms, head resting back, eyes half-closed, in that perfect stillness of which the animal and the savage are alone entirely capable. There were many gifts that Joan had brought from the seventeen years on Lone river. This grave immobility was one. She was very carefully dressed in a gown that accentuated her height and dignity. And she wore a few jewels. She wanted, pitifully enough, to mark every difference between this Joan and the Joan whom Prosper had drawn on his sled up the canyon trail. If he expected to force her back into the position of enchanted leopardess, to see her "lie at his feet and eat out of his hand," as Morena had once described the plight of Zona, he would see at a glance that she was no longer so easily mustered. In fact, sitting there, she looked as proud and perilous as a young Medea, black-haired with long throat and cold, malevolent lips. It was only in the eyes—those gray, unhappy, haunted eyes—that Joan gave away her eternal simplicity of heart. They were unalterably tender and lonely and hurt.

Prosper was announced, and Joan, keeping her stillness, merely turned her head toward him as he came into the room. She saw his rapid observation of the room, of her, even before she noticed the very apparent change in him. For he, too, was haggard and utterly serious as she did not remember him. He stood before her fire and asked her jerkily if she would let him smoke. She said "Yes," and those were the only words spoken for five unbearable minutes the seconds of which her heart beat out like a shaky hammer in some worn machine.

Prosper smoked and stood there looking, now at her, now at the fire. At last, with difficulty he smiled.

"You Are Not Going to Make It Easy for Me, Are You, Joan?"

"You are not going to make it easy for me, are you, Joan?"

For her part she was not looking at him. She kept her eyes on the fire and this averted look distressed and irritated his nerves.

"I am not trying to make it hard," she said; "I want you to say what you came to say and go."

"Did you ever love me, Joan?"

He had said it to force a look from her, but it had the effect only of making her more still, if possible.

"I don't know," she said slowly, answering with her old directness. "I thought you needed me. I was alone. I was scared of the emptiness when I went out and looked down the valley. I thought Pierre had gone out of the world and there was no living thing that wanted me. I came back and you met me and you put your arms round me and you said"—she closed her eyes and repeated his speech as though she had just heard it—"'Don't leave me, Joan.'"

Her voice was more than ever before moving and expressive. Prosper felt that half-forgotten thrill. The muscles of his throat contracted. "Joan, I did want you. I spoke the truth," he pleaded.

She went on with no impatience but very coldly. "You came to tell me your side. Will you tell me, please?"

For the first time she looked into his eyes and he drew in his breath at the misery of hers.

"I built that cabin, Joan," he said, "for another woman."

"Your wife?" asked Joan.

"No."

"For the one I said must have been like a tall child? She wasn't your wife? She was dead?"

Prosper shook his head. "No. Did you think that? She was a woman I loved at that time very dearly and she was already married to another man."

"You built that house for her? I don't understand."

"She had promised to leave her husband and to come away with me. I had everything ready, those rooms, those clothes, those materials, and when I went out to get her, I had a message saying that her courage had failed her, that she wouldn't come."

"She was a better woman than me," said Joan bitterly.

Prosper laughed. "By G—d, she was not! She sent me down to h—l. I couldn't go back to the East again. I had laid very careful and elaborate plans. I was trapped out there in that horrible winter country . . ."

"It was not horrible," said Joan violently; "it was the most wonderful, beautiful country in all the world." And tears ran suddenly down her face.

But she would not let him come near to comfort her. "Go on," she said presently.

"Before you came, Joan," Prosper went on, "it was horrible. It was like being starved. Everything in the house reminded me of—her, I had planned it all very carefully and we were to have been—happy. You can fancy what it was to be there alone."

Joan nodded. She was just and she was honestly trying to put herself in his place. "Yes," she said; "if I had gone back and Pierre had been dead, his homestead would have been like that to me."

"It was because I was so miserable that I went out to hunt. I'd scour the country all day and half the night to tire myself out, that I could get some sleep. I was pretty far from home that moonlight night when I heard you scream for help . . ."

Joan's face grew whiter. "Don't tell about that," she pleaded.

He paused, choosing another opening. "After I had bandaged you and told you that Pierre was dead—and I honestly thought he was—I didn't know what to do with you. You couldn't be left, and there was no neighbor nearer than my own house; besides, I had shot a man, and, perhaps—I don't know, maybe I was influenced by your beauty, by my own crazy loneliness. . . . You were very beautiful and very desolate. I was in a fury over the brute's treatment of you . . ."

"Hush!" said Joan; "you are not to talk about Pierre."

Prosper shrugged. "I decided to take you home with me. I wanted you desperately, just, I believe, to take care of, just to be kind to—truly, Joan, I was lonely to the point of madness. Some one to care for, some one to talk to, was absolutely necessary to save my reason. So when I was leading you out, I—I saw Pierre's hand move—"

Joan stood up. After a moment she controlled herself with an effort and sat down again. "Go on. I can stand it," she said.

"And I thought to myself, 'The devil is alive and he deserves to be dead. This woman can never live with him again. God wouldn't sanction such an act as giving her back to his hands.' And I was half-mad myself, I'd been alone so long . . . I stood so you couldn't see him, Joan, and I threw an elk-hide over him and led you out."

"I followed you; I didn't look at Pierre; I left him lying there," gasped Joan.

Continued next week.

WINE AND BEER PROPOSITION

From the following fact we may conclude that the light wine and beer proposition is not getting very far with the American people:

Colorado adopted prohibition by a majority of 11,000 and two years later defeated a beer amendment by 85,000.

Michigan adopted prohibition by a majority of 68,000 and three years later defeated a light wines and beer amendment by 207,000.

Oklahoma adopted prohibition by a majority of 25,000 and four years later defeated a light wines and beer amendment by more than 200,000.

Oregon adopted prohibition by 36,000 and two years later defeated a beer amendment by 54,000.

Washington adopted prohibition by 18,000 and two years later defeated a beer amendment by 147,000.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Walt Ramsay was up from Des Moines a day or two last week, visiting his brother, Wallace, and family.

Wm. Dempsey is a new mechanic at the Belmosd Motor Sales Co., working in the repair department under Harold Aigley, foreman.

A lot of homes in Belmond are caring for a bowl of gold fish since the special put on last Friday and Saturday by the Schultz Drug Co. We'll bet there are more gold fish in Belmond today than there has ever been at any period in its history, for the store sold them with the NyDenta tooth paste at a terrific rate. They make a nice decoration for the home and please the kiddies.

Joe Suntken and family of Meservey and Elmer Warman and family of Alden, with Clarence Warman of Union were visitors with friends in Belmond, Sunday.

Mrs. Rosecrans and A. E. Martin, of Belmond, and Mrs. Walter Pritchard, of Garner, went to Rochester, Sunday, where all three will receive treatment at the hospital.

For Sale—Having sold all of my furniture except a fe pieces, will sell very cheap the remaining if taken before Saturday. Davenport, organ, bed, child's bed, two rockers, writing desk, rug, book case, cabinet base. —Mrs. H. T. Wolder. 1c

Football fans beseiged the Independent office Saturday for news of the Iowa-Illinois game, played at Iowa City at the annual home coming. Crowds packed this office during the game, results of which were received by radio, play by play. Probably 50 phone calls were answered during the game. Illinois won 9 to 6 in a hard battle.

Aug. Foss is meeting with splendid success in his employment agency venture, advertised in the Independent last week. He was swamped with requests for labor, and placed all he had in a couple of days. He is now advertising for more men in the Mason City paper. We prophesy that August will be kept good and busy.

20 per cent discount on Children's Hats. Special prices on Velours.—The Hat Shoppe.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair White, of Ft. Dodge, drove up last week to look after business matters.

A number of Belmond people drove to Hampton, Tuesday evening to see the play, "The Bat," at Chas. Peterson's theatre. They report a very fine play.

Several Kanawha fans drove down last Friday to see the foot ball game and to root for Britt.

Mesdames Fitts and Williams and Miss Daisy Cameron left Monday for Waterloo to attend the Grand Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star. They are delegates from the local chapter.

Miss Avis Hereim returned home Sunday evening, after spending three weeks with relatives and friends at Roland, Story City and Nevada, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Twedt of Roland, Iowa, visited Sunday at the E. O. Munson home.

Carload of Early Ohio Potatoes on Great Western track this week. Thoroly ripe; good keepers.—M. Dawson. 1*

Harold Wallace returned Saturday from Iowa City, where he had been for treatment at the state hospital.

The silver cup won by W. C. Tyrrell, Jr., in the golf tournament, is on display in the Schultz Drug Co. window. It is a beauty.

The M. E. Ladies Aid will serve a chicken supper in the basement of the church tonight (Thursday evening.) Everybody welcome.

V. E. Munson and Will Bailey of Rowan were in town Monday, bringing up a Mr. Fuller to catch the afternoon passenger north for his home in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Bonte were Sunday guests of relatives at Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham of Forest City are the happy parents of a baby girl, born to them last Saturday evening. Mrs. Graham was formerly Miss Gladys Jenison.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hartwig were recent guests at the home of Mrs. Hartwig's parents, at Thornton.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Courtney and family of Thornton were guests of relatives here last week.

Mrs. Curtis and two children from Webster City spent Sunday at the ne of relatives here.

Henry Johnson is spending a few days at Minneapolis, visiting relatives and friends.

Better automobiles are being built. Willys-Overland is building them.—Nordschow Motor Co.

Tom Tyrrell has been very ill the past week, and his condition at present is reported critical. Relatives have been summoned.

We have a few gold fish left. If you furnish your own globe, we will give two gold fish free with each package of Ny-Denta tooth paste. Regular price 50 cents.—Schultz Drug Co.

Miss Mary Barry went to Jackson, Nebraska, last Thursday, to visit her sister, Mrs. R. N. Ryan.

Mrs. Herman Schultz and Mrs. Howard Moore drove to Fort Dodge last Friday.

Good Ford Truck for sale cheap. Over-size tires.—Belmond Motor Sales Co.

The Independent is making an exceptionally fine clubbing offer with either new or renewal subscriptions. Read the big ad in this issue. Take advantage of this opportunity to secure your winter's reading at a very unusual price. The offer is limited in time, so do it now!

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Rev. Northrup, of Parkersburg, a former pastor of the Congregational church here, is spending a few days with friends here.

Mrs. Ruben Reed and Harry Renicker of La Porte City, were Sunday visitors here.

Mrs. Lorene Gilpin Weyant and daughter, Violet, of Lincoln, Nebraska, are visiting relatives here.

The Des Moines Register and the Independent for one year for only $5.80. New subscriptions only to the Register.

Henry Lien, of near Kanawha, was a business caller in town the first of the week.

Anyone can fill an ordinary job but you must be well trained to get a position worth while. Hamilton trained students are placed in good positions promptly. The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

Snappy mid-winter hats on display Saturday at The Hat Shoppe.

For Sale—One new Majestic Range.—Phone 206. 49tf

Consignment of Stamped Goods, beautiful patterns. Priced for quick sale. Come in and look them over. At the Gift Shop.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Independent Farm Sales Service is Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.

Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store

Belmond, Iowa

MONDAY, NOV. 5

$25,000 REWARD

TO anyone proving that International Clothes are not Tailored strictly to measure.

ALL the latest models in Overcoats, including the beautiful plaid backs.

SUPERFINE SUITS

New Belmond Tailor Shop

F. J. TUFFREE

South of Case Hotel Phone 28

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—White Rock Pullets, from prize winning stock. $1 each. —Mrs. Wm. Leonard, Swaledale, Ia.

For Sale—New range and two second hand cook stoves. Inquire at Independent. 48tf

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars, pure bred.—J. M. Sampson, Belmond. 49tfc

For Sale: Used parts for Chevrolet Ford and Studebaker.

Two 1923 Ford tourings with starter and rims.

One 1923 Ford coupe.

Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond. 49tf

WANTED

WANTED—Correspondents on all rural routes out of Belmond. Good money paid, supplies free. Requirements not difficult. Call 115, or call at Independent office.

Wanted—Housekeeper in the country for about two months. No objection to children. Good wages. Inquire at Independent. 482*

Wanted—A dishwasher at Foster's Cafe. 482c

Wanted—Carpet rags to cut and sew; stockings to darn; quilts to tie or quilt; patching; fancy work on quilts. At Mrs. Pennel's.—Mrs. Coates. 1*

LOST AND FOUND

Found—Child's black plush hat. Owner can have same by calling at Independent and paying cost of advertising.

B. A. REEMTSMA

AUCTIONEER

Farm and General Sales

A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.

For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	14c
Leghorns	12c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	32c
Cream	45c
Creamery butter	47c
Oats	34c
Corn, old	85c

TUNE IN FOR Willard STORAGE BATTERIES RADIO PROGRAM WTAM .Cleveland

BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

WRIGLEY'S

Take it home to the kids.

Have a packet in your pocket for an ever-ready treat.

A delicious confection and an aid to the teeth, appetite, digestion.

After Every Meal

Sealed in its Purity Package

Kinseth's Store News

Out of that carload of pears we had last week, only a few baskets are left. If you want a basket, now is the time to get it. These pears are juicy, sweet, and fine for sauce or canning for winter use. They are cheap in price but high in quality—if they weren't, would we have sold a hundred baskets is one day? Get yours before the few we have left are gone.

—K—

They will be sold for $1.75 as long as they last.

—K—

Mittens for husking. Underwear for all. Jackets. If you need overshoes come here first.

—K—

Good prunes at a dime a pound.

This cool weather brings to mind the fact that we have some dandy blankets for you. They are the real goods, warm, comfy, and lasting, at a price you can afford to pay. Don't buy blankets from a peddler; you always pay more. Did you read that news article recently, in which a peddler bought up all the blankets in a town, and then peddled the same blankets to the housewives at much higher prices than they could have bought them for at their store? Be a wise one, trade at the Store on the Corner and save your money.

—K—

And don't forget that 38-cent coffee.

—K—

The Store on the Corner is the place to save money. Follow the crowds and be happy.

This Ad Is Worth 50c To You!

The Belmond Savings Bank

wants every man, woman and child in Belmond to have a savings account built UPON A ROCK. It will supply the ROCK. The PLYMOUTH ROCK, the cornerstone of a nation, a safe and firm foundation upon which to build a fortune.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER started the biggest fortune in the world by small savings.

Constant, systematic saving will build a fortune.

When you know how to save you will be a success.

Start the habit of saving NOW. Open an account TODAY with a deposit of $1 or more. We will contribute 50 cents toward the account and supply you with a Plymouth Rock Home Savings Bank, a replica of that Rock upon which the Pilgrims landed in 1620 and which became the cornerstone of the richest nation in the world.

THIS ROCK AND A SAVINGS ACCOUNT IN THE BELMOND SAVINGS BANK WILL MAKE THE BEST FOUNDATION FOR YOUR FORTUNE.

Furthermore, as an additional incentive to save, this Bank will contribute 50 cents toward each new savings account when the coupon below is presented at the time the account is opened.

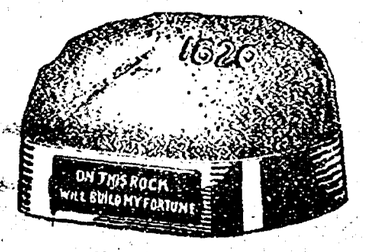
The Coupon below and 50c in Cash Opens a $1.00 Savings Account and Gets a Plymouth Rock Bank

This applies also to larger initial deposits, $5.00, $50.00, $500 or more. The Bank has made this proposal to apply to the very smallest deposits so that every one may take advantage of it, knowing full well that big things grow from small beginnings.

PLYMOUTH ROCK COUPON
WORTH 50 CENTS

Conditions

(1). $1.00 of the account must remain on deposit for one year.
(2). If a second deposit is not made within SIX MONTHS, the 50c Coupon will be deducted when the account is closed at which time the Plymouth Rock Bank must be returned.
(3). Only one account can be opened by an individual.



BELMOND SAVINGS BANK

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER, 1 1923 — NO. 50

71 To 0 Result Of Foot Ball Friday

Belmond Boys Run Themselves Ragged Scoring Touch downs, Making 11.

NEXT GAME AT KANAWHA

The Belmond foot ball team walked all over, trampled on and mussed up generally the Forest City team last Friday, the end of the agony seeing the score 71 to 0 in favor of the locals.

It was a massacree from beginning to end. The Belmond boys started scoring right off the bat. Kicking off to Forest City, they held the enemy for downs, forcing a punt. Stapley received the punt and went 25 yards for a touchdown. For the next four times on the kick off, it was a repetition, more or less, of the first play, different members of the local team carrying the ball over. In all, the Belmond team made eleven touchdowns and five tries for goal, a total of 71 points.

The Forest City bunch were hopelessly outclassed in every angle of the game. They made but two or three downs in the entire game, while the home boys romped thru the line at will. Belmond used straight foot ball all the way thru, end runs, line smashes, and straight thru center being their mainstays. Passes were used but seldom, and only one or two trick plays being called upon. It was a good practice game for Belmond, but as a game to witness was a fizzle from the spectators standpoint. The Forest City lads were game and played clean, hard foot ball, but never had a chance.

The Belmond boys have now scored, to date, 119 points to their opponents' 29, winning four games and losing one. Their next game will be next week Friday when they play the return game with Kanawha on the Kanawha ground. This game will be a bitterly contested battle, and one well worth witnessing. The Belmond boys are playing winning foot ball and deserve the united support of the fans in every game. Show yours by attending their games.

NEW SCHEDULE OF DISTRICT COURT DATES

The judges of the Eleventh judicial district, which includes Wright county, have issued a new schedule of dates of terms of court for the years 1924-1925, as follows:

Wright county, at Clarion.

1924

Feb. 11.—5 weeks—McCall.
April 28.—5 weeks—Fry.
Oct. 6.—4 weeks—Thompson.
Nov. 24.—4 weeks—Clock.

1925

Feb. 9.—5 weeks—McCall.
April 27.—5 weeks—Fry.
Oct. 5.—4 weeks—Thompson.
Nov. 23.—4 weeks—Clock.

EDITORS ARE DUNNING DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS

Nearly every exchange that reaches this office is carrying publisher's notices urging the subscribers to pay their subscriptions. It will not be many years until every country weekly will stop at the expiration of your subscription. There is no valid reason why a subscriber should not pay the small price of a country paper once a year. It is such a small matter to the subscribers, and such a vital matter to the newspaper men, that it can not be handled successfully without the cash in advance plan.

IOWA TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU TO HAVE PARTY

The Iowa Township Farm Bureau will have a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 2nd. Sandwiches pumpkin pie and coffee will be served. Each family is requested to bring its own sandwiches, a pie and dishes for serving. Come and have a good time.

If you do not worship elsewhere, you cannot afford to miss hearing "The Greatest Institution in Belmond" by Rev. O'Connor Sunday evening.

DISTRICT COURT NEWS

A settlement was reached Monday in the appeal case of Henrietta Frohling of Belmond from the findings of the commissioners of insanity, which body some months ago adjudged her of unsound mind. It was decreed that she be granted separate maintenance in the sum of $75 per month and given possession of the home. Defendant to pay all taxes and insurance, and plaintiff to retain her equity in all property now in name of defendant. Attorney fees in the sum of $1,800 were allowed, $900 each side. At her request C. O. Fitts was appointed guardian. Mr. Frohling is 65 years of age and his wife a few years younger. They have nine children. The Frohlings reside in Belmond.

Another new case for the November term of court is that of the Bank of Galt vs. W. W. Wobbeking to enforce payment on a past due note in the sum of $220.81.

Judge McCall adjourned the October term of court Tuesday afternoon and returned to his home at Nevada. The next term convenes November 26th with Judge Clock of Hampton presiding.

Tuesday Sheriff Lang received a $500 bond from Mason City as bail for Geo. Ross, who was held to the November grand jury, being charged with the transportation of liquor at the time of the Herman Fork accident a few weeks ago. His wife was released at the time of the preliminary hearing, bail being furnished by her attorney.

W. H. Paskin of Goldfield has been appointed temporary guardian of his brother Benjamin Paskin, of unsound mind, his bond being fixed in the sum of $12,000.

County Treasurer Allen will soon be preparing the annual delinquent tax list for punlication. It is thought it will be smaller than last year.

The following marriage licenses were issued during the week: Gilbert A. Lawson and Marie Olson, both of Eagle Grove; Ephriam Holm and Ruth Brooks, both of Belmond; Leonard Burdette Johnson and Irene Marie Miller.—Monitor.

COMMUNITY HEALTH IS DISCUSSED AT MEETING

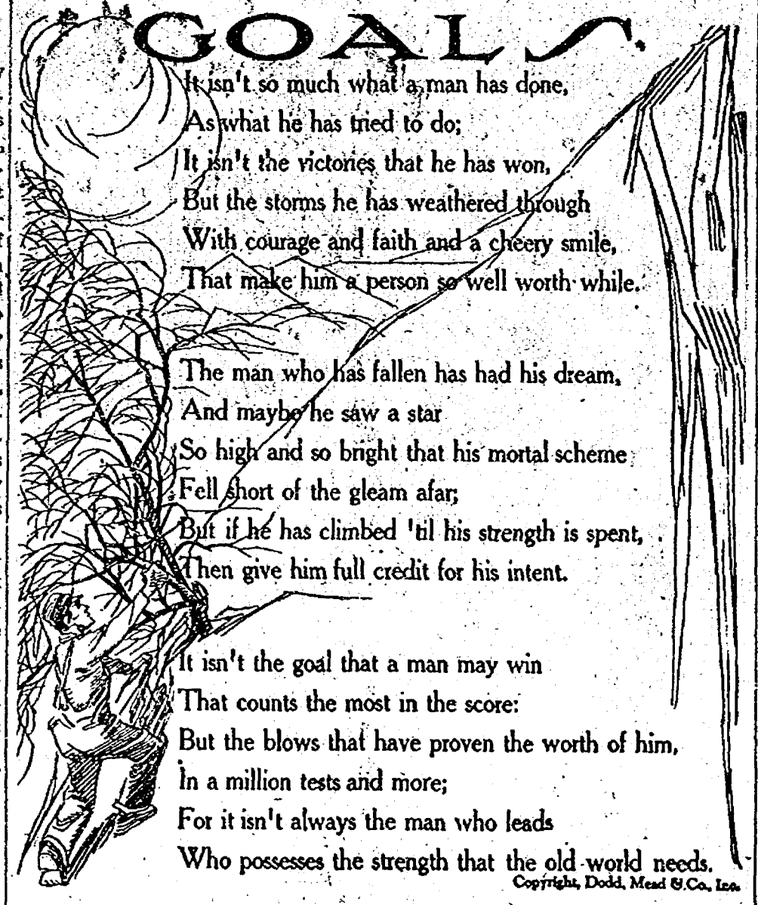
At the Community Welfare Club meeting, Friday, a very interesting talk was given by Dr. Ruel Silvester, teacher of Psychology at Drake University. Dr. Silvester spoke on two subjects, "Community Health" and "Mental Hygiene." In regard to Community Health, he said the baby clinics and the tubercular clinics held in different communities were of great benefit, but any other free clinics were more harmful than good, as they had a tendency to pauperize people.

The Club would have liked to hear more on Psychology and Mental Health as it was an interesting subject and Dr. Silvester seemed very much enthused with his work. But one hour is too short in which to cover two subjects thoroughly. Part of Dr. Silvester's work is to study the children in the orphanages and place them in homes best suited for them. Children with high mentality are placed in homes where they will receive a good education and have a chance to develop their mental powers, while children with lower mentality are put in homes where the foster parents would be satisfied with a child of only common intelligence.

IF THEY CAN'T GET HENS, WHY, CREAM WILL DO

A new one was added to the worries of the farmer, when thieves at Forest City took a full can of good, sweet cream from O. A. Larson. A Ford drove into the Larson yard one night at 10:00 o'clock, with two men. One stayed in the car, and the other calmly walked into the milk house, lifted the can of cream into the car, and the two men drove away. Cream and can were valued at $15. If hogs or hens are unavailable, a good can of cream will do nicely, thank you. "Cream thieves," however, are something new. The same medicine as used for chicken thieves applies to cream robbers.

Henry Heuerman from Florida arrived the first of the week to visit his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Heuerman, and other relatives.



Judge McCall To Speak At First Good Fellowship Meeting Next Week

The first meeting of the Good Fellowship club for the season will be held next week, it is announced by the committee in charge. The exact date of the first meeting will be given next week in the Independent.

Judge McCall will be the speaker. It had been planned to hold the first meeting this week, but as Judge McCall could not be present it was decided to wait until next week. The judge is a forceful speaker, with a wealth of entertaining material to speak about, and those who attend are sure of being well entertained.

The usual eats customary to these friendly meetings will be on deck, and possibly a good preliminary program. It is hoped to make the Good Fellowship club bigger and better than ever before, this winter, and all men are wanted to attend. It is not necessary to be a member, the meetings are open to any one. No charge is made except for the eats, and you do not have to eat if you don't want to. The meetings are the best thing that ever struck the town, and should have a full attendance of all citizens.

OUR MAYOR MAKES BIG LAND DEAL

The biggest land deal that has been made in this part of the country for many years was closed last week when W. S. Pritchard sold his Belmond farm to A. L. Hoyt, a south of Ventura farmer, and took his farm in part payment. In the deal Mr. Hoyt become owner of the Pritchard 480-acre farm four miles west of Belmond, and Mr. Pritchard the owner of Mr. Hoyt's 216-acre farm five miles south and one mile west of Ventura, which is only one mile and a half from Mr. Pritchard's other farm of 160 acres which is tenanted by Bruce Lacock. Pritchard now owns two of the best farms in the south of Ventura neighborhood.

The Pritchard farm near Belmond is a fine stock farm. Walt and his brother owned it together a number of years and four years ago Walt bought his brother's interest in the place. He has improved the place until it was one of the best farms in that section. Henry Larson has been the tenant on the farm the past three years and will probably take the Hoyt farm. He is a good farmer, and an excellent stock man and feeder. He is a fine fellow and we will be glad to see him move nearer to Garner.

Mr. Hoyt has owned the Ventura farm for a number of years and has made all he has on the place. He is a good farmer and stockman. He has plenty of help in his own family and wanted a larger place and the Pritchard farm makes an excellent place for him.

A. P. McGregor, of Des Moines, a brother-in-law of Mr. Pritchard, engineered the deal.—Signal.

ARM AND LEG BROKEN IN FACTORY ACCIDENT

Warren Sjoberg, an employee at the sugar factory, suffered a broken arm and leg in an accident at the plant last Saturday night. He was working on the centrifugal. The belt came off, and he and another workman went around to put it on. Having replaced the belt, Sjoberg signalled for the current to be turned on. As the belt started, Sjoberg's apron became caught. He reached in to pull it loose, and the belt caught his arm. His left arm was broken and pulled out of joint, and his right leg was broken. He was taken to the hospital here and given prompt aid. It is believed he will come thru all right.

The accident was due in a large measure to Sjoberg's carelessness. He is not supposed to replace the belt, the company maintaining mechanics who understand the proper way to do this, and whose business it is to attend to it. The company carries insurance which takes care of all accidents and injuries.

REV. LEINBACH CALLED PERMANENTLY BY CHURCH

At a meeting of the members of the Congregational church, Sunday morning after the services, Rev. S. U. Leinbach was given a practically unanimous call to remain as permanent pastor of the church. The members, who are much pleased with Mr. Leinbach, were urgent that he remain as their permanent pastor, and that he recall his resignation, tendered a few weeks ago. It is understood that Rev. Leinbach has accepted the call and will remain.

ATTY. BULLARD SUED BY LOCAL WOMAN

Atty. W. E. Bullard was defendant in a suit for assault, filed by Mrs. Norman Nelson, last week. The suit, scheduled for Justice Purdy's court, was taken before Justice court at Rowan on a change of venue by Mr. Bullard, last Saturday. At Rowan, Mr. Bullard asked a continuance of his trial until Thursday of this week (today,) at which time the case is scheduled to be tried at Rowan.

GAS GOES DOWN TO 14 1-2

Gasolene dropped to 14 1-2 cents in Belmond, Sunday. The price has been 16 1-2 for several weeks, since Gov. McMaster, of South Dakota, took the octopus by the tail and started snapping its head off. Gasoline had dropped to 14 1-2 at other points last week, and worked around to this city Sunday. Five gallons of gas for the old bus now costs you 73 cents, against $1.15 a few weeks ago. The recent cut is said to be due to excessive supplies of crude oil on hand by the oil companies.

BELMOND SCHOOL NOTES

Our foot ball team defeated Forest City last Friday in an easy victory by the score of 71 to 0. Mr. Crozier accompanied the boys to Forest City.

Mr. Pals was called to Chicago, Thursday and Friday by the illness of his brother.

The Normal Training classes had some observation work in rural schools last week.

There will be no foot ball game with an outside team this week.

The Normal Training classes attended the lecture at the Community club last Friday. We wish to thank the club for their courtesy in extending the invitation.

First calls have gone out for declamatory and debate. Many pupils are entering and great deal of interest is displayed.

The try-outs for declamatory will be held without training this year. Of those who try out 12 will be selected to appear in the public contest.

About 18 are going to try out for debate.

Margaret Blair is wearing the typewriting medal this week. Veron Hanson had the honor of wearing it last week.

The 8th grade had a Hallowe'en party at the home of Helen Luick last Friday. It was greatly enjoyed.

The 5th grade had a party from five to seven Friday night at the school house.

GOV. HAMMILL APPEALS FOR RED CROSS AID

Governor Hammill, in an official statement to the public, today called upon the people of Iowa to join with Americans everywhere in supporting the coming roll call of the Red Cross which is scheduled to open in every county of the state on November 11, Armistice Day.

The governor's statement to the people declares:

"The State of Iowa will be called upon to answer the roll call of the American Red Cross within the next few weeks. During the great world war, Iowa sent millions of dollars overseas through Red Cross channels, where it was spent wisely in aiding men on the firing line and in the hospitals.

"Since the war, the Red Cross has carried on. The veterans have been aided and thru a record of service, the Red Cross is worthy of the support of the State of Iowa.

"It is international, as in the recent Japanese earthquake the Red Cross was the first to offer service. America has seen the time when it needed aid. The Red Cross was on hand in flood time, earthquake and pestilence.

"I feel sure that Iowa will answer with the most splendid spirit that she has in the past."

Definite plans were made during the past week for the roll call. Quotas for the various Iowa towns were made and plans for the actual enrollment completed. Civic bodies in many towns are to support them all.

Judge Hubert Utterback, state chairman of the Red Cross, said today that he anticipated a greater response to the Roll Call appeal than has been made at any time since the war.

BAZAAR

Remember the Congregational ladies bazaar and supper, Thursday, November 8th. Bazaar opens at 9 a. m. and includes sale of fancy work, useful articles, candy, country store and rummage. A splendid assortment of potted plant, bulbs and cut flowers. An excellent chicken supper will be served, beginning at 5 p. m. Everybody invited.

RECEPTION FOR O'CONNOR

There will be a reception for Rev. and Mrs. O'Connor of the Methodist church, at the church, Friday evening of this week. All are invited to attend and meet the new pastor and his family.

GRUNDY CENTER FARMS $290.

War-time prices on land was brot to mind recently, when a quarter section belonging to C. F. Messer, near Grundy Center was sold for $290 an acre. The farm is said to be one of the best in that part of the state.

Petition To Have Trains Replaced

Committee Of Business Men Go To Iowa Falls To Meet With Commission.

MAY RECEIVE A CHANGE

A committee of Belmond business men go to Iowa Falls this morning to meet with various other committees from the towns along the Rock Island railroad and the Iowa State Railway Commission.

The meeting was called by the Commission to consider the protests of the various towns regarding the discontinuance of the morning and evening passenger trains last summer. Various protests were lodged at the time of the rem... the Rock Island officials, h... was paid to them b... Protests were also... sion, which did no... action until the r...

The Belmond c... them a petition s... every business ... requesting that ... were removed ... moval of thes... the mail serv... branch so th... rive in the a... usually a d... convenienc... in loss al...

It is d... taken o... fort will ... made wh... removed, ... and in it... and eve... which h...

The ... o'clock...

Mr. Ephriam Ho... Rev. H. C. Holm of ... Miss Ruth Brooks, ... and Mrs. H. J. ... township, were ... last Wednesday e... at the home of ... in Eagle Grove ... officiating. The ... ied by her par...

The bride is ... ty's best known ... has been teachin... of the county.

Mr. Holm is ... Belmond Storage ... city, and has made ... and his bride will ... in Belmond.

The Independent take... in joining with the frien... young couple in extending ... of good wishes.

GOES TO SLEEP; AUTO EMBRACES BIG TRE...

One Herman Baxter, of near For... est City, has learned that a Flivve... is not like the old mare, and tha... to keep in the road nowadays on... must remain on the job. While driv... ing home one night recently, Baxter... went to sleep at the wheel of his... car. When he woke up, Lizzie was... affectionately embracing a big tree... at the side of the road, and Baxter... his wife and their nine months' old... baby were badly cut and bruised, while their four year old son suffered a compound fracture of the skull. The car was a total wreck.

ANIMAL OWNERS ARE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR WRECK

If a hog or any other animal running at large on the public highway causes an automobile accident, the owner of the animal can be held liable for damages under a decision of the Iowa supreme court, handed down in the case of Emma Stewart of Pottawattamie county against Henry Wild.

However, the jury in the lower court did not hold the owner of the hog liable and the Stewarts appealed. The supreme court says it is against the law to allow livestock to run at large on the public highway without a guardian. It therefore reverses the holding of the Pottawottamie county district court and O. D. Wheeler, judge, and demands the case for a new trial.—Monitor.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

E LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

WS?

fficult things is to deter- l what isn't orthy of the its readers No paper which, in will make item is nting of " is the ng it which dache. duty car- at is int— the as The the the the and aper ries to hings the public wants to read. itted, a robbery ent occurs, the nsible for the ound to print any reputa- ure the sen- e items on u will find t really oc- of the total at the public l in. In this u will find a ems; so-called, d out above the nts. In this same find an article deal- lecture on psychology noted authority before nity Club. Of the two which do you think will ad by the most people? The munity Club lecture was a high- interesting event, worthy of any en's attendance and attention; ing for better lives and living. orthy, real, sound piece of news. not a solitary male citizen of community attended, altho es- ally invited. Very probably not man in 50 in Belmond knows ch of anything about it except at his wife told him. Let an ac- dent occur, a robbery be made, or ome other sensation piece of news develope, and it will be on every tongue for the proverbial nine days. If we did not print the "news" of the Community club lecture we would be condemned by some; and if we failed to give the news of the other things, we would get it in the neck.

The Independent, just as any other newspaper, endeavors to give its readers the news. The fact that some of it may be on the sensational order is not the fault of the paper; it is a part of life, of events,and as such should receive the same attention. No newspaper prints a sensational item with the deliberate intention of stirring up a row. Rows don't pay. But if some citizen gets into a place where he wishes he wasn't, whose fault is it? Is the newspaper justified in "ditching" the news just to keep his mind at ease? Many, many things which are news never see print because the newspaper considers that the printing of them would be detrimental to the community good. Other things, altho they hurt, are printed because it is believed the publication of them will result in good, regardless of the fact that someone's toes may get stepped on.

Constructive criticism is a part of any worth-while newspaper's duty toward the public. Pitiless publicity has kept many an official doing his duty when, if he were not afraid of "what the papers will say", he would let his service degenerate to nothing, or worse. Public opinion is the only god of some people, and the fear of it is all that keeps some people straight. This is a fact recognized by the law, which gives the newspaper a wide range in publishing facts which might otherwise be termed libelous. Publicity is recognized as one of the greatest means of law enforcement, and as such has its own particular part to play. The "power of the press" is not an idle phrase, but a powerful fact. Thomas Jefferson once said that if he were to make a choice between government without newspapers and newspapers without government, he would choose the newspapers, because thru them and the publicity and power in public life they weild, he could form the government, whereas government without publicity would degenerate into the rule of a few ambitious and unscrupulous men.

Newspapers are as essential to modern government and business as they are to the papers. In the recent pressmen's strike in New York City, which lasted eight days, the newspapers lost $1,800,000 in revenue. And the merchants, thru inability to advertise, while they cannot accurately figure their loss, estimate it into the millions of dollars. As soon as the newspapers could accept advertising, they were flooded to such an extent that they were compelled to limit space to any one firm.

Unless its readers can depend upon the newspaper being truthful and accurate in its columns, both news and advertising, they are not going to have faith in it. Unless they find in it the news of the day they are not going to read it. If they do not read it, the advertiser will derive no benefit. Without advertising, no newspaper can survive. Every paper aims to do the right thing by all concerned. All it asks in return is the same treatment. A "controlled" newspaper is a pitiful object, carrying little prestage and no weight. Our American government did not specify a free press without good reason.

KNOW YOUR TOWN

What do you know about this town? Can you give intelligent answers to the numerous questions that might be asked of you? Here is a mild test of what you do or do not know:

Who was the first settler? When did he settle here? When was it incorporated as a town or village, under its own government? Who named the town, and how did it get its name? Who was the first town or village executive? Of what denomination was the first church, and when was it built? When was the first school established? When was our postoffice established, and who was the first postmaster? What is a fair cash valuation of all of the real estate in town? What is our present tax rate? How is our municipal government supported? How is our public school system governed? What is our present population? Who is the oldest male resident? Who is our oldest female resident? Who was the first child born here? Who is the most persistent town booster? Who is the most chronic objector? What have you done for the town?

If any citizen can answer these questions correctly the editor will be glad to publish the answers in the paper. Such an article would be extremely interesting and of peculiar historical value.—Recorder.

Here and There

Mrs. Lieuwen and Mrs. Andrews, of Belmond were guests here last Friday at the home of Mrs. Lieuwen's daughter, Mrs. M. L. Baker.—Reporter.

Henry Luick and his mother came up from Belmond Sunday for a visit with Klemme relatives.—Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rourk autoed to Belmond Friday to visit their daughter. Mrs. Wm. Parker and also called on Mr. Rikansrud who is at the Steele hospital recovering nicely from his recent appendicitis operation.—Reporter.

Joe Stearns and family, and Mrs. Charlie Luick and son. Lee. were at Belmond Sunday for a visit with Mrs. J. W. Brooks and Miss Lauri Brooks.—Times.

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

The people of Belmond and community are coming to our church services both morning and evening, which proves the fact that human beings are pretty much the same the world over. If you make it worth while for them they will be there. They go to the movies, to the circus, and county fairs, so will they go to church when we church people wake up to the fact that we must make our church attractive to people and give them something worth while so they will not feel like their time is wasted.

We are glad for the manifested confidence the people of Belmond are showing. We appreciate your presence. Come again and bring your neighbor with you. He will enjoy the services like you did. The Sunday services are planned with you in mind. We are expecting the largest crowd ever.

Sunday school at 9:00 a. m.
Morning worship at 11:00.
Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Evening services at 7:30.
Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Sunday morning subject: "The Spirit that Wins."

Evening subject: "The Greatest Institution in Belmond."

Special music at both services.

Come with the crowd and we will do you good. You are always welcome to our home like church.

Society

* * *

Hallowe'en Party—

The Epworth League held a Hallowe'en party in the M. E. church parlors Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in games and Hallowe'en stunts. Delicious refreshments were served and a merry time was reported by all who attended.

* * *

Idle-A-While—

The Idle-A-While club will meet with Mrs. Guy Baker next week Wednesday afternoon.

* * *

Delphian—

Mrs. H. D. Moore was hostess to the Delphian club, Monday evening. Mrs. Herman Schultz led the study of "Spencer, The Poet of the Poets", in a very interesting and capable manner.

* * *

Progress—

The ladies of the Progress club met with Mrs. J. E. Wallace, Tuesday afternoon. The study of the Gospel of St. John was led by Mrs H. F. Luick.

* * *

Priscilla—

Mrs. Rufus Morse will entertain the ladies of the Priscilla club next week Wednesday.

* * *

Kensington—

Mrs. M. D. Sullivan was hostess to the Kensington club Wednesday afternoon of this week.

* * *

Hallowe'en Party—

Four little girls, Kathrine Blake, Carol Jacobson, Evelyn Enger and Doris Parsons enjoyed a little Hallowe'en party at Kathrine's home on Wednesday afternoon, after school. They played games and had some good things to eat.

* * *

W. F. M. S.—

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. E. F. Bailey this, Thursday, afternoon.

Mrs. E. F. Bailey and Mrs. Wallace Ramsay attended the National Woman's Foreign Missionary society at Des Moines last week and part of this.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

A farmer carrying home an express package from a Chicago mail order house was accosted by a local merchant in a neighboring town: "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality." The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said: "Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here."

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid meets in the church parlor.

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the home of Nels Nelson.

Sunday morning Sunday school at the hour of 10. English service in the evening at 7:30. Come to Sunday school, Bible classes and services.

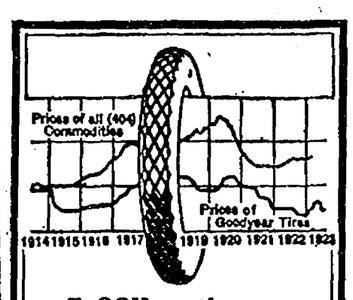
ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

English services next Sunday morning with communion at 10:30. Please bear this in mind. Come and tell your friends. The young people especially are requested to come to our English services.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The ladies of the Aid society are busy putting the finishing touches on their work for the bazaar which will be held Nov. 8th.

Sabbath school at 10 a. m. Morning worship at 11. Evening services at 7:30. We will continue our studies in the book of Romans at the evening service. Much interest has been shown in this study. Come and bring your Bibles.



LOOK at the way Goodyear Tire prices have been kept consistently lower than the average for all commodities. Then think of the improvements represented by that finest of all Goodyears, the new Goodyear Cord. Despite this, prices are 37% lower now than in 1920, and 30% lower than in 1914. This is the time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

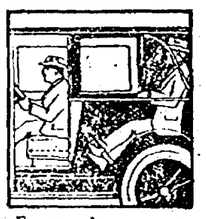
MAIL ORDER SERVICE

If you are unable to come to shop we will be pleased to send you shoes on approval. Write or phone 489, Mason City, and the shoes will follow by return mail.

WOODRUFF'S
Mason City Good Shoes

The Latest and Greatest Automobile Sensation

The new Overland Champion is the talk of the town! The low price is amazing! Probably the most useful car of all time! Features and utilities never before offered the salesman, merchant, farmer and American family:



Front and rear seats adjustable forward and backward for tall and short people.

50 cubic feet loading space is provided by removing rear seat and upholstery.

Come in today and learn about all the services and benefits of the

NEW Overland CHAMPION
$695
F.O.B. Toledo

Nordschow Motor Co.
Belmond, Iowa

CLIP THE COUPON BELOW---

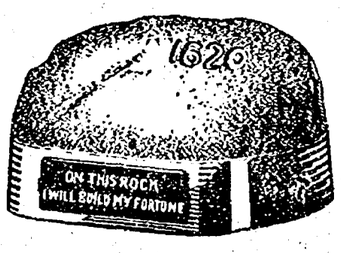
IT IS WORTH 50c

If you were handed 50c, would you take it? Certainly you would. Well, that is just what this Bank is doing—handing you and everyone in Belmond 50c when we offer the Thrift Coupon below. It has a value of 50c when brought to our Bank and presented with 50c or more in cash to start a new Savings Account.

In addition each new depositor will be supplied with a Plymouth Rock Savings Bank, a replica of that Rock on which the Pilgrims landed from the Mayflower in 1620, and which became the cornerstone of the nation. There is no better foundation for your fortune.

This Coupon and 50c Opens a $1.00 Savings Account

PLYMOUTH ROCK COUPON
WORTH 50 CENTS



Conditions
(1). $1.00 of the account must remain on deposit for one year.
(2). If a second deposit is not made within SIX MONTHS, the 50c Coupon will be deducted when the account is closed at which time the Plymouth Rock Bank must be returned.
(3). Only one account can be opened by an individual.

BELMOND SAVINGS BANK

The Belmond Savings Bank
Belmond, Iowa

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

Rev. H. Raecker and family from Abbott are visiting relatives here a few days this week.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wendel last Saturday night, but the little one did not live. The sympathy of the community goes out to this couple in being bereft of their first born.

Mrs. Albert Wendel returned from Waseca, last Sunday having driven up the Tuesday before, for a visit with relatives.

The Thomas family spent last Sunday at the Park hospital with Thelma, who is getting along as well as can be under the circumstances.

A. E. Muller left last Saturday on the midnight for a few days' visit with his mother and other relatives at Harlan.

The Misses Viola Thomas and Carrie Bode were pleasantly entertained at the Wm. Messelheiser home last Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ostendorf and granddaughter, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Hulsebus motored to Alexander last Wednesday afternoon to visit with friends. The former returned the same evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hulsbus remaining until Friday.

Mrs. Hawthorne returned to her home in Renwick last Tuesday, after visiting at the J. G. Herbster home a few days, the latter taking her home by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Thomas and their daughter, Thelma motored to Mason City last Friday to consult a doctor in regard to the swelling on Thelma's face which has caused her considerable grief the past week. She remained at the Park hospital for treatments and may be compelled to stay for some time.

F. C. Sprau and wife motored to Cedar Falls last Friday to bring Eva home for the week-end. Evelyn Thomas also returned home with them to remain until Sunday.

The Misses Irene Guth and Marie Fischer were in Mason City Thursday and Friday taking teachers' examinations.

Albert Pals, son of H. J. Pals, accompanied by his brother, Hajo and Dr. Crabb, of Mason City went to Chicago last week to consult a specialist in regard to the former's trouble brought on by an ulcerated tooth. They returned Saturday.

Miss Alma Ralston arrived home last Saturday from Wellsburg to spend her two weeks' vacation with home folks.

A. J. Nissen and son Marvin, Clarence Pals and C. Donald Muller attended the Boy Scout "Round Up" at Mason City last Friday evening.

Miss Ilene Strong, who attends I. S. T. C., at Cedar Falls, spent the week end at the H. Fischer home.

Mrs. Bier was confined to her home several days last week with a severe cold.

Mrs. Geo. Langlitz and sons Ivan and Leland were Sunday visitors at the Hans Willer home near Klemme.

Erwin Langlitz visited his uncle, Chas. Kienberger, also his sister, Mrs. A. Boller, at Goodell last Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Jurgens of Kanawha visited at the U. G. Cooper home last Tuesday.

J. G. Herbster installed a new Crosby radio set some time ago, and all are thoroly enjoying it.

Robert Smith returned from Bird Island, Minn., Saturday evening, where he had been called to the bedside of his father. He left him much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drewes and son of Fairmont, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. Claude Patton, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Shaeffer and daughter of Hampton were all guests at the Wm. Messelheiser home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wendel and Mrs. Mary Butz were Mason City callers last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Sprau motored to Cedar Falls last Tuesday in response to a phone call from their daughter Eva, who had the misfortune of losing her personal belongings in a fire which completely destroyed the house in which she was rooming.

J. G. Herbster and wife are spending their vacation with relatives at Spencer and Milford, and the Prof. may also take medical treatments at the sanatorium during part of the two weeks' vacation.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Raw fruits are especially good for desserts, both from a nutrition standpoint and the fact that little time and work is needed for their preparation.

The housewife often welcomes suggestions for desserts that need no cooking. Here are a few combinations of chilled fruit desserts which are suggested by the food specialists in the State college extension service:

Combinations:

1. Pineapple, orange, cocoanut.
2. Pineapple, cherries, strawberries.
3. Oranges, pineapple, banana, lemon juice.
4. Peaches, banana, cherries.

(Note—Always one acid fruit).

Proportions:

The fruits may be combined in equal proportions or to suit the supply. Canned or fresh fruits may be used.

Preparation:

Peel oranges so as to remove all white inner coating, as this will make the dessert bitter (dry peel to grate and use for flavoring). Scrape banana after peeling; do not combine with fruits and allo wto stand as it will darken the dessert.

Dice all fruit in uniform pieces; sweeten with syrup and allow to stand for some time before serving. The addition of cooked raisins and shredded cocoanut will lessen the amount of sugar required and will increase the nutritive value of the dessert.

Serving:

Chill and serve in individual glasses.

If silverware receives good daily care it requires little special cleaning. Do not let it remain unwashed. Use plenty of soapy water, scald and dry thoroughly to prevent tarnish.

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

TIRES

If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

FOR SALE--A few choice BIG TYPE CHESTER WHITE BOARS

Sired by some of the prize winning boars of the breed. These boars are from extra good sows and from big litters. They are eligible to registry and will be sold as guaranteed breeders if notified by January 1st. Priced reasonable. Phone 414, Meservey. 1 1-2 miles north and 1 mile west of Meservey, Iowa.

E. S. BARKER, Meservey, Iowa

HENRY H. PALS

Iowa Automatic Hog Door

Self-closing, easily opened by smallest pig, keeps hog house warm and comfortable; free from drafts; keeps the chickens out; saves on feed bill. Worth $100 to any hog raiser. Strong and substantial. Will last indefinately.

REGULAR PRICE $13.50

Special price for 30 Days

$10.00

To introduce this wonderful door to all farmers

May be seen at Klemme Lumber Co. Belmond

Write for descriptive literature to

Henry H. Pals

Meservey, Iowa

New hardwood finish for your old pine floors

Winter weather brings mud and slush that are hard on floors. Now is the best time to beautify and protect them with Acme Quality Varno-Lac. It stains and varnishes in one easy operation. Makes any pine floor look like fine oak, cherry, mahogany, etc.

ACME QUALITY

VARNO-LAC

is also recommended for refinishing furniture and woodwork. Produces beautiful reproductions of expensive woods at surprisingly low cost. Come in and see color cards of this finish.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

Save the surface and you save all

"A Perfect Alibi"

When paying bills in cash, errors are always liable to creep in---maybe you don't wait for a receipt or maybe the receipt becomes lost, stolen or destroyed.

But, when you pay your bills by check, each cancelled check serves as a "perfect alibi"--- it is positive proof of payment.

This bank cordially invites you to---

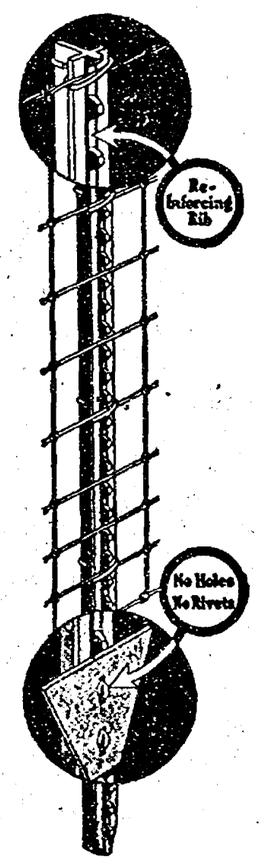
Open A Checking Account

THE LARGEST BANK IN MESERVEY

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA



QUALITY LUMBER-MILLWORK
SASH AND DOORS, ROOFING
WINDOWS
CEMENT, LIME, DRAIN TILE
BUILDING BLOCKS
FLOOR BLOCKS for Hog Houses, etc
STEEL AND CEDAR POSTS
TENN., ILL., KENTUCKY SPLINT COAL
TRY OUR BRIQETS
WOVEN WIRE, STEEL RRACES
BUILD YOUR HOG HOUSE NOW
ALL KINDS OF ROOFING the best we can buy
STORM WINDOWS AND DOORS
COMBINATION SCREEN AND STORM DOORS

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Res. Peone 17

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

"Guarantee"

Sometimes means something—Many times nothing. Here is a guarantee that means everything.

When applied to "Mother's Flour" our guarantee means that you may purchase a sack, make as many bakings as you wish n order to give it a fair trial, and, if not satisfied, your money will be returned without question or argument. We are having splendid success with this Flour. Take a sack home on this guarantee.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Brood Sow Selection Demonstration Practical

The brood sow selection demonstrations which were held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week were very interesting as well as very practical for those who had opportunity to attend. Prof. C. W. McDonald of the animal husbandry department of the extension service at Ames, spent three days conducting these demonstrations on six Wright county farms, the demonstrations being held at the Bert Siemens, A. L. Middleton, G. D. Denger, O. D. Jenison, L. W. Spencer and Harding Thomas farms.

According to Prof. McDonald, the proper type of sow to be selected is one with good stretchy body, having a long, smooth deep side. The sow should have a strong bone, standing well upon its toes and should be clean cut above the head with a trim jowl. The mammary development was stressed as this is an important point in selection of good mothers.

Many of the common diseases of swine can be remedied by sanitation and proper ventilation of the hog houses. These points were stressed at the meeting and samples were pointed out. Many helpful suggestions were given out at these demonstrations and still can be had by writing or calling at the county agent's office for the bulletins on these subjects which are for free distribution.

Corn Improvement Demonstration

On Monday and Tuesday, November 5th and 6th, Professor F. G. Churchill, of the farm crops section of the agricultural extension service at Ames, will be at Wright county to assist the county agent in conducting the demonstrations of the three corn yield experiment plots which were established last spring.

The several demonstrations will be held at the H. A. Fleet farm, 6 1-2 miles southwest of Dows, on Monday forenoon, November 5th, at 10:00 and the afternoon meeting on November 5th will be at the A. E. Martin farm, one mile northwest of Belmond at 2:00 o'clock. An all day meeting on November 6th will be held at the Harry Inners farm, 3 miles northeast of Goldfield, beginning at 9:00 o'clock.

Phosphate Experiment Results

Professor H. W. Warner of the soils section of the extension department, spent last Wednesday in Wright county checking up the results on the acid phosphate experiment plots which were established in our county this spring.

Some interesting facts have been brought out in connection with the experiments of the use of acid phosphate on our Wright county farms. It will be remembered that four experiment plots were conducted in Wright county last year, one at the H. A. Flett farm, Vernon township, one at the E. A. Patton farm, Blaine township, one at the Harry Poundstone farm, Dayton township, and another at the Bawn & Emerson farm, Troy township.

According to Professor Warner, the application of acid phosphate did not influence, materially, the yield of corn but it did affect the maturity and quality of the corn produced. A definite check was made by Mr. Warner on the Harry Poundstone farm by husking seventy-five stalks from the acid phosphate plot also seventy-five stalks from the check plot with the result that the corn which had been grown on the treated plot showed corn which had been matured better and was of a much better quality.

Arrangements have been made to continue these acid phosphate demonstrations next year on the same farms mentioned and a definite check will be kept on the influence of the acid phosphate on next year's crop.

Corn Prices

There has been a great deal of speculation and prediction as to what the corn market will be in the future. The market has taken an upward tendency for the past 30 days and it is generally believed the corn will bring $1.00 per bushel on the local markets sometime during 1924.

There are two conditions that have helped bring this about. The reserve of old corn on the farms is the lightest it has been in ten years. The new crop is going into empty cribs and a good percentage of the new crop is already consumed by hogs and cattle. The corn producer is at present in a strong position. But not until the corn is marketed will the farmer be benefited. The present 80-90 cent corn prices are not helping the farmer's economic condition for the reason that he has no corn to sell, but, should the price of the ne wcrop continue to be near the $1.00 mark, the Iowa farmer will be put on a more sound economic basis, which will reflect itself immediately in the business world. The prices of hogs and cattle should remain high as well, in order to hold up the grain market. The grain farmer must credit the cattle and hog feeder for the favorable corn market situation. Without the extensive feeding which has been going on the past two years, our grain market would still be in a very demoralized condition.

State Wide Debate

Every township should include in the winter's program the State Wide Debate. The question: Resolved "That a state board of assessment and review, county assessors, local budget board should be provided by law" is one which should attract the attention and close study of every tax-payer in Iowa. High taxes are a common topic for discussion. Promises for remedies are often heard but a program of lower taxes is still being sought by the average taxpayer. Posibly there is a way out. At any rate we are all agreed that we should welcome a system of taxation whereby many now escaping partially or wholly the tax burden could be made to pay their just share. Farm lands and personal property such as livestock cannot be hidden from the eyes of the assessor. It is common knowledge that other forms of wealth does escape taxation in many cases. If a new system will uncover some of the intangible property now escaping, it will be well worth discussion of the question at the meetings and we will all learn.

Mr. Stacey, who has charge of community development work sets out three main reasons for carrying on the state wide debates. 1st. To give a large number of persons training in debating and logical thinking. 2nd. To provide for a thorough and extensive study of one of the leading, and in many ways one of the most important problems confronting the people of Iowa. And 3rd. To provide a means on constructive rivalry among local rural organizations.

We urge every community club or township organization to take up the question. The Farm Bureau office has some splendid material that may be used. We hope each township chairman will start a contest and select a team for his township.

Sowing Seed Corn

The last three or four years have been so favorable for the careless man to get good seed without effort that we are afraid we are about due for another seed corn famine. The corn this year is full of moisture and should we get a heavy freeze the germinating qualities would be greatly reduced. Corn for seed should be picked and stored where the moisture will be rapidly taken out before freezing weather comes. It pays to pick and store corn for seed.

THE SCHOOL LUNCH

Suggestions for Sandwich Filling

Good bread is the basis of the lunch. The bread may be varied from time to time, graham, oatmeal, nut bread, etc. Meat, cheese, hard cooked eggs, dried fruits and nuts are easier to handle and to digest if finely ground. Lettuce can be used to good advantage whenever possible.

HARD COOKED EGGS: Eggs minced seasoned with salt, pepper and little butter: Eggs minced seasoned with salad dressing; Eggs minced moistened with salad dressing; Eggs minced with spinach or chopped parsley; Eggs thinly sliced on lettuce leaf; Eggs and olives or small amount of pickles chopped together; Eggs minced with sardines; Scrambled eggs; Eggs and ham or bacon chopped together; Eggs minced with chopped nuts; Eggs and veal minced together.

CHEESE: To cream cheese, grate and add some liquid and work together until of creamy consistency and soft enough to spread.

Creamed cheese—moisten with cream; Creamed cheese—moisten with tomato juice; Creamed cheese—moisten with salad dressing; Creamed cheese—with chopped olives or pickle; Creamed cheese—with chopped nuts; Creamed cheese—with pimento: Cheese creamed with butter, seasoned; Grated cheese moistened with cream; Grated cheese and spinach; Cottage cheese with or without ground nuts.

NUTS AND FRUITS: ; Chopped nuts with dates, raisins or figs (run nuts and fruits together through a meat grinder); Crushed peanuts moistened with cream or salad dressing; Banana sliced thin and sprinkled with nuts; Chopped nuts moistened with salad dressing or cream: Apple and celery chopped fine moistened with salad dressing; Peanut butter moistened with milk, cream or salad dressing; Peanut butter and apple sauce; Raisins stewed with sugar and small amount of water until thick; Marmalade.

FOOLING THE FARMER

By Abe Martin
(In Farm and Fireside)

Joe Pino, cannydate fer county treasurer, had his thumb pinched off in a clover huller last week while bein' photergraphed as a farmer. Posin' as farmers is now all th' rage longst cannydates. It used t'be when a feller wuz runnin' fer some office an' drove out in th' country t' line up th' farmers he'd let his beard grow fer a couple o' weeks, put on a ole suit o' clothes an' leave his toothbrush at home, but t'day cannydates depend almost entirely on newspaper pictures. They git photergraphed sittin' on ridin' plows an' cultivators, an' pitchin' hay, an' milkin' cows, an' churnin', an' weanin' calves, an' shuckin' corn. Lafe Bud bought a pair o' milkin' jumpers an' a bottle o' cows' ease an' a sprayer recently, an' allows t' git in the race fer sheriff. We saw a picture of a congressman milkin' a cow on th' wrong side not long ago, an' t'day we read where he'd decided not t' make th' race fer reelection, an' is suin' th' photergrapher. Artie Small, o' th' Alfalfa Trust Company, bought a pair o' big, wide, striped galluses, an' th' clerk said, "Artie, hain't galluses somethin' new fer you?" An he replied, "Yep, but I'm thinkin' o' makin' th' race fer county commissioner." We don't believe farmers care what business a cannydate follers if they think he's got intestines enough t' run his office fer all th' people regardless o' politicians. Tell Binkley got photergraphed milkin' once when he wuz after th' farmer vote fer county recorder, an' we heard Jake Bentley remark, "Well if he likes that sort o' stuff he hain't fit fer office." An' Jake's a milker. It' th' farmer's ambition t' git above milkin' some day, so we don't believe it helps office seekers t' be allus hangin' around cows. Ther's gittin' t' be almost enough cannydates fer this an' that t' solve th' farm-help problem, if they would work like the'r pictures show 'em. We saw a dozen of 'em thrashin' last week. Cannydates fer office seem t' think they have t' fool th' middle classes, but they never try t' put anything over on th' moneyed element, an' we've never seen one photergraphed layin' brick or plasterin.' But th' funniest thing, an' th' newest an' most original stunt t' fool th' farmer we've seen yet, wuz when Leslie Moots, canny-date fer Congress, had himself photergraphed at th' Peoples Bank in th' act o' borrowin' money.

THEY GUESSED IT RIGHT

When the U. S. entered the world war, the people of Patterson, Iowa, erected a flag pole in a conspicuous place in the little town. The day of the pole raising, a number of young men in the community, enlisted in the army. Among them were Russell Salisbury and Joseph Downs. Each of these two boys wrote his name in the soft cement at the base of the flag pole and thereunder, inscribed in a playful manner "killed in France." When the cement dried it left the names and inscriptions conspicuously displayed. The boys were sent to France, and on the night of May 26th, 1918, both of them were killed in battle. When the news of their death reached Patterson, the inscription in the cement at the foot of the flag pole became sacred and care was taken that the base be protected. Early this fall, the slab of concrete bearing the inscription was carefully removed and worked into a monument eight feet long and eight feet high. On Sunday afternoon, October 7th, 2,000 people participated in the dedication of the monument. The names of the boys and their fate in France, in their own handwriting, will carry a deep impression to the people of that community through the passing years.

THIS IS A DEEP ONE

Boss: Sambo, what were you doing yesterday, that you didn't come to work?

Sambo: Well, sah, it's lak dis: You knows, Ah got a brudder dat fahms foh himsef. Dat boy done went to a sale and bought hisself an old well, an' yest'day he hiahed me to chop it up into post holes.

PLAYING SAFE

The stock salesman, after painting a beautiful word picture, said: "Now, Mr. Jones, you know this company hasn't got a dollar's worth of watered stock in it. How much are you going to buy?"

"Young man," he said, "the next stock I buy is going to have four legs, and I will water it myself."

The Independent can give you the best of service on your farm sale advertising. Let us figure with you. Eighty per cent of the farm sales are advertised in the Independent.

Save One-Third of the Coal!

That is exactly what the new style Cole's Wood-Coal heaters will do, because they have---

---oval cast fire pots with duplex grates.

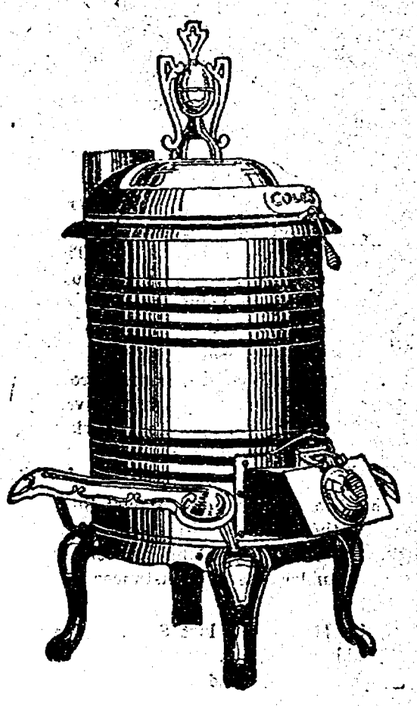
---all doors milled to an air tight point and accurately fitted by hand.

---heavy guage polished bodies.

---double seamed air-tight bottoms.

---heavy steel linings from top of fire pot to top of stove.

---and to be more convenient, a large removable ash pan.



All Sizes At

GRIESY'S

Phone 10

Belmond, - Iowa

Our Big Family Offer!

By special arrangements with the various publishers, the Belmond Independent is able to offer its readers this exceptional opportunity to save money on their reading matter for the coming year. Each publication is a leader in its class and the entire combination fits the needs of the average family at a price you can afford to pay. Remember, even though your subscription to this newspaper hasn't expired, it's economy to RENEW NOW as all renewal subscriptions will be extended from date of present expiration. Don't pass up this opportunity---send your order TODAY.

Farm & Fireside--

the great national farm journal, is known the nation over for its practical, sensible ideas and articles on farm problems. It is crammed with money-making and money-saving ideas for the man who tills the soil. Every issue contains numerous articles by the foremost agriculturalists of the country, dealing with farm problems, crops, stock, poultry, dairying, household hints, gardening, and scores of other branches of farm life. Any one issue is worth more than the subscription price. It is as interesting to the town dweller as the farmer with its all-round, practical departments, articles, and good fiction.

PEOPLE'S POPULAR MONTHLY

has long been known and recognized as the magazine of home and community service. Serial and short stories with beautiful colored illustrations are a decided feature of this magazine. Receipes form an important feature. Each month, house plans, community entertainments, needle-work, patterns, gardening, all profusely illustrated, make it possible to render a service to those living in the rural districts and small towns, through the columns of this great publication. You can have this service free as a subscriber to this great magazine of the Middle West.

TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE

is a journal for the lady of the home. It is among the best known women's magazines published in America, filled with hints for the housewife. Sewing, fancy work, cooking, canning, styles, the best class of fiction, authoritative articles dealing with problems of the home, this magazine will be one of your favorites after you receive it. A magazine of real human interest and a good periodical to have around the home for the young folks.

This Big Family Offer Is Limited To December 1, 1923. After that date we will be forced to withdraw it. Send the coupon NOW!

Remember--- All for Only $2.45

THESE Three High Class Magazines Without the Belmond Independent may be had for $1.85. With the Belmond Independent, either new or renewal subscription, you get them for Only 45 Cents.

Belmond Independent's Big Family Offer!

Farm & Fireside
Today's Housewife
People's Popular Monthly
BELMOND INDEPENDENT
(Either new or renewal)

All Four for Only $2.45 Regular Price $3.85

You Get All FOUR Publications one year by returning this Coupon and $2.45. Order NOW and make this Big Saving!

Belmond Independent,
Belmond, Iowa.

Gentlemen: I am returning this coupon with $2.45 for which I am to receive the Big Family Offer as listed above.

My Name Is _____ Town _____

Street or R. F. D. _____ State _____

ROWAN NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kunz of Forest City visited last week with their daughter, Mrs. Earl Patton. They left Thursday for LuVerne to visit a short time before going on to their home.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. G. Gunderson last Wednesday, Oct. 24, a fine baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jennings were over from Clarion several evenings last week. Mr. Jennings gave demonstrations of the Wear-Ever aluminum ware.

Mrs. G. W. Whitten has been quite ill with pleurisy the past week.

Theo. Harson arrived last Tuesday from Pontiac, Ill., to visit his brothers, Harry and Ray. From here he went to Ft. Dodge to spend a short time before returning to Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantle, Mrs. Earl Jacobs and Mrs. Blanch Jennings returned Wednesday from their Illinois trip.

Cliff Snow is suffering severely with an attack of pleuro pneumonia. He is staying at the G. W. Whitten home. At this writing he is improving very slowly.

Will Grant came over from Goldfield, Saturday, returning Sunday. Mrs. Grant, who has been visiting at the R. H. Keith home, returned with him.

Word from Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pollard at Twin Falls, Idaho, states that their baby is quite ill. Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Braden, who have been in Highmore, S. D., departed by auto Saturday for Twin Falls so that Mrs. Braden could assist in caring for the child.

John Nelson, who has been staying with his son, Edwin, went to Hampton. Thursday, to visit his son, Julian, until Saturday. From there he went to Mason City to take the train for Sacred Heart, Minn., where he will stay with a daughter until the holidays, when he intends to return to Rowan.

Mrs. J. F. Howell and children arrived Friday for a week end visit at the Edgar Bingham home, and with other relatives.

W. W. Bailey S., accompanied his brother-in-law, Elias Fuller, to Iowa Falls to visit relatives last Friday. They returned Saturday, and Mr. Fuller started Sunday evening for his home in Canada.

County Atty. Jensen of Belmond was in Rowan on business Saturday.

Ed. Miller of Clarion was over last Saturday. His granddaughter, Miss Garnette Stumph, returned home to spend the week end with him.

Miss Evelyn Hethershaw, who is employed at Hotel Moore in Clarion, visited at the Chas. Emerson home Friday.

Misses Ruth Emerson and Frances Virden went to Mt. Vernon, Friday, to see Miss May Virden, who is attending college. They came home Monday.

The Juniors and Seniors were entertained last Thursday evening at the Jake Aldinger home. The evening was spent in playing Hallowe'en games and stunts.

Mrs. Gail Cundall from Galt called at the Rev. C. T. Halbert home on Saturday.

Neis Hanse was called to Des Moines last Friday on account of the serious illness of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Harry Fox. Mrs. Hanson has been there caring for her for some time.

Wm. Baines of Montgomery, spent last week with relatives, returning to his home Monday of this week.

William Shaffer came up from Anamosa Saturday to spend the week-end with his aunt, Miss Nora Shaffer and other relatives.

Mr. Theo. Hansen has had the glass which was broken out of the store front recently replaced, and has placed in front of his window the sign "No Parking Here," so please do not park your car on the side walk in front of Mr. Hansen's store.

The Misses Boyd, Towner and Nabholtz were Ft. Dodge shoppers last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Whitten came up from Tama Saturday and moved their household goods to that place the first of this week. Floyd is very much pleased with his new position at Tama.

The Les Andrews, Wm. Bailey Jr. and Perle LaGues families and Mrs. Esther Andrews autoed to Cherokee last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval and Chas. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitten and Billie, and Mrs. J. F. Howell, Clara Jane and Johnnie, of Des Moines were entertained at Sunday dinner at the W. G. Bingham home.

Mrs. J. D. Hinckley, of Lanesboro, Iowa, spent the week-end with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Toyne.

The Epworth League held their regular monthly social at the M. E. basement, Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in playing games. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

L. D. Bingham and Ray Williams drove up from Iowa Falls Friday to spend the week-end.

Mrs. Laura Weyant and daughter, Violet, of Lincoln, Nebraska, and Mrs. Della Christie, of Goodell spent Thursday at the S. B. Heath home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval and Mrs. O. E. Ballou and LaVonne autoed to Webster City Wednesday to do shopping and visit at the Mrs. Wright Letts home.

Almond Drury and family, from Dows spent Sunday at the Frank Drury home.

The Congregational Ladies' Missionary Society meets Thursday of this week with Mrs. O. E. Ballou. The lesson is on China, with Mrs. R. H. Keith as leader.

Harold Snow, who came up from Reinbeck, with his uncle to assist in moving their household goods from Goldfield to Reinbeck, returned to his home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harris and Leland came down from Thornton, Sunday, to spend the day with E. R. Harris and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval were Belmond callers last Wednesday.

The Iowa Township Farm Bureau members will hold a Hallowe'en social at the Lyle Hall home, Friday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson and children and Hubbard McCallum of Mason City were Sunday guests at the R. Virden home. The Robinsons returned Sunday evening. Mr. McCallum remained for a longer visit.

Mrs. R. H. Keith entertained the members of the school orchestra at a Hallowe'en party on Monday evening.

Mrs. Waite Reading and son and daughter and his mother, Mrs. M. M. Reading of Churdan visited the first of the week with his sister, Mrs L. R. Fitz.

Mrs. N. F. Easton, Mr. and and Mrs. Albert Fetrow and son Rex, James Easton and his lady friend, Tillie Coy, of Belmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval were Sunday guests at the Fred Kercheval home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Brooks, Mrs. C. W. Fowler and Mrs. Ben Hadley autoed to Des Moines last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tabor, Miss Mabel Tabor, and Mrs. Bonnie Taylor of Clarion, Miss Nellie Pierce of Belmond, Mrs. J. F. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James Rowen, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rowen, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bingham were entertained at six o'clock dinner Saturday evening at the Rowen brothers home, in honor of John Rowen, the occasion being his birthday. The guests spent the evening.

The Misses Minnie Aldinger, Ruth Emerson, Izetta Fletcher, Frances Farran and Lillian Azeltine were in Clarion the latter part of the week taking part of the teachers examinations.

F. B. Sheldon returned Friday from Des Moines.

Several from here attended the Sunday school convention held last Sunday p. m. at the M. E. church in Latimer.

The state game warden from Des Moines was in town Friday on official business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baines and son, Darrell, of Dows, were Sunday callers at the A. F. Cowley home and at the Mrs. Haniah Whitten home.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m. Sunday school at 10. Divine worship at 11. Epworth League at 6:30 p. m. Evening service at 7:30.

The Ladies Aid will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed. Azeltine for a work meeting. All members are urged to attend.

MIGHT BE MISUNDERSTOOD

While the conductor was on top collecting fares a flurried passenger wishing to alight, got up from her seat and rang the bell—twice.

Then evidently she remembered that a single ring was the signal for stopping the bus, so she gave another tug at the bell.

Just then the driver applied the brake, causing the passenger to swerve forward. To save herself from falling she made a clutch at the rail overhead, missed it and caught the bell rope, causing the bell to ring again.

The conductor, who by this time had descended the steps, regarded her quizzically.

"Look here, madam," he said. "If you keep on ringing that bell my mate'll think I'm trying to play 'Home, Sweet Home,' and, like enough, he'll turn round and make for the garage."

GOODELL NEWS

A. D. White left for Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, Tuesday to receive treatment.

Mrs. Ray Woods, of Marshalltown, visited last week at the home of her mother; Mrs. Africa.

The Intermediate room will give a Hallowe'en program on Wednesday morning.

Edith Sandberg, Thora Carpenter and Mrs. Hanson spent Tuesday with Mrs. Harry Carpenter.

Mesdames Christenson and Ahrenkiel were entertained to a six o'clock dinner Wednesday evening at the Savogue home in honor of Mrs. Africa's three daughters who are visiting here.

Mrs. Sandberg, Edith, Mrs. Ahrenkiel, Ina, Mrs. Hanson visited Wednesday in the country with Mrs. Leo Ahrenkiel.

Harry Ruka has been in Rochester to undergo an examination.

Bernice Butts resigned her duties as primary teacher, Tuesday. We are sorry that Miss Butts must give up her work in the school but all are hoping for a speedy recovery from her illness.

Friends in Goodell will be interested in hearing that word has been received announcing the marriage of Ruth Jenkins, a former primary teacher.

Mrs. Graeber and Mrs. Hanson were Belmond callers Thursday.

Warner Butts and Mrs. Wesenberg went to Rochester Wednesday by auto to bring Miss Bernice home who has been receiving treatment there. Warner returned Thursday while Mrs. Wesenberg and Bernice came by train Thursday evening.

The Will Deiger family visited Mrs. Chris Deiger at Hampton last Thursday.

Mesdames Beier and Graeber were Klemme and Garner callers, Wednesday.

Miss Cline, of Des Moines came Wednesday to fill the vacancy in the primary room. She is living at the Robert McNutt home.

An interesting farm bureau gathering was held in Avery Center school house Wednesday evening.

Evelyn Johnson, of Belmond visited at Lewis Johnson's, Wednesday.

Ralph Jenison and Hubbard families were entertained at the Will Heginger home Wednesday evening, the occasion being Mr. Hubbard's birthday.

Mary Nolan spent the week-end with Mrs. Tony Boller.

J. D. Houghton's and Joseph Houghton's, of Kanawha were entertained Sunday at D. W. Coulan's.

Miss Ina Ahrenkiel left Friday for an extended visit in Cedar Rapids with Louisa and other friends. She will also visit Rev. Miller's at Olin.

The four divisions of the Ladies' aid are holding numerous meetings getting their things ready for the bazaar. Don't fail to see their line-up, November 17th in the church basement. A supper will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson autoed to Thompson Friday evening. On Saturday they and the Nelson's went on to Hartland, Minnesota to visit relatives over Sunday.

Carl Sandberg was an over Sunday visitor at his home.

The 1st division of the Ladies' Aid held a supper Thursday evening. They realized about $25, the crowd being small on account of the farmers being so busy.

The Goodell teachers are planning to attend the State Convention at Des Moines this week.

Miss Hill spent the week-end with her parents at Clarion.

The Earl Clark family and Grandma McNutt, of Garner were over Sunday guests at Frank McNutt's.

Warner Butts visited Sunday at Belmond.

Will Schlichting's were Hampton callers Wednesday. Mrs. Lowden, who has been in the hospital was able to return home with them.

Mrs. Rev. Thompson returned Friday from her visit at her mother's in the southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Graeber spent Sunday with friends in Kanawha.

Francis Cashman came Friday for a visit with his parents.

The Progressive Club held a meeting Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cook. A very enjoyable musical program was rendered, which was prepared by Mrs. Cook. Refreshments were served.

Mesdames Stockwell and Eldred, of Sheldon, who have been visiting at Africa's, left Sunday to visit relatives at Clear Lake before returning home.

Our country teachers in this vicinity closed their fall terms Friday. Many of them marked the close by spending part of the afternoon with a short program and giving the children a lunch.

Frank Rhode's, of Klemme were guests at Eliza Cashman's, Sunday.

The Thomas McNulty family, of Belmond visited Sunday with Frank McNulty's.

The Snearly and Heginger families autoed to Clear Lake Sunday evening.

Henry Africa's, of Kanawha, were entertained to supper Sunday at the Savogue home.

Maude Griggs spent last week with relatives east of town.

Little Leland Jenison, of Belmond, is spending a few days this week with his grandparents, Sandberg's.

Mrs. Lorene Gilpin Weyant and daughter, Violet, of Lincoln, Nebraska, spent last week with Whites and other friends in Goodell. They were residents of this place 46 years ago.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son, Frederick, and Agnes Stoffer visited at the home of Mrs. Fred Frohling in Belmond last Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Peters and daughters were callers at Dows last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bohlen and their daughter, Viola, of Sac City, were visiting with relatives here the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughter, Nellie, were callers at Dows on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Green and daughters, Harriet and Agnes, from Hampton, were visitors at Alexander several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder and daughter, Virginia Ruth, of Hampton, were visitors at the Nels Larsen home several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Latham left Friday for Hood River, Ore., where they expect to spend the winter.

Claas Symens was a business caller at Belmond last Saturday.

Mrs. Louie Peters and daughters, and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and son, were callers at Iowa Falls, Saturday.

Miss Harriet Lee, Red Cross nurse was a caller in town, Monday.

Mrs. Louie Peters was a Belmond caller Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Webb, of Belmond, visited at the C. Symens home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Raisch, Clarence Raisch and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raisch and son, Gerald, of Dumont, were Sunday visitors at the John Bell home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Penning from Ackley visited with relatives here a few days the past week.

Mrs. Carl Bohlen was a business caller at Dows one day last week.

Miss Jessie Bernard of Gilman was an over Sunday guest at the A. M. Butler home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bell of Waterloo visited with relatives here last week.

W. P. Aldinger visited with his people at Hampton last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Butler, accompanied by Miss Jessie Bernard, were Sunday visitors at Eagle Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ammerman spent Sunday at the Dick Van Horn home at Dumont.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Beenen attended church at Belmond, Sunday evening.

Alexander M. E. Church Notes

Preaching at 9:30 a. m. each Sunday. Sabbath school at 10:30. If you are not attending services at these hours elsewhere, we extend a hearty invitation to all to be with us each Sunday.

Rev. J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

Have you heard him preach? It is worth while. Come and be convinced.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Freight, daily	11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily,	2:10 p. m.

Going South

Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily	11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

WOULD SEEM SO

The dear old gentlman got into conversation with a young man.

"And what is your job, sir," he asked, "if I may make so bold as to inquire?"

"I travel in underwear," was the reply.

"How curious!" said the old man, rubbing his spectacles. "And—er—what a cold job it must be in the winter."

TUNE IN FOR

Willard STORAGE BATTERIES

RADIO PROGRAM

WTAM Cleveland

BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

WRIGLEY'S

After Every Meal

Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.

Aids digestion.
Allays thirst.
Soothes the throat.

For Quality, Flavor and the Sealed Package, get

GIVING THIS FIRM A CHANCE TO HANDLE YOUR CREAM, EGGS AND POULTRY DOES NOT INVOLVE TAKING ONE YOURSELF.

WE CAN SERVE YOU WELL AND MAKE YOU MONEY ON THE PRODUCE SOLD TO US. TRY US.

White Produce Co.

Belmond Phone 272 — Goodell Phone 21

Winter Is Here!

WE have everything in the auto line to make winter driving a pleasure. The first thing to consider is your comfort. For this we have closed cars in the Buick and Chevrolet---also in the Oldsmobile---the latest General Motors creation. For the closed bodies as well as the open bodies we have heaters and nice warm robes.

The next thing to consider is your motor. It does the work and requires lots of attention in cold weather. For this we have Mobiloil, Deep Rock gasoline and denatured alcohol.

The next thing to consider is your battery. It saves your back, but has a hard time existing in the winter time as your motor gets stiff and hard to turn over. For this we have Imperial Primers which will start your motor instantly, therefore saving your battery.

Next we will have steam heated storage room for you. This is the thing to do to keep your car in a warm place and save depreciation to a minimum.

Then if your tires are bad try one of our Goodyear tires. They are good.

Also we have some good used cars for sale cheap. One Ford fruck.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Buick and Chevrolet Sales and Service

WHEN THE COWS COME HOME—THEY MAY BE FACE POWDER!

(From Farm and Fireside)

When you take that calf, sheep, or pig to market you may think you've seen the last of it, but—who knows!

Perhaps you, like I, have wondered where the packers found grounds for the statement that they sell meat at a loss—that their profit comes through the by-products, I decided to investigate. What I learned has given me a better insight into the great industry that takes our livestock on to the consumer millions.

When you bring candy home to the kiddies they may eat part of the calf they fed for the club contest. Sugar, glucose, flavoring, and coloring are not the only things in the eandy. Oleostearin, used as a filler for the cheaper grades of chocolate, taffies, and chewing gum, comes from the caul or kidney fat of a steer.

Dynamite is a by-product of your farm, via the packer. Your wife crochets dainty bits of filet work with a needle made from the shinbone of a steer. The doctor prescribes medicine that smells of pepsin from a pig's stomach.

Years ago the packers threw away all of the offal. Even ox tails, pig tails, snouts, livers, pigs' feet, hearts, and other parts of cattle, hogs, and sheep, which now are sold for a good price, were given to employees or dumped. Along about 1869 it was discovered that glue could be made of the bones. Somebody discovered the fertilizing volue of dried blood.

Other means of turning this enormous waste into money followed. In 1875 the Appert process enabled the packers to can meats, and then the oleomargarine industry came into life, using the more delicate grades of leaf tallow which had been of little use. Today the oleo industry is a giant.

Work of experimenting is still going on, though it is said the packers waste nothing, not even the breath of the stock nor the squeal of pigs. The squeal is heard by visitors—that's advertising. The breath of the animals is used to heat the buildings. Efficiency to a fine point.

You get a few cents a pound for your lambs, and yet these animals yield a substance called supraenalin, a powerful astringent and heart stimulant worth more than $5,000 a pound! This valuable medicine comes from glands above the kidneys. It takes a lot of lambs to weigh a pound, though.

A big part of the blood of each animal is saved, and, after passing government inspection, is made into sausage. The residue is cooked and ground up for calf food. Some goes to tanners for putting the bright finish on leather. Blood which doesn't pass the test is used for fertilizer.

When cattle are slaughtered, the feet are severed at the knee. The hoof is cut off, and the shinbone softened by steam, split open, and pressed into cakes. Stamping machine make combs, buttons, umbrella handles, napkin rings, and many other articles from these plates or cakes.

Hoofs of sheep are used for glue. The pelt is salted, and the wool pulled from the skin, which is made into leather. Hog bristles are used to make brushes. Fine hair in the ears of cattle is made into hair brushes and brushes for artists.

Those fine soft cushions you have in your automobile and nice matresses on your beds are stuffed with the switches of long hair from the tails of cattle.

A delicate grade of gelatin is prepared from the pates of calves. It was formerly used to clarify beer, and now to give body to ice cream.

Medicines are made from the glands, ox galls, and gallstones. The gall is used in mixing water colors, inks, and paints, and is an ingredient of varnish. It also has a soapy quality which is valuable for scouring wool and carpets. Part of it is put into tablet form as medicine.

Bladders and intestines are mostly used as sausage casings, but certain of the finer grades of intestines are cured, and used as caps on milady's perfume bottles. Gold beaters use sheets of intestines between the sheets of gold, so they can hammer the metal to any thinness without fear of perforating it.

Brewers used to use some of the intestines for lining beer pipes, so the fluid wouldn't be contaminated by the metal.

The music of the violin, ukulele, and many other stringed instruments couldn't be enjoyed if there weren't intestines with which to make the strings. You may enjoy "jazzin'" around more by remembering that you are dancing to the tunes of a steer's innards.

Dances are made possible partly by the livestock on your farm. The clothes you wear at the dance may be of sheep's wool; the dancing pumps are provided by the steer or calf, the music by the intestines of a steer, and the meal that tops off the evening contains a generous portion of meat.

And when after the dance you enter your car, kindly remember that the cones of the car are hardened by a process which involves the use of case-hardening bone. All in all, few of us appreciate how much we owe the cattle, hogs, and sheep for enjoyment and necessities.

The lard from hogs enables Mother to make the pies and biscuits that put to shame bakery and restaurant imitations. Almost fifty medical preparations are made from glands and membranes. Some of the names are a yard long and almost unpronounceable, so I won't repeat any of them—especially as they are hard to spell. However, it is interesting to know that the thyroids of sheep are used in many cases to cure idiocy in children. Rennet is used in the manufacture of medicine and is very important in the making of cheese. It takes 15,000 cattle to make one pound of a medicine known as pineal substance. It is made from the pineal gland, which is about the size of a pea.

Soap-making is an important part of the packing industry. Some sixty kinds of toilet, laundry, and industrial soaps are made from the by-products of livestock. Washing powders, tooth paste, face cream, and smelling salts are some more of the many things that have their origin in the packing house, though it's hard to connect them with the world-famous odor of the Chicago stockyards.

Glue comes from Packingtown also. Bones, horses, and hoofs are used in making it. Glue has a by-product all its own, for when the stickiness is extracted from the hoofs of the animals the residue yields the neat's-foot oil which we use to soften leather and harness, and water-proof our shoes in winter.

After everything that can be put to a special use has been extracted from the offal of the hogs, cattle and sheep, what is left goes into the fertilizer and tankage which the packers sell back to the farmer.

That's why I say you may think you have seen the last of your stock when you take it to market, but—who knows!

FORD ADDS ANOTHER LINE OF MANUFACTURING

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—Because outside manufacturers failed to meet specifications for wire used in winding armatures of starter generators used on Ford cars, the Ford Motor Company has itself gone into the wire manufacturing business. This new industry at the Highland Park plant, though not yet in full production, is at present turning out every day some seventy miles of fine insulated copper wire.

The making of 6,500 generator units daily calls for the absolute standardization of parts, particularly wire size. If the wire winding on the armatures is slightly off size, or if the insulating cover is a bit thick or irregular, either the winding will not fit in the armature segments or lower generator efficiency will result.

So, with outside wire not giving full satisfaction, the company determined to make its own and improvements and simplification of standard wire making machinery have placed this plant ahead of almost any others in quality and economy.

One interesting drawing operation is where the wire passes thorugh eight diamonds each reducing the size a few thousandths of an inch. The cost of each diamond may run as high as $300 and it takes several days of continuous drilling with diamond dust in order to pierce once. They can be used about six months without appreciable wear.

Cotton, used for the wire covering, is also made by the company and is spun from fine cotton imported from England.

The new wire, which in every way meets the high standards of Ford manufacture, has brought a general improvement in the production of starter generators.

All major decisions covering the construction of the Ford Motor Company's plant to be erected along the Mississippi river between Minneapolis and St. Paul have been made and details just announced here give the first information regarding the magnitude of the new Ford project.

Hydro-electric plant, steam plant and manufacturing and assembly plant constitute the three important buildings with interest centering chiefly about the hydro-electric development since it represents the company's most extensive undertaking of this kind.

The dam where the power will be developed is 574 feet long and was completed by the government in 1917. When the Ford engineers started work it was discovered that modification of the power house substructure built by the government was necessary in order to take advantage of improvements since made in water wheel design. More than 6,000 feet of concrete work was torn out and the changes are now nearly completed. They will permit installation of modern turbines and besides improving flow conditions will effect the highest efficiency.

The power house will be 160 feet long by 74 feet wide and 48 feet above the foundation. Four water wheels of 4,500 horse-power will be installed, which, in conjunction with four vertical generators will under normal conditions produce approximately 18,000 horse power.

Within a short distance of the hydro-electric plant, and on the river bank, it also is planned to erect a steam power house to supplement the water power in case of emergency.

The immense manufacturing and assembly plant will be erected on an imposing site on the bluff 100 feet above the water level. It will front on the Mississippi River Boulevard and will be faced with stone on three sides and so designed as to present a most attractive appearance.

The building will be one-story high, 1,720 feet long and 600 feet wide and will have more than 1,000,000 square feet or 23 acres of floor space.

Railroad tracks will, of course, enter the building, but a transportation feature will be two tunnels leading underneath the factory from a river dock to elevators which will carry freight directly into the building. This anticipates a new era of river transportation on the Mississippi.

Special attention will be given to landscaping and general improvement of the grounds in the company's 187-acre tract so that all will blend harmoniously with the surrounding parkway development.

SHINE-SHOCKED

Policeman Dugan found his friend Murphy shine-shocked and leaning against a lamp post.

"Shure, Mike," said Dugan, "you better be takin' a street car home."

"'Sno (hic) use," answered Mike; "she wouldn't have it in the house."

KURTZ DAIRY

Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Save 4 per cent

On the Money You Spend for

Meats and Groceries

Our stock is complete and new.

CASH MARKET

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Stenography Banking
Salesmanship
Telegraphy
ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES

Educate for Success. Position for each graduate Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Write for free catalog.

Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

RUPTURE

EXPERT COMING TO MASON CITY

Will Give Free Demonstration

On Monday, November 12

Hanford Hotel

From 10:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M.

ONE DAY ONLY

They Come Many Miles To See Him

On above date C. R. Redlich, the noted rupture appliance expert, will give a free personal demonstration on his latest appliances to relieve ruptures at once and permanently.

Persons with ruptures should not delay, but promptly avail themselves of this chance, because postponement, neglect or an ill-fitting, old style truss always turns a mild and easily relieved case into a troublesome, even dangerous one, necessitating surgical operation.

Large and difficult cases are especially invited and should come at once and be convinced of the immediate relief obtained by the use of these different and superior appliances.

If you have been suffering personal discomfort and are unable to work, do not fail to call. Remember that demonstration will be free on above date only and that his appliances are different and superior to others.

Home Office: 335 Boston Block Minneapolis, Minn.

Bank With Us By Mail

DURING THE COLD, STORMY WINTER MONTHS A TRIP TO TOWN OFTEN MEANS DISCOMFORT AND EVEN HARDSHIP.

BUT YOUR BANKING BUSINESS NEED NOT BE DELAYED ON THIS ACCOUNT. YOU CAN BANK WITH THE STATE BANK OF BELMOND BY MAIL.

YOU WILL FIND IT CONVENIENT TO MAKE DEPOSITS BY MAIL AND SEND CHECKS BY LETTER,—IT IS ALSO ENTIRELY SAFE.

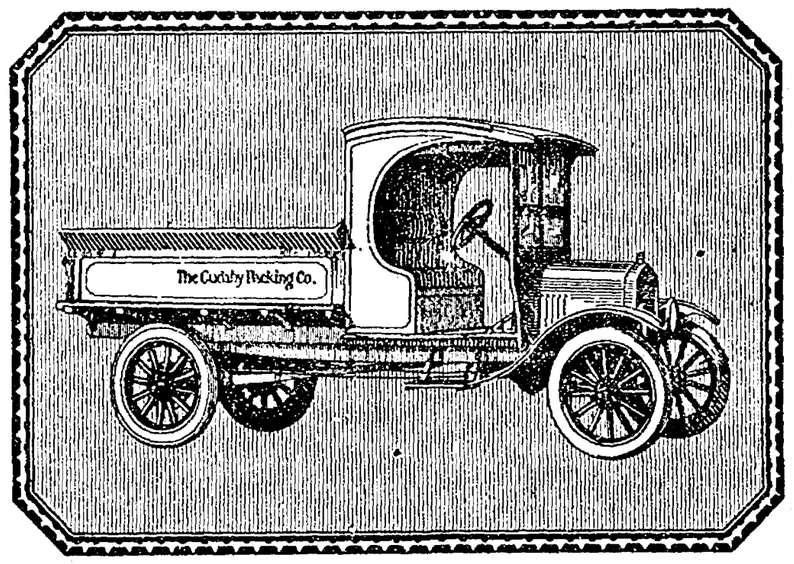
COME IN AND ASK US TO EXPLAIN HOW SIMPLE AND SATISFACTORY IT IS TO BANK BY MAIL.

HEADQUARTERS FOR THE LOW RATE FEDERAL FARM LOANS.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

Ford

Truck Chassis
$370 f.o.b. Detroit



Flare board body type, ideal for packers, plumbers and others handling heavy merchandise. Body types to meet every hauling requirement can be supplied.

A dividend-paying business utility—a title the Ford One-Ton Truck has earned for itself through years of reliable service in diversified lines.

Powered by the famous Ford Model T engine through the Ford planetary transmission and special Ford worm gear, it brings to the business man for his delivery service the abundant power, reliable operation, and real economy for which the Ford product is notable everywhere.

It carries its load day in and day out with a minimum of attention. Its ease of handling adapts it for use in the limited areas about loading docks, warehouses and construction locations.

Giving rapid, dependable hauling service at low initial cost, and at the lowest possible expense for operation and upkeep, it pays the highest dividends on the investment of any motor transportation equipment available to the business world.

These trucks can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

BELMOND AUTO COMPANY

BELMOND, IOWA

Ford

CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convincing her she has not the strength, Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI.—When her full strength returns, Gael, intensely interested in his companion, begins her "education."

CHAPTER XII.—Gael begins to realize the beauty of his "captive leopardess."

CHAPTER XIII.—Gael induces Joan to put on a woman's suit he gives her. The girl laughs at its smallness, remarking that it must have been made for a "tall child." In his absence, Joan starts for home, but, helpless, is compelled to return. Prosper's delight awakens the girl's heart.

CHAPTER XIV.—Joan hints of marriage, but Prosper puts her off. A letter in his mail, in a "small gray envelope," agitates him, and that night he says goodby to Joan. Next day she sees Pierre riding with Frank Holliwell, and realizes Gael's deception. She dare not meet Pierre.

Book Two.

CHAPTER I.—At the Lazy-Y ranch Jane, the cook, attracts the attention of Jasper Morena, Jew theatrical manager, there with his highborn Gentile wife Betty. Morena wants Jane for a new play he is to produce. Betty had had an "affair" with Prosper Gael, and believing her husband dying, had written she would marry him.

CHAPTER II.—Morena explains to Jane that in the play "The Leopardess," she would portray a "wild girl," partly tamed, almost her own experience.

CHAPTER III.—Jane is that Joan who fled from the sight of her husband at Gael's home. She had striven to forget her past life. Now, with Morena and his wife she goes back to part of it. A stranger comes to the ranch, seeking Joan, his wife. The rancher gives him Morena's address.

CHAPTER IV.—Gael returns from France to enjoy the success of his play, "The Leopardess," known as "Luck's" play. Betty tells him Jasper is compromised with his "star," and she can divorce him. To his horror Gael recognises Joan, known on the stage as "Miss West," in his play.

CHAPTER V.—Seeking to placate Joan, Gael is savagely repulsed, she scourging him with her knowledge of the fact that he knew Pierre was alive.

CHAPTER VI.—At a second meeting Prosper explains his actions, not endeavoring to exculpate himself. Joan is merciless, thinking only of Pierre, her husband.

Prosper went on monotonously. "When I came back a week later, I thought he would be dead. It was dusk, the wind was blowing, the snow was driving in a scud. I came down to the cabin and dropped below the drift by that northern window, and, the second I looked in, I dropped out of sight. There was a light and a fire. Your husband was lying before the fire on a cot. There was another man there, your Mr. Holliwell; they were talking, Holliwell was dressing Pierre's wound. I went away like a ghost, and while I was going back, I thought it all out; and I decided to keep you for myself. I suppose," said Prosper dully, "that that was a horrible sin. I didn't see it that way then. I'm not sure I see it that way now. Pierre had tied you up and pressed a white-hot iron into your bare shoulder. If you went back to him, if he took you back, how was I to know that he might not repeat his drunken deviltry, or do worse, if anything could be worse! It was the act of a fiend. It put him out of court with me. Whatever I gave you, education and beauty, and ease, must be better and happier for you than life with such a brute as Pierre—"

"Stop!" said Joan between her teeth; "you know nothing of Pierre and me; you only know that one dreadful night. You don't know—the rest."

"I don't want to know the rest," he said sharply; "that is enough to justify my action. I thought so then and I think so now. You won't be able to make me change that opinion."

"I shall not try," said Joan.

He accepted this and went on. "When I found you in your bed waiting for news of Pierre, I thought you the most beautiful, pitiful thing I had ever seen. I loved you then, Joan, then. Tell me, did I ever in those days hurt you or give you a moment's anxiety or fear?"

"No," Joan admitted, "you did not. In those days you were wonderful, kind and patient with me. I thought you were more like God than a human, then."

Prosper laughed with bitterness. "You thought very wrong, but according to my own lights, I was very careful of you. I meant to give you all I could and I meant to win you with patience and forbearance. I had respect for you and for your grief and for the horrible thing you had suffered. Joan, by now you know better what the world is. Can you reproach me so very bitterly for our—happiness, even if it was short?"

"You lied to me," said Joan. "It wasn't just. We didn't start even. And—and you knew what you wanted of me. I never guessed."

"You didn't? You never guessed?"

"No. Sometimes, toward the last, I was afraid. I felt that I ought to go away. That day I ran off—you remember—I was afraid of you. I felt you were bad and that I was bad, too. Then it seemed to me that I'd been dreadfully ungrateful and unkind. That was what began to make me give way to my feelings. I was sorrowful because I had hurt you and you so kind! The day I came in with that suit and spoke of—her as a 'tall child' and you cried, why, I felt so sorrowful that I'd made you suffer. I wanted to comfort you, to put my hands on you in comfort, like a mother, I felt. And you went out like you were angry and stayed away all night as though you couldn't bear to be seeing me again in your house that you had built for her. So I wrote you my letter and went away. And then—it was all so awful cold and empty. I didn't know Pierre was out there, I came back . . ."

They were both silent for a long time and in the silence the idyll was relived. Spring came again with its crest of green along the canyon and the lake lay like a turquoise drawing the glittering peak down into its heart.

"My book—its success," Prosper began at last, "made me restless. You'll understand that now that you are an artist yourself. And one day there came a letter from that woman I had loved."

"It was a little square gray envelope," said Joan breathlessly. "I can see it now. You never rightly looked at me again."

"Ah!" said Prosper. He turned and hid his face.

"Tell me the rest," said Joan.

He went on without turning back to her, his head bent. "The woman wrote that her husband was dying, that I must come back to her at once."

The snow tapped and the fire crackled.

"And when you—went back?"

"Her husband did not die," said Prosper blankly; "he is still alive."

"And you still love her very much?"

"That's the worst of it, Joan," groaned Prosper. His groan changed into a desperate laugh. "I love you. Now truly I do love you. If I could marry you—if I could have you for my wife—" He waited, breathing fast, then came and stood close before her. "I have never wanted a woman to be my wife till now. I want you. I want you to be the mother of my children."

Then Joan did look at him with all her eyes.

"I am Pierre's wife," she said. The liquid beauty had left her voice. It was hoarse and dry. "I am Pierre's wife and I have already been the mother of your child."

There was a long, rigid silence. "Joan—when?—where?" Prosper's throat clicked.

"I knew it before you left. I couldn't tell you because you were so changed. I worked all winter. It—it was born on an awful cold March night. I think the woman let it—made it—die. She wanted me to work for her during the summer and she thought I would be glad if the child didn't live. She used to say I was 'in trouble' and she'd be glad if she could 'help me out.' . . . It was what I was planning to live for . . . that child."

During the heavy stillness following Joan's dreadful, brief account of birth and death, Prosper went through a strange experience. It seemed to him that in his soul something was born and died. Always afterward there was a ghost in him—the father that might have been.

"I can't talk any more," said Joan faintly. "Won't you please go?"

CHAPTER VII

Against the Bars.

Jasper Morena had stood for an hour in a drafty passage of that dirty labyrinth known vaguely to the public as "behind the scenes," listening to the wearisome complaints of a long-nosed young actor. It was the sixth of such conversations that he had held that day; to begin with, there had been a difficulty between a director and the leading man. Morena's tact was still complete; he was very gentle to the long-nosed youth; but the latter, had he been capable of seeing anything but himself, must have noticed that his listener's face was pale and faintly lined.

"Yes, my boy, of course, that's reasonable enough. I'll do what I can."

"I don't make extravagant demands, you see," the young man spread down and out his hands, quivering with exaggerated feeling; "I ask only for decent treatment, what my own self-respect ab-so-lute-ly demands."

Morena put a hand on his shoulder and walked beside him.

"Did you ever stop to think," he said with his charming smile, "that the other fellow is thinking and saying just the same thing? Now, this chap that has, as you put it, got your goat, why, he came to me himself this morning, and, word for word, he said of you just precisely what you have just said of him to me. Odd, isn't it?"

Again the young actor stopped for one of his gestures, hands up this time. "But, my G—d, sir! Is there such a thing as honesty? He couldn't accuse me of—"

"Well, he thought he could. However, I do get your point of view and I think we can fix it up for you so that you'll get off with your self-respect entirely intact. I'll talk to George tomorrow. You're worth the bother. Good afternoon."

The young man bowed, his air of tragic injury softened to one of tragic self-appreciation. Worth the bother, indeed!

Morena left him at the top of the dingy stairs down which the manager fled to an alley at one side of the theater, where his car was waiting for him. He stood for a while with his foot on the step and his hand on the door, looking rather blankly at the gray, cold wall and the scurrying whirlwinds of dust and paper.

"Drop yourself at the garage, Ned," he said, "and I'll take the car."

He climbed in beside the wheel. He was very tired, but he had remembered that Jane West, when he had last seen her, had worn a look of profound discouragement. She never complained, but when he saw that particular expression he was frightened and the responsibility for her came heavily upon him. This wild thing he had brought to New York must not be allowed to beat its head dumbly against the bars.

When he had got rid of his driver, he turned the car northward, and a few minutes later Mathilde, the French maid chosen by Betty, opened Jane's door to him.

The French Maid Chosen by Betty Opened the Door for Him.

While he took off his coat he looked along the hall and saw its owner sitting, her chin propped on a lattice-work of fingers. She was gazing out of the window. It was a beautiful, desperate silhouette; something fateful in the long, still pose and the fixed look. She was still dressed in street clothes as when she had left the theater, a blouse and skirt of dark gray, very plain. Her figure, now that it was trained to slight corseting, was less vigorous and more fine-drawn. She was very thin, but she had lost her worn and haggard look; the premature hard lines had almost disappeared; a softer climate, proper care, rest, food, luxury had given back her young, clear skin and the brightness of eyes and lips. Her hair, arranged very simply to frame her face in a broken setting of black, was glossy, and here and there, deeply waved. It was the arrangement chosen for her by Betty and copied from a Du-Maurier drawing of the duchess of Towers. It was hard to believe that this graceful woman was the virago Jane, harder for any one that had seen a heavy, handsome girl stride into Mrs. Upper's hotel and ask for work, to believe that she was here.

Morena clapped his hands in the eastern fashion of summons, and Jane looked toward him.

"Oh," she said, "I'm glad you came." He strolled in and stood beside her shaking his head.

"I didn't like the look of you this afternoon, my dear."

"Well, sir," said Jane, "I don't like the look of you, either." She smiled her slow, unself-conscious smile. "You sit down and I'll make tea for you."

He knew that thought for some one else was the best tonic for her mood, so he dropped, with his usual limp grace, into the nearest chair, put back his head and half-closed his eyes.

"I'm used up," he said; "I haven't a word—not one to throw at a dog."

"Please don't throw one at me, then. I surely wouldn't take it as a compliment." She made the tea gravely, as absorbed in the work as a little girl who makes tea for her dolls. She brought him his cup and went back to her place and again her face settled into that look. She had evidently forgotten him and her eyes held a vision as of distances.

He put a hand up to break her fixed gaze. "What is it, Jane? What do you see?"

To his astonishment she hid her face in her hands. "It's awful to live like this," she moaned; and it frightened him to see her move her head from side to side like an imprisoned beast, shifting before bars.

He looked about the pretty room and repeated, "Like this?" half-reproachfully.

"I hate it!" She spoke through her teeth. "I hate it! And, oh, the sounds, the noises, grinding into your ears."

Here the hands came to her ears and framed a white, desperate face in which the lids had fallen over sick eyes.

Jasper sat listening to the hum and roar and clatter of the street. To him it was a pleasant sound, and here it was subdued and remote enough. Her face was like that of some one maddened by noise.

"You don't smell anything fresh"—her chest lifted—"you don't get air. I can't breathe. Everything presses in." She opened her eyes, bright and desperate. "What am I doing here, Mr. Morena?"

He had put down his cup quietly, for he was really half-afraid of her. "Why did you come, Jane?"

"Because I was afraid of some one. I was running away, Mr. Morena. There's some one that mustn't ever find me now, and to run away from him—that was the business of my life. And it kept my heart full of him and the dread of his coming. You see, that was my happiness. I hoped he was taking after me so's I could run away." She laughed apologetically. "Does that sound crazy to you?"

"No, I think I understand. And here?"

"He'll never come here. He'll never find me. It's been four years. And I'm so changed. This"—she gave herself a downward look—"this isn't the 'gel' he wants . . . Probably by now he's given me up. Maybe he's found another. Everything that's bad and hateful can find me out here. Bad things can find you out and try to clutch after you anywheres. But when something wild and clean comes hunting for you, something out of the big lonely places—why, it would be scared to follow into this city."

"You're lonely, Jane. I've told you a hundred times that you ought to make friends for yourself."

"Oh, I don't care for that. I don't want friends, not many friends. These acting people, they're not real folks. I don't savvy their ways and they don't savvy mine. They always end by disliking me because I'm queer and different from them. You have been my friend, and your wife—that is, she used to be." Suddenly Jane became more her usual self and spoke with childlike wistfulness. "She doesn't come to see me any more, Mr. Morena. And I could love her. She's so like a little girl with those round eyes—" Jane held up two circles made by forefingers and thumbs to represent Betty's round eyes. "Oh, dear!" she said; "isn't she awfully winning? Seems as if you must be taking care of her. She's so small and fine."

Jasper laughed with some bitterness.

"She doesn't like me now," sighed Jane, but the feelings Betty had hurt were connected with a later development so that they turned her mood and brought her to a more normal dejection. She was no longer a caged beast, she had temporarily forgotten her bars.

"I think you're wrong," said Jasper doubtfully. "Betty does like you. She's merely busy and preoccupied. I've been neglected myself."

Jane gave him a far too expressive look. It was as though she had said, "You don't fancy that she cares for you?"

Jasper flushed and blinked his long, Oriental eyes.

"It's a pity you haven't a lover, Jane," he said.

She had walked over to the window, and his speech, purposely a trifle cruel and insulting, did not make her turn.

"You're angry," she said. "You'd better go home. I'm not in good humor myself."

At which he laughed his murmuring, musical laugh and prepared to leave her.

"I have a great deal of courage," he said, getting into his coat, "to bring a wildcat here, chain her up, and tease her—eh?"

"You think you have me chained?" Her tone was enraged and scornful. "I can snap your flimsy little tether and go."

She wheeled upon him. She looked tall and fierce and free.

"No, no," he cried with deprecating voice and gesture. "You are making Mr. Luck's fortune and mine, not to mention your own. You mustn't break your chains. Get used to them. We all have to, you know. It's much the best method."

"I shall never get used to this life, never. It just—somehow—isn't mine."

"Perhaps when you meet Mr. Luck he'll be able to reconcile you."

Her expressive face darkened. "When shall I meet Mr. Luck?"

"Soon, I hope."

"I hate Mr. Luck more than any one in the world," she said in a low, quiet voice.

Jasper stared. "Hate him! Why, in the name of savagery, should you hate him?"

"Oh, I can't explain. But you'd better keep us apart. How came he to write 'The Leopardess'?"

"I shall leave him to tell you that. Good night."

CHAPTER VIII

Gray Envelopes.

It was with more than the usual sinking of heart that Jasper let himself that evening into the beautiful house which Betty and he called their home. Joan's too expressive look had stung the old soreness of his disillusionment. He knew that the house was empty of welcome. He took off his hat and coat dejectedly. There were footsteps of his man who came from the far end of the hall.

While he stood waiting, Jasper noticed the absence of a familiar fragrance. For the first time in years Betty had forgotten to order flowers. The red roses which Jasper always caressed with a long, appreciative finger as he went by the table in the hall, were missing. Their absence gave him a faint sensation of alarm.

"Mr. Kane, Mrs. Morena's brother, has called to see you, sir. He is waiting."

Jasper's eyebrows rose. "To see me? Is he with Mrs. Morena now?"

"No, sir. Mrs. Morena went out this morning and has not yet returned. Mr. Kane has been here since five o'clock, sir."

"Very well."

It was a mechanical speech of dismissal. The footman went off. Jasper stood tapping his chin with his finger. Woodward Kane come to see him during Betty's absence! Woodward had not spoken more than three or four icy words of necessity to him since the marriage. After a stiff, ungracious fashion this brother had befriended Betty, but to his Jewish brother-in-law he had shown only a slightly disguised distaste. The Jew was well used to such a manner. He treated it with light bitterness, but he did not love to receive the users of it in his own house. It was with heightened color and bent brows that he pushed apart the long, crimson hangings and came into the immense drawing-room.

It was softly lighted and pleasantly warmed. A fire burned. The tall, fair visitor rose from a seat near the blaze and turned all in one rigid piece toward his advancing host. Jasper was perfectly conscious that his own gesture and speech of greeting were too eager, too ingratiating, that they had a touch of servility. He hated them himself, but they were inherited with his blood, as instinctive as the wagging of a dog's tail. They were met by a precise bow, no smile, no taking of his outstretched hand.

Jasper drew himself up at once, put the slighted hand on the back of a tall, crimson-damask chair, and looked his stateliest and most handsome self.

"Betty hasn't come in yet," he said. "You've been waiting for her?"

Woodward Kane pulled at his short, yellow mustache and stared at Jasper with his large blank, blue eyes. "As a matter of fact I didn't call to see my sister, but to see you. I have just come from Elizabeth. She is at my house. She came to me this morning."

Jasper's fingers tightened on the chair. "She is sick?"

"No." There was a pause during which the blank, blue eyes staring at him slowly gathered a look of cold pleasure. Jasper was aware that this man who hated him was enjoying his present mission.

"Shall we sit down? I shall have to take a good deal of your time, I am afraid. There is rather a good deal to be gone over."

Jasper sat down in the chair the back of which he had been holding. "Will you smoke?" he asked, and smiled his charming smile.

There was now not a trace of embarrassment, anger, or anxiety about him. His eyes were quiet, his voice flexible. Woodward declined to smoke, crossed his legs and drew a small gray envelope from his pocket. Jasper's eyes fastened upon it at once. It was Betty's paper and her angular, boyish writing marched across it. Evidently the note was addressed to him. He waited while Woodward turned it about in his long, stiff, white fingers.

"About two months ago Betty came to me one evening in great distress of mind. She asked for my advice and to the best of my ability I gave it to her. I wish that she had asked for it ten years ago. She might have saved herself a great deal. This time she has not only asked for it, but she has been following it, and, in following it, she has now left your house and come to mine. This, of course, will not surprise you."

"It does, however, surprise me greatly." It was still the gentle murmur, but Jasper's cigarette smoke veiled his face.

"I cannot understand that. However, it's not my business. Betty has asked me to interview you today so that she may be spared the humiliation. After this, you must address your communications to her lawyers In a short time Rogers and Daring will serve you with notice of divorce.'

Jasper sat perfectly still, leaning slightly forward, his cigarette between his fingers.

"So-o!" he said after a long silence. Then he held out his hand. "I may have Betty's letter?"

Woodward Kane withheld it and again that look of pleasure was visible in his eyes. "Just a moment, please. I should like to have my own say out first. I shall have to be brutal, I am afraid. In these matters there is nothing for it but frankness. Your infidelity has been common talk for some time. The story of it first came to Betty's ears on the evening when she came to me two months ago. Since then there has been but one possible course."

Jasper kept another silence, more difficult, however, than his last. His pallor was noticeable. "You say my—infidelity is common talk. There has been a name used?"

"Your protegee from Wyoming—Jane West."

Jasper was on his feet, and Woodward, too, rose, jerkily holding up a hand. "No excitement, please," he begged. "Let us conduct this unfortunate interview like gentlemen, if possible."

"Let Us Conduct This Unfortunate Interview Like Gentlemen, if Possible."

Jasper laughed. "As you say—if possible. Why, man, it was Betty who helped me to install her here, it was Betty who chose the furnishings for her apartment, who helped her buy her clothes, who engaged her maid, who gave her most of her training. This is the most preposterous, the most filthy perversion of the truth. Betty must know it better than any one else. Come, now, Woodward, there's something more in it than this?" Jasper had himself in hand; but it was easy now to see the effort it cost him. The veins of his forehead were swollen.

"I shall not discuss the matter with you. Betty has excellent evidence, unimpeachable witnesses. There is no doubt in my mind, nor in the minds of her lawyers, that she will win her suit and get her divorce, her release. Of course, you will not contest—"

Jasper stopped in his pacing which had begun to take the curious, circling, weaving form characteristic of him, and, standing now with his head thrown back, he spoke sonorously.

"Do you imagine for one instant, Kane—does Betty imagine for one instant—that I shall not contest?"

This changed the look of cold pleasure in Woodward's eyes, which grew blank again. "Do you mean me to understand—Naturally, I took it for granted that you would act as most gentlemen act under the circumstances."

"Then you have taken too much for granted, you and Betty. Ten years ago your sister gave herself to me. She is mine. I will not for a whim, for a passion, for a temporary alienation, let her go. Neither will I have my good name and the name of a good woman besmirched for the sake of this impertinent desire for a release. I love my wife"—his voice was especially Hebraic and especially abhorrent to the other—"and as a husband I mean to keep her from the ruin this divorce would mean to her—"

"Far from being her ruin, Morena, it would be the saving of her. Her ruin was as nearly as possible brought about ten years ago, when against the advice, against the wishes of every one who loved her, she made her insane marriage with an underbred, commercial, and licentious Jew. She was seventeen and you seized your opportunity."

Jasper had stepped close. He was a head taller and several inches broader of shoulder than his brother-in-law. "As long as you are in my house, don't insult me. I am, as you say, a Jew, and I am, as you say, of a commercial family. But I am not, I have never been licentious. Is it necessary to use such language? You suggested that this interview be conducted by us like gentlemen."

Continued next week.

The Cynic.

Mrs. Smythe: "Here is an interesting news item. A girl in Canada ran 56 hours without stopping."

Mr. Smythe: "Did the man get away?"

LOCAL NEWS

Hear Rev. O'Connor Sunday evening on "The Greatest Institution in Belmond."

Mrs. Emma Norton is enjoying a visit from her daughter, Vera, who teachers school at Audubon.

Mrs. Marvin Lord went to Clarion on Friday to visit at the John Lord home a few days.

Supt. Guthrie was a business caller at Mason City last Saturday, driving up.

Hajo Pals went to Chicago last Tuesday with his brother, from Thornton, his brother undergoing examination at a hospital in Chicago. The young man has an infected jaw, caused by an ulcerated tooth. The surgeons will take away the lower part of his jaw, and removing a piece of bone from one leg, graft it on his face to replace the diseased jaw bone. Hajo returned home Saturday.

Mrs. T. B. Wallace enjoyed a visit Sunday from her brother, Mr. Davis, of Mason City.

Take advantage of the Independent's Big Family Offer—The Peoples' Popular Monthly, Farm and Fireside, Today's Housewife, and the Belmond Independent, All Four One Year For Only $2.45. This offer good only until December 1st.

Several of the neighbors of J. D. Sheffield are assisting him in erecting a new barn, to replace the one lost by fire one night a few weeks ago.

The M. E. Ladies had a good attendance at their supper last Thursday evening, in the church basement. They took in about $80.

Send a post card to the Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa, for "Getting Ahead." It explains how others have made the start.

The Belmond Independent and the Des Moines Register both one year for $5.80. Regular price $7.00. Register subscriptions must be new; Independent either new or renewal. If renewal on Register, price for both is $6.10. Have your renewal sent in by taking advantage of this saving.

A number of Belmond people went to Mason City last Tuesday evening to attend the play, "Spice of 1922." They report a good show.

Corn husking has now begun in earnest, and farmers are busy from dawn to dark. With both beets and corn to get in, some of them are more than busy. Altho the Farm Bureau claims five and six cents as the proper husking price this year, many of the farmers in this vicinity are paying seven cents, the shortage of huskers causing the higher price. With the new corn coming in, the price on old corn has taken a tumble, being a nickel lower the past week.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stebbleton from Britt were visitors with relatives in Belmond, Sunday.

Miss Anderson, teacher of the 8th grade, visited relatives near Mason City over the week end.

For Sale—Two new left over tailor made suits, size about 38. $20.00 each.—F. J. Tuffree. Phone 28. 1c

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mann of Eagle Grove were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jennings Sunday.

Independent Farm Sales Service is Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

Mrs. J. B. Spitler, of Belmond was a Klemme visitor last Thursday.—Times.

Mrs. Daisy Pierce from Britt is a guest this week with friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Norris are the parents of a baby boy, born Sunday morning.

Mrs. Mickelson from Minneapolis was a week end visitor with her brother, T. O. Tomson.

St. John's Ladies' Aid will hold a bazaar and food sale Saturday of this week, in the library basement, starting at 1:00 o'clock.

Word received from Mrs. Carrie Sheffield in California, states they are still camping out, but that her daughter and son-in-law have purchased a home in Glendale and will take posession November 1st.

Mrs. Savogue of Goodell and Mrs. Laura Stockwell and Mrs. Ida Eldred of Sheldon, Iowa, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Dan Brooks on Saturday.

Word was received here Wednesday of the marriage of Raymond Walton of Iowa Falls, on Tuesday of this week. Raymond's friends in Belmond will extend their best wishes to he and his new bride.

Miss Alma Greenfield, who accompanied Mrs. Freek Frohling to California, remained out there and will spend the winter.

Chris Friesleben returned from Colfax the first of the week. He had been there the past two weeks taking treatment.

Mrs. Freek Frohling returned home from California last week Wednesday. She had been gone about three months. She says she liked California very much, but is glad to get back to good old Iowa. She visited at the W. H. Greenfield home in Denver a few weeks, also.

The St. John's Ladies' Aid Society will hold a Bazaar and Food Sale at the Library basement, Saturday, November 3rd. Doors open at 1:00 o'clock. Lunches served, beginning at 2:30. 1*

The Independent is making an exceptionally fine clubbing offer with either new or renewal subscriptions. Read the big ad in this issue. Take advantage of this opportunity to secure your winter's reading at a very unusual price. The offer is limited in time, so do it now!

The Des Moines Register and the Independent for one year for only $5.80. New subscriptions only to the Register.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barry and Beatrice, and Mrs. Eugene Sullivan drove to Mason City yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Baker and family, of Belmond spent Sunday at the R. W. Elder home.—Times.

Miss Dorothy Ferrie and Miss Edna Miller spent the week end in Minneapolis.

Mrs. Waddingon, mother of Bruce Waddington, is reported as being seriously ill.

Ole Rikansrud was out of the hospital for the first time Monday since his operation for appendicitis. Mr. Rikansrud is recovering rapidly from the operation, and in fact made an unusually swift recovery.

Join the crowd Sunday evening at the Methodist church. Good lively singing. Good music and a timely subject for discussion.

SPECIAL FOR SATURDAY!

We offer Ladies and Children's Hats, also all plumes and feather trimmings at 1-3 off. Also a good line of perfumes and toilet articles which we are closing out at two articles for the price of one. We have a nice line of house dresses and aprons just arrived. And in the ladies exchange many articles of interest. —Mrs. Emma Norton.

Miss Wilma Thompson is enjoying a two-week's vacation with her home folks.

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth was a caller at Mason City, Monday.

Miss Miller and Miss Ferrie were Mason City callers Saturday.

Rev. Northrup, a former pastor of the Congregational church here, was visiting old friends one day last week.

BUYERS GUILTY TOO

"I think that under the law you might successfully prosecute persons who purchase this unlawful liquor on conspiracy charges since there is always more than one person involved in this kind of violation. If there was no one to buy bootleg liquor or home brew there would be no makers or sellers. I think the man who buys this unlawful liquor and drinks it is just as guilty as the man who makes it or transports it and I believe the day is coming when persons buying unlawful liquor will be prosecuted along with the makers and sellers." —Judge George W. English in the United States district court in East St. Louis.

LET IN THE LIGHT

In war fraud cases now pending in the courts there is no charge that officials of the Wilson administration who let certain contracts received any financial compensation therefor. The accusation is that the contracts were let to personal friends who were not competent and who defrauded the government under the cost-plus contracts. If the charge is true, the injury to the government was just as great as though the conspirators had shared in the profits of the contracts. If a government official lets a contract to one man on the consideration of personal friendship when another man has offered a lower bid, the offense is just as much a violation of duty and a breach of trust as though the favor had been conferred for a money consideration. Of course, the public does not place the two transactions on exactly the same basis, but there is no material difference so far as public interest is concerned.

We are now paying not only for the necessary cost of the war, but for a lot of unnecessary extravagance.

We are not complaining of the necessary cost, nor of the cost of a reasonable percentage of mistakes, but of the cost of gross negligence, favoritism and unreasonable delay. The American people are willing to overlook much in the way of mistakes to which all human beings are subject. They are not willing to overlook rank disregard of public welfare in time of war.—Recorder.

The GIFT SHOP

HAS AN ASSORTMENT OF STAMPED GOODS ON CONSIGNMENT FOR A SHORT TIME ONLY. COME AND MAKE YOUR SELECTION WHILE YOU MAY

Bring in your Hemstitching before the busy season arrives.

MRS. W. E. STEVENS
Proprietor

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER

Farm and General Sales

A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.

For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—White Rock Pullets, from prize winning stock. $1 each. —Mrs. Wm. Leonard, Swaledale, Ia.

For Sale—New range and two second hand cook stoves. Inquire at Independent. 45tf

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars, pure bred.—J. M. Sampson, Belmond. 49tfc

For Sale: Used parts for Chevrolet Ford and Studebaker.

Two 1923 Ford tourings with starter and rims.

One 1923 Ford coupe.

Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond. 49tf

For Sale—One new Majestic Range.—Phone 206. 49tf

For Sale—Chester White boar, 18 months old. Pedigree furnished. Phone 3123. 502*

For Sale—Late cabbage. Phone 2712. Chas Gealow. 502

WANTED

WANTED—Correspondents on all rural routes out of Belmond. Good money paid, supplies free. Requirements not difficult. Call 115, or call at Independent office.

Wanted—Carpet rags to cut and sew; stockings to darn; quilts to tie or quilt; patching; fancy work on quilts. At Mrs. Pennel's—Mrs. Coates. 1*

Lost—Child's small pocketbook, blue containing handkerchief. Finder please return to Independent.

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 16th and 17th.

Bernold Kinseth, one mile north and two miles west of Alexander, Nov. 15, Thursday. Closing out farm sale.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa

MONDAY, NOV. 5

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	15c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	14c
Leghorns	12c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	35c
Cream	45c
Creamery butter	50c
Oats	34c
Corn, old	85c

TUNE IN FOR Willard STORAGE BATTERIES RADIO PROGRAM WTAM Cleveland

BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

WRIGLEY'S

Take it home to the kids.

Have a packet in your pocket for an ever-ready treat.

A delicious confection and an aid to the teeth, appetite, digestion.

After Every Meal

Sealed in its Purity Package

Phone 28

WE DO ALL KINDS OF CLEANING

WE ALSO DO AUTO TOP AND CURTAIN WORK.

Belmond Tailor Shop
F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel

Kinseth's Store News

We will have a CARLOAD OF LATE POTATOES on track here Friday and Saturday of this week. These potatoes are ripe, mealy and rich, and guaranteed to be good all round keepers. This is your chance to lay in your supply of "Spuds" if you have not already done so.

—K—

The last of those delicious PEARS are your last chance to get some. They are really good, and will be sold at $1.00 to $1.25 a bushel until they are gone. And as we only have a few bushel left you better get an order in quick.

—K—

Cold weather is the time when a juicy sweet apple does taste just a bit better than anything else, and we have some—DELICIOUS APPLES at $2.85 a bushel, and Baldwins at $1.95. A bushel put down in the cellar sure comes handy when you "get off feed" and want something different. Phone 19 and let us send you a bushel.

—K—

Of course the snow isn't deep yet, but the children need overshoes and rubbers. We have a complete line of men's, women's and children's overshoes. See us before you buy, and remember we always have a full line of groceries at prices you can afford to pay.

—K—

All you need to do—and all we ask of you—is just to follow the crowd. You'll land at the Store on the Corner, where your dollar has more cents.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT!

Have you ever considered your ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY in terms of the service it renders?

The use of Electricity is so diversified in modern living that most of us hardly realize its full importance.

We take the service for granted, and as familiarity tends to indifference we sometimes lose sight of the benefits in contemplation of the costs.

It is when we take thought that we realize how ELECTRIC SERVICE touches the lives of each, every day in the year through rendering of benficial service.

Another matter worthy of consideration is the demonstrated faith and labor of individuals who have made this service possible in your home community.

First: The FAITH of those who provided the necessary money, and then the LABOR of the men who built the necessary generating stations; the pole lines; and other equipment, to bring ELECTRICITY TO YOU.

The demand for Electric Service is increasing in your own Town, and other Communities want the Service, which gives YOU the Opportunity to be a COMMUNITY BUILDER, at a PROFIT TO YOURSELF.

This Company offers you this opportunity through investment in it's 7 PER CENT CONVERTIBLE NOTES, and in the Capital Stock now paying 7 per cent Per Annum.

It will pay you to Inquire.

Ask our Manager, or Address the Securities Department, 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC CO.
IOWA FALLS, IOWA

Belmond Independent

VOL. 4 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER, 8, 1923 — NO. 51

No Decision In Change Of Trains

Committee From Belmond And Other Towns Meet To Discuss Change Of Trains.

CLAIM IT IS ECONOMY

A committee of Belmond business men composed of M. C. Barry, W. T. Gfeller, C. N. Reese, M. D. Sullivan and Wallace Ramsay, drove to Iowa Falls last Thursday to meet with committees from other towns along the Rock Island branch, and the State Railway Commission, to discuss the proposed and greatly desired change of service on the Rock Island thru Belmond.

Many Towns Are Represented.

The meeting was attended by two members of the state commission, a number of officials of the Rock Island railroad and numerous business men from the towns along the road. The change of service which took place in September was thoroly argued, and it was definitely shown to the Commissioners that the change has resulted in money loss as well as inconvenience. The railroad will rest its case upon economy of operation, as the reason for the change. The various towns argue that if this is the case, the railroads would be money ahead to take off the Klondike trains and replace the morning and evening passengers, inasmuch as these two trains would carry far more traffic.

No Decision Is Given Yet.

The Commissioners did give their decision, taking the matter under advisement. It will likely be some time before they render an opinion, but it is probable that when they do the two noon trains will be taken off and the morning and evening trains replaced.

A bit of comedy was introduced into the meeting when a telegram was read from the Klemme Chamber of Commerce. The telegram said:

"Unable to attend meeting—no train service."

DUCKS DOVE INTO CONCRETE

Mistaking a white concrete pavement for a body of water, more than 100 wild ducks broke their necks diving to it at night from a height at Champaign, Illinois. They were found dead the next morning strewn along the roadside. The pavement, wet from a drizzling rain, reflected the moonlight when the moon occasionally shone thru the broken clouds. Mondern inventions are neck-breaking for others than ducks.—Ex.

WEBSTER CO. SUPERVISORS ARE CITED FOR CONTEMPT

The supervisors of Webster county have been cited for contempt of court for not allowing a bill ordered by the judge of the court to Robert Healy, as attorney for William Orlander, late accused and convicted of murder, and whose case aroused state-wide interest.

The court allowed Healy a certain amount for his services as Orlander's attorney, and the supervisors tendered Healy a much smaller sum, and refused to allow the amount ordered by the court. The supervisors are now commanded to appear before the court and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. —Humboldt Republican.

A SENSIBLE METHOD

Cherokee Chief: The Iowa legislature which will meet in special session soon for revision of the entire code of laws of the state, could do nothing better to reassure business and the people of the state than to adopt a rule that the revision will be only such as is needed to eliminate obsolete and useless laws, amend and correct them, or reassemble and codify them in one volume where everybody can read and understand them. Any general adoption of changes or amendments to suit the whims of lobbyists or legislators, or to promote special interests, would be a crime, not a benefit to the state.—Ex.

STORES CLOSED MONDAY

The various business places of Belmond will be Closed from 12:00 noon Monday the balance of the day, in observance of Armistice Day.

The high school Literary Society will give an Armistice Day program at the auditorium of the school in the afternoon.

HALLOWE'EN FROLIC DRAWS

Altho the weather was cold and disagreeable, the Hallowe'en frolic at Hampton last Tuesday night was a huge success and drew 3,000 people. Several bands, including one each from Mason City, Geneva and Chapin, furnished music, a big free dance was held, and a procession in which hundreds of people in costume participated was a feature of the occasion. The frolic was sponsored by the Hampton Commercial club, and was so successful that it is planned to stage another next year.

RECENT DELIVERIES BY THE BELMOND AUTO CO.

Bertha Thorman Belmond, coupe.
O. C. Olson, Belmond, runabout
Geo. Blau, Alexander, coupe.
Clarence Cook, Belmond, coupe
Rev. J. P. Quirin, Britt, 4-d sedan
Edw. Van Farowe, Kanawha, 4-d sedan
P. Griggs, Goodell, runabout
Geo. Johnson, Klemme, touring
A. H. Finn, Hampton, coupe
John Ruiter, Meservey, coupe.
E. C. Schalinske, Britt, touring
Thayne Bailey, Belmond, coupe
John Hopkey, Alexander, tractor
Frank Drury, Rowan, tractor
Harold Rierson, Belmond, coupe
C. L. Smith, Belmond, coupe
C. A. Kragh, Belmond, runabout
Fred Fulton, Belmond, touring
G. R. Hill, Clarion, 4-d sedan
John Tiara, Belmond, coupe
F. M. Myers, Belmond, coupe
R. D. Cline, Belmond, 4-d sedan
John Watermiller, Goodell, touring
Lewis Benson, Belmond, runabout
Manhattan Oil Co., Des Moines, truck
J. T. Jensen, Clarion, touring
Nissen & Harbison, Belmond, runabout
Leonard Lester, Clarion, touring
Norman Cohan, Mason City, runabout
Phil Filzen, Mason City, truck
Peter Pals, Meservey, touring

18 WRIGHT COUNTY LADIES DRAWN ON JURY

Some From Belmond Included With Men In List Of Jurors.

The November term of the district court, which opens Monday, the 26th, will see eighteen Wright county women drawn for jury duty. The jurors called from this end of the county are:

Belmond

Geo. H. Baxter
Alice Hedges
John Hanson
Merle Hildebrand
A. L. Fetrow
Gus Ziska
Chas. Norris
H. H. Mennenga
Alice Burke.

Rowan

Ray Swope
R. E. Ryder
A. S. Boyington

Kanawha

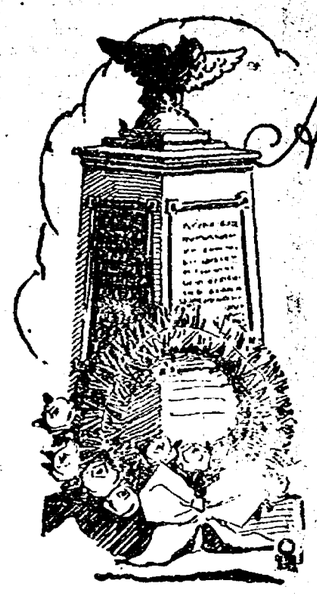
C. R. Fisher
E. T. Thorson

START MARKING A. Y. P. HIGHWAY THRU GARNER

Garner citizens witnessed the installation of the first trail marker of the Atlantic-Yellowstone-Pacific highway last week, when the first highway marker was put in west of the viaduct. This is a new and important cross-continent highway and which the Garner Chamber of Commerce managed to get routed by way of Garner.

SJOBERG DOING NICELY

Warren Sjoberg, the man who was badly injured last week at the sugar plant, is coming along nicely and he will not lose his arm as reports have been circulating. All his injuries are healing nicely, and it is expected that he will be discharged from the hospital before long, or as soon as his arm and leg knit.



Armistice Day

Harvey C. Eimbrink
Ray Barton
Levi Kurtz
Leroy Pierce
Charles J. McGuire
Clifford H. Rierson
Frank J. Johnson
DeForrest Reese
Morris G. Lateer
J. Bernard Wallace

Bitter Battle Tomorrow When Belmond And Kanawha Meet

The next game on the foot ball schedule of the high school team is tomorrow, Friday, afternoon when they meet the Kanawha team for the second time this fall, on the Kanawha grounds.

The game is called for 3:30 o'clock p. m. A large number of Belmond fans are planning on driving over to witness the battle and root the boys to another victory over the neighbors to the west. It is requested that all those who expect to attend please be at the school house from 1:30 to 2:00 p. m., and go with the team, which will leave around 2:00. It is hoped that the boys will go to Kanawha with a full backing of home fans. The moral affect on the boys will go a long ways toward bringing home the bacon.

This game will beyond any question be the best game of the season. Belmond defeated Kanawha early in the season by two points, 14 to 12, and ever since the Kanawha team has been priming for the return affair, and will play the best game they are capable of to wipe out their previous defeat. Everything in the town of Kanawha will be closed for the game, and a neutral referee has been secured according to the Kanawha paper. It is going to be some battle, and one worth going a long way to witness. So all who plan to go, please be at the school house at 1:30 to 2:00 Friday afternoon.

CLARION WANTS FLAGS

The ladies Auxiliary of the Clarion Legion post is backing a movement to install uniform flags on the main business thorofare of the county seat, as they are in Belmond. It is anticipated that the plan will go thru.

CITIZENS LOSE TAX FIGHT

Garner citizens, thru the Garner Tax Committee, lost their case in court wherein they questioned the validity of a friendly judgment for $43,000 given the Empire Construction company for paving at Garner, Judge Kelley recently handing down a decision that the judgment must stand. This judgment was given the construction company to cover an amount which the regular assessment for the paving could not reach. It is thought that the case will be appealed to the supreme court of Iowa for final decision.

IA. TWP. HAS FINE PARTY

The Lyle E. Hall home three and one-half miles west of Alexander, was the scene of a lively social last Friday evening when the Iowa township farm bureau held its regular monthly meeting. The forepart of the evening was spent in playing games and enjoying the Hallowe'en stunts which had been arranged by the committee. This was followed by a short address from the county agent who drove from the Norway township meeting in an effort to serve the people of both communities in the same evening. The most interesting part of the Iowa meeting was the serving of the delicious home-made pumpkin pie and good wholesome cream and coffee.

MOON GOES TO JAIL ON APRIL CONVICTION

Neighbor Pays Fine Upon Agreement To Deliver Him Corn.

During the last term of court an effort was made to secure an extension of time in which to pay the fine imposed upon Chas. Moon of Rowan, who was found guilty of having intoxicating liquors in his possession with intent to sell, at the April term of court. Judge McCall plainly informed the petitioner that he had no jurisdiction in the case; he had already had six months since his conviction and ordered proper papers issued for his commitment in the county jail. Monday Deputy Johnson from the Sheriff's office brought Moon to Clarion and placed him in the county jail. He remained there only a few hours when S. F. Stout came to Clarion and secured his release. The fine amounted to $200 and the costs $192 more. Mr. Stout paid the same after Moon had signed a contract to deliver to him sufficient corn to reimburse him for the above amount.

On the last day of the October term of court Ora Hilton of Clarion was granted a divorce from Frank Hilton, who failed to appear and defend said action. Plaintiff is to pay the costs in the case.

Ben Hetland of Eagle Grove brings suit against Mattie Casperson to compel the performance of a contract wherein defendant was to deed to plaintiff two lots in Wright's 3rd addition to Eagle Grove for the sum of $575.—Monitor.

JURY DECLARES NOT GUILTY

Atty. W. E. Bullard was declared not guilty of the charge of assault brought by Mrs. Norman Nelson, in Justice court at Rowan last Thursday afternoon, the jury remaining out but a short time.

WARNING

Fake solicitors claiming to represent the Iowa Anti-Saloon League are abroad in Iowa, according to information reaching league headquarters here today.

Rumors have been received repeatedly by the Iowa Anti-Saloon League of false representation. The most recent and most definite came today from Harris, Iowa, where a bona fide solicitor, atempting to collect funds for the league, was informed that someone had preceded him, thoroughly canvassing the town and asking one dollar from each subscriber.

According to Supt. S. P. McNaught, the Iowa Anti-Saloon League had no representative in Harris at this time, nor does it employ this means of solicitation. The League always operates with proper credentials and is identified in every community with local churches.

Word of fake solicitors for the Salvation Army and other organizations aside from the Anti-Saloon League has also been received. Supt. McNaught issues a general warning against solicitors of all kinds, unless properly identified.

BELMOND SCHOOL NOTES

An Armistice Day program will be given by Division I of the Literary society Monday afternoon at 2:30. It is necessary to have the program on Monday on account of the foot ball game Friday. The public is invited. The program follows:

Piano solo ------ Marion McNulty
Reading ------- Katherine Thiltgen
Double Quartette—
Dorothy Purcell — Samuel Leinbach
Miriam Gibbs — Fred Vestweber
Ida Steenblock — Edwin Mennenga
Elma Stapley — Harold Johnson
Reading -------- Clifford Johnston
Farce—

"The Slacker"

Grant Moore ------ Edwin Christie
Mrs. Moore ------ Opha Thompson
Betty Caldwell --- Mildred Schultz
Benny Smith ------- Louis Parsons
Ella Brown ---- Genevieve Starnes
Mrs. Smith ------ Gladys Johnston
Mrs. Ralph ---------- Ethel Luick
Mrs. Elton ---------- Emma Jacobs
Mrs. Jones ---------- Laura Riley
Piano solo ---------- Edna Rust

Monday evening was held the try outs for declamatory. Anyone could try out, but no training was given the contestants. Those who were selected will now be given selections and training. The following people were chosen to appear in the public contest:

Oratorical

Vivian Courtney
Ernie Gunderson
Katherine Thiltgen
William Tyrrell

Dramatic

Kathleen Barry
Shirley Brooks
Alpha Johnson
Everill Thompson

Humorous

Arthur Christie
Mildred Hauge
Opha Thompson
Ruth Veeder

Supt. Guthrie and Miss Sharon attended the state teachers' convention at Des Moines last week Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Miss Skouge has been out of school Monday and Tuesday of this week on account of the illness of her mother.

Friday afternoon our foot ball team plays at Kanawha. Kanawha seems to be making extensive preparations for this game.

Helen Elder has the honor of wearing the typing medal this week.

X-RAY SHOWS NEEDLE LODGED IN HIS HIP

Operation Necessary To Remove Bit Of Steel From Hip Joint.

John Tiara suffered a peculiar accident last week. He suddenly developed a sharp pain in one hip, and examination failed to disclose what the trouble was. He was taken to the local hospital where an x-ray disclosed a needle imbedded in the hip almost to the joint. Tiara does not know how the needle got there, unless it was in his clothes or pocket, and was driven into his hip while he was in a wagon and a bump threw him against the side of the vehicle, thus driving the steel into his body. An operation was performed Saturday and the needle removed. He is recovering nicely, altho the hip is quite badly infected from the steel being in the flesh so long.

INJURED IN ACCIDENT

A young man named Moran, who hails from California, was injured in the centrifugal at the sugar factory last week when he became caught. His arm was quite badly cut and he suffered two broken ribs. He was given prompt treatment at the local hospital and is recovering nicely.

GARNER PAVES THE WAY

Garner has been casting about for a suitable slogan for two months past. About five hundred were submitted. The commercial club met last week and selected this one — "Garner Paves the Way." It is a good one.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Craig of Alamo, Texas, old friends of Henry Crist and well known to many Belmond people, were in town Tuesday, enroute to Kanawha.

Sugar Plant In Some Record Runs

Every Day In Every Way The Mill Keeps Grinding Out Tons Of Pure Sugar.

ABOUT HALF THRU SEASON

The sugar factory is breaking all records for operation this fall, cutting over capacity every day. The average to date is 658 tons per day, which is 58 tons over capacity. The largest amount cut in any given 24 hours was 756 tons.

To date the factory has shipped out 30 carloads of sugar, 87 carloads of pulp, and 11 carloads of molasses. On October 28th the largest run in the history of the plant took place, when 1900 sacks of sugar were sacked, each sack being 100 pounds.

The sugar content is holding up in nice shape, the average being 13.3. The plant has turned out over three million pounds of sugar so far, and it is estimated will mill about seven million pounds during the campaign this fall.

The price on sugar continues to hold up nicely, and under the contract which the Belmond factory was furnished beets, the farmers are in the way of receiving a nice profit on their investment, while the stockholders in the factory are all wearing smiles. It looks like a big year all around.

A TOWN FUNERAL

A town that never has anything to do in a public way is on the way to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man that "cusses" the town furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time to give from his business affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws the boquets on the grave. The man who is so stingy as to be howling hard times, preaches the funeral, sings the doxology. And thus the town lies buried from all sorrow and care. — Exchange.

BAGGED SOME DUCKS

Chris Simonsen and Jim Miller were over at Cornelia the first of the week looking for some stray ducks. They expected to bring home a good sized bag full, but ducks always keep shy when crack shots are close at hand.

After remaining on guard about twenty-four hours the Hampton hunters gave up the chase, but Chris said that he did not intend to come home without a single duck and have Grant Mogle give him the horse laugh, so he called at a farm home where a flock of wild ducks had been raised the past year, and inquired the price of "four good ones." Just $1.50 each said the woman of the place. "Pretty stiff price," said Chris, "but we want them don't we, Jim?" "Sure we do," replied Jim.

When the men arrived home and were showing the ducks to their friend one of the local expert hunters discovered that one of the ducks was a real domesticated duck, and after some argument the boys admitted that the joke was on them. —Hampton Chronicle.

THE TEACHER OF TODAY

Free schools and compulsory attendence are new experiences. No power of goverment can bring to them success. If they succeed, it will be through the genuine effort and support that can come only from the heart of the people. themselves. It is this condition that makes the position of the teacher rise to such high importance.

The standards which teachers are required to maintain are continually rising. Their work takes on a new dignity. It is rising above a calling above a profession, into the realms of an art. It must be dignified by technical training, ennobled by character, and sanctified by faith. It is not too much to say that the need of civilization is the need of teachers. The contribution which they make to human welfare is beyond estimation. —President Calvin Coolidge. —Ex.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

THE RED CROSS

Beginning on Armistice Day, November 11th, and lasting until and including Thanksgiving Day, November 29th, the annual roll call of the Red Cross will be in full swing. Iowa's quota this year has been increased from 62,100 to 100,000 members. This is because of the fact that the Central Division has five per cent of the total population of the United States.

The 100,000 quota is about one-twentieth of the population of the state. That means that if only one out of every 20 people in the state join, the quota will be filled. Does it not seem that one in 20 would be easy? That it ought to run way over that? Yet it is doubtful whether the quota will be reached. Not because Iowa people do not believe in or do not want the Red Cross, but because people are prone to forget too easily. We forget too soon the wonderful, merciful and holy work which the Red Cross has always done, and more especially what was accomplished in the recent war only five years ago. There is no profit in the Red Cross; no axes ground, no high salaries and graft. Every cent received by it goes to a merciful and needed work, the caring of wounded and suffering in peace and war. It is non partisan, non sectarian, and embodies in its ranks all nationalities, all creeds, and all political beliefs. It is simply and solely an organization of mercy.

Iowa should support the Red Cross with open heart and open pocketbook. A membership cost but one dollar. The Red Cross deserves support. It should receive it, from every one.

Society

* * *

W. F. M. S.—

The W. F. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Bailey for the November meeting. Our delegates to the National meeting at Des Moines gave us an interesting report. We hope to have more of these world views of things spiritual during the year.

Algona district sends its first missionary to foreign fields. Miss Letha Danbendeck of West Bend. This means a great deal to us. The Leinbach family are well acquainted with Miss Daubendeck.

Mrs. R. H. Klemme had the lesson in charge, which was the first one in our new book on Japan. We are glad to remember that our friends of the Congregational church are enjoying the same lessons. This book is being used by all denominations. It is particularly interesting because of the great disaster that has come to Japan.

Mrs. White presented the mystery questions in a novel way, those not knowing their question remaining in the dark until enlightened. Dainty refreshments were served. ***

* * *

Bazaar—

The Ladies Aid of the St. Johns Lutheran church held their bazaar and chicken supper last Saturday in the library basement, which was unusually successful, the Aid clearing about $200.

* * *

Party—

Last Saturday afternoon, Mrs. E. W. Luick and Mrs. A. W. Martin entertained about fifty friends at the beautiful home of Mrs. Luick. The ladies brought their work and the afternoon was spent in a social way. A two course luncheon was served by the hostesses.

* * *

Light Bearers—

Mrs. E. Purcell entertained the Little Light Bearers at her home on Friday. She was assited by Mrs. Wm. Trafford.

* * *

Priscilla—

The Priscilla club met at the home of Mrs. Rufus Morse on Wednesday of this week.

* * *

Reception—

The reception tendered Rev. and Mrs. O'Connor by the Methodist people and friends last Friday evening was a very enjoyable affair. Addresses of welcome were given by Wallace Ramsay and Mrs. Bailey, to which Rev. O'Connor responded. Refreshments were served by the committee.

* * *

Progress—

The Progress club met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Martin this week Tuesday. Mrs. C. I. Williams was the leader of the lesson, which was on The Parables of the Bible.

* * *

Bridge—

Mrs. Harry Bohning was hostess to the girls' bridge club Monday evening. Miss Mary Wallace won high score.

* * *

Entertains—

The Chain of Ten met Monday of this week at the home of Mrs. Gus Nissen.

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

They come from Belmond. They come from the country. Until the older church members are amazed at the crowds. They are saying we haven't seen anything like this for a long time. They are bubling over with joy. It seems more like church to have folk there. Our congregation are increasing. Sunday evening our congregation was even larger than the morning congregation. The outlook is very encouraging to your pastor. Let's keep going while going is good. Your presence is always appreciated. All together this Sunday. Everybody in church. No one at home getting big dinners for someone else to eat.

Sunday school at 10 a. m.
Morning worship at 11.
Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Evening worship at 7:30 p. m.
Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Sunday morning the farmers of this community are invited to be our guests of honor.

Sunday morning subject: "Behold A Sower Went Forth To Sow."

The Sunday evening services will be in comemoration of Armistice Day The American Legion Post of this place will attend in a body.

Evening subject: "The Challenge of the Present Crisis."

Special music at both services.

A hearty welcome extended to all.

The official board together with their families met in the dining room of the church at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening and had their suppers together, after which the regular church business was transacted. This proved to be a very successful gathering. The men said it was the largest official board meeting that they had seen for years.

Mrs. O'Connor and I will be at home on Tuesday afternoon and evening to receive callers.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The great event of this week is the Ladies Aid society bazaar and supper Thursday and Thursday evening.

Next Sunday is Armistice Day, and it will be observed with special music and an address.

Sunday evening we will have our orchestra and special music.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the home of Henry Larson, in west Belmond.

Sunday morning class meets at 9 o'clock. Sunday school at 10:00. Norwegian service with communion at 11:00 o'clock. There will be no evening service.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the Sunday school will be held. Sunday evening all the young people are requested to meet at the church at 7:30. We have some things of importance to consider. Therefore, come and let others know about it.

OBLIGATION TO OBEY LAW

In an ideal state of society, laws do not require the attaching of penalties to secure obedience. The obligation to do the right, the behest of duty is sufficient. As society becomes less ideal, other means as the education of conscience, penalties and the like have to be resorted to to enforce obedience. Whatever the obligation, moral or penal, obedience is directly proportionate to this obligation.

In law enforcement the penalty must be sufficiently severe to curb the law-breaking impulses—otherwise the law is worthless.

It is one of the functions of the judiciary to secure evidence to the law. If one sentence will not secure that obedience a heavier one must be found. Otherwise the judiciary is a mere function.

One of the great hindrances in the enforcement of the prohibition law has been inadequate penalties attached by the courts. There is need that the judiciary be educated in this matter. There has been a great improvement in this regard. There is room for much more.—Exchange.

A REMEDY FOR WORLD WOES

He who knows not, and knows not that he knows not, is a fool—shun him.

He who knows not, and knows that he knows not, is dull—teach him.

He who knows, and knows not that he knows, is asleep—wake him.

He who knows and knows that he knows, is wise—follow him.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Freight, daily	11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily,	2:10 p. m.

Going South

Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily	11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	8:20 p. m.

NOT SO DUMB

"I think that children are not as observing as they should be," said the inspector to the teacher.

"I hadn't noticed it," replied the teacher.

"Well, I'll prove it to you," and turning to the class the inspector said:

"Some one give me a number."

"Thirty-seven," said a little boy eagerly.

The inspector wrote 73 on the board, and nothing was said.

"Will some one else give a number?"

"Fifty-two," said another lad.

The inspector wrote down 25 on the board, and smiled at the teacher. He called for another number, and young Jack called out:

"Seventy-seven; now see if you can change that."

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER
Farm and General Sales
A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.
For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

Will You Receive A Dividend
FROM
Iowa Falls Electric Company?

Many of our customers regularly receive dividends at the rate of SEVEN PER CENT on money safely invested in the Common Shares.

Each One Hundred Dollars brings our shareholders 7 per cent each year without worry or bother.

The money is at work ALL THE TIME because it is in a business that NEVER CLOSES, has no LAY-OFFS and IS A NECESSITY to every customer.

Other advantages are: having an income on which you pay no STATE TAXES, AND IS ALSO FREE OF NORMAL FEDERAL INCOME TAX, and having your money safely invested AT HOME in property YOU KNOW.

Ask for particulars and begin receiving DIVIDEND CHECKS EVERY THREE MONTHS.

Write or call at our office or address the Securities Department, 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC CO.
IOWA FALLS, IOWA

Two Garments All Outdoor Men Need!

A Sheepskin Coat

A warm moleskin covered coat lined with soft young pelts, with a big beaverized sheepskin collar and two large pockets. Just the sort of a coat to give working comfort on the coldest day. A big value at $9.85

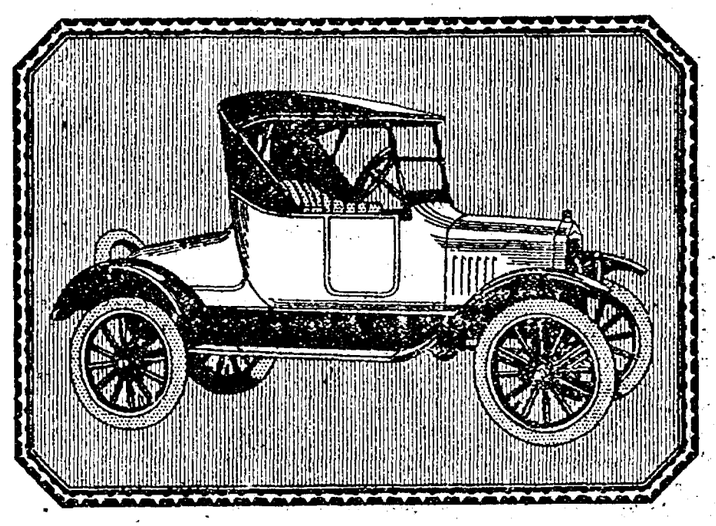
A Real Leather Vest

Full lined with pure wool neck piece and wrists: Outside covering of dark drab moleskin with three large leather trimmed pockets. The inside leather is soft and pliable and the sleeves are made of selected number one mahoghany glove leather, which is pliable and water resisting. A dandy vest for only

$7.85

Get To Know
GILDNER BROS.
MASON CITY, IOWA

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR



New Roadster

Business men—with whom the runabout has always been very popular—are well pleased with the changes embodied in this model.

Always rugged, the car has been made decidedly trimmer and more comfortable.

This result is obtained by raising the radiator and enlarging the cowl; making a decided improvement in looks and providing more leg room.

A well designed top and slanting windshield do their share toward adding a finished, clean-cut appearance.

Make it a point to see the other new models also on display in the nearest Ford dealer's show room.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond, Iowa

Ford
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

HENRY H. PALS
Iowa Automatic Hog Door

Self-closing, easily opened by smallest pig, keeps hog house warm and comfortable; free from drafts; keeps the chickens out; saves on feed bill. Worth $100 to any hog raiser. Strong and substantial. Will last indefinately.

REGULAR PRICE $13.50

Special price for 30 Days

$10.00

To introduce this wonderful door to all farmers

May be seen at Klemme Lumber Co. Belmond

Write for descriptive literature to

Henry H. Pals
Meservey, Iowa

Phone 60
for
Meats or Groceries

Deliveries at 8:00 a. m., 11:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m.

Remember our 4 per cent Sales Discount Plan for Cash

CASH MARKET

The Place of Everything To Eat

J. P. Larsen & Sons Belmond, Iowa

Phone 60 and We'll Deliver

Big
Used Car
Bargains!

1 Ford Roadster
1 Ford Touring
1 Ford Truck
1 Chevrolet Touring
1 Reo Touring
1 Hudson Touring

All priced right to sell, and in good condition. Call and see them.

Belmond Motor Sales Company

Buick and Chevrolet Sales and Service

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Wright County Farmers To Ames

According to reports which have been received by the county agent Wright county will be well represented at the seventh swine feeders' day which will be held at Ames on November 16th under the direction of John M. Evvard, chief in swine production at the experiment station.

Delegates from Iowa, Lincoln, Vernon and Troy townships have already been made up and will make the trip to Ames to hear Professor Evvard's explanation of the hog feeding experiments which have been conducted at the experiment station. Large delegations from many other counties throughout the state are planning to attend the swine feeders' program which will be of vial interest to farmers of this sectionof the corn belt.

The growth of soybeans in Wrigh county has become very popular during thep ast two years and many of our farmers will be interested to find the results of the comparisons which are being made of hogging down corn and soy beans, corn and rye, corn and rape. Another experiment which will be explained to our farmers is the feeding of soy bean oil meal to fattening pigs in dry lot and feeding of the same rations to pigs in dry lot with the addition of tankage to the soy bean oil meal.

Many of our farmers expect to attend the three day training school in farm meat which is to be held at Ames Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 19, 20 and 21. This training school will be conducted by the extension department in an effort to train local leaders to assist their farmer neighbors in conducting farm meat demonstrations.

Farm Bureau Ladies Organize

A truly representative meeting of the ladies of the Wright county farm bureau was held at the county agent's office last Monday afternoon when thirty-three of our farm bureau ladies representing twelve townships and including nine lady vice-directors met for the purpose of organizing the schedule of work for 1924, also to elect a county wide chairman of the ladies' work.

Mrs. J. E. Kirstein of Woolstock township was unanimously elected as chairman of the women's department of the county farm bureau. Mrs. A. L. Middleton, Mrs. M. L. Clark and Miss Lydia Richards were also nominated for this office, but a motion was made later that Mrs. Kirstein be unanimously elected as leader of this department of the work. Miss Lydia Richards of Lincoln township was unanimously elected as chairman of the publicity committee to act as sort of a secretary to the chairman and assist with the publiciy work. An executive committee consisting of five other ladies in various part of the county was appointed to assist Mrs. Kirstein in carrying on the work, Mrs. A. L. Middleton, Troy township, Mrs. E. E. Evans, Norway township, Mrs. J. F. Henn, Pleasant township, Mrs A. E. Martin, Belmond township and Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, Iowa township were appointed on this committee.

Miss Avis Talcott, assistant state leader of home demonstration agents from Ames was present at this meeting and assisted the ladies with the organization work. Considerable time was spent at this meeting in organizing the five months training course in clothing which is to be held in Wright county next year, the first series of meeting to be held during the month of February. Plans were made at this meeting for dividing the county into five different territories since the clothing specialist will hold a series of five meetings while in the county each time. Miss Alma Heiner, clothing specialist from the extension service at Ames, will be in charge of the clothing training schools and she has arranged to have twelve ladies in attendance at each of the training schools.

Buy Clover Seed Soon

According to figures recently given out by Charles F. Sarle, government statistican in Iowa, the near future is likely to witness a marked scarcity of clover seed.

Reports from 299 stations in 1922 indicates shipments of 17,560,000 pounds of seed, while reports from the same stations for this year show only 5,560,000 pounds. The falling off is attributed partly to unfavorable weather conditions in some clover growing sections, but mainly to the decreased acreage devoted to clover the last few years.

The inference is plain. If seed is going to be as scarce as the figures indicate the price will be high accordingly. The middle west needs to get back to normal in clover production. It will have to get back. But if it has to depend largely upon imported seed the movement will not only be retarded but it will also be unduly expensive.

Iowa land owners should give this situation serious thought.

Pigs Will Be Present

Iowa farmers who attend swine feeders' day to be held at Ames, November 16, will be shown the way to greater profits in swine feeding, the pigs having promised to be on the job to point out in clear fashion the best money making ways, according to John M. Evvard, chief in swine production at the Iowa Experiment station. A trip over the experimental farm will demonstrate how the various feeding methods are working out in actual practice.

More than twenty lots of pigs are being fed on such feeds as soy bean meal; soy bean forage; standing corn with and without soy beans, rape and rye; and mineral mixtures. For this reason, results of "dollars and cents" value to thefarmer will be given out November 16.

Among the many other items of interest to the Iowa farmer are the experiments which have to do with the feeding of soy bean oil meal in balancing corn as compared with tankage or a mixture of the soy bean oil meal with tankage. Such other problems as the feeding of Paf, a garbage tankage, the value of the small, medium and reasonably large types of swine, and the effects of minerals for fall pigs, will be fully discussed by men recognized as authorities.

Ames graduates and the fathers of Ames students, who attend, will have opportunity to visit with their friends during the homecoming celebration which comes the day following, November 17th, which is also the Nebraska-Iowa state game.

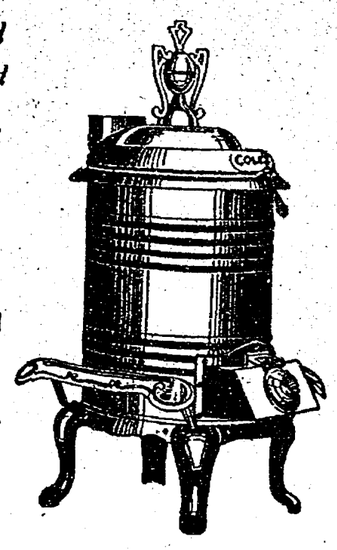
The best way to sell that stove is to use an Independent Want Ad.

WASTED GASSES SAVED!

---and turned into Food and Clothing for your Family and your Nation.

A Few COLE'S Features Are--

Smokeless and dust proof feed door.
Burns all escaping gasses.
Primary hot blast, saving one-tbird your fuel.
Heavy inside cast lining.
Air tight draft---stays tight.



GRIESY'S

Phone 10

Belmond, · Iowa

OUR GUARANTEE

1. We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, lignite or slack.
2. We guarantee that in homes using open fire places, Cole's Hot Blast Heater will mean a saving of 1-2 on the fuel bill.
3. We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same size fire pot.
4. We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the fuel put in the stove the evening before.
5. We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal or hard coal from Saturday evening to Monday morning.
6. We guarantee a uniform heat day and night with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
7. We guarantee every stove to remain air-tight as long as used.
8. We guarantee the feed door to be smoke and dust proof.
9. We guarantee the anti-puffing draft to prevent puffing.

The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove be operated according to directions, and connected up with a good flue.

FEATHERS ON HIS HAT

A near-sighted man lost his hat in a strong wind. He gave chase. A woman screamed from a nearby farmhouse:

"What are you doing there?"

"Getting my hat," he replied.

"Your hat!" exclaimed the woman. "That's our little black hen you're chasing."

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

PUBLIC SALE

As I am moving away, I will sell at the Case Bus Barn, in Belmond

Saturday, Nov. 10

Commencing at 1:00 O'clock p. m.

The following described property:

One team of Mares, 7 and 8 years old, sound and good workers, weight 2800.
One Sattley wagon with triple box, new.
One John Deere disc, new.
One 4-section John Deere harrow, new.
One pump jack.
One corn planter, with 120 rods of wire.
Three sets heavy work harness.
Some small articles.

TERMS: All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over that amount 11 months' time on approved security bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

Oscar Alverson, Owner

BELMOND SAVINGS BANK, Clerk. T. D. RANKINS, Auctioneer

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY LOCAL NEWS

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

The H. K. Pals family is enjoying a visit with Mrs. Pals' mother, Mrs. Wm. Rozebom, who arrived the fore part of last week from Soo Center, to spend several weeks with them. H. K. met her at Ventura.

Mr. Robert Smith and daughter, Miss Orpha, left last Thursday for Harper's Ferry, Wisconsin, to attend the funeral of Lester Kernan, a nephew of Mr. Smith, who died from injuries which he received in an accident.

Mrs. B. Bruns and daughter, Miss Fannie and Miss Jennie Meinderts were Belmond callers Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. H. Meinderts spent several days last week at the Bert Stadtlander home near Latimer. Mr. Stadtlander was in town last Thursday and while here made it known that a daughter had come to their home on Wednesday.

The Misses Viola Thomas and Alma Ralston, also Lois, motored to Mason City last Tuesday to bring Mrs. Thomas and daughter Thelma home from the hospital. Thelma is getting along nicely.

A. J. Nissen, Carl Quandt and E.A. Strasburg were in quest of ducks last Tuesday. They said the wild game chose to fly over other places rather than where they were that day, hence they had no trouble bringing home all they brought down.

Miss Viola Thomas left Friday for Cedar Falls where she spent a few days with her sister, Evelyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sloss from Ames were visitors at the Frank Nissen home Saturday and Sunday of last week. This should have appeared in last week's issue but we failed to get particulars.

Mrs. Geo. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watson returned home from Harpers Ferry, Wis., last Saturday, having motored to that place several days before to attend the funeral of Lester Kernan, a nephew, who died from injuries received in an accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stadtlander were Mason City callers Friday. They were accompanied home by Albert Pals who had been receiving treatments for an infectious jaw caused by an ulcerated tooth.

Mrs. Tanner and her sister, Miss McCune, of Mason City, were callers in town last Saturday p. m.

F. C. Sprau was numbered among the sick list week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stadtlander were calling in Belmond last Saturday.

G. Lauster and family motored to Mason City to spend the day, Tuesday of this week.

Erwin Langlitz spent Sunday with relatives at Goodell.

H. Fischer, wife and Lyle and Lydia accompanied by Rev. H. Raecker motored to Waverly last Sunday p. m., remaining until Monday. Rev. Raecker went to Cedar Rapids from there where he had dental work done.

Fred Buche and family and the nurse who attended Mrs. F. Lemke, Sr., following her operation early this fall, motored down from Mason City, Sunday, to spend the afternoon at the Lemke home.

Miss Mildred Gealow spent Saturday evening and Sunday with the home folks at Belmond.

Rev. and Mrs. Raecker entertained the following relatives at dinner last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. John Koenig, and two children, Miss Viva Schroedemeier, Walter Menzel, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Menzel of Waverly, H. Fischer and family, G. E. Raecker and family, and Fred Menzel of this place.

C. J. Wendel and family and the Misses Sylvia Blum and Irene Guth were Sheffield visitors last Sunday p. m.

Subscribe for the home paper. Costs less and will do you and the town more good.

Miss Viva Schroedemeier and Walter Menzel of Waverly were visiting relatives here last Saturday and Sunday.

The "Helping Hand" society will meet with Mrs. Muller on Thursday, Nov. 15, for their regular monthly meeting.

The Cemetery society wil l meet with Mrs. S. P. Fischer on Tuesday p. m., Nov. 13, for their regular meeting.

J. Buck and family of Klemme spent Sunday at the Heiko Janssen home, also attending church here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith from Belmond were Sunday visitors at the Reif home.

Mrs. S. P. Fischer and daughter, Gladys, visited at the Geo. J. Fischer home in Mason City last Friday. Mrs. Fischer recently had the misfortune of falling down the stairs in their home, causing her much pain. Altho the doctor said no bones were broken she has suffered considerably, having been quite badly bruised up.

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Phone--Residence 17; Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

STORES WILL BE CLOSED

On Monday, Nov. 12 all business houses of this place will be closed in order to observe Armistice Day properly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bier were Belmond callers Thursday last.

Mrs. Ir. Bier was a passenger to Mason City, Saturday.

A. J. Nissen and family and Bernard Brater were calling in Belmond last Sunday p. m.

Henry Gerdes and wife have been enjoying a visit for several weeks with their daughter and family from Wheeling, W. Va. Mrs. Gerdes has been very poorly and has not improved as her relatives and friends would like.

C. E. Brogan, wife and baby visited at the Thomas home last Sunday evening. They were returning home from Dows, having spent the day with the Harry Firkens family.

On Monday forenoon of this week a trio of the "hobo" class hied themselves down the track, stopping at the F. Ralston home. Miss Alma, being home alone, not caring to entertain them (having seen two of them approaching the house) latched the doors and went out to the cornfield where Mr. and Mrs. Ralston were. By the time she and her father returned to the house, two of the men were looking things over about the place, the third of the party having gained entrance into the house by taking a window screen off, had taken a watch and a ring, also satisfying his hunger by sampling some cake which he found in the kitchen. Mr. Ralston pointed out to the two men several "exits" and not having any trouble or need of urging either, they soon disappeared.

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

On Hallowe'en night about 12 of the young friends of Orvis Schleselman very pleasently surprised him, t being his birthday. Games were played that were in keeping with the occasion. Hallowe'en stunts were played and an enjoyable evening spent. Pumpkin pie with whipped cream and sandwiches and home made candies were consumed in a remarkably short time, and all went home feeling they had spent Hallowe'en in a very satisfactory manner. The kiddies appeared in Hallowe'en costume, Elanor Muller's and Marvin Nissen's being voted best.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The "King's Daughters" and the "Friends" S. S. classes of the Evang. church met at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lauster on Tuesday eve for a Hallowe'en party. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pickles and pumpkin pie were served. "Spooky" games and pranks were played and the evening passed all too quickly for those who were present.

Victor Zimmerman and family visited his people at Sheffield last Sunday evening.

A. E. Muller and family and Geo. Brater were callers at the John Heuerman home in Belmond last Sunday p. m.

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER
Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

TIRES

If you need tires, see us. We have a mighty good price on good standard tires.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

FOR SALE--A few choice BIG TYPE CHESTER WHITE BOARS

Sired by some of the prize winning boars of the breed.
These boars are from extra good sows and from big litters.
They are eligible to registry and will be sold as guaranteed breeders if notified by January 1st.
Priced reasonable.
Phone 414, Meservey. 1 1-2 miles north and 1 mile west of Meservey, Iowa.

E. S. BARKER, Meservey, Iowa

A painted floor has these virtues

Why rub and scrub to get the ground-in dirt out of plain wood floors. A coat of Acme Quality Floor Paint (Granite) will solve your problem. Gives a bright, cheery tone to the room. Gives a hard, durable surface to the floor, that may be easily washed. Use it for kitchen, pantry, halls and other rooms.

ACME QUALITY FLOOR PAINT

Is made by one of America's greatest paint houses. For 40 years Acme Quality Products have been recognized as the standard of the industry.

Come in and let us show you the attractive shades in which Acme Quality Floor Paint is made. Remember, every can that goes out of this store carries our recommendation.

C. J. Wendel

Meservey, Iowa

Save the surface and you save all offers you the best service consistent with good banking, and respectfully solicits your account. It is not necessary to come to the bank. Deposits may be sent by mail.

THIS BANK

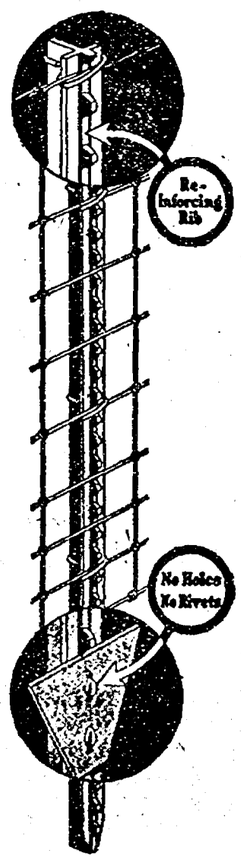
Open A Checking Account

THE LARGEST BANK IN MESERVEY

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA



Buy Your Coal NOW!

SEMI-ANTHRACITE
KENTUCKY
WEST VIRGINIA SPLINT
FRANKLIN COUNTY, ILLINOIS
TENNESSEE BRIQUETS
CAR HARD COAL IN TRANSIT

Let Us Have Your Order for STORM WINDOWS NOW!

All Kinds of Building Material—Priced Right
ROOFING, STORM DOORS, PAPER, ETC.

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.
Office Phone 20 Res. Phone 17

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

"Guarantee"

Sometimes means something—Many times nothing. Here is a guarantee that means everything.

When applied to "Mother's Flour" our guarantee means that you may purchase a sack, make as many bakings as you wish n order to give it a fair trial, and, if not satisfied, your money will be returned without question or argument. We are having splendid success with this Flour. Take a sack home on this guarantee.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor
Meservey, Iowa

ROWAN NEWS

Miss Nellie Hackley of Dows was here Thursday and Friday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hackley.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snow went to Goldfield, Thursday to get the rest of their household goods. His nephew Harold Snow of Renwick, came to drive one car down to Reinbeck on Friday. They departed Saturday for that place.

The Epworth League social at the M. E. church Tuesday evening was immensely enjoyed by those present. There were about 45 young people in attendance. The evening was spent in playing Hallowe'en games.

Mrs. Kate Nordmeier and children spent the week end at the Fred Aldinger home.

Jake Aldinger and daughters and Charles Keith motored to Iowa Falls, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs from Goodell, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantle and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Moellering were entertained at Sunday dinner at the F. H. Brooks home.

Several of our local citizens were called as jurors in a case brought from Belmond to be tried before Justice of the Peace L. D. Yoeman, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Sheldon drove to Williams, Sunday, to see Mr. Sheldon's brother, who has been seriously ill but is now improving.

Miss Mabel Ripley, whose home is in Idaho, and who has been staying with her father for the past three weeks, returned to Rowan for a visit with her aunt, Mrs. F. B. Sheldon.

Nels Hanson returned from Des Moines the first of the week. Mrs. Hanson is still with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Fox, who is still quite ill.

Miss Frances Farran spent the week end with friends at Hampton.

The 4th division of the Cong. Aid society will hold an Armistice Day supper Saturday afternoon and evening, Nov. 10 in the church basement. The price is 30 cents. All world war veterans are especially invited to attend as the honor guests of the evening.

The Standard Bearers held a meeting last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Guy Sheldon. About 15 of the girl members attending.

Farm House At Rowan Burns Down

The residence on the Pester farm west of Rowan, occupied by the Ray Swope family, was burned to the ground Saturday evening while the family were absent in Clarion.

Mr.and Mrs. O. E. Ballou and La Vonne were Galt visitors Saturday.

The Missionary society of the Cong. met on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. O. E. Ballou. An interesting lesson on China was conducted by Mrs. R. H. Keith. The special features of the program were paper on Chinese life by Mrs. Keith and a talk on Chinese customs and manners by Mrs. Albert Emerson. Solos by Misses LaVonne Ballou and Violet Halbrook. Cocoa and doughnuts were served by Mrs. Ballou and LaVonne.

Mrs. Etta Carr is spending the week at the Emmet Carr home assisting with the work during corn husking.

Mrs. Blanche Jennings and her cousin, Mrs. Cecil Denth and little son, were over from Clarion Friday visiting with Mrs. Ina Stumph.

Mrs. Ina Stumph the lady clerk at Whitten's store, was off duty several days the first of the week.

Relatives here received the news Sunday of the death of Mrs. John Fyser in Polo, Ill. She was a distant relative of Mrs. Geo. Whitten and an old friend and neighbor of the Ed. Miller family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Denio of Galt called at the O. E. Ballou home on Sunday. They have sold their property in Galt and are looking for a suitable location.

D. A. French went to Kalona last week to visit his daughter, Mrs. Ola O'Laughlin.

Harry Harris and Guy Toyne went to Ames Saturday to attend the Drake-Ames foot ball game.

Friends here have received word from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bingham and Faye that they are very comfortably settled for the winter. Their address is 142 1-2 Lake Drive, St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson were in Belmond, Friday, visiting at Mrs. Munson's brother's, Perry Loomis.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten drove to Hampton, Sunday p. m., Mrs. Conn returning with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tressider visited at the Howard Tressider home in Clarion, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Streveler and two daughters went to Ft. Dodge, Saturday. Mrs. Streveler had to report to the doctor who had performed the operation on her.

Art Gardiner, who was assisting Emma Carr in his husking, with the corn husker, had the misfortune to get his hand caught in the machine last Friday. His left hand and fingers were badly mangled. He was taken to Iowa Falls, Monday, to the Ellsworth hospital where he might receive the best treatment possible. It is feared at this time that he may lose his hand.

John Walker and Ralph Harlop of Faribault, Minn., are picking corn at Eugene Burt's.

Rev. Hardcastle of Iowa Falls and Rev. Bump of Galt were Sunday afternoon callers at the Rev. Halbert home.

Gay Fletcher departed Monday for St. Paul, where he expects to take a railroad examination with a view to securing a position as brakeman.

L. D. Bingham was up from Iowa Falls for the week end, making a farewell visit before departing for the east where he expects to spend the winter at Middletown, Conn., at the home of his son, Harold.

S. B. Heath was a business caller at Mason City, Monday.

Daniel Eugene, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Whitten, was quite ill last week but is better now.

F. H. Brooks received a message Friday telling of the death of his uncle, Geo. Proctor at his home in Hollywood, Cal. Mr. Proctor was a brother of Mrs. J. D. Brooks. Mrs. Brooks is the only remaining one of quite a large family. Mr. Proctor was formerly a resident of this vicinity, moving from here to Hampton 12 years ago, and from Hampton to California.

Mrs. S. B. Ferguson, who has been spending the summer with her daughter Mrs. Luther Howell, in Napoleon, O., returned last week and is now staying with her daughter, Mrs. Dan Harris.

Mrs. J. D. Brooks is making an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. U. B. Kepford, in Waterloo.

The W. H. M. S. of the M. E church had their regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Nora Shaffer. They took up the second chapter of their study text book "America and its Future."

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Steffens entertained Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard of Belmond, Sunday.

Several auto loads of our young people attended the first basket ball game of the season with Williams last Friday eve, The score of the girls' game was 27 to 10 for Rowan. The boys' score was 2 to 0 in favor of Rowan.

Mrs. Clint Kercheval was very pleasantly surprised at her home on Thursday evening, Nov. 1, when about 30 of her neighbors walked in to spend the evening, the occasion being her birthday. An oyster supper was much enjoyed.

The Farmers' Union met at the Brooks' hall Thursday evening for a hard-time party. After the program and business meeting refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie, ginger bread and coffee were served. The rest of the evening was spent in playing games. About 75 were present.

Mrs. Geo. Liming and son, Mrs. H. O. Azeltine and Angie Baines were Hampton shoppers Saturday.

Mrs. Carl Johnson of Mason City, who has been visiting her uncle, R. H. Virden, and other relatives returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Esther Andrews is staying at the Wm. Bailey, Jr., home during the corn husking season.

Mrs. Earl Allen and two children of Iowa Falls spent the latter part of the week with her cousin, Mrs. Les Andrews. They went from here to visit her parents at Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barker dropped in on the G. W. Whitten home Friday. They were enroute from Reinbeck to Armstrong with relatives.

Born to Mrs. Peter Eson, a ten-pound baby boy, Friday evening, Nov. 2. Mrs. Odland of Holmes is caring for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burner autoed to Hampton, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hoke, Mr and Mrs. Harvey Linaweaver, and Mrs. John Riker returned the last of the week from Alma, where they have been engaged in gravel hauling.

The teachers of the lower grades treated their pupils to Hallowe'en parties last Wednesday p. m. Miss Barker and the pupils of the 4th and 5th grades formed a parade on the street dressed in their costumes. Miss Mendell with her 2nd and 3rd grade pupils played games and enjoyed a lunch of sandwiches, cake or pie and apples.

Rowan Congregational Church

Morning worship at 10:30. Sunday school at 11:30. Senior Endeavor at 6:30. Evening service at 7:30.

Wednesday at 4 p. m. Junior Endeavor. At 7:30 p. m. prayer meeting.

We will observe next Sunday as World Court Day. A patriotic message will be given and world war songs sung. Come and join us.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Class meeting at 9:30. Sunday school at 10. We passed the hundred mark last Sunday. Let us all be in our places next Sunday.

Divine worship at 11 a. m. Subject A review of Dr. Hays book, John and His Writings.

Epworth League at 6:30. Evening services at 7:30. Do we need a world court of justice?

Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. prayer meeting and study of the 4th chapter of John.

A cordial welcome to attend our services is extended to all.

SOME KANSAS GIRL, SAY WE

From wedding notice in Kiowa County Signal: The bride is a woman of wonderful fascination, for with a manner as enchanting as the wand of a siren and a disposition as sweet as the odor of flowers, and a spirit as joyous as the caroling of birds, and a mind as brilliant as the glittering tresses that adorn the brow of winter, and with a heart as pure as dew drops trembling in the coronet of violets, she will make the home of her husband a paradise of enchantment, where the heaven-tuned harp of marriage shall send forth those strains of felicity that thrill the senses with the rythmic pulsing of ecstatic rapture.

A PLUMP QUESTION

A certain man who may be serious or otherwise propounds this interesting question: "I am asked to join the Farm Bureau, also to subscribe for your paper. I can't do both. Which?" Join. That's one way to get enough money to subscribe.

GOODELL NEWS

Mrs. O. A. Nelson came Wednesday for a visit.

Miss Agnes Fuller will teach the winter term in the school 3 miles west of town.

Mesdames Nelson, Letch, Sandberg and Hanson spent Friday p. m. in the country with Mrs. Lew Avery.

Many Goodell men attended Masonic lodge at Belmond, Thursday evening.

A number of Belmond ladies visited Miss Butts, Thursday p. m.

Mrs. Butts and Bernice are staying with Lew Wesenberg until their new house is completed.

Mrs. Nelson, Edith Sandberg and Mrs. Hanson were entertained Friday to a six o'clock dinner at the Dr. Snearly home.

Mrs. Wesenberg had dental work done at Garner, Friday.

Last Tuesday evening the first quarterly meeting was held at the U. B. church. District Supt. Emerson was present and gave a talk.

Our local teachers went to Des Moines Wednesday to attend the state convention.

Miss Eunice Wesenberg visited on Friday and Saturday at Geo. Ruka's.

Elmer Tisdahl of Chicago is visiting his cousin, Eli Hetland.

The 3rd division of the Ladies Aid realized about $28 at their Hallowe'en affair Tuesday evening.

Don't forget the bazaar Nov. 17. Supper served. Everyone invited.

The Goram family will move into the Goodrich house this week.

Missionary meeting was held at the home of Maude Griggs, Friday. Mrs. Thada led the meeting.

A dance was held in the hall Friday evening. Another one is to be held Nov. nineth.

Alva Matson left Friday for an extended visit. She will visit a few days at Cedar Rapids with Ina Ahrenkeil and will spend a short time with her aunt in Chicago. From that place she goes to Indianapolis to be with the Stacy family for an indefinite period.

Mesdames Snearly, Peters, Nelson Hanson and Alva Matson were entertained Thursday at the Reynold Kinseth home at Belmond.

Robert Clark of Garner came on Wednesday to visit at the Frank McNutt home.

Mrs Lew Avery was a guest at the Kinseth home in Belmond Wednesday.

Mrs. Monroe Graeber and Mrs. Bier were Belmond callers Thursday.

Mildred Remer is helping at the Ahrenkeil store a few days.

Little Morris Zeilie had the misfortune to break one of his fingers last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumned Trumbell and Lucile, of Klemme, were Goodell callers Saturday.

The Earl Clark family and Grandma McNutt of Garner moved their household goods to Goodell, Saturday.

Margaret Kearney is enjoying a two weeks vacation from her school duties.

A. D. White returned Wednesday from Prairie Du Chene where he had been receiving treatment.

Mrs. O. A. Nelson, Helen and Edith Sandberg were guests to dinner Saturday at the Peters home.

Fred Lemke and family of Meservey were callers in Goodell, Saturday.

Mrs. Edward Hughes visited at the home of her parents Saturday.

Leo Finn autoed to Iowa City on Friday to attend the foot ball game.

Harold Clark is suffering with infection in his hand, caused from a fracture in his wrist.

The Tracy family of Lake Mills visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gartin Sundayed at the John Griggs home.

Mrs. James Trumbell visited at the Harry Trumbell home last week.

Evelyn Johnson of Belmond was a visitor at the Lewis Johnson home Sunday.

Veronica Finn spent the week end at home.

The Ruka, and Thompson families of Belmond and the Schlichting family were entertained Sunday at A. C. Carpenters.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Benson of Kanawha, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wagoner and daughter Janice, of Algona were Sunday guests at Sandbergs.

The Fred Graeber family of Kanawha visited at Monroe Graeber's, Sunday.

Mrs. Deiger, mother of Mr. Deiger, of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Knott of S. D., and Miss Shugard of Chicago attended the funeral of Mrs. Deiger.

Casey Blank, who is working in Morrison, visited in Goodell Sunday.

Woman's Missionary program, which was postponed will be held on Sunday, Nov. 11, at 11 a. m. Choir practice will be held at the Burgess home on Friday evening.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Stella Lupton Deiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jothathan, was born Oct. 11, 1878, at Algona, Pennsylvania. While a child her mother was called to the paradise of God, while the children, four in number, were left in the earthly home to be cared for by the hands of others. One sister also was called to fill a vacancy in the home of the soul, where she, too, may be found crowned with life eternal and dressed for the marriage feast of the lamb. The garments of salvation thrown about, indicating that she is anticipating the arrival of other members of the family.

Mrs. Deiger was a thrifty personality. Her young life was spent much the same as yours or my life would be spent had we been bereft of our mothers while a child. Her school days were for her, days of interest and joy. She was industrious as well as ambitious and did her work well, but under the circumstances in which she was placed no doubt there were some opportunities that were let slip by, opportunities that she was unable to make use of. But in the main, Stella Lupton came to womanhood very bright, beautiful character. Many things could be found in her personality that the very best of us might do exceedingly well if we would imitate her in those respects.

Stella was converted while quite young and did things very often that revealed to those around her that she was trying her utmost to exemplify the life of her Lord and Master. As a child she was full of life and delighted in the pranks of a real child, always playful and jubilant.

Stella was married to Chris Deiger Feb. 16, 1902, at Tipton, Iowa, after which Mr. and Mrs. Deiger moved to Illinois, but after two years they came to Iowa in Hancock county, where they bought and settled on a n. The two have lived happily together, making and building a beautiful country home, both working side by side, in the house and out of doors. Stella loved the out of r life and as much as possible you would find her sharing with her husband the toil, joy, misfortunes, and sorrows of the home building life. But that was not all, Stella became interested more and more in the larger and better and more important things of life. A few years ago she united with the United Brethern church, and started upon her errands of mercy by working in the church. She did things so often that made us all feel that we could not get along so congenial and happily as gether without her. While many of us would get behind the cloud, Stella always lived on the sunny side of life. She was ready to bring something to you that would cheer you up. Stella was in the Sunday school and church service. She sang very beautifully the gospel messages at church service. She was a member of our choir—and we will miss her—she was found in the mid week prayer and praise service. Her testimony was heard with ours. We will miss her there.

As a member of our church Aid society she was unsurpassed. The meetings of the Farm Bureau were her joy and delight. She will be missed upon earth but will be found in heaven. Stella left us when God called. She has lived her life among us. Tuesday morning, Oct. 30, at 4 a. m. it seemed an angel stooped and unlocked the house and ended a week or more of suffering while Stella went to her eternal home, at the age of 45 years, 19 days.

She leaves first of all her husband who said "I will miss her." She leaves an aged father, Captain Lupton of Monroe, Washington. Also a sister, Mrs. Ida Knott of the same place, another sister, Mrs. Clara Shugard of Sunnyside, Wash., and friends. She leaves us to finish our God-given task. I am wondering who will be next to pass along the same highway. Will it be you, or will it be I? "What I say unto one I say unto all: Watch ye therefore, for in an hour when ye think not the son of man commeth."

Funeral services were held in the United Brethern church of Goodell, Iowa, Sunday, at 11 a. m. Nov. 4th, '23, with Rev. D. W. Thompson, pastor of the church, officiating. Interment was in the cemetery east of Goodell.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Earl Hall and Mr. Braun were business callers at Hampton, Monday.

Corn picking vacation is over and most of the pupils are back in the school.

Some of the farmers are thru picking corn and others will finish in a few days. At a time when wages are so high and help is not to be had at any price the farm boys and girls and their parents especially appreciate the two weeks' vacation.

The Chris Yakel family are entertaining a new baby girl.

Mrs. John F. Herman and Mrs. Chas. Tucker who have spent the past month here with relatives and friends, departed on Thursday for their homes at Long Beach Calif.

Miss Marjorie Flynn, the 4th and 5th grade teacher in our schools, is absent this week on account of illness. Mrs. L. S. Reed is substituting in the grades.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Beenen were business callers at Hampton, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bohlen and their children visited with relatives and friends at Dumont last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bell and Miss Nellie Bell were business callers at Belmond last Thursday.

Rev. and Mrs. Heyenga are the proud parents of a fine baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder and daughter, Virginia Ruth, and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle and daughter Leona of Hampton were visitors at the Nels Larsen home on Sunday.

Mrs. Clarence Bohlen and two daughters, Bernice and Francis, visited with relatives at Belmond last Wednesday.

Jerry Beenen is driving a new Ford roadster.

Dr. Maker of Galt was a professional caller in town last week.

Miss Velma Larsen visited with relatives at Hampton several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bohlen were business callers at the county seat on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield and son visited with relatives at Belmond on Sunday.

Miss Nellie Bell, Claas Modderman, Guy Simons and Harry Blom are attending jury at Hampton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dunn and family were callers at Hampton on last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. A. B. Arends spent several days the past week visiting with her sister at Dumont.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen entertained at their home on Hallowe'en eve, 43 relatives as a farewell gathering in honor of Mrs. John Herman and Mrs. Chas. Tucker, who left Thursday for their homes at Long Beach, Calif. Hallowe'en decorations adorned the home thruout. The evening was very enjoyably spent in contests and guessing games in which Lewis Bell won the prizes. Altho no one was able to discover what was underneath the cornshock, which stood on the table. Much merriment was enjoyed when Mrs. Herman and Mrs. Tucker were asked to find a package in one of the rooms which they should take with them on their journey westward. The package was discovered amongst the ghost clothing. Dainty refreshments were served after which the relatives took their departure.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.

Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

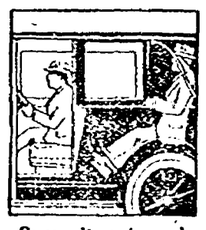
Schultz Jewelry Store

Belmond, Iowa

MONDAY, NOV. 19

Overland Champion Electrifies the Nation

PUBLIC interest and demand immediately following the announcement of the new Overland Champion is bewildering. Study these pictures. Adjustable seats!—big loading space!—a veritable sleeping car for camping trips!—doors front and rear!—bigger engine!—every closed car comfort!—cord tires!—other wonderful new features.



Seats adjust forward and back for tall and short people.

Big loading space by removing rear seat and upholstery.

NEW Overland $695 f.o.b. Toledo CHAMPION

Nordschow Motor Co.

Belmond, Iowa

Pay Your Bills By Mail

YOU CAN WRITE CHECKS AND PAY YOUR BILLS BY MAIL. IT IS A SAFE AND CONVENIENT WAY OF SENDING MONEY AND SPARES YOU THE TIME AND TROUBLE OF NEEDLESS TRIPS IN BAD WEATHER.

THIS IS ONE REASON WHY A CHECKING ACCOUNT AT THE STATE BANK OF BELMOND HAS SPECIAL ADVANTAGES DURING THE WINTER MONTHS.

FARM LOANS AT LOW RATES.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

Annual Red Cross Roll Call This Month

The official appeal for Iowa's seventh annual Red Cross Roll call was sent into every county, town and hamlet in the state today.

Over 100,000 members is the goal for this year, as set in the formal call issued today to county Red Cross leaders by Judge Hubert Utterback, state chairman. The roll call will begin on Armistice Day, November 11 and continue through Thanksgiving, November 29. During that time it is the aim of workers to offer the opportunity for membership to every man and woman in Iowa.

More than 5,000 men and women will participate in the solicitation in the state this year, it was said here today. Each county and town will have its separate organization for conducting the roll call. In many communities the work will be taken over bodily by business men's organizations, women's clubs and like groups.

The quotas throughout Iowa are larger than last year. In 1922 Iowa had 62,100 members. The enlargement of the quota is based on the fact that the Central Division has five percent of the total population of the United States. The division's quota for the seventh roll call is 1,165,000 members, which, accordingly, makes Iowa's quota 100,000 members.

The program for the coming year will be even broader than that of last year. Work for the ex-service men and public health will be stressed, also life saving. An effort will be made to build up disaster committees in every chapter so that in case of local or national disaster they will be ready to function. First aid, life saving, Junior Red Cross, and nutrition will also form a part of the year's program.

Although, Iowa has been assigned a larger quota than last year, Judge Hubert Utterback, state chairman of the Red Cross, says that the state will answer as she always has in the past and outdo her quota.

THE high, thick, sharp-edged blocks of the Goodyear All-Weather Tread keep the maximum traction and safety under your car every foot of the way. They resist sideslip and skidding, help make the most of fuel, and protect your motor from the strain of stalling or spinning wheels.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Auto Company
Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

EASY STEERING IS FEATURE

Motor car purchasers careful to consider safety elements in automobile construction, are giving more and more attention all the time to cars in which the operations necessary for proper control in traffic are reduced to a minimum.

Several reasons instantly appear for this, principal of which is that the more complicated the construction or the more complex the manipulations necessary for control the greater are the chances for trouble and even dangers in operations.

All of which brings home the fact that nothing contributes a greater element of safety in motoring than the utmost simplicity in those parts of the car upon which the control depends, thereby freeing the driver from as much exertion and distraction as possible.

A notable example of how this can be successfully carried out is found in the design and operation of the control of the Ford car which gives the driver exceptional command in traffic, in mud and sand, in fact in every place where facility of control is all important.

The short wheelbase and small turning radius insure easy turning of corners and convenience in maneuvering in and out of parking places.

There is no excessive motion of the steering wheel and action, being direct, gives the driver the "feel" of the road and facilitates steering.

In shifting gears, the driver's attention need not be distracted from the road and as the shifting is made by his feet on the pedals and soon becomes automatic, and his hands are at all times on the steering wheel. In the Ford transmission there is no danger of clashing gears and it is impossible to fail in accomplishing a gear shift. Further, the shift is made silently.

The all important brake, chief element of safety, is an outstanding feature of Ford control. Operating thru the foot pedal with but little effort, it exerts a quick grip and permits immediate stopping of the car. The action is simple. It is transmitted from the pedal directly to a drum on the driving shaft, giving the Ford owner a powerful, postive brake. Equalization of the braking effort is accomplished thru the differential, assuring even braking on each rear wheel.

An emergency brake, operated by a hand lever and acting on the drums of the rear wheels, also is provided. Construction of this brake system is of such simple and direct design that adjustment is seldom necessary and the safety factor is always of the highest.

WINTHROP IS DISGRACED

Recently there was a picnic at Winthrop, Iowa. It seems from reports that gambling in various forms was licensed, or at least permitted, with the consent of the authorities.

The Methodist pastor had the courage to enter a protest. It was ignored. He filed information against the gamblers and the sheriff cleaned up things in short order, as was his duty.

Then two promoters of the picnic went to the home of the minister, seized him and took him up town, placed him upon a platform and held him there for three hours. Two Winthrop business men may be charged with criminal offenses asserted to have been committed against the minister. The minister is not concerned, he declares, with retaliation for the rough handling and humiliation to which he was subjected, but rather with observance and enforcement of the law and respect for man's constitutional rights and betterment of community conditions.

This shows what can take place in Iowa. We would not think much of such a disgraceful affair, had it taken place in the South, but when such is allowed in this state it brings humiliation and shame to every law abiding citizen.

The better citizens of that community should unitely rise up and take this matter in hand and see that justice is meted out to all these law breakers and that gambling devices or other lawlessness shall not be permitted again in Winthrop.

We wonder where the mayor was when this disgraceful procedure was in progress ? If he knew of it, and refused to stop it, he should be impeached and thus made an example of. Such mayors are a disgrace to the community they serve.—Clear Lake Reporter.

"Beatrice Beautiful has a holiday today."

"I suppose she will take the day off?"

"Huh?"

"She is going to see herself act."

Flip: Too bad you had to lose your cow. What was the matter?

Flap: Well, you see, she swallowed several nails, an automobile key, three screws, a strand of fence wire, and several other auto accessories. Then someone twisted her tail, she jumped into high, and ran herself to death.

Stenography Banking Salesmanship Telegraphy ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES

Educate for Success. Position for each graduate Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Writ. for free catalog.

Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

ADVERTISING

Advertising is the education of the public as to who you are, where you are, and what you have to offer in the way of skill, talent, or commodity. The only man who should not advertise is the man who has nothing to offer the world in the way of commodity or service.—Elbert Hubbard.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

After Every Meal

A universal custom that benefits everybody.
Aids digestion, cleanses the teeth, soothes the throat.

WRIGLEY'S

a good thing to remember

Sealed in its Purity Package

THE FLAVOR LASTS

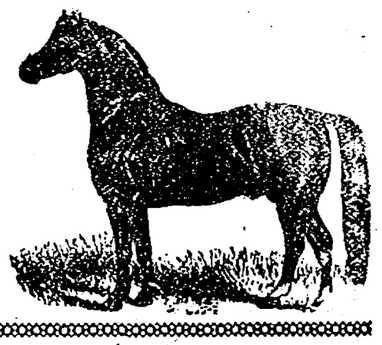
PUBLIC SALE

Having decided to quit farming, I will sell at public auction, at the place known as the Henry Sporaa farm, one mile north and two miles west of Alexander on

Thursday, November 15

Commencing at 1:00 O'clock Sharp, the following described property:

5 - Head of Horses - 5



1 team roans, 1 gelding and 1 mare, weight 2800, 6 years old.

1 team mares, 1 black and one bay, 11 years old, weight 2400.

1 bay mare, coming 5 years old, weight 1400.

4 - Head of Cattle - 4

4 Milk Cows---3 fresh.

Poultry

About 200 Hens, old and young.

90 - Hogs - 90

Spring and Fall Pigs.

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 8-ft. International disc, new.
1 John Deere corn plow, new.
1 3-section iron drag.
1 Sterling corn planter, with 80 rods wire and drill attachment.
2 new wagons.
1 new hay rack.
2 sets work harness.
1 John Deere riding plow.
1 bob sled.
1 self hog feeder.
Some chicken coops.
1 frame building, 14x8.
Numerous other tools and small articles.

1 DeLaval Cream Separator No. 12 About 800 bushels new Corn

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 12 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

B. O. KINSETH

Proprietor

T. D. RANKINS, Auctioneer ALEXANDER SAVINGS BANK, Clerk

The BRANDING IRON

by Katharine Newlin Burt

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

SYNOPSIS

Book One.

CHAPTER I.—Joan Landis, eighteen years old, wife of Pierre, is the daughter of John Carver, who murdered her mother for adultery. Her lonely life, with her father, in a Wyoming cabin, unbearable, Joan leaves him, to work in a hotel in a nearby town.

CHAPTER II.—Joan meets Pierre, and the two, mutually attracted, are married.

CHAPTER III.—Carver tells Pierre the story of Joan's mother. Days afterward, Pierre, seemingly for no reason, forges a cattle brand, telling Joan it's their brand, the Two-Bar.

CHAPTER IV.—In Pierre's absence Frank Holliwell, young minister, asks shelter for the night. Joan interests him, and finding she is anxious to learn he offers to bring her books.

CHAPTER V.—Holliwell brings the books. Pierre, jealous, forbids Joan to read them. He leaves, to be gone a week, and Joan turns to the books.

CHAPTER VI.—Pierre, returning unexpectedly, finds Joan reading. Maddened by jealousy and liquor, he ties Joan and burns the Two-Bar brand into her shoulder. Hearing her scream, a stranger bursts in and in a duel Pierre is shot. Joan faints.

CHAPTER VII.—The stranger revives Joan and, telling her Pierre is dead, urges her to go with him

CHAPTER VIII.—At the stranger's home Joan's hurt is attended to.

CHAPTER IX.—The house belongs to Prosper Gael, writer, he living there with his Chinese valet, Wen Ho. With returned strength Joan would return to her home and "do something" for Pierre. Convincing her she has not the strength Gael promises to go.

CHAPTER X.—Gael finds Pierre alive. He returns to Joan without being seen and tells the girl Pierre has been "cared for." She has no idea he is alive.

CHAPTER XI.—When her full strength returns, Gael, intensely interested in his companion, begins her "education."

CHAPTER XII.—Gael begins to realize the beauty of his "captive leopardess."

CHAPTER XIII.—Gael induces Joan to put on a woman's suit he gives her. The girl laughs at its smallness, remarking that it must have been made for a "tall child." In his absence, Joan starts for home, but, helpless, is compelled to return. Prosper's delight awakens the girl's heart.

CHAPTER XIV.—Joan hints of marriage, but Prosper puts her off. A letter in his mail, in a "small gray envelope," agitates him, and that night he says goodby to Joan. Next day she sees Pierre riding with Frank Holliwell, and realizes Gael's deception. She dare not meet Pierre.

Book Two.

CHAPTER I.—At the Lazy-Y ranch Jane, the cook, attracts the attention of Jasper Morena, Jew theatrical manager, there with his highborn Gentile wife Betty. Morena wants Jane for a new play he is to produce. Betty had had an "affair" with Prosper Gael, and believing her husband dying, had written she would marry him.

CHAPTER II.—Morena explains to Jane that in the play "The Leopardess," she would portray a "wild girl," partly tamed, almost her own experience.

CHAPTER III.—Jane is that Joan who fled from the sight of her husband at Gael's home. She had striven to forget her past life. Now, with Morena and his wife she goes back to part of it. A stranger comes to the ranch, seeking Joan, his wife. The rancher gives him Morena's address.

CHAPTER IV.—Gael returns from France to enjoy the success of his play, "The Leopardess," known as "Luck's" play. Betty tells him Jasper is compromised with his "star," and she can divorce him. To his horror Gael recognizes Joan, known on the stage as "Miss West," in his play.

CHAPTER V.—Seeking to placate Joan, Gael is savagely repulsed, she scourging him with her knowledge of the fact that he knew Pierre was alive.

CHAPTER VI.—At a second meeting Prosper explains his actions, not endeavoring to exculpate himself. Joan is merciless, thinking only of Pierre, her husband.

CHAPTER VII.—Joan confides to Morena that she is hiding from someone.

CHAPTER VIII.—Accusing Morena of misconduct with "Miss West," Betty tells him she will divorce him. In a small gray envelope Betty has sent him notice of her intention. Morena tells Joan of Betty's action. Joan sees the envelope and compares it with the one Prosper had received in Wyoming, which she had picked up and kept. She gives Jasper the letter, in which the woman had confessed her infidelity. Betty is the "tall child."

"The man who refuses to give her liberty to a wife that loathes him, scarcely comes under the definition."

"My ideas on the matter are different. We need not discuss them. If you will let me read my wife's letter, I think that we can come to an end of this."

Woodward unwillingly surrendered the small, gray envelope to a quivering, outstretched hand. Jasper turned away and stood near the lamp. But his excitement prevented him from reading. The angular writing jumped before his eyes. At last the words straightened themselves.

"I am glad that you have given me this opportunity to escape from a life that for a long time has been dreadful to me. Ten years ago I made a disaster of my life and yours. Forgive me if you can and let me escape. I will not see you again. Whatever you may have to say, please say it to Woodward. From now on he is my protector. In other matters there are my lawyers. It is absolutely not to be thought of that I should speak to you. I hope never to see you alone. I want you to hate me and this note ought to make it easy for you.

"BETTY."

Jasper stared at the name. He was utterly bewildered, utterly staggered, by the amazing dissimulation practiced by this small, soft-lipped, round-eyed girl who had lived with him for so long, sufficiently pliable, sufficiently agreeable. What was back of it all? Another man, of course. In imagination he was examining the faces of his acquaintances, narrowing his lids as though the real men passed in review before him.

"Perhaps you understand the situation better now?" asked Woodward cruelly.

Jasper's intense pain and humiliation gave him a sort of calm. He seemed entirely cool when he moved back toward his brother-in-law; his eyes were clear, the heat had gone from his temples. He was even smiling a little, though there was a white even frame to his lips.

"I shall not write to Betty nor attempt to see her," he said quietly. "But I shall ask you to take a message to her."

Woodward assented.

"Tell her she shall have her release, but to get it she will have to walk through the mire and there will be no one waiting for her on the other side. Can you remember that? Not even you will be there." He was entirely self-assured so that Woodward felt a chill of dismay.

"I shall contest the suit," went on Jasper, "and I believe that I shall win it. You may tell Betty so if you like or she can wait to hear it from my lawyer." He put the envelope into his pocket, crossed the room, and held back one of the crimson curtains of the door.

"If you have nothing more to say," he smiled, "neither have I. Goodby."

He bowed slightly, and Woodward found himself passing before him in silence and some confusion. He stood for a moment in the hall and, having stammered his way to a cold "Good-afternoon," he put on his hat and went out.

Jasper returned to the empty drawing room and began his weaving march.

Before he could begin his spinning which he hoped would entangle Betty and leave her powerless for him to hold or to release at will, he must go to Jane West and tell her what trick life with his help had played upon her. The prospect was bitterly distasteful. Jasper accused himself of selfishness. Because she cared nothing for the world, was a creature apart, he had let the world think what it would. He knew that an askance look would not hurt her; for himself, secure in innocence, he did not care; for Betty, he had thought her cruelly certain of him.

He went to Jane the day after his interview with Woodward Kane. It was Sunday afternoon. She was out, but came in very soon, and he stood up to meet her with an air of confusion and guilt.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked, pulling her gloves from her long hands.

Her quickly observant eyes swept him. She walked to him and stood near. The frosty air was still about her and her face was lightly stung to color with exercise. Her wild eyes were startling under the brim of her smart, tailored hat.

Jasper put a hand on either of her shoulders and bent his head before her. "My poor child—if I'd only left you in your kitchen!"

Joan tightened her lips, then smiled uncertainly. "You've got me scared," she said, stepped back and sat down, her hands in her muff. "What is it?" she asked; and in that moment of waiting she was sickly reminded of other moments in her life—of the nearing sound of Pierre's webs on a crystal winter night, of the sound of Prosper's footsteps going away from her up the mountain trail on a sword-like, autumn morning.

Jasper began his pacing. Feeling carefully for delicate phrases, he told her Betty's accusation, of her purpose.

Joan took off her hat, pushed back the hair from her forehead; then, as he came to the end, she looked up at him. Her pupils were larger than usual and the light, frosty tint of rose had left her cheeks.

"Would you mind telling me that again?" she asked.

He did so, more explicitly.

"She thinks, Betty thinks, that I have been—that we have been—? She thinks that of me? No wonder she hasn't been coming to see me!" She stopped, staring blindly at him; then, "You must tell her it isn't true," she said pitifully, and the quiver of her lips hurt him.

"Ah! But she doesn't want to believe that, my dear. She wants to believe the worst. It is her opportunity to escape me."

"Haven't you loved her? Have you hurt her?" asked Joan.

"God knows I have loved her. I have never hurt her—consciously. Even she cannot think that I have."

"Why must she blame me? Why do I have to be brought into this, Mr. Morena? Can't she go away from you? Why do the lawyers have to take it up? You are unhappy, and I so sorry. But you wouldn't want her to stay if—if she doesn't love you?"

"I want her. I mean to keep her or—break her." He turned his back to say this and went toward the window. Joan, fascinated, watched his fingers working into one another, tightening, crushing. "It's another man she wants," he said hoarsely, "and if I can prevent it, she shall not have him. I will force her to keep her vows to me—force her. If it kills her, I'll break this passion, this fancy. I'll have her back—" He wheeled round, showing a twitching face. "I'll prove her infidelity whether she's been unfaithful or not, and then I'll take her back, after the world has given her one of its names—"

"You Don't Love Her," Said Joan, Very White.

"You don't love her," said Joan, very white. "You want to brand her."

"By G—d!" swore the Jew, "and I will brand her. I'll brand her."

He fumbled in his pocket and brought out the small envelope Woodward Kane had handed to him the day before. He stood turning the letter about in his hands as though some such meaningless occupation was a necessity to him. Joan's eyes, falling upon the letter, widened and fixed.

"She has written to me," said Jasper. "She wants her liberty. She wants it in such a way that she will fly clear and I—yes, and you, too, will be left in the mud. There's a man somewhere, of course. She thinks she has evidence, witnesses against me. I don't know what rubbish she has got together. But I'm going to fight her. I'm going to win. I'll save you if I can, Jane; if not, of course I am at your service for any amends—"

He stopped in his halting speech, for Joan had stood up and was moving across the room, her eyes fastened on the letter in his hands. She had the air of a sleep-walker.

She opened a drawer of her desk, took out an old tin box, once used for tobacco, and drew forth a small, gray envelope torn in two. Then she came back to him and said, "Let me see that letter," and he obeyed as though she had the right to ask.

She took his letter and hers and compared the two, the small, gray squares lying unopened on her knee and she spoke incomprehensibly.

"Betty is 'the tall child,'" she said and laughed with a catch in her breath.

Jasper looked at the envelopes. They were identical; Betty's gray note paper crossed by Betty's angular, upright hand, very bold, very black. The torn envelope was addressed to Prosper Gael. Jasper took it, opened each half laid the parts together, and read:

"Jasper is dying. By the time you get this he will be dead. If you can forgive me for having failed you in courage last year, come back. What I have been to you before I will be again, only, this time, we can love openly. Come back."

"Jane"—Morena spoke brokenly—"what does it mean?"

"He built that cabin in Wyoming for her," said Joan, speaking as though Jasper had seen the canyon hiding place and known its history, "and she didn't come. He brought me there on his sled. I was hurt. I was terribly hurt. He took care of me—"

"Prosper?" Jasper thrust in. His face was drawn with excitement.

"Yes. Prosper Gael. I was there with him for months. At first I wasn't strong enough to go away, and then after a while, I tried. But I was too lonely and sorrowful. In the spring I loved him. I thought I loved him. He wanted me. I was all alone in the world. I didn't know that he loved another woman. I thought she was dead—like Pierre. Prosper had clothes for her there. I suppose—I've thought it out since—that she was to leave as if for a short journey, and then secretly go on that long one, and she couldn't take many things with her. So he had beautiful stuffs for her—and a little suit to wear in the snow. That's how I came to call her 'the tall child,' seeing that little suit, long and narrow. . . . This letter came one morning, one awfully bright morning. He read it and went out and the next day he went away. Afterward I found the letter torn in two beside his desk on the floor. I took it and I've always kept it. 'The tall child'! He looked so terrible when I called her that. . . . And she was your Betty all the time!"

"Yes," said Morena slowly. "She was my Betty all the time." He gave her a twisted smile and put the two papers carefully into an inside pocket. "I am going to keep this letter, Jane. Truly the ways of the Lord are past finding out."

Joan looked at him in growing uneasiness. Her mind, never quick to take in all the bearings and the consequences of her acts, was beginning to work. "What are you going to do with it, Mr. Morena? I don't want you to do Betty a hurt. She must have loved Prosper Gael. Perhaps she still loves him."

This odd appeal drew another difficult smile from Betty's husband "Quite obviously she still loves him, Jane. She is divorcing me so that she can marry him."

"But, Mr. Morena, I don't believe he will marry her now. He is tired of her. He is that kind of lover. He gets tired. Now he would like to marry me. He told me so. Perhaps—if Betty knew that—she might come back to you, without branding her."

Jasper was startled out of his vengeful stillness.

"Prosper Gael wants to marry you? He has told you so?"

"Yes." She was sad and humbled. "Now he wants to marry me and once he told me things about marrying. He said"—Joan quoted slowly, her eyes half-closed in Prosper's manner, her voice a musical echo of his thin, vibrant tone—"'It's man's most studied insult to woman.'"

"Yes, that's Prosper," murmured Jasper.

"I wouldn't marry him, Mr. Morena, even if I could—not if I were to be—burnt for refusing him."

Jasper looked probingly at her, a new speculation in his eyes. She had begun to fit definitely into his plans. It seemed there might be a way to frustrate Betty and to keep a hold upon his valuable protegee. "Are you so sure of that, Jane?"

"Ah!" she answered; "you doubt it because I once thought I loved him? But you don't know all about me. . . ."

He stood silent, busy with his weaving. At last he looked at her rather blankly, impersonally. Joan was conscious of a frightened, lonely chill. She put out her hand uncertainly, a wrinkle appearing sharp and deep between her eyes.

"Mr. Morena, please—I haven't anyone but you. I don't understand very well what this divorcing rightly means. Nor what they will do to me. Will you be thinking of me a little? I wouldn't ask it, for I know you are unhappy and bothered enough, but, you see—"

He did not notice the hand. "It will come out right, Jane. Don't worry," he said with absent gentleness. "Keep your mind on your work. I'll look out for your best interests. Be sure of that." He came near to her, his hat in his hand, ready to go. "Try to forget all about it, will you?"

"Oh, I can't do that. I feel sort of—burnt. Betty thinking—that! But I'll do my work just the same, of course."

She sighed heavily and sat, the unnoticed hand clasped in its fellow.

When he had gone she called nervously for her maid. She had a hitherto unknown dread of being alone. But when Mathilde, chosen by Betty, came with her furtive step and treacherous eyes, Joan invented some duty for her. It occurred to her that Mathilde might be one of Betty's witnesses. For some time the girl's watchfulness and intrusions had become irritatingly noticeable. And Morena was Joan's only frequent and informal visitor.

"Mathilde thinks I am—that!" Joan said to herself; and afterward, with a burst of weeping, "And, of course, that is what I am." Her past sin pressed upon her and she trembled, remembering Pierre's wistful, seeking face. If he should find her now, he would find her branded, indeed—now he could never believe that she had indeed been innocent of guilt in the matter of Holliwell. Her father had first put a mark upon her. Since then the world had only deepened his revenge.

There followed a sleepless, dry and aching night.

CHAPTER IX

The Spider.

"Hullo. Is this Mrs. Morena?"

Betty held the receiver languidly. Her face had grown very thin and her eyes were patient. They were staring now absently through the front window of Woodward Kane's sitting-room at a day of driving April rain.

"Yes. This is Mrs. Morena."

The next speech changed her into a flushed and palpitating girl.

"Mr. Gael wishes to know, madam,"—the man-servant recited his lesson automatically—"if you have seen the exhibition of Foster's water-colors, Forty-eighth street and Fifth avenue. He wants to know if you will be there this afternoon at five o'clock. No. 88 in the inner room is the picture he would especially like you to notice, madam."

Betty's hand and voice were trembling.

"No. I haven't seen it." She hesitated, looking at the downpour. "Tell him, please, that I will be there."

Her voice trailed off doubtfully.

The man at the other end clipped out a "Very well, madam," and hung up.

Betty was puzzled. Why had Prosper sent her this message, made this appointment by his servant? Perhaps because he was afraid that, in her exaggerated caution, she might refuse to meet him if she could explain to him the reason for her refusal, or gauge the importance of his request. With a servant she could do neither, and the very uncertainty would force her to accept. It was a dreadful day. Nobody would be out, certainly not at the tea-hour, to look at Foster's pictures—an insignificant exhibition. Betty felt triumphant. At last, this far too acquiescent lover had rebelled against her decree of silence and separation.

At five o'clock she stepped out of her taxicab, made a run for shelter, and found herself in the empty exhibition rooms. She checked her wrap and her umbrella, took a catalogue from the little table, chatted for a moment with the man in charge, then moved about, looking carelessly at the pictures. No. 88 in the inner room! Her heart was beating violently, the hand in her muff was cold. She went slowly toward the inner room and saw at once that, under a small canvas at its far end, Prosper stood waiting for her.

He waited even after he had seen her smile and quickening step, and when he did come forward, it was with obvious reluctance. Betty's smile faded. His face was haggard and grim, unlike itself; his eyes lack-luster as she had never seen them. This was not the face of an impatient lover. It was—she would not name it, but she was conscious of a feeling of angry sickness.

He took her hand and forced a smile.

"Betty, I thought you disapproved of this kind of thing. I think, myself, it's rather imprudent to arrange a meeting through your maid."

Betty jerked away her hand, drew a sharp breath. "What do you mean? I didn't arrange this meeting. It was you—your man."

They became simultaneously aware of a trap. It had sprung upon them. With the look of trapped things, they stared at each other, and Betty instinctively looked back over her shoulder. There stood Jasper in the doorway of the room. He looked like the most casual of visitors to an art gallery, he carried a catalogue in his hand. When he saw that he was seen he smiled easily and came over to them.

"You will have to forgive me," he murmured pleasantly; "you see, it was necessary to see you both together and Betty is not willing to allow me an interview. I am sorry to have chosen a public place and to have used a trick to get you here, but I could not think of any other plan. This is really private enough. I have arranged this exhibition for Foster and it is closed to the public today. We got in by special permit—a fact you probably missed. And, after all, civilized people ought to be able to talk about anything without excitement."

Betty's eyes glared at him. "I will not stay! This is insufferable!"

But he put out his hand and something in his gesture compelled her. She sat down on the round, plush seat in the middle of the room and looked up at the two men helplessly. Joan had once leaned in a doorway, silent and unconsulted, while two men, her father and Pierre, settled their property rights in her. Betty was, after all, in no better case. She listened, whiter and whiter, till at the last she slowly raised her muff and pressed it against her twisted mouth.

Morena stood with his hand resting on the high back of the circular seat almost directly above Betty's head. It seemed to hold her there like a bar. But it was at Prosper he looked, to Prosper he spoke. "My friend," he began, and the accentuation of the Hebraic quality of his voice had an instantaneous effect upon his two listeners. Both Prosper and Betty knew he was master of some intense agitation. They were conscious of an increasing rapidity of their pulses. "My friend, I thought that I knew you fairly well, as one man knows another, but I find that there have been certain limits to my knowledge. How extraordinary it is! This inner world of our own lives which we keep closely to ourselves! I have a friend, yes, a very good friend, a very dear friend"—the ironic insistence upon this word gave Prosper the shock of a repeated blow—"and I fancy, in the ignorance of my conceit, that this friend's life is sufficiently open to my understanding. I see him leave college, I see him go out on various adventures. I share with him, by letters and confidences, the excitement of these adventures. I know with regret that he suffers from ill-health and goes west, and there, with a great deal of sympathy, I imagine him living, drearily enough, in some small, health-giving western town, writing his book and later his play which he has so generously allowed me to produce."

Both Prosper and Betty Knew He Was Master of Some Intense Agitation.

"What the devil are you after, Jasper?"

"But I do my friend an injustice," went on the manager, undiverted. "His career is infinitely more romantic. He has built himself a little log house amongst the mountains, and he has decorated it and laid in a supply of dainty and exquisite stuffs. I believe that there is even an outing suit, small and narrow—"

"My G—d!" said Prosper, very low.

There was a silence. Jasper moved slightly, and Prosper started, but the Jew stayed in his former place, only that he bent his head a little, half-closed his eyes, and marked time with the hand that was not buried in the plush above Betty's head. He recited in a heavy voice, and it was here that Betty raised her muff!

"Jasper is dying. By the time you get this letter he will be dead. If you can forgive me for having failed in courage last year, come back. What I have been to you before, I will be to you again, only this time we can love openly. Come back."

"I am going mad!" said Prosper harshly, and indeed his face had a pinched, half-crazy look.

The Jew waved his hand. "Oh, no, no, no. It is only that you are making a discovery. Letters should be burnt, my friend, not torn and thrown away, but burnt." He stood up to his stateliest height and he made a curious and rather terrible gesture of breaking something between his two hands. "I have this letter and I hold you and Betty—so!" he said softly—"so!"

Betty spoke. "I might have told you that I loved him, that I have loved him for years, Jasper. If you use this evidence, if you bring this countersuit, it will bring about the same, the very same, result. Prosper and I—" She broke off choking.

"Of course. Betty and I will be married at once, as soon as she gets her divorce, or you get yours." But Prosper's voice was hollow and strained.

"You will be married, Betty," went on Jasper as calmly as before; "you, branded in the eyes of the world as an unfaithful wife, will be married to a man who has ceased to love you."

"That is not true," said Betty.

"Look at his face, my dear. Look at it carefully. Now, watch it closely. Prosper Gael, if I should tell that with a little patience, a little skill, a little unselfishness, you could win a certain woman who once loved you—eh?—a certain Jane West, could you bring yourself to marry this discarded wife of mine?"

Betty sprang up and caught Prosper's arm in her small hand.

"He is tired of you, Betty. He loves Jane West." Jasper laughed shortly, looking at the tableau they made: Prosper white, caught in the teeth of honor, his face set to hide its secret, Betty reading his eyes, his soul.

"I am entirely yours, in your hands," said Prosper Gael.

Betty shook his arm and let it go. "You are lying. You love the woman. Do you think I can't see?"

"It will be a very strange divorce-suit," went on Jasper. "Your lawyers, Betty, will perhaps prove your case. My lawyers will certainly prove mine, and, when we find ourselves free, our—our lovers will then unite in holy matrimony—rather an original outcome."

"Will you go, Prosper?" asked Betty. It was a command.

He saw that, at that moment, his presence was intolerable to her.

"Of course. If you wish it. Jasper, you know where to find me, and, Betty,"—he turned to her with a weary tenderness—"forgive me and make use of me, if you will, as you will."

He went out quickly, feeling himself a coward to leave her, knowing that he would be a coward to stay to watch the anguish of her broken heart and pride. For an instant he did hesitate and look back. They were standing together, calmly, man and wife. What could he do to help them, he that had broken their lives?

Betty turned to Jasper, still with the muff before her mouth, looking at him above it with her wide, childlike, desperate eyes.

"What do you get out of this, Jasper? I will go to Woodward. I will never come back to you. . . . Is it revenge?"

"If so," said Jasper, "it isn't yet complete. Betty, you have been rash to pit yourself against me. You must have known that I would break you utterly. I will break you, my dear, and I will have you back, and will be your master instead of your servant, and I will love you—"

"You must be mad. I'm afraid of you. Please let me go."

"In a moment, when you have learned what home you have to go to. This morning I had an interview with your brother in his office, and he wrote this letter that I have in my pocket and asked me to give it to you."

Betty laid down her muff, showing at last the pale and twisted mouth. Jasper watched her read her brother's letter, and his eyes were as patient and observant as the eyes of a skillful doctor who has given a dangerous but necessary draught.

Continued next week.

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. J. B. Warren and children of Bagley, Iowa, are visiting her sister Mrs. G. C. Baker, this week.

Mrs. Ed. Eiler and children from Clarion, spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Longley.

Miss Marian Gibbs spent the week end with friends at Mason City.

Miss Elma Stapley spent the week end with friends at Eagle Grove.

Mrs. Geo. Reinke of Geneva spent the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Eimbrink.

Take advantage of the Independent's Big Family Offer—The Peoples' Popular Monthly, Farm and Fireside, Today's Housewife, and the Belmond Independent, All Four One Year For Only $2.45. This offer good only until December 1st.

Mrs. Reynold Kinseth entertained the Mesdames Snearley, Peters, Nelson and Hanson, and Miss Alva Matson, of Goodell, on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Bier and Mrs. Monroe Graeber of Goodell were callers at this city last week.

Miss Marjorie Flynn, who teaches in the Alexander school, has been at the home of her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flynn, this week, absent from her duties on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield of Alexander were guests of relatives here Sunday.

Chas. Peterson and family from Hampton were guests at the home of his mother, Mrs. P. J. Peterson, on Sunday.

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars. Three miles south of Kanawha.—Gundvel Johnson. 513*

Heiko Janssen and family of Meservey were visiting Saturday in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Stacy were guests of relatives at Hampton on Sunday.

Geo. W. Griggs of Goodell was a business caller here one day last week.

The Belmond Independent and the Des Moines Register both one year for $5.80. Regular price $7.00. Register subscriptions must be new; Independent either new or renewal. If renewal on Register, price for both is $6.10. Have your renewal sent in by taking advantage of this saving.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Miss Edna Knau of Geneva returned to her home last week after a three-weeks' visit at the Will Eimbrink home.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Eimbrink and daughter, Zelda, were visiting friends at Geneva last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith spent Sunday with relatives at Meservey.

Independent Farm Sales Service is Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

"GETTING AHEAD." Sounds interesting, doesn't it? It is a splendid little paper published for young people. It will show you how to get ahead. Send a post card for it today. THE HAMILTON UNIVERSITY, Mason City, Iowa.

Mrs. Lester Bickett and son Robert came Tuesday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Boughton. The Bickets are living at Dinsdale now, were Mr. Bickett is employed in a bank

Miss Evelyn Johnson spent the day, Sunday, at the Lewis Johnson home in Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boller and daughter Helen Ruth, spent Sunday with his parents at Goodell

Bazaar At Congregational Church

Chicken supper 5 p. m. until all are served. 50 cents. Children under 12 years, 25 cents.

Mrs. W. L. Kent and daughter, Inez, returned home from Denver, Colorado last week Wednesday. Mrs Kent has been taking treatments at that place for several weeks, and is much improved in health.

Mrs. McCallum and daughter, Blanche, were visitors at Clarion on Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Norton and daughter, Vera, were Mason City shoppers on Monday.

Mrs. McGowan of West Union spent the week end at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. U. Leinbach.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson from Rowan were visiting Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Loomis. Mr. Loomis and Mrs. Munson are brother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard spent Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Jesse Steffens, at Rowan.

Mrs. Lucy Brand left Tuesday for southern Florida, where she expects to spend the winter with her son.

Mrs. Rosecrans and Mrs. Walter Pritchard of Garner, returned from Rochester on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Gartin spent Sunday with friends at Goodell.

Mrs. Lew Avery of Goodell spent Wednesday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Kinseth

For Saturday, try our Russian Buns. 25 cents a dozen.

A full line of cake and pastry every day. Tell us your wants. We will make them. Anything in the bakery line. Try our pie.—Barban's Bakery.

Roomers wanted, ladies prefered. —Mrs. Emmie Landon.

Geo. Brater and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Muller, of Meservey, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heuerman, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bailey drove to Iowa Falls, Sunday afternoon. They were accompanied as far as Popejoy by Mrs. F. E. Snyder.

Members of the official board of the M. E. church, with their families and Rev. and Mrs. O'Connor enjoyed a picnic supper and meeting in the church parlors Monday evening.

Mr. Presley Griggs of the Geo. W. Griggs Fur Company of Goodell will be at the White Produce Co. Belmond, every Saturday afternoon and evening, starting Nov. 17, to buy furs. Bring in your furs to him and get the highest market price for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Eggers of Kanawha spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Eggers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Benson.

Verner Reed, of Boyd, Wisconsin, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Reed, this week.

P. Barban of the Belmond Bakery was on the sick list last week.

Light house keeping rooms for rent.—Mrs. Emmie Landon.

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 16th and 17th.

Bernold Kinseth, one mile north and two miles west of Alexander, Nov. 15, Thursday. Closing out farm sale.

Oscar Alverson, Saturday, Nov. 10, at Case Bus Barn, Belmond Farm implements.

Mrs. Dan Brooks and John spent Sunday with relatives at Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks from Rowan were callers in town Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and Miss Nellie Bell, of Alexander, were visitors here Thursday.

The Des Moines Register and the Independent for one year for only $5.80. New subscriptions only to the Register.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Mr. Presley Griggs of the Geo W. Griggs Fur Company of Goodell will be at the White Produce Co. Belmond, every Saturday afternoon and evening, starting Nov. 17, to buy furs. Bring in your furs to him and get the highest market price for them.

The Independent is making an exceptionally fine clubbing offer with either new or renewal subscriptions. Read the big ad in this issue. Take advantage of this opportunity to secure your winter's reading at a very unusual price. The offer is limited in time, so do it now!

Trinity Ladies Aid and Dorcas society will hold their annual Bazaar and Supper Saturday, Nov. 17. Sale starts at 10 a. m. Supper at 5 p. m. 512c

Mr. and Mrs. Wolle were business callers in Goodell Friday.

Elmer Hafeman and wife of Meservey were visitors in Belmond on Sunday.

Philip Axen spent the week end at Cornelia with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hogenson are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl born Monday evening. This is their first born.

An Armistice Day program will be given by the literary society of the school next Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Butts and Warner drove down from Goodell, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. R. G. Brown has been numbered among the sick the past week.

Mesdames W. H. Wolle, E. M. Lathrop, and Snyder drove to Goodell last Friday to visit Miss Bernice Butts. Miss Butts is very ill.

Mrs. Amy Case Peterson spent the week end at the home of her parents and little daughter here. Mrs. Peterson is teaching at Webster City this year.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—White Rock Pullets, from prize winning stock. $1 each. —Mrs. Wm. Leonard, Swaledale, Ia.

For Sale—New range and two second hand cook stoves. Inquire at Independent. 45tf

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars, pure bred.—J. M. Sampson, Belmond. 49tfc

For Sale: Used parts for Chevrolet Ford and Studebaker.

Two 1923 Ford tourings with starter and rims.

One 1923 Ford coupe.

Nordschow Motor Co., Belmond. 49tf

For Sale—One new Majestic Range.—Phone 206. 49tf

For Sale—Chester White boar, 18 months old. Pedigree furnished. Phone 3121

For Sale—Late cabbage. Phone 2712. Chas Gealow. 50tf

For Sale—Buff Rock, Barred Rock, Light Brahma and Silver Laced Wyandotte cockerals at $1.50 each.—Phone 3217. Mrs. O. D. Jenison. 512*

WANTED

WANTED—Correspondents on all rural routes out of Belmond. Good money paid, supplies free. Requirements not difficult. Call 115, or call at Independent office.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, heavy	14c
Hens, light	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	13c
Leghorns	12c
Geese	10c
Ducks	12c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	37c
Cream	45c
Creamery butter	50c
Oats	34c
Corn, old	70c
Corn, new	60c

My, how it can sweep!" says every woman who has ever used the New 2-piece

Fuller Broom

made of tough, durable Aztec Fibre (patented)

Won't break off. Makes sweeping easier, faster and cleaner.

Handle is detachable, you never have to buy a complete new broom

Watch for the "Fuller Man" or telephone for him to come any day you wish.

E. R. LOCKWOOD

WE DO ALL KINDS OF

CLEANING

WE ALSO DO AUTO TOP AND CURTAIN WORK.

Belmond Tailor Shop

F. J. TUFFREE
South of Case Hotel

Phone 28

GIVING THIS FIRM A CHANCE TO HANDLE YOUR CREAM, EGGS AND POULTRY DOES NOT INVOLVE TAKING ONE YOURSELF.

WE CAN SERVE YOU WELL AND MAKE YOU MONEY ON THE PRODUCE SOLD TO US. TRY US.

White Produce Co.

Belmond Phone 272 — Goodell Phone 21

Kinseth's Store News

APPLES! You bet! A carload of Black Twig Apples on the track in Belmond today at $1.50 a basket. A real apple, juicy, sweet, tasty, full of enjoyment. Get your basket now. Nothing like a good, tart, juicy apple to satisfy that longing for something-you-don't-know-what.

—K—

AND—a carload of SPUDS! Late potatoes, guaranteed good keepers, thoroly ripe and mighty fine cookers. You haven't seen a better potato, or as good a potato, this fall. And only ninety cents at the store on the corner.

—K—

Of course at all times the best in groceries at the best in prices. All we want is a fair margin on a quick sale. Not a big profit on a few sales. That's why you always see so many folks in the Store on the Corner.

—K—

SPECIAL! SPECIAL! SPECIAL!

A pound of coffee—a package of macaroni—and a package of Quick Large Oatmeal—value $1.40—At the Special Price of only one dollar—and a FANCY SHOPPING BASKET FREE! Get yours quick—they won't last long at this price.

—K—

Follow the crowds!

Courtesy Pays

Courtesy is only another name for the Golden Rule of doing unto others as you would have others do unto you.

We aim to conduct our Bank along that line. We try to be courteous, considerate, appreciative and obliging. We try to make courtesy a distinctive feature of this Bank's service. Safety, service, satisfaction—all may be had by doing your banking business with us. We invite you to investigate.

Belmond Savings Bank

Belmond, Iowa

NEW WORK

BY

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY

Installation of Ten Additional Street Lights in Belmond and Two Additional Street Lights in IOWA FALLS.

Re-routing of the Iowa Falls-Garner line—at the Iowa Falls Plant.

Increasing the clearance of the High Line from Cedar Rapids to Iowa Falls over the Western Union lines at Iowa Falls.

The cost of this work approximates $1,150.

Another reason why our Customers have the opportunity to invest in the Company.

Have you inquired about the 7 per cent Convertible Notes?

Iowa Falls Electric Company

Iowa Falls, Iowa

Or Any Of Our Offices.

Belmond Independent

VOL. 5 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER, 22, 1923 — NO. 1

Thanksgiving Day Game To Be One Of The Best Battles Of The Season

Belmond Tangles With Dows Then

Everything All Set For Biggest Crowd And Biggest Time Of The Year Thursday.

BELMOND TRIMS KAMRAR

When Belmond and Dows tangle on the Belmond field next Thursday foot ball fans will see one of the best games of the year. With one defeat chalked up against them last year, Belmond will try to even up the score this Thanksgiving, and the "dope" says they should. But not until the end of the game can it be safely said.

The strong Kamrar team went down to overwhelming defeat Friday afternoon on the local field, when Belmond's huskies walked thru them for four touchdowns and three goals.

Kamrar put up a hard fight, and tried desperately to hold the Belmond boys down, but the locals would not be denied and swept everything before them. Kamrar has one of the best high school teams in this section of the state, and have won the majority of their games, playing bigger towns. Against Belmond, however, they simply could not get started, and only once in the entire game, in the last five minutes of play did they have a chance to score. Their chance went glimmering when, after three unsuccessful attempts to smash the line, they fumbled on an end run just as the final whistle blew.

Belmond worked some beautiful plays, particularly on some new shifts and with forward passes. Their passing game was brilliantly executed, and invariably went for long gains. Not one of their passes was intercepted, while several Kamrar passes landed in Belmond hands. The old reliable line smashes and off tackle plays netted gains nearly every time, some of them for 15 yards. The boys played a splendid game, altho it was marred in spots, two chances for touchdowns losing out on fumbles and sluggish playing. Their eagerness to get into action several times drew them penalties for being off side. The interference was good and seems to be improving in every game, while their tackling is getting down to real fine points. That Belmond has a winning foot ball team was amply demonstrated Friday by the decisive score rolled up against one of the best teams around.

The next, and last, game of the year will be Thanksgiving Day on the Belmond grounds, when Dows comes up to battle. They have one defeat chalked up against Belmond from last year, but if they chalk up another this year they certainly will know they have been in a real game. The "dope" favors Belmond to win, but dope often goes astray, and this game is certain to be a stemwinder from start to finish. Dows is coming up with full strength, and Belmond people will be there with voices all tuned up and hopes high. It ought to be some time.

IF YOU DON'T THINK THEY READ THE ADS, TRY THIS

Mistakes in a newspaper are often apt to be serious or comical, and one of the latter occurred in the Independent last week. Hilko H. Pals, of Meservey, had a local advertising some potatoes he had to sell, at 75 cents a bushel. The galley proof showed up O. K., but after placing the type on the press the figure "7" broke off in printing, so that Mr. Pals was advertising potatoes at 5 cents a bushel. The paper hadn't been in the mail more than a couple of hours before folks started kidding us about it, F. P. Dibble being the first man who wanted to buy all the spuds Mr. Pals had! If you don't believe the ads are read just make a mistake. Mr. Pals sold all his potatoes—at 75 cents, however.

NO COMMENT NECESSARY

O. L. Varland, of the State Bank, recently received the following letter, which requires no comment, but which certainly is good. The letter:

——, Iowa,
November 19, 1923.

Dear Ser Mr. Warland I send up one Check for Dollars 1.80 that Kame bek unpaid a thet a had that much left bout will yow please send may check and if ther is eny monny send that to Doun to Me Adrese Are

OPERETTA GIVEN BY SCHOOL NEXT MONTH

The Senior class met Monday night and elected the annual staff for this year.

Editor in Chief—William Tyrrell
Business Manager—Edwin Christie
Advertising Mgr.—Lewis Parsons
Circulation Mgr.—Harold Johnson
Class Editor—Ruth Knudson
Literary—Katherine Thiltgen
Music—Mildred Schultz
Boys' Athletics—Fred Vestweber
Girls' Athletics—Grace Leavy
Calendar—Ruth Box
Joke—Ruth Veeder
Cartoonist—Arthur Christie
Photographer—Helen Hildebrand
Alumni—Raymond Stapley
Stenographers—Opha Thompson
Genevieve Starnes

The efforts of the team are now centered on winning the Thanksgiving game with Dows. This will be the big game of the season and every one should plan to see it.

The local business men and foot ball fans have contributed to the advertisement in the Independent this week. We are sorry that we could not give all who desired to contribute a chance to do so, but we were unable to see them all.

The Seniors have selected their class ring and are to have it before the Christmas vacation.

Margaret Blair is wearing the typewriting medal again this week.

Miss Hill and the Girls' Glee club are working hard on an operetta which will be given between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Division II of the Literary will give a Thanksgiving program Wednesday afternoon November 28.

Supt. Guthrie went to Clarion on Monday afternoon to judge a preliminary declamatory contest.

Mr. Pals went to Goodell last Friday night to referee a basket ball game between Goodell and Klemme

Miss Sharon entertained the high school faculty at her home last Saturday evening. Everyone spent a very enjoyable evening.

Miss Inga Hill, a student from the University of Minnesota, spent the week end with Miss Hill.

SUGAR CO. ENTERTAINS NEIGHBORING BANKERS

The sugar company entertained the bankers and their families from the surrounding towns at the plant on Tuesday evening, some 80 or more guests being present. The guests were entertained at a social hour, following which they inspected the factory. They then returned to the office and a delicious luncheon served, the party breaking up around 11 o'clock.

The affair was simply a get-together, good fellowship meeting, and was hugely enjoyed by all attending.

PICTURES SHOW AWFUL RUINS

Jasper Johnson recently sent his parents a bunch of pictures of the wreckage caused in Japan by the recent earthquake. The pictures show more vividly than any words could portray, the awful damage and loss of life caused by the disaster. One of them shows bodies piled in the ruins four and five deep; others of bodies which have been cremated; others of buildings still burning and a mass of flame and smoke and broken timbers. In one place the earth in the street cracked open in great fissures, two feet or more across and several feet deep. A railroad train was pictured where the ground had sunk and let the tracks down sideways, tipping the entire train into the rightofway.

BELMOND H. S. FOOT BALL TEAM

Top Row, Left to Right: Raymond Stapley, Harold Johnson, Glen Rierson, Cyril Jenison, Sam Leinbach.
Second Row: Coach Pals, Harland Rierson, Fred Vestweber, Edwin Christie, Ira Studebaker, Wm. Tyrrell.
Third Row: Joe Sprenzel, John Henn, Paul Johnson, Gerald Trees, Clifford Johnson, Sam Leinbach.
Bottom Row: Claude Johnson, Albert Martin, David Tyrrell, Marshall Nourse.
(Philip Axen, a member of the team, is not in the picture.)

Two Klemme Men Go To Grand Jury

Crash Into Louis Rierson While Driving In Stewed Condition.

C. M. Bredbenner and Albert Davidson, claiming Klemme as residence were bound over to the grand jury yesterday morning by Mayor Sullivan on a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated.

Information was filed by County Attorney J. M. Jensen. The men are out on bonds of $1,000 each pending action by the next term of district court.

Bredbenner and Davidson crashed into Louis Rierson of Belmond on Tuesday night, about nine o'clock, as he was returning from Clarion in his Studebaker touring car. The two Klemme men were driving a Ford Runabout. The collision occured by the sugar factory, and both cars were badly damaged, the Klemme car having the front axle driven back behind the crank case of the engine by the collision.

Rierson escaped injury, but Davidson was badly cut about the face by broken glass. Marshal Finn got them both immediately, and Wednesday morning they were tried on a town ordinance and fined $25 each and costs, and the state then jerked them up and bound them over on a state charge.

One empty bottle and two full bottles of booze were found on them.

MAIN ENGINE BREAKS DOWN

A temporary delay in the sugar making campaign at the local factory was caused last Friday, when a bearing on the main engine gave out. It was necessary to tear the engine down to put in a new bearing, and about ten hours were lost, the plant resuming operation that evening.

BERNICE BEULAH BUTTS

Bernice Beulah Butts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Butts, was born June 20, 1897 at Goodell, Iowa and died November 15, 1923, at the age of 26 years, four months and 26 days, death being caused by Brights disease.

She graduated from the Goodell schools, then attended the Belmond school, and graduated later from the state teachers college at Cedar Falls. She taught for several years. Her mother, two brothers and two sisters are left, her father preceeding her in death. Funeral services were held at the U. B. church at Goodell, Saturday, interment being at Belmond.

SOUR GRAPES.

The Belmond-Kanawha high school foot ball game here last Friday afternoon drew the largeest crowd of spectators that has been here this fall to a game. The first half of the game was fine and at its close the score was 0 to 0. The teams played to a great disadvantage, on account darkness in the last half, at times it being almost impossible to see the ball. As has been the case here-to-fore and was again last Friday, the Belmond team seemed to play to "get" certain players on our team and in Friday's game were quite successful, Jerry Trainer, one of our star players being injured in the first quarter and unable to again enter the game and others were hurt and obliged to stop playing.

The game was won by Belmond, 27 to 7, but was a much closer contest than this score would indicate as Belmond was fortunate in having the ball a greater part of the time after darkness set in. —Reporter

FINED FOR FORGERY

Two man, claimed to be Greeks, and giving the names of Jim Massors and Bill Hinkle, claiming residence at LuVerne, were arrested on Monday charged with forgery. They first present a check for $7.50 to Johnson & Wright, who became suspicious and called the bank, which declared the check no good. The two men then went to Parsons & Co., where they cashed the check in payment of a bill of goods, receiving some change. Marshal Finn was on the trail and found them at Parsons. were brought before Mayor Sullivan, who made them give back the money and fined them each $10 and costs.

FIRE DAMAGES RESIDENCE

The residence of the Barry Sisters in north Belmond caught fire about noon Sunday, the shingles on the roof catching fire from sparks. The alarm was turned in and the fire department was promptly on the job, extinguishing the blaze with the use of chemicals. Damage was small, only on the roof of the house.

DECLARES MORALS IN SLUMP

Dr. W. S. Fleming, of Chicago, delivered an address in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. The meeting was free, and of a patriotic nature. Dr. Fleming's idea was that the Bible should be placed in every public school, as it was in years past. He declared that we are now in the midst of the most serious slump in morals that America has ever known and that nothing would improve the morals of America till the Bible is put back in the education system of the country.

"The Brown Mouse" An Unusual Story

Independent's New Serial One For Farmers Especially.

The Independent Will Print Herbert Quick's Remarkable Farm Story, "The Brown Mouse.

The author's name alone will make this new feature of the Independent of interest to every reader and especially to every farm reader, for there is no name better known thruout the agricultural section of the United States. While Herbert Quick is known all over the country, we of the Missouri Valley claim him as our own, and it is Iowa and the Missouri Valley states that have supplied the settings for his world famous books.

Mr. Quick is a leader in the new rural science and has written exhaustively on all phases of it, especially as to the correlating of rural school work with the practical business of farming. He is well known among city people also, but principally as a novelist and writer of short fiction; and there are many crooked politicians and boodlers who are keenly interested in his writings not from any desire to be edified thereby, but to learn the latest angle of his attack upon them. 'The Brown Mouse" is a most unusual story in that it is the earnest sort of propaganda for more intelligent teaching in the rural schools and more businesslike methods in farming; rather dry subjects not likely to attract the average devotees of fiction but which the author has combined with a love story and other romantic elements to an extent as to be almost thrilling. The tale is so vivid and vital that it can not fail to hold the absorbed interest of every reader, irrespective of the reader's tastes of fiction. The novel is regarded almost as a textbook in agricultural colleges and has been read—actually read as part of the program at teachers' institutes and farmers' gatherings all over America, and the farm children have grasped the idea of it at once and been no less delighted than their elders. An equal appeal to young and old seems to us to be about the most valuable quality a serial can possess.

Next week we will tell you something more about this unusual story and with that issue will give you opening chapter.

ATTEND IOWA GAME

Dr Parsons, W. T. Gfeller, V. F. Mikesell and Harry Bohning drove to Minneapolis last Saturday to take in the foot ball game between Iowa University and Minnesota. Minnesota won. 20 to 7.

Five Year Bonds Take Dyer Mortgage

Sugar Company Arranges Big Deal Whereby Mortgage On Plant Is Released.

NEXT WEEK SEES FINISH

An arrangement has been completed by Messrs. A. L. Luick and W. C. Tyrrell, acting for the Iowa Valley Sugar Co., whereby the claim of the Dyer Co. against the factory, in the sum of about $600,000, has been adjusted by the Dyer company taking five-year gold bonds at 6% and releasing their mortgage against the plant.

This is one of the most important steps ever taken in the affairs of the company here, and the most momentous since the plant was built. It assures operation of the plant for the years to come, and enables the company, with profitable operation, to wipe out all indebtedness within a few years. The factory operated at a profit last year and this, and there is every indication that from now on the campaigns will be successful. A few more seasons such as the past two, and the Iowa Valley Sugar Co. stockholders will have a big dividend paying investment. The news of the adjustment with the Dyer Co. is indeed cheering to Belmond people, and much credit should be given the gentlemen who have arranged it. It has been a hard battle, but the plant seems assured now of coming thru.

The first of next week will see the finish of the sugar making campaign for this year. The plant has run over capacity nearly every day during the campaign, and a much shorter time has completed the campaign than was anticipated.

COURT HOUSE NOTES

J. N. Johnson of Belmond demands judgment against Bert Lowen in the sum of $163.00, being the amount due as rent on 50 acres of land, also men and teams to assist with the corn plowing.

Associated Mfg. Co. vs. Townsan Hardware Co. of Belmond ask judgment on note for $135.00.

Because W. A. Parsons of Belmond refused two shipments of flour the Hornell Milling Co. demand judgment of him in the sum of $276.75.

C. N. Reese of Belmond is suing P. N. Amblie on his unpaid note for $238.43. The same plaintiff has a similar claim against H. Forristal for $216.50.

J. N. Johnson of Belmond has filed suit against John Dettman to collect $582.11 alleged to be due for the lease of farm land at $7.00 per acre.

An auto damage suit for $1000 has been filed by W. A. Connor vs. Henry Eimbrink. Plaintiff alleges Eimbrink, while operating his car at a high rate of speed negligently and carelessly drove his car into the plaintiff's car at a point one mile east of Rowan on Primary No. 10 and as a result of said collision plaintiff was damaged in the above sum.

Three unpaid notes for $1000, $360 and $300 respectively are basis of suit filed by the Alexander Savings bank against Ben Kinseth. Interest and costs bring the total up to $1,925.68.—Monitor.

COMMUNITY CLUB MEETING

The Community club will hold its November meeting on Friday afternoon of this week at the library basement. Each member will take part in the program on "Thanksgiving and Christmas Cookery." Heretofore roll call has been dispensed with at regular meetings, but at this time each member is asked to respond to her name by giving a recipe, suggestion or item of interest relative to the Thanksgiving or Christmas seasons.

By conducting the meeting in this informal way, the committee hopes that is may prove mutually beneficial.

Two musical numbers will be given.

All members and friends are urged to be present. The usual refreshments and social hour will be enjoyed.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

THANKSGIVING

American people have so much to be thankful for this year, that they will overlook any one thing. We are so much better off than the rest of the human race that we cannot realize it. Where other nations are in constant fear of dissolution, of internal strife and threatening revolution, with thousands hungry, without the necessities of life, suffering from disaster, famine, and the after effects of the gigantic struggle of five years ago, we in America are at peace, our bins full, our homes secure, our nation stronger than ever in its history. We have so much that we do not know it.

America! Do you know what that means? Do you realize what a wonderful, Divinely guided country you are living in, that you call home? In all the world's history, since history was first recorded on natural rock by the cave man, there has not been a nation blessed with plenty and peace such as ours. Of all peoples, Americans have the most to be thankful for. We should stop a moment in the ever-increasing rush of our lives to think of that. We should remember that we are a free nation, of free people, with those blessings which only a free people can have. Every true American, on next Thursday morning, should lift up his eyes to the heavens above, and with a full heart return thanks to the Being who has guided us thru, and who has been with us in our every trial, who has endowed us and blessed us with the bounties of life. We have been the favored of God.

BOOST THE BALL TEAM!

This week's edition of the Independent is a combination Thanksgiving number and foot ball booster. Considerable space, both in the news and advertising columns, is being given the Belmond team, for several reasons.

The Belmond boys are winning in their games. They have played hard and clean, and deserve support. They are a part of our school institution, and as such are deserving of a boost. The team has had small attendance and are behind financially on their games. They must make it up, and the last opportunity will be Thanksgiving Day when Dows comes here.

Belmond people are asked to attend their Thanksgiving Day game. It means a lot to the boys, both by your moral support, and financially. Athletics must be support by funds other than those derived from taxes, and if Belmond is to have them, and to keep its place with other schools, the people must support the team. Be there next Thursday, and besides your ticket at the gate, lend your support and let the boys know that you are backing them. And aside from all this, you will see a really good game.

OUR FIFTH YEAR

With this issue the Independent places before you Volume 5, No. 1—the first paper of the fifth year of its life. The one great outstanding thought to the editor next Thursday will be his thanks to the many readers and advertisers who have made this issue, and all issues past and to come, possible. A newspaper is a public institution, and only as the public supports it can the paper succeed and thrive. It has been the one policy of the Independent from its first number to give service, both to its readers and its advertisers. We have not always been able to do it, but we have always tried, and we shall continue to do our best. The publisher is fully aware that in many respects the Independent is not as good as it should be, and he hopes in time to remedy these defects. With the help of the friends who have so loyally supported and stood by him, it shall be done.

To you all, our friends, who have enabled us to attain the measure of success which may be ours, we extend our heartfelt thanks. Cold type or mere words cannot tell you how much we appreciate your support, your encouragement and your interest. We shall endeavor, in giving you a better home paper, to show our appreciation.

CHURCHES

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the home of Henry Anderson at 7:30.

Saturday afternoon the class will meet in the church parlor at 2:00 o'clock.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Confirmation service in the English language at 11 o'clock. At the service we hope to receive a good offering, so we will be able to raise our fair share of the budget. Won't you please think of this and do your very best?

In the evening we will have English service with communion at 7:30.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor

Thursday afternoon the South Ladies Aid meets at the home of Mrs. O. J. Lewis.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the lay brethern conduct a service in the Norwegian language. As many as can should attend this service.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The Ladies Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Leinbach on next Thursday afternoon. Those who have no way of getting out will be provided for if they will meet at the church by 2:00 o'clock.

Our Sabbath school is doing excellent work, but we have room for a few more. Anyone not in the Sabbath school elsewhere is invited to come and join us. We meet at 10 a. m. The morning worship at 11. We now have an excellent orchestra and it is rendering us a great help at the evening services. We are going to have a sterioptican lecture next Sunday night on some phase of our work in America. These series are very instructive and give us a glimpse of the great work yet to be done.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

It is certainly an encouraging thing to see the congregations increase at your regular services. We certainly appreciate your loyalty. The way to make a church grow is to have members that you can depend upon to be present at all services. We have them here and that is the reason our church is prospering.

Let's all work for the best services yet this coming Sunday. First boost for a big enthusiastic Sunday school. The Methodist church in Garner had 213 present last Sunday. The Methodist church in Belmond had 198 present. I just left Garner and I want my present Sunday school to beat the one I left. I am for Belmond now with all my strength, so come, loyal workers, "let's go" this Sunday. Hit the line hard!

Sunday school at 10 a. m.
Preaching services at 11 a. m.
Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Evening service at 7:30.
Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30.
Sunday morning subject: "Undeveloped Resources."
Sunday evening subject: "A Young Man in Love."

This service is for the young people of Belmond and community. Invite every young person you see to this service. Of course we want the older people present also. Special music and a profitable time awaits your presence.

The Ladies Aid society will hold their annual bazaar this Saturday, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. Lunches will be served thruout the day.

Boost The Ball Team!

Boost The Ball Team!

We Take the Spots Out
DRY CLEANED
NOW
Is The Time To Buy

JUST RECEIVED a big discount on Tailor Made Suits and Overcoats.

$55.00 overcoats now $44.00
$44.00 overcoats now $35.00

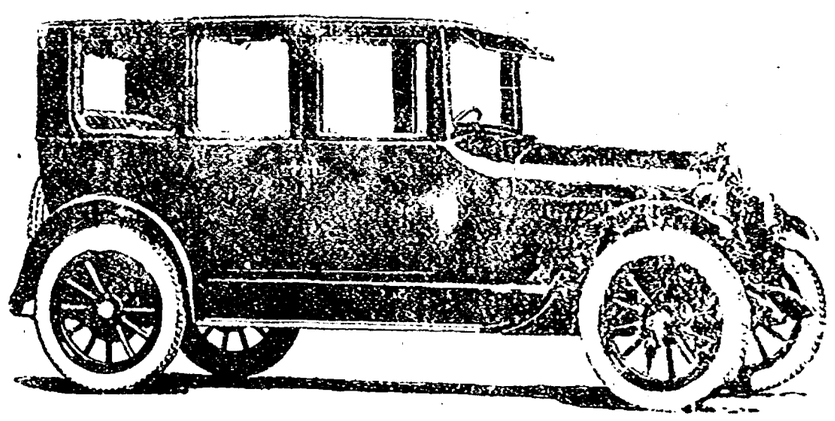
Forty-five different fabrics to select from.

SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY!

Belmond Tailor Shop

Phone 28

Now GENERAL MOTORS
Presents an Amazing Achievement
a SIX Sedan at $1095



OLDSMOBILE-SIX

Oldsmobile
Wins by Comparison

Touring	$ 750
Roadster	750
Sport Touring	885
Cab	955
Coupe	1035
Sedan	1095

The G. M. A. C. extended payment plan makes buying easy. All prices f. o. b. Lansing. Spare tire and tax extra.

Now you can enjoy closed-car luxury and six-cylinder performance at a price never before approached.

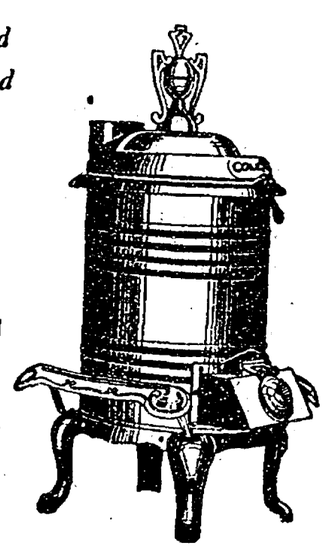
The new Oldsmobile-Six Sedan with its Fisher-built body provides all the comforts of a fine closed car—beautiful velure upholstery, deeply cushioned seats, heater, dome lights, etc. And mechanically this sedan is a revelation of smooth, flexible and reliable performance.

See this car and you will marvel at its low price.

BELMOND MOTOR SALES CO.
Belmond, Iowa

WASTED GASSES SAVED!

---and turned into Food and Clothing for your Family and your Nation.



A Few COLE'S Features Are--

Smokeless and dust proof feed door.
Burns all escaping gasses.
Primary hot blast, saving one-third your fuel.
Heavy inside cast lining.
Air tight draft---stays tight.

GRIESY'S
Phone 10
Belmond, - Iowa

OUR GUARANTEE

1. We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, lignite or slack.
2. We guarantee that in homes using open fire places, Cole's Hot Blast Heater will mean a saving of 1-2 on the fuel bill.
3. We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same size fire pot.
4. We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the fuel put in the stove the evening before.
5. We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal or hard coal from Saturday evening to Monday morning.
6. We guarantee a uniform heat day and night with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
7. We guarantee every stove to remain air-tight as long as used.
8. We guarantee the feed door to be smoke and dust proof.
9. We guarantee the anti-puffing draft to prevent puffing.

The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove be operated according to directions, and connected up with a good flue.

Let's Be Thankful for What We Have

There are plenty of opportunities during the year to wish for things we lack. But in our eager longing for new and better things, let us not forget the good things that are already ours.

Thanksgiving Day, without proclaiming that the world is perfect, nevertheless bids us reflect upon and render thanks for the blessings we have

May this Thanksgiving find you with many things for which to be grateful!

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

SECRETARY WALLACE OUTLINES AGRICULTURE RELIEF PLAN

An agricultural expert commission, designed to restore farm purchasing power by withdrawing exportable surpluses from the domestic markets, is receiving the very careful consideration of the department of agricultural Secretary Henry C. Wallace said today in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce. While the proposal "is not put forward as a policy of the administration the secretary said it had the support of many officials who are in a position to influence legislation on the program. The commission, it was explained, would buy exportable products at the American price and dispose of them in the world farket, charging back the losses to the producers on the following crop.

Restore Purchasing Power

Declaring that the present depression in agriculture particularly in the wheat belt, is due to the disparity in price between the farm products and the things the farmer buys, Secretary Wallace explained that the export commission plan would aim only "at the restoration of the farmers' purchasing power to that of the pre-war period."

Long studies by the department, he said, had demonstrated that on the whole, farm product prices still were largely determined by world competition, while the prices of virtually every thing farmers use are protected by the tariff against the competition of disorganized Europe. This situation, he said, has established two price levels in the country—one is determined by world conditions; and one for manufactured commodities.

The commission plan is calculated to withdraw from the American market from time to time such surplus quantities as will maintain the domestic market at a level giving the farmer his prewar purchasing power. The commodities withdraws will be sold at the best price possible in the world market and the loss charged back to the producer, not to the federal treasury.

Checks Unnecessary

In this latter respect, the secretary emphasized, the suggested plan is essentially different from any other suggested for farmer relief through governmental agencies. The charge-back feature, he said, would tend to check unnecessary production In any system of arbitrary governmental price fixing, on the other hand the assured profit would work to stimulate production. The plan is suggested merely as a temporary relief measure, which will be automatically dissolved by its own corrective influence in equalizing American production and consumption.

While the chief operation of such an agency would be in the wheat market it was indicated the proposed commission would be vested with authority to function in other markets where returns to farmers might be determined to be out of line with general price levels.

Price Fixing Condemned

The principle of arbitrary price fixing by the government was condemned as economically unsound by the department chief. But the plan to restore buying power, he said, was merely a practical application of "the principle of full protection to all products of which we produce a surplus." The suggested scheme, according to the secretary, has won wide approval throughout the northwest from bankers, business men and grain handlers, as well as producers and co-operative marketing agencies. Statistical studies of price ratios reveal beyond question, Mr. Wallace said, that relief must be given the farmer quickly.

Secretary Wallace commended President Coolidge as "an excellent administrator, a very systematic and efficient man and one who is willing to take the advice of all groups in forming his policies." He denied that the farmers are tending toward radicalism.

While The Going Was Good

Bill Roarer had a tremendously loud voice. One cold morning he walked into the village hotel and shouted out:

'Good morning, landlord! How are you?"

"Very well," came the reply. "How are you?"

"Oh, I'm about frozen—I can hardly talk!"

Just then a nervous traveler who was present ran up to the landlord, exclaiming:

"Please have my horse brought around as soon as possible."

"Why, what's the matter?" asked the landlord.

"Nothing. Only I want to get away before that man thaws!"

Geniuses

Senator Moses of New Hampshire relates the following instance of the way the town authorities used to resolve up in his state:

"Resolved, That we build a new jail;

"Resolved, That we build the new jail out of the material which the old jail is composed of, and Resolved, That we will not tear down the old jail until the new jail is finished."

"Let the shoemaker stick to his last less he loss his awl.'" says he, not meaning a word of it and all that sort o'gag.

Maybe Darwin Can Tell

We have just noticed a headline in the Poland China Journal which reads like this:

Relation of the Pure-Bred Hog
To Average Iowa Farmer

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, DEC. 3

PLAN YOUR FUTURE
Whether your plans be Farming, Business or Professional you should know Modern Business Methods. Write for new catalogue, and information about Winter Term.
FORT DODGE BUSINESS COLLEGE
Fort Dodge, Iowa

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER
Farm and General Sales
A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.
For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

Stenography Banking
Salesmanship ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES
Telegraphy
Educate for Success. Position for each graduate Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Writ. for free catalog.
Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

HENRY H. PALS
Iowa Automatic Hog Door

Self-closing, easily opened by smallest pig, keeps hog house warm and comfortable; free from drafts; keeps the chickens out; saves on feed bill. Worth $100 to any hog raiser. Strong and substantial. Will last indefinately.
REGULAR PRICE $18.50
Special price for 30 Days
$10.00
To introduce this wonderful door to all farmers
May be seen at Klemme Lumber Co. Belmond
Write for descriptive literature to
Henry H. Pals
Meservey, Iowa

Overland Champion makes Automobile History

Both seats adjust forward and back for tall and short people.

Big loading space by removing rear seat and upholstery.

WE have never seen the public flock to a car the way they are flocking to the new Overland Champion! It's a revelation—how much they wanted such a car! Study these pictures—you'll understand. Then realize that the low price also secures regular sliding gear transmission, all standard accessories, bigger new engine, Triplex springs, cord tires, and all Overland superiorities. Come in.

NEW Overland $695 f.o.b. Toledo

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

PUBLIC SALE

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION ON THE CHAS. UTZ FARM LOCATED 1 1-2 MILES SOUT H OF ROWAN, ON

Monday, November 26

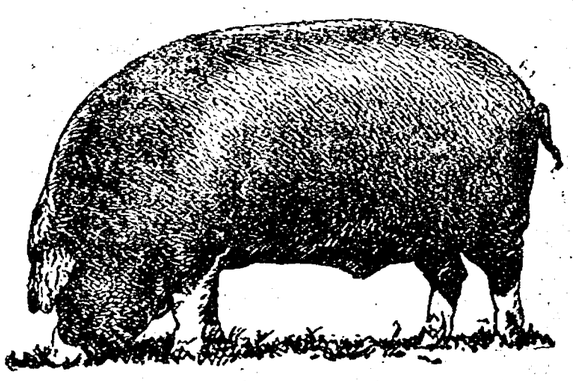
THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY, BEGINNING AT 10:00 O'CLOCK A. M.

400 Head of Poland China Hogs

25 Yearling and Two-Year-Old Sows
Part of which are bred to an outstanding boar.

275 Spring Pigs
March, April and May farrow, weighing from 125 to 250 lbs.

100 Fall Pigs
Just weaned. All pure bred but not recorded.



Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 hay rake
1 Dain hay loader
3 John Deere corn plows
1 6-shovel riding corn plow
1 16-in. Emerson sulky plow
1 Litchfield manure spreader
1 12-in. John Deere gang plow
1 16-in. Papec ensilage cutter
1 14-in. Rock Island gang plow
1 iron wheel wagon with rack
1 Rock Island manure spreader
1 Deering corn binder with wagon elevator
1 McCormick hay stacker and 3 bucks
1 8-ft. McCormick grain binder good as new
1 iron wheel wagon with beet box
1 narrow wheel wagon with triple box
1 Fairbanks-Morse engine, one and one-half h. p.
1 set carpenter tools
1 complete set blacksmith's tools
1 iron harrow
1 spring wagon
1 wood harrow
1 John Deere disc
1 power cider press
3 24-ft. feed bunks
2 McCormick mowers
1 Satterly corn planter
1 Bowsher feed grinder
7 individual hog houses, 8x8 ft.
1 self feeder for cattle, holds 700 bushel
Other articles too numerous to mention.

50 TONS TAME HAY, TIMOTHY AND CLOVER

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10 AND UNDER, CASH; OVER THAT AMOUNT 10 MONTHS' TIME WILL BE GIVEN ON BANKABLE NOTES BEARING 8 PER CENT INTEREST. ALL PROPERTY TO BE SETTLED FOR ON DAY OF SALE.

Frank Toyne & Son

COWLEY & MUNNIS, AUCTIONEERS. G. E. TOYNE, CLERK.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Thanksgiving Dinner

A tempting menu for the Thanksgiving dinner, including roast chicken, cranberry jelly and pumpkin pie, with generous servings for six persons at a total cost of $2.75, has been worked out in one of the cookery classes of the State college home economics departments. The menu with necessary recipes is as follows:

Roast chicken Gravy
Mashed potatoes
Bread dressing Corn a la Southern Cranberry jell Parkerhouse rolls
Piccalilli
Fruit salad
Pumpkin pie Whipped cream
Coffee

FRUIT SALAD—Four large apples, one cup pineapple, one-half cup nuts, one-fourth cup celery, one-half cup marshmallow. Cut fine.

SALAD DRESSING—Scant one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, one-half teaspoon mustard, two eggs beaten well, one-third to one-half cup vinegar and rest of cup of water. Cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Use equal parts of whipped cream and dressing.

CORN A LA SOUTHERN—To one can chopped corn add two eggs slightly beaten, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one and one-half tablespoons melted butter, and one pint scalded milk; turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in slow oven until firm.

PUMPKIN PIE—One and one-half cups steamed and strained pumpkin, two-thirds cup brbown sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half tea spoon ginger, one-half teaspoon salt, two eggs, ne and ne-half cups milk, ne half cup cream. Mix ingredients in order given and bake in one crust.

THIS FELLOW WINS THE CELLULOID MATCH SAFE!

A dispatch states that several hundred wild ducks were picked up on a pavement in Champaign, Illinois, with their necks broken, received when they mistook a wet and shining concrete pavement for a duck pond, and dove head first into it, thereby breaking their necks.

We wonder. Hunters who have watched a flock of wild ducks settle gently into the water, can't help wondering at this business of a duck "diving" into a pavement thinking it was a pond, and thereby breaking its neck.

But then there are liars and liars. George Myers used to tell of the hundred odd wild geese he found one morning, all lying stone dead on the pavement. You see, the time was spring and the water was high and had backed up into the sloughs, and the pickerel had run up the small streams to spawn and got snagged on the barbed wire on the fences that had been overflowed, and the wild geese were eating the dead pickerel and also got snagged on the barbed wire when they became frightened and all arose at one time, stripping the wire off the fence for many rods, and then flew over the town, the dangling wire coming in contact with a live electric light wire, and all the geese were electrocuted and all fell dead on the street. Yes, sir, just like that. It was the strangest thing you ever heard of, and will probably never happen again.—Humboldt Republican.

Boost The Ball Team!

Stale News

Suitor: "Bobby, how do you think you will like me as a brother. Your sisters promised to marry me at the party last night? That's news, isn't it?"

Bobby: "Naw. That was what the party was for."

Dig, Brother, Dig

Of all sad words
From our own kin;
The saddest are these:
No coal in the bin.

Oh, That's Different

Mrs. Dibbs: "Everytime I raise my hand my husband gives me an awful beating."

Mrs. Dubbs: "Heavens! Why don't you call the police."

Mrs. Dibbs: "Why? What do they know about bridge?"

Boost The Ball Team!

Atta Boy, Doc

Ebner: "Doc, them pains still bother me now and then."

Doctor: "Here are some pills, Take one ten minutes before every pain."

Boresome Suitor: "Do you really think that picture looks like me?"

Miss: "Yes, but I can find no other fault with it."

KURTZ DAIRY

Phone 1205

T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Boost The Ball Team!

WRIGLEY'S
After Every Meal

Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.

Aids digestion.
Allays thirst.
Soothes the throat.

For Quality, Flavor and the Sealed Package, get

For Thanksgiving Dinner
CALL 207
and place your orders early for
TURKEYS—DUCKS
GEESE
and all kinds of
CHOICE ROASTS

Try Our Home-made
SAUSAGES,
WEINERS,
BOLOGNA and
LIVER SAUSAGE—
Also pure Pork Link Sausage

Free Delivery At 9:00 A. M. Daily

CITY MARKET
Nissen & Harbinson, Props.

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

What the Electric Company Is Doing

Improvement in power station in Iowa Falls in connection with boilers.

New maintenance car on transmission system at Belmond and vicinity.

Changing from No. 6 copper wire to No. 2 copper wire on portions of transmission system, to increase capacity, and provide for additional load.

Installing additional street lights in GRUVER.

The cost of these several improvements authorized during the last few days of OCTOBER is about $3,100.

It is the constant demand for more service that necessitates additional investments such as these, and is one of the reasons why our Customers have the opportunity of Safely Investing in the Company's Capital Stock paying 7 per cent, and in the Gold Notes, paying 7 per cent.

Have you inquired yet about the Special Conversion privilege these Notes have?

For a short time investment they are IDEAL.

See our Manager, who will be glad to explain.

Iowa Falls Electric Company
Iowa Falls, Iowa

CECIL THEATRE
MASON CITY
ONE NIGHT ONLY NOV. 28
JOHN GOLDEN, PRODUCER OF "LIGHTNIN," PRESENTS

"Best American comedy ever written"—N. Y. World

A Comic Tragedy of Married Life by Frank Craven

Prices 50c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50
ADD 10 PER CENT FOR TAX
SEAT SALE TUESDAY—MAIL ORDERS NOW

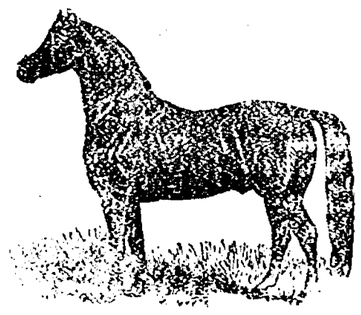
PUBLIC SALE

HAVING DECIDED TO QUIT FARMING, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION, ON THE CORKI SMITH FARM, 1 1-2 MILES STRAIGHT WEST OF MESERVEY, 2 1-2 MILES EAST AND 1 MILE SOUTH OF GOODELL, 2 1-2 MILES EAST AND 4 MILES NORTH OF BELMOND, ON

Wednesday, Nov. 28th

COMMENCING AT 1:00 O'CLOCK, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

6 - Head of Horses - 6



1 2-YEAR-OLD GELDING
1 ROAN MARE 8 YRS. OLD, WEIGHT 1600
1 BAY MARE 8 YRS. OLD, WEIGHT 1400
1 GRAY MARE 5 YRS. OLD, WEIGHT 1200
1 ROAN GELDING 12 YRS. OLD, WEIGHT 1700
1 BAY DRIVING MARE 9 YRS. OLD, WEIGHT 1100

14 - Head of Cattle - 14

6 MILK COWS, 4 FRESH NOW
4 YEARLING CALVES
4 BUCKET CALVES

30 - Head Duroc Jersey Hogs - 30

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 surry
1 cutter
1 bob sled
1 single buggy
1 Rock Island disc
1 McCormick mower
2 sets single harness
2 sets double harness
1 Moline corn planter
1 1 1-2 h. p. gas engine
1 6-ft. Champion binder
1 Professional corn plow
1 Emerson sulky plow
1 John Deere 4-section harrow
2 truck wagons, 1 with triple box, 1 with rack.
1 Economy cream separator, as good as new.

HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE

1 churn
1 stand
1 lounge
6 chairs
1 bureau
1 dresser
1 oil heater
1 Globe range
1 dining table
1 kitchen table
3 rocking chairs
1 kitchen cabinet
1 washing machine
4 beds with springs
Numerous other articles.

About 500 bushels new Corn in crib.

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 8 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

TONY KNIPP

Proprietor

H. BRUMMOND, AUCTIONEER. OWEN CONWELL, CLERK.

Belmond vs. Dows

FOOT BALL!

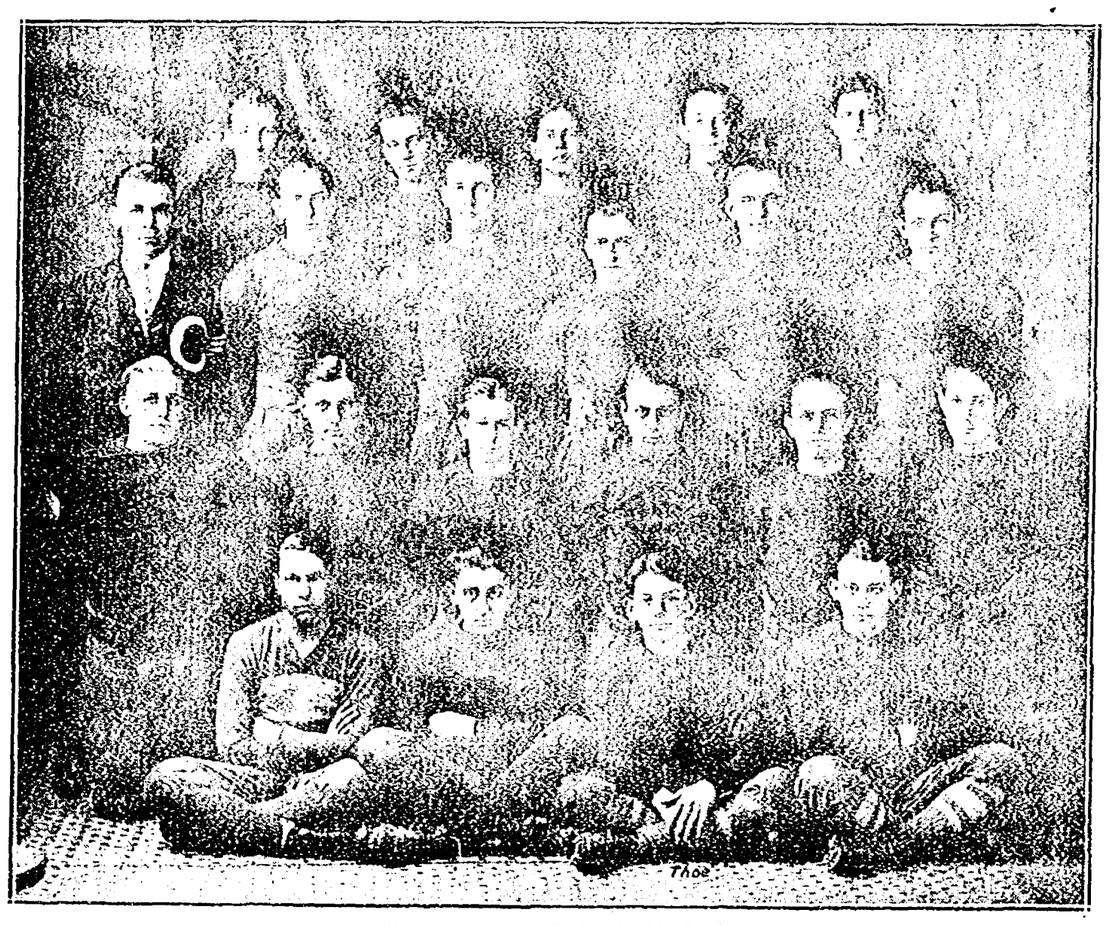
Thanksgiving Day

Thursday, November 29th

BELMOND FIELD, AT 2:30 P. M

REFEREE

Charles Lauen, former captain State University of Iowa foot ball team



BELMOND H. S. FOOT BALL TEAM

UMPIRE

Coburn Chapler, Secretary Charles City Y. M. C. A.

Both teams have played heavy schedules this year with strong opponents. Both have won the majority of their games. Dows defeated Belmond last year, and this year's game promises to be a hard-fought one, with Belmond determined to even the score. Come to this game---it will be the best of the season.

BOOST THE FOOT BALL TEAM!

The undersigned boosters of Belmond are paying the entire advertising expense of this game as an indication of their loyalty to Belmond High and the boys of the Belmond Foot Ball team.

Ed. Bailey	Ed. Riggs	Elite Cafe	Lee Luick	Jack Finn
Fred Fulton	M. J. Thoe	Hat Shoppe	C. M. Morse	Hotel Case
Homer Elder	Dr. Parsons	Rev. Jensen	The Gift Shop	Dr. Gowdy
Henry Luick	Fosters Cafe	Dell Rankins	Motor Inn Co.	Ben Fetrow
Ray Klemme	J. H. Nourse	Cash Market	Bohning & Co.	Gilda Nelson
Fred Johnson	Claud Veeder	Variety Store	Elaine Rierson	F. J. Tuffree
J. W. Thomas	Lloyd Skovlin	W. C. Tyrrell	W. A. Parsons	George Goelz
Glenn Klemme	Henry Schultz	Clyde Jennings	Dr. Geo. Steele	W. W. Goetz
Rev. O'Connor	Savings Bank	Wm. Vestweber	Adams Pharmacy	B K. Kinseth
Cato C. Griesy	Candy Kitchen	Barban's Bakery	Dibble Dray Line	M. H. Hanson
Father Eardley	Harold Rierson	City Meat Market	Shirley Thompson	Cyril McGuire
Herbert Nelson	Schultz Drug Co.	Johnson & Wright	White Produce Co.	Henry Saatoff
Community Oil Station	Deep Rock Oil Co.	Carlston & Skovlin	Jones Harness Shop	C. G. Johnson
Dempsey Pop Corn Stand	Belmond Storage Battery Co.	Nordschow Garage	Belmond Telephone Co.	Oscar Jacobson

MESERVEY SECTION

Ralph Waddingham and family were visitors at the Tom Wheelan home in Belmond, Sunday.

All those who are interested in Red Cross work and wishing to become members may do so by calling at the bank.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus are the proud parents of a son of standard weight born to them on Nov. 14 at the Park hospital. They have named him Robert Lewis.

O. Niehaus and son Carl of Sheffeld and John Van Deest of Aplington visited at the Hulsebus home last Monday.

W. F. Butz and wife, Irene and LuVerne and Mrs. Reif visited the sugar beet plant at Belmond, Saturday p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Freese and children of Dumont, and Miss Minnie Groen of Belmond, spent Sunday at the P. H. Pals home.

Mrs. A. J. Nissen and Marjory, Miss Mildred Gealow and Neva Muller were motor passengers to Mason City, Friday.

L. B. Hulsebus spent a few hours in town Friday, being on his way to Dows to look after business. Since purchasing the Dows Mercantile stock he has taken in a junior partner who will claim a share of the profits.

Herman Zieman of Thornton was in town Wednesday last distributing sale bills for his farm sale. The Zieman's will move to town but have not decided as to where they will locate. We are hoping they may consider Meservey as a possible choice.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nissen and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. James Faaborg and daughter motored to Mason City, Sunday, spending the day with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Geisler and daughter Emma Mae who have been making their home in Thornton, were Sunday visitors at the J. A. Nissen home.

Miss Minnie Freese returned from Dumont last Saturday, and is staying at the P. H. Pals home for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Schmidt from Belmond and Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming of Thornton visited at the Ed. Foss home Sunday p. m.

W. T. Butz and wife are spending this week with relatives at Monterey and Buffalo Lake, Minn. They made the trip by auto.

T. T. Lieuwen and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Frey.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hanna and family of Hansell spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Butz.

H. T. Smith, our congenial blacksmith, returned from Holstein forepart of last week, having visited his brother a few days.

APPLES! Greenings and Malindas. Bushel basket $1.00. Bring basket or sack.—W. F. Butz. Phone 404. 52tfc

For Sale—Extra big Duroc Jersey Spring boars. 4 miles east of Meservey. —Peter Neve. 522*

For Sale—Large Riverside Hard Coal Stove good as new.—Peter H. Pals, Meservey. 52tfc

Aug. Guth and Ed. Foss were at Belmond Saturday p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stadtlander were calling at Belmond, Saturday p. m.

Miss Essa Myers was a passenger to Mason City last Friday where she is taking medical treatments.

George and Bernard Brater have assembled and installed a new radio which they will thoroly enjoy during the coming winter evenings.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barger and son spent last Saturday evening with her parents, the Typers, at Hampton helping them celebrate Mrs. Typer's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Quandt and son Harvey and Mrs. Wm. Quandt attended the M. E. church at Belmond Sunday, spending the day with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schmidt.

H. K. Pals and family and Mrs. Wm. Rozebom attended services 12 miles west of Belmond at the Holland church. Mrs. Rozebom remained for a few days' visit with friends at Kanawha.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Lauster entertained Ed. Rooks and family and Mr. and Mrs. L. Foss at a family dinner Sunday.

Mrs. A. E. Muller and children and Mr. and Mrs. S. Hulsebus motored to Mason City Sunday p. m., calling on Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus at the Park hospital and to make the acquaintance of Robert Lewis the new son. Friends of Mrs. Hulsebus will be pleased to hear she is getting along nicely.

Mesdames Louie Foss and Herman Fischer motored to Mason City Monday where they are taking medical treatments. They were joined at Thornton by Mr. and Mrs. James Hemming who accompanied them.

Mrs. A. D. Brogan and children returned Sunday from a two weeks' visit at Whittemore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Butz, Irene and LuVerne and A. J. Nissen were business callers at the county seat Saturday forenoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heuerman of Belmond were Sunday guests at the Frank Hafermann home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boelman and son Clarence motored to Aplington last Monday, spending a few days' visiting relatives.

Joe Stadtlander and wife were Sheffield callers Friday.

Mrs. Hans Willer of near Klemme was a Sunday visitor at the Paul Willer home.

Grace Vierkant and younger brothers and sisters escaped uninjured when the car in which they were riding on their way to church Sunday turned over when they were turning the corner at the cemetery hill, driving from the east. Aside from a bad fright and a broken windshield no damage was done.

Mrs. Tom Jensen, who has been staying at the F. L. Halfpop home the past month, returned to her home on the Wm. Waak place where her husband is employed. A daughter was born to them several weeks ago.

Dr. Kruse and wife were Sunday guests at the home of the latter's aunt, Mrs. Harm Meinderts, near Palsville.

Aug. Guth and daughters Irene and Mrs. Louis Foss, and Mrs. G. Lauster motored to Mason City on Thursday, several of the party having dental work done.

Those who visited the sugar plant at Belmond Sunday were C. F. W. Paul and family, Rob't. Smith, Orpha and Dale, Fred Menzel, S. P. Fischer and family, H. Proost and family, Wm. Koehler and family, H. Ostendorf and children, Emil Schmalle, W R. Prelipp and family, Mrs. Aug. Prelipp and children, J. C. Janssen, Carl Oleson and family and E. Unferferth and mother.

S. S. CLASS ENTERTAINS

The "Friends," "King's Daughters" and "S. O. S." Sunday school classes of the Evang. church met at the C. F. W. Paul home last Tuesday evening for their monthly class meeting. The object of the joint meeting of Rev. Schlesselman's and F. Guth's class was to choose delegates to the older boys' conference to be held in Fort Dodge the latter part of this month. Gerald Janssen was chosen from the older class, with Dale Smith as alternate. Donald Muller is the delegate from the S. O. S. class and Olliver Sprau was chosen alternate. Ferdinand Lemke will accompany the boys as leader. It is honed that a goodly number will be able to accompany the ones chosen, for it will mean much to our young men to attend meetings of this class.

BANK NEWS

Evidently financial conditions are getting better. The Farmers Savings bank reports that they handled a total of 535 items on Nov. 13. On the same day 137 customers had either checks or deposits. The total day's business was close to $20,000. The large bank transactions usually come later in the year when the farmer begins to sell his stock and crops.

The farm loan examiner for the Northwestern Mutual Life Ins. Co. was in Meservey last Wednesday looking at several farms where they expect to make farm loans.

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

The 7th grade had a debate Friday: Resolved, That the Cat is more useful than the Dog. The negative side won.

The 8th grade had a debate in geography: Resolved, That the Eastern section of the central states is better than the western section. The affirmative won.

The Grammar room is preparing a number of selections for a Thanksgiving program to be given at the Methodist church the 27th.

Lydia Pannkuk had perfect spelling lessons during the past week.

The 8th grade perfect spellers of last week were Trace Boelman, Franklin Fischer and Bernard Butz.

The 8th grade drew maps of Iowa on Friday of last week.

The 7th and 8th grades drew maps for history, Friday.

Wilma Pals was excused Friday in order to accompany Miss Bode to her home at Kesley.

The 7th grade ciphered last Friday morning. Lydia Groen and Herman Meints chose sides. The score was 6-3 in favor of Herman's side.

The 8th grade ciphered Friday a. m. Lucille Paul and Bonita Muller chose sides. Lucille's side won, the score being 8-5.

The Grammar room are learning two new songs which will be sung in the opening exercises.

The Grammar room have not had the pleasure of announcing any visitors lately. We hope we may by next week.

The following students have signed up for the declamatory contest: Kenneth Herbster, Thelma Thomas, Molly Zieman, Donald Muller, Grace Groen, Oliver Sprau, Ruby Quandt and Orvis Schlesselman.

The local contest will be held shortly after the first of the year. We are in the 3rd district consisting of Swaledale, Thornton and Meservey, and it is our turn to hold the contest at Meservey, providing we can find a place suitable, otherwise it will be held at Thornton.

A number of high school students are still absent from school on account of corn picking.

The boys have purchased a new foot ball and are hard at it making "flying tackles", "drop kicks" and "touchdowns." Don't look like we will be able to have a basket ball team unless we hide the foot ball.

The high school girls' team played a good game at Alexander, Friday night. The scores were 32 to 7 favor of Alexander. The girls did fine work considering that all the practice they have had has been on an out of doors court. The team this year is composed of inexperienced players for the most part, as five Members of the team are Grace year. However, the team is developing fast under the coaching of Miss Thomas and we expect them to maintain the splendid record they made by defeating Thornton twice. Membeers of the team are Grace Groen and Rozella Sprau, forwards; Thelma Thomas and Lena Pals, the guards; and Ruby Quandt, Mable Prellip and Mollie Zieman, centers.

Our next community program will be held Tues., Nov. 27, in the M. E. church. The program will appear in the next issue It will be a Thanksgiving program and all should attend who can for that is one way of showing your loyalty to the school.

STORES CLOSED THANKSGIVING

The business houses of this place will be closed all day Thursday, November 29 to observe the day.

Rev. H. Raecker returned from Cedar Rapids the latter part of last week where he had spent about two weeks at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joe Meci and family, while having dental work done.

Bertus Frey received word Saturday that John Truff of Ledyard had passed away last Friday evening. News of his death was unexpected as he was apparently in good health and he and family spent a few days at the Frey home several months ago. Mr. Frey, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Lieuwen and Mrs. J. P. Pals attended the funeral last Tuesday.

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.
Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER
Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Don't Neglect That

Battery

Let us recharge it for you and put it in shape for the winter---and last but not least, better put in a non-freezing solution in your radiator.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

Put that

Thanksgiving Turkey

In One of

Our Roasters

A WELL-COOKED bird makes your Thanksgiving dinner a success. If you want to be sure to please your family and guests get a Roaster right away.

No worry as to results when you put the bird in the oven. It will be well-browned, tender, juicy and a real treat for your turkey-hungry folks.

Why take a chance on your old roaster when for so small an amount you can get an up-to-date roaster sure to make your dinner long remembered.

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

FARM LOANS

Your Banker is interested in your welfare, therefore will work for your interests in having your farm loan placed at the lowest possible rate.

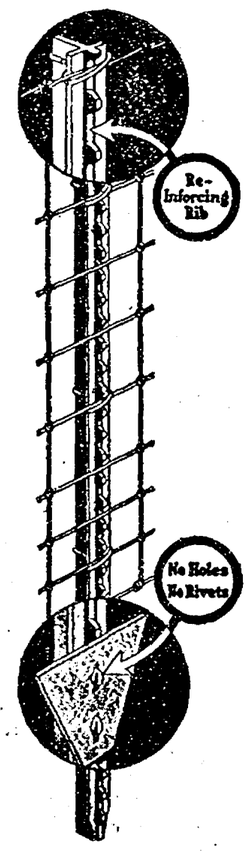
The large loan companies realize as never before that the local banker is the farmers financial agent, and for this reason we are in a position to save you money.

Have your loans placed now before the March First rush and possible increase in rates.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA



Buy Your Coal NOW!

SEMI-ANTHRACITE
KENTUCKY
WEST VIRGINIA SPLINT
FRANKLIN COUNTY, ILLINOIS
TENNESSEE BRIQUETS
CAR HARD COAL IN TRANSIT

Let Us Have Your Order for STORM WINDOWS NOW!

All Kinds of Building Material—Priced Right
ROOFING, STORM DOORS, PAPER, ETC.

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.
Office Phone 20 Res. Phone 17

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

"Guarantee"

Sometimes means something—Many times nothing. Here is a guarantee that means everything.

When applied to "Mother's Flour" our guarantee means that you may purchase a sack, make as many bakings as you wish n order to give it a fair trial, and, if not satisfied, your money will be returned without question or argument. We are having splendid success with this Flour. Take a sack home on this guarantee.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

ROWAN NEWS

Rowan Congregational Notes

Morning worship 10:30.
Sunday school 11:30.
Senior Endeavor 6:30 p. m.
Evening service 7:30.
Junior Endeavor Wed. 4 p. m.
Prayer meeting Wed. 7:30 p. m.
Thanksgiving service Thursday the 29th at 10:30 a. m.
This will be in the M. E. church.
The Ladies Aid have set Dec. 8 as the date for their bazaar and chicken pie supper.

Rowan Methodist Notes

Sunday school 10 a. m. Classes for all ages.
Morning worship 11.
Epworth League 6:30 p. m.
Evening service 7:30.
Let us not forget the Harvest sale at the sale pavilion on Saturday p. m. and evening. The ladies are planning for a great day.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tressider have been doing the work at the Kenneth Hagen home while Mr. and Mrs. Hagen have been away in Minnesota visiting relatives.

Mrs. Otto Christian and daughter Cecilia, who were visiting at the Harry Robinson and Hubbard McCallum homes in Mason City last week, returned to Rowan Friday. Mrs. McCallum came with them for a few days' visit.

John Dix of Hampton was in Rowan part of last week attending to farm interests and visiting at the Edgar Bingham home.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson visited a nephew, Joe Starnes, at Klemme on Sunday.

Mrs. Otto Christian, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Virden, departed Sunday by way of Eagle Grove for Roland where she expected to visit for a few days with his parents before returning home to Stratford, S. D.

Word was received here Monday that Miss Bernice Butts, quite well known to many of our people, had passed away at her home at Goodell.

The pastor of the M. E. church is planning on organizing a Junior League in the near future with Mrs. G. S. Liming as superintendent.

Rev. Osborn attended the district conference at Algona last week. About 100 ministers and laymen were in attendance.

Mrs. Marian Tindahl of Coggon, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Joe Patton, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Klemenson and two children of Latimer and Mrs. Hannah Whitten and family were Sunday guests after church service at the H. J. Whitten home.

Friends have received word from Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ballou stating that they are touring thruout Florida and are enjoying themselves immensely. At the time the letter was written they were at Anastasia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miller of Clarion, Mrs. Ina Stumph, Garnette and Bernard, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantle were guests at an oyster supper last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Thomas.

The Iowa township farm bureau meeting will be held at the Albert Fetrow home Friday, Nov. 23. A Thanksgiving program will be rendered.

The oldest child of Herb Lesters was on the sick list the first of the week.

The Operetta "Polished Pebbles" at the high school auditorium last Friday evening was quite well attended.

Rev. Bushnell spoke here before the school assembly Monday morning. His subject was Historic points of interest about Cape Cod. He was pastor at Cape Cod for several years some years ago.

W. A. Duffy and Mrs. Chas. Burger were in Clarion Saturday and called on Mrs. Alvin Haupt at the hospital.

Frank Nabholtz and father attended the foot ball game at Ames Saturday.

Sils Church and Mr. and Mrs. Avery of Belmond called on relatives and friends here Sunday.

Mrs. Milton Brown and Mrs. Levi Johnson arrived home from Chicago Monday.

Messrs. R. R. Duffy and S. B. Heith were in Iowa Falls, Thursday.

Gordon Thomas and Blanche Jennings of Clarion were united in marriage last Wednesday p. m. in Hampton. They were accompanied by Mesdames Ed. Miller and Thomas the mothers of the bride and groom. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, now of Clarion and formerly residents of Rowan vicinity. The groom is a son of Mrs. Nellie Thomas of Clarion and is a brakeman on the local passenger No. 5 and 6 on the Chicago Great Western. Their many friends wish them success and happiness in their married life.

The basket ball game at the school house Friday evening was an interesting one and well attended. The Rowan boys beat Williams 31-19. As the Williams girls team did not appear a local game in which the Senior school girls played the rest of the high school girls resulted in a score of 6-3 in favor of the Seniors.

Mrs. James Coulter returned on Thursday from her trip to Washington. Her sister, Mrs. Bishop, came up from Iowa Falls, with her to spend a few days at the F. B. Sheldon home.

Miss May Virden arrived from Mt. Vernon, Friday, to spend the week end with her parents. She returned Sunday evening to take up her school duties.

H. L. Hadley is erecting a garage on his property where Prof. Holliday resides. Mr. Myers is doing the work.

H. J. C. Box and wife are moving into their house east of the Congregational church. They have placed a basement under the house and installed a furnace and will have a very comfortable home. Alfred Boyington and family will occupy the property from which the Box family moved.

Word received from Mrs. Levi Johnson to her parents states that the attending physician in the hospital at Chicago found it necessary to scrape the bone in her foot. Her condition is much improved and her foot is well on the way to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Pelley went to Dexter last Friday to visit at the Geo. Stephens home.

Dr. Hall of Hampton was a professional caller here last week.

The Mission club had a fine evening when they met with Mrs. C. T. Halbert, Wednesday last. Mrs. Jas. Burt and Mrs. Geo. Aldrich were assistant hostesses. Miss Frances Farren as leader conducted a well prepared lesson home life in Japan. Five new members were received on that evening. A social hour followed after which refreshments were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Fred Kercheval.

GOODELL NEWS

There will be a Thanksgiving program at the church Sunday evening. Special music will be given by the choir. Rev. Thompson will give the Thanksgiving sermon Sunday.

The choir will be entertained on Tuesday eve at the home of Dr. Snearly, and Friday evening meet at the church.

The Len Wilson family were shoppers at Mason City Friday.

John Surballe and Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes of Garner were callers here Saturday.

Supt. Peters, Harold Savogue, Don Meyers, Don Estelle and Carrol Cashman went to Ames Saturday to attend the home coming.

Adelia Hill spent the week end in Minneapolis.

Mesdames Benson and Yepson of Kanawha visited at the Sandberg home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griffen are the parents of a baby girl, born Friday.

Mrs. Frank Clark underwent an operation for adhesion at the Hampton hospital last week.

Harold Clark is suffering severely with the condition of his arm.

The Cuppett and Fanselow families of Dows were in attendance at the funeral of Bernice Butts Saturday.

Mrs. Pat Quigley, daughters Bess and Grace of Belmond, visited Saturday at the Frank Quigley home.

Joe Cordes went to Minneapolis Friday to take in the foot ball game and visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinseth visited at Averys Monday.

Ethel Thompson of Belmond was a guest of Miss Carpenter over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Beier visited relatives at Garner, Sunday.

The Ladies Aid will be entertained this week by Mrs. Ahrenkeil and Mrs Savogue.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hanson spent Sunday at the Schlictinghome near Olaf.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Nelson of Thompson attended the funeral here Saturday.

Klemme and Goodell played basket ball Friday evening. The results were that Klemme was a victor in both games. This week end Mr. Peters plans to take his teams to Thompson.

Will Enabnit and John Wenzel of Kanawha were here Saturday.

Mary Nolan and a sister from Algona were week end guests at the Tony Boller home.

Ray Bachman is the owner of a new Ford coupe.

Olive Butts returned to Minneapolis and Bill to Iowa City, Sunday, to resume their school duties.

The annual bazaar was a complete success Saturday. In a short time everything was disposed of. The work and suppers for the bazaar realized nearly $300.

Mrs. Sumner Trumbell and Lucile of Klemme visited relatives in town Saturday.

Ruth Ness who has been working at Story City, returned home Saturday.

The Belmond club held their dance here last Wednesday.

Miss W. Robbins has been sick the past week.

Andrew Anderson of Garner was a business caller here Monday.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Arthur Peters was a Hampton caller last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and baby, and Mrs. Wm. Winwood were callers at Hampton, Tuesday.

F. W. Reasoner of Humboldt was a caller at the Henry Polmateer home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son, Frederick, were visitors at Rowan, Sunday.

Wesley Callum and James Mitchell of Kesley, Canada have spent the past two weeks at the Henry Polmateer home.

Miss Grace Dirksen was a visitor at Belmond last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Amandus Rusch and Walter and Clarence Riesch of Dumont were visitors at the Carl Bohlen home the past week.

Henry Sporaa of Garner was a caller at Alexander one day last week.

Miss Jennie Pals of near Belmond was calling on friends here on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Rodemeyer were business visitors at Hampton Thursday.

Fred L. Greenfield was transacting business in Belmond last Saturday.

A fine baby boy of standard weight came to the Henry Stoffer home on Thursday, Nov. 15.

Mrs. F. Frohling of Belmond was visiting relatives here part of the week.

Fred Bobst and A. L. Nelson were callers in Rockwell City, Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Dunn and daughter Margaret, were Belmond visitors Saturday.

Miss Harriett Lee, Red Cross nurse, was a business visitor here several days the past week.

The Misses Oralee Brooks, Mary Kernan and Marjorie Flynn spent the week end with home folks at Belmond.

Miss Laura B. Hail of Des Moines who is state worker for the W. C. T. U., was working in our vicinity several days the past week.

Miss Charity Hanson of Hampton was calling in town one day the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Larsen were visitors at Hampton, Tuesday.

St. John's Evang. Luth. Church

Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Quarterly communion service at 3 p. m. All services in the English language.

The Ladies Aid society will meet with Mrs. Oscar Hensel, next Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 27. Election of officers will be held at this time.

C. J. Barth, Pastor.

Supper and Bazaar

The Methodist ladies will hold a bazaar and serve a chicken supper in the Chris. Larson building next Saturday evening, Nov. 24., and will begin serving supper at 5:30 o'clock. There will be various articles for sale including comforters, aprons, fancy work, hand made work, etc., candy and pop corn. The price of the supper will be 25 and 35 cents. Everyone cordially invited to attend this supper and bazaar.

Boost The Ball Team!

Big Thanksgiving Sale

—AT—

THE IOWA STORE

17 So. Federal Ave. Mason City, Iowa

—OF—

MEN'S AND BOYS' SUITS AND OVERCOATS

SHOES F OR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

Men's and young men's suits —all wool cashmeres and hard worsteds, splendid values —— $14.50——$17.50——$22.50

Men's and young men's Overcoats in the latest styles and patterns, some with fur collars $12.50, $15.00, $17.50, $22.50

Men's dress SHIRTS with and without collars, $1.50 and $2 values 95c

Light weight husking mittens, per dozen $1

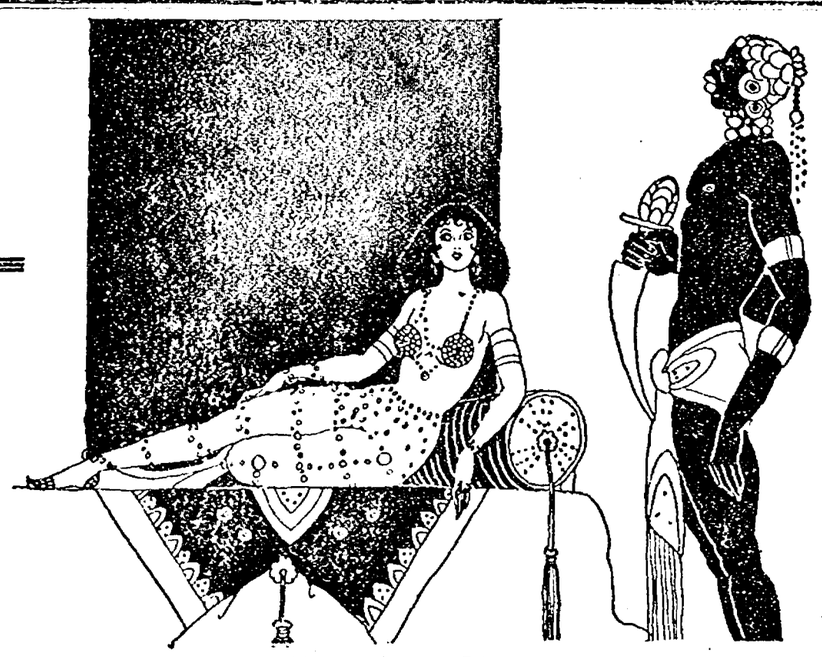
Heavy, double palm and thumb mittens, per doz. $1.45

LADIES FELT SLIPPERS, ribbon tie, assorted colors 85c

MEN'S HEAVY FLEECED LINED UNION SUITS, only $1.25

Hundreds and Hundreds of Other Big Bargains!

Free Gasoline With Purchases of $25 Or Over.



A True Story of Oriental Love and Tragedy

A wonderful human document is the story of Mme. Fahmy, beautiful French girl, who married an Egyptian prince.

She tells of her life in Fahmy's amazing Cairo palace, surrounded by oriental splendor; about her imprisonment in Fahmy's palatial yacht on the Nile; how she was guarded day and night by a gigantic black.

The whole thrilling story in

"From Princess to Prisoner"

You will follow this story in wonder from the beginning to the night Mme. Fahmy shot her husband in the Savoy Hotel in London. It begins in

Next Sunday's

Des Moines Sunday Register

A New Body Type

THE Tudor SEDAN

F. O. B. DETROIT $590 FULLY EQUIPPED

The Tudor Sedan is a distinctly new Ford body type, admirably designed for harmony of exterior appearance and excellence of interior comfort and convenience.

At $590, its price is not only lower than any previous Ford Sedan, but lower than any sedan ever put on the American market.

Body lines, long-panel rear quarter windows, broad cowl and high radiator give it grace and poise from every angle.

Wide doors, hinged to open forward, folding front seats, well spaced interior, dark brown broadcloth upholstery and attractive interior trimmings add measurably to its individuality, comfort and convenience.

These cars can be obtained on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

See this exceptionally desirable new Ford product in Ford showrooms.

Belmond Auto Company

Ford

CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

LOCALS

Boost The Ball Team!

Prof. F. W. Bohning, of Rock Rapids, came home last week for a few days' visit with the home folks.

"A Young Man in Love" will be the subject at the Methodist church this Sunday evening.

$1.25 worth of P & G and Bob White soap ---------- 98c
$1.47 worth of Grandma's White Naptha soap, 10 oz. bar ------ 98c
W. A. Parsons & Co.

Read the ads of the various merchants this week in the Independent and plan your Thanksgiving dinner from the suggestions they offer.

A number of friends and relatives dropped in on Hero Frohling Sunday to help him celebrate his 79th birthday. All enjoyed a good time.

S. A. Church and Mr. and Mrs. George Avery were guests of friends and relatives Rowan on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. McCallum and children of Strawberry Point spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Kiplinger.

Harry Brooks and family from Clear Lake spent Sunday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Watkinson and Mrs. Herman Snyder and daughters of Garner called at the Methodist parsonage Sunday afternoon.

"CALL IT THE 'TUDOR'"

The Ford Motor Co. today announced an addition to its line of cars—the Tudor Sedan which brings to the public an entirely new style of Ford enclosed body. It is a distinctive type designed to carry five passengers in complete comfort. The roof line is low and straight which with the larger radiator, now standard on all Ford cars, gave Ford designers an opportunity of affecting most graceful lines and at the same time a most sturdy construction. Besides its general appeal and high quality aspect, the Tudor Sedan has several new fetures which promise to win immediate favor.

The two doors are unusually wide, 28 3-4 inches, and are set at the front of the car, hung in exceptionally heavy frames and swing open forward on either side in line with the driver's seat. Side windows running back from the doors are oblong in shape and 32 inches in length, affording unusual vision to the occupants, while a large rear window adds to the visibility. All window glasses are lowered flush with the framing, affording clear vision and the maximum in ventilation. Exterior appearance is enhanced by a windshield visor, cowl ventilator and secure rear fenders of new design.

Interior arrangements of the Tudor Sedan meets all comfort requirements for both driver and passengers. The driver's seat is of the "bucket" design, with each cushion and back, assuring restful posture. There is a noticeable roominess in front with plenty of foot room. The tilting seat opposite the driver folds compactly out of the way so that entrance and exit thru the large and roomy door is easily and conveniently effected by those occupying the rear seat which is amply large for three persons.

Because of the location of the door, the driver has convenient access to his seat without folding up the extra seat alongside. The gasoline tank is located under the driver's seat making it unnecessary for him to disturb any other passengers when filling the tank. Interior fittings are attractive. The upholstery is in special Ford fabrics of dark brown with floor rug to match. Both the doors and side windows have been equipped with revolving type window regulators of the same design as those used in cars of much higher price. The Tudor Sedan, which is now in production, is priced at $590 at Detroit.

GAS TRAIL

Slants from the Automotive Field

Clutch trouble can be avoided if oil is administered to the throwout collar on the clutch at least once a week.

Did you know that a gallon of motor oil lubricates 1,000,000 square feet of cylinder area in an automobile before it is completely burned?

Don't turn the steering wheel while your car is standing still. This puts unnecessary strain on all steering gear parts—and it's bad for your tires.

In the United States today there are about 38,000 passenger car dealers and 25,000 who sell motor trucks.

Common yellow soap is the best material with which to make emergency repairs if the gas line springs a leak. The same applies to a leak in the water cooling system.

Italian automotive engineers are said to have invented a water-cooled engine of the radial type which will be operated by fuel and will weigh less than 50 ounces for each horsepower.

The importance of efficient spark plugs cannot be estimated, says a well known automobile engineer. Never wait until they misfire and always buy the best quality obtainable.

New York City is building a city-owned repair shop and a garage costing $3,500,000. There are more than 5,000 automobiles and trucks in the street cleaning, police, fire and other departments.

Whether rubber paving will come into general use in this country may be decided as the result of experiments to be made by the Boston Board of Street Commissioners.

Feed a teaspoonful of graphite into the engine through the inlet while the engine is running, but be sure to use only the best graphite. The "treatment" will do wonders.

The Motor Vehicle Conference Committe, an organization consisting of motor users, dealers and manufacturers, is working on a plan for clarifying the present complex system of highway taxation.

Inspection of tires and rims frequently will prevent unnecessary trouble and annoyance. Rim cuts and breaking of wire cables at the base of the tire may be avoided if proper inspection is made regularly.

Don't forget that your tires are not built of steel. Taking corners at high speed; spinning the rear wheels in sand or mud; failing to watch inflation and crashing carelessly into curbs, as well as hastily applying brakes will each one of them shorten the life of your casings.

If you have a stove to sell, now is the time, and an Independent Want Ad will sell it for you.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North
Freight, daily -------- 11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily, ------ 2:10 p. m.
Going South
Freight, daily -------- 1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily -------- 11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.
Combination, daily ---- 8:30 a. m
Going East
Combination, daily ----- 3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North
Motor, daily ---------- 10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S ---- 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S ---- 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight -------- 7:55 a. m.
Going South
No. 11, pass., D & S ---- 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S ---- 3:15 p. m.
Motor ---------- 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight -------- 8:20 p. m.

Boost The Ball Team!

A RADIO
FOR EVERY PURPOSE!

Have you ever heard the magic of the air which comes to your ears through the mechanism of the radio phones?

Buy a Radio outfit today and listen in on the nightly concerts of great singers, jazz orchestras, lecturers and comedians. You will be surprised at the varied delight and usefulness you will find in your outfit.

The Radio Shop
1st Door West of Goetz' Store

Thanksgiving

Truly we are thankful for the past favors you have shown us and hopeful of the future.

Call and see us for that grocery order. We will have all the trimmings for the festival—

CELERY
CRANBERRIES
APPLES
NUTS

Leave your orders for
PUMPKIN PIES

C. S. Robinson
Belmond, Iowa

Our

Thanksgiving

Greetings

Upon this happy occasion, when all the country rejoices for its many blessings, we offer you our sincere thanks and appreciation for the patronage you have given us during the past year.

May our relations in this coming year be as pleasant.

C. C. McGUIRE
Clothing and Shoes

PUBLIC SALE

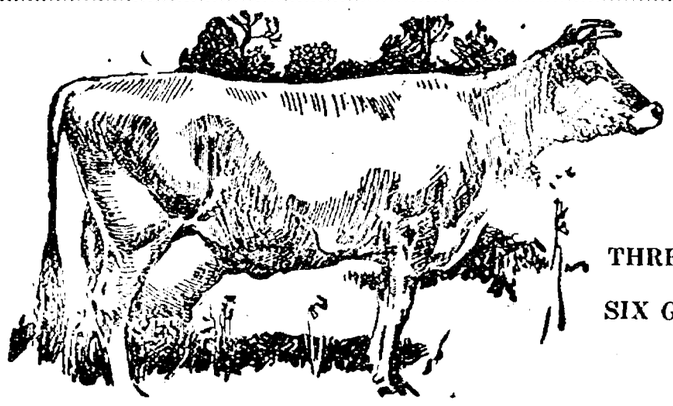
HAVING DECIDED TO QUIT FARMING I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION, AT MY PLACE 2 MILES EAST AND 2 MILES NORTH OF BELMOND, 1 MILE WEST OF PALSVILLE, ON

Monday, Nov. 26

COMMENCING AT 1:00 O'CL OCK P. M. THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

5 - Head of Horses - 5

ONE SORREL MARE 10 YRS. OLD, WT. 1100
ONE GRAY MARE 9 YRS. OLD, WT. 1500
ONE BLACK MARE 9 YRS. OLD, WT. 1350
ONE BLACK GELDING 8 YRS. OLD, WT. 1250
ONE BROWN GELDING 8 YRS. OLD, WT. 1250



10 Head of Cattle

THREE LAST SPRING HEIFER CALVES.

SIX GOOD MILK COWS, TO BE FRESH SOON. A FINE LOT

ONE RED POLLED BULL COMING 1 YR. OLD.
PAPERS IF DESIRED.

91 - Head Duroc Jersey Hogs - 91

ONE REGISTERED DUROC JERSEY BOAR. 1 YR. OLD.
90 HEAD OF DUROC JERSEYS, AN EXTRA FINE LOT.

FARM MACHINERY, ETC.

1 Sterling disc
1 hand corn sheller
1 McCormick mower
1 14-in. walking plow
1 Deere riding corn plow
1 Deering binder 8-ft. cut
1 st·el-wheel truck wagon
1 AVERY riding corn plow
1 Cassidy 16-in. stubble plow
1 Velie top buggy, nearly new
1 John Deere 4-section harrow and drag cart
1 John Deere corn planter, new last spring, No. 999, with 80 rods of wire
1 New West Bend riding stubble plow, 16-in.
2 John Deere wagons with triple boxes, nearly new.
1 hay rack
1 barrel churn
1 grind stone
2 shoveling boards
1 good feed grinder
1 extra pair buggy fills
1 set good dump planks
20 bushels good potatoes
1 brand new osscilator bob sled
About 4 acres good corn fodder cut before the frost.
15 to 20 tons good straw in the barn
1 Nelson tank heater, new last fall.
1 Galloway separator, No. 9, in splendid running order.
1 240-egg Successful incubator, new
1 log chain
1 cream can
3 hog troughs
5 extra good traces
2 good swill barrels
1 single driving harness
Several good horse collars
Several good chicken coops
3 sets heavy work harness
1200 bushel corn in the crib
1 extra pair good 1 1-4-in. 22-ft. lines.
1 pair leather nose bags
1 good seeder with grass attachment.
5 bushel yellow seed corn, 4 bushel white seed corn 1 yr. old.

THIS MACHINERY IS ALL IN GOOD SHAPE AND MOST OF IT NEARLY NEW.

TERMS: $10:00 OR UNDER, CASH; OVER THAT AMOUNT 12 MONTHS' TIME WILL BE GIVEN ON BANKABLE NOTES BEARING 8 PER CENT INTEREST. ALL PROPERTY TO BE SETTLED FOR ON DAY OF SALE.

LEWIS HAUGE, AUCTIONEER.
STATE BANK OF BELMOND, CLERK.

Jack Finn, Prop.

Here and There

Boost The Ball Team!

Mr. and Mrs. LuVerne Smith and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Luick and son, Albert Luick, were visiting with Belmond relatives Sunday.—Times.

Mrs. LuVerne Smith went to Belmond last Wednesday for a visit at the home of her parents.—Times.

Mesdames Joe Starnes and Tom Roths drove to Belmond last week Thursday.—Times.

Mrs. Katheryn Rosecrans was a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Barnes, the fore part of the week.—Leader.

Last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Darrah entertained the farmers and their families who had raised beets this season in this community. A jolly bunch of ninety-one people partook of the excellent refreshments which were served them at 7:30 in the M. E. church parlors. Several connected with the sugar beet plant at Belmond were also guests.

Following the dinner a number of short talks were given and subjects in which all were interested were discussed.

Mr. Darrah has been field agent for this section this year and has labored faithfully for all concerned.

We feel that all who had the pleasure of being Mr. and Mrs. Darrah's guests last Thursday evening feel that they had an evening worth while and one long to be remembered.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Saatoff, former Kanawha residents who now reside at Belmond, were among the many Belmond folks who accompanied their football team here last Friday. Bert Nelson came up with Mr. and Mrs. Saatoff.—Reporter.

Willie Pierce, of Belmond visited the first of the week at the home of his aunt, Mrs. E. A. Horton. He is home on a month's furlough from the navy, where he has been serving for the past three years on the battleship Tennessee.—Monitor.

Mrs. J. L. Sinclair went to Belmond Saturday to help care for her mother who still continues very low.—Monitor.

Mrs. J. M. Stella visited over the week-end at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. R. Pierce, near Belmond.—Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carlston and daughter, of Belmond were Kanawha callers Sunday afternoon.—Reporter.

John Lyman and wife went to Belmond Saturday and spent Sunday at the Wallace Ramsay home.—Signal. Ernest W. Luick to Adolf Meinders, tract in 30-93-23, Belmond, $25.—Monitor.

Boost The Ball Team!

EXECUTRIX'S NOTICE

Public notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed and commissioned by the District Court of Wright County, in the State of Iowa, Executrix of the Estate of Clifford Trees, deceased; and all persons having claims against said estate are hereby notified to file them with the Clerk of said Court, clearly stated and duly sworn to, and within legal time, preparatory to their being allowed or proved; and persons owing said Estate are requested to make immediate payment to the undersigned, and avoid costs.

Dated at Belmond, Iowa, this 5th day of November, 1923.

Maul Trees, Executrix.
Birdsall, McGrath & Archerd,
522 Attorneys

Boost The Ball Team!

Out You Go, Lamp

Little Willie: "How old is that lamp ma?"

Mother: "Oh, about three years."

L. W.: "Turn it down; it's too young to smoke."

Single "Bliss-ter"

"Rastus, are you a married man?"

"Nossah, Boss, ah earns mah own living."

Boost The Ball Team!

Independent Farm Sales Service is Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

Take advantage of the Independent's Big Family Offer—The Peoples' Popular Monthly, Farm and Fireside, Today's Housewife, and the Belmond Independent, All Four One Year For Only $2.45. This offer good only until December 1st.

STEADY, safe and sure is the pace of a car equipped with Goodyear Tires with the famous All-Weather Tread. The high, thick, sharp-edged blocks of that powerful tread provide the utmost in gripping traction. They give you security all the time, and promote the efficient, economical operation of your car.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

No Misses

Father (to Bobby, who had just fallen down stairs): 'Why, Bobby, did you miss your step?"

Bobby (rubbing his head): "No dad, I hit every one of them."

Boost The Ball Team!

Chestnut Charlie says: "Chickens in the car have wrecked a lot more autos than chickens in the road."

The Independent at two dollars a year is less than four cents a week. Can you buy the news of your home community cheaper?

Boost The Ball Team!

EVERYTHING FOR DINNER!

CRANBERRIES HEAD LETTUCE
CELERY MINCE MEAT
GRAPES SWEET POTATOES
PLUM PUDDING FIG PUDDING
FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES OF ALL KINDS

B. K. KINSETH

The Store On The Corner
FOLLOW THE CROWDS!

UM! TURKEYS FOR THANKSGIVING!

LIKE the good old-fashioned feeds at which our forebears sat. Food aplenty for all who sat around the table. We pride ourselves in having the choicest groceries, fruits and other things to make your Thanksgiving dinner a success.

Turkeys - Ducks - Chickens - Geese

CRANBERRIES	18c	SEEDLESS RAISINS	20c
PLUM PUDDING	45c	ASSORTED NUTS	35c
YAMS	08c	CELERY	18c & 20c
WHITE GRAPES	24c	HEAD LETTUCE	18c

BANANAS — GRAPEFRUIT — ORANGES

OYSTERS—Count, Selects and Standards.

CASH MARKET

PHONE 60 BELMOND, IOWA

The First Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING

The first of which was celebrated by the Pilgrims over 300 years ago, is an American institution that will endure.

THE PILGRIMS

Were a frugal as well as a pious people. As they gave thanks and feasted they saved and prospered.

While we emulate the Pilgrims in celebrating Thanksgiving, let us follow their example of.

THRIFT

And not spend all in feasting but save a goodly portion that next year's harvest may be bigger.

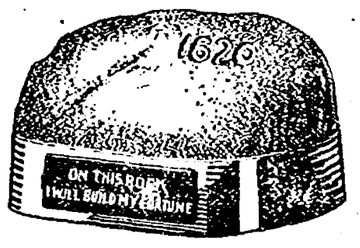
In order to encourage such habits of THRIFT

THE BELMOND SAVINGS BANK

Will furnish free of charge, to all who open a Savings Account with the initial deposit of $1.00 or more a PLYMOUTH ROCK HOME SAVINGS BANK, a replica of that Rock on which the Pilgrims landed in 1620, a souvenir of "THE FIRST THANKSGIVING."

This 50c coupon is our Thanksgiving offering to you:

PLYMOUTH ROCK COUPON
WORTH 50 CENTS



Conditions

(1). $1.00 of the account must remain on deposit for one year.

(2). If a second deposit is not made within SIX MONTHS, the 50c Coupon will be deducted when the account is closed at which time the Plymouth Rock Bank must be returned.

(3). Only one account can be opened by an individual.

BELMOND SAVINGS BANK

COPYRIGHT BY KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT.

CHAPTER XI

The Leopardess.

Pierre stood before the cheap bureau of his ugly hotel bedroom turning a red slip of cardboard about in his fingers. The gas-jet sputtering above his head threw heavy shadows down on his face. It was the face of hopeless, heartsick youth, the muscles sagging, the eyes dull, the lips tight and pale. Since last night when the contemptuous glitter of Joan's smile had fallen upon him, he had neither slept nor eaten. Jasper had joined him at the theater exit, had walked home with him, and, while he was with the manager, Pierre's pride and reserve had held him up. Afterward he had ranged the city like a prairie wolf, ranged it as though it had been an unpeopled desert, free to his stride. He had fixed his eyes above and beyond and walked alone in pain.

Dawn found him again in his room. What hope had sustained him, what memory of Joan, what purpose of tenderness toward her—these hopes and memories and purposes now choked and twisted him. He might have found her, his "gel," his Joan, with her dumb, loving gaze; he might have told her the story of his sorrow in such a way that she, who forgave so easily, would have forgiven even him, and he might have comforted her, holding her so and so, showing her utterly the true, unchanged, greatly changed love of his chastened heart. This girl, this love of his, whom, in his drunken, jealous madness, he had branded and driven away, he would have brought her back and tended her and made it up to her in a thousand, in ten thousand, ways. Pierre knelt by his bed, his black head buried in the cover, his arms bent above it, his hands clenched. Out there he had never lost hope of finding her, but here, in this peopled loneliness, with a memory of that woman's heartless smile, he did at least despair. In a strange, torturing way she had been like Joan. His heart had jumped to his mouth at first sight of her. And just there, to his shoulder where her head reached, had Joan's dear black head reached, too. Pierre groaned aloud. The picture of her was so vivid. Not in months had the reality of his "gel" come so close to his imagination. He could feel her—feel her! O God!

It Was the Face of Hopeless, Heartsick Youth.

That was the sort of night he had spent and the next day he passed in a lethargy. He had no heart to face the future now that the great purpose of his life had failed. Holliwell's God of comfort and forgiveness forsook him. What did he want with a God when that one comrade of his lonely, young, human life was out there lost by his own cruelty! Perhaps she was dead. Perhaps the wound had killed her. For all these years she might have been lying dead somewhere in the snow, under the sky. Sharp periods of pain followed dull periods of stupor. Now it was night again and a recollection of Jasper's theater ticket had dragged him to a vague purpose. He wanted to see again that woman who had so vivified his memory of Joan. It would be hateful to see her again, but he wanted the pain. He dressed and groomed himself carefully. Then, feeling a little faint, he went out into the clattering, glaring night.

Pierre's experience of theater-going was exceedingly small. He had never been in so large a playhouse as this one of Morena's; he had never seen so large and well-dressed an audience; never heard a full and well-trained orchestra. In spite of himself, he began to be distracted, excited, stirred.

When the curtain rose on the beautiful tropical scene, the lush island, the turquoise sea, the realistic strip of golden sand, Pierre gave an audible oath of admiration and surprise. The people about him began to be amused by the excitement of this handsome, haggard young man, so graceful and intense, so different with his hardness and leanness, the brilliance of his eyes, the brownness of his skin. His clothes were good enough, but they fitted him with an odd air of disguise. An experienced eye would inevitably have seen the appropriateness of flannel shirt, gay silk neck-handkerchief, boots, spurs and chaparreras. Pierre was entirely unaware of being interesting or different. At that moment, caught up in the action of the play, he was as outside of himself as a child.

The palms of stage-land stirred, the ferns swayed; between their tall, vivid greenness came Joan with her tread and grace and watchful eyes of a leopardess, her loose, wild hair decked with flowers: these and her make-up and her thinness disguised her completely from Pierre, but again his heart came to his throat and, when she put her hands up to her mouth and called, his pulses gave a leap. He shut his eyes. He remembered a voice calling him in to supper. "Pi-erre! Pi-erre!" He could sniff the smoke of his cabin fire. He opened his eyes. Of course she wasn't Joan, this strange, gaunt creature. Besides, his wife could never have done what this woman was doing. Why, Joan couldn't talk like this, she couldn't act to save her soul! She was as simple as a child, and shy, with the unself-conscious shyness of wild things. To be sure, this "actress-lady" was making believe she was a wild thing, and she was doing it almighty well, but Joan had been the reality, and grave and still, part of his own big, grave mountain country, not a fierce, man-devouring animal of the tropics. Pierre lived in the play with all but one fragment of his brain, and that remembered Joan. It hurt like a hot coal, but he deliberately ignored the pain of it.

He followed the action breathlessly, applauded with contagious fervor, surreptitiously rid himself of tears, and when, in the last scene, the angry, jealous woman sprang upon her tamer, he muttered, "Serve you right, you coyote!" with an oath of the cow-camp that made one of his neighbors jump and throttle a startled laugh.

The curtain fell, and while the applause rose and died down and rose again, and the people called for "Jane West! Jane West!" the stage-director, a plump little Jew, came out behind the footlights and held up his hand. There was a gradual silence.

"I want to make an interesting announcement," he said; "the author of 'The Leopardess' has hitherto maintained his anonymity, but tonight I have permission to give you his name. He is in the theater tonight. The name is already familiar to you as that of the author of a popular novel, 'The Canyon': Prosper Gael."

There was a stir of interest, a general searching of the house, clapping, cries of "Author! Author!" and in a few moments Prosper Gael left his box and appeared beside the director in answer to the calls. He was entirely self-possessed, looked even a little bored, but he was very white. He stood there bowing, a graceful and attractive figure, and he was about to begin a speech when he was interrupted by a renewed calling for "Jane West!" The audience wanted to see the star and the author side by side. Pierre joined in the clamor.

After a little pause Jane West came out from the opposite wing, walking slowly, dressed in her green gown, jewels on her neck and in her hair. She did not look toward the audience at all, nor bow, nor smile, and for some reason the applause began to falter as though the sensitive mind of the crowd was already aware that here something must be wrong. She came very slowly, her arms hanging, her head bent, her eyes looking up from under her brows, and she stood beside Prosper Gael, whose forced smile had stiffened on his lips. He looked at her in obvious fear, as a man might look at a dangerous madwoman. There must have been madness in her eyes. She stood there for a strange, terrible moment, moving her head slightly from side to side. Then she said something in a very low tone. Because of the extraordinary carrying quality of her voice—the question was heard by everyone there present:

"You wrote the play? You wrote the play?"

She said it twice. She seemed to quiver, to gather herself together, her hands bent, her arms lifted. She flew at Prosper with all the sudden strength of her insanity.

There was an outcry, a confusion. People rushed to Gael's assistance. Men caught hold of Joan, now struggling frantically. It was a dreadful sight, mercifully a brief one. She collapsed utterly, fell forward, the strap of her gown breaking in the grasp of one of the men who held her. For an instant everyone in the audience saw a strange double scar that ran across her shoulder to the edge of the shoulder-blade. It was like two bars.

Pierre got to his feet, dropped back, and hid his face. Then he was up, and struggling past excited people down the row, out into the aisle, along it, hurrying blindly down unknown passages till somehow he got himself into that confused labyrinth behind the scenes. Here a pale, distracted scene-shifter informed him that Miss West had already been taken home.

Pierre got the address, found his way out to the street, hailed a taxicab and threw himself into it. He sat forward, every muscle tight; he felt that he could take the taxicab up and hurl it forward, so terrible was his impatience.

An apartment house was a greater novelty to him even than a theater, but, after a dazed moment of discovering that he did not have to ring or knock, but just push open the great iron-scrolled door and step into the brightly lighted, steam-heated marble hall, he decided that the woman at the desk was a person in authority, and to her he addressed himself, soft hat gripped in his hand, his face set to hide excitement.

The girl was pale and red-eyed. They had brought Miss West in a few minutes ago, she told him, and carried her up. She was still unconscious; poor thing! "I don't think you could see her, sir. Mr. Morena is up there, and Mr. Gael, and a doctor. A trained nurse has been sent for. Everything in the world will be done. She's such an elegant actress, ain't she? I've often seen her myself. And so kind and pleasant always. Yes, sir. I'll ask, if you like, but I'm sure they won't allow you up."

She put the receiver to her ear, pushed in the black plug, and Pierre listened to her questions.

"Can Miss West see anyone? Can an old friend"—for so Pierre had named himself—"be allowed to see her? No. I thought not." This, with a sympathetic glance at Pierre. "She is not conscious yet. Dangerously ill."

"Could I speak to the doctor?" Pierre asked hoarsely.

"The gentleman wants to know if he can speak to the doctor. Certainly not at present. If he will wait, the doctor will speak to him on the way out.

Pierre sat on the bench and waited. He leaned forward, elbows on knees, head crushed in both hands, and the woman stared at him pitifully—not that he was aware of her scrutiny. His eyes looked through his surroundings to Joan. He saw her in every pose and in every look in which he had ever seen her, and, with a very sick and frightened heart, he saw her, at the last, pass by him in her fur coat, throwing him that half-contemptuous look and smile. She didn't know him. Was he changed so greatly? Or was the change in her so enormous that it had disassociated her completely from her old life, from him? He kept repeating to himself Holliwell's stern, admonishing speech: "However changed for the worse, she may be when you do find her, Pierre, you must remember that it is your fault, your sin. You must not judge her, must not dare to judge her. Judge yourself. Condemn yourself. It is for her to forgive if she can bring herself to do it."

So now Pierre fought down his suspicions and his fears. He had not recognized Prosper. The man who had come in out of the white night, four years ago, had worn his cap low over his eyes, his collar turned up about his face, and, even at that, Pierre, in his drunken stupor, had not been able to see him very clearly. This Prosper Gael who had stood behind the footlights, this Prosper Gael at whom Joan, for some unknown cause, had sprung like a woman maddened by injury, was a person entirely strange to Pierre. But Pierre hated him. The man had done Joan some insufferable mischief, which at the last had driven her beside herself. Pierre put up a hand, pressing it against his eyes. He wanted to shut out the picture of that struggling girl with her torn dress and the double scar across her shoulder. If it hadn't been for the scar he would never have known her—his Joan, his gentle, silent Joan! What had they been doing to her to change her so? No, not they. He. He had changed her. He had branded her and driven her out. It was his fault. He must try to find her again, to find the old Joan—if she should live. The doctor had said that she was desperately ill. O God! What was keeping him so long? Why didn't he come?

The arrival of the trained nurse distracted Pierre for a few moments. She went past him in her gray cloak, very quiet and earnest, and the elevator lifted her out of sight.

"Were you in the theater tonight?" asked the girl at the desk, seeing that he was temporarily aware of her again.

"Yes, ma'am."

She was puzzled by his appearance and the fashion of his speech. He must be a gentleman, she thought, for his bearing was gentle and assured and unself-conscious, but he wore his clothes differently and spoke differently from other gentlemen.

That "Yes, ma'am," especially disturbed her. Then she remembered a novel she had read and her mind jumped to a conclusion. She leaned forward.

"Say, aren't you from the West?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"You weren't ever a cowboy, were you?"

Pierre smiled. "Yes, ma'am. I was raised in a cow-camp. I was a cowboy till about seven years ago when I took to ranchin'."

"Where was that?"

"Out in Wyoming."

"And you've come straight from there to New York?" She pronounced it "Noo Yolk."

"No, ma'am. I've been in Alasky for two years now. I've been in a lumber-camp."

"Gee! That's real interesting. And you knew Miss West before she came East, then?"

"Yes, ma'am." But there was a subtle change in Pierre's patient voice and clear, unhappy eyes, so that the girl fell to humming and bottled up her curiosity. But just as soon as he began to brood again she gave up her whole mind to staring at him. Gee! He was brown and strong and thin! And a good-looker! She wished that she had worn her transformation that evening and her blue blouse. He might have taken more interest in her.

A stout, bald-headed man, bag in hand, stepped out of the elevator, and Pierre rippled to his feet.

"Are you the doctor?"

"Yes. Oh, you're the gentleman who wanted to see Miss West. She's come to, but she is out of her head completely . . . doesn't know anyone. Can you step out with me?"

Pierre kept beside him and stood by the motor, hat still in his hand, while the doctor talked irritably: "No. You certainly can't see her, for some time. I shall not allow anyone to see her except the nurse. It will be a matter of weeks. She'll be lucky if she gets back her sanity at all. She was entirely out of her head there at the theater. She's worn out, nerves frayed to a frazzle. Horribly unhealthy life and unnatural. To take a country girl, an ignorant, untrained, healthy animal, bring her to the city, and force her under terrific pressure into a life so foreign to her—well! it was just a piece of d—d brutality." Then his acute eye suddenly fixed itself on the man standing on the curb listening.

"You're from the West yourself?"

"Yes, sir."

"Knew her in the old days—eh?"

"Yes, sir." Pierre's voice was faint and he put a hand against the motor.

"Well, why don't you take her back with you to that life? You're not feeling any too fit yourself, are you? Look here. Get in and I'll drop you where you belong."

Pierre obeyed rather blindly and leaned back with closed eyes. The doctor got out a flask and poured him a dose of brandy.

"What's the trouble? Too much New York?"

Pierre shook his head and smiled. "No, sir. I've been bothered and didn't get around to eating and sleeping lately."

"Then I'll take you to a restaurant and we'll have supper. I need something myself. And, look here, I'll make you a promise. Just as soon as I consider her fit for an interview with anyone, I'll let you see Miss West. That helps you a whole lot, doesn't it?"

But there were other powers, besides this friendly one, watching over Joan, and they were bent upon keeping Pierre away. Day after sickening day Pierre came and stood beside the desk, and the girl, each time a little more careless of him, a little more insolent toward him—for the cowboy would not notice her blouse and her transformation and the invitation of her eyes—gave him negligent and discouraging information.

"Miss West was better, but very weak. No. She wouldn't see anyone. Yes, Mr. Morena could see her, but not Mr. Landis, certainly not Mr. Pierre Landis of Wyoming."

And the doctor, being questioned by the half-frantic Westerner, admitted that Mr. Morena had hinted at reasons why it might be dangerous for the patient to see her old friend from the West. Pierre stood to receive this sentence, and after it his eye fell. The doctor had seen the quick, desperate moisture in them.

"I tell you what, Landis," he said, putting a hand on Pierre's shoulder. "I'm willing to take a risk. I'm sure of one thing. Miss West hasn't even heard of your inquiries."

"You mean Morena's making it up—about her not being willing to see me?"

"I do mean that. And no doubt he's doing it with the best intentions. But I'm willing to take a risk. See those stairs? You run up them to the fifth floor. The nurse is out. Gael is in attendance; that is, he's in the sitting-room. She doesn't know of his presence, hasn't been allowed to see him. Miss West's door—the outside one—is ajar. Go up. Get past Gael if you can. Behave yourself quietly, and if you see the least sign of weakness on the part of Miss West, or if she shows the slightest disinclination for your company, come down—I'm trusting you—as quickly as you can and tell me. I'll wait. Have I your promise?"

"Yes, sir," gasped Pierre.

The doctor smiled at the swift, leaping grace of his western friend's ascent. He was anxious concerning the result of his experiment, but there was a memory upon him of a haunted look in Joan's eyes that seemed the fellow to a look of Pierre's. He rather believed in intuitions, especially his own.

CHAPTER XII

The End of the Trail.

At the top of the fourth flight of steps Pierre found himself facing a door that stood ajar. Beyond that door was Joan and he knew not what experience of discovery, of explanation, of punishment. What he had suffered since the night of his cruelty would be nothing to what he might have to suffer now at the hands of the woman he had loved and hurt. That she was incredibly changed he knew; what had happened to change her he did not know. That she had suffered greatly was certain. One could not look at the face of Jane West, even under its disguise of pain and pencil, without a sharp realization of profound and embittering experience. And, just as certainly, she had gone far ahead of her husband in learning, in a certain sort of mental and social development. Pierre was filled with doubt and with dread, with an almost unbearable self-depreciation. And at the same time he was filled with a nameless fear of what Joan might herself have become.

He stood with his hand on the knob of that half-opened door, bent his head, and drew some deep, uneven breaths. He thought of Holliwell as though the man were standing beside him. He stepped in quietly, shut the door, and walked without hesitation down the passageway into the little sunny sitting-room. There, before the crackling open fire, sat Prosper Gael.

Prosper, it seemed, was alone in the small, silent place. He was sitting on the middle of his spine, as usual, with his long, thin legs stretched out before him and a veil of cigarette smoke before his eyes. He turned his head idly, expecting, no doubt, to see the nurse.

Pierre, white and grim, stood looking down at him.

The older man recognized him at once, but he did not change his position by a muscle, merely lounged there, his head against the side of the cushioned chair, the brilliant, surprised gaze changing slowly to amused contempt. His cigarette hung between the long fingers of one hand, its blue spiral of smoke rising tranquilly into a bar of sunshine from the window.

"The doctor told me to come up," said Pierre gravely. He was aware of the insult of this stranger's attitude, but he was too deeply stirred, too deeply suspenseful, to be irritated by it. He seemed to be moving in some rare, disconnected atmosphere. "I have his permission to see—to see Miss West, if she is willing to see me."

Prosper flicked off an ash with his little finger. "And you believe that she is willing to see you, Pierre Landis?" he asked slowly.

Pierre gave him a startled look. "You know my name?"

"Yes. I believe that four years ago, on an especially cold and snowy night, I interrupted you in a rather extraordinary occupation and gave myself the pleasure of shooting you." With that he got to his feet and stood before the mantel, negligently enough, but ready to his fingertips.

Pierre came nearer by a stride. He had been stripped at once of his air of high detachment. He was pale and quivering. He looked at Prosper with eyes of incredulous dread.

"Were you—that man?" A tide of shamed scarlet engulfed him and he dropped his eyes.

"I thought that would take the assurance out of you," said Prosper. "As a matter of fact, shooting was too good for you. On that night you forfeited every claim to the consideration of man or woman. I have the right of any decent citizen to turn you out of here. Do you still maintain your intention of asking for an interview with Miss Jane West?"

Pierre, half-blind with humiliation, turned without a word and made his way to the door. He meant to go away and kill himself. The purpose was like iron in his mind. That he should have to stand and, because of his own cowardly fault, to endure insult from this contemptuous stranger, made of life a garment too stained, too shameful to be worn. He was in haste to be rid of it. Something, however, barred his exit. He stumbled back to avoid it. There, holding aside the curtain in the doorway, stood Joan.

This time there was no possible doubt of her identity. She was wrapped in a long blue gown, her hair had fallen in braided loops on either side of her face and neck. The unchanged eyes of Joan under her broad brows looked up at him. She was thin and wan, unbelievably broken and tired and hurt, but she was Joan. Pierre could not but forget death at sight of her. He staggered forward, and she, putting up her arms, drew him hungrily and let fall her head upon his shoulder.

"My gel! My Joan!" Pierre sobbed.

Prosper's voice sawed into their tremulous silence.

"So, after all, the branding iron is the proper instrument," he said. "A man can always recognize his estray, and when she is recognized she will come to heel."

Joan pushed Pierre from her violently and turned upon Prosper Gael. Her voice broke over him in a tumult of soft scorn.

"You know nothing of loving, Prosper Gael, not the first letter of loving. Nobody has learned that about you as well as I have. Now, listen and I will teach you something. This is something that I have learned. There are worse wounds than I had from Pierre, and it is by the hands of such men as you are that they are given. The hurts you get from love, they heal. Pierre was mad, he was a beast, he branded me as though I had been a beast. For long years I couldn't think of him but with a sort of horror in my heart. If it hadn't been for you, I might never have thought of him no other way forever. But what you did to me, Prosper, you with your white-hot brain and your gray-cold heart, you with your music and your talk throbbing and whining about my soul, what you did to me has made Pierre's iron a very gentle thing. I have not acted in the play you wrote, the play you made out of me and my unhappiness without understanding just what it was that you did to me. Perhaps if it hadn't been for the play, I might even have believed that you were capable of something better than that passion you had once for me—but not now. Never, now can I believe it. What you make other people suffer is material for your own success, and you delight in it. You make notes upon it. Pierre was mad through loving me, too ignorantly, too jealously, but what you did to me was through loving me too little. That was a brand upon my brain and soul. Sometimes since then that scar on my shoulder has seemed to me almost like the memory of a caress. I went away from Pierre, leaving him for dead, ready for death myself. When you left me, you left me alive and ready for what sort of living? It has been Pierre's love and his following after me that have kept me from low and beastly things. I've run from him, but I've run clean and free." She began to tremble. "Will you say anything more to me and to my man?"

Prosper's face wore its old look of the winged demon. He was cold in his angry pain.

"Just one thing to your man, perhaps, if you will allow me, but perhaps you'll tell him that yourself. That his method is the right one. I admit. But in one respect not even a brand will altogether preserve property rights. Morena could say something on that score. So could I. . . ."

"Hush!" said Joan; "I will tell him myself. Pierre, I left you for dead and I went away with this man, and after a while, because I thought you were dead, and because I was alone and sorrowful and weak, and because, perhaps, of what my mother was, I—I—" She fell away from Pierre, crouched against the side of the door, and wrapped the curtain round her face. "He told me you were dead—" The words came muffled.

Pierre had let her go and turned to Prosper. His own face was a mask of rage. Prosper knew that it was the Westerner's intention to kill. For a minute, no longer, he was a lightning channel of death. But Pierre, the Pierre shaped during the last four difficult years, turned upon his own writhing, savage soul and forced it to submit. It was as though he fought with his hands. Sweat broke out on him. At last, he stood and looked at Prosper with sane, stern eyes.

"If that's true what you hinted, if that's true what she was tryin' to tell, if it's even partly true," he said painfully, "then it was me that brought it upon her, not you—an' not herself, but me."

He turned back to Joan, drew the curtain from her face, drew down her hands, lifted her and carried her to the couch beside the fire.

There she shrank away from him, tried to push him back.

"It's true, Pierre; not that about Morena, but the rest is true. It's true. Only he told me you were dead. But you weren't—no, don't take my hands. I never did have dealings with Holliwell. Indeed, I loved only you. But you must have known me better than I knew myself. For I am bad. I am bad. I left you for dead and I went away."

He had mastered her hands, both of them in one of his, and he drew them close to his heart.

"Don't Joan! Hush, Joan! You mustn't. It was my doings, gel, all of it. Hush!"

He bent and crushed his lips against hers, silencing her. Then she gave way and clung to him, sobbing.

After a while Pierre looked up at Prosper Gael. All the patience and the hunger and the beauty of his love possessed his face. There was simply no room in his heart for any lesser thing.

"Stranger," he said in the grave and gentle western speech, "I'll have to ask you to leave me with my wife."

Prosper made a curious, silent gesture of self-despair and went out, feeling his way before him.

It was half an hour later when the doctor came softly to the door and held back the curtain in his hand. He did not say anything and, after a silent minute, he let fall the curtain and moved softly away. He was reassured as to the success of his experiment. He had seen Joan's face.

[THE END]

Boost The Ball Team!

Yea, Verily, Henry

Book Agent: "Here, sir, is a wonderful volume—a complete course in oratory——"

Mr. Henry Peck: "Haven't you got something like a course in back talk? I am a married man."

There's A Limit

Insurance Agent (filling out life insurance blank): "And now what kind of a car do you drive?"

Applicant: "None, I hate 'em all."

Insurance Agent: "I am sorry, sir but this company no longer insures pedestrians."

Special Thanksgiving

Overcoat Offering

Starts Friday a. m.,

November 23rd

BE the original early bird. Find out what a big selection a small sum can command in high grade overcoats. If you're "from Missouri" this is the place you've been looking for.

Remember Saturday A. M. bright and early. Two big fine lots of high grade overcoats.

$27.00 $32.00

Get To Know

GILDNER BROS.

IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHIERS
MASON CITY, IOWA

taking this three months' course. Write for splendid catalog.
THE HAMILTON UNIVERSITY
Mason City, Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Erdman and son, W. T. Jr., of Corwith, were visitors last week at the L. E. Titzell home.

Miss Bessie Hellard, of Marshalltown, was a guest of her friends, Misses Avis and Myrtle Hereim, a day or two last week.

Mrs. Lester Bickett and son returned to their home at Dinsdale on Saturday. They had been staying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Boughton the past few weeks.

Boost The Ball Team!

YOU'LL NEVER FORGET
MRS. WALLACE REID
IN
"HUMAN WRECKAGE"
At The STAR THEATRE
ROWAN, IOWA
STARTING THANKSGIVING
Thursday, Friday, Saturday
November 29, 30, December 1
Matinee Saturday p. m. at 2:30

LOCALS

Look far enough in the future so that you won't forget the "present." The Fuller Brush line affords wonderful opportunity to buy Christmas Gifts. Evening demonstrations given if requested.—E. R. Lockwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stadtlander and Mrs. Ben Stadtlander were visitors at the Bert Stadtlander home in Latimer last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Halligan left last Tuesday for their home at Prophetstown, Illinois, after a two weeks' visit with the former's sister, Mrs. L. E. Titzell, in Pleasant township.

Supt. Guthrie drove to Mason City last Saturday to attend to business matters and secure a referee for the Thanksgiving game.

Friday and Saturday of this week we will allow you 30 cents on your old Hot Water Bottle to apply on a new Hot Water Bottle, Combination or Fountain Syringe, no matter what condition your old bottle is in.
SCHULTZ DRUG CO.

The Farmers' Short Course consists of farm bookkeeping, farm arithmetic, income tax law, etc, opens December 3. Boys, you can make the best investment of your lives by

MAY we express to you our thanks and appreciation for your loyal patronage given us. May your day of Thanksgiving be filled with joy and happiness.

White Produce Company

SPECIAL

Reduction Sale

Of All LADIES' COATS

Including This Year's Models

W. W. GOETZ

Belmond, Iowa

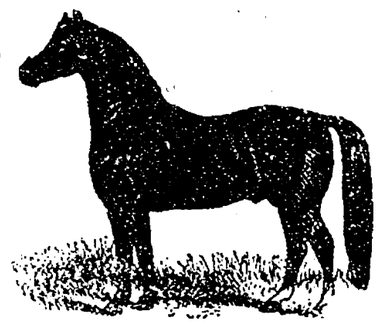
PUBLIC SALE

As I am moving away, I will sell at public auction, at the Rierson place on the hill in west Belmond, on

Saturday, November 24

COMMENCING AT 1:00 O'CLOCK, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

8 - Head of Horses - 8



1 YEARLING COLT
1 BAY DRIVING MARE
1 GREY COLT 3 YRS. OLD.
1 BAY MARE 6 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 BAY HORSE 15 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 BLACK GELDING 4 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 TEAM BROWN GELDINGS 6 AND 7 YRS. OLD, WT. 2400

1 - Good Milk Cow - 1

5 - Head of Hogs - 5

FOUR GOOD HAMPSHIRE SHOATS
ONE PURE BRED DUROC JERSEY BROOD SOW, WT. 350

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 seeder
1 mower
4 wagons
1 Deering hay rake
1 Crackerjack corn planter
2 saddles
2 loads of hay
7 slip scrappers
3 sets work harness
6 corn fodder stacks
1 corn sheller
1 single buggy
2 other cultivators
Some blacksmith tools
1 John Deere cultivator
1 FORD TOURING CAR, MODEL 1914
A QUANTITY OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 9 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

Thos. Guest & Son

Proprietor

T. D. RANKINS, AUCTIONEER. STATE BANK OF BELMOND, CLERK.

LOCAL NEWS

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church will hold their annual bazaar in the church basement Nov. 24, beginning at 10:00 o'clock. Lunches served thru out the day.

Miss Edith Dirksen of Alexander visited her friend, Edna Arends, on Friday and Saturday.

Drop in at the Methodist church for an hour Sunday evening and enjoy the music. Sermon subject: "A Young Man in Love."

Mrs. D. E. Quinn and Mrs. A. J. Dorr left last week Wednesday for the Black Hills, where they will visit some time with friends and relatives.

Miss Era Hampton of Ventura arrived Saturday for a few days' visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Packard.

Workmen have been engaged the past week or two on the sewer and water extensions which were recently authorized by the city council, in north Belmond. It is expected that the work will be completed within the present month or around the first of December.

NOTICE!

Because of heavy obligations falling due at this time of year, we request all persons owing us to settle by cash or bankable note not later than Dec. 1st. —Cato C. Griesy.

Annual Bazaar of the Methodist Ladies will be held this Saturday. Come and see the nice things they have for sale and get something good to eat.

Boost The Ball Team!

Thos. Guest is holding a closing out sale Saturday of this week, and he and his family will move to Toledo, Ohio, where they will make their future home.

Guy Toyne of Rowan was a business caller in town Monday of this week.

Next week the Independent will offer its readers a treat in the way of a Thanksgiving sermon written especially for the Independent by the Rev. J. B. O'Connor. Watch for this feature in the next issue.

Cato Griesy returned the latter part of last week from St. Paul, where had been on business.

B. O. Kinseth held a successful sale at his place near Alexander last Thursday. He is retiring from the farm, having purchased a hardware and implement business at Alexander which he will take charge of at once.

A. L. Luick and W. C. Tyrrell were business callers in Chicago a day or two last week on affairs connected with the sugar factory.

John Anderson left the first of the week for Crystal Lake on a few days vacation and to visit old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair White of Fort Dodge drove up Wednesday on business matters.

Atty. Jensen was a caller at Mason City yesterday, where he had a case in court.

Harry Nordschow and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Reed went to Ft. Dodge last week, where Mr. Reed purchased and drove back home a new Overland Red Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bode of Kesley, and Mrs. C. Bode of Austinville, and Mr. and Mrs. Limburg were visitors Tuesday at the J. C. Arends home.

Hajo Pals refereed a basket ball game at Goodell last Friday night, between Goodell and Klemme, which the latter won.

BIG APRON SALE!

Friday, November 23.

We have just received a large shipment of Novelty Dress Aprons that we are going to offer to the trade at 99 cents. These aprons are entirely new and different, made from a good grade of Richardson's Art Material in the following colors: Rose, Blue, Tan, Lavender and Henna. Transfer design on front and sleeves. A handsome Christmas Gift. Watch Our Window.

—C. G. JOHNSON

Atty. J. M. Jensen has moved his office from the old First National bank building to rooms over the McGuire clothing store.

Don't forget the Bazaar at the Methodist church this Saturday. Lunches served at all hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jacobmeyer and family arrived Tuesday from Minnesota, via auto, and will make their home here where they formerly resided.

Boost The Ball Team!

For Sale—Dressed Geese for Thanksgiving. Phone 3217.—O. D. Jenison. 1c

Mrs. John Mack is reported very ill at this writing.

Bernard Mennenga and family of Mason City were visiting old friends and relatives in Belmond Sunday.

L. E. Titzell has just completed a fine improvement on his farm in Pleasant township by the erection of a fine large barn and double corn crib.

J. C. Arends and family were at Alexander, Sunday.

Hilko H. Pals, of Meservey, was a business caller in town last Saturday.

Society

Party—

Miss Esther Dibble enjoyed a birthday party last Friday evening, November 11th, some sixteen of her little friends being present to assist her The evening was delightfully spent in games and various amusements, after which refreshments were served. Miss Esther was 12 years old. She received many fine presents in honor of the occasion.

* * *

Entertains—

The Congregational Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. S. U. Leinbach this afternoon.

* * *

Progress—

The ladies of the Progress club entertained their husbands at the library last night. The receiving committee, dressed in Indian costumes, met the guests at the door where each one was given an Indian name and head dress. A sumptious dinner was served at 6:30 by pretty Indian maidens. The guests found their places by the Indian names given them at the door, which were written on the place cards.

After dinner the Indian braves had a contest in war whoops. Hunting games were played. The evening closed with a scene from Hiawatha.

* * *

Entertain—

Mrs. C. O. Fitts and Mrs. Albert Chamberlain entertained a number of their friends last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fitts.

* * *

Bridge—

Mr. and Mrs Glenn Klemme will entertain the young married people's bridge club tonight.

J. C. Arends attended the shooting match at the gun club at Hampton the first of the week.

$1.25 worth of P & G and Bob White soap 98c
$1.47 worth of Grandma's White Naptha soap, 10 oz. bar 98c
W. A. Parsons & Co.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 16th and 17th.

Thos. Guest, farm implements and stock, Sat., Nov. 24, in Belmond. Ad this week.

Jack Finn, northeast of Belmond, Monday, Nov. 26, farm sale. Ad this issue.

Frank Toyne & Son, 1 1-2 miles south of Rowan, Monday, Nov. 26. Farm sale and pure bred hogs. Ad this issue.

Tony Knipp, southeast of Goodell, Wednesday, Nov. 28. Farm sale. Ad this issue.

Richard Anderson, farm sale, Monday, Dec. 3. Ad next week.

H. B. Sandry, near Goodell, Tuesday, Dec. 4. Farm sale. Ad next issue.

C. B. Allison, east of Belmond. Farm sale. Wednesday, Dec. 5. Ad next week.

C. C. Landon, southeast of Belmond, farm sale, Tuesday, Dec. 11. Ad later.

Boost The Ball Team!

Fred Greenfield of Alexander was a business caller in town Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Frohling was a guest of relatives at Alexander a few days last week.

The Des Moines Register and the Independent for one year for only $5.80. New subscriptions only to the Register.

I'm the trouble man. What's your trouble? Your trouble is no trouble to me. Bring in your trouble. R. D. Kenefick. 522c

Boost The Ball Team!

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, old	13c
Roosters	07c
Springs	12c
Geese	10c
Ducks	10c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	44c
Cream	50c
Barley	50c
Oats	34c
Corn, No. 4	60c

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

Apples! Yakoma pear and Greenings, hand picked, sprayed orchard, will keep until April. Dollar a bushel. Will deliver in town. Bring baskets.—M. Halfwassen. 1*

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars. Three miles south of Kanawha.—Gundvel Johnson. 513*

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars, pure bred.—J. M. Sampson, Belmond. 49tfc

For Sale—Single comb Black Minorca cockerals, April hatch. $1.00 if taken at once.—Fred Bobst, Alexander, Iowa, Route 2. 522*

If you are a lover of the Spots, remember I can supply you with pedigreed and guaranteed Spring Boars, at farmers' prices.—Roy Jenison, Belmond. 522*

For Sale—Woven wire corn crib, capacity 800 bushels.—Galen Johnson. 12*

For Sale—Chester White boars. Champion blood lines. Cholera immune. Farm located two miles west and one-half mile north of Kanawha. Ed Riekens. 52tfc

Poland China male pig. 200 lbs. $15.—M. Halfwassen. 1*

LOST AND FOUND

Strayed—Dark bay mare, weight about 1200, white star on forehead, one white hind foot. Finder please notify Leo Brennen, Kanawha. 522*

Lost—Brown guantlet glove between Robinson store and George Hake residence. Finder please leave at this office or return to Mrs. Henry Docterman. 1*

WANTED

Man Wanted—Experienced farm hand to work during winter doing chores and cutting wood. Will hire all year around if desirable. Phone 2202.—F. E. Christie. 1*

FOR RENT

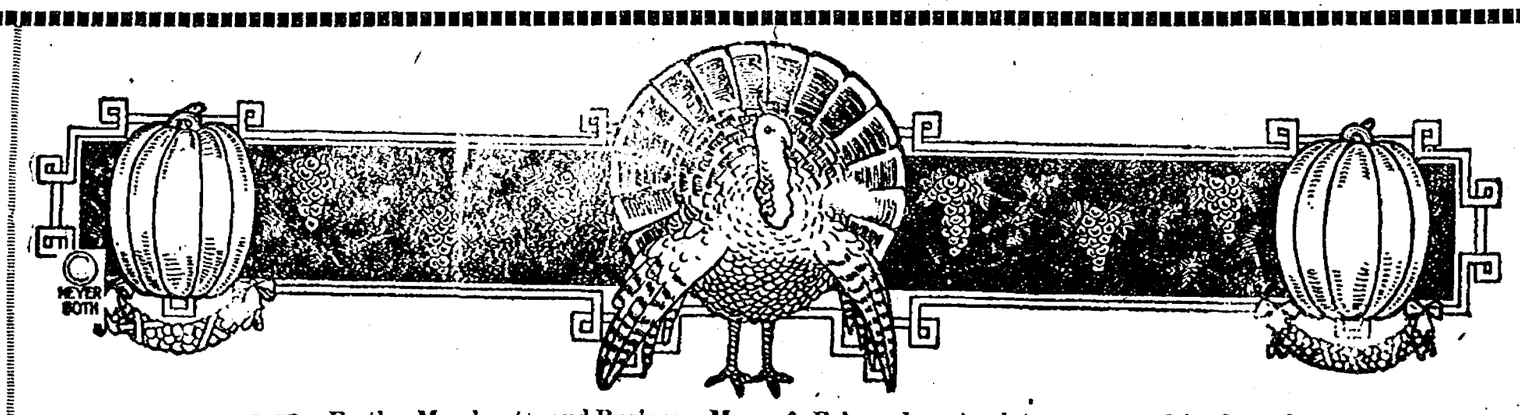
For Rent—20 acre farm with buildings, five miles from town.—John D. Pals, Belmond, Iowa. Phone 1614. 12*

BELMOND AUTO CO.

Lincoln—Ford—Fordson

Sales and Service

Telephones 108-258



WE, the Merchants and Business Men of Belmond, extend to you, our friends and patrons, our sincere appreciation and thanks for the favors you have shown us during the past year, and we sincerely hope that the months to follow will witness a continuation of our friendly relations.

—Greetings and best wishes for a HAPPY THANKSGIVING

 THE HAT SHOPPE **

H. JACOBSON & SON

Dry Goods and Groceries

BOOTS AND SHOES

Phone 33

BELMOND LUMBER CO.
M. H. Hanson, Mgr.

Coal, Lumber and Building Materials.

Offers you our appreciation for your patronage during the past year.

F. P. DIBBLE

AUTO LIVERY

Cross Country Hauling

Telephone No 2 1-2

BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

Official Willard Service.

Authorized United Motor Service Station.

Phone 46

Belmond Telephone Co.

Local and Long Distance.

It is our pleasure to serve you at all times.

To you and yours
A HAPPY, PROSPEROUS THANKSGIVING
Is the sincere wish of
JOHNSON & WRIGHT

 The Perfect Gift—
YOUR PHOTOGRAPH
The one gift that can not be duplicated.

—THE THOE STUDIO—

I extend to you all my heartiest wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving

EMMA NORTON
Millinery
Ladies' Exchange

JONES HARNESS CO.

Harness, Tires, Blankets.

We appreciate your patronage.

Phone 47

AUG. FOSS

Shoe Repairing

Employment Agency

I desire to express my appreciation and thanks for the patronage you have given me.

We Thank You for the Patronage you have given us during the past year.

WM. DEMPSEY
Pop Corn, Peanuts, Candy

E. E. BOUGHTON

Reclaimed Furniture

We offer you our appreciation and thanks for the patronage you have given us during the past year.

Belmond Independent

VOL. 5 — BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER, 29, 1923 — NO. 2

Factory Completes Sugar Making Campaign Last Night By Making 6,000,000 Pounds

Most Successful Year of History

Finish Slicing Beets Sunday Morning; Have 3,000,000 Pounds Of Sugar Left.

NEXT YEAR BIGGER YET

By the time the Independent goes into the mails this morning, the sugar factory will probably have completed its campaign for the year. At this writing approximately 59,500 sacks, or about 6,000,000 pounds. of pure granulated sugar have been made. Of this total, about 2,900,000 pounds have been sold, and 3,000,009 pounds are now at the plant.

It has been a very successful season of operation. The plant has operated at a high point of efficiency, and has cut over capacity nearly every day. Slicing was completed at two o'clock Sunday morning, and the sugar making ended last night. Approximately 200 men were employed during the campaign, who were paid some $45,000 during the campaign. It cost about $30,000 to overhaul the plant, and field labor in this vicinity received over $100,000 in wages. The cash turned loose in this vicinity during the past ten months, then, was in the neighborhood of $200,000, not an amount in ready money turned into business channels which can well be ignored.

Next year doubtless from 20,000 to 30,000 more tons of beets will be cut. The Company has been in receipt of letters and inquiries from various points in Iowa and Minnesota regarding beets, and several thousand more acres are anticipated for next year

It has been truly a "sweet" season for all concerned, and the prospects for next year are such as to put the smile-that-won't-come-off on the face of all officials, stockholders and business men

SAYS HUSKERS ARE A GOOD THING FOR FARMERS

R. E. Lee Aldrich, one of the most prominent farmers of Iowa township, believes the new corn husking machines are a boon to the Iowa farmer, and offers his own experience this fall as proof. Mr. Aldrich purchased a husker, paying $395.00. With it he husked 145 acres of corn, which totaled 7,000 bushels. When thru, he sold the machine to Chester Cullinan for $50 less than he paid, or $345.00 The total expense of husking the 7,000 bushels, including the $50 loss in reselling the machine, all repairs while operating it, and the hired help, amounted to $120.60. It will be seen therefore that Mr. Aldrich had 7,000 bushels of corn husked at a total cost of less than two cents a bushel. He states that the husker does a good job, clean and thoro, and gets the ears clear down to those as small as a walnut, that it picks cleaner than a man and will husk as much in a given time as four men will pick. He claims it is economical to operate, and as safe as any other farm machine. The accidents with huskers this fall, he claims, have been due to carelessness on the part of the men operating them, and that numerous accidents were encountered when mowers first came into use.

Mr. Aldrich certainly realized a handsome profit with his husker and secured good results. His experience will be of interest to all farmers who have seen a large slice of profits on their corn go for hand husking. The Independent would be pleased to have the opinion of other farmers as to the good or bad points of the corn husking machines, which, while a somewhat new article in territory, seem to be rapidly coming into use.

ALGONA ATTORNEY SUED FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

T. P. Harrington, an attorney at Algona, is being sued for damages in the sum of $10,000 by the father of Robert Townsen, a small boy, who was struck by Harrington's car near Britt last July.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In printing the names of the foot ball team last week, Sam Leinbach was given in place of Roger Leinbach as last man in the third row of the picture. Sam is end man in the first row, Roger in the third.

ADVERTISING PUBLIC SALES

V. A. Jackson, who held a public salé near Toledo last week, publishes the following in the Toledo Journal:

"My recent experience in holding a public sale convinces me that it pays well to advertise a sale thoroly. My first intention was to put $15 or $16 into sale bills and advertising, but when I got started I invested $26 and my sale ran at least $600 more than I expected and $200 or $300 more than the auctioneer estimated. I know that the extra $10 spent for advertising more than I figured on made me several hundred dollars."

HERE'S A HUSKING RECORD

One hundred seventy bushels of good Iowa corn husked by hand in nine hours' time, is the record submitted to the Independent by Irving Thompson.

Mr. Thompson's record was made while picking for Albert Thompson, of Norway township, and is attested by that gentleman, and others. Furthermore, Irving Thompson is said to have averaged 135 bushels per day for three weeks. In the case of his record husking, he was in very good corn, but even at that 170 bushels is certainly "some" corn to throw in nine hours. On a test between three men, Mr. Thompson picked 55 ears in one minute flat, which is going some.

Come on, now, all you corn tossers, and let's see this record broken. Iowa boasts some mighty fast huskers, and this community has some of them. A five-year subscription goes to the man who can show us the highest number of bushels picked in nine hours, each entry to be attested by another party. Don't let Thompson walk away with the prize without a fight. Send in your record. Even if you don't win, your record will be of interest to all farmers, and will set a goal for others to reach toward.

BROOKS-DUNN

Last week Tuesday, November 20, occurred the marriage of Miss Eloise Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brooks and Mr. L. M. Dunn, of Peoria, Illinois.

The ceremony was performed at 8:00 a. m. at the St. Francis church by Father Eardley. A sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride west of town.

The bride and groom left the same day for their home in Peoria where Mr. Dunn is salesman for a wholesale house. The groom was formerly a resident of Clarion, and is a brother of W. E. Dunn, who was candidate for Sheriff at the last election. Miss Brooks with her sunny smile and charming disposition has won a host of friends who wish her much happiness.

CLEAR LAKE SPENDS $14,000 ADVERTISING CITY

An item in the papers last week stated that the Commercial club of Clear Lake spent $14,000 advertising that place as a summer resort the past summer. If the town was advertised as it was attempted in the Independent, we fail to see where any $14,000 was spent. Copy was sent this paper by an Omaha agency, and a few weeks' of it was run before the editor tumbled to the fact that what was the rankest kind of advertising matter was being palmed off as "news". Clear Lake certainly did not secure any favorable advertising with the newspapers of the state which were stung by this free publicity stuff and if $14,000 was spent it did not reach the places it should have.

HAMPTON DENTIST GOES ON A TEAR AND GETS JAILED

Dr. Dow A. Rice, a dentist at Hampton, accumulated a load of good strong booze last week and went home, where he started to beat up his wife. He was arrested for intoxication and for assault, and was sentenced to 30 days in the cooler. The sentence was suspended, however, by the judge when the dentist divulged the source of his supply.

DRIVES DRUNK; IS INDICTED

Charles Storck of Sheffield has been indicted by the grand jury for driving an automobile while intoxicated. He will be tried at the February term of court.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

To The People of Iowa:

In compliance with a custom which is immemorial and in conformity to the proclamation of the President, I, N. E. Kendall, Governor of Iowa, do hereby appoint as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1923

Our people have more to be thankful for this year than any similar population in the world. The health of the Commonwealth is excellent. Nature has rewarded abundantly the industry of the husbandman. Capital is safely invested at satisfactory returns and labor is steadily employed at remunerative wages. Prosperity is manifest in every section and in every activity. Blessed are we indeed, and above all fortunate to live in a state of advanced enlightenment, under the best government ever organized by man, with a constitution and laws which guarantee to the humblest citizen the unabridged right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Let our hearts be uplifted in gratitude for the immeasurable benefits which a Divine Providence has bestowed upon us.

I recommend that on the day above designated, all secular pursuits be suspended, and that the people assemble in their usual sanctuaries of worship, there to unite in humble thanksgiving to Almighty God for His infinite goodness in the past, and in fervent appeal that His generous favor may be continued in the future.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the State of Iowa.

Done at Des Moines, this 13th day of November, A. D. 1923.

W. C. RAMSAY, Secretary of State.

N. E. KENDALL, Governor.

NOTES OF OUR SCHOOLS

Division II of the Literary society gave a Thanksgiving program Wednesday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 occurs our last foot ball game of the season. Dows high school will play us on our home field. Come out and see a real foot ball game.

Basket ball practice starts next week.

There are now 24 in the try-outs for debate. The first round of the home debates will be held next week.

Declamatory practice for the home contest will start next week.

The following Senior Commercial students won the Underwood typewriting medals for speed and accuracy, in writing between 40 and 50 words per minute: Genevieve Starnes Mildred Schultz, and Opha Thompson.

The following won the Remington certificate for over 25 words per minute: Harold Johnson, Arthur Christie, Opha Thompson.

Reka Buschman is wearing the typewriting medal this week for getting in the greatest number of perfect lessons.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held today at the Congregational church at ten o'clock a. m. Rev. J. B O'Connor of the Methodist church will preach the sermon.

GIVE PASTOR REAL GIFT

Father Eardley came home from a pastorial visit to Goodell on Monday afternoon, and when he went to put his car in the garage, found that he couldn't—because there reposed therein a brand new Willys-Knight Coupe-Sedan, the gift to him of the ladies of the Catholic churches from both Goodell and Belmond. It was a complete and a real surprise, and Father Eardley takes great pleasure in telling of the kindness of his parish.

KANAWHA KLU KLUX TAKES IN LARGE CLASS FRIDAY

Reporter: The Kanawha Ku Klux Klan met at the I. O. O. F hall Friday evening and initiated a class of 81 candidates. The work was put on by an outside team.

After the initiation a large number of the klansmen garbed in full regalia, marched thru Main street, after which they returned to the hall and enjoyed an oyster feed.

It is reported to us that about 200 to 250 members of the organization were present and a good time enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Slauter of Omaha is visiting this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl Wenzel.

TO RUN A NEWSPAPER

TO run a newspaper all a fellow has to do is to be able to write poems, discuss the tariff and money questions, umpire a baseball game, describe a fire so that the readers will shed their wraps, report a wedding, saw wood, make $1 do the work of $10, shine at a dance, measure calico, abuse the liquor habit, test whiskey, subscribe to charity, attack free silver, wear diamonds, invent advertisements, sneer at snobbery, overlook scandal, appraise babies, delight potato raisers, minister to the afflicted, heal the disgruntled, fight to a finish, set type, mold public opinion, sweep out the office, speak at prayer meeting, and stand in with everybody and everything.—Exchange.

"BROWN MOUSE" BEGINS

Last week we told you the Independent was to print Herbert Quick's remarkable farm story, "The Brown Mouse" and that we would tell you more about it in this issue.

A natural query is "Why is a farm story called "The Brown Mouse" and here is the reason:

A Scientific Man in Scotland, engaged in the study of heredity, crossed Japanese waltzing mice with the common white ones. He got some variously colored hybrids that had the common characteristics of their parents accentuated toward one side or the other, but in the litters he occasionally found a brown individual that was different from anything else in the mouse tribe. It was neither a waltzer nor an albino and totally unlike its domesticated parents, it was wild; it bit, scratched ran away and was generally unruly.

Colonel Woodruff, an all-round farmer and prominent man in the Woodruff school district, was a great reader on the subject of breeding and applied his knowledge to his business. He explained the brown mouse as " a Mendelian segregation of genetic factors" which translated into English means that its characteristics were dormant in its parents and came out in a highly individualized state in the brown offspring. He explained further that the same principles apply to humans and account for the form of lunacy commonly described as genuis.

The colonel was of the opinion that he had found a ""brown mouse" in the character of his neighbor and farm hand, Jim Irwin. Jim was a trifle peculiar and the community was inclined to look down on him and even to 'guy" him. For one thing Jim liked to read books—cheap books—because, as he expressed it, the best books were those on which the copyright had expired and which could be purchased cheaply. For instance, he read Emerson, Thoreau, an Encyclopedia of English Literature, some editions of the standard poets and a few Ruskins and Carlyles—read 'em to rags—he could get them for 25 cents a copy. He read the reports of the secretary of agriculture, college bulletins from Ames, and publications of the various bureaus of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, because he could get them for nothing.

Jim was ungainly, uncouth and couldn't wear clothes gracefully; altogether a sort of an off-ox in that community, as odd as Dick's hatband. Jennie Woodruff, the colonel's daughter, who had played with Jim from childhood, was decidedly interested in him, for all that he was such an unpromising specimen. The colonel was confirmed in his brown mouse theory by the fact that Jim's peddling father has been a sort of a waltzing mouse, inclined to jump from one place to another for no good reason. His mother filled the characteristics of an albino mouse, having had all the color washed out of her in one way and another.

The three trustees of the Woodruff school district had been hopelessly deadlocked for months on the matter of selecting a teacher. Each man had his own candidate and would vote for no other. Some wag proposed that Jim Irwin's name be put up. Oh! It was a great joke and the entire community was in a titter. Jim made a speech at the meeting and as no one could understand it thoroughly, it was regarded as humorous. In the secret ballot each of the trustees, being compassionate men, voted for Jim and explained afterward with much disgruntlement that "They wanted the poor cuss to git one vote."

What Jim did with that school and how he did it and along with it all, a wonderful love story is what you will find in "The Brown Mouse," the first chapter of which you will find in this issue of the Independent.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Barry and Miss Nell Barry were callers at Clarion on Tuesday.

Today Is The Day Of The Big Battle

Long-Awaited Gridiron Battle To Be Decided At 2:30 This Afternoon.

GOOD GAME IS ASSURED

Today is the Big Day, when Belmond's warriors clash with the husky bunch from Dows for the foot ball honors of the season between the two teams. Dows defeated Belmond last year, but that, as they say, "is something else again." A great and interesting battle is forcast for the local field today. And with a good day it is expected that a large crowd will attend.

Both teams are primed for the biggest fight of the season, and whoever wins will certainly have to earn their victory. Come out to this game and boost the home boys. You will see a game that will thrill you to your toes.

FOR STATE PARK NEAR SAND BAR

A sheriff's jury of six men has been selected by Byron W. Preston, chief justice of the Iowa supreme court, to conduct appraisement and condemnation on property on the north shore of Clear Lake belonging to Mrs. Rose McIntosh for the purpose of obtaining a sit to establish a state park for the use and benefit of the state of Iowa and the public." The jury will meet in the C. A. Knutson store in Clear Lake at 1:00 o'clock, Nov. 27.

The land promised to be used as a park is located on the north shore between Ventura and Clear Lake, comprises a 48 acre plot, all on the south side of the road. Mrs. McIntosh is to be allowed to retain approximately six acres on the south of the road, although there are some persons interested in the project who contend that portion, containing the farm buildings, should be condemned also.

It is said that Mrs. McIntosh has valued that portion of the property south of the road at $1,200 an acre, the north portion at $500 an acre.

This property is valuable. What the appraisement will be fixed at is a matter of conjecture, but it is believed that it will be appraised at a good round price.—Clear Lake Mirror.

HALFWASSENS ARE INDICTED

Harm and Anneus Halfwassen of Chapin were both indicted on a charge of manslaughter by the grand jury of Cerro Gordo county recently, following the crash on Nov. 4 in which they ran into and killed Orville Van Dusen of Sheffield while driving in an alleged intoxicated condition. Another brother, Peter, of Rockwell, was also indicted on a charge of nuisance, it being charged that he furnished his brothers with the booze. Bonds of $800 for Peter, $3,000 for Anneus, and $2,000 for Harm were required. Harm and Peter managed to raise theirs, Anneus being unable to secure the amount of his. Their trial will take place at the next term.

RECEPTION FOR O'CONNORS

On Monday, November 26, the M. E. parsonage was a scene of happiness and good cheer. Rev. and Mrs. O'Connor assisted by many of their friends and parishoners of Belmond and other charges they have served, celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

From two o'clock in the afternoon until late in the evening, people came to greet them and offer congratulations and good wishes. Many beautiful gifts of flowers, cut glass and silver ware were left in token of the love and esteem borne this estimable couple.

Amid the soft, sweet strains from the piano, the glow of chrisanthemums and the happy laughter of guests was felt the influence of friendships and fellowships that help make life worth while. This will be a memorable event in the lives of Rev. and Mrs. O'Connor and all those who partook of their splendid hospitality.

The out of town guests present at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thomkins, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Ross and daughter, Bernice, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schesselbein, and Mrs. Clayton Burke, of Garner; Prof. and Mrs. Rankin of Hampton; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Will Paimey and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henderson and two daughters, Mrs. Fred Levier, and Mrs. H. Allen, of LuVerne.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS

Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

IS LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 03c

(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

A Thanksgiving Sermon

(By Rev. J. B. O'Connor)

I suggest reading for your Thanksgiving meditation Psalm 148.

Text for Sermon: 1 Thes. 5:18.

"Thank God for everything." This is Moffat's translation of the text. Paul, the author of this text suggests to our mind this fact, that the spirit of gratitude should possess us at all times and that this spirit should be applied to every department of life.

A grateful person is one who has a due sense of benefits received; kindly disposed toward the one who bestows the benefits and acknowledges the same to both giver and others.

He who does not do this is rightly classed as an ingrate and is unworthy of the favors and benefits that he is a recipient of, regardless of who the donor is.

The spirit of gratitude does not depend upon the number of favors received. But it is dependent upon the attitude of the recipient toward the party who gratuitously bestows the gift.

Our Pilgrim fathers came to America, not in search for gold nor a land of ease but rather that they might have religious democracy. Dire were the persecutions they suffered. Tempestous were the storms passed through. Unsparing were the physical inflictions heaped upon them. Through it all they fought victoriously. Many fell in the fight of that memorable first year in the New World, but none gave up the fight. It was theirs to do or die Toward the close of the year the survivors of this most excellent company assembled together and inaugurated the first Thanksgiving day.

Such spirits as those men and women possessed are seldom found in the annals of history. They joined with the poet in saying

"God gives the grazing ox his meat
And quickly hears the sheep's low cry,
But man, who tastes his finest wheat,
Should joy to lift his praises high."

The Pilgrim fathers were the path finders. They blazed the trail for us. Although the path led through the most severe tests they never lost the way. They always kept their eyes upon the guide of life. The altar fires of their souls were ever kept burning, and sweet is the smell of the incense burned. Its fragrance penetrated, and helped many a discouraged soul. Being dead, They yet speak. Their message is "Be Ye Thankful."

Let each reader now ask themselves three questions.

1. What should I be thankful for?
2. To whom am I obligated for these many blessings and favors?
3. How pay homage due the giver of all good and perfect gifts?

In answering the first question, let me say that when we begin to count our blessings we find them too numerous to mention, so all we can do is simply point out a few.

In the first place we should be thankful for America. I know of no better country on this terrestial ball than our country. Do you know of any better? If you do the quicker you can pack baggage and start the better it will be for all concerned.

I recognize the fact that my country is not perfect. Neither am I. and we cannot have a perfect country composed of imperfect people, yet my country stands for so many of the high and noble principles that the man of Galilee stood for. He was right, so is my country. This is what we naturally would expect when we think of the nobility of character possessed by the Pilgrim fathers. This is our inheritance. My country has given me life, liberty and an equal chance in the pursuit of happiness. I have always been conscious of its protection of life and property by law.

O America, my America. God's people discovered you, felled your trees, drained your swamps, made your prairies to blossom as a rose, climbed your mountains, bridged your streams, consecrated your gold; made our laws, drove the pirates from the seas, and the spoilers from our shores. May we ever revere your name and keep what you gave us as sacred trust: O, my America live forever! I here dedicate all I am to your preservation by keeping God's sabbaths, by reading God's word, by hearing God's voice. I here call upon my fellow citizens to do likewise and then a thousand, thousand years America shall live to bless a benighted, and stricken world, and afford love and protection to her own unborn generations.

In the second place we should be thankful for temporal blessings. Every student of current events knows that our land is flowing with plenty. Material prosperity has been ours to a large degree. No peoples of any nation have prospered as we have, therefore we should be thankful for the opportunity of helping serve and administer to a distressed humanity, ever keeping before us the picture of the good samaritan.

In the third place we should be thankful for the physical blessings we receive. Especially do we people who live in this temperate zone have reason to be thankful. The climatic condition is such here that we enjoy a kind of health that they do not either to the north or south of us.

The last that I shall mention and this greatest of all, we should be thankful for our spiritual inheritance. Our Pilgrim fathers brought to the new world Jesus Christ. They left the impress of His life fixed in the conscience of America and time has not been able to efface it. Pray God that it never shall. The years have not dimmed our vision, but that we can see through the mists of time those great, stalwart Christian characters that landed on Plymouth Rock three centuries ago. They were great because they were christian They made America great because they instilled in the mind of America those great outstanding christian principals that produced the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Christian principles exalt any people. These principles are the outstanding things that we remember in their lives. They still live because they were connected with living principles and deeds.

"Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing leave behind us,
Footprints on the sands of time.

The impact of those Godly men and women was so great that the power of it is still felt in the world today. You cannot blot out their footprints from the sands of time. Shall the coming generations be able to truthfully say as much for us? By the help of the omnipotent God may it be so.

Second: To whom am I obligated for the above mentioned blessings as well as others? There can be but one answer. That is the Good God who is the "Author and giver of every good and perfect gift.' We are not independent creatures but dependent are we upon Him for everything that is worth while in this world

Look out upon a beautifully arrayed world, a world of artistic design and then say with a profound sense of appreciation God made it in all of its beauty and splendor. Once again take a trip up and down the milky way, or travel with the earth around its orbit, or journey with the stars as they dodge and pass each other, then pause and say how marvelous the law of gravitation is. But in your deepest mood of meditation you should ecclaim, I see God and God only, yet laws fade away and the creator of law take the pre-eminence in your thinking.

The fertile fields, the sunshine and rain are of his production and order, in order that we might live physically. The bowels of the earth are his reservoirs in which he deposited precious ores and fuel for all time to come. Elements have been placed in the air and earth which man's intelligence can collect and utilize for our comfort and enjoyment. By so doing we have annihilated space, lighted and heated our homes, listened to concerts in distant cities and the end is not yet. What fountain sends forth all these comforts and blessings for our enjoyment? We are compelled to say at the head of the fount stands God with an inexhaustible supply.

Who is the giver and sustainer of all life? Again we confess gladly that he who originated life in the beginning and made man in his image is the only one we can look to in things pertaining to life.

Man is a religious being, so created. To whom shall he look for the supplying of his spiritual needs There has been but one person who has proven and demonstrated his ability in this realm. The Son of God bought our redemption with is own life because God loved us and gave Him for us.

After summing it all up we are compelled to say that we are certainly obligated to this good God who is the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

In the last place how pay him the proper homage?

First by crowning him as God of all our lives.

Second. Obeying his high behests, ever remembering that his ways are ways of pleasantness and peace. His laws are laws of perfect liberty.

Third, offering unto him our objations of thanksgiving and praise, and let me add, may you not only be caught up by the spirit of thanksgiving on this set day but may that safe spirit hold you in its grip all the days of your life. "Thank God for everything." For What life hath not its blessing?

Who hath not song to sing,
Or grateful words to utter,
Or wealth of love to bring?
God means us to be happy;
He fills the short-lived years
With loving, tender mercies
With smiles as well as tears.

CHURCHES

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Thanksgiving day a Thanksgiving service will be held in the Norwegian language. Let us all, young and old return thanks to God for kind favors shown us during the year. Service at 7:30.

Saturday at 1:00 o'clock the class will meet at the Thoe Studio.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10:00 o'clock. Evening service in the English language at 7:30. Come and take someone with you.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor

ST. OLAF

Thanksgiving day service in the Norwegian language at 11:00 o'clock. Let all lay aside their work and meet in the house of God to thank the Lord for his kindness toward us.

Friday afternoon the Ladies' Ald meets at the home of G. C. Johnson

Sunday morning service will be held in the English language at 11:00 o'clock.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

Thank you for your splendid response Sunday I asked you to push for a larger service than the previous Sunday and you did it. Our congregations still grow. Work is a pleasure with a people who are interested themselves and show their interest by doing all they can to make things go.

All together this Sunday. Everybody boost, then everybody come and we are sure of another good day.

Sunday school 10 a. m.
Morning worship 11 a. m.
Epworth League 6:30 p. m.
Evening service 7:30 p. m.
Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

The music was excellent at both services Sunday. We appreciate the faithful services of both morning and evening choirs.

We have the promise of an orchestra for this Sunday evening. This will be in addition to the other speeial music.

Dr. Notson of Sioux City will speak at the morning hour. Let's give him a good hearing.

Sunday evening subject: "Monuments."

Come one and all and we will have a good and profitable time together. You are always welcome to our home-like church.

Mrs. O'Connor and I will be at home Tuesday afternoon and evening to receive callers.

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, DEC. 3

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

Stenography Banking
Salesmanship ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES
Telegraphy
Educate for Success. Position for each graduate Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Write for free catalog.
Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

KURTZ DAIRY
Phone 1205
T. B. tested cows. Why take a chance? We deliver, or you can buy at Robinson's or the Cash Market.

Short Time Investments

For the CAREFUL INVESTOR who has money to loan for a period of from ONE TO FIVE YEARS, our 7 per cent CONVERTIBLE GOLD NOTES offer an opportunity to earn a good interest rate with safety.

THESE NOTES are DIRECT OBLIGATIONS of the COMPANY, backed by STRONG PROPERTY VALUE, and EARNINGS.

The Conversion Privilege has a distinct value.

The notes will be issued for $100, or multiples thereof. Interest starts at once, and is paid Quarterly, or Semi-Annually, as desired.

We will be glad to give you the particulars if you will write the Securities Department, 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, or see our Manager.

Iowa Falls Electric Company
Iowa Falls, Iowa

NEW Overland CHAMPION
$695 F.O.B. Toledo

By special arrangement! Your opportunity to make a personal inspection and have a complete demonstration of each remarkable feature of the wonderful new Overland Champion—"America's most versatile car." Sweeping public interest and demand lead us to hold a Champion

Demonstration Week
Nov. 22 to Nov. 29 Inclusive

Plan now to come in! Learn all about this first real all-purpose closed car! Get acquainted with its unique benefits for the salesman, the merchant. the farmer and the family! Free demonstration! No charge! No obligation! Come in!

Front and rear seats adjustable forward and back for tall and short people

50 cubic feet loading space by removing rear seat and upholstery

Big doors front and rear—no folding seats—no seat climbing

Seats and upholstery make into comfortable bed full length of car

Get a Free Demonstration of America's Latest and Greatest Automobile Sensation

The Overland Champion was introduced only a month and a half ago. It has taken the whole Nation by storm Demand has nearly swamped the factory! This is the car thousands and tens of thousands have been waiting for Steel body. Washable blue Spanish long grain upholstery. Trunk at rear at small extra price. Triplex springs (Patented)—rides like a big, heavy car! Bigger new engine—loads of power! Wonderful economy. Famous Overland reliability Come and see how truly this sensational car will fit your needs! Don't miss this opportunity.

NORDSCHOW MOTOR CO.
BELMOND, IOWA

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Agricultural Situation

Times have changed since two years ago this month, when corn was literally cheap enough to burn. However, there is an element of fiction about the present position of corn. For agriculture as a whole, corn does not represent income; it represents part of the cost of livestock production.

As regards relationship to the community at large, the position of agriculture slowly but surely improves. Purchasing power of farm products, though handicapped, is now at the highest point in three years. What is more, prices are better at a season when farmers actually have something to sell.

This means something all along the line. Agriculture has weathered the storm of the last few years solely and simply by drawing on its reserves. Farmers have worn out their reserves in cash, in equipment, in materials, in clothing and household goods, and in some regions have drawn deeply on their equity in the land. In four years American agriculture has been forced to use a good part of the liquid accumulation of a whole generation and a prosperous generation at that. Some recovery in buying power, especially of livestock products has great significance.

Farmers Attend Swine Feeders' Program

Friday, November 16th, to get at

About twenty-five to thirty county farmers representing nearly every township were in attendance at the swine feeders' day program on Friday, November 16th, to get at first hand the results of swine feeding experiments which have been carried on during thep ast year by Prof, John M. Evvard who is in charge of the swine and beef cattle experiment work at Ames.

One of the important tests showed that the hogging down of soy beans raised with the corn also pays dividends. Six groups of fourteen pigs each were fed different rations as follows: one group got standing corn and tankage; another standing corn and Manchu soy beans; a third, standing corn and Manchu soy beans and tankage; a fourth, standing corn rye and tankage; fifth, standing corn, rape and tankage; and sixth, husked corn, rape and tankage. A mineral mixture was fed to all of the pigs and the tankage was "free choice" style.

This experiment revealed some valuable information. The corn-tankage lot and the corn-tankage-soybeans lot made the most economical gains, the figures being $5.32 per 100 pounds gain for the former and $5.88 for the latter. These figures indicate that soy beans, which the farmer can raise himself at comparatively low cost, may replace a part of the high priced tankage.

Soybeans failed to prove their efficiency as a balancer of the corn ration, Daily gains were increased by forty per cent and the cost of gains per 100 pounds was reduced from $5.84 to $5.38 by the addition of tankage to the ration.

In another test a combination of soybean meal and tankage proved an efficient balancer for corn. Still another experiment showed that soy beans planted with corn will make better financial returns in the hogging down process than rye or rape put in at the last cultivation of the corn.

Other tests showed the advisability of feeding some kind of mineral mixtures to all classes of swine, the growing pigs, the breeding gilts and sows and the boars. Results secured in a six years' investigation of swine types indicate that the large type hog is a better performer than either the medium or the small type hog. The large type sows farrowed an average of eight pigs per litter; the medium, eight, and the small, seven pigs per litter.

T. B. Campaign Planned

Plans are under way for making a county wide campaign during the next few months for the eradication of tuberculosis from the herds of our county. Petitions are now being prepared and will be distributed to the various township directors, and co-operators, for the purpose of getting the necessary signatures which will make the T. B. testing work possible on a county wide area basis.

According to the new T. B. law which was passed at the last session of our state legislature, testing work can be done in any county on the area basis in case 51 per cent of the producers of breeding cattle sign a petition making application for the testing work. Several of the counties of the state have already succeeded in getting the necessary 51 per cent of farmers to sign the petition and are now carrying on the work in accordance with provisions of the new law.

All farmers who are interested in having our county free from tuberculosis and who would like to see the work done according to the area basis are urged to give support to this movement by signing the petition and urging as many other farmers as possible to get back of the proposition. Tuberculosis is one of the most dreadful diseases known to mankind and any assistance which any of us may give toward stamping out this terrible disease will be given towards a most worthy undertaking.

Baby Clinic in January

The Sheppard-Towner mother and baby clinics will be held in Wright county some time during the latter part of January, according to information just received from the extension department of the state university at Iowa City, definite dates to be arranged sometime later.

The farm bureau women thru their organization will take charge of the clinics and one clinic will be arranged in each township, that is, in case there is a demand for it in the community.

This will be a splendid opportunity for the mothers who would like to have a free physicial examination made of all children under school age to have this work done at one of the health clinics.

Mothers who are interested in having a physical examination made of their children should watch the announcement of the meetings and arrange with the lady vice director who will be in charge of the details for holding the clinics.

TUNE IN FOR

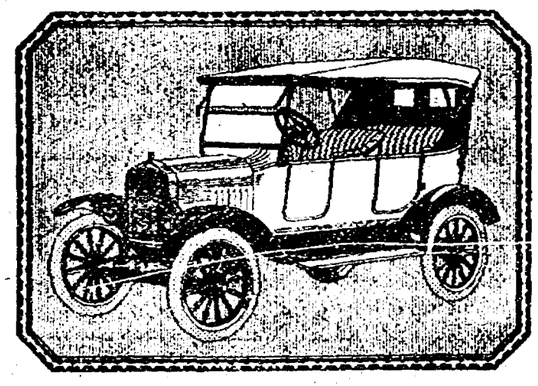
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES

RADIO PROGRAM

WTAM Cleveland

BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

THE UNIVERSAL CAR



New Touring Car

$295

F. O. B. DETROIT

Ford utility, durability, and economy are embodied to the full in this new Ford Touring Car.

In addition, it is up-to-the-minute in appearance. It is finished in an enduring black, rich and deep in lustre. A high radiator, enlarged hood, graceful cowl, slanting windshield and streamline body are pleasing details that enhance its style.

With this handsome exterior, it combines every mechanical feature essential to open car utility.

This car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

BELMOND AUTO COMPANY

Ford

CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

$50 Reward

THE IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY WILL PAY FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD for the information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who have been shooting the Insulators on the Electric High Line (which is causing service interruption).

The law provides a penalty of one year in jail and $500 fine for this offense.

D. R. CLINE, Mgr.

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC CO.

IOWA FALLS, IOWA

Buy Beef By the Quarter

Our service means a lot to you. We cut it up the way you want and our price can't be beat.

Cash Market

Belmond, Iowa

Thanksgiving

We Are Thankful That We Live In Iowa

EVERY year there are more hours of sunshine than in California.

Ninety-eight per cent of her land is arable.

A crop failure is unknown.

Fifty-two per cent of the farm homes have automobiles.

Her per-capita wealth is $3,940. U. S. at large only $1,965.

She raises enough corn annually to provide flour for fifty million people for one year.

Food is our most constant necessity, the market never fails. The Food State then is the Money State.

IOWA LEADS IN FARM PRODUCTS
VALUE OF FARM PROPERTY VALUE OF HORSES
LIVE STOCK
AMOUNT OF IMPROVED
FARM LAND, HOGS, POULTRY, OATS GRASS SEED

Twelfth in population, twenty-fourth in area.

And we are thankful that we live in Belmond, Iowa, because—

—Our home and friends are here.

—Our business has been successful.

—And because Belmond is the best town in the state.

CUT LICENSE FEE

Like an oasis to a weary traveler in a desert is the information contained in the new rate book of motor vehicle licenses to the owner of an automobile. It is refreshing, for it indicates a sharp decline in license fees to be paid for 1924 plates on cars bought in 1918, 1919 and 1920, the years of peak prices.

Heretofore motor vehicle licenses have been paid on the original list price and the weight of the car. The weight is still a factor, but the 1924 license will be sold on current quotations of motor cars; that is, quotations for 1923 and 1924. There has been a very sharp decline in prices of automobiles since the peak just at the close of the world war.

The 1924 license rate will be based on the latest quotation by the factories for the same models of car. Those who purchased cars in 1922 and 1923 will find little change in the license rates, for the prices have been nearly stationary the past two years. The largest benefit, or saving, will come to the man who bot three or four years ago.

The saving on license fees to automobile owners in this country under the new ruling by the secretary of state will be very large in the aggregate. Savings, which are based on 1920 price lists, but there will be little difference between this list and that for cars bought in 1919 or 1918, will be as follows, the cars being selected at random:

Savings on 1920 Fords: Roadster, $1.60; coupe and touring, $2 each; sedan, $3; touring with starter, $3.

Cars bought in 1922 or 1923 will have no change in license fees, and but slight changes over those bought in 1921.

Some Reductions Large

Very large savings in license fees are noted in twin six Packards bought in 1920. The saving in the touring car will be $15 and in the sedan, $26. The list price of the sedan in 1920 was $8,000 and in 1923 it was $5,400.

Savings in Buicks bought in 1920 will be $4 in the six cylinder touring, $6 in the five-passenger sedan, and $8 in the seven passenger sedan.

In Hupmobiles bought in 1920 the savings will be $4 in the touring and $8 in the sedan.

Savings in 1920 Maxwells will be $1 each on the touring and roadster, $3 on the coupe and $4 on the sedan.

The savings on the 1920 Peerless will range from $10 to $12.

In the Hudson cars the savings in fees will be $6 to $12on models bought in 1918 to 1920.

Primary Road Fund Suffers

Serious complaint has been made in the past by owners of cars bought at the peak prices over the license fees exacted. The procedure adopted for imposing fees for 1924 will adjust these inequities.

While car owners will profit next year the primary road fund will suffer in like proportion. Motor vehicle license fees contribute the major portion of the primary road fund, and there cannot help being a shrinkage of hundreds of thousands of dollars in 1924 from the amount contributed in 1923.—Chronicle.

Verily, Verily, Bobby

Father was singing the baby to sleep Bobby, four, was sitting on mother's lap. Finally he whispered: "Muzzer, if I was baby, I'd pretend I was asleep.

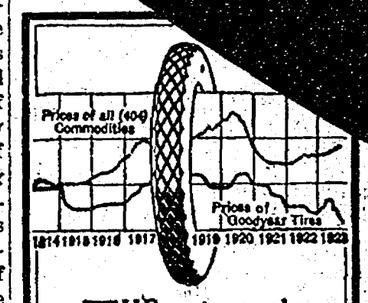
The Bride's Alibi

Hubby: "Your sponge cake is fine, dear, but——"

Mrs. Newlywed (crying): "It was the druggist's fault. He didn't give me the right kind of sponges."

EAGLE RESURFACING COST THE CITY OVER $40,000

The resurfacing job on the Eagle Grove paving has just been completed, and cost the city $40,611.01. What the one cent is for is a question. The job is said to be a good one, and the council and citizens are well satisfied. It was paid for by bonds running for a term of ten years, at 5 1-2 per cent interest, the council settling at one-half of one per cent less than contract price.



THE extremely fair prices asked for Goodyear Tires year in and year out are shown in the chart above. Goodyear Tires are selling today for 45% less than in 1920; 39% less than in 1914. Despite this, their quality was never so high as now. This is a good time to buy Goodyears.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Kinseth's Store News

Today is Thanksgiving, and it is only appropriate that we should extend to you, our friends, our most sincere thanks for your patronage during the past twelve months. We have increased our business daily by and thru the kindness you have shown us, and we have endeavored to give you in return the best of service and the best of goods. We hope that our relations in the year now to come will continue to be as friendly and cordial as in the past, and it will be our aim during 1924 to give you the same good quality and if possible, a still better service. Again we offer you our sincere thanks, and we wish for you and yours a year of good will and happiness.

—K—

Now just to mention a few things this week, we have a complete line of children's, boys' and gentlemen's overshoes, men's 4-buckle all rubber overshoes guaranteed to last a season and selling at only $3.85.

—K—

Children's union suits, fleece-lined at 80 cents and up.

—K—

Special on brooms this week at 53 cents each. Can you beat it?

—K—

Special on 5 lbs. black Oolong tea at $1.85, and 1-2 lb. packages of Old English tea at 25 cents.

—K—

Follow the crowds this next year and you'll be thankful.

MESERVEY SECTION

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

On Tuesday of last week while T. T. Lieuwen and wife, B. Frey and daughter, Mrs. J. P. Pals, and Mrs. Harm Groen were on their way to attend the funeral of John Truff at Ledyard, the former collided with another car in going around a load of corn fodder which party obstructed the view of the oncoming car. Altho Mr. Lieuwen saw the approach of the other car, it was too late to avoid the accident. Mr. Frey and Mrs. Pals were the only ones injured and aside from the damage done to both cars it was indeed what is termed a lucky accident. Both Mr. Frey and Mrs. Pals are recovering nicely from bruises sustained.

See Heinie about your Radio.

Titus Frohling and family from Ackley visited at the home of his parents here last Tuesday.

The Misses Tillie and Ollie Pals and Mildred Gealow were Mason

FAREWELL SURPRISE

Last Monday evening about 35 E. L. C. E. members met at the F. A. Lemke home and carried out a surprise on Fred Menzel. The evening was spent in a social way, with games, etc. Refreshments consisting of pineapple whip and cake were served. As a token of esteem, Rev. Schlesselman presented Fred with a leather tourist's tablet in behalf of the society. Fred will leave this place about Dec. 1 having been employed at the Raecker garage the past three years. During this time he has made many friends who wish him well wherever he may decide to locate. We understand that he expects to spend the winter in California.

Buy a Radio for Christmas. See Hienie.

Miss Huenemann spent the week end at home, Miss Bode with her brother and family near Goodell, Miss Holroyd attended a "home coming" at Cedar Falls and Mr. Ozias

of Mason City
nduct the quarter-
t the Evang. church
iday evening with a ser-
C. Communion services at 10:45. A good attendance
esired.

Henry Bloom and family of Renwick motored to this place Sunday to visit Miss Sylvia.

Rev. H. Pannkuk occupied the pulpit at Immanuel Reformed church at Belmond, Sunday.

Mrs. Bert Lauen and children of Belmond spent Sunday with Mrs. Meinderts and Jennie.

Louis Foss and wife, Mrs. H. Fischer and Mildred Gealow were Mason City callers Monday.

Henry Proost and family acompanied by Henry Sprau and family motored to West Bend Sunday to see the grotto.

Mrs. Anna Bonte and daughter Virginia visited relatives at Alexander Sunday.

H. Raecker and wife and G. E. Raecker and family were Sunday visitors at the Chas. Strasburg home.

Rev. and Mrs. Schlesselman and two youngest children and Mrs. Verkvitz visited friends at Renwick last Monday.

Mrs. Verkvitz of Greenfield, Okla, is visiting at the Schlesselman home. She is Mrs. Schlesselman's aunt and they have not seen each other for nearly 30 years, and they doubtless will enjoy their visit very much. She has been spending six months in Ohio.

Mrs. Wm. Rozebom returned to her home inSoo Center last Tuesday after spending a month at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. P. Pals. Mr. and Mrs. Pals accompanied her to Ventura.

ing
sets of state. Dr. to look like

des and children vis-
home of her daughter,
Van Avery, and family, re-near Clear Lake, last Thurs-y.

Dr. Agler and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gaetzke and son visited relatives at Marathon last Thursday, making the trip by auto in one day.

Mrs. E. G. Thomas and Thelma spent Friday in Mason City between trains.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boeiman and daughter Mrs Dick Stadtlander were business callers at Belmond Friday.

Harm Groen, F. Ralston and K. C. Ruigh were transacting business at the county capitol on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. A. Loats of near Palsville was a guest at the Bruns home several days last week.

APPLES! Greenings and Malindas. Bushel basket $1.00. Bring basket or sack.—W. F. Butz. Phone 404. 52tfc

For Sale—Extra big Duroc Jersey Spring boars. 4 miles east of Meservey. —Peter Nove. 522*

For Sale—Large Riverside Hard Coal Stove good as new.—Peter H. Pals, Meservey. 52tfc

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

GRAMMAR ROOM: Henry Boelman enrolled in the 8th grade Monday, Nov. 19.

Laura Bier enrolled in the 7th grade Wednesday, Nov 21.

Olive Olson was absent from school during all the past week. Other missing school some part of the week were Harry Boelman, Marie Pals, Lyda Groen, Edward Kuhlers, Wilma Pals and Bert Frey.

None of the 7th grade had perfect spelling lessons for the past week. However none of their grades averaged below 95.

The following 8th grade students had perfect spelling lessons during the past week: Grace Boelman, Bernard Butz, Franklin Fischer, Arlene Janssen, Bonita Muller, and Dorothy Schlesselman.

Wanted: Information as to why we had no visitors in our room last week? Your company is appreciated.

Six weeks' examinations were given on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

AND 6th GRADES: Arne Win- ast three

ing
s Butz'

e absent to ng up the work

s writing Thanksgiving
onday we will decide on the oet.

Ancient Babylonian art and culture have been of interest to us on Thursday and Friday.

Some of us are excited about the 6 weeks' tests for our grades will help to decide where our names belong on the class chart.

The week of November 18 to 24 has been celebrated thruout the United States as National Educational Week. Ministers have preached sermons on the subject of education and in the schools special attention has been paid to the great necessity for education in all walks if life. Our former President, Warren G. Harding, said: More than anything else, men and women need the capacity to see with clear eye and to contemplate with open, unprejudiced mind the issues of these times. Only thru a properly motivated and generously inspired process of education can this be accomplished."

We feel that in America our system of public education has done much to make our nation what it is today. Here every child has the opprtunity to attend the public school and thus to become an intelligent citizen. And yet there are within our nation, even within our own state many children who do not get beyond the 6th grade in school. Many others who finish the 8th grade leave school and go to work instead of continuing in school. Why is this? Often because the parents feel that further education is useless, and that the time of their children might better be employed on the farm or in the factory. Conditions along that line are far superior to conditions a hundred years ago so far as the opportunities for schooling are concerned but is the desire for learning as great? Let us cling fast to the ideals of our forefathers, remembering the great economic and social ses which are due to illiteracy and great economic, social and spiritual benefit to our nation and to the world which education can bring us. Let us keep the children in school and strive to make them see the importance of each day in school. Let us also furnish our children with books, magazines and papers of the best our country affords that these may serve as supplementary material to what the schools afford.

The Thanksgiving program was given on Tuesday at the M. E. church at 8 o'clock.

The high school boys had a foot ball game all framed for Thanksgiving afternoon when the snow came along and spoilt things. If weather conditions are such that the game can be played come out at 2:30 and see the business men play the high school.

If the gym at Alexander can be secured Thanksgiving evening a double header basket ball game will be played by Meserveyites. High school boys vs. married men and high school girls vs. married women. Winners to receive an oyster stew.

The nineth grade received two more members when Gilbert Koehler and Henry Schmalle started to school

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Ask for Our

Hams and Bacon

Absolutely unsurpassed in quality. Try some and you will eat no other. We know this from every-day experience selling these splendid meats.

FRESH BALOGNA EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.

BEST CREAMERY BUTTER Always On Hand.

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Don't Neglect That

Battery

Let us recharge it for you and put it in shape for the winter---and last but not least, better put in a non-freezing solution in your radiator.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

"Guarantee"

Sometimes means something—Many times nothing. Here is a guarantee that means everything.

When applied to "Mother's Flour" our guarantee means that you may purchase a sack, make as many bakings as you wish n order to give it a fair trial, and, if not satisfied, your money will be returned without question or argument. We are having splendid success with this Flour. Take a sack home on this guarantee.

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

FARM LOANS

Your Banker is interested in your welfare, therefore will work for your interests in having your farm loan placed at the lowest possible rate.

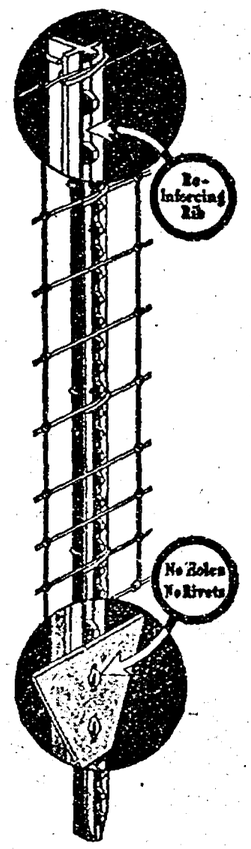
The large loan companies realize as never before that the local banker is the farmers financial agent, and for this reason we are in a position to save you money.

Have your loans placed now before the March First rush and possible increase in rates.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY IOWA



Now Is the Time To

Repair Your Buildings

Winter is coming. Place your orders for Storm Windows now. We are at your service at all times for

Quality Lumber

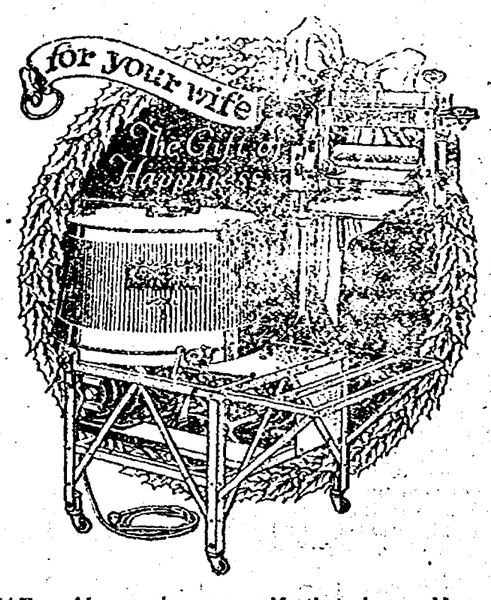
Hard and Soft Coal

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Res. Phone 17

Give Her A WOODROW This Christmas!



WHAT could you give your wife that she would appreciate as much as a Woodrow Washer?

Every farmer's wife is entitled to a good power washer for doing the weekly washing by hand is something she ought not to do and something she is likely to pay for later.

And with the same engine you can pump water, grind feed, and do many other jobs around the farm.
MORAL: Join our Christmas Club.

C. J WENDEL

MESERVEY, IOWA

this week.

Those absent the past week Francis Bier, Hiene Winthers, Harold Riekens.

Jane Shepherd returned to school after being absent 4 weeks.

The first and second grades are all excited over their parts in the Thanksgiving program.

Beginning with Monday all the children who are perfect in deportment will get a red star on the board and one in the palm of their hand.

Rev. Schlesselman was a Belmond caller last Thursday p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Lauster and her daughter Viola, and Donald Muller were Mason City callers Tuesday.

Heinie Waage spent Tuesday last at Mason City on business.

ROWAN NEWS

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Class meeting at 9:30. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Divine worship at 11. Epworth League at 6:30 p. m. Evening service at 7:30. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Rev. Halbert is to give the Thanksgiving sermon Thursday at 10:30 a. m. We invite all who are not attendants elsewhere to worship with us.

Rev. Osborn spoke to the high school Monday morning. The central theme was how to succeed in life.

The musical concert given by Miss Edna Priebe, who occasionally sings in grand opera, and Mrs. Naomi Major-Faber, one of Minneapolis' leading pianoists, was highly enjoyed by those at the Star theatre Thursday evening.

Rev. Osborn was at Dows, Wednesday, where he was called by the request of a sick friend.

The Ladies Aid sale was well attended and netted them over $80.

Rowan Congregational Church Notes

Morning worship at 10:30. Sunday school at 11:30. Senior Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Evening service at 7:30. Junior Endeavor Wednesday at 4:00 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Keep in mind the chicken pie supper and bazaar Sat. Dec. 8, afternoon and evening at the church basement.

Thanksgiving Day service will be held at the Methodist church, Thursday morning at 10:30. Rev. Halbert will preach the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Buchanan of Belmond, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hansen of Kanawha were Sunday guests at the Fred Aldrich home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitten of Clarion were callers at the parental Whitten home Saturday.

Bernard Stumph spent the week end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, at Clarion.

Mrs. Peter Eson was a Clarion visitor Friday.

Mrs. J. I. Drury and children Marguerite and Robert, who are visiting at the F. H. Fowler home, spent a part of last week at the H. L. Hadley home at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stout and son Milton, of Forest City, arrived last week to assist with the corn picking. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pierce also came the first of this week.

Several auto loads from here went to Coulter, Sunday, to view the wreck. An extra meat train going east had eight cars derailed just east of Coulter. Passenger No. 5 was obliged to detour by way of Belmond to Clarion.

D. W. Whitten went to Des Moines Tuesday on business, returning on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Jessie Steffens fell last Monday and sprained her hand quite severely. It has been very painful.

Mrs. D. W. Whitten and Mrs. Hannah Whitten were Clarion callers on Tuesday.

The Hal Steffens family departed for La Porte last Wednesday where Mrs. Steffens and children expect to stay with her people until they can find a house in Pocahontas, where Hal is hauling gravel. They have stored their goods in Mrs. Langdon's garage for the time being.

The Chas. Scott family have been on the sick list the past two weeks.

Albert Erickson arrived from Sheffield, Ill., Saturday. He has been working on a gravel job all summer.

The following is the score of the basket ball game of Chapin vs. Rowan in the gym at Rowan:

Girls' game 34 to 3 in favor of Rowan. Boys' game 57 to 5 in favor of Rowan.

Our local team went to Klemme Saturday evening to meet their team resulting in the following: Boys' game 36 to 17 in favor of Rowan; Girls' game 23 to 12 in favor of Rowan.

The Epworth League had their regular monthly social in the church basement Tuesday evening. Miss Anna Rietz had charge of the games and Misses Bernice Hansen and Clara Azeltine planned the refreshments.

Mrs. Harm Brinkman and children of Latimer were Sunday visitors at the Mrs Hannah Whitten home.

Alfred Boyington moved his family from the farm into the Whitten house, vacated by H. J. C. Bix, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Smith of Webster City were Sunday visitors at the Edgar Bingham home. The two ladies are cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Munson were Sunday guests at the Pink Trees home near Belmond.

Mrs. Geo. Whitten and Mrs. Chas. Peddle were Hampton dental callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cate of Anita have gone to Los Angeles to make their future home. Mrs. Cate is better known to Rowan people as Emma Ballou.

The Farm Union last Tuesday evening at the hall was attended by about 100 people. A miscellaneous shower was given for Mr. and Mrs Ray Swope, who were burned out some time ago. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

Miss Lillian Shreck of Hayfield spent last week with relatives and friends here, returning home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Box and Miss Ruth Emerson were Ft. Dodge visitors Saturday.

Mrs. M. A. Sullivan of Ft. Dodge spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten and dauhter Gladys, and Evelyn Whitten autoed to Reinbeck, Sunday, to spend the day with Mrs. Whitten's sister, Mrs. Herman Stahl, and family.

Al. French has been quite ill with an attack of gallstones the past week. He is considerable better at this writing.

Rev. Osborn autoed to Kanawha Thursday and brought Miss Priebe and Mrs. Faber, the singers for the musical recital, with him.

Mrs. H. J. Zeigler and daughter, June, of Mason City, arrived last Tuesday for a visit at the W. H. Whitten home and with other friends. They expect to remain until after Thanksgiving.

There was an attendance of 30 women at the Ladies division meeting of the Iowa township Farm Bureau, Friday afternoon at Mrs. A. L. Fetrow's. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen. The program was carried out with the addition of a solo by Miss LaVonne Ballou, and two readings by Mrs. Chas. Richards. Refreshments were served. The next meeting is Dec. 14 with Mrs. Lieuwen.

Chas. Richards went to Ft. Dodge, Friday.

Rev. Halbert was a Dows caller between trains Saturday.

The Misses Ruth and Esther Emerson and Clio Duffy were Dows visitors Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. M. Gunderson of Duncombe are visiting their daughther, Mrs. Gunval Gunderson and family.

GOODELL NEWS

James Trumbul, of Mason City, visited at the home of his son, Harry, last week.

Albert Whitaker spent the week-end with his wife at the Frank McNutt home.

Mr. and Mrs. Langlitz, of Meservey spent Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Anton Boller.

The Twin Lake Farm Bureau held their Nutrition meeting last Wednesday at the Gus Okreug home.

Maude Griggs spent Friday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sherwood.

Mesdames Snearly, Latch, Graeber, Beiers and H. Christenson autoed to Thompson Thursday to visit with Supt. and Mrs. O. A. Nelson.

Supt. Peters, Thomas Hamilton, Harvey Hubbard and Miss Hill autoed the three basket ball teams to Thompson Friday evening. Thompson proved to be victorious in the three games.

Mesdames Ahrenkiel, Sandberg, Brass, Hanson and Edith Sandberg visited Thursday with Mrs. Elmer Schneider.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Cashman, of Polo, Illinois, drove thru in their car and are visiting at the Tom Cashman home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dominy and children, of Estherville came Friday to visit a few days at the Dominy and Finn homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Houghton were guests at the Houghton home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schneider and children spent Saturday at Mason City.

The Nolan sisters were week-end guests at Tony Bollers.

Mrs. Supt. Peters had the misfortune to fall and dislocate her shoulder.

Mrs. Will Beier was on the sick list a few days last week.

Mrs. John Robbins, of Belmond was a guest at the Robbins and Mason homes last week.

A family reunion was held at the George Ness home Sunday, all the children coming home to attend the Confirmation of Sanford, held at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jenison, Mr. and Mrs. Will Heginger, Harvey Hubbard and Edith Halfpop were shoppers in Ft Dodge, Saturday.

The Will Schlichting family shopped in Mason City, Thursday.

The Progressive Club held their meeting Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson.

The Twin Lake Farm Bureau will hold a picture show program and basket social in the Goodell Opera House, Friday, November 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Burke and children Sundayed at the Robert McNutt home.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCorkle, of Kanawha attended church in Goodell Sunday and also visited at the Monroe Graeber home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Matson and Mrs. George Butts were entertained to a six o'clock dinner, Saturday at the O. Sandberg home.

Mrs. Wesenberg and Mrs. Butts spent Saturday in Belmond packing Butts' household goods which will be trucked to Goodell this week.

Word has been received that a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cunningham last Monday. Mrs. Will Cunningham and Herman went Tuesday to visit the new son, Moingola.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Kinseth spent Sunday at the Lew Avery home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter visited Saturday at the Albert Schichtinghome.

The Anton Ahrenkeil family visited Sunday at the Blank home in Klemme.

Beulah Smith Sundayed at Belmond.

The Goodell grades are planning to give a Thanksgiving program at nine a. m. Wednesday.

Velma Fuller was a visitor Sunday at the Chelsvig home.

John Rusts' visited at the Graeber home Sunday.

Sunday, Nov. 25 was given over to Thanksgiving service. Rev. D. W. Thompson preached an excellent sermon at 11 a. m. The audience filled the auditorium and the people were made to see how grateful we all ought to be. The morning service was an inspiration to the large congregation. At 7:30 p. m. the house was once more filled as this was a special service rendered by the choir and others. It was our first sacred musical for this conference year. The men's quartete was a special feature of the evening. Three anthems were sung. Mrs. Hanson gave a reading "Going home for Thanksgiving." Naida Wesenberg gave a reading on the history of Thanksgiving. Others had a big part in the success of the program. During the day four adults united with the church.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Earl Hall was a Belmond caller last Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen were callers at Hampton last Sunday.

W. P. Aldinger was a Sunday visitor with relatives at Hampton.

Misses Oralee Brooks, Marjorie Flynn and Mary Kernan spent the week end at Belmond.

Miss Minnie Berninghausen from Hampton was a week end guest of her sister, Mrs. Theo. Beenen.

Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Mohr and two children of Riceville were visitors in town the forepart of the week.

Joe Veeder of Hampton was a business caller here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughters Jessie and Nellie, visited with relatives at Hampton last Tuesday.

Miss Gale Thompson of near Belmond was a visitor at the A. C. Lieuwen home the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens were business callers at Belmond on last Tuesday.

The annual chicken supper which was given by the ladies of the Methodist church last Saturday evening was very largely attended. Many articles of handwork were donated to the bazaar. After the supper the remaining articles were sold at auction by Hannas Pals as auctioneer, who kindly donated his work to the society. The proceeds amounted to the neat sum of $140.

RAISING PEANUTS PROFITABLE

G. H. Stearns of Estherville last spring secured several peanuts as seed from a firm in South Dakota, and last June planted them in his back yard. Every seed grew, and this fall he had a dozen hills with more than 100 peanuts on each hill. They are of excellent quality and size, and it is estimated that a man can make a lot of money raising peanuts in Iowa.

IN COURT NOW IN ROW OVER THE DOWS CHURCH

A split occured among the membership of the Otis Grove Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Church at Dows at the time of the trouble between the American Legion and Rev. G. G. Belsheim, pastor of the church above mentioned. This church now comes into court and alleges that on the second day of the present month O. G. Sime, Ed. Iverson and Ed. Evans illegally and unlawfully barred the doors in the church in Dows so as to prevent the plaintiffs from entering therein. As further cause for action plaintiff alleges that Hans Peterson, Ole Jacobson and O. Gardalen without authority of law, on or about October 22, 1923, executed a quit claim deed to certain church property in Dows, being property of the plaintiff. Finally that defendants are trespassers on the plaintiff's property and therefore prays that the deed heretofore given be declared void and that the defendants be perpetually restrained from interfering with plaintiff's possession and occupancy of said property. So far the court has taken no action in the case.

Last week the supreme court affirmed the decision of the Wright county district court in the Roy Fortune case. The next move will be for Fortune's bondsmen to deliver him to Sheriff Lang so he can begin his sentence. He was convicted of larceny and entering a building in the night time in connection with the robbery of the Wheeler store at Woolstock a couple of years ago. Fortune will first serve ten years at Anamosa and on his release will be due to serve ten months in the county jail. His partner Herbert Bige, is now serving the lesser sentence, after which he will go to Anamosa for ten years.

Mrs. Lillian Howard, wife of Postmaster Howard of Galt, has the distinction of being the first woman in Wright county to act as foreman of the grand jury. She is now acting in that capacity, having been chosen by the following jurors as their presiding officer: T. A. Shillington, B. B. Suiter, Geo. Elder, Martin Olson, Warren Collins, Richard Rompf. Some of the members of the booze ring around Clarion have taken to the tall timber and others are shaking in their shoes, fearful of what is going to happen. More later. Miss Louise Brenton is clerk of the grand jury.

Last week these notes stated that Dr. Bernard was plaintiff in a court action. It should have been R. R. Bernard and not R. D.

Roper Hardware Co. of Eagle Grove claim the sum of $800 due from Sam Skelo and wife on their promissory note.

Last week Sheriff Lang sold a Boone township farm of 200 acres to the First National bank at Kanawha for an even $11,000. The farm was first sold by C. H. Packard to Henry Kamp, who in turn sold it to his sons and the bank took a second mortgage on the land. More litagation is to follow.—Monitor.

Independent Farm Sales Service is Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

PUBLIC SALE

- OF -

Stock and Poultry

I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION AT THE PLACE KNOWN AS THE ALLISON FARM, 1-2 MILE EAST OF BELMOND, ON

Wednesday, Dec. 5

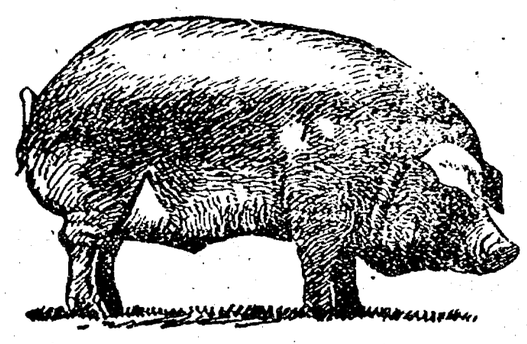
COMMENCING AT 1:00 P. M. THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

17 - Head of Cattle - 17

2 STEER CALVES — 1 2-YR.-OLD HEIFER — 1 YEARLING HEIFER

4 MILK COWS, 3 FRESH NOW, 1 FRESH IN FEBRUARY.

9 OTHER MILK COWS, SOME WITH CALF AT SIDE AND OTHERS TO COME IN THIS WINTER.



98 Hogs 98

14 YEARLING SOWS, 6 OF THEM DUROC JERSEYS, 8 ARE POLAND CHINAS.

1 POLAND CHINA BOAR 19 MONTHS OLD.

42 SPRING SHOATS, OF GOOD SIZE. 1 SPRING BOAR

40 FALL PIGS, SOME OF THEM WEANED.

Over 200 R. I. Red Chickens

About half of these are pullets, the others last year's hens. Also some good spring roosters.

Farm Machinery, and Other Articles

1 stove — 1 good hay rack — 1 barrel capacity feed cooker

1 single harness — 1 washing machine — Numerous other articles.

A few bushels of good winter apples. — 1 Moline corn planter with 90 rods of wire.

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 12 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

BOUGHTON & UHR, Eagle Grove, AUCTIONEERS.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND, CLERK.

C. B. Allison

Proprietor

Here and There

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn Young, of Belmond were week end visitors at the Dr. H. O. Young home and with other relatives.—Thornton Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Skovlin, of Belmond were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Obrecht Monday evening.—Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Cortland Morse, of Belmond were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Obrecht.—Enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baldridge and Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer, of Belmond were Sunday guests here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldridge and family.—Reporter.

Mrs. Hake went to Belmond Monday and remained until Tuesday, for a visit with her parents.—Times.

Miss Gladys Forristal, of Belmond came Thursday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Loux.—Monitor.

Aside from the charley-horse sustained by State, the locals came thru the game without mishap and are now working hard to get in shape to give Belmond the trimming of their lives on Thanksgiving.—Dows Advocate.

(Maybe, Brother Lee—maybe!

Mrs. Olga Sporaa, now of Iowa Falls, came to Garner Friday afternoon and remained here until Monday. On Saturday last, she sold her residence property in the south part of town. Mrs. Sporaa is doing nursing at the Falls. At this time, she has all the children with her, and she is making an effort to have the court establish them with her permanently.—Leader.

J. R. Stebleton, formerly of Britt, has leased the room just north of the postoffice, and about the first of the coming month, he will open up a first-class candy kitchen and luncheonette. Mr. Stebleton is a man of extensive experience in this line of work, and his new place will be a splendid addition to Garner's business establishments. He is installing all new fixtures, and his place will be first-class in every particular. As yet he has sot found a suitable house in which to live, but as soon as one is available, he will move his family here. He and his family are isdeed welcome to our city.—Leader.

GIVE HENS GRAIN FEED

"Fresh eggs this winter are sure to bring a high price," says Prof. H. A. Brittenbender, head of the poultry department of Iowa State College. But the problem is how to get them. Three factors in high winter egg production are the right kind of chickens, proper housing facilities, and a well-balanced ration.

"One of the most common ommissions from a poultry ration," says Prof. Bittenbender, "is that of green food, which not only assists in increasing egg production, but is a valuable aid in cutting the feed cost.

Mangle beets, he says, are one of the most economical green feeds. Caution should be taken, however, not to feed too many of them. The best method is to split the mangles in two pieces, giving the birds an opportunity to pick at the food as they desire. About one or two mangles can be fed daily t each 20 or 25 birds.

NEW AUTO PLATES HERE SOON

Word comes from the state house in Des Moines that auto license tags for 1924 are ready and may be obtained soon through county treasurers.

Iowa motorists are required by law to place the new tags on their cars, both front and rear, after December 31st, or else the monthly penalty of $1 starts.

A word of cheer was sounded in inaugurating the new law relating to basing the license fee on the current, and not original list price, as in the past. Formerly the fee was determined from the original list price for five years, without any allowance for depreciation. In the case of cars four years old now, the valuation taken as a basis will be the current price of the new models.—Recorder.

Just before the conclusion of the weekly prayer meeting in a country town one evening, the parson arose and glanced over the congregation.

"Is there anybody present," said he, "who wishes the prayers of the congregation for a relative or friend?"

"Yes, parson," answered a tall, angular woman, rising to her feet. "I want the congregation to pray for my husband."

"Why, Sister Martha," exclaimed the parson, with a surprised expression, "you have no husband?"

"I know I haven't," was the calm rejoinder of Sister Martha. "I want all hands to pitch in and help me pray for one."

LEGION SKATING RINK READY FOR FREEZE

The Legion's public skating rink has been put in readiness for cold weather, having been graded and put in shape for flooding. The rink is just east of the football field at the school house, and is about 150 feet square.

The rink will have electric lights at the north and south ends, and the Legion boys are making arrangements for some kind of heating apparatus, an outdoor stove of some sort, where the kiddies can warm their fingers and toes.—News.

Adam the Guy

Radio Fan: "Tell me, Fanette, whow as the first great wireless engineer?"

Fanette: "Marconi, of course."

Radio Fan' "It was Adaf. He made a loud speaker out of his spare parts."

Someone Told Him the Truth

The rush of farm boys to a nearby city for seemingly high wages in a factory there, saw a large crowd at the depot almost every week in a western town this fall. One morning, after six big fellows had climbed abroad, the conductor turned to a big youth leaning against a baggage truck and asked him if he was going too.

"Nope, I'm in class B."

"What you mean, class B?"

"Waal, I Be here when they go—and I Be here when they come back.

"What, you would dishonor my name by becoming a boxer."

"But, father, I would take an assumed name."

"Indeed! And supposing you were to make a big success, much credit I would get if no one know I was your father."

Random Remarks

"Well," said the collector, "I think I'll get on the detective force—I am always finding people out.

"That young bride worships her husband, doesn't she?" "Well," replied M. L., "she places burnt offerings before him three times a day!"

The head of the firm caught the office boy telling falsehoods.

"I'm surprised at you!" he said. "Do you know what they do with boys who tell lies?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "When they get old enough the firm sends them out as traveling salesmen."

Two darkies took refuge under a tree in a violent thunder shower.

"Julius, can you pray?" asked one.

"No, Sam," was the reply, "Ah nebber prayed in my life."

"Well, can't you sing a hymn."

"No, Sam, don't know no hymn."

"Well, see heah, Julius, sumfin' 'ligious 'got to be done mighty sudden. S'pose you pass roun' the contribution box!"

"Carfare is a strange necessity."

For hours they had been together on her front porch. The moon cast its tender gleam down on the young and handsome couple who sat strangely far apart. He sighed. She sighed. Finally:

"I wish I had money, dear," he said. "I'd travel."

Impulsively she slipped her hand into his; then, rising swiftly, she sped into the house.

Aghast, he looked at his hand. In his palm lay a nickel.

The Belmond Independent and the Des Moines Register both one year for $5.80. Regular price $7.00. Register subscriptions must be new; Independent either new or renewal. If renewal on Register, price for both is $6.10. Have your renewal sent in by taking advantage of this saving.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

If you have a stove to sell, now is the time, and an Independent Want Ad will sell it for you.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Freight, daily	11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily,	2:10 p. m.

Going South

Freight, daily	1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily	11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily	8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily	8:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily	10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S	1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S	1:26 a. m.
Local Freight	7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S	1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S	3:15 p. m.
Motor	5:19 p. m.
Local Freight	3:20 p. m.

His Life's Job

A shiftless specimen of humanity came down town one morning and joining a group o a corner, announced that he was going to leave town, said he could not live in it any longer. Some one asked him what was the matter.

"Well," he said, "the town is all right, but it's the hardest place in the world for a woman to get work in."

And Warm The Mattress

"I have only one request to make," groaned the college man who had come to participate in the harvest.

"What is that, Mr. Smart?" returned the farmer.

"Please let me stay in bed long enough for the electric bulb to cool off."

There Is A Limit

Jeweler: "Bracelets are all the style this year. If you like them all—take them. You can't wear too many this season."

Fair shopper: "Well, I don't want my arms to look like curtain poles."

Here's the news from Paris. High heels for men are stylish. We would hate to be in their shoes.

PENSION LAW EXPIRES

All widow's pensions expire on December 21, as provided by a law passed by the last legislature of the state. It is necessary to make application to have these pensions renewed. According to the law, all applications for widow's pensions must be passed on by the board of supervisors before the pension can be allowed by the court. A written application for the pension must be given to the board at least 10 days before date set for hearing in the court.

B. A. REEMTSMA

AUCTIONEER

Farm and General Sales

A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.

For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

A pessimist is a real skinny man remembering last winter.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

HENRY H. PALS

Iowa Automatic Hog Door

Self-closing, easily opened by smallest pig, keeps hog house warm and comfortable; free from drafts; keeps the chickens out; saves on feed bill. Worth $100 to any hog raiser. Strong and substantial. Will last indefinately.

REGULAR PRICE $13.50

Special price for 30 Days

$10.00

To introduce this wonderful door to all farmers

May be seen at Klemme Lumber Co. Belmond

Write for descriptive literature to

Henry H. Pals

Meservey, Iowa

PUBLIC SALE

Having decided to move to Wisconsin, I will sell at public auction, at my place two miles north and one mile west of Belmond, known as the Nick Johnson farm, on

Monday, December 3

Commencing at 11:00 O'clock sharp, the following described property:

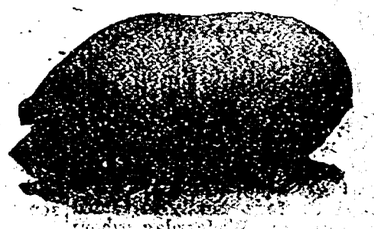
2 - Head of Horses - 2

1 COLT NINE MONTHS OLD.
1 IRON GREY MARE 4 YRS. OLD, BRED AND IN FOAL, WT. 1650

28 - Head of Cattle - 28

1 TWO-YEAR-OLD STEER — 7 ONE-YEAR-OLD STEERS — 5 ONE-YEAR-OLD HEIFERS
5 TWO-YEAR-OLD HEIFERS, HEAVY SPRINGERS
8-SPLENDID MILK COWS, ALL TO FRESHEN SOON.
1 HOLSTEIN BULL COMING1 YR. OLD. A GOOD ONE.
1 ROAN SHORT HORN BULL 1 YR. OLD, PEDIGREE FURNISHED.

71 Head of Hogs



54 HEAD DUROC JERSEYS
16 HEAD FULL BLOODED POLAND CHINAS
1 PURE BRED POLAND CHINA BOAR 1 YR. OLD.

About 300 bushel of oats
About 25 bushel of potatoes

About 25 tons tame hay in stack
About 1000 bushel good dry corn in crib

About 25 bushel Reeds yellow dent seed corn, picked in Sep.

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 hay rake	1 drag cart	1 bob sled
1 Tower plow	1 feed grinder	1 tank heater
1 Dain mower	1 hand corn sheller	2 chicken brooders
2 16-wheel discs with trucks	1 16-ft flexible drag	1 handy truck cart
1 Acme binder 8-ft. cut, in good repair	1 Hoosier end gate seeder	1 chicken coop 6x8, new
1 John Deere corn planter with 150 rods of wire	1 Success manure spreader	Several good hog troughs
2 P & O riding corn cultivators new last year	1 Emerson gang plow, 13-in	1 Camp grain elevator with power, complete
	1 hay rack, 8-14, new this year	Numerous other articles.
	1 triple and 1 double wagon box

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10:00 OR UNDER, CASH; OVER THAT AMOUNT 12 MONTHS' TIME WILL BE GIVEN ON BANKABLE NOTES BEARING 8 PER CENT INTEREST. ALL PROPERTY TO BE SETTLED FOR ON DAY OF SALE.

Richard Anderson

Proprietor

LEWIS HAUGE, Auctioneer — STATE BANK OF BELMOND, Clerk

The BROWN MOUSE

by Herbert Quick

COPYRIGHT by THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

Herbert Quick has been such a busy man in various lines of activity that the wonder is he has found time to write books; but not only has he found the time, but has been very successful as a writer. "The Brown Mouse" has become a sort of textbook in agricultural colleges and has been as widely read by teachers and farmers, probably, as any other story ever written. His "Vandemark's Folly" is one of the very successful books of the past two years and he seems to have scored even more heavily with his recent novel, "The Hawkeye." The list of his novels and short stories is a long one and in general excellence would do credit to a person who had devoted all his time to literature.

Herbert Quick.

This author was born on a farm near Steamboat Rock, Grundy county, Iowa. From farming he turned to schoolteaching and while principal of a ward school in Mason City, studied law. After being admitted to the bar he practiced in Sioux City and first came into prominence as member and counsel for the Citizens' committee which prosecuted boodlers. He was thrice nominated and once elected mayor of Sioux City and later was nominated for supreme judge. He was once associate editor of LaFollette's Weekly at Madison, Wis., and later editor of Farm & Fireside, Springfield, Ohio. He resigned a membership in the Federal Farm Loan bureau, Washington, in 1919. During a part of the war he was chairman for the Far East of the American Red Cross, with the rank of colonel. Several years ago he moved to Berkeley Springs, West Virginia, and is now recognized as one of the leading citizens of that state.

"The Brown Mouse" is probably the greatest exemplification ever produced of the romance and fascination that can be made to attach to the occupations of teaching and farming. The story is so charmingly constructed that it pleases people of all classes and is relished by children as well as adults; and the practical ideas which it contains have awakened communities all over the world. The ideas have been adopted in hundreds of places as part of the regular school work and part of the legitimate advancement of farming science.

CHAPTER I

A Maiden's "Humph!"

Jim brought from his day's work all the fragrances of next year's meadows. He had been feeding the crops. All things have opposite poles, and the scents of the farm are no exception to the rule. Just now, Jim Irwin possessed in his clothes and person the olfactory pole opposite to the new-mown hay, the fragrant butter and the scented breath of the lowing kine—perspiration and top-dressing.

He was not quite so keenly conscious of this as was Jennie Woodruff. Had he been so, the glimmer of her white pique dress on the bench under the basswood would not have drawn him back from the gate. He had come to the house to ask Colonel Woodruff about the farm work, and having received instructions to take a team and join in the road work next day, he had gone down the walk between the beds of four o'clocks and petunias to the lane. Turning to latch the gate, he saw through the dusk the white dress under the tree and drawn by the greatest attraction known in nature, had reentered the Woodruff grounds and strolled back.

A brief hello betrayed old acquaintance, and that social equality which still persists in theory between the work people on the American farm and the family of the employer. A desultory murmur of voices ensued. Jim Irwin sat down on the bench—not too close, be it observed, to the pique skirt. . . . There came into the voices a note of deeper earnestness, betokening something quite aside from the rippling of the course of true love running smoothly. In the man's voice was a tone of protest and pleading. . . .

"I know you are," said she, "but after all these years don't you think you should be at least preparing to be something more than that?"

"What can I do?" he pleaded. "I'm tied hand and foot. . . . I might have. . . ."

"You might have," said she, "but, Jim, you haven't . . . and I don't see any prospects. . . ."

"I have been writing for the farm papers," said Jim; "but . . ."

"But that doesn't get you anywhere, you know. . . . You're a great deal more able and intelligent than Ed, and see what a fine position he has in Chicago. . . ."

"There's mother, you know," said Jim gently.

"You can't do anything here," said Jennie. "You've been a farm-hand for fifteen years . . . and you always will be unless you pull yourself loose. Even a girl can make a place for herself if she doesn't marry and leaves the farm. You're twenty-eight years old."

"It's all wrong!" said Jim gently. "The farm ought to be the place for the best sort of career—I love the soil!"

"I've been teaching for only two years, and they say I'll be nominated for county superintendent if I'll take it. Of course I won't—it seems silly—but if it were you, now, it would be a first step to a life that leads to something."

"Mother and I can live on my wages—and the garden and chickens, and the cow," said Jim. "After I received my teacher's certificate, I tried to work out some way of doing the same thing on a country teacher's wages. I couldn't. It doesn't seem right."

Jim rose and after pacing back and forth sat down again, a little closer to Jennie. Jennie moved away to the extreme end of the bench, and the shrinking away of Jim as if he had been repelled by some sort of negative magnetism showed either sensitiveness or temper.

"It seems as if it ought to be possible," said Jim, "for a man to do work on the farm, or in the rural schools, that would make him a livelihood. If he is only a field-hand, it ought to be possible for him to save money and buy a farm."

"Pa's land is worth two hundred dollars an acre," said Jennie. "Six months of your wages for an acre—even if you lived on nothing."

"No," he assented, "it can't be done, and the other thing can't, either. There ought to be such conditions that a teacher could make a living."

"They do," said Jennie, "if they can live at home during vacations. I do."

"But a man teaching in the country ought to be able to marry."

"Marry!" said Jennie, rather unfeelingly, I think. "You marry!" Then after remaining silent for nearly a minute, she uttered the syllable—without the utterance of which this narrative would not have been written. "You marry! Humph!"

"You Marry! Humph!"

Jim Irwin rose from the bench tingling with the insult he found in her tone. They had been boy-and-girl sweethearts in the old days at the Woodruff schoolhouse down the road, and before the fateful time when Jennie went "off to school" and Jim began to support his mother. They had even kissed—and on Jim's side, lonely as was his life, cut off as it necessarily was from all companionship save that of his tiny home and his fellow-workers of the field, the tender little love-story was the sole romance of his life. Jennie's "Humph!" retired this romance from circulation he felt. It showed contempt for the idea of his marrying. It relegated him to a sexless category with other defectives, and badged him with the celibacy of a sort of Twentieth-century monk, without the honor of the priestly vocation. From another girl it would have been bad enough, but from Jennie Woodruff—and especially on that quiet summer night under the linden—it was insupportable.

"Good night," said Jim—simply because he could not trust himself to say more.

"Good night," replied Jennie, and sat for a long time wondering just how deeply she had unintentionally wounded the feelings of her father's field-hand; deciding that if he was driven from her forever, it would solve the problem of terminating that old childish love affair which still persisted in occupying a suite of rooms all of its own in her memory; and finally repenting of the unpremeditated thrust which might easily have hurt too deeply so sensitive a man as Jim Irwin. But girls are not usually so made as to feel any very bitter remorse for their male victims, and so Jennie slept very well that night.

Jim Irwin was bony and rugged and homely, with a big mouth, and wide ears, and a form stooped with labor. He had fine, lambent, gentle eyes which lighted up his face when he smiled. He was not ugly. Jim Irwin possessed charm. That is why little Jennie Woodruff had asked him to help with her lessons, rather oftener than was necessary, in those old days in the Woodruff schoolhouse when Jennie wore her hair down her back.

But in spite of this homely charm of personality, Jim Irwin was set off from his fellows of the Woodruff neighborhood. He was different. In local parlance, he was an off ox. He was as odd as Dick's hatband. He ran in a gang by himself. He had always liked to read, and had piles of literature in his attic room which was good, because it was cheap.

Very few people know that cheap literature is very likely to be good, because it is old and unprotected by copyright. Jim had Emerson, Thoreau, an Encyclopedia of English Literature, some editions of standard poets in paper covers, and a few Ruskins and Carlyles—all read to rags.

In fact, Jim had a good library of publications which can be obtained gratis, or very cheaply—and he knew their contents. He had a personal philosophy, which while it had cost him the world in which his fellows lived, had given him one of his own, in which he moved as lonely as a cloud, and as untouched of the life about him.

By every test of common life, he was a failure. His family history was a badge of failure. People despised a man who was so incontestably smarter than they, and yet could do no better with himself than to work in the fields alongside the tramps and transients and hoboes. Save for his mother and their cow and garden and flock of fowls and their wretched little rented house, he was a tramp himself.

His duties, his mother, and his dead father's status as an outcast took away his citizenship in Boyville, and drove him in upon himself, and, at first, upon his school books and later upon Emerson, Thoreau, Ruskin and the poets, and the agricultural reports and bulletins.

All this degraded—or exalted—him to the position of an intellectual farmhand, with a sense of superiority and a feeling of degradation. It made Jennie Woodruff's "Humph!" potent to keep him awake that night, and send him to the road work with Colonel Woodruff's team next morning with hot eyes and a hotter heart.

Colonel Woodruff's gray percherons seemed to feel the unrest of their driver, for they fretted and actually executed a clumsy prance as Jim Irwin pulled them up at the end of the turnpike across Bronson's Slew—a peat-marsh which annually offered the men of the Woodruff district the opportunity to hold the male equivalent of a sewing circle while working out their road taxes. Columbus Brown, the pathmaster, prided himself on the Bronson Slew turnpike as his greatest triumph in road engineering. The work consisted in hauling, dragging and carrying gravel out on the low fill which carried the road across the marsh, and then watching it slowly settle until the next summer.

"Haul gravel from the east gravel bed, Jim," called Columbus Brown from the lowest spot in the middle of the turnpike. "Take Newt here to help load."

Jim smiled his habitual slow, gentle smile at Newton Bronson, seventeen, undersized, tobacco-stained, profane and proud of the fact that he had once beaten his way from Des Moines to Faribault on freight trains. A source of anxiety to his father, and the subject of many predictions that he would come to no good end, Newton was out on the road work because he was likely to be of little use on the farm. Clearly, Newton was on the downward road in a double sense—and yet, Jim Irwin rather liked him.

"The fellers have put up a job on you, Jim," volunteered Newton, as they began filling the wagon with gravel.

"What sort of job?" asked Jim.

"They're nominating you for teacher," replied Newton.

"Since when has the position of teacher been an elective office?" asked Jim.

"Sure, it ain't elective," answered Newton. "But they say that with as many brains as you've got sloshing around loose in the neighborhood, you're a candidate that can break the deadlock in the school board."

Jim shoveled on silently for a while, and by example urged Newton to earn the money credited to his father's assessment for the day's work.

A slide of earth just then brought down a sweet-clover plant growing rankly beside the top of the pit. Jim Irwin pulled it loose from its anchorage, and after looking attentively at the roots, laid the whole plant on the bank for safety.

"What do you want of that weed?" asked Newton.

Jim picked it up and showed him the nodules on its roots—little white knobs, smaller than pinheads.

"Ever hear of the use of nitrates to enrich the soil?"

Continued next week.

A Starting Point

Ardent Swain: "I'd go thru anything for you."

Flapper: "All right; let's start on your bank account."

PUBLIC SALE

Having decided to quit farming, I will sell at public auction at my place one mile east, one-half mile south of Goodell, six miles northeast of Belmond, six miles west and one-half mile south of Meservey, on

Tuesday, Dec. 4th

Commencing at 12:30 O'clock sharp, the following described property:

5 - Head of Horses - 5

1 ROAN COLT MARE
1 BLACK MARE 4 YRS. OLD, WT. 1250
1 BROWN MARE 15 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 SORREL GELDING 7 YRS. OLD, WT. 1150
1 BUCKSKIN MARE 10 YRS. OLD, WT. 1200

34 - Head of Cattle - 34

4 STEERS COMING 2 YRS OLD.
5 HEIFERS COMING 2 YRS. OLD.
9 HEAD OF GOOD MILK COWS
15 HEAD OF EARLY SPRING CALVES.
1 PURE BRED SHORTHORN BULL, RED, REGISTERED, COMING 2 YRS. OLD.

25 - Head of Hogs - 25

18 HEAD OF FALL PIGS
7 HEAD OF DUROC JERSEY BROOD SOWS

250 - Head of Poultry - 250

1 stack of straw
About 150 bushel corn
About 10 bushel potatoes
About 4 tons tame hay in stack
15 loads of stove wood in 5-load lots.
ABOUT 4 BUSHEL YELLOW SEED CORN

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 ZIMMERMAN STUMP PULLER.
1 hay rack
1 32-ft ladder
1 single harness
1 3-section harrow, new
2 sets 1 1-2-in. harness
1 International manure spreader, new
1 P & O corn planter, new, with 80 rods of wire
1 Peerless seeder with grass attachment
2 3-in.-tire wagons, 1 with double box
1 top buggy
2 swill pails
1 Sattley disc
1 tank heater
3 hog troughs
1 Case sulky plow
1 Moline hay rake
1 McCormick mower
1 8-gallon cream can
1 LaCrosse cultivator
1 Bradley potato plow
1 Rock Island drag cart
1 John Deere walking plow
1 set cord nets
1 new bob sled
Some milk pails
1 hand corn sheller
1 single leather fly net
4 horse collars and pads
10 galvanized chicken coops
1 DeLaval cream separator
1 Standard scales, 600 capacity

Quantity of furniture including cook stove, heater, Vocalion phonograph, 2 dressers, 2 beds, sewing machine and numerous other articles

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 8 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

H. BRUMMOND, Auctioneer

OWEN CONWELL, Clerk

W. B. SANDRY

Proprietor

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. A. W. Martin and Miss Theoline Johnson drove to Mason City last Friday.

W. E. Dunn, of Boone, came up last Tuesday to attend the wedding of his brother to Miss Eloise Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pritchard, of Buffalo Center were visiting at the A. E. Martin home one day last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Kain, from Algona were visiting relatives here last week.

Ralph Hodges and Glen Rierson were visitors at Clarion, Sunday.

Ye Olde Tyme Dance, Goodell Opera House, Sat. eve., Dec. 1, 9 p. m. Fulton orchestra. Supper. Everybody welcome.

Miss Verna Amblie has been on the sick list the past few days.

Miss Alice Ersland returned last week from Clarion, where she has been visiting friends.

P. C. Barry is in Nebraska this week looking after business affairs.

Mike Steed, of Janesville, Wisconsin, was here to attend the Brooks-Dunn wedding.

Miss Mitta Anderson was a caller at Mason City last Saturday.

Jim Barry, of Des Moines, was a visitor at the home of P. C. Barry and other relatives last week.

A. P. McGregor, of Des Moines, was a caller in town Monday, greeting old friends and attend to business matters.

Mrs. H. G. Nordschow and M. J. Thoe enjoyed a visit last week from their father, who lives at Lake Mills.

Hajo Pals refereed a basket ball game at Klemme last Friday night.

Mrs. Ed Thompson, of near Kanawha, was a business caller in town last Friday.

The Great Western suffered a wreck near Hampton, Sunday, on the Hampton-Clarion branch, and passenger trains on that branch were detoured thru Belmond over the M. & St. L., Sunday.

Bert Nelson and Fred Vestweber were among the local people who went to Cedar Rapids last Friday to attend the homecoming at Coe College, and take in the foot ball game between Coe and Cornell. Coe wen, 15 to 0, in a good game.

The trapping laws are now out and many young farm lads in this community are seeking the elusive rat and mink for some extra spending money. Results have not been reported very good, and prices on the raw furs are no better. The difference between the stretched hide and the same hide made into a garment are too great to impress most people as just.

The Rosary society of the St. Francis church will hold their annual bazaar and chicken supper Saturday, December 8, beginning at 1:00 p. m. Chicken supper at 5:00 o'clock.

D. L. Pals of Alexander was calling in town the first of the week, on business matters.

Ed. Riekens of Kanawha was a business caller in Belmond on Tuesday

Atty and Mrs. Jensen have been enjoying a visit the past week from Mrs. Jensens' mother, Mrs. Emma West, and her brother, Arthur West and wife, all of State Center.

The teachers residing out of town all left for their respective homes Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hauge and family spent Thanksgiving with relatives at Clarion.

Mrs. M. C. Madsen went to Coulter last Thursday to attend the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Danielson.

Miss Grace Reed, who teaches at Beaman, Iowa, is spending the Thanksgiving vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Reed, and with other relatives.

Joe Harvey was called to Colorado last Saturday by a message that his father was seriously ill. Mrs. Harvey received another message on Tuesday night that he had passed away.

MEHL-SOMA

Milford Jennings Mehl and Gladys Anita Soma were united in marriage at the Trinity parsonage by Rev. J. M. Jensen, Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 28 at 3:00 o'clock. The groom is the oldest son of James Mehl, one of the county supervisors. The bride is the oldest daughter of Elling Soma, of Norway township. Both bride and groom were born and raised in Norway township. They will make their home on the Rosenbaum farm now owned by T. A. Wicks.

IA. TWP. FARM BUREAU MEETS

The next meeting of the Iowa township Farm Bureau will be at the home of Jack Peddle, Tuesday, Dec. 4. Families are requested to bring their own dishes, sandwiches, and one baked article. A program will be given as usual.

E. F. Bailey, Fred Johnson and Ben Blake returned Saturday from their hunting trip to South Dakota.

Mrs Wallace Ramsay went to Des Moines the first of the week, Mr. Ramsay and Miss Ruth going down yesterday to spend Thanksgiving at the home of Walt.

Christmas Opening at the Variety Store December 1. All Christmas toys in the basement. Phone 101 1-2.

Farmers wishing corn shelling done, see F E. Christie. Phone 2202. 22*

NOTICE!

Because of heavy obligations falling due at this time of year, we request all persons owing us to settle by cash or bankable note not later than Dec. 1st. —Cato C. Griesy.

On Monday, December 3, there will be a large class of young men and young women enrolling at the Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa. It is the first day of the first winter term. Will you be one of them?

Richard Ziska, our efficient city mail carrier, has been laid up the past week with an attack of the grippe.

W. M. Davis, of Mason City, was visiting his sister, Mrs. Martha Wallace, last Sunday.

Miss Gilda Nelson was on the list of sick folks the first of the week.

You can renew your Des Moines Register, or any magazine, at the Independent.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

Glenn Klemme and family and R. H. Klemme and family are spending Thanksgiving at the Stanberry home in Mason City.

E. G. Reed and family spent Sunday at Webster City.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39 1-2.—Belmond Deep Rock Oil Co.

Mrs. Hajo Pals has been on the sick list the past few days.

Presley Griggs of the Geo. W. Griggs Fur Co. will be at the White Produce Co. at Belmond, Saturday to buy raw furs. Bring in your furs and get the highest market price.

The Des Moines Register and the Independent for one year for only $5.80. New subscriptions only to the Register.

Our reader's attention is called this week to a splendid feature article, a Thanksiving Sermon, by Rev. J. B. O'Connor, which will be found on page two. The Independent extends Rev. O'Connor its thanks for his kindness in writing this splendid sermon for us.

Mrs. J. Rohrick of Kanawha spent Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Parker.

Mrs. Adolph Thompson and daughter, Opha, went to Des Moines yesterday to spend Thanksgiving with relatives

Mrs. Edd. Eilers and children of Clarion and Mrs. Mae Johnson were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nihoof last Tuesday, in honor of Luella Nihoof's birthday.

The Independent at two dallars a year is less than four cents a week. Can you buy the news of your home community cheaper?

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 16th and 17th.

Richard Anderson, farm sale, Monday, Dec. 3. Ad this week.

H. B. Sandry, near Goodell, Tuesday, Dec. 4. Ad this week.

C. B. Allison, east of Belmond. Farm sale. Wednesday, Dec. 5. Ad this week.

C. C. Landon, southeast of Belmond, farm sale, Tuesday, Dec. 11, next week.

Wm Dziewanowski, farm sale, Wednesday, December 12. Ad next week.

For Gasoline, Kerosene and Lubricating oil, call phone 39½.—Belmond Deep Rock oil Co. 32tfc

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Pure bred R. C. Rhode Island Red Cockerals, early hatch. Your choice $1.50 each.—Leo Riley, Belmond. 22*

For Sale—Spotted Shetland pony, mare colt. A real pet.—F. A. Thompson, Kanawha, Ia. 22*

For Sale—A few Spotted Poland China boars, pure bred.—J. M. Sampson, Belmond. 49tfc

I have a few Spotted Poland boars left at prices you can afford to pay. Going fast—get yours now.—Roy Jenison, Belmond. 1*

For Sale—Woven wire corn crib, capacity 800 bushels.—Galen Johnson. 12*

For Sale—Chester White boars. Champion blood lines. Cholera immune. Farm located two miles west and one-half mile north of Kanawha. Ed Rickens. 52tfc

For Sale—Eight head of Short Horn steers, weighing between 760 and 900 pounds each.—John Chapman. Phone 3713. 21c

For Sale—Regal Dorcas White Wyandotte Cockerals. Your choice for $1.50. Also a few White Pekin Drakes $1.50 each.—A. C. Lieuwen, Alexander, Ia. 23*

For Sale—About 100 Buff Rock Pullets, full blood, early hatch. Your choice $1.00.—L. E. Hall, Alexander. Phone 8917. 22*

FOR RENT

For Rent—20 acre farm with buildings, five miles from town.—John D. Pals, Belmond, Iowa. Phone 1614. 12*

WANTED

Wanted—A couple loads of cobs. Inquire at Independent. Phone 115 196, or 325

Society

Party—

A birthday party was held at the J. C. Arends home last week, when Miss Hazel celebrated her thirteenth birthday. The afternoon was spent in playing games and music. Refreshments were served. Miss Hazel was the recipient of many beautiful gifts in remembrance of the occasion, and all present report a splendid time

* * *

Progress—

Mrs. Geo. Elder was hostess to the Progress club this week Tuesday. Mrs. J. E. Wallace led the lesson, which was on the epistles of Paul

* * *

Birthday Party—

Little Katherine Blake entertained about 20 of her little friends last Saturday afernoon in honor of her ninth birthday. The afternoon was spent in games after which refreshments were served.

* * *

Community Club—

The Community welfare club met at the library Friday afternoon. The roll call was responed to by many helpful hints and good recipes for the holiday season. The club at this meeting voted not to join the State Federation this year. This will bar the club from having free public speakers that they have enjoyed the past year.

* * *

Kensington—

The Kensington club did not meet this week Wednesday as every one was too busy the day before Thanksgiving. The club will meet next week with Mrs. M. C. Barry.

* * *

Priscilla—

The Priscilla club will meet next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. H. N. Hill.

* * *

Delphian—

The members of the Delphian club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Bohning, Monday evening. The lesson for the evening was about the famous composer Bach and was led by Mrs. Albert Chamberlain.

* * *

Bazaar—

The Trinity church Ladies Aid and the Dorcas society bazaar and supper was a most unusual success, and netted the ladies the neat sum of over $600

* * *

Royal Neighbor Camp—

Members of the Royal Neighbor Camp met with Mrs. Ellis Burke Saturday afternoon. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

* * *

W. F. M. S.—

Mrs. Howard Moore will be hostess to the Missionary society next week Thursday, when a Christmas program will be given.

We Take the Spots Out
DRY CLEANED
NOW
Is The Time To Buy

JUST RECEIVED a big discount on Tailor Made Suits and Overcoats.

$55.00 overcoats now ----- $44.00
$44.00 overcoats now ----- $35.00

Forty-five different fabrics to select from.

SEE US BEFORE YOU BUY!

Belmond Tailor Shop

Phone 28

Can You Save $100 ?

If you are careful with your earnings, can you save $100 every year? Not such a great amount, is it? You could do it if you would try.

Well, here's what would happen to you if you started in at 20 years of age, depositing $100 every year at compound interest and leaving it alone. If you lived to be 70 years old, your total at the bank would be over $30,000. Worth trying, now isn't it?

Belmond Savings Bank

Take advantage of the Independent's Big Family Offer—The Peoples' Popular Monthly, Farm and Fireside, Today's Housewife, and the Belmond Independent, All Four One Year For Only $2.45. This offer good only until December 1st.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, old	12c
Roosters	07c
Springs	12c
Geese	09c
Ducks	10c
Turkeys	25c
Eggs	42c
Cream	50c
Barley	50c
Oats	35c
Corn	52c to 55c
Creamery Butter	55c

LOOK--Boys and Girls of Belmond!

You Can WIN FREE PRIZES
In The DIAMOND-BREAD
Voting Contest

Thirty big prizes, including bicycles, skates, rifles, Scout knives, manicure set and many other handsome gifts, will be given to the boys and girls who will

SEND IN THE MOST DIAMOND BREAD WRAPPERS

Come to our store and get full particulars or write to the Mason City Baking Co., Mason City, Iowa

GET BUSY, BOYS AND GIRLS. WIN A XMAS GIFT

ELITE CAFE

Belmond, Iowa

The BROWN MOUSE
by Herbert Quick

COPYRIGHT BY BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

WHEN Herbert Quick writes a story it is the time for everyone to sit up and take notice; for he is one of the most versatile and entertaining geniuses in this country. Farmer, schoolmaster, lawyer, editor, public servant, social worker and novelist, he has had a great round of experiences and has worked many of them into his stories. Born in Grundy county, Iowa, he has been mayor of Sioux City, nominee for supreme judge, editor of Farm and Fireside, member of the Federal Farm Loan bureau and several other national commissions, and during the war, had the rank of colonel conferred upon him by the Red Cross.

In "The Brown Mouse," Mr. Quick has taken his inspiration from the Scotch scientist who crossed Japanese waltzing mice with the common white breed and among other hybrids got a brown individual that was different from anything else in the world. Unlike its domesticated parents, it was wild; it ran away, bit, gnawed, scratched and raised hob generally.

Jim Irwin, the hero of the tale, is a brown mouse. His peddling father was a waltzing mouse, no good except to jump from one spot to another for no valid reason. His mother was a white mouse, having had all her color washed out in one way or another. Like the brown mouse which refuses to act according to the rules of heredity, Jim had ideas of his own and did many surprising things. He completely woke up a sleepy farming community and showed it what a touch of genius can do.

This Charming Tale Will Run as a Serial in

The Independent, Starting This Week

Belmond Independent

VOL. 5 | BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER, 6, 1923 | NO. 3

What Are The Chances Of Holding Another Agriculture Exhibit This Winter

Mass Meeting For Short Course Dated

Meeting Called To See Whether Sufficient Backing For A Course Can Be Secured.

AT CITY HALL TOMORROW

A mass meeting of everyone who is interested in holding another Short Course in Belmond this winter is called for tomorrow, Friday, night at the city hall at 8:00 o'clock. All who are interested are urged to attend and discuss the matter.

It is believed that a Short Course will receive backing from both town and country, and if sentiment at the meeting is favorable, committees will be appointed to go ahead and arrange for one to be held this coming winter. The last course held in Belmond was highly successful and another would be equally so.

PUBLIC SALE POSTPONED

The Busick sale advertised in this issue for Dec. 13 has been indefinitely postponed and will not be held on the date advertised.

CLARION GREENHOUSE BURNS

Fire of unknown origin almost totally ruined the Brenner greenhouse about 2:30 o'clock last Friday morning, the blaze starting in the boiler room of the building, gaining headway to such an extent that almost the entire building was ruined. How the fire started is a mystery, as Mr. Brenner inspected the boiler room a short time before the fire broke out.

Mr. Brenner arrived home about 1:00 o'clock Friday morning and looked at the fire in the boiler room before going to bed. He had not been in bed long when the automatic heating device bell connected with the house began to ring. On investigating the cause of the alarm Mr. Brenner found the boiler room all ablaze. Prompt response by the fire company prevented other buildings nearby from catching fire, but the damage to the greenhouse was done before the blaze could be checked. The heat and water broke nearly every window in the greenhouse, and the heat and gasses killed all the flowers and plants. Mr. Brenner had many chrysanthemums for Thanksgiving, as well as blooming plants and other flowers which were destroyed. Mr. Brenner states that they will have flowers and plants for the holiday trade in spite of the loss. They expect to build a new greenhouse in the spring all under one roof, some what larger than the old one.—News.

ALGONA "BUYS" FLAGS

Algona merchants fell for a smooth salesman who visited them recently and purchased flags, poles and holes to decorate their streets in the manner used by Belmond. The agent in his work cleaned up nicely, selling the flags, poles and a hole to put 'em in at considerable more than the same thing cost Belmond merchants thru the Auxiliary.

Hampton is now taking up the idea of dressing up their streets on festive occasions by using uniform flags and the Auxiliary and Legion have charge of it.

FORM "LITTLE NINE" ASSC.

Supt. Guthrie goes to Dows tomorrow to attend the annual banquet and busness meeting of the Little Nine Basket Ball Assc. and to complete the financial details on the foot ball game Thanksgiving. While in Dows he will arrange a contract for Thanksgiving games between the two teams for next year.

The Little Nine consists of Belmond, Clarion, Goldfield, Humboldt, West Bend, Livermore, LuVerne, Corwith. A tournament will be held at Humboldt on February 29th.

Father Barry of Webster City was a Thanksgiving visitor with his relatives here.

SPEAKING OF MISTAKES

We made a mistake in last week's paper. A good subscriber told us about it. The same day there was a letter in our post office box that didn't belong to us. We called for 98 over the telephone and we got 198. We asked for a spool of No. 50 thread and when we got home it was No. 60. The train was reported 30 minutes late. We arrived at the depot 20 minutes after train time and the train was gone. The garage man said the jitney was missing because it needed a new timer. We cleaned a spark plug and it's fine ever since. Yes we made a mistake in last week's issue of the paper.—Exchange.

SCHOOL TO GIVE OPERETTA

Wednesday evening, December 12 at eight o'clock in the Auditorium the Girl's Glee Club under the direction of Miss Hill will give an operetta, "The Feast of the Red Corn."

This operetta is an American Indian operetta and will be given by a cast of forty girls. Admisson 35c and 25c. No seats reserved.

The cast follows:

Weeda Wanta.....Dorothy Purcell
Queen of the Wanta tribe.
Impee Light.....Helen Elder
Her younger sister.
Fudgee.....Mildred Hauge
Pudgee.....Helen Hildebrand
Wudgee.....Faye Jenison
Three children of the Queen
Old Squaw.....Mable Baker
Sorceress of the tribe.

Chorus: Lucille Hauge, Loretta Barry, Faye Jenison, Helen Elder, Dorothy Purcell, Miriam Gibbs, Viola Peterson, Lois Lillebo, Katherine Thiltgen, Gail Thompson, Gladys Eliason, Ruth Jones, Viola Rust, Ethel Luick, Leola Jenison, Beatrice Weatherford, Laura Riley, Grace Leavy, Marguerite Studebaker, Elaine Dittmer, Ethel Hedges, Emma Luick, Edna Bohning, Elma Stapley, Helen Hildebrand, Ida Steenblock, Mildred Hauge, Vivian Courtney, Gladys Gunderson, Ruth Knudson, Lucille Skouge, Julia Peterson, Cecilia Holtzbauer, Aurelia Kernan, Edna Arends, Edna Rust, Elaine Moe, Shirley Brooks, Bertha Eliason, Lucille Legge.

The first round of the debate try-out will be held Wednesday. Of the twenty-four turning out the twelve best will be chosen. A week later the second round will eliminate six more and so on until the high school team is selected. The state debating question this year is "Resolved that the United States should further restrict- immigration." This is an important question and every one is interested in it at this time.

FIRST ROUND

4:00 P. M. Affirmative—Helen Hildebrand, Ruth Box, Katherine Thiltgin. Negative—Ruth Knudson, Edwin Christie, Ralph Hedges.

5:00 P. M. Affirmative—Elma Stapley, Helen Elder, William Tyrrell. Negative—Gail Thompson, Vivian Courtney, Erma Maland.

7:00 P. M. Affirmative—Alpha Johnson, Loretta Barry, Raymond Stapley. Negative—Lewis Parsons, Viola Peterson, Kathleen Barry.

8:00 P. M. Affirmative—Sam Leinbach, Alex Smith, James Olson. Negative—Opha Thompson, Everill Thompson, Mildred Hauge.

Basket ball practice started Monday with both the girls' and the boys' teams. Our first game is with Klemme and will be played on Monday night, December 10.

The beginning typewriting medal is worn by Everill Thompson this week.

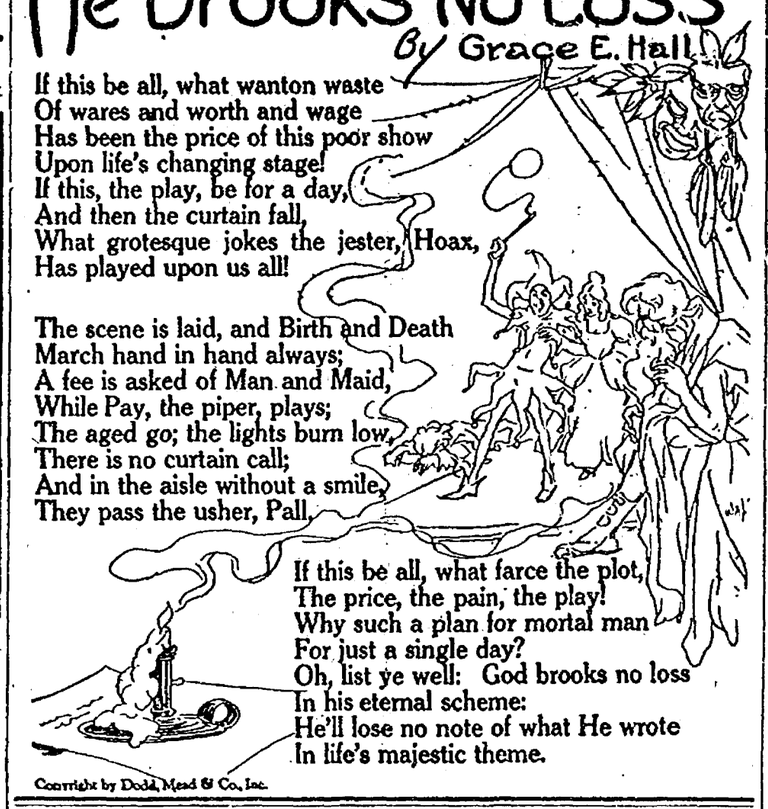
The next literary program will be the Christmas program given just before vacation.

MARRIED

Last Wednesday, November 28th, occured the wedding of Miss Alphia Bayliss, a popular young lady of Belmond, and Mr. David Pierce of Franklin county, Rev. Richards uniting them at the farm home of the groom. Only immediate friends and relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs Pierce will go to Minnesota March 1st next, where they will farm.

He Brooks No Loss

By Grace E. Hall



If this be all, what wanton waste
Of wares and worth and wage
Has been the price of this poor show
Upon life's changing stage!
If this, the play, be for a day,
And then the curtain fall,
What grotesque jokes the jester, Hoax,
Has played upon us all!

The scene is laid, and Birth and Death
March hand in hand always;
A fee is asked of Man and Maid,
While Pay, the piper, plays;
The aged go; the lights burn low,
There is no curtain call;
And in the aisle without a smile,
They pass the usher, Pall.

If this be all, what farce the plot,
The price, the pain, the play!
Why such a plan for mortal man
For just a single day?
Oh, list ye well: God brooks no loss
In his eternal scheme:
He'll lose no note of what He wrote
In life's majestic theme.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc.

Thanksgiving Battle Between Belmond And Dows Results In A Tie Game 7-7

DISTRICT COURT NOTES

Monitor: The grand jury completed its labors Monday, having returned several indictments, a portion of which we are able to report at this time. Whether the woman foreman of the jury is responsible for the good work we are not informed but it will throw a scare into the booze violators.

Messrs. Bredhenner and Davidson of Klemme, indicted on the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, will also be heard Friday.

The slander suit of Mary Sullivan of Belmond vs. Thos. McNulty will be given to the jury this morning —Wednesday. Mary claims $3,000 for slander and Thomas has a counter claim of $3,000 for libel. One who heard the evidence perdicts a 50/50 verdict.

James Kenefick of Belmond brings suit against W. R. Riley to recover the sum of $300 on an oral lease on certain farm lands. Defendant had previously occupied the land in question on a written lease.

To avoid court costs Lee and Mollie Price of Belmond confess judgment in the sum of $338.32 on their note given last February to Arthur Wellemeyer to settle a book account. This action on the part of the plaintiffs eliminates unnecessary costs.

Nels O. Stockseth vs. Henry Nelson of Belmond is a case wherein a son-in-law and father-in-law cannot agree as to the value of certain lots and a residence property in Belmond occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Stockseth up to the time of her death Action has been commenced to have the shares of the above parties confirmed. The value of the premises is said to be $7,500.

The Wall Lake hog case is again in the lime light, the grand jury having indicted Frank Graegert on the charge of conspiracy. It will be remembered that Graegert was acquitted at the time of the first trial while his brother-in-law was sent to the penitentiary. It is now reported that new evidence has been secured and that Bishop "spilled the beans." Graegert asked until Friday to plead. He was released on $1,500 bonds.

Monday was tax sale day. About one hundred pieces of land were offered for sale, all being bid in but six lots in Eagle Grove. Among the Clarion bidders were Humphrey, Austin, Weber, Tracy, Young and Cinn. From Eagle Grove were Wehrheim, Waddell, Baldner, McIntyre, Hobbet and Brown.

Judge Clock has been "stepping on the gas" ever since the present term of court began and as a result a large amount of business is being disposed of. A night session was held to get one case out of the way.

Ole Nelson of Eagle Grove drew a $300 fine and thirty days in the county jail at the hands of Judge Clock last week, he having plead guilty to the charge of bootlegging.

Battling desperately from the first sound of the whistle, Dows and Belmond played to a 7 to 7 tie on the local field Thanksgiving day

It was a battle royal, with the two teams very evenly matched, and at no stage of the game could the outcome be forecast. Belmond scored first in the first half on a beautifully executed forward pass over the line of scrimmage, Stapley to Tyrrell, Tyrrell getting away for a touchdown thru a clear field. The extra point was made when Belmond fooled the Dows team into expecting a kick, and then passed.

Dows was unable to score until the last quarter when by steady line smashes they went over, adding the extra point by kicking. Dows had the heavier line, and Belmond, until the last of the game, did not seem able to stop the plungs. Stapley and Tyrrell were both badly hurt in the second team and were practically half out of the battle. Without the aid of these two, Belmond was forced to play a defensive game, and in holding the hard-hitting Dows bunch to a tie under this handicap they displayed a remarkable game. Had they been able to hold the line the result would have been different, but the Dows line was by far the best that has been seen here this season.

It was a good game anyway, and was attended by approximately 1200 people. Gate receipts were $465 and over a hundred season tickets were taken up.

Belmond has won six, lost one and tied one this season, which, as this is only the second year foot ball has ever been played in Belmond, is a remarkable record and one the boys and fans are proud of.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM OVER PROHIBITION IN IOWA

Prohibition enforcement conditions in Iowa do not warrant cause for alarm. Illicit liquor manufacture has decreased and liquor legislation is proving a success.

This in general is the unanimous opinion of Iowa county attorneys who replied to inquiries from Supt. S. P. McNaught of the Iowa Anti-Saloon League.

Practically all these county attorneys agreed that indifferent public sentiment is the chief barrier to perfect law enforcement. Several cited cases in which liquor violators after being brought to trial at great trouble and expense were acquitted by hair-splitting juries. One said: "If the people who complain of loose law enforcefent would go to court and testify to what they know conditions would be much better."

Ninety-five per cent of the bootlegging in one county is done by alien residents, according to the report of the county attorney.

Elene Moe and Edna Arends were visitors with friends and relatives at Mason City on Thanksgiving.

CHRISTMAS SEALS SOLD

The 16th annual Christmas seal sale will be conducted in this county and thruout the state during the month of December Residents of Wright county are being asked to purchase 120,000 seals.

The sale of seals renders possible the carrying on of a continuous campaign in Iowa to prevent tuberculosis and other diseases and promote health education, and to conduct local health and child welfare work in each county

During the past 15 years the tuberculosis death rate in Iowa has been reduced 45 per cent—almost one-half—a result attributed mainly to the campaign of education, prevention and treatment financed largely by Christmas seal funds

The Iowa Tuberculosis Association co-operates with the State Sanatorium at Oakdale, the State Board of Health, the State Educational Institutions, the State teachers Association and other organizations, and maintains a staff of workers in the field at all times. Its work, however is carried on without state or federal aid, and its support has always been of a voluntary nature

According to the State Board of Health, vital statistics division reports there were eight deaths from tuberculosis in this county this year.

According to Framingham averages there are now 56 active cases of tuberculosis in Wright county.

According to Iowa Tuberculosis Association compilations, reports of the Bureau of Public Health Nursing of the State Board of Health and Red Cross reports, the number of school children in Wright county who have remedable physical defects is by the lowest figure, 2,034.

The Eighth grade of the school in Belmond has charge of the sale of seals here.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL

By orders from divisional headquarters, the familiar Christmas kettles of the Salvation Army will be set to boiling throughout Iowa and Nebraska this month, to provide Christmas dinners and gifts for the poor.

This annual project of the Salvation Army will not interfere with the home service appeal which is still in effect in most parts of the division, according to Brigadier William Andrews, divisional commander.

The Christmas fund is obtained separately and Christmas activities maintained apart from the regular demands upon the Salvation Army relief department. Money expended at Christmas time is dependent largely upon the yield of Christmas kettles.

Salvation Army investigators are already at work compiling a list of needy families and eliminating duplications. Every applicant for Christmas dinners and gifts will be visited personally and presented with a ticket.

Last Christmas in the Iowa-Nebraska division, 16,834 persons received free dinners and 5,188 received Christmas presents. The dinners include ordinarily a chicken, materials for pie, bread celery, potatoes and other vegetables. Presents are commonly articles of wearing apparel or coal and toys for the children.

IT WAS SOME FIRE, YOU BET!

Saturday the marshal had a tar car out on Main street repairing the cracks in the pavement. The tar caught fire when they were in front of the Independent office, and an alarm was turned in. The fire company responed in a minute's time, but there was nothing to do. The report was started that it was the Independent which was blazing, but it wasn't.

Thirteen Tons To Acre Highest Beet Average

Tonnage This Year Not As Good As Anticipated But Sugar Content Is Better.

MAX BAKER IS HIGH MAN

Max Baker, of Belmond, wins the honors in the 1923 sugar beet raising season by having an average of 13 tons per acre. Agr. Supt. Saucke of the sugar faotcry has compiled the figures for this season, which are given below:

Name	Acres	Tons
A. E. Thompson	17.92	12.00
J. B. Tiara	11.23	11.68
J. B. Spitler	18.64	11.96
A Clearheart	48.39	11.58
Max Baker	18.34	13.00
John Sloan	23.09	10.43
Elmer Johnson	18.45	11.78
W. C. Tyrrell	66.00	10.10
Jas. Cannon	36.58	10.07
Jacob Thompson	54.38	12.09
Ed. Thompson	17.34	10.37
Leonard Johnson	14.63	10.31
John Waltzing	18.70	10.14
G. Sandman	14.00	10.11
H. B. Bohman	21.40	11.62
John Ahrens	24.54	10.67
Thos. Beecher	20.00	10.68
J. W. McCullock	26.20	10.52
M. L. Thompson	19.10	10.48
Thor. Johnson	16.70	10.90
Wm. Steinhoff	21.20	10.99
E. C. Juhl	14.21	10.19
E. S. Barker	27.56	10.28
W F. Butz	21.15	10.75
H. K. Pals	10.00	10.57
J Suntken	40.00	10.22
A. F. Wenzel	12.00	10.36
Chas. Reis	8.08	11.81
H. C. Bargman	19.81	10.34

The above named are those farmers who raised ten tons or better to the acre for the Iowa Valley Operating Co. of Belmond during 1923. The figures to the right give the average per acre of each, the first figures being the number of acres each man raised.

Mr. Baker will be given letter heads and envelopes to match by the Independent, the prize offered each year to the farmer who raises the largest tonnage per acre.

FROM WEST TO EAST ON HORSEBACK

(One of the Independent's readers from Rowan sent the following neat little article for publication, and as it really is "good," and of huge interest, is printed. The editor presumes that the author had the "facts" when the article was written.)

Last week a young lady, good looking, well mannered, clad in khaki shirt and knickers stopped in our beautiful city. She had been working in Wyoming, and was taking a novel way of getting to Chicago, her home.

On leaving Wyoming, she bought a horse, and was riding it thru to Chicago, horseback. The miss arrived in our city about 6:00 p. m, and from then until morn it was a busy time.

The young lady caught the eye of one of our prominent bachelors, and a couple of our married men. She told them all about the trip and explained to them that her horse was sore in his feet and legs. The young lady took the men to the Rowan pavilion where her horse was, and showed them where her horse was stiff and sore. The young lady then retired to her room in the hotel for the night, and three of our citizens were busy from then on.

This bachelor got a pail of hot water and started in rubbing the horses legs and feet. He was soon joined by two other of our prominent citizens with sponges, who assisted in the rubbing process.

It is reported about town that when morning came, and this Miss went to get her horse, she found eight pails, nine sponges, three of our citizens asleep, two bridles on her horse, and the sadle turned backward on her steed. Bidding the men goodbye, she left for the East.

Now what the rest of us citizens want to know, is: Was it this particular horse—the young Miss—or is it the nature of these men to be "kind to horses"?

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 16, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

About this time of the year, in former days, the youth of the small town used to face the job of sawing up a pile of wood for winter use. In case the hunting was good, with the first fall of snow, that wood pile became a thing of immense proportions and a task that seemingly never could be finished. It was a monsterous job, that wood pile; the son of the house would saw and saw, and split and split, and make only a dent in it. He complained plaintively of a backache, of sore arms, and perhaps got sick so he couldn't saw or split. But in the end, he had to finish it. And all else usually went by the board—hunting rabbits, trapping and skating—until that mountain of wood was piled neatly in the shed. It was rigorous training, sternly enforced. Perhaps Johnny was allowed a dollar for his labor, to spend at the candy counter where a nickel would buy a dozen of these and a dozen of those and half a dozen of them. Perhaps his labor was delivered as a fair contribution to his own support.

You don't find those old wood piles any more. Maybe, if they were, the youth of the country would be better off. Today son gets out of bed in a room heated to 70 degrees before he slips back the quilts, by a turn of a valve on the radiator. The wood pile has given way to a coal pile in the cellar, where a shovel or two of coal twice a day takes care of the heating problem. At worst, he must lug in but a few hods of coal for the stove. He cares little for hunting, and there is nothing to hunt if he did want to. His dollar of long ago, earned by good hard manual labor, has turned into a ten-dollar bill bummed off the old man, and instead of going for many visits to the candy counter, now goes for one blow-out at the show or dance, for gasoline and oil and tires and hootch and midnight suppers and the morning after.

Too strong a comparison? Not at all. Only facts in too sadly frequent cases. Too many parents right in Belmond are trusting to luck and a easy-going warning that their sons are where they should be and doing what is correct. Some of them will awaken some day to the fact that it is not the fault of the boys as much as it is the fault of the parents when things go wrong. The old fashioned wood pile can never be replaced but the things can be found that will bring the same results. The ability to work was not the only result of the old fashioned wood pile, but that was one oo the things which is needed today.

If an observer will take his position upon the streets of Belmond, and watch the crowd passing on the walk, he will be apt to note that many people, probably the majority have a stooping attitude, their heads bowed down in deep thought. Some young women seem to thrust their heads forward as if to follow a prevailing fad.

The physical culturists tell us that man was made to stand erect, and that if people do not have this good posture, the organs of the body will be cramped and fail to perform their function. Human life is probably considerably shortened by the failure to develope a good erect carriage and posture.

The stooping position seems a developement of industrial life and civilization. Man in a state of nature would not be likely to bend over. In a state of nature the eyes of the savage would be upon the trees of the forests in which he hunted rather than on the ground. But when the mechanical arts develope, men work at benches, and they get the stooping habit. As industry becomes more highly refined, men work and study at desks. While their minds broaden, their bodies become round shouldered and contract. A very high price of physical well being is often being paid for mental advancement.

Yet by attention to physical development, these unfortunate tendencies can be overcome. A physical culture teacher in a recent address spoke of a class of girls, whom on beginning gymnastics, not one could pass a posture test. When the same girls became high school seniors, 25 out of 30 could pass the requirements.

The people who allow their daily cares and tasks to twist their bodies into a slouchy shape suffer from one of civilization's most harmful tendencies. If they want to live useful and happy lives, they will get good advice as to physical developement and follow it.

THE NEWSPAPER MAN

Others may loiter and squander away
A generous slice of each God-given day,
But luxurious leasure's no part of the plan
Of that hustler de luxe—the newspaper man.
He keeps tab on the pulse, feels the heart-throb on earth,
No symtoms escape him—how trifling its worth,
Does the stork call next door, or a quake shake Milan
'Tis instantly known to the newspaper man.
Tho a creature of rapid ubiquitous brain,
His heart beats quite normal with pleasure or pain,
As our triumphs or failures he daily must scan—
The human and brotherly newspaper man.
From antedeluvian ages and aft,
There ne'er was vocation, or job, or craft
Which could hold a candle in scope or span
To the trade which is plied by the newspaper man.
With one hand he pushes a pencil which thrills
With the other he pays the numerous bills.
'Twas ever thus, since the press began—
That practical plodder, the newspaper man.
The "sanctum sanctorium" 's a rank misnomer,
For him who must quote stock markets or Homer,
Be cultured scholar or one of the clan
Your friend and neighbor—the newspaper man.
An airship or "ship of state—it's the same—
Or the "easy chair—euphonious name—
Or the "seats of the mighty," or flivver sedan;
They're all in the life of the newspaper man.
No merely reporter of notes and news,
But shaper of policies, folder of views,
What any man modest—the newspaper man.
He "carries on" the torch of learning
Keeps civilization's home fires burning.
In the march of Progress, find him in the van!
Hats off to our hero!—the newspaper man!
—Plymouth, Ind., Republican.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

Phone your news to 41 or 54.

Stenography Banking
Salesmanship ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES
Telegraphy
Educate for Success. Position for each graduate Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Write for free catalog.
Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER
Farm and General Sales
A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.
For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

EVERY sensible driver knows that a skidding car is an extreme peril. That's why so many sensible drivers see to it that their cars have the benefit of the powerful, slipless, non-skid traction of the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. That famous tread is your best insurance of safe, efficient and economical tire performance.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Buy Beef
By the Quarter

Our service means a lot to you. We cut it up the way you want and our price can't be beat.

Cash Market
Belmond, Iowa

PUBLIC SALE

HAVING DECIDED TO QUIT FARMING, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION AT MY PLACE, THE TYRRELL FARM, 2 MILES SOUTH AND 1 1-2 MILES EAST OF BELMOND, ON

Tuesday, December 11

COMMENCING AT 11:00 O'CLOCK SHARP, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY

13 - Head of Horses - 13

1 ROAN COLT 2 YRS OLD, WT. 1600
1 BAY HORSE 5 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 BAY MARE 6 YRS. OLD, WT. 1550
1 BAY MARE 5 YRS. OLD, WT. 1450
1 GRAY MARE 7 YRS. OLD, WT. 1600
2 WEANLING COLTS.
1 GRAY COLT 1 YR. OLD.
1 GRAY MARE 5 YRS. OLD, WT. 1600
1 BLACK MARE 6 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 BLACK MARE 8 YRS. OLD, WT. 1250
1 ROAN GELDING 4 YRS. OLD, WT. 1500
1 BAY MARE 6 YRS. OLD, WT. 950. A GOOD SADLER.

31 - Head of Cattle - 31

3 SMALL CALVES 2 SPRING CALVES 6 GOOD MILK COWS
8 YEARLING STEERS 3 YEARLING HEIFERS
1 HOLSTEIN HEIFER, FRESH SOON.
3 BLACK STEERS COMING 2 YRS. OLD.
4 ROAN STEERS COMING 2 YRS. OLD.
1 PURE BRED ANGUS BULL, PAPERS FURNISHED.

21 Head of Hogs

6 FALL PIGS 2 SMALL SHOATS
3 PURE BRED POLAND CHINA GILTS. PAPERS FURNISHED IF DESIRED.
10 PURE BRED POLAND CHINA BOARS, WEIGHING FROM 250 TO 300 LBS.

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 hay rack
2 bob sleds
1 top buggy
1 buggy pole
Buggy shafts
1 iron kettle
1 slip scraper
1 truck wagon
Buggy runners
12 horse collars
2 wagons with boxes
1 water tank 2x2x4 ft.
Hay slings with carriers
2 John Deere cultivators
1 DeLaval separator, No. 17.
1 John Deere walking plow, 16-inch.
1 breaker bottom for John Deere 16-in. plow
2 John Deere discs, 16-wheel
1 saddle
1 hay buck
2 drag carts
1 hay stacker
1 4-section drag
1 McCormick mower
1 500-capacity scales
1 McCormick hay rake
1 International spreader
1 McCormick corn binder
1 Herschel endgate seeder
1 Deering binder, 8 ft. cut.
1 International 2-row cultivator
1 John Deere gang plow, 13-in
1 John Deere sulky plow, 16-in
1 International corn planter with 130 rods of wire.
1 Hayes corn planter with drill attachment and 130 rods of wire.
1 hay fork
1 swill cart
2 log chains
4 sets fly nets
2 corn shellers
2 single harness
1 horse clipper
1 seed corn rack
2 shoveling boards
2 small self feeders
1 60-gallon hog waterer
1 240-egg Successful incubator
1 set breeching harness 1 1-2 in
1 set 1 3-4 in. breeching harness
1 set 1 1-2 in. back pad harness
1 set 1 3-4 in. back pad harness
Grind stone, forge, vise, anvils, drill and lot of small tools, including saws, hammers, chisels, forks, shovels, etc.

A QUANTITY OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS, INCLUDING MAJESTIC RANGE, 10-FT. DINING TABLE, 2 BEDS, DRESSER, 2 HEATING STOVES AND MANY OTHER ARTICLES.

80 Head of Poultry About 25 Tons Tame Hay

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10 AND UNDER, CASH. OVER THAT AMOUNT 11 MONTHS TIME WILL BE GIVEN ON BANKABLE NOTES BEARING 8 PER CENT INTEREST. ALL PROPERTY TO BE SETTLED FOR ON DAY OF SALE.

MUNNIS & BOUGHTON, Auctioneers
STATE BANK OF BELMOND, Clerk

C. C. Landon

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Shipping Meeting Well Attended

The booster meeting of the Clarion livestock shipping association which was held in Clarion last Tuesday evening, November 27, was attended by about 300 farmers, shipping association officers and members.

Ten shipping associations of Wright county and neighboring counties, were represented at this meeting.

Annual Meeting May Come January 7th.

At the last meeting of the board of directors, Saturday November 24th plans were made and committees appointed for holding the annual meeting of the Wright county Farm Bureau and the week of December 17th was suggested as a good time for holding the annual meeting. It has developed since the director meeting that we are unable to get any of the speakers which were decided upon at this time and the date has been changed to the week of Jan. 7.

The program committee is now at work in an effort to secure a good speaker for the occasion and no effort will be spared to get someone who will make a good drawing card for this annual affair. An attempt was made to secure Professor Holden who was formerly connected with the college at Ames but a satisfactory date could not be arranged with him Definite announcement of the date of the annual meeting as well as the name of the speaker will be made later in the county papers

The annual meeting will be held in the court room as usual and an interesting program filled with music, good speeches and entertainment for everyone is being provided by the committee in charge Every effort is being made to make this one of the most successful annual meetings ever held in our county. Every farmer in Wright county, in fact every citizen who is interested in better agriculture in our community should make an effort to attend this meeting

Women's Work Organize

At a meeting of the committee on women's work which was held at the county agent's office Saturday November 24th an extensive program of projects was worked out by the committee consisting of Mrs. J. E. Kirstein, Woolstock township, Mrs. A. L. Middleton, Troy township, Mrs. J. F. Henn, Pleasant township, Mrs. E. E. Evans, Norway township, Mrs. A. E. Martin, Belmond township, and Mrs. A. C. Lieumen, Iowa township.

In the absence of a home demonstration agent the women of the Wright county Farm Bureau determined to carry on the women's work in the Farm Bureau as is indicated by the interesting program of work which was outlined at their last meeting.

The program of work as outlined by this committee will be found below:

Slogan: Teach the children to sew.

Purpose: 1. To make it possible for every woman in the county to be better dressed at less expense. 2. To help each other. 3. To increase sociability. 4. To strengthen the county organization. 5. To systemize the regular home duties in order to have more time for rest, reading and recreation.

County goal: 1. To set up and maintain fine training centers. 2. To have each township take part in the training school centers.

Township goal: 1. To establish a reading circle in each township. 2. To have each reading circle report on an article or book read. 3. To secure a report from fifty homes trying daily rest periods for two weeks. 4. To secure a report of at least one hour recreation per week in fifty homes. 5. Visit your country school and see the work that is being done. a. Encourage every day manners. b. Try to establish the hot lunch. c. Help the teacher and pupils keep the school room clean.

HOGS FIRST; THEN KIDS

"The farm and the home are inseparable," declared Miss Anna E. Richardson, dean of home economics at Iowa State College, recently, in speaking before a conference of county agents and extention workers at Ames.

"More attention should be given to the home side of farm life" Dean Richardson said. "Too often she declared more care is given the health of the hogs than the health of the children. In a check recently made in one Iowa county an unusually high percentage of undernourished and unhealthy children was found. Ninety per cent of these cases it was said could have been averted had the children received reasonably good attention.

When ninety per cent of our hogs are sick do we do something about it?" Dean Richardson asked "Yes, we do. We at least should do as much for our children."

The home should be mechanicaliy efficient and economically sound the speaker said and she stressed the fact that mechanical labor-saving appliances in the home make for a more pleasant and worth-while farm life.

Here and There

Mrs Will Dittmer and Elaine of Belmond were over-night guests Friday at the C J. Nagle home.—News.

Wm. Voiles of Belmond was a visitor here Saturday.—Times.

Mesdames Harry Rubendall and Wayne Locey of Belmond came Wednesday for several days' visit with Mrs. Vernon Sharp.—News.

Chas. Waltz, of Belmond, uncle of George Baldridge, was a visitor at the Baldridge home several days of last week. On Saturday, Mr. Baldridge and his uncle autoed to Fort Dodge. They were accompanied home by Mr. Waltz's niece, Miss Irene Waltz, who, after visiting here, accompanied her uncle to Belmond for a visit with relatives.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Baker and son David, accompanied by Mrs. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lieuwen from Belmond, autoed to Dumont, Sunday and spent the day with relatives. There were quite a number of the relatives there, the occasion being a celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Baker's uncle.—Reporter.

We have been properly cussed and discussed for our remarks last week about dancing and booze in Swea City. That reminds us that during fifteen years of active newspapering we have been cussed by everybody from dog catcher to United States senator. This statement is literally true because once upon a time a U. S. senator during a visit to Swea City gave us helandrepeat for something we had said. Yet, we always feel amply recompensed by the fun we obtain from stirring the fire occasionally to see the kettle boil.—Swea City Herald.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa, 12-3-23.

Regular meeting of Town Council held in town hall, Mayor Sullivan, presiding.

Members all present.

Clerk's monthly financial report received and read.

Moved and carried that the taxes on lot 2, Block 3, Bartholomew's Addition, K. A. Jenison, owner, be recommended for suspension.

Moved and carried that the Clerk be hereby instructed to notify the Iowa Falls Electric Co. to place a 50-C. P. street light at the intersection of 2nd St. and 5th Ave. S. E.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

J. E. Williams, Atty's. fees	$120.00
W. T. Dziewanowski, blading road	21.25
Motor Inn Co., labor	2.10
Hans Hanson, labor in park	18.50
Belmond Telephone Co., tolls	2.35
L. L. Luick, labor on road	18.00
The Electric Store, mdse. and labor	63.25
D. Bishop, draying	15.90
Iowa Falls Electric Co., light and power	177.66
Mica Insulating Co., 2 bbls. Tarnac	24.48
Ben B. Hogenson, labor	64.38
F. P. Dibble, draying	19.11
M. A. Holtzbauer, mdse. and labor	468.01
Belmond Lbr. Co., mdse.	696.13
Geo. Mechem, engineer work	350.00
John Cantwell, painting	9.50
Ben Smith, hauling gravel	25.20
M. A. Morse, teaming	12.00
Wm. Bevreg, labor on water tank	11.25
Gus Ziska, special police	3.00
T. Goeman, teaming	4.50
Adelbert Anger, labor	.50
Harberts and Wheelan, labor	10.50

On motion and second council adjourned.

GUY BYERS,
Clerk.

LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Will Wenzel and Mrs. Hethershaw and son, from Elinor, Minnesota, spent Sunday at the Dan Wenzel, Sr., home.

H. H. Hawley went to Hayfield on Friday to attend the funeral of his brother, Lyman.

Something new in book ends at Special prices.—Belmond Furniture Co.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in harvesting the remainder of our corn

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ruka.

A special program of music at the M. E. church Sunday evening. Evening subject: "The Devil Take The Hindmost"

Buy your Christmas gifts at the Catholic ladies bazaar, Saturday, December 8. Library basement.

Don't blame your motor—use DEEP ROCK winter gas.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Buchanan and three children of Goodell drove to Waterloo last week to attend the family reunion Thanksgiving of the Cain family. It was the first reunion of the family for 22 years, or since the parents died. There were eighteen children, nine of whom are living. At the reunion there were nine of the first generation, 48 of the second, 91 of the third, 26 of the fourth and 69 added by marriage, or a total of 243.

Don't stay at home Sunday evening when you can enjoy a good evening's program of music at the Methodist church.

Don't forget to call for your parcels post package at the Catholic ladies bazaar Saturday, December 8, at the library.

Why not a new Parlor Suite for Xmas Big line to select from.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Buy your Christmas Cards NOW while you have a choice. The Independent has a wide variety and will be pleased to show them to you.

For cold weather starting, try DEEP ROCK Gasoline. Best by test.

You can renew your Des Moines Register, or any magazine, at the Independent.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slining are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby boy, born Sunday, Dec. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Engstler of Klemme were visitors Sunday at the home of Mrs. Engstler's parents, Mr and Mrs. R. D. Kenefick.

Miss Veronica McNamara, who is attending school at Fort Dodge, spent the Thanksgiving vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Barry.

Will have a complete line of fancy work and aprons at the Catholic ladies bazaar Saturday, December 8.

By All Means Give Something Electrical

Suggestions

GRILLS	RANGES
TOASTERS	HEATERS
PERCOLATORS	WAFFLE IRONS
CURLING IRONS	XMAS WREATHS
WARMING PADS	WATER HEATERS
VACUUM CLEANERS	WASHING MACHINES
ELECTRIC SPECIALTIES	XMAS TREE DECORATIONS

100 PER CENT SERVICE

Iowa Falls Electric Company

PEOPLE WILL LOOK GIFT HORSES IN THE MOUTH

Christmas gifts must be able to stand inspection.

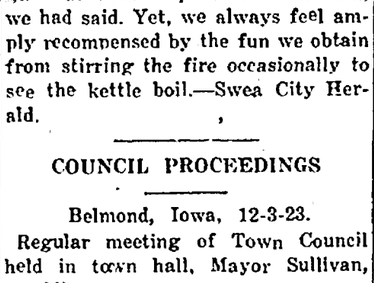
Our name on a Christmas package proves the fine quality of the gift within.

We sell only good things

—HART SCHAFFNER & MARX CLOTHES
—MANHATTAN SHIRTS
—INTERWOVEN HOSIERY
—SUPERBA NECKWEAR

Everything here a man would buy for himself

Get To Know
GILDNER BROS.
IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHIERS
MASON CITY, IOWA



KODAK

The Community Christmas Tree, the season's sport, happenings at home—winter furnishes an abundance of fun and Kodak keeps the story. Just "push the button."

On our shelves there's a Kodak you'll like. Prices as low as $6.50. Every model autographic, of course.

Come in and see them

SCHULTZ DRUG CO.
BELMOND IOWA.

Farm Loans

MR. FARMER:

WOULD YOU like a farm loan that would never come due?

WOULD YOU like to be relieved of paying commission and abstract charges every five years?

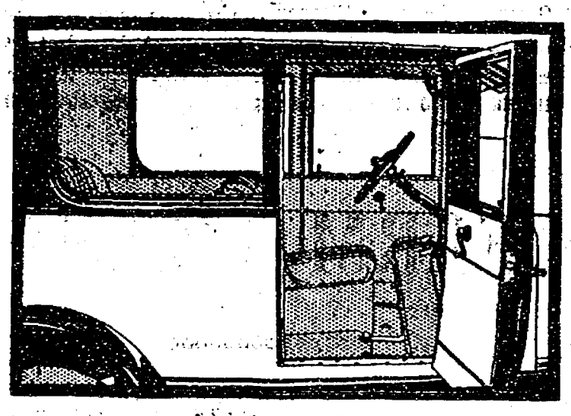
WOULD YOU like to be a factor in reducing INTEREST RATES on farm mortgages in your state?

WOULD YOU like to be assured that if interest rates are higher at the end of five years, your interest rate will remain the same, BUT if interest rates are lower at the end of five years, your rate will be reduced?

Funds Available for March 1, 1923

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

Tudor SEDAN



F.O.B. DETROIT $590 FULLY EQUIPPED

The Lowest Priced Sedan

IN the Tudor Sedan a wholly new Ford body type is offered American motorists.

It is distinguished by a compact, roomy body, two wide doors opening forward, and folding right front seat.

Large windows affording an open view in every direction, make for safer driving and greater motoring enjoyment.

At $590, this is the lowest priced Sedan ever placed on the American market

It is a car of broad appeal and compelling value.

This car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

BELMOND AUTO COMPANY

Fordson
CARS TRUCKS TRACTORS

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

The Thanksgiving program given by the school Tuesday eve. was large ly attended and enjoyed by all.

Wednesday eve. the high school teams played a double header at Sheffield. The girls' team was handicaped by the absence of three of their members who were out on account of sickness Then we must admit Sheffield had a cracking good team. The score, was 24-0 at the end of the first quarter in favor of Sheffield. The other quarters were played on even terms each team making an equal number of points. The final score was 38 to 14 in favor of Sheffield. The playing of our star forward, Grace Groen, is to be especially commended.

The boys played the second team and had them completely outclassed. Sheffield was only able to make one field basket and Meservey won by 14 to 0.

The Swaledale boys' team won from the Sheffield first team by a comfortable margin. Quite a few rooters accompanied the teams to Sheffield and enjoyed the games.

The shoot Thanksgiving afternoon sort of broke in on the attendance of the foot ball game played on the high school grounds. Those present however enjoyed the old fashioned foot ball game. By old fashioned, we mean that the only hold barred was the strangle hold, there were necktie tackles and center rushes and center smashes on nearly every play. The 22 men were piled up in one big pile. The only casualty reported was that Walt Braga lost part of the skin on his scalp where the hair used to grow. One of the players thought Mr. Muller's shining pate was a foot ball and tried to fall on it.

Those playing against the high school were Messrs. Braga, Muller, Rooks, Cooper, J. Koenen, Ruigh, Waage, Frank Sprau, F Guth, B. Jones and M. Smith. The town had a stone wall line of defense. They held the H. S. for four downs on the one-yard line. The score was 12 to 6 in favor of the high school, but all that saved them from a tie game was the blowing of the timekeeper's whistle.

In the evning, thanks to the kindness of Alexander's Supt., and school board, a double header basket ball game was played on the Alexander court. The H. S. girls won from the young ladies team by the score of 48 to 28, while the H S. boys won from the men 14 to 2. Nearly 100 spectators were present.

No school was held Friday in order that the teachers might enjoy Thanksgiving a home

The teachers spent Thanksgiving at their respective homes as follows: Mr. Herbster, Miss Thomas and Miss Butz at Meservey, Miss Holroyd at Plymouth, Miss Bode at Kesley, Miss Huenemann at Garner, and Mr. Ozias at Ionia.

PRIMARY: The following pupils have not been tardy or absent since school began in August: Ardell Nissen, Arthur Koenen, Ruth Enabnit, Gladys Mae Fischer, Ivan Langlitz, Viola Suntken, Ruth Preling: First grade pupils: Myron Pals, Byron Blewitt, Grace Barkema, Eleanor Muller, Iva Mae Paul.

The following received perfect department stars for the week: Gladys Strausberg, Ruth Schlesselman, Ruth Enabnit, Arthur Koenen, Jane Shepherd, Florence Gruise, Avery Bier,

Jens Olsen returned to school this week

Glen Janssen, Theodore Dirks, Hiene Winters and Harold Riekens were absent last week.

3rd and 4th Grades: The following were neither absent nor tardy for a second 6-week's period: Julia Fry, Viola Koehler, Barbara Braga, Lois Thomas, Esther Smith, Kenneth Kolb Andrew Boelman, Everett Enabnit, Lyle Fischer, Vona Proost, Tena Koenen, Norman Muller and Esther Dorenkamp

---

See Heinie about your Radio.

Miss Mildred Gealow spent Thanksgiving with home folks at Belmond.

Mrs. Mary Butz entertained at Thanksgiving dinner Dr. and Mrs. Joe Butz and son Lyle, of Monterey, Minn., also W. F. Butz and family of this place. The doctor and family drove down Wednesday, returning home Friday.

Ed. Foss and wife, L. Foss and wife and G. E. Raecker and family spent Thanksgiving at the James Hemming home at Thornton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Watermiller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Watermiller, Jake, Neolo and Tena Watermiller all spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Schlicting.

Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus and baby came last Wednesday from Mason City, where they had been at the Park hospital. They remained until the following Wednesday at the A. J. Nissen home L. B. of Dows has been driving back and forth and spent Thanksgiving with his family.

H. W. Hulsebus, lately of Dows, and Miss Daisy Clark were Thanksgiving day visitors at the Hulsebus, Nissen and Muller families

---

Mrs. Henrietta Wilkinson and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nelson and family, of near Klemme, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. H. Meinderts and Jennie.

F A. Lemke, Dale Smith, Gerald Janssen, Kenneth Herbster, Olliver Sprau and Donald Muller attended the Olde Boys' conference at Fort Dodge Dec. 1-3.

Miss Ona Ulrick of Green Mountain, was visiting at the Leland Jacobson home over last week end, coming in time to spend Thanksgiving. Miss Ona teaches in the schools at Green Mountain.

Miss Alma Ralston spent Thanksgiving with home folks, returning to her school work at Wellsburg last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Koberg of Lincoln, Ia., and the latter's sister, Mrs. Gustafson and son, of Illinois, visited at the Geo. Langlitz and Willer homes and with other relatives and friends here several days last week.

Mrs. C. E. Brogan and sons Vere and Howard of Garner, visited friends here several days last week.

Mrs. Harry Stevens and two children of Missouri are visiting at the H. C. Barger home for a week. Mrs. Stevens is a sister of Mr. Barger.

B. Ahrenholtz and son Ben returned from South Dakota last week, and are visiting at the F Loats home and with other relatives The former will spend the winter with his daughter, Mrs. F. Loats.

The Little Herald's rally given at the Evang. church last Friday p. m. was well attended and an interesting meeting was held. This was a joint meeting with the W. M. S. in a membership campaign and we are pleased to report 14 new members since the fall campaign began. The L. H. offering amounted to $14.

The Cemetery society will meet with Mrs. Aug. Guth on Tuesday, December 11 for their regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nissen motored to Dows last Saturday to consult a doctor in regard to the latter's health.

J. A. Nissen and family and Neva Muller were Mason City callers last Saturday.

Mrs. Walt Braga and daughter Barbara and Gwetolyn Wenzel went to Belmond last Friday to visit until Sunday at the Dan Wenzel, Sr., home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wendel spent Thanksgiving and the week end at the home of the latter's relatives at Waseca, Minn.

H. B. Blewitt and family ate their Thanksgiving dinner at the Thomas Blewitt home in Thornton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frey and son Wilbert motored to Kiester, Minn., last Sunday, spending the day with relatives of Mrs. Frey. On their return home they met with an accident which might have proven serious. In meeting another car the lights blinded H. B. and in crossing a culvert which was narrow, he hit it instead of getting across, upsetting the car. Wilbert was injured quite badly, the others escaping serious injury but were badly shaken up. All getting along nicely.

Chas Waddingham and family were Mason City callers Saturdy.

Frank Nissen and family autoed to clear and Mason City last Saturday.

Buy a Radio for Christmas. See Hienie.

The "Pollyanna" S. S. class, Mrs. H. Fischer, teacher, met with Bonita Muller Saturday p. m. for their monthly meeting. After the devotionals and business session the afternoon was spent in playing games etc. Refreshments were served and those present report a good time.

Bert Groen went to Mason City on Sunday and Monday entered Hamilton University.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lnglitz and son Erwin spent Thanksgiving day at the A. Boller home in Goodell. Mrs. Boller and son Kenneth came home with them for a visit, returning to Goodell, Sunday.

For Sale—My 2 spotted Poland China herd boars. Blanks furnished. —Jno. Wenzel. Meservey. Ia. 22c

---

APPLES! Greenings and Malindas. Bushel basket $1.00. Bring basket or sack.—W. F. Butz. Phone 404. 52tfc

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

Don't Neglect That

Battery

Let us recharge it for you and put it in shape for the winter---and last but not least, better put in a non-freezing solution in your radiator.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Now is the time to

BUY YOUR BEEF By the Quarter

Prices are right

We also handle canned Pork and Beans, Sardines, Etc.

Cheese---all kinds.

Butter and Oleomargarine

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Ruiter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

Friday, Dec. 7th

will be the Shipping Association Big Day here. Everybody come and have a good time. Special speakers will be here to entertain you.

A free lunch and hot coffee will be provided by the Association.

Come and make yourself at home at our store.

We have about 75 pairs of SHOES we will put out at $1.98 Men's, Boys and Ladies'

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

FARM LOANS

Your Banker is interested in your welfare, therefore will work for your interests in having your farm loan placed at the lowest possible rate.

The large loan companies realize as never before that the local banker is the farmers financial agent, and for this reason we are in a position to save you money.

Have your loans placed now before the March First rush and possible increase in rates.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Red Top

GUARANTEED

Double Strength Studded Tee

Steel Fence Posts

BIG DAY

Friday, December 7th

At Meservey, Iowa

We will offer Special Discount on this day.

Everybody Come

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Res. Phone 17

Do you love your wife?

OF COURSE YOU DO. AND THERE IS A PRACTICAL WAY YOU CAN SHOW YOUR REGARD FOR HER THIS CHRISTMAS—BY GETTING HER A WOODROW WASHER.

WASHING BY HAND IS WORK NO WOMAN SHOULD BE EXPECTED TO DO, AND SOMETHING SHE IS LIKELY TO PAY FOR LATER. AND AFTER ALL THERE IS NO MORE EXCUSE FOR PREHISTORIC BACK BREAKING METHODS IN WASHING THAN HOEING CORN OR CUTTING GRAIN WITH A SICKLE.

There are single and double tub models for both electric and engine power. Place your order early for delivery the 24th.

Join Our Christmas Club

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

Clear Lake.

Fred Menzel departed Monday for his hom at Waverly where he expects to remain for a short time before taking up a position. Fred is undecided where he will locate.

Harry Sorenson of Thornton is the new man in the Raecker garage. We failed to mention in past issues the improvement made on the garage by the applying of a coat of kellestone which adds greatly to its appearance.

Mrs. Forrest Gobeli is spending the week at Jewell with her father and sister.

The W. M. S. will meet with Mrs. Wm. Messelheiser on Thursday (today) at 2 o'clock. All members and others invited.

F. Ostendorf, A. J. Nissen, wife and Marjory and Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus and baby were Mason City callers on Monday p. m. Mr. Ostendorf drove up.

Quite a number from around here attended the farm sale of Lee Lewis near Clear Lake Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Schlesselman motored to Mason City last Tuesday with Mrs. A. Uerkvitz who has been spending a week or so at the parsonage, she leaving the city that evening for her home in Oklahoma.

The 7th and 8th grades enjoyed a party given by their teacher, Miss Viola Thomas, at her home on last Monday evening. The time was enjoyably spent in games, etc and refreshments were served.

Rev. and Mrs. H. Pannkuk entertained about 35 young people at their home last Monday evening at an annual social gathering. The evening was pleasantly spent in a social way. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cakes were served, and a splendid time was had by those present.

Following is the Thank Offering program to be given by the W. M. S. at the Evang. church at 10:45 a. m. Sunday, Dec. nineth:
Song: Congregation.
Devotionals: Mrs. Schlesselman.
Music: Orchestra.
Short Talk: Giving the best for Jesus, Mrs. H. Raecker.
Song: Ladies quartette.
Talk: The Missionary Band, and why, Mrs. C. F. W. Paul.
Leaflet: Mrs. C. F. Sprau
Exercise: The Missionary's Dream, by the Mission Band.
Treas. Report: Mrs. W. F. Butz.
Song: Ladies quartette.
Reading: By a circle member.
Solo: Mrs. Muller.
Leaflet: Mrs. Reif.
Offertory: Mrs. H. Fischer.
Offering.
Music: Orchestra.
All are cordially invited to be present.

PRELIPP-UNVERFERTH

Last Thursday, Nov. 29 occured the marriage of Mrs. Aug. Prelipp and Mr. Ernest Unverferth, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Schlesselman at the Evang. church parsonage during the afternoon, th the present of Mrs. Wm. Unverferth, J. C. Janssen and Wm. Prelipp, and Mrs. Schlesselman. Thus two of our worthy people were united in the bonds of matrimony and we join their many friends in wishing them well in their journey thru life..

ROWAN NEWS

The farm population of this community have a petition out to see if it is possible to change the mail service on the route out of here. As it stands at present the rural carrier leaves before the Great Western train No 5 arrives, thereby making all Chicago and Des Moines newspapers and mail a day old when it is received. It is now being taken up to see if the carrier can be held until after this train arrives, so as to give the farmers the same service

...house, Rowan vs. Klemme, resulted in a score of 17 to 6 for the Rowan girls and 48-10 for the Rowan boys. The next game is scheduled for Rowan Friday eve of this week when Goodell comes.

School closed Wednesday last for the Thanksgiving vacation. The teachers went to their homes, Miss Boyd to Boone, Miss Towner to Waterloo, Mr. and Miss Nabholtz to Brandon, and the Misses Hillyard and Wendel to Dows.

Mrs. Henry Williams departed on Wednesday for Mason City to join her husband who has employment there. They expect to make their home at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. H J Whitten autoed to Tama, Saturday, to spend the week end with their son, Floyd and wife.

Miss Maude Cowley came from Lake Park, Wednesday, to spend Thanksgiving with the home folks.

Mrs. G. R. Sheldon was ill last week with a very severe case of tonsilitis

Dr. Hall of Hampton was a professional caller here Friday

Mr and Mrs. R. H. Keith and Kenneth and Margaret spent Thanksgiv- at the D. H. Keith home in Goldfield. Miss Grace McCutcheon returned with them to remain until Sunday

Rev. and Mrs. Halbert were Clarion business callers last Monday.

Chas. Keith is suffering severely with tonsilitis at this writing, and is unable to attend to his duties at the garage.

Samuel Farmer of Goldfield visited his sister, Mrs Jennie Rowen last week.

Leslie Andrews and family went to Sioux Falls, S. D., to make an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bohlen.

Rev. and Mrs. Halbert were entertained at Thanksgiving dinner at the O. E. Ballou home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aldrich and the two girls spent Thanksgiving at Waterloo.

M. and Mrs. F. H, Brooks drove to Des Moines early Sunday morning to take the films of Human Wreckage down. They returned Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Hansen left on Saturday morning for Rochester, where Mrs. Hansen expects to undergo an operation for gallstones.

R. Virden was ill with a severe cold the latter part of the week, and was unable to assist in the drug store.

Mrs. Mary Braden went to Dows. Friday to visit for the week end at the Geo. Unger home.

J. E. Miller of Clarion was a Rowan visitor last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kercheval, Mr and Mrs. Clint Kercheval and son, Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bingham and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pritchett were entertained Thanksgiving at the Fred Kercheval home.

The Misses Stella and Esther Emerson and Frances Farran visited Ruth Emerson's school Friday.

Mrs. Milton Brown, who has been visiting at the F. H. Fowler home, returned to her home at Marengo. on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Osborn and children, and Mrs. Abbott were Thanksgiving guests at the H. O. Azeltine home.

W. Z. Stout has been suffering severely with lumbago the past week.

Miss Mabel Azeltine from Des Moines and Miss Mildred Azeltine of Green Mountain came home to spend Thanksgiving with their parents.

Carl Bartles of Ames was a week end guest at the E. W. Azeltine home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sellers and children were guests at the C. H. Sellers home in Clarion last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitten and daughter Gladys motored to Iowa Falls last Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Loomis from

...isitor
...penter ac-
...motored to
..., and will re-
...day visiting rela-
...Carpenter.
...rs. O. Sandberg, and Mr.
...S. S. Matson spent Sunday
...Pete Benson home near Kan-
...

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlicting and Will Thiel were entertained Sunday at Sandberg's.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and daughter Marlys of Mason City were visitors Sunday at the Thada home.

The Twin Lakes Farm Bureau showed their moving pictures to a packed house Friday eve. Two pleasing quartettes were on the program. After the program the baskets were sold and the ladies sold their coffee and sandwiches to those who didn't bring baskets.

Elmer Schneider was a business caller in Britt, Wednesday.

Nina Bell Ahrenkeil is spending a few days with her grandmother, Mrs John Ahrenkeil.

A large crowd attended the Rosary bazaar and supper held in the Catholic church basement Saturday. The usual good time was had at the dance which was given in the evening.

A family reunion was held at the Joe Heginger home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Buchanan and children accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Will Buchanan of Belmond motored to Waterloo, Thursday to attend the Wassum family reunion. Two hundred forty-three were present.

Mrs. Harry Ruka is staying at the Hampton hospital with her husband. He is recovering from an operation for appendicitis and removal of his tonsils. The farmers in this neighborhood helped in husking his corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carpenter spent Sunday at Arthur Ruka's.

Edgar Mayhew is assisting with the work at Harry Ruka's.

The W. M. S. will meet Friday p. m. at the home of Mrs. Thada.

The Ladies Aid will be entertained this week by Mesdames Frank McNutt and Kienenberger, at the home of the latter.

GOODELL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Donahue of Lakota spent the latter part of the week at the Finn home.

Tom Burgess and Matt Smith families were entertained Thursday at Harold Smith's near Alexander.

Margaret Graeber of Kanawha visited Friday and Saturday at Monroe Graebers.

Veronica Finn spent the week end with home folks.

Miss Grace Mennenga from Ackley is making a visit at the Harm Rust home.

Tony Boller had the misfortune to have an automobile wreck near Klemme, Thursday night. Fortunately no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Allaben of solan, Ia., and Hamblin of Traer, were guests at the Will Allaben home last week.

Mrs. Robert McNutt is recovering from her recent accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenison, Mr. and Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Savogue were shoppers in Mason City, Tues.

Mrs. Blickendorfer and children if Garner visited a few days at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jim Christie.

Mr. and Mrs. Peters attended the foot ball game at Garner, Thursday.

Our local teachers spent their vacation Thanksgiving at their respective homes.

George Ness is under the doctor's care, suffering from a bursted blood vessel in one limb.

Mrs. Fundenberger of Stevensville, Mont., is spending a few days with Mrs. Henry Christenson. She will be remembered by her friends as Miss Atha Bowen, formerly of Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Boller entertained to dinner Thursday the Nolan girls and Arthur Lowenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Gosnell and children of Ft. Dodge spent Thursday and Friday at Will Lamers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thada and Jean autoed to Thornton, Thursday to spend the day.

Mrs. Erickson is spending a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thada.

Miss Harberts of Belmond visited the latter part of the week with her cousin, Esther Harberts.

Joe Asbe and Mr. Tutton were visitors at Buffalo Center, Thursday.

Roy Bachman and Beulah Smith spent a few days last week visiting the Ben Remers at LeMars.

Vicent Allaben returned to his school duties Saturday. While Mrs. remained for a longer stay.

Mrs. Leo Ahrenkeil and children were over Sunday guests with Mrs.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larsen and family were Sunday visitors with relatives at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Tinkey and three children visited with friends at Latimer last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, Arthur Peters and Miss Marie Pals attended the show at Belmond last Friday eve.

W. P. Aldinger was an over Sunday visitor with relatives at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Greenfield and son were Sunday guests at the Jens Roeds home at Latimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and two sons and Mrs. A. B Arends spent Sunday at the E. E. Butler home at Hampton.

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Fred Larsen on Dec. 12.

Mrs. Anna Pekerak and daughter Josephine visited with her parents at Hampton a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Symens and family were shoppers at Hampton on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel and sons spent Thursday with his people at Webster City.

Charlie Winwood was a business caller at Dows, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Reed and two children spent Thanksgiving with relatives at Belmond.

Clarence Bohlen was a Dows visitor the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Davis are the happy parents of a baby boy.

Earl Hall was a business caller at Hampton Thursday.

Mrs. Mabel Symens and son Lewis Schulte were callers at Hampton on Saturday.

Rev. J. B. O'Connor of Belmond was a caller here on Monday.

Miss Mildred Larsen spent several days the past week visiting at the Vernon Finkle home at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals and son and Mr. and Mrs. Hans Pals and children visited with relatives at Chapin last Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Dunn and Mrs. Clay Klinefelter were visitors at Hampton Saturday.

Mrs. Lillian Seegar left Thursday for Ventura where she will spend a short time with her daughter, Mrs. Edd Miles, before leaving for Madison, S. D., where she expects to remain for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Green and little daughter Emmagene spent the day Thanksgiving at the James Green home in Hampton.

Will Foughty and daughter Wilma were callers at Hampton last Thursday.

Vern Finkle of Hamptn was a business caller at Alexander one day last week.

John F. Bell was a business caller at Latimer last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Larsen and children took Thanksgiving dinner at the Edd Miles home near Ventura.

Mrs. Anna Pekerak and daughter were callers at Hampton Saturday.

John Arends was transacting business at Belmond Monday.

Arthur Winwood was a Hampton visitor last Thursday.

Carl Bohlen was a business caller at Belmond last week.

Miss Vivian Meinbachtol of Bristow was an over Sunday guest of friends in this vicinity.

Arthur Peters accompanied by Miss Bernice Morrison autoed to Iowa Falls Sunday to meet Miss Leora Fairbanks on her return from spending Thanksgiving vacation at her home at Waterloo

St John's Evang. Luth. Church

Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Preaching service with holy communion at 3 o'clock, in the German language.

Our Aid society meets Dec. 11 th at the home of Mrs. Ben Arends.

C. J. Barth, Pastor.

Independent Farm Sales Service is Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

Mr. I. M. Frank says: "All imitations are not in vaudeville—many are in everyday life."

THE OLYMPIA

9 No. Federal

Mason City, Iowa

Invites you to make this store your headquarters when in Mason City, and to enjoy its which are prepared in a spotless, clean kitchen in genuine "home cooking" style. You'll enjoy every bite. Prices reasonable.

LUNCHES

HOME-MADE CANDIES

Make your Xmas candy selection now—be sure it's pure and home-made by insisting upon Olympia candies. In bulk, plain and fancy boxes and baskets. Price in keeping with QUALITY.

HOME-MADE ICE CREAM

Those who have tried Olympia ice cream, always come back for more. High in butterfat, best in quality. All flavors.

THE OLYMPIA

J. J. Manusos, Prop.

$50 Prize for An Unusual Picture

The Des Moines Sunday Register wants photographs of unusual things or happenings in Iowa. For the best picture of this sort received at The Register office before midnight Dec. 13 it will pay $50. In addition it will pay $1 each for all other pictures it publishes.

The more odd, unique, and unusual the picture the better. If it has plenty of action in it, still better. The best pictures will be printed in the Photo-Gravure Section December 23rd.

Conditions of the Contest

1. Only pictures taken in Iowa are eligible.
2. Any contestant may enter as many pictures as he wishes.
3. Each picture must be plainly marked on the back with the name of the person submitting it, and the subject.
4. Pictures must be in The Register office by midnight Thursday, Dec. 13th.
5. Address pictures to Photo-Gravure contest editor, Des Moines Sunday Register. Further details of the contest in next Sunday's Register.

A full page of the best pictures in the Iowa Smiles contest will be published in Sunday's big eight-page Photo-Gravure Section.

The Des Moines Sunday Register

CHURCHES

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

You are given a hearty invitation to attend our services if your obligations do not call you elsewhere.

Sabbath schol at 10 a. m.

Morning worship at 11.

Evening services at 7:30. Our orchestra is getting better all the time. They always have something good for us.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor.

Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid meets in the church parlors. Annual business meeting All members must be present.

Thursday evening prayer meeting in the church parlor at 7:30.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Service in the Norwegian language at 11 o'clock. English service at 7:30.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor

Service Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock, conducted by the lay brethern, in the Norwegian language.

Wednesday, December 12, the No. Ladies Aid meets at the home of N. Johnson.

Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13, the South Ladies Aid meets at the home of Mrs. John Hill.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

Our new orchestra added greatly to the interest of the Sunday evening services and was enjoyed by the large congregation present. Almost everyone likes music and that is why we are arranging for special music at each service.

We are glad to see so many young people attend the evening services in such large numbers. Why not? What better place could they be than in the church. Come again young people, and bring all you can with you.

Let every member and friend of the church begin to plan for the Sunday services. Tell your neighbor who does not attend church about coming with you.

We shall expect you Sunday.

Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Morning services at 11 a. m.

Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.

Evening services at 7:30.

Mid-week services Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Sunday school board meeting Friday evening at the home of Mrs. H. F. Luick at 8 p. m.

Sunday morning subject: "The Pathway of Life."

Sunday evening subject: "The Devil take the Hindmost."

Special music at both services. On Sunday evening we plan on having the orchestra, a special number by the evening choir and a number by the male quartette.

Come early and enjoy the whole evening program. We welcome you to all services.

The boy or girl w... most Hava-Slice Brea... 10 p. m. December 24 w... a prize.—Barban's Bakery.

Special music by the evening ... orchestra and male quartette will ... a feature of the evening service's at the Methodist church. Evening subject: "The Devil Take the Hindmost."

Folding card table, leatherette tops Xmas Special $2.98.—Belmond Furniture Co.

The prizes to be given for Hava-Slice bread wrappers on Christmas Eve are now on display at Barban's Bakery.

A Want Ad brings the results. Ask those who have tried one. Sell that stove, rent, trade or buy what you want thru an Independent Want Ad.

the ... listed ... 115.

BELMOND

(Correct...

ROCK ...

Going No...

Freight, daily ---------

Passenger, daily, ------

Going South

Freight, daily -------- 1:10

Passenger, daily -------- 11:50

M.& ST. L.

Going West.

BASKETBALL

Klemme H. S. Boys and Girls

vs.

Belmond H. S. Boys and Girls

High School Gymnasium

8:00 O'clock p. m.

Monday, Dec. 10th

The Store of the Christmas Spirit

Here's a store of gifts for all mankind ---men, youths and little fellows.

Buying gifts for men folks need not be a puzzle. The practical and safe thing to do---is to buy them at this Man's Store, where you'll always find quality, service and fair prices.

Gifts That Please

Shirts
Ties
Hosiery
Pajamas
Mufflers
Gloves
Sweaters
House Coats

Patton Brothers Co.

Where A Dollar Does Its Duty

MASON CITY AND MANLY, IOWA

PUBLIC SALE

HAVING DECIDED TO QUIT FARMING, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION, AT MY PLACE 1 MILE NORTH AND 1 3-4 MILES EAST OF BELMOND, ON

Wednesday, Dec. 12

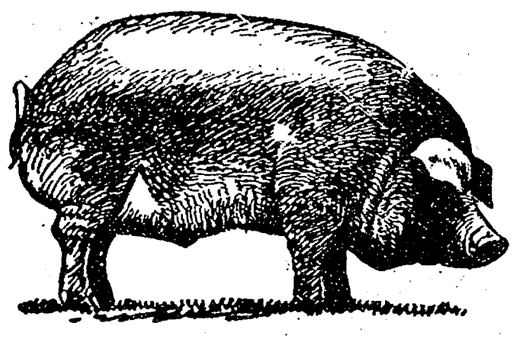
COMMENCING AT 1:00 P. M. THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

5 - Head of Horses - 5

1 bay mare, 10 yrs. old, wt. 1300
1 bay gelding, 9 yrs. old, wt 160 0
1 bay mare, 7 yrs. old, wt. 1550
1 brown mare 15 yrs. old, wt. 1250, family broke
1 black mare, 12 yrs. old, wt. 1500, family broke

16 - Head of Cattle - 16

7 milk cows, 3 fresh Nov. 1, bal. fresh early spring. 2 of these are high grade Guernseys, test given day of sale.
4 calves
1 roan bull, 16 months old
1 yearling heifer, high grade Guernsey
1 Holstein bull calf, 8 months old
2 Holstein cows, fresh in early spring



40 Hogs 40

17 FEEDING SHOATS, 175 lbs. average. BALANCE SOWS
All these hogs are full-blood Duroc Jerseys, fine animals, some eligible to registry.
1 full-blood Duroc Jersey boar, papers furnished. From Martz herd at Hampton.

These are from sires and dams of 1st and 2nd prize winners from the Short Course in 1921 and 1923. The sire was 1st prize in 1923 course.

150 - HEAD OF POULTRY - 150

INCLUDING 9 FULL BLOOD WHITE EMDEN GEESE

Farm Machinery, and Other Articles

1 planker
1 buggy pole
1 scoop board
1 single harness
1 set hay slings
1 large stack straw
1 5-gal. barrel churn
Several horse collars
1 double-harpoon fork
1 woven-wire stretcher.
1 set 1 1-4 inch harness
1 set 1 1-2 inch harness
2 washing machines, 1 power
1 VanBrunt 20-disc grain drill
Several galv. iron chicken coops.
1 Nelson tank heater, new last winter
1 cutter
4 hog crates
1 pump jack
1 grind stone
1 slip scraper
4 hog troughs
1 hand sheller
1 16-ft. log chain
1 2-hole corn sheller
1 3-bbl. galvanized tank
1 2 1-2 h. p. gas engine
1 New Model feed grinder
1 50-gal. galvanized gas barrel.
1 U. S. cream separator, nearly new
1 set 1 1-2 inch breeching harness, new last spring
1 International low down spreader, nearly new
1 bob sled
1 top buggy
1 Defiance disc
1 Sattley corn plow
1 3-section wood harrow
1 Aspenwall potato planter
1 Deering mower, nearly new
1 Deering self-dump hay rake
1 Emerson 16-inch stubble plow, with 2 lays
1 Miller truck wagon with triple box
1 John Deere low steel truck with rack, nearly new
1 Hayes corn planter with 120 rods of wire
1 McCormick 6-ft. binder, in good shape
A quantity of small articles.

1200 BUSHELS OF YELLOW CORN
QUANTITY OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 12 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

JACK MUNNIS, Auctioneer

STATE BANK OF BELMOND, Clerk

Win Dziewanowski

Proprietor

The BROWN MOUSE

by Herbert Quick

COPYRIGHT BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Ain't that the stuff the old man used on the lawn last spring?"

"Yes," said Jim, "your father used some on his lawn. We don't put it on our fields in Iowa—not yet; but if it weren't for those white specks on the clover-roots, we should be obliged to do so—as they do back east."

"How do them white specks keep us from needin' nitrates?"

"It's a long story," said Jim. "You see, before there were any plants big enough to be visible—if there had been any one to see them—the world was full of little plants so small that there may be billions of them in one of these little white specks. They knew how to take the nitrates from the air—"

"Air!" ejaculated Newton. "Nitrates in the air! You're crazy!"

"No," said Jim. "There are tons of nitrogen in the air that press down on your head—but the big plants can't get it through their leaves, or their roots. They never had to learn, because the little plants—bacteria—located on those roots and tapped them for the sap they needed—began to get their board and lodgings off the big plants. And in payment for their hotel bills, the little plants took nitrogen out of the air for both themselves and their hosts."

"What d'ye mean by 'hosts'?"

"Their hotel-keepers—the big plants. And now the plants that have the hotel roots for the bacteria furnish nitrogen not only for themselves, but for the crops that follow. Corn can't get nitrogen out of the air; but clover can—and that's why we ought to plow down clover before a crop of corn."

"Gee!" said Newt. "If you could get to teach our school, I'd go again."

"It would interfere with your pool playing."

"What business is that o' yours?" interrogated Newt defiantly.

"Well, get busy with that shovel," suggested Jim, who had been working steadily, driving out upon the fill occasionally to unload. On his return from dumping the next load, Newton seemed, in a superior way, quite amiably disposed toward his workfellow—rather the habitual thing in the neighborhood.

"I'll work my old man to vote for you for teacher," said he.

"Those school directors," replied Jim, "have become so bullheaded that they'll never vote for any one except the applicants they've been voting for."

"The old man says he will have Prue Foster again, or he'll give the school a darned long vacation, unless Peterson and Bonner join on some one else. That would beat Prue, of course."

"And Con Bonner won't vote for any one but Maggie Gilmartin," added Jim.

"And," supplied Newton, "Haakon Peterson says he'll stick to Herman Paulson until the Hot Springs freeze over."

"And there you are," said Jim. "You tell your father for me that I think he's a mere mule—and that the whole district thinks the same."

"All right," said Newt. "I'll tell him that while I'm working him to vote for you."

Jim smiled grimly. He had remained a peasant because the American rural teacher is placed economically lower than the peasant. He gave Newton's chatter no consideration. But when, in the afternoon, he hitched his team with others to the big road grader, and the gang became concentrated within talking distance, he found that the project of heckling and chaffing him about his eminent fitness for a scholastic position was to be the real entertainment of the occasion.

"Jim's the candidate to bust the deadlock," said Columbus Brown, with a wink. "Just like Garfield in that Republican convention he was nominated in—eh, Con?"

"Con" was Cornelius Bonner, an Irishman, one of the deadlocked school board, and the captain of the road grader. He winked back at the pathmaster.

"Jim's the gray-eyed man o' destiny," he replied, "if he gets two votes in that board."

"You'd vote for me, wouldn't you, Con?" asked Jim.

"I'll try annything wance," replied Bonner.

"Try voting with Ezra Bronson once, for Prue Foster," suggested Jim. "She's done good work here."

"Opinions differ," said Bonner, "an' when you try annything just for wance, it shouldn't be an irrevocable shtip, me bye."

"You're a reasonable board of public servants," said Jim ironically. "I'd like to tell the whole board what I think of them."

"Come down tonight," said Bonner jeeringly. "We're going to have a board meeting at the schoolhouse and ballot a few more times. Come down, and be the Garfield of the convintion. We've lacked brains on the board, that's clear. They ain't a man on the board that iver studied algebra, 'r that knows more about farmin' than their impl'yers. Come down to the schoolhouse, and we'll have a fieldhand addriss the school board—and begosh, I'll move yer illiction mesilf! Come, now, Jimmy, me bye, be game. It'll vary the program, annyhow."

The entire gang grinned. Jim flushed, and then reconquered his calmness of spirit.

"All right, Con," said he. "I'll come and tell you a few things—and you can do as you like about making the motion."

CHAPTER II

Reversed Unanimity.

The great blade of the grading machine, running diagonally across the road and pulling the earth toward its median line, had made several trips, and much persiflage about Jim Irwin's forthcoming appearance before the board had been addressed to Jim and exchanged by others for his benefit.

To Newton Bronson was given the task of leveling and distributing the earth rolled into the road by the grader—a labor which in the interests of fitting a muzzle on his big mongrel dog he deserted whenever the machine moved away from him. That there was some mystery about the muzzle was evident from Newton's pains to make a secret of it. Its wires were curled into a ring directly over the dog's nose, and into this ring Newton had fitted a cork, through which he had thrust a large needle which protruded, an inch-long bayonet, in front of Ponto's nose.

As the grader moved along one side of the highway, a high-powered automobile approached on the other, making rather bad weather of the newly repaired road. A pile of loose soil that Newton had allowed to lie just across the path made a certain maintenance of speed desirable. Newton planted himself in the path of the laboring car, and waved its driver a command to halt. The car came to a standstill with its front wheels in the edge of the loose earth, and the chauffeur fuming at the possibility of stalling—a contingency upon which Newton had confidently reckoned.

"What d'ye want?" he demanded. "What d'ye mean by stopping me in this kind of place?"

"I want to ask you," said Newton with mock politeness, "if you have the correct time."

The chauffeur sought words appropriate to his feelings. Ponto and his muzzle saved him the trouble. A pretty pointer leaped from the car, and attracted by the evident friendliness of Ponto's greeting, pricked up its ears, and sought, in a spirit of canine brotherhood, to touch noses with him. The needle in Ponto's muzle did its work to the agony and horror of the pointer, which leaped back with a yelp, and turned tail. Ponto, in an effort to apologize, followed, and finding itself bayonetted at every contact with this demon dog, the pointer definitely took flight, howling, leaving Ponto in a state of wonder and humiliation at the sudden end of what had promised to be a very friendly acquaintance. The pointer's master watched its strange flight, and swore. His eye turned to the boy who had caused all this, and he alighted pale with anger.

"I've got time," said he, remembering Newton's impudent question, "to give you what you deserve."

Newton grinned and dodged, but the bank of loose earth was his undoing, and while he stumbled, the chauffeur caught and held him by the collar. Again Ponto intervened, for as the chauffeur stood holding Newton, the dog, evidently regarding the stranger as his master's friend, thrust his nose into the chauffeur's palm. The chauffeur behaved much as his pointer had done, except that the pointer did not swear.

The grading gang laughed. Newton grinned even while in the fell clutch of circumstance. Ponto tried to smell the chauffeur's trousers, and what had been a laugh became a roar. Caution and mercy departed from the chauffeur's mood; he drew back his fist to strike the boy—and found it caught by the hard hand of Jim Irwin.

"You're too angry to punish this boy," said Jim gently, "even if you had the right to punish him at all!"

The chauffeur, however, unhesitatingly released Newton, and furiously delivered a blow meant for Jim's jaw, which miscarried by a foot. In reply, Jim countered with an awkward swinging uppercut, it landed fairly on the point of the jaw. The chauffeur staggered and slowly toppled over into the soft earth which had caused so much of the rumpus.

"Oh, cut it out," said a fat man in the rear of the car, who had hitherto manifested small interest in anything save Ponto. "Get in, and let's be on our way!"

Colonel Woodruff, waiving toward him in his runabout, held up by the traffic blockade, asked what was going on here, and the chauffeur, rising groggily, climbed into the car; and the meeting dissolved.

"Good work, Jim," said Cornelius Bonner. "I didn't think 'twas in ye!"

"It's beastly," said Jim, reddening. "I didn't know, either."

Colonel Woodruff looked at his hired man sharply, gave him some instructions for the next day and drove on. The road gang dispersed for the afternoon. Newton Bronson carefully secreted the magic muzzle, and chuckled at what had been perhaps the most picturesquely successful bit of devilry in his varied record. Jim Irwin put out his team, got his supper and went to the meeting of the school board.

The deadlocked members of the board had been so long at loggerheads that their relations had swayed back to something like amity. Jim had scarcely entered when Con Bonner addressed the chair.

"Mr. Prisident," said he, "we have wid us t'night, a young man who nades no introduction to an audience in this place, Mr. Jim Irwin. He thinks we're bullheaded mules, and that all the schools are bad. At the proper time I shall move that we hire him f'r teacher; and pinding that motion, I move that he be given the floor. Ye've all heared of Mr. Irwin's ability as a white hope, and I know he'll be listened to wid respect!"

Much laughter from the board and the spectators, as Jim arose. He looked upon it as ridicule of himself, while Con Bonner regarded it as a tribute to his successful speech.

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Board," said Jim, "I'm not going to tell you anything that you don't know about yourselves. You are simply making a farce of the matter of hiring a teacher for this school. You know, and I know, that even if your silly deadlock is broken by employing a new candidate, the school will be the same old story. It will still be the school it was when I came into it a little ragged boy"—here Jim's voice grew a little husky—"and when I left it, a bigger boy, but still as ragged as ever."

There was a slight sensation in the audience, as if, as Con Bonner said about the knock-down, they hadn't thought Jim Irwin could do it.

Kinseth's Store News

CLOSING OUT SALE

IN ORDER TO CLOSE THE ESTATE OF OLIVER BUSICK, DECEASED, AND THE PARTNERSHIP OF BUSICK BROS., COMPOSED OF HENRY BUSICK AND THE OLIVER BUSICK ESTATE, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY WILL BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION ON THE BUSICK BROS. FARM 1-2 MILE EAST AND 4 MILES NORTH OF BELMOND, AND 1 MILE EAST AND 2 MILES SOUTH OF GOODELL, IA., ON Thursday, Dec. 13

COMMENCING AT 10:00 A. M

9 - Head of Horses - 9

1 BAY MARE 10 YRS. OLD, WT. 1700
1 SPOTTED PONY
1 BLACK MARE 10 YRS. OLD, WT. 1500
1 BLACK MARE 10 YRS. OLD, WT. 1600.
1 BLACK GELDING 7 YRS. OLD, WT. 1700
1 MATCHED TEAM OF GREY MARES, 7 AND 8 YRS. OLD, WT. 2800
1 TEAM DARK GREY MARES 1 AND 3 YRS. OLD, FULL SISTERS, WT. 2400

57 - Head of Cattle - 57

10 SPRING CALVES
6 YEARLING HEIFERS
18 MILCH COWS IN CALF
10 2-YR-OLD HEIFERS
4 2-YR.-OLD STEERS
3 YEARLING BULLS
6 YEARLING STEERS

32 Head of Spring Shoats 32

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 line shaft
1 grindstone
1 speed jack
1 hand seeder
1 fanning mill
2 gasoline tanks
Pulleys and belting
3 sets work harness
1 Cooper box wagon
1 R I. broadcast seeder
1 Sandwich feed grinder
1 Deere & Weber wagon and box
1 Orchard city wagon and box
1 Assc. Mfgs. gas engine, 6 h. p.
1 drag cart
1 cider press
1 walking plow
1 potato digger
2 Tower corn plows
3 riding corn plows
1 McCormick binder
1 side delivery rake
2 McCormick mowers
1 40' John Deere elevator
2 3-section wooden drags
2 Goodenough stubble plows
1 Avery corn planter with 80 rods of wire
1 bob sled
1 hay rack
1 R. I. Disc
1 Eclipse disc
2 water tanks
1 R. I. hay loader
1 Cloverleaf spreader
1 McCormick rake, 10 ft.
1 Independent corn binder
1 wood saw with two blades
1 Fairbanks-Morse gas engine, 1 1-2 h. p.
Numerous other articles

1 STUDEBAKER TOURING CAR, 6 CYLINDER, 1918 MODEL.

About 25 Tons of Hay and Straw In Barn

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 12 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

Henry Busick and Oliver Busick Estate

LEWIS HAUGE, AUCTIONEER.
BELMOND SAVINGS BANK, CLERK.

LOCAL NEWS

Miss Agnes Dillon and her friend, Miss Mildred Parsons, both teaching in the Corwith schools, spent their Thanksgiving at the home of Miss Dillon's parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Dillon.

Miss Anna McNamara and Miss Agnes Dempsey went to Mason City last Friday to do some shopping

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Hannerhan of Council Bluffs, a daughter. Mrs. Hannerhan was formerly Miss Esther Hartwick.

Fine line of Framed Pictures at prices that are right.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Miss Cecelia Finn was a Mason City visitor on Tuesday of this week.

Joe and Frank Barry drove to Cedar Falls on Tuesday, taking Miss Beatrice back to the school which she is attending there.

If you have a stove to sell, now is the time, and an Independent want Ad will sell it for you.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham from Forest City spent Thanksgiving at the home of relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leonard from Swaledale were Thanksgiving guests at the home of relatives hre.

H. G. Nordschow was a business caller at Fort Dodge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hmphrey and Miss Louise from Ackley were visitors at the J C. Arends home Sunday.

C E. Miller of near Goodell was a business caller in town last week.

Mrs. Hajo Pals continues quite seriously ill. She is suffering from internal poisoning, and sleeps almost constantly.

Mrs. George Dunn and children of Alexander were visitors with Mrs. Arends last Saturday.

Make it a Furniture Xmas. Prices right. Terms to suit.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Mr and Mrs. D. E. Packard were visitors at the Jess Steffens home in Rowan on Sunday.

Will have all kinds of baked goods at our Country Store. Catholic Ladies bazaar Saturday, Dec. 8.

C. H. Wallace went to Iowa City, Tuesday to take treatment at the state hospital.

Try DEEP ROCK Gasoline, the ideal winter gas. Starts easy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arends and children were visitors at Clarion on Thanksgiving.

Save your Hava-Slice bread wrappers. Prizes will be given to the boy or girl who brings in the most wrappers by 10 p. m. Monday, December 24.—Barban's Bakery.

Big line of Fancy Candles and Candle Sticks.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Leave your order at once for Xmas Trees at Belmond Furniture Co.

Take hopping out of shopping. Select Fuller Brushes for your Christmas gifts. Appropriate gifts for everyone, an article that will be used daily for years and appreciated is a sensible gift to make. Let me show them to you.—E. R. Lockwood.

The A. E. Martin and A. W. Martin families attended a family reunion at Dr. Ketchum's at Cambridge Thanksgiving day.

Dan Wenzel, Sr., celebrated his 80th birthday last Sunday. All the children were home and enjoyed the big dinner with him.

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 16th and 17th.

C. C. Landon, southeast of Belmond, farm sale, Tuesday, Dec. 11. Ad this week.

Win Dziewanowski, farm sale, Wednesday, Dec. 12. Ad this week.

The Busick sale dated for Dec. 13 and advertised in this issue has been indefinitely postponed.

Clint Kercheval, 6 miles south 1-2 west of Belmond, Dec. 19. Farm sale. Ad next week.

C. E. Miller, northeast of Goodell, farm sale, Dec. 19. Ad next week.

J. M. McClernon, east of Belmond, farm sale, Dec. 20. Ad next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Englet of Kanawha were business callers in town Tuesday.

Miss Florence Lent and Miss Izetta Fletcher of Rowan were shoppers in Belmond last Saturday.

See those Bridge Lamps, Silk Shades, Polychrome stumphs. Xmas Special $16.95.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Society

Priscilla—

Mrs. H. N. Hill was hostess to the Priscilla club on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

* * *

Progress—

The Progress club met at the home of Mrs. C. O. Fitts on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Elder was leader of the lesson. The club voted to observe the Golden Rule Sunday in aid of the Near East Relief. The next meeting will be at Mrs. S. U. Leinbach's.

* * *

Bridge—

Miss Nell Barry entertained the Bridge club on Monday evening. Mrs. M. C. Barry and Mrs. H. C. Thompson tied on high score.

* * *

Kensington—

Mrs. M. C. Barry was hostess to the Kensington club on Wednesday afternoon.

* * *

Idle-A-While—

The Idle-A-While club met with Mrs. George Brady on Wednesday of this week.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Fox Terrier pups. Best ratters.—John Cooper, Kanawha, Ia. 34c

For Sale—M. B. Turkey Toms, $8 each.—Sheriff Bros. 1c

For Sale—Pure bred White Wyandottes, rose comb. Phone 1606. 32*

For Sale—Pure bred R. C. Rhode Island Red Cockerals, early hatch. Your choice $1.50 each.—Leo Riley, Belmond. 22*

For Sale—Spotted Shetland pony, mare colt. A real pet.—F. A. Thompson, Kanawha, Ia. 22*

For Sale—22 calibre Winchester rifle. New. Phone 135. 31c

For Sale—Chester White boars. Champion blood lines. Cholera immune. Farm located two miles west and one-half mile north of Kanawha. Ed Riekens. 52tfc

For Sale—A round reed baby cab in good condition. Phone 73. 32c

For Sale—Regal Dorcas White Wyandotte Cockerals. Your choice for $1.50. Also a few White Pekin Drakes $1.50 each.—A. C. Lieuwen, Alexander, Ia. 23*

For Sale—About 100 Buff Rock Pullets, full blood, early hatch. Your choice $1.00.—L. E. Hall, Alexander. Phone 8917. 22*

For Sale—A few pure bred Hampshire boars. Can furnish papers. Phone 1818.—Geo. Norris, Sr. 35*

For Sale—Extra fine Silver Laced Wyandottes.—O. L. Varland. 31c

For Sale—20x24 ft. frame barn, 14 foot posts. Plank floor, good mow.—Chas. Gealow.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, old	14c
Roosters	07c
Springs	14c
Geese	09c
Ducks	11c
Turkeys	20c
Eggs	40c
Cream	50c
Barley	53c
Oats	36c
Corn	56c
Creamery Butter	55c

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist
Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted
Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, DEC. 17

We Take the Spots Out
DRY CLEANED
SPECIAL SALE!
$45 Overcoats now at only
$36
Fancy cuts and plaid backs.
Belmond Tailor Shop
Phone 28

DO NOT ENVY

Why envy the successful man? Why not imitate him? Envy will never get you anywhere except into the sea of discord and discontent.

Watch the prosperous man. Study his methods. You will find that in most cases he is industrious, saving and careful in making investments, that he doesn't buy everything he WANTS, but only the things he NEEDS. Also that he is identified with a good Bank like ours, where his money is safe. We invite your account.

Belmond Savings Bank

SUGGESTIONS
FOR JANUARY INVESTMENT
And...
CHRISTMAS GIVING
IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY

Gold Notes issued for One Year to Five Years, bearing Seven Per Cent Interest, which is paid Every Three Months.

During December, we will attach (without extra cost), a certificate giving the privilege to the Investor in each Gold Note, at his option, of exchanging the Note at any time before maturity, for an equal amount of the Common Stock paying 7 per cent on the basis of allowing 10 per cent Face Value of the Note on the exchange.

THIS IS AN EXTRA VALUABLE FEATURE!

The Common Stock paying dividends every three months is another excellent investment for the investor who wants a Safe, Permanent Investment Free of Taxes and bother.

For the Saver we issue a Partial Payment Certificate on a first payment of only $5.00, giving the privilege of paying for a full Common Share paying 7 per cent over a period of 19 months, interest being allowed at the rate of 7 per cent on each payment from date made.

These Gold Notes and Common Stock Certificates Fit the Needs of Every Investor.

They are fully protected by the Assets and Earnings of a Strong, Sound business.

Full particulars will be furnished on inquiry concerning these Securities

Ask our Securities Representative, or Manager, or write to the Securities Department, 215 South Second Street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY
IOWA FALLS, IOWA

Entertainment

"The Feast of the Red Corn"

AN AMERICAN INDIAN OPERETTA

Presented by the...
Belmond High School Girls' Glee Club
Wednesday, December 12th
8:00 O'clock p. m.

Admission:
Pupils, 25c
Adults, 35c
No Reserved Seats

Belmond Independent

VOL. 5 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER, 13, 1923 NO. 4

Find Sentiment Favorable For Short Course And Will Start The Wheels Moving

Meeting Called For Saturday Night

Business Men And Two Townships Will Co-Operate For Course This Winter.

DATES ARE NOT SET AS YET

About 30 farmers and others interested in a short course this winter, met at the city hall Friday night to discuss the question and ascertain the sentiment of the community regarding such an event.

It was decided that sufficient sentiment was favorable to make preliminary arrangements, and a committee of three was appointed to visit the various business places and ascertain their attitude. This was done Tuesday, and it was found that practically all were willing to back a short course in Belmond, financially and otherwise.

Another meeting is therefore called for Saturday night, of this week, December 15, at the city hall at 8:00 o'clock, when plans will be completed and committees appointed to put the affair thru. Dates will probably be decided upon at this meeting.

WANTS 'EM ON "HONOR ROLL"

Lou Sherman, editor of the Goldfield Chronicle, last week printed a list of every business place in that town, and followed the list with an "Honor Roll" of those firms which advertised in the Chronicle. The "roll" was pretty slim. Almost any town, however, could not stand such a test, for practically always there are but a fourth or a fifth of the businesses who go after trade. The Chronicle's idea, however, will have a tendency to make some of the firms over there think

DERRICK BURNS BUT GOING ON

The derrick being used at Humboldt to drill for the oil that lies (?) under the corn fields there, was burned down last week from some unknown cause. The promotors, however, had a contract with the drillers to go so deep, and another derrick will erected to go on with the venture. Humboldt is determined to find out whether there is any oil in that neighborhood or not.

THE WORD "CHRISTMAS"

Brevity may be the soul of wit, but abbreviation is not the soul of high sentiment and sacredness that attach to Christmas. Why abbreviate the syllable that carries its sacred meaning? Why make it "X"? Surely the ink or space or trouble saved does not warrant marring a word that holds such high place in heart and memory.

"Lincoln's Birthday" and "Washington's Birthday" have not been cut down by abbreviation. And certainly Christ's Birthday should be as generously dealth with. It's "Christmas" in speech. Let it be so in writing.—Exchange.

AUTOS COLLIDE ON NO. 10

Sunday night the automobiles of Andrew Tuttle and George Keeling came together head-on on primary No. 10 near the Soleberg corner. Tuttle attempted to pass a truck, but seeing the lights of another car slowed down when opposite the truck. The Keeling car was nearer than he thought and he pulled closer to the truck with the result that his car hit the truck about the same time the Keeling car hit his front wheel on the other side. One of the Tuttle boys was slightly injured and both cars somwhat damaged.—Monitor.

The Ladies Missionary society will give a Japanese tea at the home of Mrs. Thomas Cullinan on Friday afternoon. The ladies have gone to a good bit of trouble to give this tea and a good time is in store for all who come.

Just Keep On Keepin' On!

If the day looks kinder gloomy,
An' your chances kinder slim,
If the situation's puzzlin'
An' the prospects awful grim,
An' perplexities keep pressin'
'Till all hope is nearly gone,
Jes' bristle up an grit your teeth
An' keep on keepin' on!
Fumin' never wins a fight
An' frettin' never pays;
There ain't no good in broodin'
These pessimistic ways
Smile jes' kinder cheerfully
When hope is nearly gone,
An' bristle up and grit yiur teeth
An' keep on keepin' on!
There ain't no use in growlin'
An' grumblin' all the time,
When music's ringin' everywhere
An' everything's a rhyme;
Jes' keep on smilin' cheerfully,
If hope is nearly gone,
An' bristle up an' grit your teeth
An' keep on keepin' on!

CLARION LAD INJURED WHEN MOTORCYCLE GOES IN DITCH

Donald Wakefield of Clarion was seriously injured last Saturday afternoon while riding a motorcycle south of Belmond. Together with a companion, Wilfred Speight, Wakefield was returning to Clarion after a call at the Thos. Brooks farm. Both were riding motorcycles. The Speight lad was ahead, and glancing back saw Wakefield lying at the side of the road in a cloud of dust. He stopped his machine and went back. He was just about to place Wakefield in his sidecar when Ed. Reed came along in his car and Wakefield was placed in Reed's car and brought to Belmond where he was taken to the hospital. He was unconscious, bleeding from mouth, nose and ears, and did not regain consciousness until on Tuesday eveing.. The injured lad is now fully conscious and it was said yesterday would come thru all right. The accident was caused by the motorcycle striking a rut in the road.

An article in the Des Moines Register regarding the season and playing of the Belmond foot ball team, stated there were no outstanding players on the team. Whoever sent that item did not know much about foot ball and less about the Belmond team. Any foot ball team is bound to have outstanding players, men around whom lays are built and who carry the ball. With Belmond those men were Stapley, Tyrrell, Loinbach and Christie. Saying that these were outstanding players does not detract one bit from the playing of the other members of the team, but simply that due to speed, exceptional ability at passing or running or some other feature of play, these men were the outstanding members.

Fire Damages First National Bank Bldg.

Thursday morning Richard Ziska, city mail carrier, noticed smoke issuing from the roof of the old First National bank building, and an alarm was turned in. The fire company was on the job in a minute, and the fire discovered to be between the roof and the ceiling of the upstairs rooms. A brick had become misplaced in the chimney, and a spark had set fire to a rafter. As it was underneath the roof it was necessary to chop several large holes in the roof to get at the blaze. Damage was about one hundred dollars.

YEAH, THEY SAY ITS EASY AFTER YOU'RE USED TO IT

The Hampton Chronicle last week told about one of their former citizens who has gone to Chicago, and is now a plasterer in the windy city. All he gets is $15 a day for eight hours, and the Chronicle says he is doing nicely, thank you, and managing to eke out a living, such as it is, on his wages.

Editor Goshorn of the Eagle Grove Times and editor Harmon of the Clarion News were callers in Belmond last Saturday.

Death Calls "Ike" Earheart On Friday

Isaac Vincent Earheart was born at Oskaloosa, Iowa, Sept. 1, 1856 and died at his home in Belmond on Dec. 7, 1923 at the age of 67 years, three months and six days. He was left an orphan at an early age, and was raised by James Gardner, of Oskaloosa. He came, with the Gardner family, to Hardin county at the age of 16, settling on a farm near Iowa Falls. Here he lived until he was 21, when Gardner gave him a team of horses, and he started out to make his own way.

"Ike", as he was known to all Belmond people, came to Belmond some 45 years ago, and engaged in the dray business and teaming. He was always a great lover of horses, and his care and thoughtfulness with his dumb animals was a beautiful lesson to all. It was while attending to his team in the early morning that he was stricken, his wife finding him between their feet.

Mr. Earheart was married to Miss Agnes Murray on Jan. 1, 1890, and to this usion was born one son, who lived but a few months. His wife survives him.

Ike was a man of sterling character, a man with many friends, who always went the way that he thought was best. He was honest, a hard and faithful worker, a good husband and a good citizen. Ike will be missed by Belmond people, and his memory will long remain. He was a member of the Yoeman lodge.

He suffered a stroke of appoplexy about 6:30 Friday morning, and lived about 15 minutes without regaining consciousness. Funeral services were held Sunday at the Congregational church, Rev. Leinbach, the pastor, officiating, and interment was made in Franklin Grove cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted me in the death of my beloved husband, for the many expressions of sympathy and the beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. Agnes Earheart.

INFANT CHILD PASSES AWAY

The infant daughter,Gladys, born to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Obrecht on December 7, died the next day, December 8. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the home, Rev. Leinbach officiating, and the little one laid to rest in Franklin Grove cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kind sympathy and assistance during the death of our infant girl

Mr and Mrs. Chas. Obrecht.

M. E. MISSIONARY MEETING

The spirit of Christmas pervaded the air at the December meeting at Mrs. Howard Moore's home. Mrs. Bailey gave the lesson with her usual ability. We who have so much and are untouched by the great troubles fallen on other peoples should be very generous at this Christmas time remembering "As ye would."

Mrs. Hadley sang for us. Mrs. White and Mrs. Purcell gave a demonstration entitled "I Don't Believe In Foreign Missions." These numbers were entertaining and helpful. Mrs. Davenport had secreted greeting cards in a Christmas bell hanging in a doorway.

These bore mysterious numbers whose puzzle was soon solved by almost everyone.

The hostess served refreshments in keeping with the occasion. **

COUNTY M. D's. MEET

The meeting for the election of officers of the Wright County Medical association was held at the city library in Clarion last Wednesday. The officers for the ensuing year are: G. E. Schnug, Dows, president; F. A. Stevens, Belmond, vice president; O. A. Kellogg, Dows, secreary and treasurer. They have an auxiliary association known as the Wright County Credit Assn. Inc. Dr. Tompkins was chosen the new president and Dr. Walker secretary. The medical society voted to support the ladies of the Farm Bureau in their clinics to be held during the early part of January.—Monitor

Bootleggers Getting Soaked In Court

Henry Busick of Belmond vs. Mabel Busick et al is an action for division of 200 acres or more of real estate.

Farmers Savings bank of Goldfield brings action against James McGowan and wife to recover the sum of $22,048.86 on their six promissory notes. The case is filled for the February term.

So far this month the treasurer's office has issued 676 auto licenses —only about one-seventh of the entire number.

The bootlegging case against Heinie Lammers will not be tried at this term of court on account of the illness of his attorney, J. W. Henneberry.

Melvin Gardelen of Dows was acquitted of a bootlegging charge Tuesday, the jury being out about thirty minutes. It seems to have been a case of mistaken identity, as several reputable witnesses testified to the young man's excellent character.

The case against the two young men from Klemme charged with driving an auto while intoxicated was begun Tuesday.

Bert Pohlman was apprehended at Mason City last week and brought to Clarion on the charge of bootlegging at Eagle Grove. Judge Clock fined him $550 which he paid on the spot and still had some left in his roll.

Thos. Langford of Boone township was arrested last week and a still found in his possession, which had just been completed. He was fined $350 and being without funds is now boarding with Sheriff Lang.

Fred Subject of Clarion was fined $500 last week for driving an auto while intoxicated. He placed a mortgage on his home in order to pay the fine.

The liquor charge against Otis Whiteside of Clarion will probably be tried the last of this week.

When the Graegert hog case was being investigated by the grand jury one of the main witnesses, Geo. Payne, left for Missouri. Sheriff Lang got in touch with the officers of that state and as a result Payne was placed in jail. Depuy Johnson is now in Missouri and will return with Payne on Thursday. The Gegert case is expected to come up for trial next week.—Monitor.

A CHALLENGE

There is too much buck passing going on in connection with prohibition in Iowa at the present time.

This is the challenge thrown to public officials and to citizens of the state in a general appeal issued by Supt. S. P. McNaught of the Iowa Anti-Saloon League.

"The shrinking citizen who sits back and watches repeated violations of the prohibition law without going before officials of his city or county with the information necessary to bring immediate action, is not performing his duty either to the state or the naton," says McNaught in his appeal. "Officials cannot prosecute or bring liquor violators to justice unless our citizens realize that it is their duty to go on the witness stand and testify if necessary and be willing to serve when called on juries. It is time that the people thruout the entire state awakened to a realization of this stern fact."

The prohibition leader also takes to task those law enforcement officers who are "weakly passing the buck to the citizens and saying that they cannot do their duty until the people came to their aid."

"It is the law of Iowa that the sheriff of every county must be continually on the alert and exercise all his resources at all times to ferret out crimes of any kind," says McNaught. "Even if 90 percent of the people of the community should refuse to co-operate it is still the duty of the sheriff to run down every liquor violator and bring him to justice. obtaining the evidence himself if there is no other way to get it."

"Let their be an end to this buck passing," says the Iowa dry leader.

Leo Kenefick is expected home for the Christmas holidays from Fort Collins, Colorado, next week Sunday Leo has been attending college there for the past two years or so.

OW-W-W!

Advocate: The Dows contingent at the football game in Belmond last Thursday proved themselves ladies and gentlemen in every situation. A group of rooters, members of the Howling Coyotes, were repeatedly insulted by Belmond rooters in spite of insistent protests made to the "police." We are anxiously looking forward to next season's game when the Belmond rooters will have an opportunity to learn what courtesy in Dows means. We also anticipate with pleasure the possibility of turning the drunks away from the game for we don't need their money and we refuse to have them with us when we are in charge of the game.

BELMOND SCHOOL NOTES

The Girls' Glee club under the direction of Miss Hill gave their operetta last night.

Friday night there will be a good game. Sheffield plays here, and as they have been playing for some time our teams will have some real work ahead of them. Come out and see the games Friday night. Both teams, boys and girls. will play. The following is the basket ball schedule for the season:

Dec 10, Klemme, here
Dec. 14, Sheffield, here
Dec. 21, Alumni.
Jan. 11, Mason City, there
Jan. 18, Corwith, here
Jan. 22, Sheffield, there
Jan. 26, Hampton, there
Feb. 1, Dows, here
Feb. 8, Dows, there
Feb. 15, Garner, here
Feb. 22, Clarion, there
Feb. 29, Open
May 7, Tournament

On Thursday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock will be held the second round of our local debate series. The first round was closely contested and the best 12 out of 24 chosen. Anyone wishing to hear these debates is welcome to come.

"Resolved, That the U. S. Should Further Restrict Immigration."

Affirmative: Edwin Christie, Ruth Knudson, Everill Thompson.

Negative: Raymond Stapley, Gail Thompson, Mildred Hauge.

At five o'clock—

Affirmative: Wm. Tyrrell, Katherine Thiltgen, Lewis Parsons.

Negative: Samuel Leinbach, Elma Stapley, Alpha Johnson.

Alex Smith won the typewriting medal in the beginning class last week.

Raymond Stapley of the Senior Normal Training class, substituted for Miss Quigley, Monday afternoon.

Everill Thompson substituted for Miss Rohrbach in the kindergarten one day last week.

Herbert Steenblock and Harold Jenison of the Senior Commercial class won the Underwood certificate for writing more than 30 words per minute.

Pleasant Township Girl Takes Own Life

The community was shocked last Friday morning to learn of the tragic death of Miss Gail Bohning, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Bohning, who committed suicide by hanging herself from a tree in the grove near the farm home.

The rash deed is thought to have been caused by excessive religious study and worry, coupled with a fancied financial difficulty. The deed was committed some time during the forenoon, the body being found about 11:00 o'clock by one of the family. Another sister has become dangerously ill from the shock. The family have the deepest sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Funeral services were held Sunday at St. John's Lutheran church, the pastor, Rev. Wippermann, officiating and interment was in Franklin Grove cemetery.

Deceased was 23 years of age.

The Ladies Aid society will hold their regular monthly business meeting in the parlors of the church on Thursday afternoon at 2:30. This is the time for the regular election of officers and all are urged to be present.

Belmond Wins First Games Of Season

Klemme's Teams Fall First Victim To Belmond's Speed In Double Header Monday.

SHEFFIELD HERE FRIDAY

The first basket ball game of the season was played Monday night at the school gym, when the boys' and girls' teams of Belmond and Klemme played a double header.

Belmond was handicapped by the absence of Tyrrell and Stapley who are still out of the game from their injuries received in the Thanksgiving foot ball game. However, the home teams both managed to demonstrate some class and won both the games, the boys 24 to 12 and the girls 15 to 14.

Another double header is scheduled for Friday night of this week, when Sheffield comes over. It is hoped that the public will support the basket ball teams as well or better than the foot ball games Belmond should show a winning combination again this year, and it is expected that the team will be a contender in the state tournament next spring

IN RE LAW ENFORCEMENT

Belmond, Ia., Dec. 10, 1923.
Editor, Independent,
Dear Sir:

In the Dec. 6 issue of your paper appears an article entitled "No Cause for Alarm Over Prohibition In Iowa." This article gives much cause for encouragement to those who believe in law enforcement.

That much progress has been made and that still more will be made, no one doubts. But there is danger that this sort of thing may cause overconfidence and put us to sleep on this question. This article states that practically all the county attorneys of Iowa agreed that indifferent public opinion is the chief barrier to law enforcement. Also one said "If the people who complain of loose law enforcement would go to court and tell what they know conditions would be better." Not much sugar coating on that pill, is there?

That conditions locally are not all they should be is very evident to any one who has eyes to see with and a nose to smell with. Especially is this true when a celebration or anything in the nature of a big day is on in our city. A high school boy recently made the statement that one could buy booze in most any of the surrounding towns, but that it was easier to get here than elsewhere.

There is no disposition on the part of the writer to find fault with our officials on this score, for I believe most of them are all right and will enforce the law if our citizens will do their part. It is certainly a thankless task to try to enforce the law without the backing of public sentiment. Our officers cannot do the job alone. If we believe in law enforcement, well and good, but it is not enough. "Even so Faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone." James 2-17. Our part of the task is not done until we have done everything within our power to help our officers enforce the law. If by any chance any official is not in sympathy with law enforcement, he should resign and give place to one who does so believe and will do his best with the support which the community will give him

The article refered to says that according to one county attorney 95 percent of the bootlegging in his county is done by alien residents.

Question: Who drinks the booze?

Now a man is not to blame for the fact that he happened to be born in some other country than ours, but the law holds him guilty if he violates the law and by so doing becomes an undesirable alien. On conviction for the second offense, if not the first he should be deported. Aliens must be made to obey the law whether they become citizens or not.

Respectfully yours.

A SUBSCRIBER.

The Progress Club met with Mrs. S. U. Lienbach this week Tuesday.

Miss Sadie Frohling is reported quite seriously ill this week.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov. 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

HE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

LOCALS

Mrs. Ray Swope and children from Clarion were visiting with friends in Belmond, Friday.

F. P. Dibble and John Brooks autoed to Fort Dodge last Saturday on some business matters.

Rev. and Mrs. E. Van Farame of Kanawha were callers here on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Townsan were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris of Rowan.

J. F. Bell of Alexander was a business caller in town last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son of Alexander were guests with relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arends and family were visitors at Alexander on Saturday.

Messrs. Mitchell and Block from Canada, relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polmateer of near Alexander, are visiting at the Polmateer home, arriving last Saturday.

Chas. Peterson and family from Hampton were visiting his mother and Mrs. Peterson's people in Belmond, Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Dunn and Mrs. A. Beenen and daughter, Dortha, of Alexander, were business callers here on Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Christie had the misfortune to fall down stairs at her daughter's, Mrs. W. C. Tyrrell's, home, last Saturday. She was badly bruised and suffered a severe shaking up, but is reported as coming along nicely.

Mrs. Jessie Reader, daughter Rena (Mrs. Edgar Jones), and son, Harry were in attendance at the funeral of Mr. Earheart. They were formerly residents of Belmond, Mrs. Reader now residing at Fort Madison, and Mrs. Jones and Harry at Davenport.

Geo. Norris, Sr., last week purchased the Chas. White farm near Rowan, possession to be received the first of March. The reported consideration was $10,000.

Don't forget that basket ball game Friday night between Belmond and Sheffield.

Harold Wallace returned Saturday from Iowa City, where he had been the past week for treatment at the state hospital.

Mrs. M. H. Hanson and son, Verdel, were callers at Iowa City most of last week, where Verdel received treatment at the hospital. They re-returned Friday, and enroute home stopped at Cedar Rapids to visit the Belmond students at Coe College

Stenography Banking Salesmanship Telegraphy ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES

Educate or Success. Position for each graduate Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Writ. for free catalog.

Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

Kinseth's Store News

Did you see our ad last week? Nothing in it, was there? That wasn't because we didn't have anything to say, but we were too rushin' busy waiting on folks to get an ad ready, and we wanted you to keep our store in mind anyway.

—K—

Now this week we're offering you some dandy Christmas specials and suggestions. For instance we have sugared walnut dates, candied figs, apricots and oranges. And boxes of candy. And special Christmas candies at 22c to 28c a pound, candy you can give your boy or girl without fear.

—K—

We have ladies fancy bedroom slippers at 98c, children's slippers and shoes, the same for women, and some dandy men's shoes.

And women's and children's real sweaters.

—K—

If you want a nice box to send a gift away in, or give to your best girl, we have some fancy, dandy Christmas boxes, just the thing.

—K—

We've got everything you need or want to eat, including fresh ludefisk. A full and complete line of groceries that are fresh and tasty.

—K—

All you need to do is follow the crowds to the Store on the Corner.

—K—

Oh yes, nuts of all kinds at 20c to 30c a pound. And Jonathan apples at 2.65 to 2.85 a box and Black Twig at 1.75 a bushel and Ganos at 1.50.

Can Assure Low Rate for March Closings

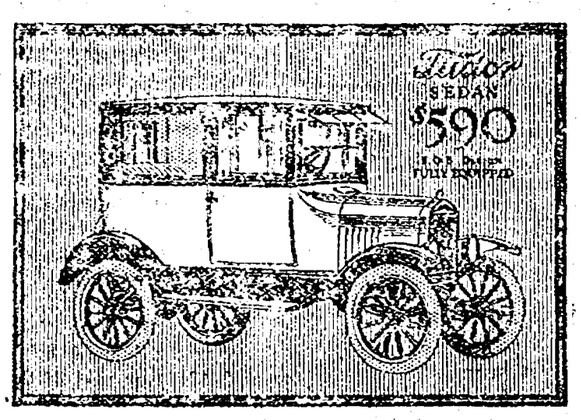
MR. FARMER: We have the best and cheapest loan for you.

On the co-operative plan.

Long time amortized loan.

The WISE FARMER will place his application at once, while he can be assured of funds for March 1st closing.

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND
IOWA



Give One For Christmas

The Tudor Sedan is a gift every member of the family will share. It adds to daily happiness. It will extend the joyous spirit of Christmas to every day of the year.

This new Ford type is of an exceptionally pleasing design. Wide doors opening forward, folding right front seat, and a roomy interior make it a convenient car to use; its high radiator, broad cowl, sun visor, and large windows make it stylish in appearance. Yet it is sold at the lowest price ever asked for a Sedan—only $590 f.o.b. Detroit.

The rich, permanent luster of its finish, the quiet good taste of its upholstery, and the ornamental treatment of its full-nickeled hardware, all help to make it a car you are proud to drive.

This Car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

BELMOND AUTO COMPANY
Belmond, Iowa

Fordson
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

PUBLIC SALE

AS I AM MOVING TO ROWAN, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION, ON THE F. L. KERCHEVAL FARM, 6 MILES SOUTH, 1-2 MILE WEST OF BELMOND, 1 1-2 MILES NORTH AND 1-2 MILE WEST OF SALSBERG, ON

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 19

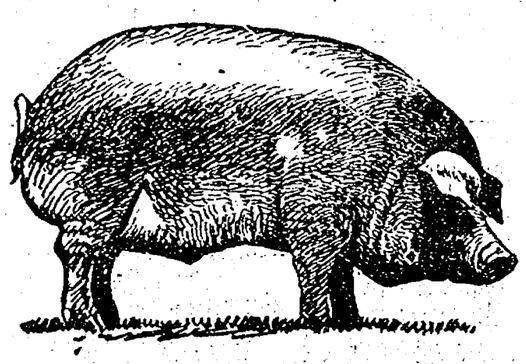
COMMENCING AT 11:00 O'CLOCK SHARP, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY

5 - Head of Horses - 5

1 BAY MARE, 11 YRS. OLD, WT. 1300
1 BLACK MARE, 12 YRS. OLD, WT. 1450
1 BROWN MARE, 11 YRS. OLD, WT. 1200
1 BROWN MARE, 15 YRS. OLD, WT. 1050
1 BROWN MARE, 12 YRS. OLD, WT. 1550

33 - Head of Cattle - 33

5 STEERS, COMING 2 YRS. OLD
1 RED POLL BULL, 7 MONTHS OLD
5 RED HEIFERS, COMING 3 YRS. OLD
1 BLACK HEIFER WITH YOUNG CALF
1 RED CALF
3 DAIRY HEIFERS, COMING 2 YRS.
1 BLACK HEIFER, COMING 2 YRS. OLD
2 BLACK HEIFERS, COMING 2 YRS. OLD
5 HEAD OF CALVES, 4 STEERS, 1 HEIFER
1 PURE BRED ROAN SHORTHORN BULL, 2 YRS. OLD
8 HEAD OF COWS, 5 FRESH NOW, BALANCE THIS SPRING



29 Hogs 29

1 3-YR. OLD REGISTERED SOW
15 BARROWS, WT. 150 TO 175 LBS.
1 YEARLING PURE BRED DUROC BOAR
12 PURE BRED GILTS, bred t o farrow in March, all hogs eligible to registry

125 - HEAD OF POULTRY - 125

800 BUSHELS OF CORN
8 BUSHELS YELLOW SEED CORN
15 TONS TIMOTHY HAY
1 STACK OF STRAW

Farm Machinery, and Other Articles

1 saddle
1 hay rack
1 drag cart
1 buggy pole
1 corn sheller
2 sets flynets
Chicken coops
1 single harness
1 Case gang plow
Shovels, forks, etc.
3 riding cultivators
2 pairs of bob sleds
1 20-ft. steel harrow
1 16-ft. steel harrow
1 Dain hay buck, new
1 11-ft. McCormick rake
1 11-ft. low down seeder
2 sets breeching harness
Hog troughs and barrels
1 set double driving harness
1 5-ft. Deering mower, new
1 single top buggy, nearly new
1 low wide tire wagon and box
1 8-ft. Deering binder, nearly new
1 16-wheel Osborne disc, nearly new
1 set 1 1-4-inch low hame harness, new
1 16-inch John Deere sulky, nearly new
1 Hayes corn planter with 100 rods wire
1 low wide tire wagon, 3 boxes, nearly new
1 high wheel 3-box Webber wagon, nearly new

QUANTITY OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS, INCLUDING:
1 Cupboard
1 Oak Sideboard
1 25-gal. Stone Jar
1 Cold Water Separator

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 10 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

COWLEY & MUNNIS, Auctioneers
F B. SHELDON, Clerk

Clinton F. Kercheval

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

J. B. O'Connor, Pastor.

There is but on thing to do with dead things, that is to bury them. A church is no exception. Every dead church in the world would be better off buried. I mean the world would be better off if the dead churches were buried. The stench of them becomes obnoxious to a community. That is the reason people shun them. People love living things. People love a live church and they will go to a live church. Get life in your church and your crowd proposition is solved. Let the stages of death set in and your crowd proposition is solved also, but the crowd will be elsewhere.

We are glad for the signs of life in our church. The people would not come if they were not interested. A live people make for a live church. A dead people make for a dead church. I appreciate more than I can express your manifested interest in the church. You are present twice every Sunday. You are alive to the interest of the church is why you are there. Those who are not interested are not there. You are making success possible. Keep on going and watch our church go also. Let's push for the best ever this Sunday, what say you?

Sunday school at 10 a m.
Morning worship at 11.
Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Evening worship at 7:30.
Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p m.

Surday morning we have a number of new members to receive into the church and the Sacrement of the Lord's Supper will be observed at this service.

Special music will feature these services. Come and bring some one with you. You are always welcome and we will do our best to make you feel at home.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The regular services for next Sunday morning and night. We extend a hearty welcome to any one who is not a member of another church in our community to come and worship with us.

Our annual dinner the 27th, and it now looks as tho we were going to be able to close our year with all obligations met and a little balance on hand to start the new year. We feel grateful for the hearty co-operation of the members and friends of the church in this as well as in every way.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the parsonage.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. No morning service.

English service at 7:30. Come and bring others with you.

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Thursday afternoon the South Ladies' Aid meets at the home of Mrs. John Hill.

Thursday afternoon prayer meeting at 2 o'clock at the home of Andrew Olson.

Sunday morning services in the Norwegian language at 11 o'clock. Come and invite others too.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa
12-8-'23.

Special meeting of Town Council held in town hall, on call of Mayor Sullivan, for the purpose of considering the passage of a certain Ordinance pertaining to Electric Light rates. Mayor Sullivan presiding.

Members present: Russell, Dorenkamp, Simerson.

Absent: Papousek.

Councilman Russell presented the following Ordinance:

ORDINANCE NO. 128

An Ordinance repealing Ordinance No. 117 and fixing maximum rates to be charged for electric commercial and residential lighting in the Town of Belmond, Iowa.

Section 1. Ordinance No. 117 of the Ordinances of the Town of Belmond, Iowa, is hereby repealed.

Section 2. The Iowa Falls Electric Company is hereby authorized to charge, collect, and receive for electric residential and commercial lighting hereafter furnished by it to the inhabitants of the Town of Belmond, Iowa, not to exceed the following rates based on monthly consumption of any one customer.

For the first (30) thirty Kilowatt Hours used not to exceed (14c) fourteen cents per Kilowatt Hour.

For the next (30) thirty Kilowatt Hours used not to exceed (12c) twelve cents per Kilowatt Hour.

For all consumption in excess of (60) sixty Kilowatt Hours not to exceed (8c) eight cents per Kilowatt Hour.

But shall not be required to charge less than ($1.00) one dollar for any monthly bill.

Upon bills not paid within ten days after being rendered the Company may charge one cent per Kilowatt Hour in addition to the foregoing rates.

The consumption in each store or building shall be metered separately and each meter shall constitute a separate customer.

Moved by Russell, seconded by Dorenkamp, that Ordinance No. 128 be read the first time.

Ayes: Russell, Dorenkamp, Simerson.

Nays: None.

Absent: Papousek.

Moved by Russell, seconded by Dorenkamp, that the rules be suspended and that Ordinance No. 128 be accepted and passed by one reading.

Ayes: Russell, Dorenkamp, Simerson.

Nays: None.

Absent: Papousek.

Moved by Dorenkamp, seconded by Simerson, that Ordinance No. 128 be placed upon its passage.

Ayes: Simerson, Dorenkamp, Russel.

Nays: None.

Absent: Papousek.

Moved by Russell, seconded by Dorenkamp, that Ordinance No. 128 do now pass.

Ayes: Simerson, Russell, Dorenkamp.

Nays: None.

Absnt: Papousek.

Mayor Sullivan declared Ordinance No. 128 duly passed.

On motion and second, Council adjourned.

GUY BYERS,
Clerk.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

Nice Things for Gifts

THERE IS ONLY ONE SUCH TIME O' YEAR AS CHRISTMAS AND IT IS FITTING AND PROPER THAT WE REMEMBER IT WITH THOUGHTFULNESS FOR OTHERS. FOR YOUR SELECTION WE OFFER

Sleds
Skates
Knives
Cutlery
Air Guns
Aluminum
Silver Ware
Carving Sets
Safety Razors
Embroidery Sets
Ingersol Watches
Electric Appliances

AND SCORES OF OTHERS. MAKE YOUR GIFT A USEFUL ONE. WE WILL BE GLAD TO SHOW YOU THE MANY USEFUL AND APPROPRIATE GIFTS FOR EVERY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

GRIESY'S
THE FRIENDLY STORE

Feel this Power!

Give yourself a treat! Get into an Overland Sedan and "step on it"! The sensation of power is wonderful. The bigger new engine makes you master of traffic and hills! And the Triplex springs (Patented) give the road comfort of a long, heavy car. Before buying any car, find out how much better you will like an Overland. The price has just been reduced. Ask us for a demonstration.

Nordschow Motor Company
Belmond, Iowa

Overland Sedan $795
f.o.b. Toledo

Closing Out

PUBLIC SALE

HAVING DECIDED TO QUIT FARMING, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION, AT MY PLACE, THE OLE THOMPSON FARM, AT OLAF, ON

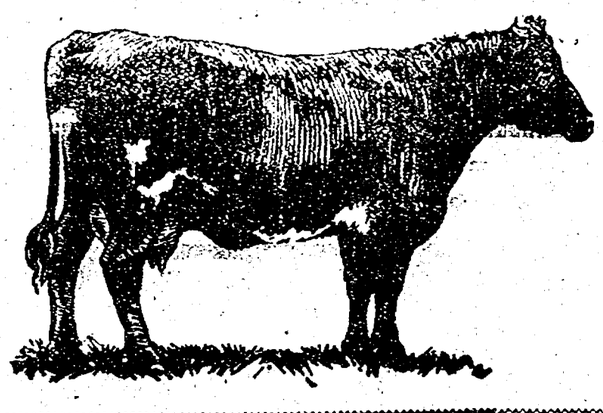
Monday, December 17

COMMENCING AT 12:00 O'CLOCK SHARP, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

12 - Head of Horses - 12

4 BLACK MARES — 1 BLACK GELDING — 1 BAY GELDING
Ranging in age from 4 to 10 yrs. old, average wt. 1100 to 1700
1 COLT, 1 YEAR OLD — 1 SUCKLING COLT — 2 SHETLAND COLTS
2 SHETLAND PONIES, perfectly gentle. Any child can drive them.

45 - Head of Cattle - 45



10 Good Milk Cows
A FEW FRESH, BALANCE FRESH IN FEBRUARY

11 Calves
BALANCE CATTLE GOOD STEERS AND HEIFERS, 1 AND 2 YEARS OLD

30 Head of Good Shoats 30

FARM MACHINERY, ETC.

1 drag
2 wagons
4 cultivators
1 grindstone
1 corn planter
2 good sulky plows
1 manure spreader
1 gas engine, 1 1-2 h. p.
3 sets 1 1-2-inch harness
1 McCormick binder, 8-ft.
1 McCormick mower, good as new
1 new John Deere elevator, 38-ft.
Many other articles

Geo. Baldridge Will Serve Lunch At Noon

TERMS: $10 AND UNDER, CASH. OVER THAT AMOUNT 11 MONTHS TIME WILL BE GIVEN ON BANKABLE NOTES BEARING 8 PER CENT INTEREST. ALL PROPERTY TO BE SETTLED FOR ON DAY OF SALE.

A. B. ERICKSON,
H. BRUMMOND, Auctioneers

FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
Kanawha, Clerk

G. C. COOK

MESERVEY SECTION

MESERVEY SCHOOL NOTES

7th AND 8th GRADES: Dorothy Schlesselman was absent from school Tuesday afternoon.

Virgil Sprau was absent Wednesday.

7th grade students having perfect spelling lessons during the past week were: Alma Dorenkamp, Bert Fry, Laura Bier, Marie Pals, and Lydia Pannkuk.

Dorothy Schlesselman in the 8th grade also had perfect lessons.

Rev Schlesselman conducted the quarterly conference at the Sheffield and West Fork appointments, beginning last Friday evening, ending with the Sunday evening services at Sheffield

---

E. G. Thomas was confined to his home by a severe attack of a chronic weakness last Sunday.

Mrs. F. C. Sprau, Frank and Rozelle and Mrs. Ott Strasburg autoed to Cedar Falls last Sunday to visit her daughter, Eva, for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Greenlander of Belmond visited at the B. Bruns home last Sunday.

The W. M. S. annual Thank Offering program given at the Evang. church last Sunday morning, following the Sabbath school, was well attended and the different parts enjoyed. "The house beside the Road" was well rendered by Miss Sylvia Bloom, and a reading "Her Morning Mail", a monologue, given by Mrs. E. S. Barker was also much appreciated. The offering of the morning was $43.56 with more to come in.

Rev. and Mrs. Schlesselman and son Paul and Mrs. Mary Butz motored to Mason City last Monday calling on Helen Hartwig who is at the Park hospital following her operation performed there last Thursday. They report her getting along very well, considering everything.

L. B. Hulsebus, wife and baby and Louise Witt went to Dows Sunday to make that their home having been given possession of the house which they leased.

The "Big Day" put on here by the Shipping Assc. was largely attended and all seemed well pleased with the outcome. The free lunch at noon was quite a drawing card and those who availed themselves of the opportunity were well satisfied with the eats. All around, it was a busy day for those who had things in charge also the merchants were kept busy, and everything went off smoothly.

Mrs. H. K. Pals and Mrs. C. K. Pals and son Raymond went to Mason City last Wednesday where Mrs. H. K. and Raymond had their tonsils removed. They returned Thursday and are getting along nicely.

Herman Kaduce departed last Wednesday for Kansas City, Missouri, where he entered the Sweeny Automotive and Electrical school to take up a course of study in that line.

Mrs. L. B. Hulsebus and baby returned from Mason City, last Thursday to remain the balance of the week at the A. J. Nissen home

---

C. Friesleben of Belmond spent several days at the home of his son, Henry, the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Cooper are rejoicing over the arrival of a new daughter, born Thursday night.

Jno. H. Wenzel left for DeKalb and Streator, Ill., for a week or ten days' visit.

On Monday Wm Messelheiser received word of the death of his sister's husband, Wm. Dubbert of LeMars. Ed. Messelheiser of Britt and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Zieman from Thornton joined him here Tuesday, together driving across by auto to attend the funeral.

Chas. Pine and son of Mason City visited at the W. R. Prelipp home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Henn of Belmond took dinner at the S. P. Fischer home last Sunday. In the p. m. they drove to Sheffield to visit a short time with relatives.

Geo. Meyers of Thornton was calling in town on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fischer were at Mason City, Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boelman and daughter Grace were Belmond callers last Friday where the latter had dental work done.

James Hanna and family and Mrs Ellen McNeely of Hansell were Sunday guests at the W. F. Butz home.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Kriens of Freeport, Ill., left Sunday for their home after spending a week at the Mike Halfwassen home Mrs Kriens and Mrs. Halfwassen are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Coulter and family of Hampton visited at the Halfwassen home Sunday

---

The Helping Hand society will meet at the Evang church basement on Thursday p. m. Dec. 20 for their annual meeting and election of officers. Mrs. S. P. Fischer will be hostess. All members expected to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stadtlander were visitors at the Watermiller home at Kanawha last Thursday.

G. Lauster and Dale Smith were business callers at Belmond on last Tuesday.

T. Lieuwen and A. J. Nissen were business callers at Buffalo Center and Lakota last Wednesday.

Buy a Radio for Christmas. See Hienie.

APPLES! Greenings and Malindas. Bushel basket $1.00. Bring basket or sack.—W. F. Butz. Phone 404. 52tfc

---

Discharged

Judge—You are charged with running down a policeman. What have you to say for yourself?

Motorist—I didn't know he was an officer, your honor. I thought he was a pedestrian.

A Little Mistake

"As I was crossin' the bridge the other day," said an Irishman, "I met Pat O'Brien. "O'Brien," says I, "how are you?" "Pretty well, thank ye, Brady," says he. "Brady!" says I, "that is not my name." "Faith," says he, "and' mine's not O'Brien."

With that we again looked at each other, and sure enough it was nayther of us!"

Where He Got Off

She—When a man who bores me terribly, asks me where I live I always say in the suburbs.

He—And where do you live?

She—In the suburbs.

The Dividing Line

"When does a girl reach womanhood?" asked a headline. We should say when she ceases to wish for two birthdays a year and begins to wish for one birthday every two years.

The Same Class

"You know, Henry, that a woman's mercy is like the gentle rain from Heaven," said Mrs. Peckmoore

"On the day set for the Sunday school picnic," agreed Mr. Pecmore making swift use of the exit.

Ethel: "Why did you insist on a civil wedding before the church ceremony?"

Clara: Really, my dear, I thot it best to familarize myself with court proceedings at the start."

According to Orders

Lady (purchasing thermometer) —And would you be so kind as to set it at 65, because that's what the doctor says I must keep the room at.

Dave Enabnit and family returned the first of last week from a trip to Cedar Falls where they visited a few days at the home of her parents.

Grandma Smith of Oliva Minn., and Mrs. Gilbert Smith of Paynesville arrived last Friday to visit with relatives, Grandma remaining here for the winter.

FOOT BALL GAME

The high school against the world foot ball game last Friday turned out in favor of the high school, 18-0. It was a pretty hard fight because the men were so darn heavy. No great casualties were reported.

On Thursday, Nov. 29 occured the marriage of Mrs. N. Prelipp to Ernest Unverferth. They will live on the Unverferth farm. Best wishes go with them.

John Freese and family of Iowa Falls were Sunday visitors at the P. H. Pals home.

Now is the time to

BUY YOUR BEEF

By the Quarter

Prices are right

We also handle canned Pork and Beans, Sardines, Etc.

Cheese---all kinds.

Butter and Oleomargarine

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Rulter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

THE best footing your car can get on rain-swept streets and slippery hills is the gripping All-Weather Tread of a Goodyear Tire. The high, thick, sharp-edged blocks of that famous tread take a slipless hold and hang on with a wedgelike action that prevents side-slip or skidding.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

Belmond Motor Sales Company

GOODYEAR

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Don't Neglect That

Battery

Let us recharge it for you and put it in shape for the winter---and last but not least, better put in a non-freezing solution in your radiator.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

OUR MOTTO---"QUALITY FIRST"

Only Ten Days Left

To Do Your Xmas Shopping

AND WE INVITE YOU TO CALL AND SEE OUR LINE OF PRACTICAL GIFTS, SUITABLE FOR ALL MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY OR FOR YOUR FRIENDS.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

IS COMPLETE AND GOODS ALWAYS FRESH

Occident and Mother's Flour

ARE RECEIVED FRESH EVERY TWO WEEKS. BOTH BRANDS GUARANTEED.

Poultry and Eggs Wanted

YOURS FOR SQUARE DEALING

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

Christmas Gifts

are usually costly and often of little material value---

Why not give your boy or girl one of our Liberty Bell Savings Banks? They will add to their happiness and at the same time help mould their character.

We furnish these banks FREE of charge with a deposit of one dollar or more. Spendthrifts are always failures.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY, IOWA

Red Top

GUARANTEED

Double Strength Studded Tee

Steel Fence Posts

A Complete Line of

BUILDING MATERIAL

Make use of it while the good weather is still with us.

Let us order your Storm Sash now.

HARD AND SOFT COAL

ROOFING STORM DOORS

SALT WOVEN WIRE

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Res. Phone 17

YOUR WIFE---

PROBABLY SHE IS WONDERING IF YOU CARE HOW HARD SHE MUST WORK TO KEEP YOUR HOME AS YOU BOTH WOULD HAVE IT.

SHOW HER YOU DO CARE--GIVE HER A WOODROW THIS CHRISTMAS, AND RELIEVE HER OF HER HARDEST TASK—THE FAMILY WASH. THERE ARE POWER MACHINES FOR THE FARM HOME AND THE COST IS SURPRISINGLY LOW.

JOIN OUR CHRISTMAS CLUB

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

ROWAN NEWS

Rowan Congregational Church Notes

Morning worship at 10:30. Sunday school at 11:30. Senior Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Evening service at 7:30. Junior Endeavor Wednesday at 4 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday 7:30 p. m.

Miss Frances Farran has been appointed chairman of the Christmas program, and work on a cantata has already been begun.

The Ladies Aid is much pleased with the patronage accorded them by the community at their annual bazaar and supper Saturday.

The total receipts were $118.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Erickson, who have been assisting at the Chas. Peddle home, are moving into the Roy Hyde house for the winter.

L. N. Johnson of Sioux Falls, was here last week visiting his wife and children at the F. H. Fowler home.

Mrs. J. I. Drury and children who have been visiting at the F. H. Fowler home returned to their home at Highmore, S. D., Wednesday.

Mrs. Matie Jameson and daughter Margaret arrived from Homedale, Idaho, last Friday. She expects to remain with her mother, Mrs. J. D. Brooks, thru the winter. She arrived in Rowan on her mother's 84th birthday.

Bert Frizzel arrived last Thursday from Estherville to spend a few days visiting his sisters, Mrs. Dan Fletcher and Mrs. H. B. Ketchum.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Richards took Mrs. John Richards to Iowa Falls on Wednesday, where on Friday she had a bad goitre removed at the Ellsworth hospital. She stood the operation nicely and is recovering rapidly.

Mrs. Roy Hyde was ill with the grippe several days last week and was unable to attend to her duties at the post office. Miss Stella Emerson assisted in her place.

Mrs. Allen Boyington arrived from Dolliver, Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. Elmer Boyington. From here she went to Dows to see her mother, Mrs T. Townsend who has been very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Al French departed for Chicago, Sunday, where he will undergo an examination and possibly an operation.

F. B. Sheldon's have been entertaining her cousin, Mrs. Jno. Weber, and two sons, of Highmore. They arrived Wednesday from Iowa Falls where they have been visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boyington arrived last week for an extended visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Boyington.

The Iowa township Farm Bureau meeting was held Tuesday at the J. Peddle home. The meeting was in charge of Lyle Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harris were Belmond callers last Friday.

Mrs L. W. McKinley was on the sick list several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Kercheval and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval were Mason City shoppers Wednesday.

Rowan again won the honors in basket ball Friday evening, when our teams played Goodell here. The boys won 42-18 and the girls 50-7.

The women of the Home Missionary society met with Mrs. Osborn on Wednesday afternoon. Plans were made to send a box of new and old Christmas toys to Sioux City. If you wish to donate bring donation to Mrs. G. W. Whitten.

Guy Toyne was in Chicago the first of the week.

G. S. Liming and daughter Lorine went to Hampton Thursday to see Mrs. Liming, who is in the sanitorium there for treatment.

The ladies division of the Farm Bureau meets with Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen Friday afternoon, Dec. 14. A Christmas program will be given and there will be an exchange of Christmas gifts. Each lady is to bring a gift not to exceed 20 cents in value, and each child a gift not to exceed 10 cents in value.

G. R. Stumph who has been husking corn in this vicinity, departed Saturday for Mason City.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Harris, a fine 8-pound baby boy, Friday, Dec. 7.

Pete Mathiason of Coulter was a Rowan visitor Friday.

Everett Spears was the participant in an auto accident Thursday in which he luckily escaped injury except for a few bruises. As he was driving along the north and south road by the E. W. Azeltine farm, speeding quite rapidly, his car turned turtle over the embankment at the end of the bridge. The car was quite badly demolished

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werhsze spent Wednesday at the Vern Early home in Dumont.

Mrs. Fred Webber and children spent part of last week visiting relatives in Manson.

Frank Kercheval, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kercheval and Miss LaVonne Ballou autoed to Hampton last Thursday.

The high school operetta was given for the second time in the school building Tuesday evening of this week. These young people are expecting to go to Latimer to give the operetta at that place.

A. J. Azeltne received news of the death of a nephew at Sioux Falls, S. D., Wednesday.

Mesdames Chester Conn, and Tim Weld and children, if Bruce, Wisconsin, arrived Saturday to visit for a few weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fletcher and other relatives and friends. They visited at Ft Dodge with their sister, Mrs. M. A. Sullivan, before coming here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder went to Geneva, Thursday, to visit a cousin of his whom he had not seen fir 25 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Unger and the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Combs, spent Sunday at the home Mrs. Mary Braden.

Mrs. L. R. Fitz and Mrs. Gay Fletcher and children were Dows callers Friday.

Rev. and Mrs. Osborn returned on Friday from Farhamville, where they had been attending a homecoming and banquet in connection with the building of a new church. Rev. Os- gave an address at this gathering.

The Mission Study club of the Cong. church met Thursday evening with Mrs. Fred Kercheval. Miss Frances Farran is the leader

Wm. Purdy and daughter, Miss Rena, of Belmond, were down Saturday evening attending the Cong. bazaar and supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kercheval and Fred Frances were Sunday guests at the Albert Fetrow home near Belmond.

Mrs. Allen Boyington, who has been visiting here and at Dows, returned to her home at Estherville, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Elmer Boyington, who expects to stay for several days.

H. J. C. Box is building a barn on his lot east of the Cong. church. Alfred Boyington is assisting with the carpenter work.

Mrs. C. T. Halbert has been appointed community chairman of the Harding Memorial fund by the county chairman.

L. A. McCallum is erecting a new building for his machinery stock.

Wm. Baines arrived Saturday evening from Montgomery, Ia. He intends to go west with his sister, Mrs. Hannah Whtten and family in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Azeltine, Mr. and Mrs. Murtel Myers were Hampton visitors Saturday.

S. B. Heath and V. E. Munson wore in Belmond last Tuesday.

The Misses Lorine Liming and Garnette Stumph spent Saturday at the J. E. Miller home in Clarion.

The H. S. Orchestra met for practice with Miss Nabholtz Monday evening.

Mrs. R. H. Keith, Kenneth and Margaret Jameson autoed to Hampton, Saturday.

Chas. White sold his farm to Geo. Norris from near Belmond the past week. Considration was $10,000. We understand possession will be given March 1.

Mrs. W. H. Whitten and daughter, Elfreida, were Hampton visitors on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Townsan from Belmond were Sunday visitors at the D. E. Harris home.

Miss Gretta Boyington of Dows came up Sunday to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Riley went to Fort Dodge, Monday.

Supt. Holliday went to Cedar Falls on Friday to attend a teachers' convention.

Philip Klineshrodt returned from Fairmont, Minn., Wednesday. He had been visiting relatives ther for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peddle and Mrs. Geo. Whitten were Hampton visitors Saturday.

Mrs. F. H. Brooks entertained several guests at dininer last Tuesday evening, in honor of Mrs. J. D. Brook's 84th birthday.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Sunday school at 10 a. m.
Morning worship at 11.
Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.
Evening worship at 7:30.
Wednesday evening Bible study and prayer meeting.

We have been fortunate in securing Dr. J. W. Mahood and his singer for a two weeks' series of meetings. The meetings will begin on Dec. 26.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mrs. E. E. Butler and son from Hampton visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Arends, several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Butterbaugh and children were Belmond callers on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas and Mrs. George Yaw of Iowa Falls were Sunday visitirs at the F. D. Rodemeyer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Winwood and daughter Mary, were callers at the county seat last Tuesday.

John F. Bell was transacting business at Belmond last Friday.

Mrs. Mary Hall was called to Hampton last week by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Beenen visited with relatives at Eldora on last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Peters and daughters were business callers at Eagle Grove last Friday.

Mrs. George Dunn and daughter Margaret were Belmond callers on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bohlen, Mrs. Oscar Hensel, and Mrs. Edd Butler autoed to Mason City last Friday.

Mrs. Jim Were visited with relatives at Popejoy several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bell and children and Miss Nellie Bell were business callers at Hampton, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son visited with relatives at Belmond on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith were week end guests of relatives at Hampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Finkle and daughter Leona and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Veeder and baby of Hampton were Sunday visitors at the Clarence Smith home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Arends and children of Belmond were callers at Alexander Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and daughters Jessie and Nellie were Hampton visitors Saturday.

Mrs. L. S. Reed and two children

Mr. and Mrs. John Ellsworth returned Wednesday from Oklahoma, City, where they had spent the past two months with Mrs. McCrae, a daughter of Mrs. Ellsworth.

Curtis Deiger and mother went to Chicago, Tuesday, where Mr. Deiger will visit for some time and his mother will return home.

Eli Hetland and family and Geo. Ness accompanied Mrs. Ness to the Hampton hospital Wednesday where she underwent an operation for an abcess on her throat.

The Paul Fanselow family from Dows visited at the Butts home on Saturday.

GOODELL NEW

went to were defe
Casey Bla
Mrs. Dan Mille
Sunday.

Saturday afternoon
held their meeting and tained at the home of Ch
pop. The teachers and Mrs.
Allaben were guests at the me

Miss Eliza Cashman was a bus
ness caller in Garner, Saturday.

Some Belmond young people held a dance Friday evening in the opera house.

Tony Boller and Clement Houghton went to Hampton, Saturday, to see Ruth Ness who is sick at that for a home.

Howard Africa
Kanawha visited the Africas Sunday.

Preparations are being made f

PUBLIC SALE

HAVING DECIDED TO QUIT FARMING, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION ALL MY PERSONAL PROPERTY, AT MY PLACE OF RESIDENCE KNOWN AS THE TINNEY FARM, 5 1-2 MILES EAST OF BELMOND, 2 MILES NORTH AND 2 1-2 MILES WEST OF ALEXANDER, 5 MILES SOUTH AND 2 1-2 MILES WEST OF MESERVEY, 3 MILES SOUTH AND 1-2 MILE EAST OF PALSVILLE, ON

Tuesday, Dec. 18

COMMENCING AT 10:00 O'CLOCK SHARP, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

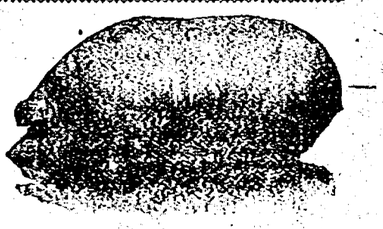
9 - Head of Horses - 9

1 TEAM GREY MARES, 7 and 8 yrs. old, wt. 3200
BAY MARE, 7 yrs. old, wt. 1500
BAY HORSE, 8 yrs. old, wt. 1350
BROWN MARE, 10 yrs. old, wt. 1200
1 SORREL HORSE, 5 yrs. old, wt. 1400
1 GREY HORSE, 10 yrs. old, wt. 1400
1 BLACK HORSE, 11 yrs. old, wt. 1400
BROWN MARE, 6 yrs. old, wt. about 1500

45 Head of Cattle 45

9 TWO-YEAR STEERS
6 TWO-YEAR-OLD HEIFERS
7 ONE-YEAR-OLD STEERS AND HEIFERS, MIXED
9 CALVES
1 ROAN SHORTHORN BULL, 3 YEARS OLD, PURE BRED
14 GOOD MILK COWS, some fresh, others will be soon.

75 Head of Hogs



75 HEAD OF SHOATS, AVERAGING ABOUT 160 POUNDS
1 SPOTTED POLAND CHINA BOAR, PURE BRED

10 BUSHELS OF GOOD SEED CORN
ABOUT 1500 BUSHELS OF CORN IN CRIB
100 CHICKENS
ABOUT 100 BUSHELS OF BEARDLESS BARLEY
ABOUT 40 TONS OF HAY IN STACK
5 GEESE

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 Tower plow
1 harrow cart
1 4-section drag
1 wide-tire wagon
1 Deering hay rake
1 Oliver gang plow
1 Moline sulky plow
2 Moline cultivators
1 walking cultivator
2 narrow tire wagons
1 8-ft. Deering binder, good as new.
2 discs, one 14-wheel and one 20-wheel
1 Hayes corn planter with 120 rods of wire
1 McCormick mower, good as new
1 surrey
1 bob sled
1 hay rack
1 hog oiler
1 grindstone
Seed corn racks
1 cream separator
45-gal. Caldron kettle
2 triple wagon boxes
20 rods of chicken wire
1 Gade gas engine, 1 1-2 h. p.
1 John Deere manure spreader
1 240-egg Successful incubator
1 Hoosier endgate seeder with grass seed attachment
1 Sandwich grain elevator, 52-ft.
Hay rope
1 oil barrel
1 feed rack
1 gas barrel
2 beet forks
1 pump jack
2 feed bunks
2 jack screws
1 wagon jack
1 tank heater
1 fanning mill
1 kerosene barrel
Some 2-inch pipes
2 set of tackle blocks
Several sets of fly nets
1 set of driving harness
5 sets of heavy work harness

A lot of this machinery is nearly new and absolutely no reserve
WASHING MACHINE, with power attachment
Some household goods, and many small articles not mentioned.

FREE LUNCH AT NOON!

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash. Over that amount 12 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

LEWIS HAUGE, Auctioneer
C. O. FITTS, Clerk

J. M. McCLERNON

...Plans
...der way for
...ing another car of
Poultry in the near future.
Watch and wait for further announcements and get the most for your produce by selling to WHITE.

We wish to extend our thanks to our many patrons and friends for making the car loaded last week a success.

Leave It To WHITE

WHITE PRODUCE COMPANY

...who
...timate
...ws' wiv-
...d of poach-
...ws' reserves.
...ask who these
...you have to do is
...conversation with al-
...one on the steets and nam-
...be spoken. Now, fellows, you
...not putting anything over on the public and you are given a gentle tip as we gather it on the streets, to cut this out and be good.—Conwith Husteler.

John Christensen, who lives south east of Garner, receives a letter from his relatives in Germany every week. The postage hanging in our window is the postage from one of these letters. It amounts to 4,000,000,000 marks, if we can figure correctly, or about seven cents in United States money. Mr. Christensen has been sending money to his relatives in Germany for a long time, that they may buy the necessities of life. His relatives tell him that a farmer or a merchant where they live will not take marks as pay for anything. That you must have American, French or Danish money to buy anything with. The postage in our window consists of several sheets of stamps of five million mark stamps and some of 50 millions marks each.—Garner Signal.

...ture
...soline, the
...rts easy.

...as brought home last
...owa City. He had been
...ate hospital there receiving
...on for his hip, into which
...recently had the misfortune to run a needle. The hip has become infected from the steel remaining in the flesh so long, and John is not doing as well as his friends hoped.

Here and There

Mrs. Heinisch and Mrs. Dittmer of Belmond were calling on friends in this city Tuesday afternoon.—Times.

Mrs. G. C. Merritt left for her home in Fort Morgan, Colo., Monday afternoon after visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. L. Sinclair. Mrs. Merritt was called to Iowa by the serious illness of her mother at Belmond.—Times.

Miss Mable Starnes of Belmond came Saturday for an over Sunday visit at home.—Times.

Miss Mildred Schultz of Belmond returned to her home Saturday after spending several days at the Huntley home—News.

Mrs. LuVerne Smith returned on Saturday from a visit over Thanksgiving at Belmond and Clarion.—Times.

Mrs. Frank Hake of Belmond was been visiting Mrs. Cady Thompson this week.—News.

John Kalvig has gone to Belmond where he will be employed for a few weeks.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Forristall of Belmond spent Thanksgiving day at the farm home of Mrs. Forristall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole T. Rikansrud. Upon their return to Belmond they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmar Rikansrud, who had been

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER

Farm and General Sales

A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.

For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

A PAT ON THE BACK

"Some men are so queerly constructed," said old Si Chestnut, "that if you merely pat them on the back it makes their heads swell."

Well, the people in our Bank are not built that way. A pat on the back, a kind word of appreciation, a friendly lift, only inspires our officers to return the favor. There are no swelled heads here, just plain, friendly folks, anxious to accomodate you.

Belmond Savings Bank

What's Christmas Without Candy?

CANDY IS AS MUCH A PART OF THIS FESTIVE HOLIDAY AS THE YULETIDE TREE, THE CANDLES OR THE WREATH. AND WE ARE ALL SET FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON WITH CREAMS, BON-BONS, HARD CANDIES AND NOVELTIES IN BULK OR FANCY BOXES.

Special Xmas Candies at 20c and 25c per pound for parties or churches

Belmond Candy Kitchen
Belmond, Iowa

For Christmas Dinner!

MEATS-GROCERIES

YOUR table on Christmas Day should be bedecked with the finest foods obtainable—and here's the place to get them. Fresh meats—Groceries of all kinds—at moderate prices, with service that is unexcelled.

Cash Market
Belmond, Iowa

One Week Only, December 15 to 22 Inclusive

BUCKET CONTAINS—

7 Bars P & G	.42
7 Bars Luna or Bob White	.35
1 Bar Ivory	.10
1 Pkg. Ivory Flakes or Chipso	.10
Bucket Free	.35
	$1.32

Free! ONE LARGE STRONG GALVANIZED BUCKET Free!

THERE'S ONE FOR YOU AT THE FOLLOWING STORES—

BOHNING & CO — W. W. GOETZ
ROBINSON'S — CASH MARKET
B. K. KINSETH — C. G. JOHNSON
STEENBLOCK & LOATS

SAVE AT LEAST 33c — $1.32 VALUE ALL FOR 99c

Sale Limited To One Sale Per Customer

The BROWN MOUSE

by Herbert Quick

COPYRIGHT by THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Jennie Woodruff contemptuously refuses to marry Jim Irwin, young farm hand, because of his financial condition and poor prospects. He is intellectually above his station, and has advanced ideas concerning the possibilities of expert school teaching, for which he is ridiculed by many.

CHAPTER II.—More as a joke than otherwise Jim is selected as teacher of the Woodruff district school.

"Well," said Con, "you've done well to hold your own."

"In all the years I attended this school," Jim went on, "I never did a bit of work in school which was economically useful. No other pupil ever did any real work of the sort farmers' boys and girls should do. We copied city schools—and the schools we copied are poor schools. We made bad copies of them, too. If any of you three men were making a fight for what the Country Life commission called a 'new kind of rural school,' I'd say fight. But you aren't. You're just making individual fights for your favorite teachers."

Jim Irwin made a somewhat lengthy speech after the awkwardness wore off. He adjured Bronson, Bonner and Peterson to study his plan of a new kind of country school—in which the work of the school should be correlated with the life of the home and the farm—a school which would be in the highest degree cultural by being consciously useful and obviously practical.

Sharp spats of applause from the useless hands of Newton Bronson gave the final touch of absurdity to a situation which Jim had felt to be ridiculous all through. Had it not been for Jennie Woodruff's "Humph!" stinging him, had it not been for the absurd notion that perhaps, after they had heard his speech, they would place him in charge of the school, and that he might be able to do something really important in it, he would not have been there. As he sat down, he knew himself a dreamer. The nodding board of directors, the secretary, actually snoring, the bored audience restored the field-hand to a sense of his proper place.

"We have had the privilege of list'nin'," said Con Bonner, rising, "to a great speech, Mr. Prisidint. Makin' a good spache is one thing, and teaching a good school is another; but in order to bring this matter before the board, I nominate Mr. James E. Irwin, the Boy Orator of the Woodruff district, and the new white hope, f'r the job of teacher of this school, and I move that when he shall have received a majority of the votes of this board, the secretary and prisidint be instructed to enter into a contract with him f'r the comin' year."

The president followed usage when he said: "If there's no objection, it will be so ordered. Prepare the ballots for a vote on the election of teacher, Mr. Secretary."

There was no surprise in view of the nomination of Jim Irwin by the blarneying Bonner when the Secretary smoothed out the first ballot, and read: "James E. Irwin, one." But when the next slip came forth, "James E. Irwin, two," the board of directors of the Woodruff Independent district were stunned at the slowly dawning knowledge that they had made an election! Before they had rallied, the secretary drew from the box the third and last ballot, and read, "James E. Irwin, three."

President Bronson choked as he announced the result—choked and stammered, and made very hard weather of it, but he went through with the motion, as we all run in our grooves.

"The ballot having shown the unanimous election of James E. Irwin, I declare him elected."

He dropped into his chair, while the secretary, a very methodical man, drew from his portfolio a contract duly drawn up save the name and signature. This he calmly filled out, and passed over to the president, pointing to the dotted line. Mr. Bronson would have signed his own death-warrant at that moment, not to mention a perfectly legal document, and signed with Peterson and Bonner looking on stonily. The secretary signed and shoved the contract over to Jim Irwin.

"Sign there," he said.

Jim looked it over, saw the other signatures, and felt an impulse to dodge the whole thing. Then he thought of Jennie Woodruff's "Humph!"—and he signed!

"Move we adjourn," said Peterson.

"No 'bjection 'tis so ordered!" said Mr. Bronson.

The secretary and Jim went out, while the directors waited.

"What the Billy—" began Bonner, and finished lamely! "What for did you vote for the dub, Ez?"

"I voted for him," replied Bronson, "because he fought for my boy this afternoon. I didn't want it stuck into him too hard. I wanted him to have one vote."

"An' I wanted him to have wan vote, too," said Bonner. "I thought mesilf the only dang fool on the board—an' he made a spache that airned wan vote—but f'r the love of hivin, that dub f'r a teacher! What come over you, Haakon—you voted f'r him, too!"

"Ay vanted him to have one vote, too," said Peterson.

And in this wise, Jim became the teacher in the Woodruff district—all on account of Jennie Woodruff's "Humph!"

CHAPTER III

What Is a Brown Mouse?

Immediately upon the accidental election of Jim Irwin to the position of teacher of the Woodruff school, he developed habits somewhat like a ghost's or a bandit's. That is, he walked of nights and on rainy days.

On fine days, he worked in Colonel Woodruff's fields as of yore. Jim's salary was to be just $300 for nine months' work in the Woodruff school, and he was to find himself—and his mother. Therefore, he had to indulge in his loose habits of night walking and roaming about after hours only, or on holidays and in foul weather.

The Simms family, being from the "mountings" of Tennessee, were rather startled one night, when Jim Irwin, homely, stooped and errandless, silently appeared in their family circle about the front door. They had lived where it was the custom to give a whoop from the big road before one passed through the palin's and up to the house. Otherwise, how was one to know whether the visitor was friend or foe?

From force of habit, Old Man Simms started for his gun-rack at Jim's appearance, but the Lincolnian smile and the low slow speech, so much like his own in some respects, ended that.

Old Man Simms Started for His Gun.

"Stranger," said Mr. Simms, after greetings had been exchanged, "you're right welcome, but in my kentry you'd find it dangersome to walk in thisaway."

"How so?" queried Jim Irwin.

"You'd more'n likely git shot up some," replied Mr. Simms, "onless you whooped from the big road."

"I didn't know that," replied Jim. "I'm ignorant of the customs of other countries. Would you rather I'd whoop from the big road—nobody else will."

"I reckon," replied Mr. Simms, "that we-all will have to accommodate ourse'ves to the ways hyeh."

Evidently Jim was the Simms' first caller since they had settled on the little brushy tract whose hills and trees reminded them of their mountains. Low hills, to be sure, with only a footing of rocks where the creek had cut through, and not many trees, but down in the creek bed, with the oaks, elms and box-elders arching overhead, the Simmses could imagine themselves beside some run falling into the French Broad, or the Holston. The creek bed was a withdrawing room in which to retire from the eternal black soil and level cornfields of Iowa.

The soil was so poor, in comparison with those black uplands, that the owner of the old wood-lot could find no renter but it was better than the soil in the mountains, and suited the lonesome Simmses much more than a better farm would have done. They were not of the Iowa people anyhow; not understood, not their equals—they were "pore," and expected to stay "pore"—while the Iowa people all seemed to be either well-to-do, or expecting to become so.

Jim Irwin asked Old Man Simms about the fishing in the creek, and whether there was any duck shooting spring and fall.

"We git right smart of these little panfish," said Mr. Simms, "an' Calista done shot two butterball ducks about 'tater-plantin' time."

Calista blushed—but this stranger, so much like themselves, could not see the rosy suffusion. The allusion gave him a chance to look about him at the family. There was a boy of sixteen, a girl—the duck-shooting Calista—younger than Raymond—a girl of eleven, named Virginia, but called Jinnie—and a smaller lad who rejoiced in the name of McGeehee, but was mercifully called Buddy.

Calista squirmed for something to say. "Raymond runs a line o' traps when the fur's prime," she volunteered.

Then came a long talk on traps and trapping, shooting, hunting and the joys of the mountings—during which Jim noted the ignorance and poverty of the Simmses. The clothing of the girls was not decent according to local standards; for while Calista wore a skirt hurriedly slipped on, Jim was quite sure—and not without evidence to support his views—that she had been wearing when he arrived the same regimentals now displayed by Jinnie—a pair of ragged blue overalls. Evidently the Simmses were wearing what they had and not what they desired. The father was faded, patched, gray and earthy, and the boys looked better than the rest solely because we expect boys to be torn and patched. Mrs. Simms was invisible except as a gray blur beyond the rain-barrel, in the midst of which her pipe glowed with a regular ebb and flow of embers.

On the next rainy day Jim called again and secured the services of Raymond to help him select seed corn. He was going to teach the school next winter, and he wanted to have a seed-corn frolic the first day, instead of waiting until the last—and you had to get seed corn while it was on the stalk, if you got the best.

No Simms could refuse a favor to the fellow who was so much like themselves, and who was so greatly interested in trapping, hunting and the Tennessee mountains—so Raymond went with Jim, and with Newt Bronson and five more they selected Colonel Woodruff's seed corn for the next year, under the colonel's personal superintendence.

In the evening they looked the grain over on the Woodruff lawn, and the colonel talked about corn and corn selection. They had supper at half past six, and Jennie waited on them—having assisted her mother in the cooking. It was quite a festival.

Continued next week

Proof

Diner: Look here! Isn't that a hair in the butter?

Waiter: Yes sir—a cow's hair. We always serve one with butter to show that it isn't margarine.

BASKETBALL

Sheffield H. S. Boys and Girls

vs.

Belmond H. S. Boys and Girls

High School Gymnasium

8:00 O'clock p. m.

Friday, Dec. 14th

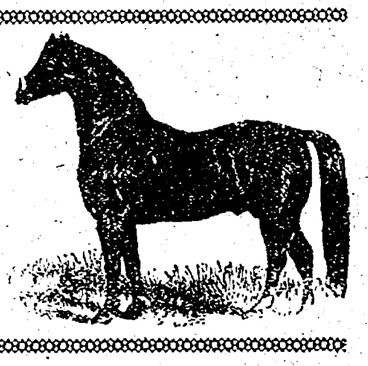
PUBLIC SALE

HAVING DECIDED TO MOVE TO MINNESOTA, I WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION, AT THE SUMNER ELDRED PLACE 3 1-2 MILES NORTHEAST OF GOODELL, 7 MILES SOUTHEAST OF KLEMME, 7 MILES NORTHWEST OF MESERVEY, ON

Wednesday, Dec. 19

COMMENCING AT 10:00 O'CLOCK SHARP, THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PROPERTY:

6 Head Horses & Mules



1 BLACK MULE, 1 YR. OLD, WT. 700
1 ROAN MARE, 3 YRS. OLD, WT. 1350
1 BROWN MARE 8 YRS. OLD, WT. 1600
1 BROWN MULE 2 YRS. OLD, WT. 900
1 BAY GELDING, 5 YRS. OLD, WT. 1800
1 BLACK GELDING, 4 YRS. OLD, WT. 1050

52 Cattle

2 MILK COWS
12 FALL CALVES
11 HEIFERS, COMING 2 YRS.
6 CALVES, COMING 1 YR. OLD
14 GOOD MILK COWS, NOW FRESH
6 STEERS, COMING 2 YRS. OLD, WT. 750
1 PURE BRED WHITE SHORTHORN BULL, 4 YRS. OLD

100 Head of Hogs 100

Consisting of good spring and fall Poland China Pigs

Some Barred Rock Hens

Farm Machinery, Etc.

1 bob sled
Some collars
1 fanning mill
1 seed corn rack
4 swarms of bees
1 set wagon springs
1 Philip cylinder sheller
1 brooder house, 8x10 ft.
Iowa cream separator in fine shape
1 Avery cultivator
1 Tower cultivator
Corn binder, nearly new
Acme binder, in good shape
1 Bully Boy cultivator with surface attachment
Great Western manure spreader, in good running order
Sandwich elevator, 40 ft., in good shape
1 drag cart
1 Emerson disc
1 Jamesville sulky plow
1 John Deere hay rake
1 Rock Island truck wagon
1 Columbus wagon and box
1 Dain hay stacker and bucker, good as new
1 Hayes corn planter with 160 rods wire

FREE LUNCH AT NOON

TERMS: $10.00 or under, cash; over that amount 8 months' time will be given on bankable notes bearing 8 per cent interest. All property to be settled for on day of sale.

H. BRUMMOND, Auctioneer
OWEN CONWELL, Clerk

C. E. Miller

LOCAL NEWS

Howard Spitler and family from Klemme spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Spitler.

Mrs. Glenn Klemme was hostess to the Delphian Club Monday evening

Big line of Fancy Candles and Candle Sticks.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Louis Tokman drove to Des Moines on business, Monday night.

Henry Waage, of Meservey, was a caller in town Monday. While enroute here he lost a pocketbook containing some small change and seven hundred dollars in checks.

Why not a new Parlor Suite for Xmas Big line to select from.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Don't blame your motor—use DEEP ROCK winter gas.

For Sale on street Saturday p. m. range, heater nearly new, linoleum, Rug, bed, dresser, dishes and other articles.

Cato Griesy was a business caller at Mason City, Saturday evening.

Tom Tyrrell had the misfortune to fall down several steps of the stairs at his home last Friday morning, suffering severe bruises and a hard jarring up. He has been feeling the effects of the fall considerably since.

On another page of the Independent this week will be found a town ordinance, in which the rates to be charged users of electric current in Belmond by the Iowa Falls company are changed, the rate being reduced one cent a kilowatt.

We believe the Christmas window decorations in Belmond are the prettiest that have ever been arranged, some very unusual and attractive displays being in evidence.

Fine line of Framed Pictures at prices that are right.—Belmond Furniture Co.

Make it a Furniture Xmas. Prices right. Terms to suit.—Belmond Furniture Co.
Co.

This is the last week in which to order your Christmas Greeting cards as after this week your chances of getting what you want are small. The Independent has a complete line of greetings of all classes and prices. Order yours now—after this week no more orders will be taken.

Wayne Pond left Tuesday evening for Corvallis, Oregon, where he will join his mother and brother for the Christmas holidays. He expects to remain at Corvallis during the winter, and possibly during the next summer. Noel Pond, who has been at Davenport the past three years, is now making his home at Corvallis.

Friends in Belmond of Paul Northrup were surprised to receive the announcement of his marriage last month to Miss Grace Chase, of Parkersburg, on Nov. 28. They are now at home at Indianola, where Paul is employed in a printing office. Paul is the eldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Northrup, formerly of Belmond, Rev. Northrup being pastor of the Congregational church here. The many Belmond friends will extend to Paul and his bride their best wishes for a happy and prosperous journey thru life together.

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to late.)

ROCK ISLAND
Going North
Freight, daily ..... 11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily, ... 2:10 p. m.
Going South
Freight, daily ..... 1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily ..... 11:50 a. m.

M.& ST. L.
Going West.
Combination, daily .... 8:30 a. m
Going East
Combination, daily ..... 3:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN
Going North
Motor, daily ..... 10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S .... 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S .... 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight ..... 7:55 a. m.
Going South
No. 11, pass., D & S .... 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S .... 3:15 p. m.
Motor ..... 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight ..... 3:20 p. m.

Verner Reed who has been husking corn here this fall, returned to his home in Boyd Wis. Tuesday.

Jess Underkofler suffered a stroke last Saturday at his home here. He is reported as recovering nicely from the attack, however.

Leave your order at once for Xmas Trees at Belmond Furniture Co.

The White Produce Company of this city took the country surrounding Belmond and Goodell off its feet by buying a car load of live poultry and shipping it in a specially built live poultry car. Chickens were brought into town in all manners and shapes from far and near, some coming from as far as Holmes. Three trucks were kept on the jump picking up what they could handle with three extra men assistng. This is the first car load of live poultry shipped from this town for 12 or 15 years.

For cold weather starting, try DEEP ROCK Gasoline. Best by test.

Something new in book ends at Special prices.—Belmond Furniture Co.

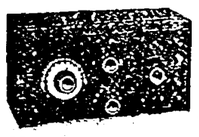
Hajo Pals was a business caller at Mason City on Saturday.

Atty. Jensen states that when an Eagle Grove bootlegger came up before Judge Clock, in district court, last week, said booze hound received a pretty stiff sentence. Some of his Eagle friends came over to see whether they couldn't pry a little of so-called mercy out of the judge, and among said friends (?) was one of the Eagle ministers, who thought it was a pretty harsh sentence From what the county attorney told him, we should judge the minister has spent some time in thought since.

The Ideal Gift
---from the Family to the Family

Make this Christmas the happiest you have ever had. Instead of the usual exchange of small remembrances, let Daddy, Mother and the Kiddies all put the money that they would have spent for individual gifts into a common fund—a family fund with which to buy an Ace Radio Receiving Set—the ideal gift from the family to the family.

LONG RANGE — ACE — CLEAR SIGNALS
TYPE V
Regenerative Radio Receiver
Licensed under
Armstrong Patent No. 1,113,149



MANUFACTURED BY
The PRECISION EQUIPMENT Co

This wonderful receiver pictured above uses one vacuum tube operated on dry cells and has a range of one thousand miles. The Ace Type V receiver with one Cunningham or Radiotron dry cell tube and one pair of Brandes Superior Phones, installed in your home for only $32.50

Additional $2.00 for the necessary dry batteries.

14 other types of Crosley and Ace sets to choose from.

A full line of parts for experimenters who desire to build their own sets.

Read up on Radio. Secure Radio periodicals and books here.

The Radio Shop

Exclusive dealer for Air-Way, Crosley and De Forest Equipment.
Third door west of Library

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 16th and 17th.

Clint Kercheval, 6 miles south 1-2 west of Belmond, Dec. 19. Farm sale. Ad this week.

C. E. Miller, northeast of Goodell, farm sale, Dec. 19. Ad this week.

Olaf Eliason, 2 miles west of Olaf, closing out farm sale, Jan. 8.

G. C. Cook, closing out sale, Dec. 17, at Olaf. Ad this issue.

The J. M. McClernon sale has been changed from the 20th to the 18th. See ad this issue.

C. H. Thayer, closing out farm sale, 6 miles southwest, Jan. 10.

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Dressed geese.—Mrs. Earl Jenison. 1c

For Sale—Fox Terrier pups. Best ratters.—John Cooper, Kanawha, Ia. 34c

For Sale—Pure bred White Wyandottes, rose comb. Phone 1606. 32*

For Sale—Pure bred R. C. Rhode Island Red Cockerals, early hatch. Your choice $1.50 each.—Leo Riley, Belmond. 22*

For Sale—Chester White boars. Champion blood lines. Cholera immune. Farm located two miles west and one-half mile north of Kanawha. Ed Riekens. 52tfc

For Sale—A round reed baby cab in good condition. Phone 73. 32c

For Sale—Regal Dorcas White Wyandotte Cockerals. Your choice for $1.50. Also a few White Pekin Drakes $1.50 each.—A. C. Lieuwen, Alexander, Ia. 23*

For Sale—A few pure bred Hampshire boars. Can furnish papers. Phone 1818.—Geo. Norris, Sr. 35*

For Sale—20x24 ft. frame barn. 14 foot posts. Plank floor, good mow.—Chas. Gealow.

Lost—A cameo pin, Tuesday, in Belmond. Return to Mrs. E. H. Brewer 1c

Strayed—Old black sow, weight about 400. Finder please phone 1810.

Lost—Between Belmond and Goodell, Sunday, pocketbook containing some small change and about $700 in checks. Reward. Finder please return to Henry Waage, Meservey, or White Produce Co., Belmond. 1c

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, DEC. 17

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, old	15c
Roosters	07c
Springs	15c
Geese	10c
Ducks	11c
Turkeys	20c
Eggs	37c
Cream	50c
Barley	53c
Oats	36c
Corn	60c
Creamery Butter	55c

Those Side Curtains and Tops
WILL THEY KEEP OUT THE WIND AND SNOW?

We do all kinds of repairing

Belmond Tailor Shop
Phone 28

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

Jewelry--
A FAVORED GIFT!

WHEN you check your list of Christmas gifts, you'll agree with us that a selection from our extraordinary Jewelry stock will make the ideal presentation for permanance and appreciation.

RINGS BEADS
CLOCKS
LOCKETS
IVORY TOILET ARTICLES BAR PINS WATCHES
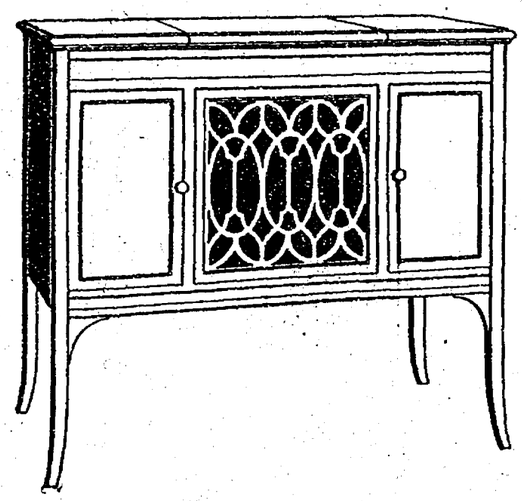
CUT GLASS
CUFF LINKS
SILVER WARE

Schultz Jewelry Co.
Belmond, Iowa

Suggestions for Christmas

Toys
Kodaks
Air Guns
Stationary
Golf Clubs
Accordions
Toilet Sets
Rosary Beads
Boxing Gloves
Victor Records
Edison Records
Vacuum Bottles
Ingersol Watches
Johnston's Box Candy
Websters Famous Fudge in Christmas Boxes



YOU can have the beautiful music of all the world, in your own home on Christmas morning! The remarkable New Edison, perfected by Mr. Edison's $3,000,000 research, can be purchased by convenient payments through our Budget Plan.

Don't deprive yourself and your family of the hours of enjoyment which the New Edison brings—don't wait another year to own the phonograph which actually RECREATES living voices. Come in and talk over our Budget Plan. Prices $100.00 to $325.00.

Dolls
Trains
Violins
Mirrors
Cut Glass
Box Cigars
Gift Books
Candy Jars
Ivory Clocks
Flash Lights
Shaving Sets
Ivory Articles
Safety Razors
Leather Goods
Electric Lamps
Cigarette Cases

BILL BOOKS 50c to $5.00 INCENSE BURNERS 50c to $3.00 HAND BAGS $1.50 to $16.00
MANICURE SETS $1.25 to $10.00 LARGE ASSORTMENT OF XMAS CARDS, 2c to 50c
WAHL'S EVERSHARP PENCILS and FOUNTAIN PENS 50c to $10.00

Garden Glo, Hudnet's Three Flower, and Florient Sets, including Compacts, Rouge, Face Powder, Toilet Water and Perfume. Prices 50 cents up to $8.50.

SCHULTZ DRUG COMPANY
Belmond, Iowa

Belmond Independent

VOL. 5 BELMOND, IOWA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER, 20, 1923 NO. 5

COMMITTEES NOW AT WORK ON ARRANGEMENTS FOR SHORT COURSE

Biggest And Best Now In Prospect

Meeting Saturday Night Results In Active Work Being Started On Exhibit.

DATES JANUARY 22 AND 23

The Short Course meeting Saturday night found sentiment in the community favorable to the exhibit, and it was decided to go ahead. The dates will be, as at present planned, January 22 and 23. The various committees were appointed as follows:

O. D. Jenison is president of the affair, and Cato Griesy secretary.

Finance committee: C. O. Fitts, chairman. A. C. Hinman, Belmond township; Jake Henn, Pleasant township.

Housing: C. P. Luick, chairman. M. F. Christie, J. D. Baker.

Advertising: A. C. Hinman, chairman. E. E. Reed, J. R. Christie.

Stock: M. G. Luick, chairman. Roy Jenison, E. E. Reed, Glen Baker, Geo. Kalkwarf, Mr. McLaughlin.

Grain: Wm. Hembd, Chairman. A. C. Lieuwen, Frank Barry, A. E. Martin, Ralph Thayer.

Poultry: C. C. Christie, chairman. Ira Christie, J. E. Pfaltzgraff, Frank Baldridge.

Ladies: Mrs. Jake Henn, chairman. Mrs. R. A. Rankins, City; Mrs. Geo. C. Johnson, Belmond township; Mrs. Geo. Thompson, Pleasant township. Mrs. O. D. Jenison, secretary.

Further announcements as to the progress of the event will be given from time to time. All indications point to the biggest and best ever.

OBITUARY.

Gail Bohning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Bohning, was born Sept. 24, 1900 in Belmond, Ia., and died at the home of her parents Dec. 7, 1923, age 23 years, two months and thirteen days. She received a common school education. Hers was a quiet disposition not given to quarreling. Her vacant chair in the family circle will be a source of grief to those who loved her. In the spring of 1917 she moved with her parents from Belmond township to Pleasant township, where the tragedy occured. She studied the Bible much, and apparantly tried to solve those scriptures which are beyond all human understanding, which without doubt unbalanced her mind. In this condition, we believe, she took her own life. Two brothers preceded her to eternity. She leaves to mourn her loss, father and mother, four brothers, two sisters and other relatives and friends.

(In last week's paper it was stated that funeral services were at the St. John church and interment in the Franklin Grove cemetery. This was incorrect. Funeral services were at the Immanuel Reformed church, and interment in that cemetery.

BELMOND TOWNSHIP RIGHT UP AND A COMIN' ON ROADS

Our neighboring township to the west is spreading itself and a bunch of gravel by running three or four gangs on the township roads at the same time. The road west from the Perry Loomis farm to the Morse lake is being graveled, as is likewise the road west from the Ward Martin corner to the lake, or rather to the turn a quarter mile from the lake. In addition the road from the Butterfield corner north a mile and then east a mile is being graveled.

The work is all donation effort, partly on the part of the town and partly by the farmers. It is a most commendable enterprise, and Belmond township can well be proud of the progressive bunch in that community.

Will Kessler is the owner of a new Willys-Knight touring car, purchased of the Nordschow Motor Company.

A considerable tangle has ensued with the Belmond authorities over an alarm clock stolen at the time of the Thanksgiving game and taken from the room in which the Dows team dressed. It is not an established fact that anyone from Dows took the clock as there were others circulating thru the building, some in an irresponsible condition. We are satisfied that none of the Dows players stole the article, but nevertheless we are thus accused and it is bound to cast a reflection upon our team. The habit of picking up "mementoes" upon such occasions is a custom to be deplored but most teams seem to have an insane desire to purloin under those circumstances. It is unfortunate indeed that Dows is to be thus accused after their team and rooters showed such admirable spirit on Thanksgiving day.—School notes in Dows Advocate.

Belmond, Ia., Dec. 16, 1923.

Editor Independent,

Dear Sir:

In last week's issue of your paper the writer had a few words to say about law enforcement, and begs your permission to say a few words more on that subject.

Lax law enforcement breeds disrespect for law. The citizen who breaks the law, or by any act of his contributes to violation thereof, is not a good citizen. This applies to all law even the Eighteenth amendment. We hear much discussion these days, about Ku Klux Klanism. The very fact that this organization can find a following in as enlightened a state as Iowa is, proves the assertion the writer just made regarding disrespect for law. The writer holds no brief for the Ku Klux Klan, and never expects to be connected with it, but the organization is attempting to not only aid in bringing offenders to justice, but to inflict penalties where law procedure has failed. This is going to be more serious than we realize unless we execute a right-about-face in administering our laws.

The law is no respecter of persons, recognizes neither wealth or social position. Everyone is expected to obey it altho in this respect it may be truly said the higher the position, of influence and power the individual holds who breaks the law, the more henious is his example to those to whom he stands in relationship as a moral or religious leader. In regard to the Eighteenth amendment, it may be said that it not only expresses the will of the majority of the people, but the people and congress recognized that it was necessary as a measure to insure public welfare and safety when they placed it there. If there is one thing which we Americans claim to possess next to patriotism, it is good horse sense. With the coming of the automobile the public has come to realize that either booze or the auto must go. The two will not mix successfully when the driver has a snifter or two under his belt.

Now let us apply this to conditions locally. A number of cases have been brought to our attention in recent months where certain parties have been indulging in the practice of filling up on hootch, getting into their auto and going forth to bum the wind. Also some other citizens have been setting a bad example by getting stewed and disgracing themselves and the town by parading up and down our main street in that condition.

To the former the writer gives warning that if the practice continues they will get a chance to cool off behind the bars and later pay the penalty prescribed in such cases and the latter will be given an opportunity to enrich the public coffers before His Honor, the Mayor.

No one need expect immunity by reason of position or influence. The time has come for the lid to be clamped down if law and order are to be maintained.

Respectfully yours,

A SUBSCRIBER.

The Royal Neighbors met with Mrs. I. H. Benson, last Saturday.

To its readers and advertisers, the Independent extends its sincerest wishes for the happiest of Christmas tides

Sheffield Smothered By Fast Local Team

Second Games Of Season Goes To Belmond By 26 To 8.

Belmond won the second game of the season last Friday night when they trimmed the Sheffield team 26 to 8. Stapley was back in the game Friday night, and the team showed their old time speed and headwork, completely snowing under the fast Sheffield five. Every member of the team played a splendid game, and co-operated in team work in a way that was a joy to see. The Belmond boys should go far this year, and the fans are anticipating some great games this winter. The largest attendance that has ever been at a game here was at the game. Such support is highly encouraging to the team.

The next game is tomorrow night with the Alumni, which ought to be a joyous affair. Everybody go and root for the boys!

The girls' teams played a 15 to 15 tie in a fine game.

IT DOESN'T PAY (?)

On a recent advertising venture, we had to almost force Wayne Middleton at the end of a pistol to take space in the proposition. Several thousand pieces of matter were mailed out, and one day in came a farmer who lives near Belmond. He had the circular in his hand and wanted to see a certain piano and a certain talking machine, both described therein. Wayne sold him both the piano and phonograph, and has since banked his check. Wayne is so sold on any advertising proposition that might be put before him, that he will buy space on his own tombstone—Eagle.

Two Small Fires In The Past Week

Train Sets One; Hat Shoppe Is Again Scene Of Small Blaze.

Two small fires have occured in the past week, neither of them being of much consequence, altho one would have been but for prompt and efficient work on the part of the fire company. Last Saturday the Great Western train set fire to the grass along the rightofway, which, due to the long spell of dry weather burns like tinder. This was soon extinguished before it caused any damage. Monday, just at noon, the Hat Shoppe was found on fire, the blaze evidently starting from a spark blown from some neighboring chimney. The roof of the building at the front caught. The fire company were on the job in short order and the blaze was extinguished with little damage.

Another fire which might have been serious occured Tuesday night along the rightofway of the Great Western, on the John Chapman farm south of town. The engine set fire to the tall, dry grass, and only some fast and hard work by Chapman and his brother put it out.

CLARION WILL DOLL UP, TOO

The county seat town has acquired the Christmas spirit, and are planning to decorate their streets with holiday decorations, 125 evergreens having been ordered to place along the main street, in the holes made for the flag poles. These will be lighted with colored electric lights.

EAGLE WANTS BOYS' BAND

The town of Eagle Grove is going after a boys' band for that place, a number of the business men of that city having petitioned the council to take the matter up, which they are.

Cook Again High Man In Testing Assc.

"Granny" Is Best Producer In November Testing Report.

Of the 350 cows on test in the Belmond Cow Testing Association, only 213 were milking during the month of November. Quite a number of the cows will come fresh during the winter months. The weather has been so mild that the cows have not had to be kept in during the day.

The 213 cows on test this month produced a total of 117,088 pounds of milk and 4,840 pounds of butterfat, or an average of 549.7 pounds of milk and 22.7 pounds of butterfat.

The high herd and high cow are again owned by Virgil A. Cook. Mr. Cook's eight Holsteins produced an average of 1,092.1 pounds of milk and 41.3 pounds of butterfat. "Granny" was again high cow of the association. She produced 2,103 pounds of milk and 84.1 pounds of butterfat. This wonderful cow has averaged during the seven months she has been fresh 2,300 pounds of milk and 76.2 pounds of butterfat.

The following are the ten high herds for the month of November:

Owner	Breed
Virgil A. Cook	G. & P. B. Holst.
Baker Bros.	G. Holst. & Short.
Maxwell Baker	G. Shorthorns
E. G. Beier	G. & P. B. Holst.
M. G. Luick	G. Guernseys.
Ben Goll	G. Holst & Short.
E. G. Hauge	G. & P. B. Holst.
J. S. Bell	G. Holsteins
Ira Christie	G. & P. B. Short.
Guy D. Baker	G. Holst. & Short
No. Cows	Av.	Milk	Av. But'fat
8		1,092.1	41.3
12		897.1	34.7
7		747.7	33.5
9		918.6	30.2
16		634.6	30.0
5		694.8	28.4
9		887.8	26.8
8		758.0	25.4
5		540.6	24.6
9		587.0	23.5

One separator was thrown on the junk heap and a new one purchased to take its place. Two of the members are milking their best cows three times a day. Practically all of the soils tested this month showed signs of acid. Considerable culling has been done this fall in several herds and more could be done with a large increase of profit to the owner.

ROE L. PAYNE, Tester.

WALL LAKE MAN GUILTY IN HOG CASE

Payne Found Guilty In District Court After Weeks Of Detective Work And Trial.

OTHER NEWS IN COURT

The trial of Geo. Payne of Wall Lake township in connection with the Sann hog stealing last January came to a close Tuesday soon after dinner. The jury was out about an hour when they returned a verdict of guilty. E. F. Bishop, who was convicted at the February term of court for his part in the hog case and given a five-year sentence in the reformatory at Anamosa, made a confession to the authorities and it was largely on this testimony that Payne was found guilty. He told how they drove the Sann hogs to the Gragert farm, where part were loaded into a truck and taken to Hampton and the balance by wagon to Webster City. Bishop was caught at Hampton and his conviction followed. Payne was seen coming from the direction of Webster City but no direct evidence could be secured against him and he was set free. At the time of the first trial the tesimony of the Webster City hog buyer was favorable to Payne. Payne will doubtless accompany Bishop back to Anamosa as he is to receive his sentence Wednesday. At the suggestion of Supervisor Grattidge, Attorney Lunday of Eldora was employed to assist County Attorney Jensen. Nearly all will agree that it was money well spent. —Monitor.

SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

Next Friday night our teams will play the Alumni. As many of our Alumni will be home by that time, these games will be good ones.

The final round of the home debate series will be held Thursday at 4 o'clock. At this time the first team will be selected to debate in the state series. We meet Swaledale here Jan. 10 to debate the state question. The following is the debate for Thursday afternoon: Resolved, that the U. S. should further restrict Immigration.

Affirmative: Katherine Thiltgen, Mildred Hauge, William Tyrrell.

Negative: Edwin Christie, Alpha Johnson, Everill Thompson.

The girls' operetta last Wednesday night was well attended. Miss Hill deserves a great deal of credit for the able manner in which it was put on.

Division I of the Literary will give a Christmas program Friday at 2:30. Everyone is welcome.

The 8th grade will give their program Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the auditorium.

The 5th grade Christmas operetta will be given Friday at 1:15.

Mable Baker of the Senior Normal training class substituted for Miss Murphy, Monday forenoon.

Last week Wednesday the Rebekahs met in the Odd Fellow hall for their regular meeting. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. L. L. Lathrop, Noble Grand; Mrs. Eva Brown, vice grand; Mrs. Geo. Coburn, Rec. sec; Mrs. Thiltgen, Fin. sec. After the business meeting a splendid program of amusements had been arranged by Mrs. L. L. Lathrop, Mrs. Coburn and Mrs. Bob Wilson. A grab bag was the cause of much merriment. Many reported having had the time of their lives, it was a highly enjoyable affair.

Delicious refreshments were served by the committee, who had charge of this most important part of the evening.

Belmond Independent

R. A. RANKINS
Editor and Proprietor.

Entered as second-class matter Nov 18, 1919, at the postoffice at Belmond, Iowa, under the act of March 3, 1879.

IOWA PRESS ASSOCIATION

Subscription Price $2.00 per year, strictly in advance. Paper stops at expiration.

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION

ADVERTISING RATES

Display, per column inch 25c
Display, Contract 20c
Readers, Per Line 10c
Want Ads Per Word 02c
(One cent per word thereafter. Minimum charge of 25 cents per insertion.)

Editorials

One of the most disgraceful cases of miscarriage of justice that has been a stench in the nostrils of the law abiding public for some time was the verdict of the jury in the case of the State vs. Davidson and Bredbenner, of Klemme. The charge was driving an automobile on the public highway while intoxicated. It will be remembered by Belmond people that this case arose over the accident at Belmond a few weeks ago, when the two men named smashed into Louis Rierson at night, near the sugar factory grounds. The two were arrested and brought before Mayor Sullivan, where they plead guilty to intoxication and were then fined $25 and costs. County Attorney Jensen then filed information against them on behalf of the state. Their trial in district court came off last week, and the jury, after being out twenty hours or more, declared they were "not guilty." Notwithstanding the fact that they had already plead guilty in municipal court, that there was plenty of evidence to show they were far from "normal" at the time, "twelve good men and true" declared it was all bunk.

Right there you have the one big trouble with enforcement of prohibition. Just so long as juries will go out and declare that a man is innocent when he has plead guilty, just so long will we have bootleggers and crimes and a useless expenditure of funds. Our laws and our juries are fast becoming a disgrace and an outrage. Instead of endeavoring to administer the law by the spirit, it seems that the letter is the thing; a jury evidently figures that a technicality, a misplaced comma, a misspelled word counts more than a plea of guilty. We no longer try a man to get justice, we try him to get rid of him as quick as possible so we can go home to our tea parties or our potato patch. Our duty as citizens? Bunk! There ain't no sich animal! Let the other fellow do it if he wants to; me, I'm goin' to get off—or if I get stuck on the jury I'm gonna get even somehow.

Too many people rant and rare that the officers do not do their duty. These same people fail to see that they are not doing their's. When the jury who cleared these two men have their own car smashed into by some booze-soaked rummy, then they will be ready to tear up the earth to see the bum put away. It makes a difference whose ox is gored, you know.

Seemingly it is the easiest thing in the world to clear a bootlegger or a drunk. You may see a man cutting figure "8's", endeavoring to keep on a 10-foot walk; his breath may stink like a back-alley garbage can, his speech may sound like mush bubbling in a hot kettle; but by the time you have answered 1,000 and 1 fool questions asked you, you won't know whether the other fellow was drunk or you were yourself, and 9 times out of 10, the jury will say not guilty.

If Davidson and Bredbenner are wise now, they will sue the town of Belmond for false imprisonment because "12 good men and true" declared they weren't drunk—despite their previous pleas of guilty. No wonder our laws command so little respect.

"Co-operation," to our notion, is one of the greatest developments of the twentieth century, and it is something that has only come to the front in the past 15 o 25 years. In days gone by, there was co-operation to a large extent among neighbors; in pioneer days, one man helped another build his log cabin or clear his land, and in return received assistance in his own work. But only within the past 25 years—perhaps we should say the past 10—has there been much of any community co-operation, of one man meeting with his fellows, of one community helping another to secure these things which are a benefit to all.

Witness, for instance, the men of Belmond township who are now graveling the road to the lake, or those of Pleasant, who are graveling towards Alexander. Without co-operation neither of these much-needed jobs would have been done. Only the fact that they co-operated permitted the work.

It is a fine thing, this community co-operation, a fine spirit. Belmond, the town, needs a big dose of it. There is too much bickering, too much petty jealously, too much of this he-may-get-a-nickel-out-of-it spirit in the town for its own good.

WANT SCHOOL CONTROL

Des Moines, Ia.—That a bitter fight will result in the state legislature over school supervision was believed in sight by many members of both houses today when it was learned that code committee bill No. 86 amends the present school statute to give the state superintendent supervision over secular education in private schools of the state. The bill will probably not make its appearance before the legislature for several weeks, altho advocates of the proposed change are eagerly awaiting its arrival.

On the other hand there will be strenuous opposition to the proposed to give the state superintendent supervision over parochial sschools as the bill also provides for the extension of the authority by the state superintendent over rural graded and high schools of the state, it was learned.

He Believes In Signs

'Guess we struck the wrong place," said the cloning swain, pulling his horse up in front of the parsonage.

"Why?" asked the lady.

"Don't you see that sign on the tree, 'no hitching here.' ?"

CHURCHES

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES
Rev. J. M. Jensen, Pastor

Thursday evening prayer meeting at the home of John Shurson, at 7:30.

Sunday morning Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Norwegian language used at the morning service at 11 o'clock. English service at 7:30. You are welcome to each and all services.

Monday evening, Christmas Eve, we will have our Christmas tree and program. Little folks especially are welcome.

Tuesday, Christmas Day, services appropriate to Christmas will be conducted at 3 o'clock in the English language. Let us have a good congregation

ST. OLAF CHURCH NOTES

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the lay brethern will conduct a service in the Norwegian language. Please remember this and make an effort to be present.

Christmas Day at 11 o'clock Christmas day will be observed with a service in the Norwegian language. Let us all, young and old, come to the House of the Lord and sing praises to our Savior.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES
Rev. S. U. Leinbach, Pastor.

The committee who have the Christmas program in charge are working hard and an excellent program has been arranged for Christmas Eve. The superintendent has promised us a tree so we are sure of a good time. An offering will be taken to help send the Christmas message to those who do not know it yet.

Services next Sunday Sabbath school at 10. Morning worship at 11 at which time the pastor will deliver a Christmas sermon. The evening services at 7:30. You are missing a good service when you fail to be present at the evening hour. The orchestra is a great help in this service and the music is enjoyed by all.

Our Christmas program Christmas Eve at 8 o'clock at the church.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES
J. P. O'Connor, Pastor.

We had a service long to be remembered by many Sunday morning. We started with a baptismal service, after which 18 new members were received into the church. We then observed the Sacrement of the Lord's Supper which practically the entire congregation partook of.

We had another record-breaking crowd Sunday evening. The house was well filled. Only front seats remained empty and we are going to fill them if we all keep on pushing as we have been. The music was fine. Everyone enjoyed the two special selections by the orchestra and the special selection rendered by the very efficient evening choir. I should have mentioned the special selection renderd by th morning choir, as it was one of the best that we have listened to while in Belmond, and may I add, you can't beat this choir even in the large cities. I have heard them and know what I am talking about.

Our Sunday school was running high Sunday. W had 224, and this Sunday we must have 250, what say you? Let's all boost to cross the line for a touch down. Yes, let's go for the best and largest church services ever this Sunday. Do you want to see a packed house? Would you know how to act? Well just follow the crowd and they will lead you to the church. A treat will await you in the way of good music. In addition to the evening choir and orchestra, the male quartette has been requested to sing.

Sunday school at 10. Morning worship at 11. Epworth League at 6:30. Evening service at 7:30. Prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30.

The Chrismas entertainment will be on Monday evening at 7:30.

Morning subject: "God's Christmas Gift to the World." Sunday evening subject: "What Would Jesus Do if He Were in Belmond?"

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

Stenography Banking
Salesmanship
Telegraphy
ALL COMMERCIAL BRANCHES
Educate for Success. Position for each graduate. Low tuition. Work for board. 26th year. Write for free catalog.
Boyles College, Omaha, Nebr.

What Better Gift Than A Good Book?

It is a gift that is always appreciated, and one suitable for any member of the family.

We also have
TOYS AND MANY GIFTS
and are selling them all at a big discount to close out.

The Gift Shop
Belmond, Iowa

WHEN much of the West was still a range country, it was a common practice in a trade to throw in something "to boot." The general natural resources of the Mid-West seemed to influence the pioneer in all his trading transactions.

In keeping with this sentiment the White Produce Company aim always to render better service than is expected---better than might be necessary--better than is customary---and a better price than elsewhere. We believe in giving an extra measure in service and price.

WE WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR

WHITE PRODUCE COMPANY
Belmond, - Iowa

INDEPENDENT ADS BRING RESULTS

PRE-XMAS SALE AT THE IOWA STORE, Mason City, Iowa

WHEN BUYING SOMETHING FOR YOURSELF OR AS CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU GET QUALITY MERCHANDISE AT A BIG SAVING AT THE IOWA STORE. WE POSITIVELY DO NOT HANDLE SAMPLE LINES, JOB LOTS OR INFERIOR MERCHANDISE

Men's Suits and Overcoats $15 $18 $22 $25 $27
A big assortment of colors and styles to select from.

Boys' Suits and Overcoats $6.45 $8.45 $10.45
Latest shades, styles and materials. A serviceable garment that will look well on your boy.

Shoes For the Entire Family
At prices that mean a big saving.

OXFORDS, SLIPPERS AND PUMPS for women and young women in a variety of styles and colors. $6.85 down to $1.95

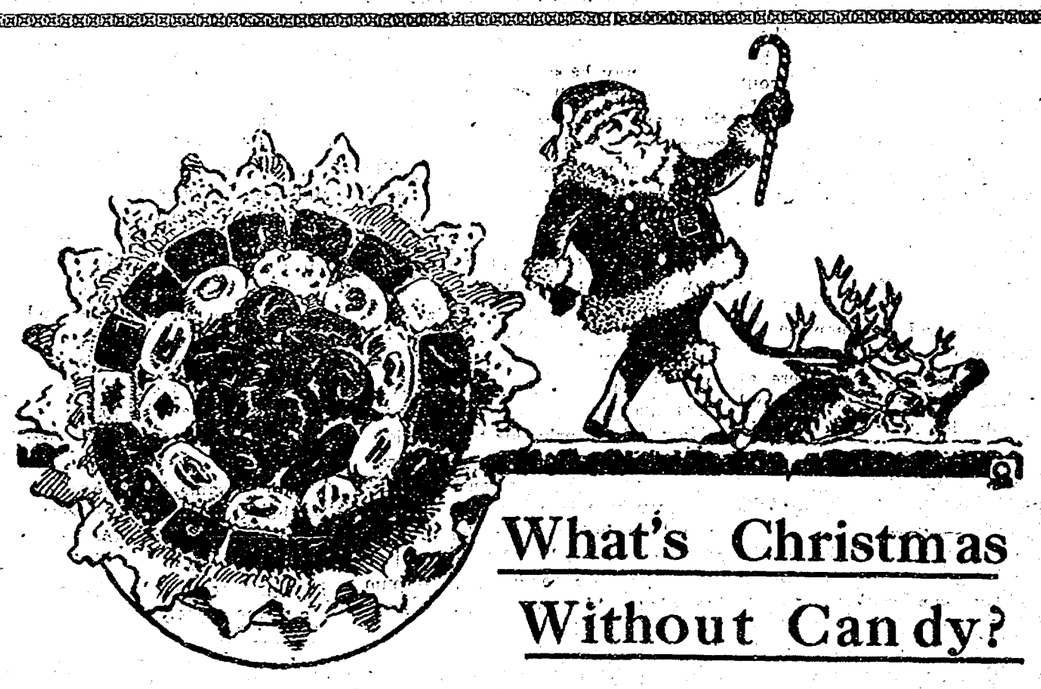
MUFFLERS, NECKWEAR AND SILK SHIRTS in a wonderful array of patterns at a big saving. A splendid gift.

Come to the IOWA STORE with full confidence that you will get high grade merchandise at lowest prices.

17 So. Federal

The Iowa Store
MASON CITY, IOWA

Across from 5c and 10c Store



What's Christmas Without Candy?

CANDY IS AS MUCH A PART OF THIS FESTIVE HOLIDAY AS THE YULETIDE TREE, THE CANDLES OR THE WREATH. AND WE ARE ALL SET FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON WITH CREAMS, BON-BONS, HARD CANDIES AND NOVELTIES IN BULK OR FANCY BOXES.

Special Xmas Candies at 20c and 25c per pound for parties or churches

Belmond Candy Kitchen
Belmond, Iowa

FARM BUREAU NOTES

(By County Agnt Edwards)

Annual Meeting January 5th

The annual business meeting of the Wright county Farm Bureau will be held in the court room at Clarion on Saturday, January 5th. A program committee consisting of County Agent Edwards, Mrs. A. H. Box and O. J. Pardun has been appointed by the president to make all necessary plans for a good, lively meeting. The annual meeting of the Farm Bureau has always been a red letter day in the organization and no effort will be spared to make this meeting the most successful ever held.

Prof. J. E. Brindeyl, head of the Economics department of Iowa State College at Ames, who is admitted to be one of the best authorities on taxation, has been secured as the principal speaker of the occasion.

An effort is being made to make arrangements with some church organization to serve dinners for all those who attend the annual meeting.

Winter Short Courses Coming

The season for holding winter short courses of farmers' institutes as they were once called, has arrived and the farmers and business men of the various towns and communities of the county are now beginning to lay plans for these mid-winter agricultural exhibits. Nearly every town of our county is planning to hold a mid-winter exhibit this year.

The short course season will start off this year with a two-day agricultural exhibit at Rowan, Tuesday and Wednesday. Jan. 15 and 16. The short course committee of Goldfield reports that definite arrangements have been made for their annual short course on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 29 and 30. Farmers and business men of Woolstock territory plan to hold their short course on Monday and Tuesday, February 25 and 26. Belmond expects to follow with their mid-winter exhibit on Wednesday and Thursday, February 27 and 28. Lincoln township is planning to hold their short course some time during the month of February, definite dates to be decided upon sometime later.

County Poultry Exhibit Big Success

Last Saturday evening saw the close of one of the most successful poultry exhibits which has ever been held in Wright county. Somewhere between 600 and 700 birds from Wright county and from outside territory as far away as Iowa Falls, Eldora, Webster City, Waterloo and Ames were on exhibition.

According to the judges who passed on the birds this year, the Wright county poultry show ranked high in quality as well as in number of birds exhibited. In the opinion of the judges there were many birds exhibited which would be eligible for winning at the state show. The county is fortunate to have poultry of such high quality within its borders.

Coolidge Favors Farm Legislation

Among the paragraphs of particular interest to American farmers in President Coolidge's message to Congress were those regarding the reduction of freight rates, balancing production, securing an export market, the further negoiations on Muscle Shoals, control of national resources and the restriction of immigration.

In regard to agriculture, President Coolidge said:

"Indirectly the farmer must be relieved by a reduction of national and local taxation. He must be assisted by the organization if the freight rate structure which could reduce charges on his production. To make this fully effective there ought to be railroad consolidations. Cheaper fertilizers must be provided.

"No complicated scheme of relief, no plan for government fixing of prices, no resort to the public treasury will be of any permanent value in establishing agriculture. Simple and direct methods put into operation, by the farmer himself, are the only real sources for restoration.

"He must have oganization. His customer with whom he exchanges products of the farm for those of industry is organized, labor is organized, business is organized, and there is no way for agriculture to meet this unless it, too, is organized. The acreage of wheat is too large. Unless we can meet the world market at a profit, we must stop raising for export. Organization would help to reduce acreage. Systems of co-operative marketing created by the farmers themselves, supervised by competent management, without doubt would be of assistance, but they can not wholly solve the problem. Our agricultural schools ought to have thoro courses in the theory of organization and co-operative marketing.

"Diversification is necessary. Those farmers who raise their living on their land are not greatly in distress. Such loans as are wisely needed to assist buying stock and other materials to start in this direction should be financed thru a government agency as a temporary and emergency expedient.

"The remaining difficulty is in the disposition of exportable wheat. I do not favor the permanent interference of the government in this problem. That probably would increase the trouble by increasing production. But it seems feasible to provide government assistance to exports, and authority should be given the War Finance Corporation to grant, in its discreation, the most liberal terms of payment for fats and grains exported for the direct benefit of the farm."

On the Muscle Shoals proposition President Coolidge was rather noncommitatal. saying only, "I recommend that Congress appoint a small joint committee to consider the offer, conduct negoiations and report definite recommendations on Muscle Shoals."

The President's recommendation regarding immigration was as follows:

"It is necessary to continue a policy of restricted immigration. It would be well to make such immigration of a selective nature with some inspection at the source, and based either on a prior census or upon the record of naturalization. Either method would insure the admission of those with the largest capacity and best intention of becoming citizens. I am convinced that our present economic and social conditions warrant a limitation of those to be admitted. We should find additional safety in a law requiring the immediate restriction of all aliens."

President Coolidge also expressed himself as opposed to tax exempt securities, saying:

"Another reform which is urgent in our fiscal system is the abolition of the right to issue tax-exempt securities. The existing system not only permits a large amount of wealth of the nation to escape its just burden, but acts as a continual stimulant to municipal extravagance. This should be prohibited by constitutional amendment."

HAMPTON MAN GETS 10 DAYS

Chronicle—William Hunt was arrested last Sunday night on the complaint of his neighbors in the north part of Hampton for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and Monday morning he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace J. J. Sharpe and given ten days in the county jail. The Hunt residence was searched after the arrest was made and a gallon can containing about a pint of raw alcohol was found at the place.

Hunt stated that he had received his alcohol from some bootleggers in Hampton but he later changed his statement and said that he purchased the liquor in Mason City, but he would not divulge the names of the parties who sold him the booze.

Enthusiasm

"Why don't you give us some of the good old-time oratory?" asked the constituent.

"Can't get up the inspiration, somehow," answered Senator Sorghum. "Why don't you give us some of the good old-time audiences?"

BELMOND TRAIN SCHEDULES

(Corrected to date.)

ROCK ISLAND

Going North

Freight, daily ..... 11:46 a. m.
Passenger, daily, ... 2:10 p. m.

Going South

Freight, daily ..... 1:10 p. m.
Passenger, daily ..... 11:50 a. m.

M. & ST. L.

Going West.

Combination, daily .... 8:30 a. m

Going East

Combination, daily ..... 8:35 p. m.

GREAT WESTERN

Going North

Motor, daily ..... 10:03 a. m.
No. 16, pass., D & S .... 1:30 p. m.
No. 12, pass., D & S .... 1:26 a. m.
Local Freight ..... 7:55 a. m.

Going South

No. 11, pass., D & S .... 1:24 a. m.
No. 15, pass., D & S .... 3:15 p. m.
Motor ..... 5:19 p. m.
Local Freight ..... 8:20 p. m.

Last Minute Xmas Suggestions

GAMES DISHES
KODAKS
VIOLINS
TRUNKS
CUT GLASS
GOLF BAGS
BILL FOLDS
GOLF BALLS
HAND BAGS
ACCORDIANS
BOX CANDIES
MUSIC ROLLS
TOOL CHESTS
AUTOMOBILES
SMOKING STAND
BOXING GLOVES
MANICURE SETS
MECHANICAL TOYS
WHITE IVORY SETS
MILITARY BRUSHES
AMBER TOILET SETS
FANCY BOX PERFUME
FLORIENT TOILET SETS
VICTROLAS and RECORDS
DUNN'S FOUNTAIN PENS
UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITERS
EDISON PHONOGRAPHS and RECORDS
WAHL'S EVERSHARP PENCIL
WATERMAN'S FOUNTAIN PEN
THREE FLOWER TOILET SETS
GARDEN GLO TOLET SETS
CHRISTMAS CARDS 2c to 50c

Schultz Drug Co.
Belmond, Iowa

Start the New Year Right

All during the past year we have been telling you about
IOWA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY
And
IT'S SAFE INVESTMENTS
so that NOW you KNOW more about the Company and WHY Investment in it is Fundamentally Safe.

YOUR FRIENDS and NEIGHBORS have found that the Gold Notes and Common Stock furnish a Dependable Income regularly paid, and are fully satisfied with their investments.

You have the same Opportunity, to start the NEW YEAR RIGHT, by investing in PUBLIC SERVICE that benefits your own HOME COMMUNITY and provides a GOOD INCOME SAFELY.

You may Invest $100 or more, and your Money begins Earning At Once.

Let us give you more particulars.

With the Season's Greetings, we are Respectfully,

Iowa Falls Electric Co.

Nice Things for Gifts

THERE IS ONLY ONE SUCH TIME O' YEAR AS CHRISTMAS AND IT IS FITTING AND PROPER THAT WE REMEMBER IT WITH THOUGHTFULNESS FOR OTHERS. FOR YOUR SELECTION WE OFFER

Sleds
Skates
Knives
Cutlery
Air Guns
Aluminum
Silver Ware
Carving Sets
Safety Razors
Embroidery Sets
Ingersol Watches
Electric Appliances

AND SCORES OF OTHERS. MAKE YOUR GIFT A USEFUL ONE. WE WILL BE GLAD TO SHOW YOU THE MANY USEFUL AND APPROPRIATE GIFTS FOR EVERY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

GRIESY'S
THE FRIENDLY STORE

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

FRIEND C. BRAS, O. D.
Optometrist

Eyes Examined and Glasses Fitted

Schultz Jewelry Store
Belmond, Iowa
MONDAY, DEC. 31

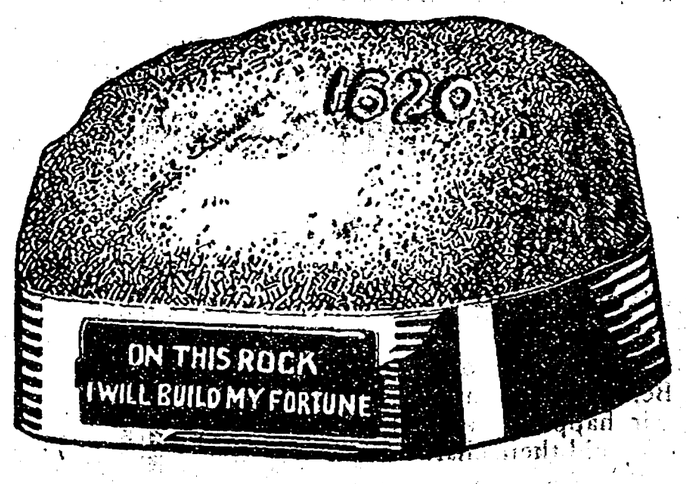
Give Woodruff's Footwear

LONG after the joys of Xmas are forgotten a gift from this store will be serving a practical need. Shoes, slippers and hosiery are always appreciated.

Make your selection here.

WOODRUFF'S
GOOD SHOES MASON CITY, IOWA

A Christmas Present
WHICH GROWS MORE VALUABLE WITH TIME
A Savings Account
made pleasing as well as valuable when presented with a
PLYMOUTH ROCK HOME SAVINGS BANK



A souvenir of that event in our nation's history; which is said to have shaped the destiny of this continent.

The historic Plymouth Rock is the

BELMOND SAVING'S BANK'S
CHRISTMAS GREETING

To all who open Savings Accounts with initial deposit of $1 or more for themselves, friends or relatives.

MESERVEY SECTION

OBITUARY

Eunice Leone Faaborg, infant daughter of James and Anna Faaborg was born July 12, 1923 and died December 12 after an illness of only three days, of bronichal pneumonia. She reached the age of five months. Short indeed has been her life's little day and the sunshine of her presence in her earthly home.

Besides her sorrowing parents she leaves to mourn her early departure the grandparens Mr. and Mrs. T. Nelson of Dows, Mr. and Mrs. Soren Faaborg of Meservey, and many other relatives.

"How brief the stay, as beautiful as fleeting. The time when baby came with us to dwell. Just long enough to give a happy greeting, Just long enough to say farewell!"

Mr. and Mrs. Faaborg have the deepest sympathy of all of their friends. Funeral services were held at the Evang. church Saturday at 10:30 a. m. conducted by Rev. A. W. Schlesselman. Interment was made in the cemetery at Dows.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our darling Eunice Leone, and also for the beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Faaborg.

The following Christmas program be given at the Methodist church Friday, Dec. 21 at 7:30 p. m.

The Lost Reindeer: 1st & 2nd. grade

Recitation, "The Lookout Man": Vona Proost.

Phone Message: Bernice Blewett

Dialogue, "A Letter to Santa Claus" 3rd & 4th grade pupils.

Song, "Santa Claus": 3rd & 4th grade pupils.

"Darning the Christmas Stocking": 3rd & 4th grade pupils.

Exercise, "At Christmas Time": 5th & 6th grade pupils.

Exercise, "Christmas Greetings": 5th & 6th grade pupils.

Monologue, Mildred Janssen.

Song, Christmas Carol: High School Boys.

Recitation: Arlene Nissen

Recitation: Iva Bier

Grandmother Dale's Christmas plan: 8th grade girls.

Story, "The First Christmas Tree": Sylvia Bloom.

Pantomime, "The Holy City": 7th grade girls.

The Freshmen and Sophomores were entertained at the home of Supt. Herbster last Friday evening where games were played and refreshments served. The Sophomores agricultural class has been taking some interesting field trips the past two weeks in order to judge live stock.

The Boy Scouts have organizel again into two patrols, the "Beavers" and the "Foxes." The following officers were elected: Patrol Leader of the Beavers, Donald Muller; Asst., Clarence Paul; Patrol Leader of the Foxes, Gerald Janssen; Asst., Donald Butz. Scribe, Clarence Pals and Senior Patrol Leader, Kenneth Herbster. The Scouts have pledged themselves not to smoke and to do a good deed every day. The first hike of the season was made Saturday at which time ten Scouts accompanied by Scout Master Herbster spent the day in the country five miles from town. The Scout's regular meeting night is on Monday.

The S. O. S. Sunday school class met with Donald Muller for the last meeting of this year. After the regular business session, election of officers took place with the following result:

Pres. Bernard Butz; Vice Pres. Walter Lauster; Sec. Olliver Sprau; Treas. Franklin Fischer.

Donald Butz and Donald Muller leave the class Jan. 1 to enter the "Friends" class.

L. B. Hulsebus of Dows was a caller here Thursday enroute to Clear Lake wher he and Ralph Wendel loaded up the balance of L. B.'s household goods. L. B. returned the same evening, Ralph and K. Ostendorf driving the Wendel truck to Dows Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Kaduce are the happy parents of a new son who arrived last Friday, Dec. 14.

The Misses Fannie Bruns and Jennie Meinderts and the former's father were Belmond business callers on Friday.

The Y. P. M. C. met with Miss Marie Fischer Tuesday evening for the regular meeting.

Miss Mildred Gealow was a Mason City caller Thursday for medical treatment.

Crist Groen and family of Belmond visited at the P. H. Pals home Sunday evening.

Miss Rose Nocolet of Thornton visited with Miss Jennie Meinderts and other friends Saturday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Sprau of Hayfield, Minn., visited at the home of his brother, F. C., last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nissen, Mrs. A. J. Nissen and children and Mrs. Wm. Hartfelder motored to Mason City Monday to spend the day.

Those from here who attended the declamatory contest at Thornton on Friday evening were the Misses Tillie and Ollie Pals, Jennie Meinderts, Orpha Smith and Viola Lauster, and Dale Smith and Albert Pals.

A. J. Nissen and family visited at the Harry Firkens home and at the L. B. Hulsebus home at Dows last Sunday p. m.

G. Lauster and son Walter were Mason City callers last Monday.

Theo. Wendel and son Ralph and Mrs. Albert Wendel were business callers at the county seat Monday.

Rev. H. Raecker returned on last Sunday from Logan where he had spent about a week with relatives.

Miss Orpha Smith and Harry Sorenson motored to Mason City last Thursday evening to attend a play.

Mrs. Frank Nissen and baby went to Ames last Tuesday to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sloss and with other relatives who will be present at a homecoming.

Buy a Radio for Christmas. See Hienie.

APPLES! Greenings and Malindas. Bushel basket $1.00. Bring basket or sack.—W. F. Butz. Phone 404. 52tfc

Undertaking

& Funeral Director

F. D. FULTON

Licensed Embalmer

Calls Answered Day or Night

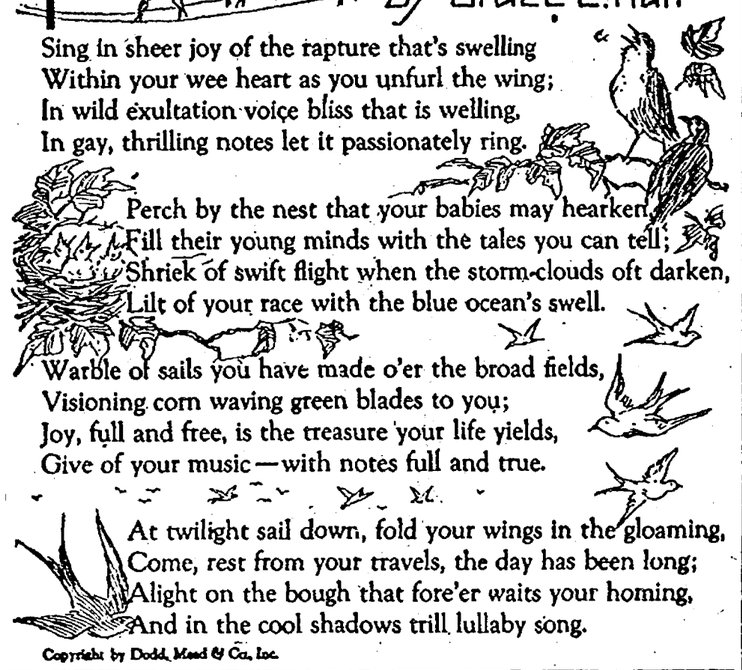
HARM J. GROEN, Mgr.

Phone--Residence 17: Office 20

Meservey, Iowa

To the Song Birds

By Grace E. Hall



Sing in sheer joy of the rapture that's swelling
Within your wee heart as you unfurl the wing;
In wild exultation voice bliss that is welling,
In gay, thrilling notes let it passionately ring.

Perch by the nest that your babies may hearken,
Fill their young minds with the tales you can tell;
Shriek of swift flight when the storm-clouds oft darken,
Lilt of your race with the blue ocean's swell.

Warble of sails you have made o'er the broad fields,
Visioning corn waving green blades to you;
Joy, full and free, is the treasure your life yields,
Give of your music—with notes full and true.

At twilight sail down, fold your wings in the gloaming,
Come, rest from your travels, the day has been long;
Alight on the bough that fore'er waits your homing,
And in the cool shadows trill lullaby song.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc.

A nephew of John Jordon and a friend arrived from Germany the latter part of the last week to make their home here.

The "Friends" class, met at the church basement on Tuesday evening of last week for their monthly business meeting.

The business houses of this place will be closed all day Tuesday, Dec. 25 to observe Christmas Day.

Joe Smith was a Mason City visitor Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. Schlesselman, Naomi and Paul, and Mrs. H. Fischer motored to Mason City, Tuesday.

The Evang. and Reformed Sunday schools are both busy preparing the programs for Christmas Eve.

Miss Sadie Frohling of Belmond was a caller in town Wednesday evening of last week.

Don't Neglect That

Battery

Let us recharge it for you and put it in shape for the winter---and last but not least, better put in a non-freezing solution in your radiator.

Meservey Garage

Phone 44 G. E. Raecker, Prop.

Simplified Accounting

A tourist in Arizona heard a shot and in a short time came upon a rough looking citizen busy cutting a notch on the handle of his gun.

"Have you killed a man, he gasped?"

"Nope."

"Then why the notch?" asked the relieved easterner.

"I only cuts 'em when I misses," said the bad man.

Meservey Barber Shop

H. F. REIF, Prop.

Laundry Dry Cleaning

Now is the time to

BUY YOUR BEEF By the Quarter

Prices are right

We also handle canned Pork and Beans, Sardines, Etc.

Cheese---all kinds.

Butter and Oleomargarine

We buy Hides and Cream.

City Meat Market

Waage & Rutter, Props.

Phone 27 Meservey, Iowa

OUR MOTTO--"QUALITY FIRST"

Only A Few Days Left

To Do Your Xmas Shopping

AND WE INVITE YOU TO CALL AND SEE OUR LINE OF PRACTICAL GIFTS, SUITABLE FOR ALL MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY OR FOR YOUR FRIENDS.

OUR GROCERY DEPARTMENT

IS COMPLETE AND GOODS ALWAYS FRESH

Occident and Mother's Flour

ARE RECEIVED FRESH EVERY TWO WEEKS. BOTH BRANDS GUARANTEED.

Poultry and Eggs Wanted

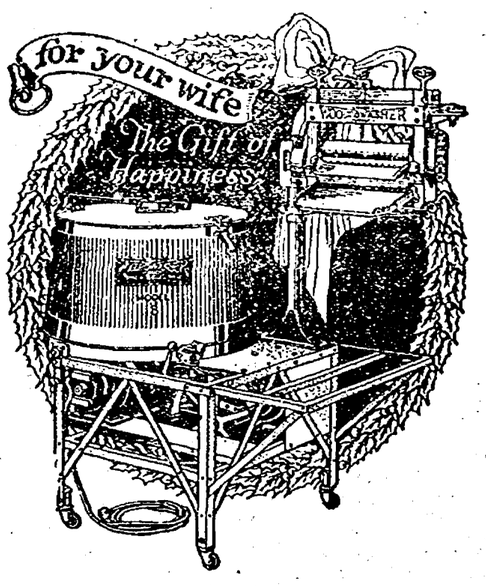
YOURS FOR SQUARE DEALING

Hulsebus-Muller Company

A. E. Muller, Proprietor

Meservey, Iowa

Make this Her Happiest Christmas



Join Our WOODROW WASHER Christmas Club

C. J. WENDEL

Meservey, Iowa

Christmas Gifts

are usually costly and often of little material value---

Why not give your boy or girl one of our Liberty Bell Savings Banks? They will add to their happiness and at the same time help mould their character.

We furnish these banks FREE of charge with a deposit of one dollar or more. Spendthrifts are always failures.

A BANK OF SERVICE AND SAFETY

FARMERS SAVINGS BANK

MESERVEY IOWA

GREETINGS

In sincere appreciation of your good will and friendship, we take pleasure in wishing you a

MERRY XMAS

and a

HAPPY NEW YEAR

H. J. KLEMME LUMBER CO.

HARM. J. GROEN, Mgr.

Office Phone 20 Res. Phone 17

ROWAN NEWS

Congregrational Church Notes.

Morning worship: A Christmas message at 10:30. The choir will present a Christmas anthem.

Sunday school at 11:30.

Senior Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Evening worship at 7:30.

Wednesday Junior Endeavor and prayer meeting at the regular hours.

On Christmas Eve there will be a cantata, also readings and songs.

Thru the courtesy of F. H. Brooks our church presents "Bachelor Daddy" on the evenings of Dec. 25-26. Be sure and see Thomas Meghen as the bachelor who encounters many problems with the children he has adopted.

There will be a high school debate at the school auditorium on Tuesday evening at 7:45. This is a preliminary contest for choosing a team to represent the school in the Iowa Debating League. The team chosen at this preliminary contest will debate with Stratford on Jan. 10, 1924 in the first step for state championship. Everbody is cordially invited to attend.

OBITUARY

Roy LaVerne Olson was born Feb. 28, 1905 in Scott twp., Franklin Co. and was baptised in the Methodist church April 23, 1905. Residing upon his mother's farm in Franklin county he grew to young manhood and took a great interest in farming. He was a member of the pig and calf club of Franklin county of which organization he afterwards became the president. He graduated from the Latimer public schools on May 25, 1923. His intentions were to take up the study of dairying at the agriculture college at Ames this next fall. Roy had enjoyed his usual degree of health but upon Dec. 6 he was suddenly taken ill with acute appendicitis. He was rushed to the hospital at Iowa Falls where he was operated upon but the shock was more than he could bear and he passed away at Iowa Falls Dec. 13, 1923 at the age of 18 years, 9 months and 15 days.

His friends were numbered by his acquaintances. He was a very industrious young man of pleasing personality and generous disposition.

The deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Bessie Olson, four brothers, Victor Herman, Lester and Albert, two sisters, Bertha and Mable, all residents of Franklin county. His father died while Roy was but a small boy. Short funeral services were conducted by Rev. Geo. A. Osborn at the home and the customary funeral services were held at the Rowan Methodist church at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Interment was in the Rowan cemetery.

Those from a distance attending the funeral were Mrs. Emma Heis and Son Roy of Atkinson, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Christianson from Storm Lake, Ia., Mrs. Jennie Whitman and son Donald of Albert City, Ia., and Mrs. Edith Harkness and daughter of Harris, Ia.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Classes for all ages. The Sunday school is important. Morning service at 11 a. m. A Christmas sermon. There will be no evening services as the pastor is to be with the church at Latimer on Sunday eve.

On Monday evening we will have the Christmas program at the usual hour. Much preparation is being made to make the program a success.

On Dec. 26 Prof. Joseph Waugh is to meet the singers for the chorus choir at 7 p. m. Dr. J. H. Mahood is to be with us on the 27th and the general public is invited to come and enjoy the meetings which begin on that date.

Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Osborn and Mrs. F. B. Sheldon were in Hampton Thursday calling on Mrs. Geo. Liming, who is still in the sanitarium at Hampton, but is improving.

Mrs. Will Bingham has been on the sick list the past week but is much improved at this writing.

Mrs. Ellen McCallum of Belmond was in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baines and son Darrell of Dows were Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. Hannah Whitten.

Rev. Mershon of Sioux City was in town several days last week in the interest of raising funds for the new M. E. hospital to be built at Sioux City.

Rev. and Mrs. Osborn were Thornton callers Friday where he was called to be one of the judges in an oratorical contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tresidder spent Friday with their son Howard and family at Clarion.

Mrs. Hubbard McCallum from Mason City spent the past week at the R. H. Virden home.

Robert Holliday arrived Wednesday of this week from Cedar Falls to spend the vacation with his parents. He recently took part in a debate "That the U. S. Should Enter the League of Nations." Simpson college having the affirmative and Cedar Falls Normal the negative. The latter won.

Miss Wilda Whitten arrived home Wednesday from Galva where she has been teaching the past few months.

Miss Bonnie Thomas went to Williams to visit relatives until after Christmas.

The Cong. Mission study club met with Mrs. Fred Kercheval last Wednesday evening with about 30 in attendance. Frances Virden led the meeting. After the lesson games were played. Mesdames R. A. Azeltino and C. T. Halbert were the winners. The rooms were decorated fitting for the Christmas tide with a Christmas tree with the gifts which were brought for exchange. Lunch was served by Mrs. Kercheval with Mrs. Howard Box and Miss LaVonne Ballou as assistant hostesses.

Rev. and Mrs. O. H. Spellman of Clarion were callers at the Rev. C. T. Halbert home last Thursday.

Mrs. Theo. Hansen was quite ill the first of the week.

Mrs. Paul Keefe and children of Hampton spent a part of last week at the Fred Webber home.

Max Steffens went to LaPorte. last Wednesday to see his mother and family.

The high school students enjoyed themselves very much at a party in the school building last Friday evening when the Juniors entertained the entire high school.

Waite Reading of Churdan arrived last Tuesday for a short visit at his sister's, Mrs. L. R. Fitz.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burt and Mrs. L. A. McCallum were Clarion visitors Saturday.

G. S. Liming and daughter Lorine and Garnette Stumph were at Hampton, Sunday, to see Mrs. Liming.

Raymond Burrows and his sister Myrtle of Dows spent Friday evening at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Hannah Whitten.

F. H. Brooks and D. W. Whitten were Clarion business callers last Thursday.

The Rowan basket ball teams went to Chapin last Thursday evening and again carried off the honors in a double header. On Friday evening of this week our local teams go to Iowa Falls. This promises to be a very interesting game.

Miss Susan Duffy arrived from Cedar Falls, Saturday, to attend the Olson funeral.

R. H. Keith was a Hampton visitor last Wednesday.

F. M. Myers was in Clarion last Thursday.

The M. E. Sunday school board met in the class room Monday evening and the official board met the same evening at 8 p. m. for business sessions.

John Revo was in town Sunday, shaking hands with old friends. He has been hauling gravel near Forest City and moved with the gang to the southern part of the state the first of the week.

Mrs. Alber Emerson and daughter Esther and Miss Clio Duffy were in Belmond last Wednesday.

Mrs. Elmer Burt and brother, H. Shurson, have been at Eagle Grove the past two weeks caring for their mother who has been seriously ill. At this writing she is still with her mother, who is improving slowly.

Rev. J. T. Cruzan of Iowa Falls, a union Sunday school worker, spoke at each of the Sunday schools Sunday morning and also preached at a union service in the M. E. church Sunday evening.

Mrs. Sim Stout and Mrs. Bert Pierce were Hampton visitors on last Thursday.

Miss Tillie Coy of Belmond is spending the week with her friend Miss Dorothy Steffens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lindsey Mr. and Mrs. Harland Hill of Harvey neighborhood were Sunday guests at the Fred Kercheval home.

Mrs. Laura Mullins of Aberdeen, S. D., arrived last week for a visit with her brother, R. Virden.

The Farmers' Union enjoyed an oyster supper last Thursday.

Clarence Day of Iowa Falls and Mrs. Anna Snow of LaPorte were visiting at the Ben Hadley home last Friday. Mrs. Snow is an aunt of Mrs. Hadley.

Miss Nora Shaffer, Dorothy Steffens and Wm. Shaffer were Mason City shoppers last Thursday.

Mrs. Guy Sheldon entertained her daughter's. Maxine's, Sunday school class at her home Monday evening.

Mr and Mrs. Howard Box and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Azeltine were at Ft. Dodge last Tuesday.

Several from here attended the poultry show at Clarion last week. Mrs. Chas. Richards and Miss Thelma Streveler succeeded in winning several of the prizes.

Miss Florence Wilder of Iowa Falls came up Saturday to spend the week end with her friend, Mrs. Jas. Burt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Simon were at Eagle Grove Thursday.

Mrs. Geo. Pritchett was on the sick list the first of the week.

Mrs. Byron Riley departed Saturday for Holyoke, Col., to attend the funeral of a cousin.

Rowan Methodist Church Notes

Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Morning worship at 11.

Epworth League at 6:30 p. m.

Evening worship at 7:30.

Wednesday evening Bible study and prayer meeting.

We have been fortunate in securing Dr. J. W. Mahood and his singer for a two weeks' series of meetings. The meetings will begin on Dec. 26.

GOODELL NEWS

Thor Alavig returned Saturday Thompson where he has been visiting relatives.

Ruth Ness returned from the Hampton hospital Tuesday.

The Frank Clark family moved on Wednesday to their house in the north part of town.

Mrs. Gaylord of Randall visited a few days last week at the Geo. Ness home.

Andrew Anderson of Garner and Lew Larson of Albert Lea visited on Saturday at the homes of Mrs. John Ahrenkeil and Mrs. C. Christenson.

Miss Maude Griggs entertained the lady members of the Twin Lake and Avery Farm Bureaus at her home Friday. An interesting course in nutrition was taken up.

Mr. and Mrs. Knoll are the parents of a baby girl.

Miss Barry of Belmond has consented to take up the music class that Miss Ina Ahrenkeil gave up. Work will be started after the holidays.

Will Lamar was a business caller in Klemme Saturday.

Wednesday evening a social party of friends of Ruth Ness gathered at her home to help her celebrate her 21st birthday.

Don't forget the grade Christmas program at the Opera House Friday eve., Dec. 21.

Crystal Lake boys and girls basket ball teams played with Goodell on Friday evening, Crystal Lake winning both games. Adolph Skovlin of Belmond refereed the games.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Graeber attended a birthday party at the John McCordkle home at Kanawha, last week, the affair being honor of the birthday of Thelma.

Frances Quigley opened a barber shop in Goodell Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Quigley are living in the rooms owned by Joe Heginger.

The Will Allaben family and the Mesdames Robert McNutt and Letch were Klemme shoppers Saturday.

Bob Wilson of Cornelia was a business caller here Saturday.

Miss Olive Butts will spend the winter in Goodell with her folks.

The U. B. church will give a Christmas program on Christmas Eve.

Misses Mylie and Shoenwetter were shoppers at Belmond, Saturday

Ray Bachman returned Saturday from Ventura where he had been doing some mason work.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitaker left Wednesday to visit her parents who live at Spencer.

Chris Deiger returned Thursday from Chicago where he has been visiting relatives.

Mr. Purdy and Miss Rena from Belmond were visitors at the Butts home Sunday.

Miss Katherine Thiltgen of Belmond visited Sunday with her friend Olive Butts.

ALEXANDER NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and son Kenneth visited with relatives at Iowa Falls, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Greenfield and son were Sunday visitors at Popejoy.

Jesse Arends was a caller at Belmond last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen, Mr and Mrs. Chas. Winwood and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gillett were shoppers at Mason City last Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Winwood and daughter Miss Mary, were callers at Hampton Monday.

John Dirksen of Hampton was a visitor at this place Sunday.

Clarence Murphy and family moved their household goods to Hampton where they will make their future home.

The Will Tinkey family move to the M. E. parsonage vacated by the Murphy family, and Mrs. Ellen Peck will move into the house vacated by Tinkey.

Peter Bohlen spent several days the past week visiting his brother, Joe, at Sac City.

The Dorcas society will be entertained by Miss Jessie Bell on next Thursday afternoon, Dec. 27. A large attendance is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Osborne from Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas and children of Galt and J. F. Douglas of Hampton spent the day Sunday at the Otto Kieslich home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Beenen visited at the home of Mrs. Beenen's sister, Mrs. Sandy Pink, at Hampton, Sunday.

Miss Nellie Bell was a caller at Clarion the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenfield and son and Mrs. Mabel Symens were business callers at Hampton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Raisch of Dumont were visitors at the Peter Bohlen home the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilko Pals and son Ormal, and Mr. and Mrs. Clate Symens and Susie and Ethel Schulte were Sunday visitors at the Dick Van Horn home near Aredale.

A. H. Winwood was a business caller at Clarion, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harm Dirks from Meservey were Sunday visitors at the Dick Schmidt home.

Theo. Nelson, Leonard and Ben Arends, who attend college at Elmhurst, Ill., came home Saturday to spend vacation during the holidays.

Misses Marjory Flynn, Mary Kernen and Oralee Brooks spent the week end at their respective homes in Belmond.

Arthur Winwood was a business caller at Hampton Tuesday.

John Arends and son Jesse were callers at Rowan, Saturday.

Carl Bohlen was transacting business at Belmond the first of the week.

On Tuesday evening of last week a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murphy gathered at their home and gave them a very pleasant surprise. An enjoyable evening was spent after which an oyster stew was served. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were presented with a beautiful rug as a token of remembrance. The Murphy family will be greatly missed in our community.

All In The Family.

An artist who occupied a studio on the top floor of a large building was disposed to be very pleasant to the janitress.

"How many children have you, Mrs. O'Flarity?" he asked her one morning as she was polishing the doorknob.

"It's siven I have, sor," she replied "and lucky I am too. Bless 'em! Four be the third wife of me second husband three by the second wife of me furst."

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP

The Supt. and the Sunday school teachers of the Immanuel Reformed church are preparing a Christmas program which will be given the evening of the 24th.

Several of the rural schools close tomorrow for a two weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Traeger and family autoed to Mason City last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Finn and children Donald and Ruth were Mason City visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCormick and family visited at the parental Halverson home near Miller, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Dorenkamp, Sr. spent Sunday afternoon at the John Wientjes home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thayer and children were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Erwin Dipple home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barkema entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eckhoff of near Meservey, at their home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Barker spent Sunday afternoon at the parental W. A. Gartz home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dorenkamp are the proud parents of a baby son.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frohling and children and Grace Gartz attended the primary grade program in the Alexander school last Friday evening.

SCRUB BOAR COST HIM $1,000

How a scrub boar owned by a farmer in Union county, Ky., cost him $1,000 is told by Wayland Rhoads, field agent in an animal husbandry of the Kentucky extension service. The first cost of the boar was $8. He was bred to 12 sows, each of which produced two litters of pigs while the boar was head of the herd. All the 24 litters made unsatisfactory growth.

Later, in connection with the "better sires—better stock" movement, the farmer replaced the boar with a good purebred and used the same sows. The pigs sired by the purebred boar brought the owner $1,000 more in the same length of time than the pigs which the scrub boar had sired. The two experiences caused the Union county farmer to conclude that the use of the scrub boar for 24 litters of pigs had cost him $1,000. According to United States Department of Agriculture livestock specialists, to whom Mr. Rhroads related this incident, scrub sires are the most expensive kind a farmer can keep, a fact supported by the foregoing result.—Ex.

Here and There

Miss Cora McNutt, of Belmond was a week-end guest of Miss Blanche McCallum.—Monitor.

Miss Gladys Forristal, of Belmond spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Loux.—Monitor.

Henry Saatoff, of Belmond was a brief caller in our city Tuesday afternoon.—Reporter.

Mrs. Lieuwen, of Belmond spent the first of the week here with her daughter, Mrs. M. L. Baker and family.—Rporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Pierce came over from Belmond Friday, and visited until Saturday at the E. A. Norton home, when they departed for Chicago where they will make their future home.—Monitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Eggers moved to Garner Monday where "Shorty" will be employed by the Motor Sales Company. We are sorry to lose this estimable young couple and trust they will enjoy and prosper in their new home.—Reporter.

Mr. Waltz, of Belmond was a visitor at the home of his nephew, Geo. Baldridge and family last Thursday. Mr. Waltz had been visiting in Minnesota and stopped here while enroute home.—Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Rourk and daughter, Mrs. Leo Gilligan, and their guests, Mesdames Noonan and Frank Rourk, of Britt, autoed to Belmond last Thursday afternoon to visit the former's daughter, Mrs. Wm. Parker and husband. From there they went to the farm home of their daughter, Mrs. Anson Avery and husband, near Goodell, where they were entertained at a fine six o'clock dinner.—Reporter.

A Stickler

Rescuer—Hold on tight! Hold on tight!

School Teacher (struggling in the water)—Don't say that—say "Hold on tightly!"

Yes, Who Would?

The Young Wife—The new nurse is very scientific. She never lets anyone kiss the baby while she is around.

The Husband—Who would?

And the next day the nurse left.

MRS. ANDREW BULLIS

Martha Isabelle Chapman was born at Roscoe, Winnebago county, Ill., June 18, 1852. She spent her girlhood days at home, in Illinois, coming to Iowa at the age of 29 to teach school. The deceased was united in marriage to Andrew Bullis on Aug. 26, 1882. This union proved to be a happy one, the couple having the great privilege of living together for over 41 years.

Mrs. Bullis gave her heart to her Savior early in life and has kept faith that makes for a devoted christian character. She united with the Methodist church early in life and has remained a faithful member of same. She has been active in the different societies of the church as long as health would permit. Her life is the kind that is missed when gone. Our loss is heaven's gain. All that kind hands could do were done to make her last days as pleasant and comfortable as possible. The end came Saturday morning.

She departed this life at the age of 71 years, 5 months and 27 days. Those who are left to mourn are husband, 5 sisters and one brother, besides a number of nieces and other relatives and friends.

She is gone but not forgotten. How hard is the separation, but Christ has given us a hope that reaches beyond this vale of tears and enables us to say:

Soon shall we meet again,
Meet ne'er to sever;
Soon shall peace wreath her chain
Round us forever.
Our hearts will then repose
Secure from worldy woes,
Our songs of praise shall close
Never—no, never.

Mrs. Bullis was one of those characters all too rare in this world, whose life and all that it contained was devoted to those she loved and to their advancement and pleasure and to the duties of her religion. She had many friends but was never of aggressive disposition or effort. While she had health she was faithful to all the duties of life as she knew them and left to others the civic or social leadership of the community. Withal she had thru her friendships and acquaintances a strong influence in the community and that ifluence was always for good.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist church last Sunday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. O'Connor, interment being in Belmond cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for the beautiful flowers and kindly help given us during the illness and death of our beloved one.

W. A. Bullis and Family.

HAMPTON TO HAVE COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS

Hampton is arranging for a community Christmas observance this year that promises to be a good one. A big community Christmas tree is to be installed at the courthouse yard which will be decorated in true holiday style. All the electroliers on the main business street will be decorated up with Christmas decoration, the whole to be ready for the opening display Saturday. Hampton merchants will decorate their window in keeping with the occasion. Some free attractions will also be given by high school students, glee clubs and similar bodies, and a number of feature stunts will be given. The affair is under the auspices of the Hampton Commercial club.

Subscribe for the Belmond Independent.

WHEN much of the West was still a range country, it was a common practice in a trade to throw in something "to boot." The general natural resources of the Mid-West seemed to influence the pioneer in all his trading transactions.

In keeping with this sentiment the White Produce Company aim always to render better service than is expected---better than might be necessary--better than is customary---and a better price than elsewhere. We believe in giving an extra measure in service and price.

WE WISH YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR

WHITE PRODUCE COMPANY

Belmond, :: Goodell

"FOR UNTO YOU IS BORN A SAVIOR"

A Christmas Sermon Written For The Independent By Rev. J. M. Jensen.

Luke 2.11. "For unto you is born this day in the city of David. a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

We are approaching the big event of the year, Christmas! We greet our friends with "A Merry Christmas," and then in return we receive "Thanks! The same to you." A custim! Possibly, and yet the fact remains that Christmas is after all, the most happy event in the year.

Christmas is to the world in the deepest spiritual sense, what the 4th of July is to the nation. As this day is the result of a long, tedious, drawn out struggle for liberty, so Christmas is the result if God's great plan for man's redemption.

Way back in the early history of the world, the unhappy experience of sin was fully realized. Disobedience to God made havoc with Adam's and Eve's peace with God. With this came the final and irresistable estrangement from God. Oh what a pity that sin should cause such disturbance! What unhappy relationships between God and man have not since been in evidence. Hatred has taken place of love, disruption and conflict have driven peace and harmony away. And then all the other unpleasant experiences, suffering and agony. Who can measure them or count them.

All this is man's heirloom on account of sin's entrance into the world by one man. and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned. Get this, believe this, honestly admit this, and confess this, and you are in a position to appreciate the angels' greeting to the Shepherds: "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

First the message reads: "Unto you is born a Savior." A Savior is one who saves, preserves, or delivers from destruction or danger. This is precisely what Jesus is. "And thou shalt call his name Jesus for he shall deliver his people from their sin."

Thanks be to God, for this unspeakable gift to the world. Could He do this and would He do it? Here is the answer: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." Jesus can save us if we believe in Him. This is God's decree and no alteraton will be made. This is final, saved if we believe, lost if we remain in unbelief.

Thus Jesus is Lord. "For unto you is born a Savior, which is Christ the Lord." Jesus does not only claim the right and the power to save from sin, He demands lordship over those He has saved from sin. Jesus does not only save from guilt and punishment, He saves from the power of sin. No one needs to be a slave to sin. And, what is more, no one can be a slave to sin and have the satisfying enjoyment of "A Merry Christmas."

Then, my dear friends, reading this short message, would you want to live in sin and sear the conscience that was once made happy by the redeeming faith in a merciful and loving Savior? No! You would not want to do this. Pray God for grace to remain faithful to that resolve. Then you will have A Merry Christmas every recurring 25th of December. You will have Christmas every day, because "that peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your mind and thoughts in Christ Jesus."

God grant you, dear reader, a most blessed and happy Christmas at the manger with the shepherds and all who sing praises to God for His unspeakable love.

MODERN METHODS

Jinks said he wouldn't advertise,
He didn't have to do it;
That he had worth while goods for sale
And everybody knew it.
He gave full value for their cash
And folks knew his location;
Why should he spend his profits
When there was no provocation?
He seldom changed his windows,
So nobody stopped to look.
No new names graced his ancient stock,
Folks knew it like a book.
Then young Jack Rushmore started up
A store right down the street;
Each day he ran a little ad,
His windows were a treat.
Soon it was simple that things,
For Jinks
Were on the downward grade.
He wouldn't change his old time ways
So Rushmore got the trade.
Just mention advertisement,
If you want to get Jinks sore,
For now he's running one that reads:
"For Sale or Rent, A Store."

AUTOS KILL 11,666 IN 1922

A continued increase in the death rate from automobile accidents is reported by the census bureau, which places the rate at 12.5 per 100,000 of population in the registration area last year as compared with 11.5 in 1921 and 9.0 in 1917.

Fatalities in 1922, the report says, totalled 11,666, an increase of 1,498 over the preceding year. The figures cover 85 per cent of the nation's population.

California had the highest rate—26.0 per 100,000 of population—and Mississippi had the lowest with 3.4, while Vermont showed the greatest increase with a rate of 11.1 against Connecticut, Massachusetts, Montana, Virginia and Washington reported declines in the rate, Washington leading this division with a reduction from 14.5 per 100,000 in 1921 to 12.3 in 1922.

AN INTERESTING BIT OF EARLY IOWA HISTORY

Dexter, Dec. 5—Dexter's bridge, for more tha 50 years a familiar landmark on upper Lime creek, has at last succumbed to the onslaught of time. The rough boulder masonry has crumbled and disappeared beneath the silt of the river's bed, the low-swung truss-work has been dismantled and the last cumbersome beam carried away. Thus another old landmark has gone the way of the pioneers who built it; and the curtain has dropped for the last time on a bridge once famous from the fact that the first passenger to cross its rough-hewn plank floor was no les a personage than Jessie James, the noted southern bandit.

The passing of the old landmark recalls a bit of unwritten early Iowa history dating back nearly 70 years, when a few white "squatters" living on speculators' land southeast of Pilot Knob, spanned the first trestle-bridge ever built on Lime sreek. The crude and shaky structure was made entirely of native oak and walnut logs cut in what is now Ellington township, Hancock county. The trees were felled during the summer months and rafted down stream to the southwest corner of section 9 in Gant township, Cerro Gordo county, where the bridge was built after the river froze up in the fall.

Less than 8 feet in width, scarcely wide enough for the passage of an ox team, low and shakey with its trestle-trees wedged and keyed with oaken pins, it was the first bridge ever built by whites in the Upper Lme creek valley; and n spite of its crude and primitive construction, it gave goid service for several years, In time, however, it succumbed to the flood waters of a March thaw and every vistage if the bridge was swept away.

A second bridge, somewhat on the order of the first, was built some years later on the same site. It was built wider than the first, iron bolts were used in is construction and it was set well above high-water mark and thus not endangered by spring floods. Its life, however, was of short duration, for its trestle-trees were soon damaged by a prarie fire to such an extent that the bridge was condemned as unsafe. In time it collapsed, and like its predecessor, was carried away by the floods.

Along in the early seventies a third bridge was built on the old site. It was named "Dexter's bridge" in honor of Mark Dexter, one of the early settlers in the neighborhood and who is believed to have had a sub contract in the building of the bridge. The day on which the work was completed, according to a story current here 35 to 40 years ago Jessie James and his gang of southern bandits crossed the bridge enroute on their ill-fated expedition to North field.

The approach to the bridge from the south, so the story goes, had been graded ti a level with the floor, but at the north end of the bridge was a sheer jump-off of 10 feet. A metal sign bearing the once familiar legend "$5.00 fine for riding or diving over this bridge faster than a walk," had just been put in place by a workman when Jessie James at the head of his band of desperadies rode up from the south. The sign, surmounted by a six-pointed star, evidently amused the robber chief, and he smilingly asked a workman:

"What does that sign up there say, stranger?"

"It says that there s ia $5 fine for driving or riding over the new bridge faster than a walk," the man replied.

"That's too damned slow!" the robber replied as he struck his horse a cutting blow with the butt of a huge Colt's revolver, and then dashed at thundering speed across the bridge. As his horse took the 10 foot leap at the north end, Jessie James wheeled in his saddle and fired six shots in rapid succession at the offending sign. There was a sharp, metallc tinkle of falling metal as the six points of the star, one after the other, dropped to the floor of the bridge. Every shot had found its mark, and the bandit's companions uttered a wild cheer as they pronounced the feat the best exhibition of markmanship ever performed by their leader!—Globe Gazette.

(Editor's note—Fred Meacham of Belmond, handed us the foregoing interesting article, and we understood him to say that he was one of the man who assisted in building the bridge.)

A Want Ad brings the results. Ask those who have tried one. Sell that stove, rent, trade or buy what you want thru an Independent Want Ad.

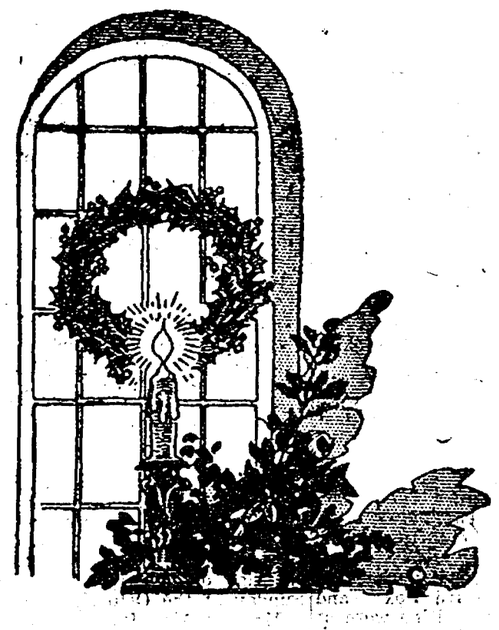
Three Cars in One!

A wonderful business car for dad—big loading space for samples, grips, tools, anything—by removing rear seat and upholstery! A wonderful closed car for the whole family—both seats adjustable forward and backward to accommodate everybody, tall and short! A wonderful vacation car for next summer—seats and upholstery make up into full-sized bed! More service at less cost! Come and enjoy a free demonstration.

NEW Overland $695 f.o.b. Toledo CHAMPION

Nordschow Motor Company

Belmond, Iowa



THREE WISHES--

That your Christmas candles may burn brightly;

That the colorful holly may symbolize for you true Holiday Happiness;

That your tree may be laden not only with bountiful gifts, but with priceless Christmas friendships.

These are our heartfelt wishes as we extend to you the age-old but cordial greeting—

A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

STATE BANK OF BELMOND
BELMOND IOWA

B. A. REEMTSMA
AUCTIONEER

Farm and General Sales

A Good Auctioneer At A Reasonable Price.

For dates and terms write me at Garner, Iowa, Route 4, or phone Klemme No. 2907.

TUNE IN

Any Night for a Radio Program from

W. L. W
Crosley Mfg. Company
Cincinnatti, Ohio
with a
CROSLEY X-J SET
The Ideal Xmas Gift

Sold by
THE RADIO SHOP
V. E. HANSON

Kinseth's Store News

A Merry Christmas to you all, and may Santa Claus leave in your stocking those things which you desire. One of those things is probably some good candy, and if Santa gets it here it will be. We have dandy Christmas candies at only 22 cents a pound.

And we have a nice assortment of Christmas presents of various descriptions, for dad and mother, and the kids. Look our list over; we will be glad to show you.

As a desert for the Christmas dinner we suggest some of our delicious sliced peaches, sweet and tasty, and only 75 cents a gallon.

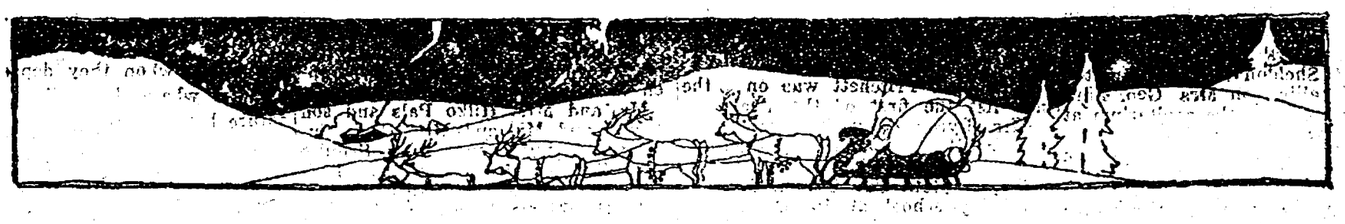
Of course apples. Christmas without some good apples wouldn't seem just right, would it? We have for you Jonathans by the box at $2.65, or bushel apples at $1.75. Have a box sent up before Christmas.

Fresh vegetables of all kinds for you, including radishes, carrots, lettuce, celery, onions, and many more.

Oranges—the old stand-by for this occasion—juicy ones, sweet and full of satisfying flavor—at 28, 33, 40, and 60 cents a dozen. How many?

Just remember the Store on the Corner, and follow the crowds any time of day or in the evening. We're open. And we deliver.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS, ALL!



SANTA CLAUS IS ON THE WAY!

And we are ready to help you greet him. Our store is crammed with gifts for the whole family, and at happy prices, too.

SILVERWARE

DISHES—the latest and most popular patterns

KILDIE KARS

VACUUM BOTTLES
ALUMINUM WARE
ELECTRICAL GOODS

Toys of All Descriptions

SKATES
SLEDS
WAGONS

Johnson & Wright

Belmond, Iowa

The BROWN MOUSE

by Herbert Quick

COPYRIGHT by THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Jennie Woodruff contemptuously refuses to marry Jim Irwin, young farm hand, because of his financial condition and poor prospects. He is intellectually above his station, and has advanced ideas concerning the possibilities of expert school teaching, for which he is ridiculed by many.

CHAPTER II.—More as a joke than otherwise Jim is selected as teacher of the Woodruff district school.

CHAPTER III.—Jim, in his new position, sets out to make stanch friends of his pupils, especially two boys, Newton Bronson and "Buddy" Simms, the latter the son of a shiftless farmer. Colonel Woodruff, Jennie's father, has little faith in Jim's ideas of improving rural educational methods. He nicknames him the "Brown Mouse," in illustration of an anecdote.

Jim Irwin was the least conspicuous person in the gathering, but the colonel, who was a seasoned politician, observed that the farm-hand had become a fisher of men, and was angling for the souls of these boys, and their interest in the school. Jim was careful not to flush the covey, but every boy received from the next winter's teacher some confidential hint as to plans, and some suggestion that Jim was relying on the aid and comfort of that particular boy.

Newt Bronson, especially, was leaned on as a strong staff and a very present help in time of trouble. As for Raymond Simms, it was clearly best to leave him alone. All this talk of corn selection and related things was new to him, and he drank it in thirstily. He had an inestimable advantage over Newt in that he was starved, while Newt was surfeited with "advantages" for which he had no use.

"Jennie," said Colonel Woodruff, after the party had broken up, "I'm losing the best hand I ever had, and I've been sorry."

"I'm glad he's leaving you," said Jennie. "He ought to do something except work in the field for wages."

"I've had no idea he could make good as a teacher—and what is there in it if he does?"

"What has he lost if he doesn't?" rejoined Jennie. "And why can't he make good?"

"The school board's against him, for one thing," replied the colonel. "They'll fire him if they get a chance. They're the laughing-stock of the country for hiring him by mistake, and they're irritated. But after seeing him perform tonight, I wonder if he can't make good."

"If he could feel like anything but an underling, he'd succeed," said Jennie.

"That's his heredity," stated the colonel, whose live stock operations were based on heredity. "Jim's a scrub, I suppose; but he acts as if he might turn out to be a Brown Mouse."

"What do you mean, pa," scoffed Jennie—"a Brown Mouse!"

"A fellow in Edinburgh," said the colonel, "crossed the Japanese waltzing mouse with the common white mouse. Jim's peddling father was a waltzing mouse, no good except to jump from one spot to another for no good reason. Jim's mother is an albino of a woman, with all the color washed out in one way or another. Jim ought to be a mongrel, and I've always considered him one. But the Edinburgh fellow every once in a while got out of his variously-colored, waltzing and albino hybrids, a brown mouse. It wasn't a common house mouse, either, but a wild mouse unlike any he had ever seen. It ran away, and bit and gnawed and raised hob. It was what we breeders call a Mendelian segregation of genetic factors that had been in the waltzers and albinos all the time—their original wild ancestor of the woods and fields. If Jim turns out to be a brown mouse, he may be a bigger man than any of us. Anyhow, I'm for him."

"He'll have to be a big man to make anything out of the job of a country school teacher," said Jennie.

"Any job's as big as the man who holds it down," said her father.

Next day Jim received a letter from Jennie.

"Dear Jim," it ran. "Father says you are sure to have a hard time—the school board's against you, and all that. But he added 'I'm for Jim, anyhow!' I thought you'd like to know this. Also he said, 'Any job's as big as the man who holds it down.' And I believe this also, and I'm for you, too! You are doing wonders even before the school starts in getting the pupils interested in a lot of things, which, while they don't belong to school work, will make them friends of yours. I don't see how this will help you much, but it's a fine thing, and shows your interest in them. Don't be too original. The wheel runs easiest in the beaten track. Yours, Jennie."

Jennie's caution made no impression on Jim—but he put the letter away, and every evening took it out and read the words, "I'm for you, too!" The colonel's dictum, "Any job's as big as the man who holds it down," was an Emersonian truism to Jim. It reduced all jobs to an equality, and it meant equality in intellectual and spiritual development. It didn't mean, for instance, that any job was as good as another in making it possible for a man to marry—and Jennie Woodruff's "Humph!" returned to kill and drag off her "I'm for you, too!"

CHAPTER IV

The First Day of School.

Jim Irwin was full of his Emerson's "Representative Men," and his Carlyle's "French Revolution," and the other old-fashioned, excellent, good literature which did not cost over 25 cents a volume; and he had pored long and with many thrills over the pages of Matthews' "Getting On in the World." His view of efficiency was that it is the capacity to see opportunity where others overlook it, and make the most of it.

All through his life he had had his own plans for becoming great. And all the time he was bare-footed, ill-clad and dreamed his dreams to the accompaniment of the growl of the plow cutting the roots under the brown furrow-slice, or the wooshing of the milk in the pail. At twenty-eight, he considered these dreams over.

As for this new employment, he saw no great opportunity in it. He went into the small, mean, ill-paid task as a part of the day's work, with no knowledge of the stirring of the nation for a different sort of rural school, and no suspicion that there lay in it any highway to success in life. He rather wondered why he had allowed Jennie's sneer to sting him into the course of action which put him in this new relation to his neighbors.

But, true to his belief in honest, thorough work, like a general preparing for battle, he examined his field of operations. His manner of doing this seemed to prove to Colonel Woodruff, who watched it with keen interest as something new in the world, that Jim Irwin was possibly a Brown Mouse. But the colonel knew only a part of Jim's performances. He saw Jim clothed in slickers, walking through rainstorms to the houses in the Woodruff district, as greedy for every moment of rain as a haymaker for shine; and he knew that Jim made a great many evening calls.

But he did not know that Jim was making what our sociologists call a survey. For that matter, neither did Jim; for books on sociology cost more than 25 cents a volume, and Jim had never seen one. However, it was a survey. To be sure, he had long known everybody in the district, save the Simmses—and he was now a friend of all that exotic race; but there is knowing and knowing.

He now had note-books full of facts about people and their farms. He knew how many acres each family possessed, and what sort of farming each husband was doing—live stock, grain or mixed. He knew about the mortgages, and the debts. He knew whether the family atmosphere was happy and contented, or the reverse. He knew which boys and girls were wayward and insubordinate. He made a record of the advancement in their studies of all the children, and what they liked to read. He knew their favorite amusements. He talked with their mothers and sisters—not about the school, to any extent, but on the weather, the horses, the automobiles, the silo-filling machinery and the profits of farming.

Really, though Jennie Woodruff did not see how such doings related to school work, Jim Irwin's school was running full blast in the homes of the district and the minds of many pupils, weeks and weeks before that day when he called them to order on the Monday specified in his contract as the first day of school.

Con Bonner, who came to see the opening, voiced the sentiments of the older people when he condemned the school as disorderly. To be sure, there were more pupils enrolled than had ever entered on a first day in the whole history of the school, and it was hard to accommodate them all. But the director's criticism was leveled against the free-and-easy air of the children. Most of them had brought seed corn and a good-sized corn show was on view. There was much argument as to the merits of the various entries. Instead of a language lesson from the text-book, Jim had given them an exercise based on an examination of the ears of corn.

"That Feller'll Never Do."

The number exercises of the little chaps had been worked out with ears and kernels of corn. One class in arithmetic calculated the percentage of inferior kernels at tip and butt to the full-sized grains in the middle of the ear.

All the time, Jim Irwin, awkward and uncouth, clad in his none-too-good Sunday suit and trying to hide behind his Lincolnian smile the fact that he was pretty badly frightened and much embarrassed, passed among them, getting them enrolled, setting them to work, wasting much time and laboring like a heavy-laden barge in a seaway.

"That feller'll never do," said Bonner to Bronson next day. "Looks like a tramp in the schoolroom."

"Wearin' his best, I guess," said Bronson.

"Half the kids call him 'Jim,'" said Bonner.

"That's all right with me," replied Bronson.

"The room was as noisy as a caucus," was Bonner's next indictment, "and the flure was all over corn like a hog-pin."

"Oh! I don't suppose he can get away with it," assented Bronson disgustedly, "but that boy of mine is as tickled as a colt with the whole thing. Says he's goin' reg'lar this winter."

"That's because Jim don't keep no order," said Bonner. "He lets Newt do as he pleases."

"First time he's ever pleased to do anything but deviltry," protested Bronson. "Oh, I suppose Jim'll fall down, and we'll have to fire him—but I wish we could git a good teacher that would git hold of Newt the way he seems to!"

CHAPTER V

The Promotion of Jennie.

If Jennie Woodruff was the cause of Jim Irwin's sudden irruption into the educational field by her scoffing "Humph!" at the idea of a farm-hand's ever being able to marry, she also gave him the opportunity to knock down t. driver of the big motorcar, and perceptibly elevate himself in the opinion of the neighborhood, while filling his own heart with something like shame.

The fat man who had said "Cut it out" to his driver, was Mr. Charles Dilly, a business man in the village at the extreme opposite corner of the county. Mr. Dilly was a candidate for county treasurer, and wished to be nominated at the approaching county convention. In his part of the county lived the county superintendent—a candidate for renomination. He was just a plain garden or field county superintendent of schools, no better and no worse than the general political run of them, but he had local pride enlisted in his cause, and was a good politician.

Mr. Dilly was in the Woodruff district to build a backfire against this conflagration of the county superintendent. He expected to use Jennie Woodruff to light it withal. That is, while denying that he wished to make any deal or trade—every candidate in every convention always says that—he wished to say to Miss Woodruff and her father, that if Miss Woodruff would permit her name to be used for the office of county superintendent of schools, a goodly group of delegates could be selected in the other corner of the county who would be glad to reciprocate any favors Mr. Charles J. Dilly might receive in the way of votes for county treasurer with ballots for Miss Jennie Woodruff for superintendent of schools.

Mr. Dilly never inquired as to Miss Woodruff's abilities as an educator. That would have been eccentric. Miss Woodruff never asked herself if she knew anything about rural education which especially fitted her for the task; for was she not a popular and successful teacher—and was not that enough? So are the officials chosen who supervise and control the education of the farm children of America.

When Jim Irwin started home from putting out his team the day after his first call on the Simms family, Jennie was waiting at the gate to be congratulated on her nomination.

"I hope you're elected," Jim said, holding the hand she had extended; "but there's no doubt of that."

"They say not," replied Jennie; "but father believes in working just as if we didn't have a big majority for the ticket. Say a word for me when on your pastoral rounds."

"All right said Jim, "what shall I say you'll do for the schools?"

"Why," said Jennie, rather perplexed, "I'll be fair in my examinations of teachers, try to keep the unfit teachers out of the schools, visit schools as often as I can, and—why, what does any good superintendent do?"

"I never heard of a good county superintendent," said Jim.

"Never heard of one—why, Jim Irwin!"

"I don't believe there is any such thing," persisted Jim, "and if you do no more than you say, you'll be off the same piece as the rest. Your system won't give us any better schools than we have—of the old sort—and we need a new kind."

"Oh, Jim, Jim! Dreaming as of yore! Why can't you be practical! What do you mean by a new kind of rural school?"

"It would be correlated with rural life. It would get education out of the things the farmers and farmers' wives are interested in as a part of their lives."

Jennie looked serious, after smothering a laugh.

"Jim," said she, "you're going to have a hard enough time to succeed in the Woodruff school, if you confine yourself to methods that have been tested, and found good."

"But the old methods," urged Jim, "have been tested and found bad. Shall I keep to them?"

"They have made the American people what they are," said Jennie. "Don't be unpatriotic, Jim."

"They have educated our farm children for the cities," said Jim. "This county is losing population—and it's the best county in the world."

"Pessimism never wins," said Jennie.

"Neither does blindness," answered Jim. "It is losing the farms their dwellers, and swelling the cities with a proletariat."

For some time, now, Jim had ceased to hold Jennie's hand; and their sweetheart days had never seemed farther away.

"Jim," said Jennie, "I may be elected to a position in which I shall be obliged to pass on your acts as teacher—in an official way, I mean. I hope they will be justifiable."

Jim smiled his slowest and saddest smile.

"If they're not, I'll not ask you to condone them," said he. "But first

"Good Night," Said Jennie Curtly.

they must be justifiable to me, Jennie."

"Good night," said Jennie curtly, and left him.

Jennie, I am obliged to admit, gave scant attention to the new career upon which her old sweetheart seemed to be entering. She was in politics, and was playing the game as became the daughter of a local politician. Col. Albert Woodruff went South with the army as a corporal in 1861, and came back a lieutenant. His title of colonel was conferred by appointment as a [illegible] governor.

[illegible] to him, whether they were greatly concerned about it or not.

Such being her family history, Jennie was something of a politician herself. She was in no way surprised when approached by party managers on the subject of accepting the nomination for county superintendent of schools. Colonel Woodruff could deliver some delegates to his daughter, though he rather shied at the proposal at first, but on thinking it over, warmed somewhat to the notion of having a Woodruff on the county pay roll once more.

CHAPTER VI

Jim Talks the Weather Cold.

"Going to the rally, James?"

Jim had finished his supper, and yearned for a long evening in his attic den with his cheap literature. But as the district schoolmaster he was to some extent responsible for the protection of the school property, and felt some sense of duty as to exhibiting an interest in public affairs.

"I guess I'll have to go, mother," he replied regretfully. "I want to see Mr. Woodruff about borrowing his Babcock milk tester, and I'll go that way. I guess I'll go on to the meeting."

He kissed his mother when he went—a habit from which he never deviated, and another of those personal peculiarities which had marked him as different from the other boys of the neighborhood. His mother urged his overcoat upon him in vain—for Jim's overcoat was distinctly a bad one, while his best suit, now worn every day as a concession to his scholastic position, still looked passably well after several weeks of schoolroom duty. It seemed more logical to assume that the weather was milder than it really was, on that sharp October evening and appear at his best, albeit rather aware of the cold. Jennie was at home, and he was likely to see and be seen of her.

"You can borrow that tester," said the colonel, "and the cows that go with it, if you can use 'em. They ain't earning their keep here. But how does the milk tester fit into the curriculum of the school? A decoration?"

"We want to make a few tests of the cows in the neighborhood," answered Jim. "Just another of my fool notions."

"All right," said the colonel. "Take it along. Going to the speakin'?"

"Certainly, he's going," said Jennie, entering. "This is my meeting, Jim."

"Surely, I'm going," assented Jim. "And I think I'll run along."

"I wish we had room for you in the car," said the colonel. "But I'm going around by Bronson's to pick up the speaker, and I'll have a chuck-up load."

"Not so much of a load as you think," said Jennie. "I'm going with Jim. The walk will do me good."

Any candidate warms to her voting population just before election; but Jennie had a special kindness for Jim. He was no longer a farm hand. The fact that he was coming to be a center of disturbance in the district, and that she quite failed to understand how his eccentric behavior could be harmonized with those principles of teaching which she had imbibed at the state normal school in itself lifted him nearer to equality with her. A public nuisance is really more respectable than a nonentity.

She gave Jim a thrill as she passed through the gate that he opened for her. White moonlight on her white furs suggested purity, exaltation, the essence of womanhood—things far finer in the woman of twenty-seven than the glamour thrown over him by the school girl of sixteen.

Jim gave her no thrill; for he looked gaunt and angular in his skimpy, ready-made suit, too short in legs and sleeves, and too thin for the season. Yet, as they walked along, Jim grew upon her. He strode on with immense strides, made slow to accommodate her shorter steps, and embarrassing her by his entire absence of effort to keep step. For all that, he lifted his face to the stars, and he pointed out the great open spaces in the Milky Way, wondering at their emptiness and at the fact that no telescope can find stars in them.

They stopped and looked. Jim laid his hard hands on the shoulders of her white fur collarette.

"What's the use of political meetings," said Jim, "when you and I can stand here and think our way out, even beyond the limits of our universe?"

"A wonderful journey," said she, not quite understanding his mood, "but [illegible] roam beyond the Milky Way, [illegible] votes for me for [illegible] ter. There were files of farm papers piled about, and racks of agricultural bulletins. In one corner of the room was a typewriting machine, and in another a sewing machine. Parts of an old telephone were scattered about on the teacher's desk. A model of a piggery stood on a shelf, done in cardboard.

Instead of the usual collection of text-books in the desk, there were hectograph copies of exercises, reading lessons, arithmetical tables and essays on various matters relating to agriculture, all of which were accounted for by two or three hand-made hectographs—a very fair sort of printing plant—lying on a table.

The members of the school board were there, looking on these evidences of innovation with wonder and more or less disfavor. Things were disorderly. The text-books recently adopted by the board against some popular protest had evidently been pitched, neck and crop, out of the school by the man whom Bonner had termed a dub. It was a sort of contempt for the powers that be.

Colonel Woodruff was in the chair. After the speechifying was over, and the stereotyped, though rather illogical, appeal had been made for voters of the one party to cast the straight ticket, and for those of the other faction to scratch, the colonel rose to adjourn the meeting.

Newton Bronson, safely concealed behind taller people, called out, "Jim Irwin! speech!"

There was a giggle, a slight sensation, and many voices joined in the call for the new schoolmaster.

Colonel Woodruff felt the unwisdom of ignoring the demand. Probably he relied upon Jim's discretion and expected a declination.

Jim arose, seedy and lank, and the voices ceased, save for another suppressed titter.

"I don't know," said Jim, "whether this call upon me is a joke or not. If it is, it isn't a practical one, for I can't talk. I don't care much about parties or politics. I don't know whether I'm a Democrat, a Republican or a Populist."

This caused a real sensation. The nerve of the fellow! Really, it must in justice be said, Jim was losing himself in a desire to tell his true feelings. He forgot all about Jennie and her candidacy—about everything except his real, true feelings. This proves that he was no politician.

"I don't see much in this county campaign that interests me," he went on—and Jennie Woodruff reddened, while her seasoned father covered his mouth with his hand to conceal a smile. "The politicians come out into the farming districts every campaign and get us hayseeds for anything they want. They always have got us. They've got us again! They give us clodhoppers the glad hand, a cheap cigar, and a cheaper smile after election; and that's all. I know it, you all know it, they know it. I don't blame them so very much. The trouble is we don't ask them to do anything better.

"I want a new kind of rural school; but I don't see any prospect, no matter how this election goes, for any change in them. We in the Woodruff district will have to work out our own salvation. Our political ring never'll do anything but the old things. They don't want to, and they haven't sense enough to do it if they did. That's all—and I don't suppose I should have said as much as I have!"

There was stark silence for a moment when he sat down, and then as many cheers for Jim as for the principal speaker of the evening, cheers mingled with titters and catcalls. Jim felt as if he had made an ass of himself. And as he walked out of the door, the future county superintendent passed by him in high displeasure, and walked home with someone else.

Jim found the weather much colder than it had been while coming. He really needed an Eskimo's fur suit.

CHAPTER VII

New Wine and Old Bottles.

In the little strip of forest which divided the sown from the sown wandered two boys in earnest converse. They seemed to be Boy Trappers, and from their backloads of steel-traps one of them might have been Frank [illegible] lect Colonel Woodruff's next year's seed corn. Newton's mother had a mother's confidence that Newton was now a good boy, who had been led astray by other boys, but had reformed. Jim Irwin had a distinct feeling of optimism. Newton had quit tobacco and beer, casually stating to Jim that he was "in training." Since Jim had shown his ability to administer a knockout to that angry chauffeur, he seemed to this hobbledehoy peculiarly a proper person for athletic confidences.

Newton's mind seemed gradually filling up with new interests. Jim attributed much of this to the clear mountain atmosphere which surrounded Raymond Simms, the ignorant barbarian driven out of his native hills by a feud. Raymond was of the open spaces, and refused to hear fetid things that seemed out of place in them.

As the reason for Newton's improvement in manner of living, Raymond, out of his own experience, would have had no hesitation in naming the school and the schoolmaster.

"I wouldn't go back on a friend," said Newton, seated on the stump with his traps on the ground at his feet, "the way you're going back on me."

Continued next week

LOCAL NEWS

BASKET SOCIAL

There will be a basket social at school district No. 4, Belmond township, on Friday evening, Dec. 21. Ladies please bring baskets.—Gladys Johnson, teacher.

Miss Rena Purdy and father were visitors Sunday at the home of Mrs. Butts, a Goodell.

Miss Katherine Thiltgen was a guest Sunday of Miss Olive Butts, at Goodell.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Leonard are rejoicing over the arrival at their home Tuesday afternoon of a fine new son.

Mrs. R. H. Klemme was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the Progress club.

Christ Groen and family spent the day Sunday at Meservey, visiting at the home of relatives.

Miss Marvyl Robinson, who attends Coe college, has been sick at the hospital with scarlet fever. She is improving now and will probably be home by Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Snyder received word yesterday that her sister's husband, A. L. Bergsma, at Huron, South Dakota, has been injured in an automobile accident and was in the hospital there.

Mrs. Cecil Jones was hostess to the Priscilla club on Wednesday afternoon.

Dorothy Purcell was hostess to the Standard Bearer girls Saturday last. Mrs. O'Connor is superintendent of this organization. They went over the lesson and made plans for work this year. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder leave Saturday of this week for Huron, South Dakota, where they expect to spend a couple of weeks with their son, Clair, and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Eggers spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Benson. Mr. and Mrs. Eggers have moved from Kanawha to Garner, where he is now an employee of the Motor Sales Company there.

Geo. Peterson spent a few days last week with his family h... returned to Des M...

The Community club will meet next week Friday, Dec. 28. A splendid program of short stories and music has been arranged by Mrs. H. F. Luick. Everyone is urged to attend.

Those who succeed in life take advantage of their opportunities. Get an education while you have the chance. Enroll at The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

George Whitten of Rowan was a visitor in town Tuesday.

Our readers' attention is called to a splendid Christmas sermon on page six of this issue, which was written especially for the Independent by Rev. J. M. Jensen, of the Trinity Lutheran church.

Mrs. Hajo Pals, who has been ill, is much improved and able to be around again.

Mrs. Hajo Pals and Miss Mary Brown were callers at Mason City last Saturday.

March Nordschow arrived Saturday for a short visit with his brother, Harry, and family. He has been in Wyoming the past summer, employed in a sugar factory.

Miss Virgie Jenison and Dale visited the Joe Graham family at Forest City last Saturday, returning on Sunday.

Mrs. Guthrie has been on the sick list the past week, being quite seriously ill.

Miss Clara Johnson came over from Sheffield, Friday evening, as chaperone for the Sheffield girls.

Real Service. If you plan on holding a sale, let the Independent help you. Forms for making up your sale list furnished free. Illustrations of any breed of any animal or any fowl. Eighty per cent of the farm sales in this vicinity are advertised thru the Independent. There's a reason. Ask the man who has held one. Dates listed free. Reserve yours by calling 115.

You can renew your Des Moines Register, or any magazine, at the Independent.

Don't blam... DIS...

FARMERS' UNION LECTURE

A lecture on the Farmers' Union will be given Friday night, Dec. 28 at 7:30 in the library basement, by Grant Kennedy. Everybody invited.

Now that the fall work is over, you should plan to put in at least three months in self-improvement. Enroll for the Farmer's Short Course or any one of the regular courses, January 2, The Hamilton University, Mason City, Iowa.

Mrs. C. T. Enger and son were visiting at the Tom Hake home in Klemme a few days last week.

Try DEEP ROCK Gasoline, the ideal winter gas. Starts easy.

PUBLIC SALE DATES

(List your sale with the Independent to avoid confusion in dates.)

Rowan Short Course, January 15th and 16th.

Belmond Short Course, January 22 and 23.

Olaf Eliason, 2 miles west of Olaf, closing out farm sale, Jan. 8.

C. H. Thayer, closing out farm sale, 6 miles southwest, Jan. 10.

Roy Jenison, January 25, pure bred Spotted Poland China hog sale, in town.

Harry McClernon, Monday, January 7. Closing out farm sale.

M. B. Wharton, Dec. 27, closing out farm sale.

BELMOND MARKETS
(Subject to change.)

Hens, old	14c
Roosters	07c
Springs	13c
Geese	10c
Ducks	11c
Turkeys	18c
Eggs	29c
Cream	50c
Barley	50c
Oats	35c
Corn	55c
Creamery Butter	55c

WANT ADS

Two cents per word first insertion; one cent per word ensuing insertions.

FOR SALE

For Sale—Mammoth Bronze turkey toms and hens.—Sam Crabtree, Clarion. 1*

For Sale—Dressed geese.—Mrs. Earl Jenison.

For Sale—One young and one old Poland China boar.—Earl Jenison.

For Sale—Some pure bred Brown Leghorn roosters. John Chapman. 1*

For Sale—Pure bred White Rock roosters, early hatch.—Mrs. H. O. Emerson. Kanawha. Belmond phone 1520. 1c

For Sale—Pure bred Guernsey bull, 3 years old. Papers furnished. Cannot use him in my herd any longer and will sell right.—M. G. Luick. 53*

For Sale—Ford Roadster, 1923 model. Used seven months.—Roe L. Payne, Belmond. 52*

For Sale—Chester White boars. Champion blood lines. Cholera immune. Farm located two miles west and one-half mile north of Kanawha. Ed Riekens. 42tf

For Sale—Pure bred Poland China boar, last spring pig.—Ralph Jenison. Phone 1810. 1*

For Sale—A few pure bred Hampshire boars. Can furnish papers. Phone 1818.—Geo. Norris, Sr. 35*

For Sale—20x24 ft. frame barn. 14 foot posts. Plank floor, good mow.—Chas. Gealow.

Lost—Pair shell rimmed glasses in black case, between Geo. Brady residence and school house. Please return to Duane Brady, or Brady Barber shop. 1*

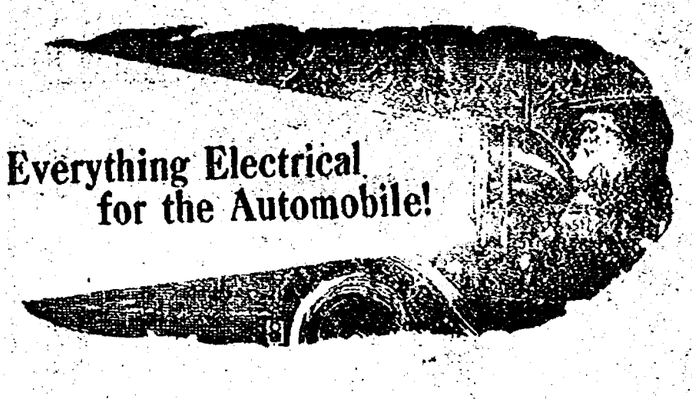
Wanted—Girl for general housework in town. Modern home, all conveniences, top wages. Inquire at Independent. 62*

For cold weather starting, try DEEP ROCK Gasoline. Best by test.

TUNE IN FOR
Willard STORAGE BATTERIES
RADIO PROGRAM
WTAM Cleveland
BELMOND STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY

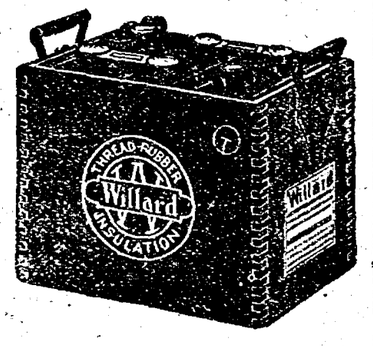
To you all; and our sincere appreciation of the patronage you have given us. May your New Year be bright and happy.

J. C. ATHERTON
The Shoe Man
Belmond, Iowa



Everything Electrical for the Automobile!

STARTERS GENERATORS
IGNITION PARTS AMMETERS
MAGNETOS COILS



Willard Storage Batteries

WE HAVE PARTS FOR AND REPAIR ALL MAKES OF STORAGE BATTERIES.

Belmond Storage Battery Co.
Official 2417 BELMOND, IOWA Phone 46

WE HAVE EVERYTHING
For Your Christmas Feast
POULTRY MEATS GROCERIES
FRUITS

Why not give a nice Bacon, or Ham, wrapped in Holly Paper, for a Xmas Gift? Truly it would be useful.

We have some especially fine spring Lamb in stock now. Try some.

Cash Market
Belmond, Iowa
WE DELIVER PHONE 60

AT THE
City Meat Market
YOU WILL FIND A FULL LINE
—OF—
POULTRY
AND THE CHOICEST OF MEATS FOR YOUR XMAS DINNER

WE MAKE ALL OF OUR OWN SAUSAGE
BOLOGNA
WEINERS
LIVER SAUSAGE

WE ALSO HAVE DILL PICKLES, SAUER KRAUT AND OYSTERS

Fresh Fish On Fridays

FREE DELIVERY—CALL 207

Nissen & Harbison, Props.
BELMOND, IOWA

YOUR HOME PAPER IS A MIGHTY GOOD
CHRISTMAS GIFT

FOR YOUR BOY OR GIRL AWAY AT SCHOOL OR WORK. FOR YOUR BROTHER, SISTER, COUSIN, UNCLE, AUNT, OR ANY FRIEND OR RELATIVE WHO KNOWS US FOLKS BACK HOME.

Unless you've been in their position, you have no idea how they crave the news from back home---how eagerly they scan every line of the home paper. Really, they're far more interested in the paper from back home than the folks here at home are.

The INDEPENDENT Contains more News in one issue than you will write in a dozen letters. It costs less than your postage and stationery for a letter.

52 Times A Year Your friend will be reminded of your thoughtfulness, Each week, as he or she reads the interesting things about the home folks, they will silently think of you.